Panel votes to repeal seat belt law

By David Sheets
Staff Writer

The state's two-year-old seat belt law could come unbuckled if the Illinois House shifts into the same gear as its Transportation Committee.

The committee voted by a two-to-one margin Tuesday in favor of a bill that would repeal the mandatory buckle-up provision. That cleared the road for a final House vote next week.

The 16-7 committee vote came despite a House Transportation subcommittee recommendation, earlier in the legislative session, to oppose the repeal.

If given House approval, the repeal bill, sponsored by 117th District State Rep. Jim Rea, D-Christopher, will go to the Senate for another vote.

"People have rebelled on the seat belt mandate," Rea said. "If it were left up to personal choice, probably a higher percentage of people would use them."

In addition to popular dissent from constituents, Rea said "information projections have not been up to par."

Rea read a letter from Illinois State Police Director James Zagel, delivered to 115th District State Rep. Charles Goforth, R-Tamaroa, a co-sponsor of the repeal bill, that said traffic fatality statistics have actually in-

Applicants to get more in GSLs

By Carolyn Schmidt
Staff Writer

Undergraduate students borrowing the maximum amount allowed under the Guaranteed Student Loan program will get about $65 more this year than last year because the 1 percent student insurance fee has been eliminated, says Robert Clement, agency relations director of the Illinois State Scholarship Commission.

Beginning July 1, the fee no longer will be deducted from GSLs, Plus Loans or Supplemental Loans for Students. The fee was implemented last year to keep the ISSC's reserve fund solvent, Clement said.

"Our policy has been to not have fees or at least keep them as minimal as possible," Clement said, "but a year ago there was a lot of uncertainty in Washington regarding the program and discontinuance of our cost allowance."

The ISSC was concerned last year that it would have to repay a $4 million loan from the federal government, Clement said. The insurance fee went into effect as a reserve fund to repay the fault, he said.

The Department of Education also was not releasing cost allowances to the ISSC last year, Clement said.

The situation in Washington has stabilized since 1986 because the ISSC does not have to return the "seed money" this year. Also, legislation has made it mandatory that state agencies receive their cost allowances and enough capital and reserves to operate, he said.

Clement said elimination of the fee allows more money for students to apply to their education and creates less paperwork for Illinois lending institutions to process the insurance fees.

Big Twist & the Fellows come home

By Mary Caudle
Staff Writer

Blues fans and anyone in the mood for some Carbondale nostalgia were in for a treat Tuesday night when Big Twist and the Mellow Fellows took to the stage.

The concert at Shyrock Auditorium was much more than a concert, although the band certainly did its part in entertaining the enthusiastic crowd. Larry "Big Twist" Nolan remarked that it felt like a coming-home party, with reunited friends chatting between performances and concertgoers rushing up to the balcony to dance to Big Twist's brand of old-fashioned blues.

Enthusiasm ran rampant through the audience, many of whom remembered Big Twist and the Mellow Fellows from the days when they played in Carbondale bars such as the Club, Merlins and Pizza King. It was apparent that in the nine years that they've been based in Chicago, they haven't been forgotten.

If concertgoers had high expectations for the concert, they weren't disappointed as Big Twist and the Mellow Fellows led them through a rousing medley of their old and new blues tunes such as "Living it Up," "Too Much Barbeque" and "300 Pounds of Heavenly Joy," as well as remakes of rhythm and blues standards that were given a sound that was all Big Twist.

Channel 1st convicted in Iran-arms hearing

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Conservative fund-raiser Carl Channell pleaded guilty Wednesday to the first criminal charges in the Iran-Contra scandal and named Lt. Col. Oliver North as his co-conspirator in defrauding the government with a scheme to arm Nicaraguan rebels.

The guilty plea was part of an agreement reached Tuesday with special prosecutor Lawrence Walsh in exchange for Channell's testimony against North, the former National Security Council aide fired for his role in the secret arms sales to Iran and diversion of profits to the Contras.

Channell's plea marked the first conviction in the scandal and in the history of the special prosecutor's law.

Channell, 41, appearing before U.S. District Judge Stanley Harris, pleaded guilty to the one count of conspiracy, acknowledging he falsely claimed tax-exempt status for his fund-raising group's efforts to raise more than $2 million to provide the Nicaraguan Contras with military and other non-humanitarian aid.

The diminutive, well-dressed fund-raiser, whose efforts on behalf of conservative causes have been supported personally by President Reagan, named as co-conspirators in the fund-raising scheme: North, and Richard Miller, the president of International Business Communications, a public relations firm that has been linked to the private aid network for the rebels.

Asked why North was not indicted, Walsh associate counsel David Zornow said after the hearing, "Our investigation is continuing. And as you learned today, Mr. Channell is cooperating with that investigation."

The development came as congressional leaders announced that another key figure in the scandal, retired

Maj. Gen. Richard Secord, will be the first witness at public hearings that begin next Tuesday.

Secord, considered a key middleman in both the arms transactions and Contra aid network, will testify without immunity and will be followed by former national security adviser Robert McFarlane on Capitol Hill.

Congressional investigators, seemingly surprised by Walsh's move Wednesday, said it was uncertain whether Channell would testify before the joint committee hearings.

At the White House, a spokesman declined to comment on any personal contacts Reagan may have had with Channell, but noted the president had requested a full investigation of the scandal.

S. Africa police break up student rally at Cape Town

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (UPI) — Security forces used whips Tuesday to break up a demonstration by University of Cape Town students protesting the use of gunfire by police to end another demonstration at the school a day earlier. Students, chanting 'Botha is a terrorist!' were beaten on their heads and backs with 6-foot plastic whips. No serious injuries were reported but police arrested up to 18 people, blacks and whites.

Suspected communist rebels kill 4 in Manila

MANILA, Philippines (UPI) — Suspected communist assassins Wednesday shot to death four people, including a suburban police chief, and the defense minister urged the armed forces to take steps to "save the country." Valenzuela police chief Lt. Col. Carlos Palomares and an aide were shot on a highway outside Manila by two men and a woman who blocked the road and opened fire, authorities said. The assailants, who authorities suspect were communist rebels, seized the victims' pistols and communication radio.

W. German newspaper reports hostage deal

BONN, West Germany (UPI) — West Germany has promised terrorists holding two German hostages it will not extradite a Lebanese wanted by the United States on a hijacking charge if the captives are released, it was reported Wednesday. The Bild newspaper said Bonn had informed the pro-Iranian Hezbollah, or Party of God, who kidnapped the Germans in Beirut that the suspected hijacker, Mohammed Ali Hamadei, 22, will be tried by a German court and not a U.S. court if the hostages are freed. The newspaper said the government has contacted the kidnapers through Syrian and Israeli intermediaries.

Solidarity activists plan to lead May Day rally

WARSAW, Poland (UPI) — Five Solidarity activists said Wednesday they will defy the Communist government and lead a May Day demonstration in Poland's industrial heartland to press for "economic reforms, trade union freedom and civic and political rights." The demonstration in Wroclaw, in industrialized lower Silesia, is one of at least six illegal Solidarity-sponsored rallies planned Friday across the country to coincide with official observances of the communist world's most important holiday.

Japanese official, Reagan to discuss sanctions

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Japanese Prime Minister Yasuhiro Nakasone arrived in Washington Wednesday for crucial meetings expected to ease but not completely repair growing economic strains with the United States. Nakasone arrived at 4:30 p.m. at Andrews Air Force Base outside Washington for a three-day official visit aimed primarily at cooling the U.S.-Japanese trade tensions, made more stressful by Reagan's imposition April 17 of trade sanctions against Tokyo.

Goetz: 'My intention was to murder them'

NEW YORK (UPI) — A hushed courtroom Wednesday heard an angry but sorrowful Bernhard Goetz tell police in a taped confession "my intention was to murder them" — the four youths he claimed were about to mug him on a Manhattan subway. Goetz, 39, surrendered to Concord, N.H., police nine days after he shot and wounded four black youths on a subway Dec. 22, 1984, after at least one of them asked him for $5. Nine days later, on New Year's Eve, Concord police taped the long, rambling confession just hours after he turned himself in.

Embassy files subpoena called 'outrageous'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The State Department branded as an "outrageous act" Wednesday a congressional subpoena for thousands of department documents concerning security problems at the U.S. Embassy in Moscow. The House Foreign Affairs international operations subcommittee voted 6-0 Tuesday to subpoena all State Department files relating to the U.S. Embassy in Moscow and a new building under construction.

Massachusetts governor running for president

MANCHESTER, N.H. (UPI) — Massachusetts Gov. Michael Dukakis evoked his state's last president, John F. Kennedy, in formally entering Wednesday the 1988 Democratic presidential campaign. The link with the state's political dynasty was sharpened Wednesday at a rally on historic Boston Common when Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., introduced Dukakis to a crowd Boston police estimated at 20,000.

Americans in Nicaragua vow to stay on job

MATAGALPA, Nicaragua (UPI) — Americans working for Nicaragua vowed Wednesday to stay on the job in war zones despite the death of an American colleague killed in an ambush by rebels believed to be U.S.-backed Contra insurgents.

In Washington, a White House spokesman said Wednesday that the United States regrets the death of Linder, but he and others like him should know they are "in harm's way." The White House spokesman said not enough was known to assess blame for the incident. The Contras, a CIA-formed force fighting, are seeking to overthrow the Sandinista government.

"We're very concerned about the death of any American," White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said. However, he cautioned, "Americans should be aware of the danger involved in traveling in countries where there is internal revolution and guerrilla activity and strife of any number of kinds."

The Nicaraguan government said Benjamin Ernest Linder, 27, an engineer from Portland, Ore., was killed in an attack by rebels Tuesday morning as he worked on a hydroelectric project near the northern town of San Jose de Bocay, 110 miles north of Managua.

"Linder knew perfectly well the risks that he ran to be in a war zone accompanied by Nicaraguan army soldiers."

— Adela Icaza

A U.S. group financing the project said the attack on the hamlet of San Jose de Bocay was unprovoked. Two Nicaraguans were slain along with Linder, believed to be the first American killed by the rebels the official newspaper Barricada reported Wednesday.

Several fellow workers said Linder was hit in the back of the head by shrapnel from a grenade. His body was taken early Wednesday to Matagalpa, 60 miles north of Managua, where tearful friends held an all-night wake.

"Those of us who knew Ben will remember him as a patient, warm, creative and enthusiastic individual, totally committed to working for peace," said Mary Risacher of Washington, D.C., reading from a statement by a group of Americans working in northern Nicaragua.

The statement was read as friends and colleagues filed past the red, wooden coffin.

"Rather than be intimidated by this assassination, we, U.S. citizens, working in the northern war zones of Nicaragua reaffirm our decision to continue to stand alongside the Nicaraguan people in their struggle for peace and justice," the statement said.

Several hundred Americans work with the government, pro-government, church or pacifist organizations in Nicaragua.

A spokesman for the United Nicaraguan Opposition, the political arm of the Contras, told United Press International in Washington that "This is a combat zone and a combat action took place in that area."

At the same time, the State Department complained that Managua has failed to provide the U.S. Embassy with any information about Linder's death, as would be "the proper thing to do," a spokesman said.

State Department spokesman Charles Redman estimated 1,500 Americans live in Nicaragua and an additional 500 to 1,000 are visiting at any one time.

Contras call U.S. engineer's death accidental

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras (UPI) — A Contra rebel army acknowledged Wednesday that its soldiers killed an American engineer in a Nicaraguan peasant village, but said the death was an accident of war and blamed the Sandinista government for allowing him to work there.

Benjamin Linder, 27, of Portland, Ore., who was bringing electricity to an impoverished northern village, was killed Tuesday in an attack by six Contras on San Jose de Bocay in northern Jinotega province, 110 miles north of the Nicaraguan capital of Managua.

"That is a zone of conflict with much troop movement," said Adela Icaza of the Nicaraguan Democratic Force, known by its Spanish initials the FDN.

The FDN, whose high command is based in Honduras, is the largest Contra army and received part of the $100 million in aid from Congress last year given to the umbrella United Nicaraguan Opposition. No exact figure was available for the FDN's share of the funding.

"We are sorry for the consequences," she said. "Linder knew perfectly well the risks that he ran to be in a war zone accompanied by Nicaraguan army soldiers."

The group said Linder was killed in a firefight between the rebels and Nicaragua militiamen who they said accompanied the American.

In Managua, a witness quoted by the government newspaper Barricada said the rebels, firing rifles and flinging grenades, deliberately killed Linder as he was sitting on the ground writing notes. The witness was quoted as saying two peasants also were killed in the ambush.

"Definitely it is not correct that our soldiers tried to kill him," the FDN's Icaza said. "All of our soldiers have received training in the code of war. We respect the laws of war and we have alerted civilians in the war zones to the risks they run.

"The Sandinista government has responsibility in his death for sending him to a war zone," she said.

Jinotega province has been the scene of recent increased fighting between the leftist Sandinista army and the Contras, who declared war on the Managua government in 1981.

In the United States, Linder was described as a staunch supporter of the leftist Sandinista revolution, which ousted President Anastasio Somoza in 1979, and who was bitterly opposed to U.S. policy in Nicaragua.

The Center for Constitutional Rights in New York said it had represented Linder in a lawsuit filed in September on behalf of several people seeking to block Congressional funding for the Contras. The suit was dismissed.

In an affidavit filed with the suit Linder predicted his own death: "If the United States continues to train, support, finance and aid the FDN in violation of international law ..., I will be subject to personal danger to life and limb as I carry out work."

Marriott innocent in pancake scandal

"LET US EAT PANCAKES," is the cry of angry SIU-C students and Carbondale residents, all furious that the Carbondale Lions Club will not be allowed to hold its annual Springfest breakfast. Blame has been placed on the Marriott Corp., which provides food service for SIU-C, for banishing the Lions from campus grounds.

In reality, the decision to limit Springfest concessions to Marriott was made by a committee formed by Bruce Swinburne, vice president for student affairs. The committee was composed of Swinburne, Student Center director John Corker, Marriott's food service director Bill Egan and other campus representatives. Egan says that Corker was the prime opponent to the Lions breakfast.

Corker says he made the proposal against the breakfast in the interests of consistency, since other off-campus groups are not allowed to vend products on campus during Springfest. Corker admits that he made a mistake and that Marriott is innocent of the controversial decision.

THE CONFUSION OVER the Lions Club breakfast raises the question of why people were so quick to jump on Marriott. Does it signal dissatisfaction with the year-old Marriott contract?

Egan says the Lions should have been allowed to have the project. "We've been portrayed as a big bad organization," Egan said. "Mr. Corker should never have tried to hide behind the guise of the contract."

The Marriott contract guarantees a share of the profit, four percent of cash sales and 25 percent of concessions sales to the University. Marriott absorbs any loss, whereas under the former food service contract, loss was absorbed by the school. Overall, the University seems to have managed a good deal with Marriott.

Moreover, Egan says Marriott has "no problem whatsoever" with fund raising groups selling food on campus. If fund raising groups feel that their efforts at SIU-C are threatened, they should complain to the University, rather than to Marriott.

OF COURSE, A good deal for the University is worthless if the food service is poor. A random survey of faculty and students reflect the opinion that prices have gone up and quality down since Marriott took over. Most of the complaints are directed against two Student Center dining spots, the Old Main Room and Pizza Pete's.

Egan admits that changing the Old Main Room to a strictly sandwich shop was a big mistake, and reinstating the buffet is the first in a series of moves to return the Old Main to its former glory. As for complaints that the food is cold or otherwise unsatisfactory, Egan recommends that customers complain to the supervisor and demand a better product.

If there is a moral to the pancake scandal, it is that all complaints about food service should be directed to Food Service and not through ill-founded attacks on a decision Marriott did not make. If Marriott can answer the complaints, we will have better food. If they cannot, then it is time to think about changing vendors.

Surgeons mum on smoking

Hartford (Conn.) Courant

When the doctor speaks, most people listen. Unfortunately, many doctors may not be saying much about smoking.

According to a report in the Journal of the American Medical Association, polls of adults in Michigan in 1980 and 1983 found 56 percent of those who smoked said no doctor ever urged them to stop smoking.

Nearly every family practice specialist surveyed in a 1985 poll in Iowa reported having routinely discussed smoking with patients. But if the Michigan results are representative of the profession as a whole, doctors are failing on the job.

If training is inadequate, it's up to the profession to provide it — in medical schools and classes for practicing physicians. The effectiveness of advice to stop smoking may be open to question, but there's some evidence that it helps.

Morality lost at Condom Carnival

Sodom and Gomorrah may very well rise up in judgment against American society. When sexual promiscuity and loose morality become front page news and they are reported in such a fashion as to indicate that there is nothing wrong with such behavior, we are headed for a very serious problem. This problem will mislead many into thinking that a promiscuous lifestyle is safe as long as someone has a condom. What happened to the threat to a person's emotional and mental well-being being discussed?

The casual approach approach to sex in our society is far from what God intended it to be. God intended for the sexual relationship between husband and wife to be something special. With casual sex there is nothing special about it. We rarely hear of love stories anymore; most of the media give us lust stories. This is not just a problem in secular America, but seems to be rampant even in religious America. What kind of judgment is ahead for a country that has even corrupted its commitment to God with sexual license? We no longer are concerned about lasting and meaningful relationships that take commitment, only temporary and selfish pleasures.

I am concerned about the article printed on the front page of the DE Monday about the Condom Carnival. It seems the concern in this event was to educate the public on safe sex practices with condoms. The carnival mentioned, in passing, that the best way to avoid sexually transmitted diseases was abstinence. This statement never found its way into the DE, probably because some of those on the planning committee for the carnival thought it unwise to mention the morality issue. Oh, but we know that abstinence is really outdated, and, for that matter, so is one sex partner for life. However, it is interesting to note that the one who is probably more concerned about wellness, Surgeon General C. Everett Koop, also agrees with the position that abstinence is the best way to avoid sexually transmitted diseases.

But wait a minute. We can't teach that lifestyle because it might offend someone, and, heaven forbid, we might appear narrow minded. This is a university campus and we need to be open minded. Let's not be concerned with issues of right and wrong. Let's just cater to the whims of the people and tell them that as long as you have condom sense you don't need common sense. — Philip W. Nelson, director, Baptist Student Ministries.

Condom Carnival article tasteless

In the past two years, I've refrained from writing any letters to the DE, even though I had the urge to do so once in a while. But the front page picture on Monday is definitely the straw that broke the camel's back.

I truly do hope people become aware of the danger of AIDS. Also, I can find humor in off-color jokes at the right time and place.

But let me reverse the situation depicted in the picture. Suppose instead the picture displayed was from a Playboy centerfold and the game was pin the diaphragm on the bunny in order to promote awareness of birth control. Do you not think people might say that the game was sexist, the picture was in poor taste and the whole thing was just plain asinine?

Yet the DE decides to display this "game" on the front page as a fun-filled awareness campaign on the use of condoms. Let this picture be printed in Playboy or Playgirl. Those who wish to buy these magazines may do so. However, I do not wish to have this picture under my nose at every turn I make, at every store and office in Carbondale and Murphysboro and wherever else the DE is distributed.

Next time, use a little bit of sense. — Andrew Sondag, law student.

Letter writer should do a little growing up

This is in response to "Limited adulthood in america" (a letter that appeared in the April 23 DE). I suggest that Mr. Pounder take a trip to some of the other countries in the world and then he will have a wider view of what it is to be an adult.

If he thinks that being an adult is just being able to get into local bars and have sex with his girlfriend, then I'd say he needs to do a little more growing up. And yes, you are lucky, Mr. Pounder, that you can choose any of the three things that you are able to do in this country. You could have no rights at all, even as an adult. — Vicki Robinson, anthropology.

House passes measure to force trading partners to open markets

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House ignored warnings of a trade war Wednesday and narrowly approved Rep. Richard Gephardt's amendment to force U.S. trading partners to open their markets or face severe sanctions.

The 218-214 vote, seen by many as an anti-Japan statement, occurred hours before Japanese Prime Minister Yasuhiro Nakasone arrived in the nation's capital for a state visit.

Opponents of the Gephardt amendment — including President Reagan — believe it would invite retaliation from other nations.

White House officials, while proclaiming disappointment at the outcome, were privately gleeful at the close vote, signaling a prospect for removing the language later in a conference with the Senate.

House Ways and Means Committee Chairman Dan Rostenkowski, D-Ill., who led the opposition, said he too was pleased with the close vote, adding that if it wasn't offered by Gephardt — who he described as "a popular young man" — it probably would have been defeated.

While he promised to defend the Gephardt amendment in an eventual conference with the Senate, Rostenkowski indicated some flexibility by suggesting the close vote indicated there's no real direction in the House.

Business representatives criticized the House action, with American Business Conference President William Lilley calling the Gephardt amendment "an irrelevant solution to a grave national economic crisis."

Lilley said the nation's trade deficit, which hit a record $170 billion last year, will not improve until Congress tackles the domestic budget deficit and American business "becomes more internationally astute."

But labor, which lobbied vigorously for the Gephardt amendment, was estatic.

United Auto Workers President Owen Bieber called the vote "a victory for self-defense and common sense on trade."

creased since the seat belt law went into effect.

There were 64 more traffic deaths in the six months the law was in effect in 1986 than 1985, the letter said, and 93 more killed above that so far this year.

"The fact remains that we haven't saved any more lives than before the law," Goforth said. The former State Police trooper said seat belt law advocates claimed, at the time of the law's passage, that the requirement would save about 300 lives each year.

But the legislators are making an incorrect judgment because they're using incorrect information, said Susan Rani, occupant restraint coordinator for the Illinois Department of Transportation.

She said that IDOT figures show 5.8 percent fewer fatalities among front-seat automobile passengers and 2.4 percent fewer rear-seat passengers between July 1985 and June 1986 than between July 1981 and June 1985, before the seat belt law was enacted.

"These figures don't include any other road or highway accidents, just cars," Rani said.

Rea explained that the State Police figures, however, encompassed all deaths regarding motor vehicles, including motorcycles. State Police spokesmen were not available for comment.

"You're not endangering anyone else's life by not wearing a seat belt," Goforth said.

"That's a fallacy," Rani countered. "Anyone in an accident has the potential to affect other people and passengers. Besides, every injury means increased insurance costs and lost time from work."

Both Rea and Goforth said their constituents have disliked being restrained by the seat belt law. Polls of several Southern Illinois communities showed that as many as 68 percent of the respondents opposed the law, they said, and an IDOT study last October found that only 36 percent of Illinois' motorists wear their seat belts.

Even 58th District State Senator Ralph Dunn, R-Du Quoin, and most of his constituents oppose the law, Dunn said.

"But I don't think I'd vote to repeal it," he said. "Most people are getting used to it."

Dunn said there was considerable objection to the buckle-up order when the law went into effect "but I haven't heard anything about it one way or the other" from voters in his district or other state senators.

"I'd be surprised if it even gets a really good vote in the House," and if the bill does it probably won't make it through the Senate, Dunn said.

The committee's vote came one day after the federal government's new 65-mile-per-hour speed limit went into effect nationwide on rural interstates, or freeways not part of urban areas.

piece suit and fedora, Twist stole the show. Singing with a gruff but sweet baritone, Twist proved that the blues isn't sad music, but meant for dancing and drinking the blues away.

From looking around the audience it was apparent that Big Twist and the Mellow Fellows were a well-loved band come home. Twist reminisced and joked with the audience between numbers, saying at one point, "You love me, and you make me believe it."

While Big Twist was the obvious headliner of the show, Tuesday's concert served as a showcase for all of the band members, excellent musicians in their own right.

Performing before Big Twist came out, the seven members of the Mellow Fellows — Pete Special on guitar, Terry Ogolini on tenor saxophone, Don Tenuto on trumpet, Sid Wingfield on keyboards, Bob Halaj on bass, Eric Jensen on drums and Marvin Jackson on rhythm guitar — warmed up with some energetic blues tunes that could only have been topped by Twist himself.

Special and Wingfield proved to be strong vocalists, as well as performers, as they each took a turn with their own version of the blues, showing that the vocal talent of the band isn't lost to Twist.

A highlight of the evening was the band's performance of "I'll Be Coming Home," a tribute to the band's Southern Illinois origins that Special wrote especially for the concert. With lines such as "I can smell those pies cookin' down at Mary Lou's Cafe," "I'll Be Coming Home" showed that despite their growing success, Big Twist and the Mellow Fellows are still home boys at heart.

A unique aspect of the evening was the videotaping of two music videos between concert performances.

The concert also was videotaped by WSIU-TV to be televised from 9 to 10:30 p.m. Friday, May 8.

He noted the State Department has a travel advisory in effect urging Americans to "exercise extreme caution when traveling there" because of the civil war. That warning was updated Saturday, he said.

Linder had reportedly told associates he and fellow workers in the hydroelectrical project sponsored by the Nicaraguan Appropriate Technology Project of Bellingham, Wash., felt threatened by the Contras. He often carried a gun when he traveled on rural roads, associates said, but it was not known whether he was armed when attacked.

Witness for Peace, a Washington, D.C.-based religious group that also sponsors American volunteer workers in Nicaragua, told UPI it spoke with one of the Nicaraguan survivors of the attack who said six armed rebels threw five hand grenades at the group and followed it with gunfire.

Linder was seated, taking down some notes, when the 'guardias' started launching hand grenades and gunfire at us," Barricada quoted survivor Evaristo Centeno as saying.

"Although he is the first North American (killed), many people doing his line of work have been killed (by Contras)," said Witness for Peace spokesman, Ed Griffin-Nolan.

"I think it was more his line of work than his nationality. If he was singled out it was for his work, because health workers, social workers and others have been singled out."

Lawmen are 'expecting' ambush in woods from escaped killers

WOLF CREEK, Mont. (UPI) — An army of lawmen, wary of a possible ambush, Wednesday followed tracks in their wilderness hunt for two convicted killers lugging a duffelbag of weapons including a powerful elephant gun.

"There's a good chance we'll catch them today," a weary but confident Lewis and Clark County Sheriff Chuck O'Reilly told reporters at a command post in the craggy, pinon-studded mountain area north of Helena.

Asked whether his posse feared an ambush, O'Reilly said, "In fact, we're expecting it." He said his officers feared the two fugitives might doubleback in efforts to elude the searchers and set a trap for them.

The sheriff said the tracks were discovered a half mile north and a quarter mile east of a campsite where the two prison escapees, along with a 6-foot woman, kept three dozen deputies at bay in a 4-hour gunfight Monday night.

The desperadoes were identified as John Whitus Jr., 36, and Steven Miller, 34, who escaped Feb. 21, 1986, from the Correctional Medical Facility at Vacaville, Calif. They had been serving life terms for unrelated double murders.

Whitus and Miller apparently fled to Byers, Colo., where Russell Schwartzmiller, 48, hired them to help him remodel a truck stop into a home, police said. They lived in a mobile home on his property.

They disappeared last week just before the bodies of Schwartzmiller and Grace Kuamoo, 73, were found on their property. They had been shot, and detectives there said the motive for the slayings was unknown.

Schwartzmiller and Kuamoo were known survivalists and kept weapons of all sorts. One, O'Reilly said, was a .454-caliber elephant gun they used to destroy a sheriff's patrol cruiser. The car was carrying five officers when it was hit during the gunbattle. None of the deputies was hurt.

O'Reilly said they left several empty weapons at the campsite but carted off the rest in a duffelbag.

Whitus and Miller stole a van from Schwartzmiller and Kuamoo. The gunfight, in which more than 300 rounds were fired, started after officers went to investigate a rolled-over van near the Juniper Bay campground

6 geography students rewarded

Six geography students have received their department's top awards for outstanding scholastic achievement.

Eric W. Hein was chosen Outstanding Senior in the Geography Department and received the Priscilla Anne Moulton award. Hein, of Troy, also was selected as a 1987 Outstanding Senior in Geography by the Illinois Geographical Society.

Hein is the son of Dr. Julius and Starr Hein.

The Moulton award was established in memory of Priscilla Anne Moulton, an outstanding geography student who died in an automobile accident just before she was to enter graduate school. The award honors undergraduates and supports field study by graduate students.

Five students were named outstanding scholars in geography. They are: David

A. Berger of Centralia, a junior and a member of the Undergraduate and Graduate Association of Geographers; Shaadi Sadi Hussin of Malaysia, a senior in geography education; David E. Leslie of Glenview, a senior; Jeffrey S. Moellering of Wood River, a senior; and Carolyn L. Reeves of Struthers, a junior and a member of the Honors Program.

Harassment of lesbians, gays rising

NEW YORK (UPI) — Reports of violence and harassment against homosexual men and lesbians have more than doubled in one year, possibly because of AIDS, according to a report released Wednesday by the National Gay & Lesbian Task Force.

The organization reported it had received 4,946 complaints of violence and harassment against homosexuals in 27 states in 1986, compared to 2,042 incidents the year before.

Kevin Berrill, who has produced the organization's annual report on violence against homosexuals since 1982, said the report does not account for all incidents but said it may be a representative sample.

"We don't know if it's an increase in violence, an increase in reporting or an increase in both," he said in a telephone interview from the group's Washington headquarters. "I tend to think it's both."

Gay leaders have said over the past year that violence against homosexuals was on the rise—and linked the phenomenon directly to the deadly disease AIDS—but the task force report provided the first figures to back up the perception.

The report documented dozens of cases of beatings, slashings and rapes of homosexual men and lesbians that occurred last year.

Berrill said increasing reports of violence against gays may be linked to acquired immune deficiency syndrome, the incurable disease that first appeared among homosexual men.

"The AIDS crisis has definitely exacerbated violence," he said. "AIDS has given gay-bashers the justification they feel they need to commit crimes."

But, Berrill said he does not believe fear of AIDS is causing people who are normally non-violent to attack homosexuals.

Unseasonal storm buries New England with snow

By United Press International

A surprise spring snowstorm Wednesday assaulted New England for a second day, burying northern Massachusetts under nearly 2 feet of snow and knocking out power to more than 180,000 people, while a record heat wave baked the Plains.

The wintry eastern storm, which moved into New England during Tuesday morning's rush hour and has been blamed for at least one death, sent road crews scrambling to set up snow-removal equipment that had been stored away for the summer.

"It's kind of depressing for everyone," said police Sgt. Duane Phelps in Rumford, Maine. "Everyone wants to go to Florida right now."

The National Weather Service Tuesday morning predicted the storm would dump as much as 6 inches of snow in higher elevations of Vermont, but by Wednesday morning, accumulations were knee high.

"I don't like it at all," said Paul Sawki of Worcester, Mass. "One day it's (springlike) and then you turn around and there's 2 feet of snow. Somebody's playing games."

"It's terrible. It's been too much this year," said Janet

Phillips of Dublin, N.H. "It's something to see the flowers up through the snow, though. At least you know 'here's hope.'"

Ashburnham and Lunenburg, Mass., were buried under 21 inches of snow, while 18 inches was measured in Franconstown, N.H., and 17 inches was on the ground in Mt. Vernon, N.H., and Worcester, Mass. — the most snow ever reported so late in the season and the largest spring snowstorm on record.

The latest pile of snow also brought the total April snowfall in Worcester to 21 inches, breaking the previous record monthly total of 20 inches, set in 1894. The Worcester Airport, which was snowed shut Tuesday afternoon, finally reopened Wednesday morning.

Other hefty snowfall amounts included 16 inches in Bradford, N.H., 15 inches in Gloucester-Burrillville, R.I., 13 inches in Brassua, Maine, and 8 inches in Waterford, Vt.

Several schools in Rhode Island and Massachusetts canceled classes, and state offices in New Hampshire were closed at least until noon. Both radio stations in Fitchburg, Mass., were knocked off the air.

75-year-old male sex offender to undergo 'chemical castration'

SANFORD, Fla. (UPI) — A 75-year-old man has been banished to the colder climes of Illinois and ordered to undergo "chemical castration" for sexually assaulting two young women four or five times a week for as long as eight years.

One of them, authorities said, bore the elderly man, Freddie Monroe, a son.

"It's absolutely incredible that a man this old could be charged with something like this," Assistant State Attorney Woody Igou said Wednesday. "The defense lawyer couldn't believe it when we filed charges."

"But we did a blood test on one of the victims, her son and the defendant, and the results came back 99.79 percent positive he is the father."

Details about the women, now 23 and 26, were withheld to protect their identities. Igou said one woman was assaulted for eight years and the other for seven years.

"This was not an isolated incident of violence," the prosecutor said. "We're talking about ongoing activity that would make Dr. Ruth blush. It may be very unusual for a man of his age, but occasionally we do find this type of activity in some persons with a deviant sexual urge."

Igou would not say how Monroe came in contact with the women nor where they lived, but he said they submitted to the assaults for so long out of fear.

"There were threats of death," he said.

Monroe, of Chuluota, Fla., denied he had assaulted anyone but pleaded no contest to a single charge of sexual battery. Monroe said he expects to live only one more year and entered the plea because he faced 15 years in prison if convicted by a jury.

County Circuit Judge S. Joseph Davis Jr. sentenced Monroe to 15 years' probation and ordered him treated with the sex drive inhibitor Depo-Provera, which has been used on sex felons in other states since at least 1984.

"Yeah, yeah. I'll take it," Monroe told the judge at Tuesday's hearing. "I won't need it though. I haven't had a sexual desire since I turned 69."

Igou, who recommended the chemical castration and obtained consent from Monroe's family disagreed.

"It might seem ludicrous to inject a 75-year-old man with a drug to eliminate his sexual desire, but he was involved in rampant sexual activities four or five times a week," Igou said.

The judge also ordered Monroe moved to Illinois within two weeks to live with relatives.

Unusual shots are key to wildlife photography

By Laura Milbrath
Staff Writer

The photograph of a small brown fawn nestled in a green glade of leaves shows the tiny creature looking into the camera with a peaceful but curious look in its eyes. It seems to be pondering something.

This quiet moment was captured by wildlife photographer Tom Ulrich, the man the fawn was studying so intently.

"I've made thousand of dollars off this one shot," Ulrich said.

ULRICH, A 1971 graduate of SIU-C in biological science, travels North America as a free-lance wildlife photographer. His photos have appeared in such major magazines as National Wildlife as well as on cards, posters and puzzles. He has recently published a book of his photos entitled "Mammals of the Northern Rockies."

Ulrich, who spoke on campus recently about his work, said that wildlife photography is a competitive business because of the number of people anxious to get their photos published in magazines. His lecture was sponsored by the zoology department.

HE EXPLAINED that if an editor of a national magazine requests photos of bluebirds, there could be as many as 70 photographers each submitting about 60 slides of bluebirds. Thus, the editor of the magazine will view nearly 5,000 slides of bluebirds before he narrows his choice to the desired two or three shots.

"I would be more petrified walking in a dark alley in Chicago than I would shooting pictures of a grizzly bear."

— Tom Ulrich

"When you get three or four pictures in a magazine a year, you're doing really well," Ulrich said.

The most common photos offered to magazines are the straight portrait shots of animals, Ulrich said. He explained that these shots simply capture an animal staring into the camera without any action involved.

"THE MARKET is saturated with these shots," he said.

Ulrich tries to find interesting or unusual situations that contain action or animal behavior. An alligator eating a racoon was one example he gave.

Ulrich showed a photo of a grizzly bear running through a field with its head turned back toward the camera. This was a rare occurrence, Ulrich said, because grizzly bears "never pick their heads up." Ulrich explained that he had to devise a strategy to get the shot.

"I called 'Hey bear' and he picked his head up. I got one shot and he put it down again," Ulrich said.

THE UNPREDICTABLE behavior of animals is one reason that wildlife photographers must be incredibly patient to get desired shots, Ulrich said.

He explained that while viewing a bird's nest full of eggs he noticed a small crack in one of them. Sitting perfectly still for eight hours, he was able to shoot the entire sequence of the four eggs hatching.

"My bladder was killing me," Ulrich said.

Two days passed while Ulrich sat watching a bear eat his game. It took Ulrich two weeks to gain the trust of a muskrat to get a closeup of the animal nibbling food.

SOMETIMES WHEN a perfect scene is about to be captured on film, something will happen that can destroy the entire image.

in one photo that Ulrich showed, two rams were fighting wildly while a third ram stood nearby, casually watching the action.

"You always have one dummy who gets in the way," Ulrich said.

Birds are one of Ulrich's favorite subjects because, he says, "they are more difficult and the market is not as saturated."

Often, he will take a tape recorder with him on location. He tapes the noises the birds make and plays it back to them. Once, after hearing a playback of its own voice, the puzzled bird waddled up to Ulrich, apparently hoping for an explanation.

"It's funny when they recognize themselves," Ulrich said.

ALTHOUGH HE realizes that there are dangers involved in his occupation, Ulrich does not let it hinder his love of his work.

"I would be more petrified walking a dark alley in Chicago than I would shooting pictures of a grizzly bear," he said.

A blue jay was the only animal that ever attacked him physically, Ulrich said.

Scenic photos of landscapes are another type of photography that Ulrich enjoys. He said he always tries to have a good composition for his photographs and always follows the "rule of thirds."

THE RULE simply means,

Noon concerts to be presented

By Tracy Bartoni
Staff Writer

As part of National Music Week, five noontime concerts sponsored by the Morning Etude Club will be performed Monday, May 4, through Friday, May 9.

The concerts, modeled after those given in London churches, will be held each day from 12:10 to 12:50 p.m. at the First United Methodist Church, 214 W. Main in Carbondale.

Monday, May 4 features a performance by SIU-C student Christine Goffinet, junior in music. Goffinet, a soprano, will perform songs by Mozart, Schubert and Barber.

The Tuesday concert features Naoma Williams of Vergennes. She will be playing Early American music on the zither.

On Wednesday, Todd

Westgate, who has a master's degree in music from SIU-C, will be playing the organ.

Thursday, May 7 features Donald Beattie, professor of music at SIU-C, playing on the piano works by Mozart, Beethoven and other classical pieces.

The Friday concert features Daniel Mellado, professor of music at SIU-C, his wife Fairya, and their two daughters performing the Suzuki violin and cello. Fairya is the head violinist of the Paducah Symphony Orchestra.

The 30-year-old Morning Etude Club promotes the love of music by sponsoring performances and presenting youth concerts, in-school programs and scholarships.

he explained, that there should be nothing in the "bull's-eye" or exact center of the photograph to detract the viewer's eye from the rest of the picture.

When he is on location, Ulrich often takes 50 or 60 rolls of film just to photograph one subject.

"You have to think of volumes," he said. "You can't take one or two rolls."

Ulrich has five agents, one of them in Europe. The agents help him in sending slides to the many different magazines who request certain pictures.

Ulrich also has an agency of his own, which he manages with two partners.

MANY MAGAZINES send out a "shopping list" every few months that describes the pictures they will be needing for upcoming issues, Ulrich said.

Payment for published pictures varies with the type of shot. Payment differs for front cover, back cover and inside shots, Ulrich explained.

A National Wildlife cover would pay about $1,200 while a half-page picture inside the magazine probably would pay $300, Ulrich said. Eight to 10 of his photographs are published each month in various magazines. He explained that they varied from covers to smaller pictures.

Ulrich always has a subject in mind when he heads out on location to shoot photos, but unpredictable situations have produced some of his best shots.

A PICTURE of a caribou with his head tangled in a nest of weeds was one unique photograph that Ulrich liked. The caribou seemed to be wearing the tangled mass on his head as if it were a crown and he was trying to retain his dignity.

"A picture like this will sell," said Ulrich. "It's different. It's comical."

Ulrich enjoys his job and said he does not mind getting on his hands and knees to get close to an animal for a shot.

"I like to be on their level," he said.

Navy laboratory worker dies from monkey virus

PENSACOLA, Fla. (UPI) — A worker who contracted a virus from a monkey at a Navy laboratory has died from the disease, and now health officials want the federal government to let them try an experimental drug on a second comatose worker.

Stephen Michael Woodson, 37, of Gulf Breeze, an animal handler at the Naval Aerospace Medical Research Laboratory, died Tuesday. He had been comatose since early April after contracting simian B disease, or herpes B virus.

"Basically, he died of encephalitis due to herpes B virus," said Dr. Michael Wilder, an epidemiologist with the Department of Health and Rehabilitation Services. Encephalitis is an inflammation of the brain.

Another lab worker, Larry D. Smith, 31, of Pensacola, remains in a coma. A spokeswoman at a local hospital said Smith was in critical condition suffering from the same disease that killed Woodson. Health officials said both men had been bitten or scratched in late March by one of the 600 monkeys used at the lab at the Naval Air Station.

Mrs. Woodson contracted the virus after treating her husband's wound. She has shown no symptoms of encephalitis, an infection that is a symptom of the disease. Bentley was released from a local hospital last week.

French beat Lindbergh, official says

MACHIAS, Maine (UPI) — Searchers found a human bone they say may prove two French aviation pioneers beat Charles Lindbergh across the Atlantic in 1927—only to die anonymously in a crash in remote coastal Maine.

Crews Tuesday found a bone near the spot where the plane, the White Bird, is believed to have gone down in May 1927, shortly before Charles Lindbergh's historic flight from New York to Paris.

The White Bird was a large bi-plane that left France that may bound for New York, Charles Nougesser, the pilot, and Francois Coli, the navigator, were seeking the same $25,000 prize that Lindbergh collected just 12 days later from a French aeronautical society.

Richard Gillespie, director of the group searching for the plane, quoted the medical examiner, Dr. Karl Larsen of East Machias, as saying the bone found Tuesday appeared to be a human tibia, or shin bone.

He said the bone was cracked in a way that would indicate a hard shock at or after death.

"He said the crack couldn't have happened in life because there was no sign of healing," Gillespie said. "He also said it appeared that the bone was quite old."

Gillespie said the bone is about 6 inches long and bears several tooth marks.

The bone was to be taken to Augusta to be examined by Dr. Henry Ryan, the state medical examiner, he said.

The group of 10 searchers found the bone before noon as they hunted through dense underbrush in a forest north of Machias. The site is not far from Second Lake, where the searchers believe the two fliers were trying to land after flying non-stop from France.

Calipre sets prof's play of dialogue

Bryan Crow's "Conversation Pieces" will be presented at 8 tonight, Friday and Saturday at the Calipre Stage, located on the second floor of the Communications Building.

Crow, assistant professor of speech communication, selected the dialogue for the "play" from 20 hours of taped conversation between couples in their homes that was recorded as part of a research project.

Four speech communication students will "re-perform" excerpts from the taped conversations of two couples. The performers also will use the technique of "rehearsed improvisation," which requires non-scripted interaction based on spontaneous conversation.

Admission is $1.

Dear College Graduates:

Vogler Motor Co. is happy to announce the College Graduate Purchase Program.

What does this mean to you? It means a new Ford or Mercury with no down payment, pre-approved financing. AND $400.00 cash!!!

What's the catch you ask?

1. You must receive at least a Bachelor's Degree between October 1, 1986 and October 1, 1987.
2. You have verifiable employment beginning within at least 120 days of your vehicle purchase.
3. Your salary will be sufficient to cover your usual living expenses and a car payment.
4. Your credit record, if you have one, is in good standing.

Vogler Motor Co., and Ford Motor Co. says you earned it. Come in and see us at 301 N. Illinois Ave.

Sincerely,
Frank Colbach, Pres.

Dear Friends,

You all know how much Me-Haw has meant to me. That little black chihuahua is just about the most important person in the world to me and I would give anything to get her back. I know she is alive and well, and I need your help!

So, Please,

If you have had Me-Haw since April 7, or you have seen her, please call or stop by. You would make Me-Haw and myself two very happy people. And we would both be grateful to you forever.

Met Gooden leaves drug rehab center

NEW YORK (UPI) — Cy Young Award winning pitcher Dwight Gooden was released Wednesday from an alcohol and drug treatment center, 28 days after the New York Mets announced he had tested positive for cocaine use.

Gooden hurriedly left the facility on Manhattan's Upper East Side at 4 p.m. EDT with several friends. He turned and faced the building, stretched his arms and waved goodbye to other patients inside. Then he got into a car and sped away without talking to the crowd gathered outside.

Gooden was scheduled to appear Thursday with Mets General Manager Frank Cashen and Manager Dave Johnson at a 4 p.m. news conference at Shea Stadium. A club spokesman said Gooden was expected to read a statement but not answer questions.

The Mets have not commented on Gooden's immediate future, but it is expected he will be sent to their Class AAA minor league team at Tidewater or to the Florida Instructional League until he is ready to return to the team. A club spokesman said the team planned to release a statement later Wednesday.

Gooden's agent Jim Neader apparently was not aware the pitcher was being released. He said he thought Gooden would be leaving Smithers Thursday morning.

"To my knowledge, he has not been released," Neader said when reached by telephone at his Tampa, Fla., office about the same time Gooden was walking out of Smithers. "I expect him to get out tomorrow, unless they expedite things."

The Mets announced April 1, six days before they opened their season, that the 22-year-old, $1.5-million a year pitcher had tested positive for drugs. Baseball Commissioner Peter Ueberroth told the Mets that Gooden would have to undergo rehabilitation or face suspension.

The New York Times last week quoted unnamed sources at Smithers as saying Gooden had been found to be an occasional cocaine user and not addicted to the drug. "He's sold on not taking drugs of any kind again," the source said.

The discovery of traces of cocaine in Gooden's system culminated a turbulent six months for Gooden, beginning with his missing the team's World Series victory parade Oct. 23.

In November, Gooden confirmed that he was the father of an 8-month-old son born to Debra Hamilton, and called off his plans to marry Carlene Pearson.

Gooden and four friends were arrested by Tampa police in December after they were stopped for traffic offenses and became involved in a fight with the officers. On Jan. 23 Gooden pleaded no contest to two felony charges and was sentenced to three years probation. As a result of the discovery of his drug usage, probation officials will now require him to undergo regular urinalysis.

Gooden slipped from a 24-4 record with a 1.53 earned run average when he won the National League's Cy Young Award in 1985 to a 17-6 record with a 2.84 ERA last season for the World Series champions.

Staff Writer

The Missouri Valley Conference has announced an impressive spring list of basketball signings, including Tajudeen Olajuwon by Indiana State. Olajuwon is the brother of Houston Rockets all-star center Akeem Olajuwon.

SIU-C has signed Rick Shipley of Centralia and Geoff Hawkins of Hillcrest to letters of intent. Shipley, a 6-8, 205-pound all-state forward, averaged 16.8 points and 11 rebounds a game for the 20-7 Orphans.

Hawkins, a 6-5, 175-pound guard-forward, averaged 14.9 points, seven rebounds and 3.6 assists per game over the last 14 games of the season after recovering from a broken leg suffered in a preseason accident.

Olajuwon, a native of Nigeria, attended Marian Christian High School in Houston, Texas, where he averaged 14 points, seven rebounds and three blocked shots per game. The 6-7, 215-pound all-stater is projected as a forward by the Indiana State coaching staff, and may join redshirt freshman Eddie Bird (6-6, 200), brother of Boston Celtics forward Larry Bird, in the front court.

In addition to Olajuwon, the Sycamores have signed five others to letters of intent. Topping the list is 6-9, 215-pound junior college transfer Jerome Stainback. The forward-center from Maywood played his junior college ball at Lincoln (Ill.) College.

Rounding out the Indiana State signings are Darrin Liles (6-8, 235) of Town Creek, Ala., Jeff Lauritzen (6-4, 165) of Martinsville, Ill., DeWayne Brown (6-3, 180) of St. Louis, Mo., and Jimmy Holiday (6-0, 165) of Saginaw, Mich.

The Bradley Braves have inked three players to letters of intent, including 5-9 point guard Deon Butler from perennial Chicago Public League powerhouse Simeon. Butler averaged 16 points and eight assists a game for 25-3 Simeon.

The other Brave signees are Steve Bayless (6-5, 212) from Chillicothe, Ohio, and Jay Schell (6-6, 170) from Stevens Point, Wis. Schell, a second team all-stater, averaged 14 points, seven rebounds and five assists per game, while Bayless averaged 16 points and 14 boards a game.

MVC regular-season champ Tulsa added four new players to its roster, including some frontline help from the junior college ranks.

Anthony Hines (6-8 forward) from Valencia, Calif., and Jeff Sadoski (6-6 forward) from Colorado Northwestern Junior College have signed on with the Golden Hurricane, along with Michael Scott (6-5 guard-forward) of Phoenix, Ariz., and junior college transfer James West (6-2 guard) from Milwaukee, Wis., via Iowa Lakes Community College.

MVC postseason tournament winner Wichita State has announced only two signings so far for a program with heavy graduation losses.

Signing on with the Shockers are John Cooper (6-5 guard-forward) of Kansas City, Mo., and forward Aaron Davis (6-7, 200) of Willingboro, N.J.

The Creighton Bluejays have signed on three freshmen, including 6-9, 235 pound Chad Gallagher of Rockford, Boylan. The first-team all-stater made 64 percent of his field goal attempts while averaging 19.9 points and 7.4 rebounds per game.

Other Creighton signees are Duan Cole (5-10, 180) from Ft. Wayne, Inc., and Bill O'Dowd, a 6-10 center from Miami, Fla.

Drake and Illinois State have not announced any signings for the spring period, which ends May 15.

Dawson perfect as Cubs clobber Giants

CHICAGO (UPI) — Andre Dawson went 5-for-5 and hit for the cycle and Dave Martinez drove in three runs Wednesday to help the Chicago Cubs to an 8-4 victory over the San Francisco Giants.

Cubs' starter Greg Maddux, 1-2, pitched five innings to earn the victory. Ed Lynch pitched the final 1 2-3 innings for his first save. San Francisco starter Roger Mason, 1-1, gave up six runs in 3 1-3 innings and took the loss.

Dawson homered in the first inning, hit a bloop double over first base in the third inning, singled in the fourth and tripled in the sixth to complete the cycle. He added an eighth-inning single.

Dawson became the first Cub to hit for the cycle since Ivan DeJesus did it against St. Louis on April 22, 1986. It was also the first time Dawson has hit for the cycle.

With the score tied 3-3, Leon Durham singled to start the Cubs' fourth. After Jody Davis popped out trying to swing in front of a pitchout, Shawon Dunston's pop to center was dropped by Chili Davis to put runners on first and second.

Martinez hit the ball toward Davis, who first broke toward the infield then watched the ball sail over his outstretched glove for a two-run triple. Martinez scored on Chico Walker's single to make it 6-3.

Chris Speier's first error in 69 games led to a Cubs' run in the fifth inning. Durham singled and Davis hit a fly to right that bounced high off Candy Maldonado's chest for a double. After Martinez was walked intentionally to load the bases, Durham scored.

Dosage study predicts Derby winner

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — Take this dosage and call your bookie in the morning: Either Alysheba, Bet Twice, Capote, Conquistarose, Demons Begone or Masterful Advocate will win the Kentucky Derby Saturday.

That's what the dosage figures say, and the dosage figures don't lie.

At least they haven't yet. Since 1972, every Kentucky Derby winner has fit the requirements of the Dosage System propagated by Leon Rasmussen and Steven Roman: a Dosage Index of less than 4.00 and an Experimental Handicap within 10 pounds of highweight.

Every winner since 1929 has had the appropriate Dosage Index, though not necessarily the correct weight handicap.

Salukis lead Valley in fielding percentage

The baseball Salukis lead the Missouri Valley Conference in fielding, rank second in pitching and third in batting according to April 26 statistics.

Jim Limperis leads the Salukis in individual batting and ranks 13th on the list with a .355 average, followed by teammates Steve Finley at 15 with a .352 average and Canonero II, for example, was unweighted when he won in 1971. The weights are assigned by a panel of racing secretaries after the thoroughbreds' 2-year-old season on the basis of their performances in graded American stakes. Canonero had no such record since he raced in Venezuela as a juvenile.

The highweight part of the Dosage System is easy to understand. Even a brand-new racing fan knows the best horses carry the most weight.

But the magical Dosage Index is a much more difficult number to comprehend.

Rasmussen, national breeding columnist for The Racing Form, defines it as "an historically accurate concept that the thoroughbred breed evolves through a comparatively few pre-potent sires."

By "pre-potent," Rasmussen means these elite sires, who are known as "chefs de races," have established track records that allow breeders to predict the racing ability of their offspring.

The "chefs de races" are divided into five different groups, such as those who produce brilliant sprinters and those who produce horses good for long distances.

A third group comprises the so-called "classics" sires. These are the stallions most likely to produce colts and fillies with the speed and the stamina to win races at the "classic" distances of a mile and a quarter (like the Kentucky Derby) and a mile and a half.

To determine a 3-year-old's D.I., Rasmussen and Roman assign numerical values to any "chefs de races" appearing in the first four generations of his pedigree. Those numbers are added and divided by a complicated formula.

Most people who believe in the Dosage System don't bother to learn that formula. All they need to know is which Kentucky Derby starters have that magical 4.00 or less.

Skeptics argue that the Dosage System is a self-fulfilling prophecy, since its proponents have the ability to add new sires to the list of "classics" stallions.

But the system's winning streak is hard to argue with.

Baseballers scalp SEMO Indians 7-1

By Wendell Young
Staff Writer

The baseball Salukis enhanced their record to 32-15 Wednesday as they clobbered the SEMO Indians 7-1 behind an "excellent" pitching performance from freshman pitcher Chris Bend.

After picking up his fifth win in as many starts, Bend said it was a "big goal" of his to come to SIU-C and move into the starting pitchers' rotation, adding, "It will be great to go undefeated" for the remainder of the season.

Bend, who gave up seven hits, one run, one walk, and struck out five, said he felt good throughout the contest, and he wasn't intimidated by any of the Indians' hitters.

"I got the guys out right away and that built up my confidence," Bend said. He added that this year is a good year of experience for him because veteran pitchers George Goich, Todd Neibel, and Dale Kisten will be absent from the rotation next season.

Head coach Rich "Itchy" Jones was also pleased with Bend's output. "Chris did an excellent job," the Saluki general said. "I thought he was 'Herky Jerky' at times, but he seems to have gotten himself straight. He'll have a good career here."

Although Bend was outstanding, Jones wasn't hesitant to commend other Salukis for their contributions. Steve Finley and Chuck Vershore got three hits each and drew praise, and Jim Limperis was also cited for launching a four-bagger in the fourth inning.

"They've all improved," Jones said. "They're all getting better. It (sometimes) takes 35-to-40 games for the players to gain confidence."

With the game deadlocked at 1-1, catcher Joe Hall banged his second round-tripper in two days when he belted a deep, two-run game-winning blast over the left field fence in the three-run fifth inning to give Bend a little more cushion.

"It was a high pitch," Hall said of the goner. "I don't hit many home runs," he explained, while adding that he is a fast ball hitter. "I think we hit a lot better today than we have been."

The Dawgs tacked an additional three runs to their lead in the sixth inning to provide the final margin.

The Salukis are on the road today to play a make-up game with St. Louis University. In the teams' previous meeting on April 2, the Dawgs humiliated St. Louis 14-3 behind a strong showing from Goich, who earned his first win of the season with that victory.

Softballers sweep SIU-E, return to Gateway

By Wally Foreman
Staff Writer

The women's softball team prepared for its last weekend of conference action by taking a doubleheader from Southern Illinois University Edwardsville Tuesday 6-2, 1-0 and improved its overall record to 21-15.

The Salukis are tied with Eastern Illinois and Wichita State for first place in the Gateway Conference with 9-5 conference records.

Against the Cougars in the second inning of the first game the Salukis scored four runs on four hits and two SIU-E errors.

Patty Barker, Dana Riedel and Susan Wissmiller each knocked an RBI for the Salukis in the second inning.

In the fourth inning Barker reached first base on a walk and moved to second base on a sacrifice bunt. Riedel, who was 3-for-4, then connected for her second RBI double.

Shelly Gibbs ended the scoring for the Salukis in the first game with a home run.

Lisa Peterson went the distance to pick up the win for the Salukis striking out three and walking one.

In the second game Stacy Coan threw a no-hit shutout, but the Salukis still needed an extra inning to win the game 1-0.

"Stacy did a nice job and we played good behind her," coach Kay Brechtelsbauer said. "It was a good team effort."

In the eighth inning the Salukis had consecutive singles by Karen Wilhelm, Jenny Shupryt, Barker and the game winning RBI by Jan Agnich.

Wilhelm went 2-for-2 and Agnich was 2-for-3 in the second game for the Salukis.

The Salukis have two conference doubleheaders left to play and if they sweep both teams on the road the worst they can do is tie for first place with Eastern Illinois to end the regular season.

"This is for all the marbles and sweeping will be extremely hard," Brechtelsbauer said.

On Friday the Salukis will be in Springfield, Mo. to play Southwest Missouri

State, which is 22-17 overall and 8-6 in the conference.

The Bears have the best team batting average at .271 in the conference and Brechtelsbauer said they also have pretty strong pitching.

Saturday afternoon the Salukis will play Wichita State in Wichita, Kas.

The Shockers are 18-25 overall and Brechtelsbauer said they are the surprise team in the conference this year.

"We will have our hands full," Brechtelsbauer said.

The Saluki coach said the Shockers have power hitters and weak pitching and are probably winning because of their defense.

Net women seek top serves in Gateway tourney

By Wally Foreman
Staff Writer

The Gateway Conference women's tennis championship begins today in Cedar Falls, Iowa and Saluki coach Judy Auld hopes her team will rise atop the 10 conference teams.

"The players are optimistic and so am I," Auld said. Western Illinois is undefeated and seeded No. 1 but Auld believes the Westwinds are beatable.

Of course Auld does not want to face Western Illinois early in the tournament and for that to happen they will need to be seeded either No. 3 or No. 6.

The seeding will be decided Wednesday evening by all of the conference coaches.

"There is a possibility for anything to happen," Auld said. "I'm sure there will be some major upsets."

According to conference statistics Beth Boardman, No. 3 singles, has the best record at that spot with a 23-3 mark.

Boardman is also one of the few Salukis who haven't been injured this spring season.

Ellen Moellering, No. 1 singles, has a strained muscle in her right arm but Auld expects her to be over the injury by today. Moellering is ranked fourth in the No. 1 singles group with a 13-10 record.

Boardman and Moellering, No. 1 doubles, have played well together and are ranked second in the conference with a 17-5 record.

Dana Cherebetiu, No. 2 singles, has been playing with shin splints and Auld said she shouldn't have trouble unless she has to play a lot of matches back-to-back.

Cherebetiu has the fourth best personal record at the No. 2 singles spot with a record of 13-10.

Auld said Sue Steuby, No. 4

singles, is not as strong because of earlier problems this season but is not expected to have difficulty competing. Steuby has a 9-10 singles record that ranks fourth in the conference.

Maria Coch, No. 5 singles, has been one of the few healthy players for Auld and is ranked third in the conference with a 13-10 record.

Auld said Julie Burgess, No. 6 singles, will probably not make the trip because she has had trouble raising her arms above her shoulders.

This would mean that Sherri Knight will play at the No. 6 singles position. Knight suffered heat exhaustion last fall season and could suffer a similar reaction if weather conditions are very hot. Knight has a 4-9 record in singles action this spring.

Steuby and Coch, No. 3 doubles, have a 6-7 record for the spring.

The No. 2 doubles team will probably be Cherebetiu and Knight. Auld said that Cherebetiu and Knight have played well together despite a 0-4 record. "Three of those losses went three sets," Auld noted.

'Ride the Wave' fest will be better than ever

By Catherine Simpson
Staff Writer

If this year's Springfest schedule is any indication, the festival will be better than ever.

The weekend starts with a teaser in the Free Forum Area on Thursday with the band "The Cruise Chiefs" and WDBB. Balloons, flyers and prizes will be given away.

Springfest events begin at 8 a.m. Saturday with the Robert Spackman Memorial Triathlon, which includes a quarter-mile swim, a 5-mile bicycle race and a 2-mile run.

The Arena Yard Sale, sponsored by the Civil Service Education Assistance Fund, will be open from 8 a.m. to 2 p.m. to raise money for scholarships.

The highlight of Springfest, the Great Cardboard Boat Regatta, will be held from noon to 5 p.m. at the Campus Lake boat docks.

There will be a football tailgate from 11 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. to kick off the spring football game with the Salukis playing an inner-squad game. Admission is free.

The festival in the Free Forum Area begins at noon and ends at 8 p.m. This year's Springfest, titled "Ride the Wave," will include three stages, carnival rides, pony rides, a petting zoo with exotic animals and a craft sale in the Old Main Mall area. Registered Student Organizations will sponsor booths with carnival games and prizes.

"Beachcombers Inn," and alternative bar, will offer juices and sodas.

Topping off Springfest will be a concert by Neil Diamond at 8 p.m. Saturday in the Arena. Tickets are available for the show.

Offered at the SPC Video Lounge at 7 and 9 p.m. Thursday through Saturday will be "St. Elmo's Fire." "Urgh, a Music War" will feature Song of Four, Wall of Voodoo, XTC, Echo and the Bunnymen, UB40 and others at 11 p.m. Saturday.

Boat Regatta's popularity grows as commercials, media show event

By Tracy Bartoni
Staff Writer

If the commercial for Mountain Dew looks familiar to you, it could be because SIU-C's most famous boat race is now a national craze.

The 14th annual Great Cardboard Boat Regatta is being depicted in the commercial, which shows people building their cardboard boats while guzzling Mountain Dew, says Richard Archer, professor in the Design Department and instigator of the mania that hits campus each spring.

The Regatta also was featured on Cable News Network's prime-time newscast and Science and Technology

New rules for Springfest prohibit beer sponsorship, vending booths able to present their meal tickets to receive one meal.

Springfest regulars will find a few changes in this year's "Ride the Wave" festival.

One change is that beer sponsorship will no longer be accepted, said Michael Kelley, events chairman for the Student Programming Council. Miller Beer has been a regular sponsor of Springfest in the past.

The change was made "to promote alcohol awareness," Kelley said. Kegs and bottled beer will no longer be permitted on the Old Main Mall.

Beverages will be available at the Beachcomber's Inn, an alternative bar that will feature fruit juices.

A Hawaiian luau will offer Hawaiian cuisine throughout the day. Students who live in the residence halls will be

The booths at Springfest also are subject to some new rules, Kelley said. To "get away from vendor booths," he said, there will be no outright selling of items — the booths will be carnival booths in which one must play a game to win a prize.

A petting zoo and airplane-type rides will be offered for children, and carnival rides, including the "Swinger" and "Heartflip," will be open to everyone.

The student entertainment stage, featuring lip synch performers, a hawaiian shorts contest among others, will be located near the parking garage.

Three headlining bands scheduled to play Saturday on Shryock steps

By Mary Caudle
Entertainment Writer

Catching the sound waves of the three headlining bands at the Springfest celebration Saturday promises to be something you won't want to miss.

SPC Consorts is sponsoring the bands, which will appear on the main stage on the steps of Shryock Auditorium throughout the day.

The headline act of the day, The Royal Court of China, will perform from 6 to 8 p.m.

The Royal Court of China hail from Nashville, Tenn., and have met considerable success since forming several years ago. Recently spotted at one of their performances by a representative from A & M Records, they have since been offered a recording contract.

Vocalist Joe Blanton, guitarist Oscar Rice, bassist Robert Logue and drummer Chris Mekow create a sound that draws its influences from all types of music, mixing folk, rhythm and blues and rock 'n' roll.

While the members of The Royal Court of China are serious about pursuing their ambitions, they say they have no "star" egos and still consider themselves four guys doing what they enjoy — making music.

The Tony Brown Band, from Madison, Wis., will perform from 1 to

THE TRADITION GOES ON!

Diamond to put sparkle in Springfest at Arena

By Ellen Cook
Entertainment Editor

There are few people from the 20th century who can fit the description of a "renaissance man," but Neil Diamond comes close.

Diamond, who will perform at 8 p.m. Saturday in the STU Arena, is best known for his music, but he also has had a successful career on Broadway, in television and in film.

Diamond's interest in music began at age 14 when he received a second-hand guitar as a birthday present. Through practice and dedication, Diamond developed the songwriting and performing skills that soon would provide him with a career. Although he majored in pre-med while attending New York University on a fencing scholarship, Diamond left college six months before he would have graduated to take a $50-per-week songwriting position with a publishing company.

Diamond supplemented his income by performing his material in Greenwich Village coffee houses. At one such performance, he was approached by record producers Jeff Barry and Ellie Greenwich. Diamond signed with their label, Bang Records, and his first session yielded three hit songs: "Solitary Man," "Cherry, Cherry" and "I Got the Feeling."

Diamond left Bang in 1965 to sign with the Uni label. Under the new label, he recorded eight albums that sold more than 500,000 copies, which registered them "gold." The Uni sessions produced some of Diamond's biggest hits, including "Song Sung Blue," "Brooklyn Roads," "Holly Holy" and "Cracklin' Rose."

Diamond's rising popularity led to a stint on Broadway in 1972, and the following year he signed with Columbia Records. His first release was a musical-narrative soundtrack for the film "Jonathan Livingston Seagull." Later releases included the semi-autobiographical album "Beautiful Noise," "September Morn," "Heartlight" and "You Don't Bring Me Flowers," which featured a chart-topping duet with Barbra Streisand.

Diamond expanded his musical career by performing in television specials in 1976 and 1977. He co-starred with Laurence Olivier and Lucie Arnaz in the 1980 big screen remake of "The Jazz Singer." Although Diamond's primary role in the production was as a dramatic actor, he also composed and performed the film's soundtrack, which produced three top 10 singles: "Love on the Rocks," "America," and "Hello Again."

Last year, Diamond returned to television in his variety special, "Neil Diamond, 'Hello Again,'" in which he co-starred with Stevie Wonder and Carol Burnett. Diamond and Wonder also worked together on Diamond's new album, "Primitive," which also features collaborations with David Foster, Maurice White, Burt Bachrach and Carole Bayer-Sager.

The new Diamond-Bachrach-Bayer-Sager compositions "Turn Around" and "My Time With You" may be among those that Diamond will perform at the Arena show. Tickets are still available for the performance at $17.50 and $15.

Scrimmage marks final football fling

By Steve Merritt
Staff Writer

While most students will be putting thoughts of classrooms and final exams behind for Springfest weekend, members of the Saluki football team will be gearing up for their final exam on the field.

Being the final scrimmage of the spring season, the annual Maroon and White football game, scheduled for 1:30 Saturday afternoon, is the last chance for the Saluki football team to impress coach Ray Dorr and staff.

"It's the last chance we'll have as a coaching staff to evaluate the players," Dorr said. "And it's the closest thing we have to a real game — it's the only real chance we'll have to see the players react in a game situation."

Dorr cited several other factors why he deemed the scrimmage an important one.

"Right now, we have 20 to 30 players who we feel can really help this team out — we have a lot of players we feel very good about," Dorr said. "We feel they can develop into starters or regulars as backups, but they just aren't quite there yet. The final scrimmage is very important for those players."

Dorr said the coaching staff will evaluate all players after the scrimmage, but evaluations and a "plan of action" for the summer were especially important to the 20 to 30 players the staff has pegged as possible key contributors.

"Then they can work hard over the summer and come back with an improved pace," Dorr said.

It's also the only time during spring in which the players will be receiving calls from the sidelines, as in a real game situation.

"Communications are a vital part of the game, and if we have any problems in that aspect of the game, they'll hopefully surface today," Dorr said.

Dorr said that since scores will be kept, pride will be a key incentive to perform well.

"Since it will be a game situation, we like to gauge how much the players want to win, how much pride and determination they show," Dorr said. "Some guys play a little better in this type of practice — some play a lot better."

Dorr said the scrimmage also is a chance for Saluki fans to get into fall form by turning out to practice cheering the Salukis on.

"We'd like to see as big a crowd as possible," Dorr said. "The good turnout at the Pickneyville scrimmage (two weeks ago) meant a lot to the players and it'd make the scrimmage Saturday a lot more fun."

Spackman Triathlon to test participants' vigor

By M.J. Starshak
Staff Writer

It's time to get the swim suits, running shoes and riding pants out because the fourth annual Robert "Doc" Spackman Memorial Triathlon will be off and running Saturday.

The race, which consists of a quarter-mile swim in Campus Lake, a 5-mile bicycle race and a 2-mile run, was named for Spackman, an SIUC athletic trainer for 27 years, who died in January 1984.

The Office of Intramural Sports and Touch of Nature are co-sponsoring the event, which begins at 8 a.m. with the swimming portion of the contest at the Campus Boat Docks.

Kathy Hallister, assistant coordinator of intramural recreation, said people who are interested in competing can sign up until 4 p.m. Friday. The entry fee is $6. People may register as late as race time, but the cost will be

Swim caps will be provided, but triathletes may want to bring a change of clothing for the different events, Hollister said.

The triathlon, which was first held at Touch of Nature in September 1983, is open to the first 300 entrants at least 18 years old. Hollister said about 140 people already registered.

Prizes will be awarded to the top three finishers in each of six age categories: 18-21, 22-25, 26-35, 36-44, 45-54, and 55 and older.

"Right now we have a lot of people in their 30s," Hollister said.

Last year's winner was Ben Widoff, who finished the contest in 33 minutes, 34 seconds. But the best time was made in 1985 by Dave Peterson, who finished the race in 31 minutes, 53 seconds.

The best time for a female athlete in the triathlon is 35 minutes, 7 seconds, held by Sandy Schreider.

The players will be divided into two teams—a maroon team and a white team—for the scrimmage Saturday.

500 disabled athletes to compete in Special Olympics at Springfest

By Laura Milbrath
Staff Writer

Nearly 500 developmentally disabled athletes from Southern Illinois are expected to compete in the Special Olympics this year at Springfest.

Sara Norris, Southern Illinois Special Olympics coordinator, said there will be a variety of events throughout the day in which athletes will compete for medals and ribbons. The competitions will begin at 10 a.m. in McAndrew Stadium following an opening ceremony and parade at 9:30 a.m. The olympics will last until 2:30 p.m.

Track and field events will include a 10-yard dash, a 50-yard dash, a 200-yard dash and a 200-yard dash.

There will be a 25-yard wheelchair race and a wheelchair softball throw, a regular softball throw for those not in wheelchairs and a 10-meter assisted walk for those athletes using canes or walkers, Norris said.

Medals will be awarded for first through third place finishers, and each athlete will receive a ribbon for competing, Norris said.

Characters such as Woodsy the Owl and Ronald McDonald will make appearances in the stadium during the day and a carnival will be held on the field.

Many volunteers from the community have offered to give demonstrations for the athletes, Norris said. Tips on juggling and throwing a frisbee are two of demonstrations planned.

But the main activity will be the athletic competitions for which the participants have been training with dedication and excitement, Norris said. She explained that the winners of first-place medals will be able to advance to the state competition in Bloomington-Normal.

The athletes participating in the Special Olympics will represent various agencies in Southern Illinois. Some of the agencies include Anna Junior High School, Anna Mental Health and Development Center, Jackson Community Workshop and the Holly Hill Nursing Home.

The competition is being sponsored by the Carbondale Park District, the SIU-C Recreation and Athletic Departments and the Recreation Center. The national sponsor is the Joseph P. Kennedy Jr. Foundation.

Norris said the highlight of the Special Olympics is the opportunity for participants to be in an environment with their peers in which they all have an equal chance to enjoy the competitions.

Making cardboard craft takes student 40 hours

By William Brady
Staff Writer

Ed Pogue has invested about 40 hours of thought and labor to build what he hopes will be a seaworthy and speedy craft for Saturday's Cardboard Boat Regatta at Campus Lake.

Pogue's one-man boat, made from 190 square feet of cardboard, resembles an enlarged kayak. Holding it together is wood glue, duck tape and silicone rubber.

It'll be powered by a two-speed paddle wheel rotated by pedaling the bicycle sprockets attached to it.

Putting the boat together was a trial and error experience, said Pogue, a graduate student in art. But, he said, the creative learning process involved in building a cardboard boat was one of the reasons he wanted to enter this year's race.

He was especially meticulous in designing his boat, and for good reason: "I only lasted for three seconds after starting time last year," he said. "I want to do better this year."

Pogue is one of some 200 individuals and teams registered to enter this year's race. Boats will be entered in one of three classes.

Class I will be for boats powered by oars or paddles; Class II will be for boats with all other forms of muscle-powered devices; and Class III will be for boats that are built at the event.

The course is u-shaped and 200 yards long. There will be four or five boats competing in each heat.

Winners of each class will be awarded trophies for their efforts. Trophies also will be given to the person whose boat shows the most creativity, the team with the most spirit and the person whose boat sinks the most spectacularly.

Weekly last year and was covered by 1,250 newspapers across the country," he said.

The Regatta, which had more than 15,000 spectators and 200 entries last year, is unique because it involves trying to do the impossible, Archer said.

"Everybody knows you can't build a boat out of cardboard and make it float." He said the impossibility factor takes the competitive edge away from the event and allows more room for creativity and fun. It takes away the fear of failure, he said.

"It makes kids feel like somebody" when they get their boats to float, he said.

He said forcing students to try it shows them they can do things they thought they couldn't.

Archer said the most unusual boat he has seen was last year's winner of the Titanic award. It was a big cardboard wheel that resembled a gerbil cage. The designers, Laura Davis and Brian W. Cobin, propelled their creation by running inside it. Their craft careened over another boat in the race before it met its fate of coming unglued and sinking into Campus Lake.

Archer said an exciting aspect of this year's Regatta is that several Carbondale businesses have donated $50 each toward a $1,200 scholarship fund for a Carbondale High School student.

Cardboard boat races attract 200 designers

By Catherine Simpson
Staff Writer

The Great Cardboard Boat Regatta is just around the corner and organizer Richard Archer has received more than 200 entries, several more than the 40 entries the regatta attracted during its maiden voyage in 1974.

More than 20 Illinois high schools, from as far north as Champaign County, will enter the race this year. Archer attributes the high school participation to presentations about the educational benefits of building a cardboard boat. Science, physics and art clubs from high schools have entered, Archer said.

"The whole reason for the event is to get students to think creatively," said Archer, product design instructor for the School of Art.

After the first heat will be the High School Grudge Race, in which the fastest boats from each high school will compete. The winning high school will receive a $1,200 scholarship from WTAO, Pepsi and local businesses.

People of all ages are entering the regatta this year, Archer said. The Buckeneers club of West Frankfort, SIU-C students and people from surrounding towns have entered, Archer said.

Archer said he has received telephone calls from people as far away as Texas who want to enter the race.

ESPN and the three major networks have contacted Archer about the regatta, he said.

2:30 p.m.
Brown, who hails from Madison, Wis., not Jamaica, is an established reggae artist with several albums to his credit.

Said by one reviewer to have "the best dreadlocks this side of Kingston," Brown has a unique sound based around reggae, but also including influences from rhythm and blues, Delta country blues, jazz and folk rock.

Melvin Taylor & the Slack Band, from Chicago, will perform from 3:30 to 5 p.m.

Taylor was born in Mississippi but moved to Chicago at an early age, where he grew up listening to jazz, rock and pop, as well as the Delta blues. His uncle taught him to play the guitar at the age of six.

Now having played for 21 years, Taylor is known for a "fluid yet biting" playing style that mixes blues and non-blues techniques. Backed up by the Slack Band, made up of bassist Willie Love and drummer Curtis Layburn, Brown performs original blues and jazz songs as well as his own renditions of a diverse mix of pop hits, including "Peter Gunn," "Lovestruck Baby" and "Black Magic Woman."

Stage to offer students a chance at spotlight

Although professional acts from around the Midwest will perform on the steps of Shryock Auditorium Saturday, SIU students and their guests will have a chance to stand in the spotlight — or sunlight — of the student stage near the parking ramp.

Two local bands are scheduled between 1 and 5 p.m. But some in the crowd may choose to entertain the crowd by performing in the rap or lip sync competitions.

Those who wish to hit the stage, but lack the "talent" to do so, can enter the best tan, best surfer clothes or best Hawaiian shorts contests.

Saturday's events will conclude with a dance party, sponsored by WIDB. Disc jockeys will spin records from 5 to 8 p.m.
