'Political virgin' hopes to change SIU government

By Brenda Penland
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Newly elected Student Body President Dennis Sullivan said he is "getting used to the idea" of being president but finds the situation very unreal.

"It's hard to think of yourself as a big man on campus when shelving books," Sullivan, who works at Morris Library, said. "I still can't quite believe it's happened."

Sullivan, an administrative of justice major, calls himself a political virgin because of his political inactivity.

"It's a fight between other politicians—the prostitutes—and people like Rob (Seely) and myself," he said.

He said he would like to approach student government from a humanistic viewpoint, not from a corporate management viewpoint.

"I hope to make myself more visible and student government more visible,"

Sullivan said. "I want to maintain personal contact with students so they won't be hesitant to contact me and give me their views."

Sullivan said one thing he discovered is "people don't give a damn for student government. But student government hasn't shown they give a damn for people."

He said he plans to put a lot of work and effort into the job and has already started getting ideas from students and the administration. If his election is confirmed, Sullivan will take office the first day of summer quarter.

"I plan to work for my salary," he said. "We have to show people we aren't coming into office to take the money and run."

The concerns of handicapped persons heads the list of what he said he thinks are important factors on campus. He said he also wants to "spell out the rights, privileges and responsibilities of dorm residents."

Sullivan said he also thinks a lawyer should be obtained for students and that students should vote according to their academic major.

Sullivan said he hasn't noticed any big difference in the way students react to him since he was elected president.

He said a lot of people have congratulated him but "they aren't saying, 'Hello, Mr. President.'"

An unusual experience did occur as he was walking by Altgeld Hall, Sullivan said.

"Two or three guys were standing around and one guy had a French horn," Sullivan said. "He played 'Hail to the Chief' to recognize the fact that I was walking by. I really thought it was funny."

He said he doesn't have any magic formulas for student government.

"I'll just do my best," he said quietly.

S-Senate okays election report

By Debby Ratermann
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The Student Senate voted to accept Election Commissioner Ralph Rosynek's entire election report Wednesday night, even though Rosynek asked them to not approve the section on student body president.

Rosynek said a complaint that a candidate for president misused mailboxes will be sent to the Campus Judicial Board for hearing.

"I felt this infraction wasn't in my power to decide because it involves state, municipal and federal codes," Rosynek said. "I am turning it over to the Judicial Board. I hope you will leave hands-off the presidential race."

Sen. Larry Roth urged the Senate to accept Rosynek's entire report, including the presidential race. "Ralph's just one individual, Roth said. "We should vote to approve the report and let the Judicial Board decide whether there are discrepancies."

Sen. Matt Chancey, who was an unsuccessful candidate for president, agreed with Roth. "A lot of people were in shock over who won the election," Chancey said. "But they did win. This complaint sounds like sour grapes to me."

The Senate voted 13 to 8 to accept the presidential report as it stands, with Dennis Sullivan of Tea Party Now the winner at 504 votes.

Sullivan was present at the Senate meeting and said he did no campaigning involving mailboxes. Rosynek refused to divulge which candidate the mailbox complaint involves.

Approval of the Student Senator election totals resulted in four new Senators being seated. Norman Porter, Bob Rabin, Ben Barron and Mike Baker were the only new Senators present and were seated following approval of the report. A proxy for new Sen. Richard Bragg was also seated.

The Senate began debate on the Joint Fee Allocation Board (JFAB) recommendations which had been tabled twice previously. The new JFAB recommendations, totalling $206,981, were passed out in a report more than half an inch thick and will probably take more than one meeting to approve in their entirety. As of press time, it had not been approved.

Members of Alpha Phi Omega try to pry lid off 25-year-old time capsule.

Time capsule to yield items from 1949

By Charlotte Jones
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

A 677-pound naval artillery shell which was stuffed with newspaper clippings, microfilm and pictures back in 1949 and turned into a time capsule is set to be opened May 25.

Opening date for the time capsule, located in front of Shryock Auditorium was set to coincide with the 100th year since the beginning of SIU classes. Cliff Englert, chairman of time capsule committee, said.

The naval shell was donated by the U.S. Navy to Alpha Phi Omega, sponsor of the project. The 1949 chapter of the service fraternity conducted a campaign to collect items for the capsule from campus organizations.

Englert said the capsule project was an effort by the fraternity to preserve the life and times at SIU during 1949.

No one knows for sure what all is in the capsule, Englert said. "We think it contains a tape recording of the capsule dedication ceremonies and biographies of the 1949 campus organizations," he said.

A list of microfilm tapes allegedly put into the capsule was found in one of Delyte Morris' files, Englert said.

Morris, former SIU president, has been invited to speak at the capsule-opening ceremonies.

Clark Davis, who presided over the dedication ceremony, has been asked to emcee this one too, Englert said. Davis, now with the Resources for Tomorrow office at SIU, was a member of the 1949 faculty.

Invitations have been sent to members of the 1949 staff. Gov. Dan Walker has also been invited.

Englert said the planning committee was trying to schedule a music group, possibly the SIU Singers.

The SIU museum plans to set up an exhibit of capsule contents on the first floor of the Student Center. And the capsule itself will be put on display. "I'd like to see it put in the library or in Faner," Englert said.

The capsule-opening is to be part of the 26th anniversary celebration of Alpha Phi Omega.

Alpha Phi Omega is a national service fraternity. Fraternity projects by the SIU chapter this year include collecting for Easter Seals, donating to the Heart Fund, ushering events at Shryock and the Arena and supporting two foster children.

SIU-C enrollment dip leads public schools

By Jeff Jouett
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

SIU-Carbondale suffered the largest enrollment decrease last fall of any state university in the country, according to a recently released survey.

SIU topped the list of greatest numerical enrollment declines in a report issued by the National Association of State Universities and Land-Grant Colleges (NASULGC) with a drop of 1,202 students.

Kent State University, Ohio, was a close second with a 1,199 student loss.

NASULGC figures reportedly were drawn from data submitted by 126 of its 130 member institutions. Information from the institutions, representing 355 separate campuses across the nation, showed overall enrollment increased by 3.1 per cent over fall 1972 enrollments.

The report listed fall 1973 enrollment totals for responding campuses as 2,714,853, an increase of 81,319 over the previous year.

SIU did not make the list of 10 largest, percentage of enrollment, decreases given in the survey. The Springfield, South Dakota, campus of the University of South Dakota topped that list with a 22.92 per cent enrollment decline.

Spring quarter 1974 enrollment at SIU was reported to be 17,086 in a preliminary 10th-day-count released Friday by University News Service.

The enrollment drop of 4.7 per cent over last spring quarter at SIU was "not at all unexpected," according to B. K. Browning, assistant dean of Admissions and Records.

SIU's percentage enrollment drop for spring is higher than several other Illinois schools checked by telephone Wednesday.

SIU's Edwardsville campus enrollment is down 3.88 per cent from last spring, according to Ruth Heetke, administrative secretary for Admissions and Records. Current enrollment at SIU-E is 10,100 and was 10,508 a year ago, Heetke said. She called the decline "normal and not really significant."

Illinois State University's associate dean of admissions, Art Adams, reported ISU spring semester enrollment is 16,576. Adams said he is "concerned" about the 2.68 per cent drop but added that it might not prove significant.

A relative increase in enrollment was recorded at the University of Illinois campus in Urbana. Spring semester enrollment is 31,839 at Urbana. This represents an increase of 2.89 per cent over the 30,943 enrolled in spring 1973.

SIU jobs to blacks rise by 3.1 per cent

By Terry Martin
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The number of black civil service employees at SIU-C increased 3.1 per cent over a three-year period, Ivan A. Elliott Jr., chairman of the Board of Trustees, told a group of Illinois affirmative action officers, Wednesday.

Elliott spoke at a luncheon of the Illinois Affirmative Action Officers Association (IAAOA) in the Student Center. Conferences on "Coordination of Affirmative Action" are also scheduled for Thursday and Friday in the Student Center ballrooms.

"Southern Illinois University at Carbondale had 8.3 per cent black employees in 1970 as compared to about 11 per cent blacks in the Carbondale area," Elliott said. "The administration set a goal to equalize this percentage in three years. In 1973 this goal was reached when the percentage of black civil service employees reached 11.4 per cent."

Elliott also told the group of about 40 representatives from across the state that SIU-E has set a goal of 14 per cent black employees. In the civil service area, the goal has almost been reached by attaining 13 per cent, Elliott continued.

"The task is not completed at either University, but these selected figures show that progress can be and has been made when senior and junior administrators make a concerted effort to implement the Board's equal employment opportunity policies," he said.

Hollis Merritt, assistant to acting SIU President Hiram Lesar, told the group the president is ultimately responsible for affirmative action on campus but he is the designated officer of this institution.

Jerry Lacey, assistant to the vice president for development and services, and each vice president of the University is responsible to make sure affirmative action is taking place in his designated area of responsibility.

"The civil service function has to come through the personnel office," Lacey said.

The conference will continue Wednesday with the guest speaker to be Freddie Groomes, assistant to the president for minority affairs at Florida State University.

Panel discussions and workshops are also scheduled.

Canut-Amoros pays $10 fee to air views

By Terry Martin
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Marisa Canut-Amoros, who is involved in a sex discrimination case against SIU, paid $10 and made her presence known at the Illinois Affirmative Action Officers Association (IAAOA) conference Wednesday in the Student Center ballrooms.

In order to attend the meeting, Ms. Canut-Amoros said she had to pay $10 since she was not an affirmative action officer.

She wore a name tag stating she was an SIU-C faculty member, although she has not been on the faculty since July, 1971. Ms. Canut-Amoros explained that when she was asked what to put on the identification tag, she told the girl writing them up, that she was the first woman with tenure fired at SIU.

Richard C. Hayes, SIU affirmative action officer and IAAOC chairperson, overhearing the conversation, told the girl to just put SIU-C faculty on the tag, Ms. Canut-Amoros said smiling.

During the morning session, Ms. Canut-Amoros asked for a copy of the affirmative action guidelines recommended by SIU and sent to the Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW).

"Until the plan is accepted by HEW, we do not plan on giving it to the public," Hollis Merritt, assistant to President Hiram Lesar said.

Karen Craig, assistant provost, suggested that Ms. Canut-Amoros ask to see a copy of the guidelines from Thomas Jefferson, dean of the School of Engineering and Technology. Her resignation from that school on May 15, 1971 was considered a resignation from the University and was accepted by the SIU Board of Trustees in July, 1971.

"I don't think I could get one from Dean Jefferson," Ms. Canut-Amoros answered.

She then said that under the Freedom of Information Act, she understood that she had the right to see the guidelines.

Hayes then said that as of now, the association cannot demand it from the administration and suggested that she discuss it with Ms. Craig and Keith Lesure, academic affairs vice president and provost.

Volunteer work credited with nourishing the nation

By Charlotte Jones
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Volunteerism, or more simply, neighbor helping neighbor, has nourished and sustained our nation since its beginning, said Jane Weinberger, wife of the secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, at the Volunteer Services, Inc. luncheon Wednesday.

"Volunteers reestablish faith in the democratic system. Working together, we express our belief in the dignity and worth of individuals," Ms. Weinberger said.

Volunteer Services, Inc. has gained national attention as a successful pilot project which matches people to needs and allows persons with talent and concern to work with professionals who so desperately need the manpower, the guest speaker said.

She stressed the need for more cooperation between volunteer groups and federal, state and local government.

Ms. Weinberger is a former U.S. Army Nurse Corps member. In Washington, D.C. she works as a volunteer with Project Hope, senior citizens, a child health center, a hospital auxiliary, library board, Heart Association and a mental health center.

About 125 persons attended the annual luncheon in the Student Center.

Volunteer Services, Inc. serves as a clearinghouse for volunteers. This district serves the southernmost 27 counties in Illinois and is funded by a state grant.

Regional offices are located in Carbondale, Marion, Cairo, Mt. Vernon and Centralia.

Volunteer Services, Inc. places volunteers in local agencies. Persons interested in volunteering for work in nursing homes, public aid offices, with senior citizens or providing transportation for the needy may contact a regional office.

Nixon asks Congress for foreign aid funds

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Nixon asked Congress Wednesday for $5.18 billion in new foreign aid funds, including a $250 million economic boost for Egypt and another $100 million that possibly could be used for Syria and the Palestine refugees.

"In the Middle East we have an opportunity to achieve a significant breakthrough for world peace," said the President in a message requesting the aid for fiscal 1975.

"Increased foreign aid will be a vital complement to our diplomacy in maintaining the momentum toward a negotiated settlement which will serve the interests of both Israel and the Arab nations." U.S. assistance is no less critical to South Vietnam, Cambodia and Laos as they try to make a difficult transition from war to peace, he added.

The Nixon request called specifically for $907.5 million to the Middle East—Israel $350 million, Egypt $250 million, Jordan $207.5 million, and $100 million in a special requirements fund.

He also sought $939.8 million for Indochina in the form of $750 million for Vietnam, $110 million for Cambodia, $55 million for Laos, and an additional $28 million to administer the program.

No funds were sought for reconstruction in North Vietnam. Gerald L. Warren, the deputy White House press secretary, said economic aid to Hanoi cannot be considered "until there is compliance" with the Paris Peace agreement.

The President and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger outlined the aid package to congressional leaders in a 90-minute breakfast meeting. Afterward, House Speaker Carl Albert of Oklahoma said economic aid for Egypt "would be helpful for us, for the Middle East, for the Arab states - and for the state of Israel. Albert added: "Of course the continuance of Israel is a matter of national interest on our part."

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said he would consider the proposal "with an open mind," he said he remains generally opposed to foreign aid.

Sen. Robert P. Griffin of Michigan, the assistant Republican leader, said the aid proposal was justified and desirable in terms of building an enduring peace in the Middle East.

"So I believe it will be supported," he said.

3 charged with theft

NEWARK, N.J. (AP)—The FBI announced Wednesday the arrest of three men charged with stealing two tractor-trailers loaded with 64,000 pounds of poultry valued at more than $50,000.

An FBI spokesman identified the men as Robert Lee Barnes, 41, of Atlanta, John Thomas Holloway, 38, of Montclair, N.J., and Edmund Thomas Ponton, 40, of Newark. Barnes was remanded to the custody of U.S. marshals in lieu of $10,000 bond. Holloway and Ponton were released on $10,000 recognizance bond.

The men, all self-employed truck drivers, allegedly commandeered the vehicles last April 20 in Jonesboro, Ga. The trucks were en route to Scranton, Pa. and East Peoria, Ill.

Three terminated faculty members agree to accept settlement payments

By David C. Miller
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Termination settlement payments were negotiated and accepted by three of the 104 fired faculty Wednesday, said Keith Leasure, vice president for academic affairs.

Leasure said he spoke with five of the 104 Wednesday. Two of the five were not faculty appointments, Leasure said, and so were ineligible for settlements.

Leasure would not release either the names of the teachers or the settlement amounts, explaining it is "private information."

The five were the first to respond to the administration's plan to offer reparation payments to terminated teachers in return for their dropping all grievances against the University. Those accepting the settlements also forfeit representation in the pending SIU lawsuit against the 104.

"I negotiate on the basis of their particular situation," Leasure said. Terminated teachers may receive an amount equalling up to one year's salary, he said, adding he has instructions to not exceed the year's pay equivalent.

Leasure said he has no indication of how many of the 104 are interested in the plan, but he added he wants to meet with all of the remaining teachers.

"I hope to talk with all of them, whether they're amenable to a settlement or not," he said. Leasure said he wants each of the terminated persons to understand what the possibilities of settlement are.

Faculty who are near retirement are also invited to talk over an early retirement settlement, Leasure continued. He said a number of early retirements have been worked out since December, and that interested faculty should contact him.

But the idea of opening up settlements for any faculty member who wishes to leave SIU is "not getting any serious consideration," Leasure said. His remark followed speculation that settlement money could be given to anyone wanting to leave SIU, thereby allowing retention of the tenured faculty who were terminated.

The administration earlier announced up to $442,000 is available for reparation payments. The money is left over from unfilled teaching slots and also derived from the internal transfers of budget monies.

As the terminated teachers started to negotiate with Leasure, there came a warning to the 104 from Robert Harrell, terminated assistant professor of English.

"If they (faculty) go in there without witnesses or lawyers...they're sitting ducks," Harrell said. He said he will not consider meeting with Leasure until after consulting with an attorney, since a question of much more than money is at stake in the mass terminations.

Jury hears Mitchell's final defense

NEW YORK (AP) — John N. Mitchell's defense attorney denounced a federal criminal conspiracy case against the former attorney general Wednesday as "a prosecutorial vision ... a vision they set out to give life to."

"They have failed," Peter Fleming Jr. said in his summation as the trial of Mitchell and codefendant Maurice H. Stans, former commerce secretary, neared an end. It is expected to go to the jury Thursday.

"This case is one ball of wax," declared Fleming. "John Mitchell is either a corrupt fixer and liar or he is neither."

Mitchell, 60, and Stans, 66, are accused of conspiring to obstruct a Securities and Exchange Commission fraud investigation of multimillionaire Robert Vesco in return for Vesco's secret $200,000 cash contribution to President Nixon's re-election campaign.

early in 1972 to direct the campaign. They are charged with conspiracy, obstruction of justice and perjury, and are liable if convicted for up to 45 years each in federal prison.

In an apparent reference to Watergate, Fleming declared:

"A prosecutor's vision, you may find, engendered in the heat of a terrible national trauma. Two Cabinet officers. I'm a Democrat. I don't care about politics. But I care about justice. A vision — and any fact that does not fit that vision either is changed or not brought to your attention."

"This case is a mess, a confusion, this case is vile," continued Fleming, stabbing his right forefinger on the railing in front of the jury of nine men and three women.

"A criminal case must be a case of fact, not vision. It has got to be a case of truth, and not conjecture. It has to be a case with some kind of coherence, not of

Taped voice tells of Patty's SLA loyalty

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Patricia Hearst declared Wednesday she had willingly joined her Symbionese Liberation Army "comrades" in the violent robbery of a San Francisco bank, according to a police officer who received the taped message.

In the tape recording, received through an anonymous intermediary by police community relations director Rodney E. Williams, Miss Hearst reportedly once again declared her allegiance to the terrorist band and discounted her parents' suggestion that she had been converted by brainwashing.

"What I believe was Patty's voice said it was ridiculous to believe she wasn't in on the bank robbery of her own free will, that other SLA members were holding guns on her," Williams told reporters.

"She denies that she's brainwashed. She says she took part in the bank robbery because she wanted to take part," Williams added.

The police officer said the taped message was accompanied by a torn portion of Miss Hearst's driver's license—a device the SLA has used to authenticate past "communiques."

The tape recording was under study by FBI agents, who had no immediate comment. If authenticated, the message would be the first from the kidnapped newspaper heiress since April 3, when she renounced her family and announced she was joining the SLA as a revolutionary.

Williams said the tape and license were in a brown paper package which also contained a red poster depicting hands and a clenched fist. Also in the package was a brief letter to a community action group, the Western Addition Project Area Committee, asking that the bundle be hand delivered to either one of two local radio stations.

The stations, KSAN and KPFA, have received communiques from the SLA in the weeks since Feb. 4 when Miss Hearst was dragged screaming from her apartment in Berkeley.

Williams said a second voice on the tape identified himself as Cinque, the purported leader of the multiracial guerrilla group. He denounced the citywide police hunt for the black "Zebra" killer or killers of 12 whites in the past six months.

Fired professor brings lawsuit against trustees

The first lawsuit against SIU by one of the 104 terminated faculty was filed Tuesday in Jackson County Circuit Court by John H. Wotiz, terminated and tenured professor of chemistry.

Wotiz seeks reversal of his termination since his department retained other faculty with fewer years of tenure. His complaint is a miscellaneous remedy action, and seeks reinstatement with no monetary damages.

The suit is directed against the Board of Trustees, and includes no other terminated faculty.

Wotiz's action came just after the SIU lawsuit against the 104 was remanded to the Jackson County Circuit Court for action. The SIU lawsuit seeks court approval of the firings because of a bona fide financial emergency.

Add knowledge to opinion

To the Daily Egyptian:

Recently in one of your letters to the Editor column there was concern about the field of Scientology. The very foundation of Scientology was questioned. People that know about Scientology either seem to like it or not like it but either way distinct lines are drawn. Now the every day on-the-street Joe College Citizen has the opportunity to discover for him-herself just what the controversy is all about. Free School is offering a course this quarter on the field of Scientology which is offered to expose this field to all who are interested.

It is easy to ramble on and on, be angry, negative, derogatory and defensive at various institutions here in the Good ol' US of A. It is not so easy, as I have found out in the past several years, to look objectively at both sides, make up one's own mind, formulate an opinion with existing facts and fiction and then to give a purposeful reasoning of one's analysis.

The opportunity is now available to find out both sides of several issues through the Free School. Scientology is but one option. I hope you will take up our offer to acquire knowledge at no cost but an hour or two a week of your time and find out for yourself; WHAT IS LIFE?

Herein lay a lesson

To the Daily Egyptian:

I believe it is about time we put the credit where credit is due right now so it can be acknowledged and appreciated. I am speaking of a very noteworthy and exuberating instructor, his name is Richard Tomkins, one hell of a teacher! The only reason I'm emphasizing it now is that too many of us evaluate professors and instructors at the end of a quarter, and usually, we don't care one way or the other how it comes out. I just thought it is worth saying at this stage of the game. I go in to his marketing class and look forward to going, simply because HE makes it worthwhile, he puts more vitality and pozzazz into his lectures that kind of make you want to come back.

Thank you Richard Tomkins for making it so interesting and very worthwhile for a fun and unusual marketing class. 301. More of us should remember to give the credit when it should be given, and not wait until it IS too late.

Concert going more go than concert

Certainly an equitable system for purchasing tickets to rock-music concerts held in the Arena, is sought after and desired by the Arena management and all persons wishing to attend. The present system is grossly cumbersome and puts unnecessary strain on those wishing to purchase tickets.

For one to get a ticket under the current system one must go to the Student Ticket Office, in the Student Center, sign a sheet, thus, receiving a numerical assignment. After one does this one must check in to confirm it at least two times before making a purchase. If one fails to check in one's name goes to the bottom of the list. Next, the prospective concert-goer must be present at an early 7 a.m. roll call. That makes a total of four times that one must report to the ticket office area in order to make one ticket purchase.

This multi-stepped procedure was originated by three students who are not affiliated with any organization. They simply were able to meet the guidelines for line forming which the Arena management has established. The Arena does not handle the ticket selling, the ticket office in the Student Center does. The line forming, so everyone has an "equal chance to get a ticket," say the Arena managers, is left to any group that comes up with an idea to fit the vague guidelines.

A person, or group, that wishes to devise a line forming system doesn't need to do much more, according to the guidelines, than attempt to be fair, be consistent in its policy and get approval from the Arena management. This group has supposedly done that.

Mail orders would make it a great deal easier for the people who are doing the buying. Dropping a letter in a box is much easier than having to report someplace four different times before being able to actually purchase a ticket. Charles Johnson, one of the present system's originators, said that mail orders would not allow people to see what tickets they would be getting before they get them. It seems only logical that everyone would want the best tickets available in the desired price range. With this understanding there should be no problem. Refunds, partial or whole, could be sent back without the use of any more manpower than is needed now. People in the ticket office could handle the mail orders and the people that are needed to supervise the system could be eliminated.

The current system puts the concert goes through the greatest amount of trouble possible. There must be an easier way to be fair.

The crisis makers' biggest crisis

By Arthur Hoppe
Chronicle Features

Federal Crisis Coordinator Upton Downs vigorously denied any responsibility for the strange disappearance of The Energy Crisis.

"It is the duty of The U.S. Crisis Manufacturing Bureau to initiate crises," Downs told a press conference, "not to terminate them."

He noted the average life of an American crisis in the past 15 years was 8.2 months. In scope and depth, if not duration, he said, "The Energy Crisis far exceeded our fondest aspirations."

While not as long-lived as The Threat of Nuclear Holocaust in the late fifties or The Civil Rights Battles of the early sixties, he said, The Energy Crisis has a "much more immediate impact."

"Our studies show it generated more cocktail party conversation than either Poverty, which replaced Civil Rights on our calendar, or Student Unrest, which succeeded Poverty," he said proudly. "Frankly, we consider it one of our very best crises in recent years."

Males-only for draft

(From a decision in the U.S. District Court for Eastern Wisconsin. The case involved seven men who refused the draft, claiming that the laws unconstitutionally discriminate on the basis of sex.)

The power of Congress to raise an army is sui generis. The exercise of the power, through the selective service laws, has deprived citizens of the most profound of human and constitutional rights. Men have essentially been forced into involuntary servitude, had their lives placed in jeopardy, and have suffered the indignity and psychological trauma of destroying other human beings. Yet, the governmental interest is so extremely urgent that courts must show the greatest deference to congressional judgment. National security, in its true sense, is at stake.

These cases challenge the right of Congress to raise a military force because the manner chosen discriminates against males on the basis of their sex. Given the nature of the congressional authority involved, that authority's constitutional source, the inherent deprivation of rights in any law which conscripts individuals, and the implications to the maintenance of national defense by judicial interference with the challenged statutory scheme, I cannot justify invalidating these laws by analogizing to cases arising in a different context.

I wish to stress that all laws which provide for the maintenance of the Armed Services are not free from any form of judicial scrutiny. Frontiero clearly establishes, for example, that discriminatory military personnel policies are invalid. We are dealing here, however, with laws which provide for the very existence of the military, and in particular a male military force. A determination that the selective service laws are invalid may do more than inconvenience the military establishment; it may disrupt it so totally as to jeopardize national defense.

Judge J. Reynolds
In U.S. v. Offord

Unlike Busing, which followed Student Unrest, he said, The Energy Crisis "brought the country together"—particularly in gas lines.

In this respect, it was similar to Hijackings, which replaced The Population Explosion, which followed Pollution, which supplanted Student Unrest when interest in that crisis waned.

"And it certainly had far wider appeal than The Monetary Crisis which we manufactured to fill the gap left by Pollution," he said. "The Monetary Crisis was one of our few fiascos."

"But we've more than made up for that mistake in the past year. We began with The Watergate Crisis and followed that up with Inflation. Remember the Housewives' Beef Boycott? That was a good one. Then we threw in Shortages and now that they're gone, we're drumming up interest in The Impeachment Crisis. Any questions?"

Mr. Downs was immediately asked what happened to gas lines. He smiled.

"One thing we've learned in the Bureau is never to overestimate the attention span of the American people," he said. "They simply grew bored with gas lines and refused to wait in them any more. After all, a crisis requires the full cooperation of every citizen."

A young reporter inquired how the Government had managed to solve all the problems Mr. Downs had cited. Mr. Downs looked puzzled. "Solve them? But we haven't solved any of them. We still have a Nuclear Threat, Racial Injustice, Poverty, Students, Busing, a Population Explosion, Pollution, a Metary Crisis, Watergate, Inflation and Shortages. They merely accumulate."

"Then why manufacture crises?" the young reporter demanded.

"Why, to take the people's minds off their problems, of course," replied Mr. Downs, "particularly the previous crisis they just went through."

An older reporter asked what crisis we could expect next.

Mr. Downs frowned. "The real crisis we face is thinking up new crises exciting enough to stimulate public cooperation. Americans, we fear, are becoming jaded. So we are planning a Depression coupled with Inflation."

"A Depression alone simply wouldn't do. After all, how would it look," he said, "if we had a Depression and nobody came?"

The Justice Said

By M. R. Williams

The year is 1972. A white man, convicted of crime, challenged the composition of the jury because negroes had been systematically excluded. Should the case be sent back to the trial court to prove or disprove the challenge? Yes, holds the U.S. Supreme Court. Mr. Justice Marshall said:

"A fair trial in a fair tribunal is a basis requirement of due process."

"Due process requires a competent and impartial tribunal in administrative hearings, and in trials to a judge. Similarly, if a State chooses, quite apart from constitutional compulsion, to use a grand or petit jury, due process imposes limitations on the composition of that jury." (Peters v. Kiff, 33 L.Ed.2d 83).

Male libbers

To the Daily Egyptian:

On Thursday evening our intramural softball team was playing ball on the fenced in lot next to the temporary blue barracks. The only reason that we were playing there was that all the ball fields surrounding the arena or behind Brush Towers were also being used. In the middle of the fourth inning we were politely asked to leave by the SIU Security Police because the field was the property of the Womens Athletic Association and that a representative of that organization was extremely displeased with our presence there and would have us arrested for playing softball on their field if we did not leave.

We feel that this action is sexual discrimination in the first degree and also an inadequacy of the university to provide enough area for the residents of Brush Towers or University Park to enjoy athletic competition when they desire to.

We seriously doubt that our innocent softball game was causing damage to the field or was an inconvenience to anyone other than us, who had to leave before our game was finished.

"Only partially true"

To the Daily Egyptian:

I would like to respond to an editorial by John Russell which was printed in the Daily Egyptian on April 12. Of the 78 Title II, ESEA grants approved by Bakalis this year, Mr. Russell states that "only two of this total...we awarded to schools in the 24th Congressional District, made up of the 22 southern-most counties in Illinois. These were awarded to schools in Cairo and Brookport..." The fact of the matter is, we have a Title III, ESEA grant right here in Carbondale. Project SCUPE, located at Giant City School, received $56,482 this year to develop self-esteem, creativity, understanding of values, positive attitude toward learning, and emotions and feelings in students in grades K-8. We anticipate receiving a similar amount of money next year. Also located in Southern Illinois are Title III, ESEA projects in Murphysboro, Centralia, Herrin, Sparta, Mounds, and Olmstead. What Mr. Russell should have stated was that no new grants are being awarded in the area next year. Most of the projects (Murphysboro, Centralia, Mounds, Brookport, Herrin and Sparta) are presently in their third year and thus will not be continued unless an appeal is granted. However, this still leaves Carbondale, Olmstead, and Cairo.

Mr. Russell also states "Title III, ESEA funds are supposed to be awarded solely on the quality of the proposal submitted..." This is only partially true. Title III, ESEA guidelines state that "Title III, ESEA funds may not be used to support the existing level of instruction in any public or private school." If it is true that "to continue the program elementary schools needed to obtain Title II funds," they are automatically ineligible.

News Service plans move to temporary headquarters

By David C. Miller Jr.
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The Communications Building will soon become a temporary home for University News Service (UNS) and University Graphics, despite pleas for the space from academic inhabitants of the building.

"There's no other place we can put them on this campus," T. Richard Mager, vice president for development and services, told faculty and students of the college Wednesday.

The news and graphics operations are presently in off-campus buildings leased by the University. Mager explained SIU is trying to eliminate the substantial leasing yearly costs, and that UNS and Graphics must be moved by June 30.

The June deadline forces the two units onto campus during the period another 35-40 departments and offices will start a game of musical buildings, Mager said. While the still-unfinished Faner Hall receives occupants, he added, the School of Technical Careers is also starting to be moved to campus.

Mager's statements were part of an exhaustive explanation of why departments in the College of Communications and Fine Arts are being temporarily denied the use of some 8,000 square feet of space in the heart of the Communications Building.

Herbert Fink, dean of the college, said the departments of Speech, Theater, Cinema and Photography, Radio-Television, and Speech Pathology and Audiology all have requests in for extra space. Mager said his office is "sensitive" to the departments' problems, but the question of timing and shortage of funds makes the temporary denial necessary.

UNS and Graphics will eventually wind up in converted Small Group Housing units, Mager said. But funds for remodeling those spaces will not be coming for some time, he said, and SIU still must withdraw from the off-campus leases.

The savings from not leasing space at 600 W. Freeman and College Square amounts to about $300,000, Mager said. Those expenses had to be cut, he explained, in light of next year's tight budget.

Moving UNS and Graphics to campus would have presented less of a squeeze, Mager continued, if Faner Hall had been completed on schedule last September. But contractors fell behind, and the backlog of departments to move into the building soon created other roadblocks for units lined up to occupy spaces left by new Faner residents.

The combination of delays and bottlenecks means UNS and Graphics will be in the Communications Building's second floor for at least a year, Mager said.

Original prints by art masters to be displayed

Fine original prints representing artists such as Goya, Picasso, Miro, and Matisse will be displayed and sold Thursday in Ballroom A of the Student Center.

The prints are part of a traveling gallery being brought to SIU by the Ferdinand Roten Galleries of Baltimore, Md., according to Evert Johnson, curator of the University Galleries.

The prints will be displayed and sold from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., Johnson said. The Roten Co. travels through Europe regularly to find original prints for their collection. Many of the works are done by people known to the art world, but not to the general public. The collection also includes works by new artists who are receiving their first exposure.

Most of the 800 to 1,000 prints to be presented will cost under $100. Many will cost between $5 and $10, Johnson said. An unsigned original by a modern master, which is one of a large edition may sell for $25.

Sockhop planned, 'rent-a-gienys' contest featured

The dental hygiene class of the School of Technical Careers (STC) is sponsoring a sock hop beginning at 4 p.m. Saturday in the back room of the American Tap on Illinois Avenue.

Admission will be 50 cents. A special feature will be rent-a-gienys in which the "hygieny" students can be rented for 10 cents a dance.

Music will be provided by records with Smiley Dan Miley presiding as disc jockey.

Prizes will go to the best dancers. Dancers should come dressed in the 50's style, Lynne McLean, vice president of the class said.

Proceeds from the sock hop will help finance a class trip to a dental hygienists convention in Chicago next year, she said.

The dental hygiene class has 76 students this year.

Student votes rank Bakalis top choice for SIU president

By Brenda Penland
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Michael Bakalis, state superintendent of public instruction, is SIU students' choice for University president, according to votes cast in the recent student elections.

Bakalis got 66 of the 927 votes cast for SIU president, Election Commissioner Ralph Rosynek said Wednesday.

Acting SIU president Hiram Lesar came in second with 41 votes, followed by R. Buckminster Fuller with 40 votes, Rosynek said.

He said a special election will be held Monday to determine students' choice from about the top 20 names of the write-in votes cast April 17 and 18.

The election will be in the form of a referendum, Rosynek said. Ballots will be distributed to a cross section

Four candidates file petitions for APSC elections

Four persons have returned petitions for next month's Administrative and Professional Staff Council (APSC) elections, according to Julia Muller, APSC election commission chairman.

Candidates are elected to three year terms on APSC, one each from the areas of business, academic affairs, student affairs and development and services.

Those returning petitions were Barbara Kirkkiki, business; Doris Turner, academic affairs; Carolyn Coventry, student affairs; and Jerry Lacy, development and services.

Ms. Muller said ballots would be sent out around April 29 and must be returned to her office in Barracks T-40 by May 21.

The APSC represents about 450 University staff members who have faculty appointments without academic rank, according to APSC president, Jack Simmons.

Course to study future of energy

A new general studies course, Energy and the Future—GSA-230 (3) will be offered during the fall semester.

The main aspects of the course will focus on a discussion of energy, its importance in society, and the energy conversion systems to meet future needs.

Instructors in the course will be Walter L. Borst, of physics and astronomy, and Thomas W. Petrie, of thermal and environmental engineering.

of classes, he said.

A table will also be set up in the solicitation area of the Student Center from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday for voting, Rosynek said.

He said an SIU student identification card is necessary in order to vote. After the special election, a list of the top winners will be sent to the presidential search committee.

The special election is being held because "student opinion is relevant" in the selection of a new SIU president, Rosynek said.

Other students' choice for SIU president and their vote totals are: Keith Leasure, 30; Robert Lauer, 25; George Mace, 22; Deleto Morris and Mike Carr, 20; Richard Nixon, Bruce Swinburne and David R. Derge, 18; Harold Grasowsky, 16;

He said there were also votes for Eric Clapton, Timothy Leary, Henry Kissinger and Spiro T. Agnew.

AFT official to speak on collective bargaining

Collective bargaining as a weapon against the corporate mentality creeping into educational institutions is the theme of a talk to be delivered Thursday by Robert M. Nielsen, American Federation of Teachers (AFT).

The meeting, beginning at 4 p.m. in Morris Library Auditorium, is open to the public. Nielsen, director of AFT's Colleges and Universities department, will hold a press conference at 3 p.m.

Nielsen's presentation is part of an AFT campaign to achieve bargaining rights for teachers in Illinois state schools. He has been on the road for six months telling teachers across the country about the boom in faculty unionization.

A study by Nielsen shows an increase in the numbers of management consultants being hired by universities. This management posture being adopted by so many schools makes collective bargaining a necessity for teachers, he says.

The Carbondale chapter of the union will sponsor the talk. Herbert Donow, chapter president, will speak on the recent settlement plans made by SIU's administration for the 104 teachers terminated in December.

University Chorale displays talents with Oldfield's 'Mass'

By Dave Stearns
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Sometimes one is satisfied with "good enough" performances from student music ensembles—accepting excuses such as "the music is terribly difficult for a college ensemble" or "the score wasn't mailed to the director until two weeks before the concert."

An outstanding performance, such as that given by the University Chorale Tuesday night in Shryock Auditorium, is sometimes needed to remind us that student ensembles can approximate professional standards. The only excuse needed Friday night concerned the lack of reverberation in Shryock—a lack which hindered the ensemble's tone quality and volume.

The concert began with Stravinsky's "Symphony of the Psalms," a choral composition set to three psalms and scored without the opulent sounds of the violins, violas or clarinets. The vocal writing was not lush either. Unison passages occurred with relative frequency—all giving the work a distinctive timbre paniment with a deep, pleasant timbre that provided excellent support for the singers. However, the vocal counterpoint was a bit mushy.

Oldfield's "Mass" concluded the concert. And engaging work it was—instrumentally reminding one with musical interest lying in the contrary and parallel interactions between voices and orchestra.

Working within Stravinsky's boundaries, director Dan Pressley used the chorale's excellent blend to vary the dynamics gradually—an effect which retained the smoothness of the counterpoint while breathing shape into the composition's arid sonorities and ambiguous tonality.

The shading given the opening "Alleluia" passage of the third movement was indeed delicate and well-controlled—a very special moment in the performance. Accompanying the chorale was a 32-piece orchestra, which provided some of the most accurate and well-blended large ensemble playing heard in this area lately.

Two minor compositions intervened between the Stravinsky piece and Alan Oldfield's "Mass"—Bach's Cantata No. 118 and Pinkham's "Songs of Peaceful Departure." Although the Bach cantata certainly is not one of the composer's better-known works, Oldfield presented his own synthesized tape accom-of Bartok's "Sonata for Two Pianos and Percussion." Like the Sonata, the Mass was forever growing and developing.

Cohesive sound shapes and musical ideas flowed free of any extended tonal commitment. Congruent but different rhythms were juxtaposed with each other, occasionally resolving into lush impressionistic chords that are familiar in Oldfield's jazz piano improvisations.

The Mass's finest moments occurred in the "Sanctus," which featured soprano and tenor solos flowing over an opposing piano ostinato. With the various vocal and instrumental lines continuously fanning out, the climax was indeed a spontaneous and euphoric moment. Performance-wise, the chorale was at its best during the Mass, creating contrasting yet interweaving vocal timbres (especially during the "Gloria") and showing excellent dynamic control in the intensity of the pianissimo passages.

The standing ovation that followed Mass was well deserved.

Chief Justice to speak at Law Day observance

Robert C. Underwood, chief justice of the Illinois Supreme Court, will be the guest speaker at the SIU School of Law's observance of Law Day Thursday.

Underwood will speak at a banquet at 7 p.m. in the Student Center Ballroom D.

Underwood was first named to the high court in 1982 and has been chief justice since 1989. Previously he had been judge of the McLean County Court.

The banquet, which is expected to draw about 200 persons, will be the main event in the observance of Law Day, Roger Jacobs, law librarian, said.

Jacobs said Law Day has been officially designated by Congress to be observed May 1 for the "cultivation of respect for law," according to the Congressional resolution.

Anthropologists to honor Taylor

The Department of Anthropology will sponsor a seminar Monday and Tuesday on the study of archaeology in honor of Walter W. Taylor, professor of anthropology, who will retire this year.

A number of noted U.S. archaeologists are scheduled to attend the conference at the Student Center.

The conference will examine the impact of Taylor's work on modern archaeology, and will explore recent trends in the field.

Interview set for position as adjuster trainee

An on-campus interview has been scheduled for May 8 at Career Planning and Placement Center. For interview appointments and additional information interested students should visit the Career Planning and Placement Center, located at Woody Hall, Section A, North Wing, third floor.

night, said Capt. Floyd Nesbitt of the fire department.

Nesbitt said the fire started in the front showroom ceiling destroying all the major appliances. Faulty electrical wiring started the blaze, he added.

What the fire did not reach, the smoke and water did, said J.F. Weller, owner of the business. Sinks, refrigerators and other major appliances were damaged by the smoke and water.

The fire started at approximately 10:30 p.m. and was under control within 45 minutes, Nesbitt said. The two fire pumpers and nine firemen left the scene about 12:30 p.m.

Weller said the service department of his business will be operating as usual, but the retail services will be curtailed indefinitely. He added that his business was insured.

Program may be established in disabled housing research

Don Haar
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

A project coordinated by the Office of Specialized Student Services and the Department of Design may establish SIU as the first research center in the country for housing for the physically handicapped.

Silas Singh, director of the specialized student services office, and Jack Ellner, professor in design, are supervising the planning of model homes designed specifically for the physically handicapped.

Singh said he will use these models to try to secure funds from Health, Education and Welfare's Office for the Handicapped. The funds would be used to continue experimenting with houses for the handicapped.

"I want SIU to become a recognized national center as a consulting agency in meeting needs of disabled persons," Singh said. This would include education, research and technical skills.

Singh said he will try to demonstrate SIU's qualifications for research by exhibiting the models and showing the cooperation of various departments and the excellence of existing SIU programs for the physically handicapped.

Singh said chances are good SIU will qualify for funds from the handicapped office to continue research in "this very important area."

The models are devised in Design 499, taught by Ellner. This is the third quarter the course has been offered, attracting "extraordinary students," Ellner said.

Ellner handles the design problems with the students while Singh offers information on the specific problems the students' designs must overcome. The result is to plan a house where a handicapped person can "feel uncumbered," Singh said.

"The first thing we do is a task analysis," Ellner said. This entails finding out the special problems which must be considered in the design, he said.

To do the task analysis, Ellner said the students talk over the problems with Singh. Singh, himself in a wheelchair, tells the students the problems he has encountered and the problems students have.

Ellner said the students also are lent wheelchairs to bring the problems into sharper focus. When the problems have been realized and analyzed, the students begin the actual designs, Ellner said.

No cost figures are included in the design project, Ellner said. If future funding is available, he said the engineering department would be asked to join the project to determine the feasibility of the designs.

Singh said the specialized student services office would act as a resource center for projects being worked on in the design and engineering departments to see that all problems are taken care of.

"The main purpose now is to generate designs that overcome problems in living for the handicapped," Singh said.

"We hope to take these models and put them in a catalogue, including the floor plan, specifications and information about the students," Singh said. "We must prove competency to get the funds."

The Office for the Handicapped was established on Feb. 20, 1974, to "deal more effectively with the special needs of the nation's handicapped citizens," said Casper Weinberger, Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) secretary.

One of the purposes of the new office, authorized by the Rehabilitation Act of 1973, is to develop ways to promote the utilization of research related to the handicapped.

The research includes "promotion of the development of curricula stressing barrier free design and the adoption of such curricula by schools of architecture, design and engineering," according to the new office's recent report.

Other sources of funding for the project which Singh is working on include a matching scheme among the city, university and the state or federal governments, and money from national foundations.

The funds from the handicapped office in Washington, D.C., and the resulting prestige will help the project greatly, Singh said.

"This is a golden opportunity for SIU to reach out to the right agencies and sources for programs and funding to assist disabled students," Singh said.

The popularity of the specialized student services office has shown that SIU understands the needs of the physically handicapped, Singh said. But the disabled person needs acceptance which is shown through job opportunities and removal of architectural barriers, he said.

Singh stressed that SIU "can't get national attention without city efforts." There must be grassroots support and the research must help all disabled persons, not just students, he said.

Singh said he hopes to expand the project to include designs of mobile homes for the physically handicapped.

Only three major mobile homes construction firms are willing to modify their homes for the handicapped, Singh said. The modifications are made at a great cost to the disabled person, he said.

Singh said he would like to see a factory set up at SIU to build mobile homes specifically designed for the handicapped. The factory would employ physically disabled persons, he said.

"If they could have their own mobile homes for $8,000-$10,000, they'd have it made," Singh said. "It would give disabled persons mobility and freedom. There would be no worries about housing when they move."

If a factory for modified mobile homes could be set up in Carbondale and employ disabled persons, Singh said about $400,000 could be secured from the Small Business Organization.

Another possible source of funding may come from a bill now in committee in the U.S. Senate. The bill, called the "Housing Opportunities for the Handicapped Act" is sponsored by Sen. Robert Dole (R-Kansas).

The bill asks that $1,500,000 be allocated "for the demonstration of models of living arrangements for severely handicapped adults as alternatives to institutionalization and to improve coordination of housing programs."

"The federal government is saying by this bill that they are prepared to give help and are asking what we are going to do," Singh said.

The bill is specifically for handicapped housing, Singh said, and offers an excellent opportunity for funding. The bill may be voted on this fall.

Professor says laws needed to stop strip mining danger

By John Russell
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

More than two million acres of land in Illinois may be laid barren by strip mines in the future unless preventative laws are passed, Willard Klimstra, professor of cooperative wildlife research, said Wednesday.

Speaking in Activity Room D of the Student Center, Klimstra said 140 billion tons of coal are still unmined in Illinois, and between 19 and 20 billion tons are available for surface mining.

If this mining is done, Klimstra said, some counties in the state may have as much as 60 per cent of their land ripped up by strip mining equipment.

One-hundred eighty thousand acres of land in the state have been strip mined so far, Klimstra said. Ninety-three per cent of this area cannot be reclaimed for future use, he said.

Seventy per cent of all strip mined lands in the U.S. cannot be reclaimed, he said, and in the past four years there has been a 25 to 30 per cent increase in the number of acres affected by strip mining.

Klimstra said the devastating effects of surface mining cannot be blamed on the mining industry alone; the public must share in the blame.

He said stock holders have failed to speak out against the policies of companies which have dug up the land, and the American people are looking to coal as a relief against the energy crisis, instead of seeking out new ways for obtaining energy.

Klimstra lectured as part of the Earth Week activities, sponsored by the Student Environmental Center (SEC).

Earth Week activities planned for Thursday include programs on water pollution by Muri Teske of the Environmental Protection Agency and a lecture by Bruce Peterson, professor of zoology, on population problems.

Mary Kolp, of the Springfield

Audubon Society, will speak on endangered species of birds. A slide show will accompany Ms. Kolp's speech, and refreshments will be served.

Follow-up movies on population and conservation problems will be shown Thursday night.

The SEC will also sponsor a program on several area environmental groups and the 'outdoor outfitters' in Carbondale.

Times and places for all events scheduled are available at the information desk in the Student Center.

Campus brief

Two SIU School of Agriculture faculty members were on the program of the 1974 Agriculture Articulation Conference for Illinois in Springfield Thursday and Friday.

William A. Doerr, assistant dean for resident instruction, was chairman of the conference steering committee and served as chairman of discussion sessions Thursday afternoon and Friday morning. He also spoke to the Thursday dinner meeting on "Obstacles to Agricultural Development in Brazil," reporting on his experiences for two years as international director of SIU's United Nations-sponsored agricultural development programs at the University of Santa Maria in southern Brazil.

Donald Lybecker, assistant professor of agricultural industries, was discussion leader Thursday afternoon for a subject matter group on agricultural economics.

M.F.A. exhibits to open Friday

The M.F.A. Thesis Exhibits of David Eldridge and Bruce Jacobsen will open with a public reception from 7 to 9 p.m. Friday at the Mitchell Gallery. It will run through May 3.

Eldridge will show sculptures constructed of wood, plastic, rope and metal under the title, "Architectural Geometrics." Jacobsen will exhibit approximately 40 paintings and transparencies.

The Mitchell Gallery, located on the first floor of the Home Economics Building, is open from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. weekdays. Admission is free.

Sickle cell drive begins

A drive to collect funds for sickle cell anemia research is being conducted by Alpha Phi Alpha fraternity, Ronald Brown, chapter president, said.

The drive, which began Wednesday and continues through Monday, is the second sponsored by the fraternity, Brown said. "We raised over $300 last year."

Charles Dehart, social chairman, said the fraternity is conducting the drive as a service project and added "we hope to collect more than last year."

Tables were set up Wednesday according to Brown in Thompson Point, Brush Towers and University Park dining areas. He said tables will be set up in the Student Center beginning Thursday.

Proceeds will be sent to the Midwest Association for Sickle Cell Anemia, Dehart added.

Sickle cell anemia is a disease that strikes mostly blacks. It occurs when there aren't enough red blood cells in the body to store hemoglobin.

Brown said the disease is not infectious or contagious; it is an inherited disease. He said there is no cure at the present for the disease.

but scientists are looking for ways to stop the continuation of the disease.

Esposito stopping Bruin scoring pair

CHICAGO (AP)—The Boston Bruins don't have their backs against the Stanley Cup wall yet, but it could happen soon if the Chicago Black Hawks keep harassing Phil Esposito and Bobby Orr.

As the Hawks strive for a second successive victory and a 3-1 edge over the Bruins in Chicago Thursday night, Esposito and Orr, the National Hockey League's scoring champ and runnerup, own only two goals between them in this semifinal Cup series.

Brilliant Hawk goaltending by Tony Esposito has been mainly responsible for holding brother Phil to two goals while Orr has gone scoreless.

Tony made three straight fantastic saves against Phil Tuesday night in an overtime 4-3 victory at the Chicago Stadium which may have taken considerable starch out of the free-wheeling Bruins.

Phil managed the first goal of the series at Boston last Thursday when Tony again was superb in a 4-2 triumph. Phil got his other goal Sunday when the Bruins caved the roof in on Tony with an 8-6 bombing.

Hawk coach Billy Reay contends his club is not paying special heed to Phil Esposito, who banged in 68 regular season goals.

"We're not keying on Esposito, especially," said Reay, "but we are keying a bit on Orr. We try to swarm Orr as soon as he gets the puck."

The Hawks still were far from cheery after their dramatic rally erased a 3-1 decision on Jim Pappin's goal at 3:48 of the sudden death overtime Tuesday night.

"That go-ahead game was a great lift for us," said Reay, "and it must be demoralizing for them to have lost a two-goal lead in the third period."

Which is the biggest city in America that does not have a major league baseball team or a big league pro football team? Answer is Indianapolis, Ind... the next largest city without a big league baseball or football team is San Antonio, Tex.

Here's an oddity... There were three major league pitchers who each won more than 20 games in 1972 and then these same three pitchers each lost 20 or more games in 1973... Wilbur Wood won 24 games in '72 and lost 20 in '73... Steve Carlton won 27 in '72 and lost 20 in '73... And Stan Bahnsen won 21 in '72 and lost 21 in '73!

Netters to face 13th ranked Vols on home courts

Coming off a 2-1 weekend, the SIU tennis team will take on 13th ranked Tennessee Volunteers Thursday, at 2 p.m., on the university courts.

"Tennessee is just a real super team," said coach Dick LeFevre, "They are the strongest we've played since the spring trip."

The Volunteers are led by junior Paul Van Min of Holland who was the Southeastern Conference singles champion as a freshman, and a runner-up last season. Tennessee is coached by Louis Royal, now in his sixth year.

"If Georgia doesn't win the Southeastern Conference, Tennessee will," said LeFevre. Southern lost to Georgia 8-1 during the Salukis' spring trip.

Deadline slated for women netters

The deadline for entering the women's intramural doubles tennis tournament is noon Monday in Room 205 of the Women's Gym.

Tournament play will run from Tuesday through Thursday. Matches will be played at 8, 9 and 10 p.m. at the University Tennis Courts.

Rackets will be available. An SIU ID is required. A practice session is scheduled Thursday from 6 to 8 p.m. on courts one and two.

Decathlon star Bill Hancock demonstrates his high jumping ability.

Hancock sees relaxation as key to successful track competition

By Bruce Shapin
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

While waiting for his cue to perform, trackster Bill Hancock can usually be found lying on the ground sleeping, while his red, white and blue Mickey Mouse hat shades the sun from his eyes. "Before I compete in any track event I like to be relaxed," said Hancock, a junior from Kingston Mines. "While the other competitors are running around getting warmed up, I like to take several attempts at the event I'm on, then lay back and catch some sleep before my turn."

Hancock is not your average track athlete—his specialty is the grueling, 10 event decathlon. The decathlon came into Bill's life in high school, where he competed the event at the Illinois High School meet. Hancock took second place in the decathlon when he was a junior.

Hancock attended high school at Illini Bluffs, where he was an all-around athlete. "My high school only had 400 students so I was able to go out for a lot of sports," Hancock said. He played basketball, baseball and ran cross country and track. "I would have gone out for football too if we had a team," he jokingly said.

According to Bill, he never really practiced track in high school because he was always involved in another sport. "I showed up for the track meets, but I practiced with the baseball team, that kept me in shape."

Bill's first specialty is the high jump, which he began practicing in fourth grade. "The kid next door was on the high school track team and built himself a high jump pit, so I tried it out," Hancock said. As a junior Bill took second at the Illinois High School meet in the high jump, then came back the next year to win the event.

The idea of the decathlon came up in college when Bill was a sophomore at SIU. "Besides competing in the high jump in high school, I ran the hurdles and long jumped," said Hancock. "When we were at the Florida relays last year coach Hartzog asked me if I would like to enter the decathlon."

Hancock took third at the Florida relays to start his collegiate decathlon career.

Proving to himself that he could compete in the university decathlon, Hancock trained for the decathlon at the Kansas relays. At Kansas, Hancock surprised everyone by winning the university division with 7,313 points. On way to his first place performance, Hancock set a new decathlon world record in the high jump, going 7-1.

Ten events make up the two-day decathlon. The first day's events are the 100-meter, shot put, long jump, high jump and the 400-meter run. The 110-meter high hurdles, discus, pole vault, javelin and the 1,500-meter run make up the second day of activities.

This year Bill has entered two decathlons. At the Florida relays Hancock was in third place with three events to go. During the pole vault competition, Hancock's pole broke and he was unable to make the minimum height. Scoring a zero in the pole vault, Hancock was eliminated from placing.

At last week's Kansas relays Bill finished third behind two former Olympians. This year the decathlon was an open event. "Bill did an outstanding job against quality competition. It's no disgrace to lose to Bruce Jenner and Jeff Bennett," said Saluki coach Lew Hartzog. On way to his third place finish Hancock scored 100 points more than last year's championship total.

Over the last year Hancock has practiced on some of his weaker events, such as the pole vault and the javelin. "Last year I wasn't consistent enough on my events, after a year of experience this consistency is beginning to come."

Practicing ten events is not an easy job, Hancock said. "If I want to practice my running, or throw the javelin, or work out on the weights, I have to go to three different locations. It makes for a lot of running around."

"He may be one of the greatest athletes ever to come out of Southern Illinois University," Hartzog said.

Hancock credits Hartzog with some of his success. "Coach is very dedicated. He's the kind of coach that pushes you to perform with excellence. I need that," said Hancock.

Bill is a health and education major, who is planning to teach and coach at the high school level when he graduates. "I want to get some experience on the high school level so I can coach college track."

Up until the NCAA decathlon in June, Bill Hancock will be on the move. He'll be the one with the Mickey Mouse hat always on the run. He has to be, in order to practice ten events.

Brock says Wills' mark out of reach

ST. LOUIS (AP) - Lou Brock says ex-Los Angeles Dodger Maury Wills' record of 104 stolen bases can be reached, but probably not by him.

And the 34-year-old St. Louis Cardinal star, despite his swiftest start in the fine art of stealing, said he can pinpoint the reason.

"I think to steal 100 bases you've got to steal third 20 to 25 times a year," said Brock, who has swiped 11 bases in 17 games.

"I don't really steal third that often and I don't think we're going to have that kind of season," he added, "but sometimes pressure can produce a lot of things you hadn't planned."

Brock, the holder of seven National League titles, traditionally has been a slow-starter in his 14-season climb to ninth place in major league career thefts.

But the skilled veteran has eluded each opponent's tag since being thrown out in the season opener and also has 18 runs through Tuesday's games.

The leftfielder has 646 career stolen bases.

"It's not that great," he said in reference to his timing, which he coordinates with the pitcher's motion, "but I'm getting some tremendous jumps."

"I've never had this kind of start, not in base stealing," he said. "I think you'd find from my career record that seldom have I had 30 stolen bases at the All-Star break and seldom have I had even 25."

"Usually my pace picks up in August and September when we're pressing and forcing our style of play on the opponents," he said.

"But this year we may not have to rely on stolen bases so much," he said. "Unless it's a necessity to win, it's hard on a daily basis to steal."

Brock, who swiped three in an 8-2 Cardinal victory Tuesday night over the Houston Astros, has stolen five in his last two games and reversed the form of his 1973 start.

Then, although he finished with 70 thefts in 160 games, he was thrown out on 13 of his first 23 tries.

Golden Bear favored

CARLSBAD, Calif. (AP) — Jack Nicklaus, who holds a record four triumphs in this select little group, occupies his customary position as a solid favorite in the $200,000 Tournament of Champions.

But the Golden Bear, grumbling just a little about a bad wing, isn't the overwhelming choice he often is.

He's won twice and lost in a playoff in his last three starts in this event that brings together the winners of regular pro golf tour titles from the last 12 months.

In the eligibility period he's won more tournaments-six than any other player in the elite, 25-man field and he's generally recognized as the finest player in the game today.

With those overwhelming credentials, however, he ranks only slightly ahead of Lee Trevino in the 72-hole tournament that begins Thursday on the La Costa Country Club course.

"Look out for the Mex," said Trevino, who has been out of action for two weeks but finished first and second in his last two appearances.

"I'm hitting it so good you wouldn't believe it. I might win by six."

Trevino has yet to take the title in this tournament that he ranks as the fourth in the world in importance. A victory here long has been one of his personal goals.

"I've been second three times including last year. This might be the year," he said.

Trevino is listed at 6-1 odds and Nicklaus 4-1.

2 wins break Saluki record

John Hoscheidt collected five singles in seven at bats to lead SIU to an 8-4, 8-1 doubleheader sweep of Western Kentucky Wednesday at Bowling Green, Ky.

The victories ran the Salukis' consecutive win streak to 20 games, breaking the old school record of 19, set a year ago.

Wayne Rueger and Bert Newman each had three hits in the opener as Robin Derry picked up his third win against a single defeat.

In the nightcap, Jim Locascio had three doubles in five at bats as Hoscheidt went three for five. Bill Dunning went the distance for his second win of the year.

The Salukis, 27-5, return home for a doubleheader Saturday against St. Louis University.

Western Kentucky closed its season at 18-10.
