Downstate lawmakers back surcharge stretch

Published reports say a group of downstate lawmakers has asked legislative leaders to tack another installment onto the state's temporary income tax surcharge, rather than grant Gov. Jim Edgar's request to make the increase

The Chicago Tribune reported in Monday's editions that 24 state representatives have wrote to House Speaker Michael Madigan to tell him they will only support a two-year extension of the 20percent surcharge, which expires

Edgar has based his fiscal 1991 budget on the premise that the surcharge will be extended. He has asked lawmakers to make the increase permanent, saying the state cannot afford to lose the $700 million in revenue it gains from the tax each year.

But the leader of the downstate group, Rep. Dick Mautino, D-Spring Valley, said the lawmakers fear attempts may be made to make the increase larger to ease the state's growing pile of unpaid bills.

The group also disagrees with for the surcharge, which would give more money to education. The distribution formula first approved in 1989 split the revenue equally between schools and local governments.

The announcement is a serious blow to Edgar's plans because the surcharge was passed almost exclusively with Democratic support. It also would make it harder for Edgar to keep a campaign promise to only sign a tax increase that passed with a majority in the General Assembly

SIUC to offer correspondence courses Gus Bode

Alternative program enables students to study at home

By Amy Cooper Staff Writer

Students taking some summer courses at SIUC do not have to trudge to campus to get those needed credit hours.

Susan A. Gregg, instructional developer at the Division of Continuing Education, said 33 individualized learning courses will be available this summer.

These are courses that are offcampus equivalents to on-campus courses," Gregg said.

The classes originally were intended for off-campus students or non-traditional students who could not make it to the University, Gregg said.

She said most people take the courses for self-improvement. Some just want to take a few classes to determine if they want to go back to school to earn a degree.

Other students take the courses because they need the extra credits to graduate and they already have gotten jobs, she said.

Gregg said some students don't perform well in lecture environments and the correspondence courses allow them when to learn outside of the classroom.

"You have to be self-motivated," she said. "You can't be a procrastinator and do this."

Several general education courses are offered through the

Major earthquake hits Soviet Georgia; 30 dead Moderate 4.1 aftershock rocks Costa Rica,

MOSCOW (UPI) earthquake struck the Soviet republic of Georgia Monday, burying schools, homes and a hospital and killing about 30 people, Soviet news media reported.

The quake also shook the neighboring Soviet republic of Armenia, which was devastated in December 1988 by a similar temblor, but no deaths were reported outside Georgia on the Black Sea, the reports said.

"In Dzhava, a kindergarten, a secondary school, a hospital, a printing shop, administrative buildings and over 30 dwellings have been buried," Interfax said.

The temblor also was felt strongly over a 300-mile path from Grozny in the Russian republic to the north to Yerevan in Armenia to South Ossetia in Georgia, where the earthquake struck hardest, has been the scene of major ethnic strife. Georgian nationalist leaders have ended the South Ossetian autonomous status, leading to blockades and firefights that have killed at least 40 people this year.

A spokesman for the Soviet Center for Seismic Information in Moscow had earlier said the earthquake was centered near the town of Kutaisi, about 100 miles northwest of Tbilisi and about the same distance northwest of the Turkish border.

Salukis drop two against Missouri

The Salukis dropped two heartbreakers to the Missouri Tigers Monday at Abe Martin

The Tigers swept the doubleheader 4-3 and 8-5.

In the first game, the Tigers jumped out to an early 3-0 lead. Missouri center fielder Joe Winkler walked and was singled to second by second baseman Bill Mondrella

Both Winkler and Mondrella scored on a double by Tiger first baseman Mark Adair. Adair later scored on a double by shortstop

The Salukis tied the game in the

The lead didn't last long for the Salukis.

The Tigers' designated hitter Jake Filip walked and left fielder Grant Ingram singled him to third. Filip then scored on a fielder's Saluki head coach Sam Riggleman said the loss was tough for his team to swallow.

"It's very disappointing because we put ourselves in a position to win," Riggleman said. "We just didn't get the job done."

In game two of the twinbill Riggleman started freshman right-hander Bob Richardson.

Richardson had not appeared yet for the Dawgs and Sunday ran the time clock from the press booth.

Richardson gave up three runs in the first two innings.

Richardson's counterpart for Missouri, Carl "Bunky" Moeller, allowed the Salukis two runs in the bottom of the first. Junior shortstop Kurt Endebrock singled and wen to second on an error. Senior right fielder Jeff Nelson then launched a two-run shot over the center field wall to tie the game.

Richardson settled down in the third and allowed only one hit in the next four innings.

Men's golf takes fifth in tournament

By Cyndi Oberle

The SIUC men's golf team continues to beat opponents on the green, placing fifth in the Drake Relays Golf Classic April 25 and 26.

The tournament was held on two different golf courses, the Des Moines Country Club and the Hyperion Country Club.
The first 36 holes were shot on the Des Moines course while the remaining 18 were played at Hyperion.

SIUC coach Lew Hartzog said his team did well considering it had never played on either golf course before.

"We didn't get to play a practice round either," Hartzog said, "and those factors made it hard on the players. We didn't play well on the first 13 holes shooting a 318, but we came back in the next two rounds with a 301 and 307.

Iowa State won the tournament with a 902, followed by Southwest Missouri State (911), Northern Iowa (924), Drake University (925) and SIUC (926).

Junior Sean English lead the Salukis and tied for second individually with Rolly Hurst of Southwest Missouri. Their score

The tournament medalist was Pat McCormick from Iowa State with a score of 216.

"Sean played fantastically," Hartzog said. "He had a hole-in-one in the second round to give him a score of 73."

Junior Sean Leckrone followed English in the Dawgs' lineup.

Leckrone placed seventh with a score of 229. Senior Mark Bellas was next with a 231, followed by senior Britt Pavelonis (246) and freshman Sam Scheibal (252).

"Scheibal and Pavelonis played a few weak rounds," Hartzog said. "I don't know what happened, but if they would have shot a lower score, we would have been right up there at the top of the pack."

The team will not play again until the Missouri Valley Conference Tournament May 9 and

Hartzog said Leckrone, Bellas, Pavelonis and English have already qualified and will play in the MVC tourney, but the other spot is still open and will determined be between Scheibal

Club foursor of Joe DeLoach, Leroy Bu ell, Carl Lewis and Floyd I ard ran the 4 x 200meter relay in 1 minute, 19. 45 seconds as the meet concluded

That was the second-fastest time ever, just seven-hundredths of a second off the world mark set by Santa Monica in 1989, and it smashed the old Penn Relays record of 1:20.20 set by Texas Christian in 1986.

The Santa Monica unit of Mike Marsh, Burrell, Lewis and Mark Witherspoon came close at the Mt. SAC Relays in Walnut, Calif., one week ago, posting a time of 38.33 seconds, the best in the world this

But their second attempt at the record fell apart Saturday when Witherspoon, running the anchor leg, dropped the baton on a pass

"He put his hand back and I might not have put it in his hand solidly or he might have grabbed it too quickly," Lewis said. The crowd of more than 41,000 groaned as the baton fell to the 'When we dropped the baton, the crowd was very disappointed," Burrell said. "In the 4 x 200, we didn't want to disappoint the crowd

No, that was left to Ismail, the $26 million man who signed a contract last weekend with the Toronto Argonauts of the Canadian Football League.

With his presence helping to attract television coverage of the track meet for the first time in years, Ismail ran out of gas and finished last in a men's collegiate invitational 100-meter dash

Ismail, who ran the 100 for the first time earlier this month and set a Notre Dame record with a time of 10.34 seconds, was clocked at 10.61 seconds and admitted he was out of shape.

"The way things have gone for me in the last 2 1/2 weeks, I have not had the opportunity to work out," he said. "But I made a commitment to come here and run and I love the atmosphere and I wanted to be part of it.

"I felt I was not at my best but I didn't want to disappoint the fans (by not running)."

Bruguera beats Becker in Monte Carlo final

MONTE CARLO, Monaco (UPI) - Sergi Bruguera of Spain survived a pair of tiebreakers to overcome Germany's Boris Becker in four sets Monday when the two men resumed the Monte Carlo Open final which was interrupted a day because of rain.

The 20-year-old Spaniard, trailing 6-5 in the opening set when play resumed, emerged with a 5-7, 6-4, 7-6 (8-6), 7-6 (7victory.

The two players struggled for 3-1/2 hours under a dazz'ing sun after playing 45 minutes

Becker, who lost the 1989 final to Argentina's Alberto Mancini, has made tremendous progress on clay but still was unable to produce his first-ever clay court victory.

Becker, ranked No. 2 in the world, led 5-2 in the fourth set but allowed Bruguera to force a second tie-breaker.

Bruguera led 4-2, Becker drew even at 4-4, and Bruguera reached match point at 6-4 after disputed line call and he ained his first big gained his first bi tournament title when Becker backhand service return drifted

Blues Meanies play final set as Carbondale band

Popular local group plans to take sound to Chicago scene, find recording label

By Jefferson Robbins Staff Writer

The bass bumped. The guitar whined. The keyboards burned. And the Blue Meanies played their last show as a Carbondale band.

The gig at Gatsby's Saturday night with two other local favorites, Hoopla and Nightsoil Coolies, was billed as "T'e Tarewell Bash" — Hoopla ar Coolies have split up, and the anies will leap to the Chicago music scene in May.

The move is a result of the Meanies' desire to expand their

The band has been contacted by a number of independent record labels interested in recording them, and Chicago is the most logical choice for a larger market, band members said

Despite their funk-influenced, danceable sound and wild stage antics, the Meanies avoid the label "party band."

"The word 'party' to me just means get drunk and let it all out," said Bill Solleder, the Meanies' vocalist. "But the shows are fairly energetic. The ones where the crowd gets into it are the best."

Bass player Jay Vance agreed.
"You see heads bobbing up and down in the audience," said Vance, "and you say, 'Wow, they're doing that for us."

Audiences have been bobbing to songs such as "Don't Doubt the Cow" and "Harry the Capacity" since the Meanies' debut show at a College Street basement party, where Vance, Solleder and drummer Kendall Vance played in a lineup slightly different from

During a local battle of the bands competition, the Meanies' membership shifted to include guitarist Jim Cooley and keyboardist Seth Jenser voted them the best local band of 1990, and the waves they were making in the club scene began to grow bigger.

The Meanies often "fleshed out" their club sound with horns, usually played by peripheral members Harry Crisp and Brian

With the start of their Chicago career, the Meanies will replace drummer Kendall Vance with Tony Aimone, percussionist for Nightsoil Coolies.

Vance, an SIUC student, said he wants to finish his college degree

Cooley credited the defunct 611 Pizza and the battle of the bands with the Meanies' recognition.

"We played two battles," Cooley said. "They're just fun to play, and better to win. I was lucky to walk into that situation and be in an up and coming new band."

"It was incredible fun, but it was a lot of work," Jay Vance said. "You play so many battles, and you on't get paid."

Solleder said the Meanies' notoriety got out of hand for him at

"For a while, I almost didn't want to go out on campus," Solleder said. "It seemed like my name wasn't Bill, it was 'Bill Blue Meanies.

Band members said local groups such as 3 Man and Action Man can fill the vacuum left after the disintegration of Hoopla and the Coolies

But they said the scene today, with the closing of 611, is different from when they started out.

"There's just not as many outlets as there were before," Vance said. The group also offered free advice to Carbondale bands.

"Once you get all your stuff done, get into a cheap studio," Solleder said. "There's a lot of smaller studios around that are good. In Chicago it's probably going to cost us $75 an hour to record, whereas here it costs $25."

"If you're ever in a band that's doing well, just have bands open for you who are just starting out," Vance said. "What goes around comes around."

"Love your audience," Cooley advised.

And with the guitars unplugged and the drum kit packed away, the Meanies said a final farewell to the town of their birth.

Elections for trustee need better planning

SIUC STUDENTS AGAIN came close to having to vote twice for its student trustee

Bill Hall won the April 18 student trustee election by 43 votes. Unfortunately, 35 ballots had to be created during the day because polling places at Lentz, Kesnar and Trueblood halls temporarily ran out of ballots. Some polling places were attended by just one person at times, so this person could not leave to get more ballots when needed.

For these reasons, the two other candidates on the ticket, Richard Fasano and Darnell Wheeler, sought a new election

An ad hoc review board rejected the appeal claiming that the makeshift ballots were legal and that there was no evidence of voters being turned away from any polling

OF COURSE MISTAKES CAN happen, especially during the chaos of an election day. But the same mistakes happened in the election last year.

In spring 1990, the election also was appealed because at least three polling places ran out of ballots. Also, students may not have been able to vote when election procedures were not followed properly, such as asking students to return when ballots were available.

So a new election was held, which wound up with the same results as the first election. The second time, however, only 40 percent of the original voting number came out.

With the possibility of having to vote twice for the second year in a row (and for essentially the same reasons), students easily could lose interest in the entire election.

The problem, then, lies in organizing and planning the voting procedures better. Even though they are limited only to campus, the elections deserve the same kind of planning that city and state elections receive.

THE EASIEST SOLUTION LIES in ensuring enough ballots are made. About 10 percent of the student body typically votes in elections, so enough ballots should be made to cover, for instance, up to 15 percent of the students.

The election commission could try numbering ballots so that the exact number of ballots are available. These then could be divided easily among the polling places (i.e. the first 1,500 ballots could go to the Student Center and so on)

By numbering each ballot, the commission also can tell if a large sequence of ballots may be suspicious. For instance, if one candidate receives nearly all the votes on ballots 200 to 500, the commission can note potential problems in voting

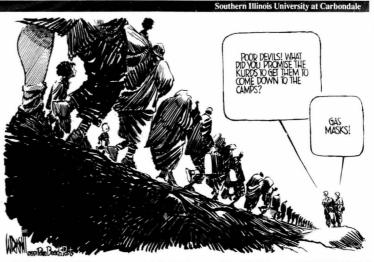

Also, a minimum of two people should be required to work each polling place at all times. If a lax attitude is taken toward manning the polls, such as one person leaving during "down times," emergencies cannot be handled

THE ELECTION COULD BE HELD a few weeks earlier in the semester. On the off-chance that a re-election is necessary, more time would be allotted for appeals and investigations of the election.

By doing this, a re-election would not have to be held so close to finals week when students are concerned about other pressing matters.

Student apathy already runs rampant on campus. With faulty election processes, students may care even less and less if they cannot trust their results will count the first

By not ordering a re-election this year, the ad hoc committee may have inadvertently prevented a stronger bout of student apathy in the next election.

ELECTRICALLY speaking, generating directly alternating must be rectified. It is a process that will occur and a wave must be unified.

On the surface, it is simple. Just switch is thrown and the floodgates are opened, here comes the unknown.

University police patrol failing to provide adequate safety

I WOULD LIKE to express my dictaste at the low level of protection that the SIUC police seem to give the cars that park in lot 106.

First, my radar detector was taken in late February. Next, of all things, my rear license plate was stolen.

IN ADDITION, my CB antenna was literally ripped off my car, leaving only the cable dangling in the wind.

I realize the police try to perform their jobs in a responsible manner, but I always seem to each them.

always seem to catch them when they aren't doing

FOR EXAMPLE, I stayed in lot 106 late one night. From 11:30 p.m. to 1:15 a.m.

I didn't see one patrol car. When one finally did come in, it drove half way through the

TWO OTHER PATROL cars soon followed and rather then patrol the entire lot, they went opposite directions around an isle, parked next to each other and talked for 10 minutes. After this, they both left the lot directly. I spend my tuition at SIUC mainly for my classes, but I also would like to get the police protection that each of us pays for each semester.

OBVIOUSLY, someone is not doing their job or many of the acts of vandalism would have been prevented.

I hope that in the future, other students won't have to become victims of the police force failing to perform their

Americans have obligation to oppose J.S. governmental support of Israel

Ms. Feuer's response to my previous letter indicates a very distorted view of the Palestinian Israeli conflict.

First, although "Israel is a nation separate from the United States," without our government's financial and political support, Israel would not be able to act with such indifference to international law.

Not only does $3 billion of our annual taxes fund Israeli weapons that are used to shoot Palestinian civilians, but our government vetoes every U.N. resolution condemning Israei's brutality against the Palestinian people.

Therefore, it is our duty, as Americans and as conscientious human beings, to oppose our government's support for Israel.

Ms. Feuer went on to claim that "the Palestinians defenseless as the victims of the Holocaust were.

That is an incorrect statement: the Palestinians living under Israeli occupation are armed with only stones and knives, whereas Israel's military machine is one of the world's most powerful.

The Palestinians try to resist the Israeli military rule of their homeland, and children usually throw stones as Israeli ary jeeps entering their villages.

Israel's policy has been to shoot, beat, arrest, and torture the children, and bulldoze their families' homes, as well as other forms of individual and collective punishment. In the last three years alone, over 1,200 unarmed Palestinian civilian demonstrators have been killed by the Israeli army.

Finally, the intent of my previous letter was to expose what I saw as a hypocrisy.

If the Jewish people are asking for education and awareness of the Holocaust so such a senseless slaughter never happens again, why don't they look at Israel—"the Jewish state"— where a senseless slaughter of Palestinian civilians has occurred almost every day for the last three years?—Rachel Ratliff, graduate, political science.

Stone said although he has never filled an administrative position at the dean level, he feels his experience with administration and in the colleges' departments makes him a strong candidate for the position.

"Other than a slight difference of scope, I'm doing basically the same thing at Memphis as the Carbondale program," he said.

Stone said his journalism background has exposed him to a wide range of liberal arts programs,

Before turning to teaching Stone served as an Associated Press bureau correspondent and photographer at the Louisiana leglislative bureau from 1965 to legislative oureal from 1905 to 1966, a managing editor for Louisiana Municipal Review, a monthly magazine, and the Iberville South, a weekly newspaper, from 1967 to 1968.

Stone received bachelor's and

After receiving a doctorate in mass communication from Syracuse University in 1975, Stone served as an assistant professor of journalism at California State

Stone was the second of two candidates invited to campus for

The other candidate, Greg Steinke, was on campus April 17-20. Steinke is the assistant director of the School of Music at the University of Arizona in Tucson.

Steinke and Stone were invited for interviews after Michael T. Marsden, associate dean for academic affairs for the College of Arts and Sciences at Bowling Green University, declined the position because of a contract disagreement.

If students live farther away, they must agree to take the test with an

The Swedish Seismological Institute in Upsala and the U.S. Geological Survey in Golden, Colo., said their monitors measured the quake at a preliminary magnitude of 7.2 on the Richter

Tass said a seismological station near Moscow measured the quake at 6.5 on the Richter scale, and the Kandil Observatory in Istanbul also measured it at 6.5. There are often discrepancies in preliminary earthquake readings depending on the locations of monitoring

Any earthquake measuring over

7.0 on the Richter scale is capable of major damage depending on how far it is from population centers, the terrain and the types of buildings in the area. At 7.2, Monday's quake would be several times stronger than the one that times stronger than the one that devastated Armenia's northern cities in December 1988, killing 25,000 people.

In Washington, the American Red Cross said the League of Red Cross and Red Crescent Societies sent an assessment team to Tbilisi, and the Armenian Red Cross sent a similar group to the area.

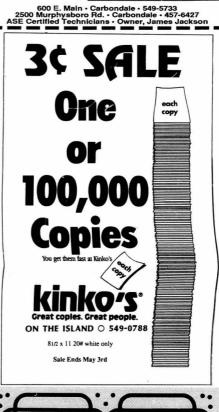

The quake rattled houses in the

SAC recognizes top juniors, seniors

By Natalie Boehme

Four super students who have learned the art of juggling time between classwork, job and campus life were honored Friday by the Student Alumni Council.

This years Super Students were Ann Marie Blaes, a Belleville resident majoring in food and nutrition, Jeffry LaFar Simmons, a civil engineering major from Paducah, Ky., Teresa Cerny, an agriculture major from Cobden, and Jackie Debatin, a public relations major from Alhambra. They won the $200 Super Student Scholarship, which the council awards annually to juniors who have maintained academic excellence and remained active on campus while working their way through college.

Eligibility for the scholarship included a 3.2 grade point average, active involvement in two registered student organizations current employment and 70 credit hours, said Joe Christer, SAC

Super Student chairman.
"The purpose of the scholarship is students honoring students, because there are some really super stu 'ents out there on campus,' Christer said.

Cerny, who just founded the new student RSO Ag Start, said she felt her work with the organization helped her win the scholarship. Ag Start, which received its RSO status three weeks ago, unites agriculture students with alumni in the field.

"It's really an honor because the Super Students Scholarship is a campus-wide award," Cerny said. "That's why I was so surprised."

Although SAC has supported the scholarship since 1985, 1991 was the first year more than one was

Christer said SAC gave out three more Super Student Scholarships this year because extra money was available

The scholarships are funded by contributions from graduating seniors. SAC alumni and a bowl-athon involving Pi Sigma Epsilon business fraternity and SAC, SAC also announced the names of the 25 Most Distinguished SIUC Seniors.

"The 25 Most Distinguished Seniors at SIUC are students who have enriched the University with their active involvement in all facets of campus life, including academics, athletics, residence life and registered student organizations," Christer said.

The seniors honored were given a free first year Alumni Association membership. Christer said this was an effort to continue the relationship between dedicated students and their alma mater.

This was the first year of the Distinguished Senior Awards.

The 1991 Distinguished Seniors included:

BAC coordinator no stranger to leadership; record proves it

By Omonpee O. Whitfield

Although one never can tell what he's going to do next, his peers say thing's for sure— Black airs Council Coordinator onio Washington means Antonio

ALTHOUGH WASHINGTON has only been in office as BAC coordinator for two semesters, the 6-foot-2-inches tall junior in construction technology has been the brains and even the brawn behind many new BAC programs.

The secluded segment of the BAC office on the third floor of the Student Center serves as a "thinktank" for the self-motivating leader, and the place where Washington drafted the plans for programs such as the Black Expo, which was held in February and showcased the talent of African-American SIUC

IT WAS THERE THAT he planned the Leadership Conference in November, which was attended by more than 300 people from across the country.

Washington said the conference was the biggest and brightest feather in his cap.

"The conference was a great accomplishment," Washington said, "because it was the first time that anything of that magnitude had ever been done by BAC. Also, the cost to host the conference was around $30,000, and none of the money came from the University.

WASHINGTON'S LONG hours of planning and preparing for the Leadership Conference paid off and gained him the reputation of and gained nim the reputation of being a hard worker. He also earned the respect of his BAC co-workers, SIUC faculty, staff, administrators and people in the Carbondale community

In his calmer moments,

Washington can be found sitting behind his executive desk peering through his silver-rimmed spectacles, reading literature on upcoming programs or studying information about African-American student groups at other universities.

co-workers Washington's moods of calmness are temporary and few and far

IN FACT, BAC ASSISTANT Coordinator Darnell Wheeler said working with Washington can best be compared to doing aerobics. Wheeler said Washington's tenacity and demand for organization is trying at times.

"He's very well organized," Wheeler said. "You know when you come into the office that there is always something that he wants done and a certain way he wants it It gets to the point where you don't want to come into the office sometimes. But I have learned a lot from him.

EVEN WASHINGTON himself admits that he was so eager to get things done when he took office difficult to work with. He said, however, that he soon realized that if he were too harsh a leader, no one would want to be a follower.

"I HAVE BEEN CALLED a dictator," Washington said, "and there are instances in the past when I realized that perhaps I was wrong. I have become more conscious about listening to people and not offending them and making them not want to participate. If I have no one to lead, I cannot be a leader."

But a leader is exactly what Washington describes himself as. Washington said he is no stranger to leadership and has a track record to prove it.

WASHINGTON SAID his accomplishments include being the first student elected to the Chicago Board of Education in 1986, serving as the programming committee chairman of the Black Togetherness Organization and as a circuit speaker for elementary schools.

Washington said in everything he does he tries to bring with him a sense of order and focus. BAC Graduate Assistant Gajef McNeil said he agreed.

"I think the organization (BAC) has become a little more focused and I think that Washington has attributed a lot to that," McNeil

"I also think they're getting a better handle on the potential of the organization."

MCNEIL'S ASSUMPTION might be correct as Washington said he has initiated programs and services to change the image of BAC from that of merely an affirmative action organization to an academically-centered organization.

"I feel that BAC is not the radical organization for the 'Black Power movement," Washington said. "It is an organization to help the black students graduate.

Costa Rica rocked by aftershock

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica (UPI) A moderate aftershock rocked Costa Rica early Monday, stirring a population that one week earlier rived one of the most powerful quakes ever to strike the the American nation, authorities said.

The aftershock, measuring 4.1 on the Richter scale, struck about 7:50 a.m. and was centered about

60 miles southeast of San Jose Costa Rica's Seismological

Observatory said.
It shared the same epicenter with last Monday's 7.4 quake, which devastated the Atlantic port city of Puerto de Limon and parts of northern Panama.

Seismic activity intensified in the 12 hours that led up to Mon-day's aftershock, specialists said.

The observatory has recorded more than 800 aftershocks measuring more than 3 on the Richter scale since the powerful temblor, which left at least 88 dead, more than 1,000 injured and 70,000 homeless in the two countries.

International relief efforts have helped return life to normal after the quake, bringing food and medical attention to communities that had been isolated by downed bridges and damaged roads, authorities said.

But the banana industry — a key export earner in both countries — remains virtually paralyzed in hard-hit areas. Costa Rican banana exporters say they are losing about $2 million a day because of damage to the port.

Growth in eastern Germany bleak for future—economists

BONN, Germany (UPI) — Leading economists Monday forecast bleak prospects for growth iniciast oleak prospects for growth in eastern Germany this year but a solid future for the western economy, while predicting boosts for production in both areas in 1992.

A biannual report by an independent council of economists said that western Germany's economy will continue its strong growth this year, despite small growth this year, despite small setbacks as a result of planned tax increases and decreasing exports.

The economists from five leading research institutes — dubbed "the council of five wise men" — said "for now, the decline of overall production in eastern Germany will continue." The report predicted the western gross national product to grow 2.5 percent this year after a GNP of 4.6 percent in 1990, but eastern Germany's GNP to plunge 17.5

But the report said in 1992. production in eastern Germany will receive a boost, "because state programs will have a stronger effect, newly founded companies will begin work and many privatized firms will have completed the rehabilitation

Western Germany will receive additional impulses from eastern growth and from revived world markets next year, the report said, but added high interest rates, tax hikes and rising government hikes and rising government spending puts the pressure on western German growth.

"On balance, overall expansion will weaken," the report said.
It said despite higher public revenue through income tax hikes, the total government debt will amount to 4 percent of GNP in 1991, or $78 billion after a debt of $56 billion last year.

For 1991, the economists predicted inflation in western Germany will hit 4 percent by the end of the year, while eastern inflation will reach 15 percent.

Official: Germans may desire return of secret police

BERLIN (UPI) — The government official in charge of investigating the secret files of East Germany's secret files of East Germany's secret police warned Monday that the economic collapse in the region could prompt a yearning for the old totalitarian system yearing to the old totalitarian system.

"There will be a great nostalgia for the corrupt, ruined East German dictatorship," said Joachim Gauck, Bonn's commissioner for examining documents of the State Security Police, commonly known as Stasi. "It disgusts me."

"It disgusts me."
Gauck, who presented his new book called "The Stasi Files" at a news conference, said the best way to combat this danger was to work carefully through everything left by the East German government, including the more than 1 billion Tages of sexty Stasi documents pages of secret Stasi documents.

He said his book was primarily aimed at western German readers to explain how people felt before the Communist regime fell. "It was simply a part of life that we were afraid," said Gauck, 41, a former Protestant pastor from the port city of Rostock on the Baltic Sea.

Although the Stasi was disbanded in late 1989, individual members are rumored to continue illegal activities

Last week a bug was discovered in a telephone installed in Gauck's Berlin office. The device reportedly was linked to an office in the Berlin branch of Bonn's Interior Ministery, which was said to be guarded by a former Stasi officer now employed by the Interior Ministry.

Interior Ministry officials have denied any knowledge of the tap.
In his book, Gauck pleads for allowing individuals access to their Stasi files, a matter that has been hotly debated ever since the police were disbanded and files seized.

Some German officials argue that giving people access to their files might lead to vigilante revenge on hundreds of thousands of unofficial Stasi informants.

The Bundestag, the German parliament in Bonn, is expected to pass a law regulating access.

The Stasi had 85,000 full-time employees and an estimated 500,000 unofficial informants in former Communist East Germany, which means that almost one in 30 people was working for the feared security police.

North vs. South: Battle of Bull Run relived in Civil War reenactment in Civil War reenactment

The North and the South battled it out again in the Midwest. The 8th Annual Battle of Bull Run, a Civil War battle fought in Virginia on July 21, 1861, was reenacted Sunday in Makanda. It took Gen. Irvin McDowell five days to get his Union troops to the creek area known as Bull Run where the Confederates were stationed.

His troops were young and hot. They were an average of 18 years old, wore thick wool uniforms in July and were burdened with heavy supplies.

In 1861, spectators showed up to observe the battle because everyone had found out it was going to occur. In the Virginia area, a bottle of champagne or a picnic basket could not be found because ple had bought them all, said amilton McCowen of Hamilton Murphysboro.

McCowen, a self-proclaimed

Civil War buff announced the

This year, about 2,000 spectators stood on a hillside to see the reenactment by about : Confederate and Union soldiers.

"I traveled 130 years and 100 miles to get here," said Frank Riester of Belleville.

Riester, who portrayed a Union officer, had accommodations nicer than the other soldiers, who slept on grass beneath their tents. Rieste was stationed at the headquarter's tent, which included a cot for a bed and a canvas awning to protect him from the sun and rain.

Another Union Officer, Mark Westhoff of Belleville, said although it is comfortable in the officer's tent, last year they went hungry because it rained and the firewood got wet.

"We learn history the hard way," Westhoff said. "In 1861, some of the soldiers chewed on coffee beans for caffeine, because the officers told them not to light a fire.

The reenactors could not wear watches, jewelry, use flashlights, or listen to the radio during three-day event. Candles were used to read.

The uniforms vorn by the articipants were made of wool and designed from copies of original terns used by seamstresses in the Union Soldier Russell Schleicher of Belleville, said part of the enjoyment he gets from participating in the reenactment includes making his own uniform.

"Even though it's 100 percent wool, it's not hot," he said. "Once you start to sweat, it's like air conditioning.

Confederate soldier Chuck Kehl from Park Forest, said he likes participating in the reenactment because it gives him something to do and gives him a chance to get out of the Chicago suburbs.

'I've always been studying history and the reenactment caught my interest," Kehl said. "It costs a lot to get set up, but after that it's just gas and food."

Martha Boley said she participated in the reenactment because her boyfriend enjoys participating in the battle.

Job market tightens noose around necks of 1991 grads

EVANSTON (UPI) — Job placement expert Victor Lindequist Monday revised his predictions on job prospects for the Class of '91, saying he has not seen "this bad a marketplace since the early '80s."

Lindequist, Northwesterr University assistant dean and director of the university placement center, said the recession has forced companies to reduce the number of people they are planning to hire this

In December, when Lindequist issued his annual job market survey, he said this year's job market looked comparable to last year's, but that has now changed because foreign competition, nomic stagnation "and the economic stagnation general mode of business."

'I've not seen this had a marketplace since the early '80s," Lindequist said. "A great number of industries are suffering through this recession.

Hiring levels have been drastically cut. Most are hiring fewer graduates and in many cases the Class of '90 is competing with the Class of Lindequist said the "continuing downsizing and reorganization of American industry is affecting everyone from the executive suite to the lower level hourly paid workers."

This now creates an additional pool of talent competing with the young graduate," he said.

Lindequist advised graduates to stay away from Fortune 500 companies and instead set their sights on smaller firms.

Palestinian: Israel to blame for Iragi invasion of Kuwait

By Kylie Robertson

Israel taught Saddam Hussein how to occupy countries, said a Palestinian advocate of peace in the Middle East.

But two SIUC professors say they disagree with the statement. Dr. Samih Staitah, president of the Muslim American Chamber of Commerce and Industry lectured on "The Palestinian Question after the Gulf Crisis" at the Student Center late last week

Staitah, a member of the national board of directors of the Inter-Religious Committee for Peace in the Middle East, said Saddam was an astute student of Israel and learned a lot about its political motivations. Saddam's invasion of Kuwait was based on Israel's role model invasion of the West Bank, Staitah

Maria Frankowska, professor of international law, said the situation with Israel is not comparable to that of Iraq.

There is no denying that Israel violated international law, but it was not done in the same way as she said

The situations are different and must be looked at from a historical perspective, she said. Staitah said the world does not understand the Palestinians' anger.

"We see how the world has united against Saddam Hussein and get angry and frustrated. Palestine continues to be destroyed by Israel and nothing is being done," he

New generation Palestinians are being severed from their heritage as thousands of religious and national books and Palestinian traditions are being banned, Staitah

Israel military law states that the wearing shirts showing Pale patriotism is illegal, he said.

Staitah said life in the West Bank and the Gaza Strip is inconceivable to the United States public. Palestinians can't live in peace, he said, and frequently are put under a town arrest by Israeli troops. Staitah said one raid in the left 120,000 homes demolished.

"We are not diminishing what happened in Kuwait, but if Iraq deserves punishment then Israel should get more," Staitah said.

Frankowska said the Palestinian problem started when Palestine refused to accept the U.N. proposal of their own state and decided they wanted the whole territory.

The Palestinians are not the only people in the world who suffer injustice, she said, you could accuse the international community of forgetting many areas, including the Baltic states and Africa.

The recent gulf situation is unprecedented and it is unfair to compare it with Israel, Frankowska

We don't even now the extent or range of the crimes committed against Kuwait. It is ridiculous to compare something as well documented as the Israeli problem with an unknown," she said.

John Baker, political science professor, said it is legitimate for the Palestinians to want their own land and peace.

But Israel has a justification in that they reacted in self defense, he

The United Nations has clear mandates for the situation in Kuwait, Baker said.

The gulf crisis was the first war since the Cold War and has a different impact on the international contract on the international community than the Palestinian situation, Frankowska

Board of Trustees presents awards to two University staff members

Two staff members at SIUC have won the 1991 Lindell W. Sturgis Memorial Awards given by the Board of Trustees

Benedict "Ben" Gelman of Makanda, who is a public information specialist for University Print Communications and a former editor for the Southern Illinoisan newspaper, received the Sturgis Public Award. John Charles "J.C." Garavalia of given directly by the Board of Trustees and honor the late Lindell W. Sturgis, who served for more than 30 years on the State Teachers College Board and the SIU Board Trustees. He was board chairman from 1969 until he retired in 1971. He died in 1972.

The awards are the only ones

Both awards carry a $500 cash prize and were presented during the board's monthly meeting in April at the Student Center.

Gelman began working at SIUC in 1982 after 26 years as a reporter, photographer, regional editor, Sunday news editor and columnist

'National call to arms' needed to curb child abuse – Sullivan

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Health Secretary Louis Sullivan said Monday a "national call to arms" is needed to curb child abuse but that the federal government alone cannot solve the problem and plans no additional funding.

About 10° experts in the child abuse fi - children's advocate government officials - met with Sullivan at the Department of Health and Human Services and later with first lady Barbara Bush for a White House reception.

The events were held in recognition of National Child e Prevention Month.

What is needed is a national call to arms -- an initiative that will pull together all aspects of society because we are all affected by the consequences of child abuse and neglect," Sullivan said.

We have a responsibility in the federal government to lend our leadership, our resources to address this problem, but I'm sure you would agree with me that the federal government alone cannot solve the problem. That's where you come in," Sullivan told the crowd.

Mrs. Bush said child abuse and neglect "is so much more disturbing than other social problems. I think abuse is especially troubling because its root causes run so deep."

Sullivan's child abuse initiative involves calling attention to the problem through a public education campaign.
Also, it involves holding a series of national and regional meetings to encourage leaders in business, government, education, social services. criminal justice, churches and health care to build coalitions and local strategies for preventing child abuse and

Ann Cohn, director of the National Committee for the Prevention of Child Abuse — a private, non-profit Chicago-based group — said the initiative is well-intentioned, but in the end, more money is needed.

SiUC glassblower helps researchers

William M. Curtis works with flammable gases, high-intensity torches that can cause third-degree burns in a heartbeat and glass heated to almost 3,000 degrees Fahrenheit.

Curtis is the SIUC glassblower. He does not produce beautifully colored glass goblets or fancy vases. He builds, repairs, and sometimes designs glassware for science laboratories.

Curtis' boss, Victoria J. Molfese, head of SIUC's Office of Research Development and Administration, said Curtis is "not making Petri dishes. He provides glassware that's not commercially available with the particular twists and wiggles and sizes that our researchers need.

Molfese said, "He also repairs glassware that can't be purchased any more. He lets our researchers be more creative

In one of his lengthiest jobs, Curtis fashioned 30 miniature distilleries, "micro-stills," which are smaller than a hand and made entirely of glass. The stills are used for distilling liquid.

The size of the stills is part of a move by SIUC to get away from large-scale laboratory tests to 'micro-experiments" that reduce costs and hazardous waste.

Some of the more complicated pieces of glassware that Curtis is asked to design take even more time than producing 30 tiny stills.

The longest Curtis has ever worked with a piece is "days," he said grimly.

Curtis said he thrives on the oneof-a-kind pieces he does because they add the spice of variety to his work. He draws the designs for his glassware now but is learning to do it by computer.
Glassblowers must have good eye-hand coordination, and they have to be "almost ambidextrous," Curtis said.

When a glassblower heats glass until it turns to a glowing pink gel, both ends of the piece have to be rotated evenly over the flame or the soft part will twist or separate

Tools to pinch, cut, or shape the glass also have to be manipulated

"Curtis repairs glassware that can't be purchased. He lets our researchers be more creative."

-Victoria Molfese by one hand while the other holds the glass steady over the torch.

Curtis needs oxygen, hydrogen and propane to fuel his hightemperature torch. Those gases enter his workshop through pipes welded with a special high-strength silver solder.

Glassblowers also face an increased risk of two lung diseases: asbestosis and silicosis. Curtis, who has been the University glassbl for 15 years, said because of the danger of cancer, he decided several years ago to quit using asbestos to handle hot glass, even though he hasn't found a substitute that works as well.

The cancerous lung condition silicosis occurs when tiny fragments of silica boil off during glassblowing and enter the glassblower's lungs.

Because of the intense light and heat of the torches, glassblowers face an increased risk of cataracts.

And last but not least, the fierce blue flame over which glassblowers work can cause serious injury in a moment of carelessness.

The flame has to be able to heat Pyrex to 1,922 degrees Fahrenheit or quartz to 2,786 degrees.

"If you put your hand in the flame, you'll have a third-degree burn before you take it out," Curtis "You have to be aware all the time, like driving a car.

time, like driving a cal.

To Curtis, however, it's all worth it. Even though he is quick to insist. "I don't do artwork," while he exhibits an artist's pride as he showed off a large, intricately detailed arrangement of tubing.

Curtis had to build the tubing in the lab that commissioned it, because the finished product would have been too fragile to move from his workroom.

Cutis admitted to feelings of "pride and joy" in his creations.

"It's nice to come back to look at them, to say, 'I did that.

Harkey may be out for season

Cubs pitcher Mike Harkey will undergo diagnostic arthroscopic surgery Thursday on his right shoulder and may be lost for the

The right-hander was placed on the 15-day disabled list Monday, retroactive to Saturday. It is the third time in the last three seasons he has been on the DL. He also is the second Cubs pitcher injured this month, joining Opening Day starter Danny Jackson who suffered a pulled groin muscle April 19. Jackson also is on the 15day DL.

Harkey was examined Monday by team physician Michael Schafer, who recommended the surgery to determine the extent of damage to Harkey's shoulder. The pitcher did not undergo a magnetic resonance imaging test (MRI)

The exploratory surgery is believed to be similar to what Cubs pitcher Rick Sutcliffe underwent last May 7, which revealed torn cartilage. Sutcliffe was unable to return to action intil late August.

Harkey had to leave Friday's game in Cincinnati after pitching three innings. He popped up Hal Morris to end the third inning, and threw a couple warmup pitches prior to the fourth before calling the Cubs trainers out of the dugout

Harkey then left the game, which the Cubs would eventually lose 3-1, after giving up four hits, one walk, two strikeouts, one wild

This season, the right-hander was 0-2 with a 5.30 ERA in four starts, pitching 18 2-3 innings.

Injuries have limited Harkey

16-4 in the minors in 1988 before being called up to the Cubs in September that year and compilir a less than impressive 0-3 mark in three starts

A knee injury limited him to 12 starts in the minors in 1989. Tendinitis in his right shoulder forced him to go on the disabled list last May 29 to June 13.

Harkey developed stiffness in his shoulder Sept. 5 and did not pitch the rest of the season, finishing with a 12-6 record and

To fill Harkey's spot on the roster, the Cubs called up pitcher Bob Scanlan from Triple A Iowa, where he was 2-0 with a 2.95 ERA. Scanlan was acquired from Philadelphia in a trade which sent reliever Mitch Williams to the Phillies.

Pacers warv of Celtics

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) -The Indiana Pacers were euphoric for a few moments after defeating Boston in Game 2 of the playoffs. Then Micheal Williams reminded teammates of what could lie

Williams, a benchwarmer for Detroit's championship team two years ago, reminded the Pacers that Portland beat the Pistons at Detroit in last year's finals, then lost three straight home games to lose the

"When you get into the playoffs, it's more mental than physical," Williams said Monday after Indiana practiced for Wednesday night's Game 3 of the best-of-five first-round series. Game 4 is Friday night, also at Market Square Arena. "During the year, the 82 games is the physical part of professional basketball," Williams said. "When you get into the playoffs, you've got to think. Just being around Isiah (Thomas) and Joe Dumars, those guys are determined and they stay that way.

Indiana ripped the Celtics 130-118 Sunday at Boston Garden, establishing several team landmarks.

The Pacers won their second playoff game since joining the league 15 years ago and their first playoff triumph on the road. They are also even in a series for the first

Now the Pacers try to avoid any trace of complacency stemming from Game 2.

"That game is over," said Williams, a point guard who contributed 24 points and 10 assists Sunday. "It was great for the franchise, but if we lose the next two, we're out. We have Game 3 and that's all we can think about."

Mike Hill gets first Senior PGA win

KINGWOOD, Texas (UPI) -Mike Hill has been one of the most consistent performers on the Senior PGA circuit this year, but he did not have a win to show for his efforts. He does now.

Hill sank a two-foot birdie putt Sunday on the final hole of the $300,000 Doug Sanders Kingwood Celebrity Classic for his first victory of the season. Hill matched Lee Trevino's tournament record, finishing at 13-under-par 203 to claim the $45,000 first-place prize.

Trevino set the record last year.

Hill got some help from challenger George Archer, who had a one- stroke lead with one hole to olay, but three-putted for a bogey on No. 18, giving Hill the opportunity to sneak by.

"It could have been a little easier," Hill said. "It was a struggle coming down the stretch. Last year, seems like the tournaments I I shot very low numbers on Sunday.

I don't think I was in a head-to-head duel like this even once last year

The victory was the sixth for Hill since he joined the Senior PGA Tour. He also won three times on the PGA's regular circuit.

But the first victory this season seemed to keep eluding Hill, who is sixth on the money list. He has tied for second twice, tied for third twice and placed fourth once in nine tournaments in 1991, and in the top 25 eight times. ments in 1991, and has placed

Kings' ride stops in Edmonton

EDMONTON, Alberta (UPI) — It was a roller-coaster season for the Los Angeles Kings.

The high point was a first-place finish in the Smythe Division after being picked for fourth or fifth.

The low point came at 16:57 of overtime Sunday night in Game 6 of the division finals. Craig MacTavish scored for the Edmonton Oilers, and the Kings were done for the

"Obviously, we're pretty shaken up right now," Kings captain Wayne Gretzky said. "We feel we've had a very good year and we felt we played as hard as they did but we just came up short."

North Stars hope for another run to finals

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (UPI) — Ten years ago, the Minnesota North Stars made an improbable run to the Stanley Cup finals. Now the team that finished 16th in overall NHL standings is aiming toward the finals again.

Only the defending Stanley Cup champion Edmonton Oilers, who Minnesota beat twice and tied once in three regular-season meetings, stands in the way.

The North Stars and Oilers open the best-of-seven Campbell Conference final Thursday night in the Northlands Coliseum in

"Since they are the defending Cup champions, we have to be the underdogs," said North Stars veteran Bobby Smith.

Smith scored two goals in Minnesota's 3-2 victory in Game 6 against St. Louis Sunday, which advanced the team to the semifinals

Smith, along with teammates Curt Giles and Neal Broten, were members of the 1981 Minnesota team which advanced to the finals before losing to the New York

That year, Minnesota swept Boston in a best-of-five, winning back-to- back games in Boston Garden where they hadn't won in 14 seasons. The North Stars went on to beat Buffalo and heavilyfavored Calgary before bowing to the Islanders

This is more rewarding than what we accomplished in 1981," said Smith who played for the North Stars from 1978 until 1983 when he was traded to Montreal He played on one Stanley Cup champion with the Canadians and was re-acquired by Minnesota last

"We've had to work so hard for everything we've got this year,"said Smith. "There's no doubt it has been a struggle. But now it is all paying off. This is fun. During the season it seems like every step we took forward, we took two backward. Even at the end of the year after we had started playing better, we lost five of the last six games. I don't think anyone believed in us but

Manager says Maradona used cocaine for three months

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) Soccer star Diego Maradona is being charged with possession and consumption of cocaine, a drug he had been using occasionally for three months, his manager Marcos Franchi said Monday.

Franchi said that after talking with Maradona Saturday following his appearance before Judge Amerlia Berraz, he learned the former captain of the Napoli club "had been taking drugs for three months, on an occasional basis."

One of Maradona's lawyers however, directly contradicted Franchi's statements

On his way out of court Monday, Ernesto Spangemberg, flanked by Franchi, saidMaradona "did not admit to any type of possession or consumption of drugs."

Maradona is being tried following his arrest Friday night in an apartment in the Buenos Aires neighborhood of Caballito, allegedly with some bags of

because of injury, prompting Steinbrenner to brand Henderson a malingerer and ordering Manager Lou Piniella to play him

Finally, Steinbrenner shipped Henderson back home to Oakland for relievers Greg Cadaret and Eric Plunk and outfielder Luis Polonia. The trade was an insult for a player of Henderson's caliber.

With Henderson in the lineup, the A's have won a World Series and back-to-back American League crowns.

The 32-year-old outfielder tied the steals record in his 12th season (Brock played 19 years). He entered the final 10 days of the 1990 season needing just a handfull of steals to set the mark.

He fell two short and ther opened the season with a steal before being sidelined for 14 games with a calf injury.

"I really wanted to get it over with as soon as possible," Henderson said. "I didn't want to lose concentration. When the season started, that's the position I was in just running to steal it and get it over with."

The all-time mark is the only major steal record Henderson does not hold alone. He set a season record with 130 stolen bases in 1982 and has led the American League in steals in 10 of the last 11

Lou Brock told me the base to break the record is the hardest to steal," he said. "I think it will be a lot more special to me when I break the record."

The steal mark has also taken the edge off a season which began with Henderson complaining about his $3 million salary. The grumbling did not sit well with many fans and left Henderson alocf.

But on Sunday, the electric smile and cocky swagger were back. Henderson even found the time to inject a little humor into the postgame ceremonies.
