Nixon greeted by area's largest crowd

"When you have had the wrong doctor for four years, you change. And you don't turn to the pharmacist," Richard Nixon told an enthusiastic crowd of 10,000 to 15,000 persons at the Williamson County Airport Wednesday afternoon.

The Republican candidate for President said of his travels around the country this gathering was the biggest and best of all the airport crowds he has spoken to.

Capt. Elza Brantley, of the State Police, and Joe Hale, GOP state central committee-man from Shawneetown, said it was the largest political crowd ever assembled in Southern Illinois. Partisan observers estimated the throng as high as 30,000.

"The Democrats nominated a man who was a part of the administration for the last four years. You never heard him utter one critical word on the war, on crime or on taxes," said Nixon.

"In the last four years we have had the longest war in history, the worst crime wave in history—it has increased nine times that of population—the highest tax burden in 35 years, the highest prices in 25 years and respect for our country is down in every part of the world.

"That's what this election is all about, whether or not you want a new beginning," Nixon said. And the overflow crowd showed they wanted a change.

The eight bus loads of SIU students shouted their approval when he said, "I'm for a new foreign policy. I'll see that young men do not fight in another Viet Nam. While I was vice president for eight years we ended one war and kept the peace."

The partisan crowd waited enthusiastically for Nixon was about 45 minutes late for his scheduled 12:30 appearance. Val Oshel, GOP candidate for Congress, sang his campaign theme song "Way Down Yonder in Illinois," the 100-member Herrin High School Band played "Nixon's the One" and the crowd chanted "We Want Nixon."

As the three big 727 jets touched down with a total of 270 security agents, press members and aides, the crowd squeezed in for a closer glimpse of the man who most felt would be the next President of the United States.

Oshel's family greeted Nixon and his wife, Pat, and then they walked through a clearing in the crowd to the platform.

Nixon stumped hard for Oshel, who introduced him.

"Unless you get the senators and congressmen to back up your president," Nixon said, "you're not going to get that kind of leadership I've been talking about. Oshel is one of the bright new stars on the political scene—a man I look forward to seeing come to Washington."

Editor's note

In an effort to give greater depth and perspective to its coverage of the appearance here of Presidential candidate Richard Nixon, the Daily Egyptian assigned two staff members—one a Nixon supporter and the other a Hubert Humphrey backer—to report the event.

The reporters were instructed to write their stories as they saw and interpreted the event. There was no comparing of notes before writing the accounts. On this page are the stories as written by W. Allan Manning, a Nixon man, and Dean Rebuffoni, a Humphrey man.

"OUR NERVES NEED NIXON MEDICINE!" "NIXON'S THE ONE!" "A NEW DAWN WITH NIXON!"

So read the signs at the Williamson County Airport in Marion on Wednesday afternoon. And there, amid the shoving, fainting, maddening crowd you stand — waiting for Dick. And you wait. And wait.

News reports say Nixon, operates on a split-second schedule. No lost motion, no lost time, everything right on schedule.

But not today — Dick's late. His official arrival time was announced as 12:30 p.m., but that time comes and goes.

And the bands (three in number) wait. The Nixonettes — pretty young things decked out in red and white — wait. The lesser GOP candidates on the grandstand wait. The crowd waits . . .

. . . and then! From out of the sky! Nixon's plane! And the crowd starts a "We want Nixon" chant, the band breaks out into the "Nixon's the One" theme (it won't make the Top Forty on KXOK), and people start shoving for position — all for a glimpse of their Man.

The plane lands and up to the speaker's stand walks the candidate, wife by his side (Pat Nixon looks chic — really). The minor candidates are fawned over, the microphone is adjusted, the speech begins — at 1:20 p.m.

1:28 p.m.: ". . . this' great state of Illinois. . ."

The crowd takes on the characteristics of a typical pre-Nixon gathering: no jumping (as JFK inspired), no loud heckling (as George Wallace inspires), no widely-smiling faces. Just the scowls and occasional shout of "That's right!" or "You tell 'em!"

1:31 p.m.: ". . . this is the clearest choice that the American people have had. . ."

And the crowd stands there in the cool autumn air, listening. A lady with a bouffant hairdo pushes in front of you, necessitating a move to her side to see The Man.

1:38 p.m.: ". . . the American flag will not be a doormat for . . ."

The man looks the same as he did in '64, '62, '60, '56. The ski-slope nose, the five-o'clock shadow on his face, the slicked-down hair (rather curly in back), the jowls. Keeps waving a clinched fist.

1:41 p.m.: ". . . now let's get going again. . ."

Crowd rather solemn now, just waiting expectantly for his often-used sock-it-to-'em line. But it doesn't come. Just the necessary pitch for the farm vote, the labor vote, the small-town vote, the wife's vote, and — yes — the Democratic vote. That he needs if he wants to win.

SIU Democratic rally gets Illinois campaign underway

By Linda Reiniger

Jackie Robinson, the former Brooklyn Dodger turned political campaigner, missed his flight Wednesday and did not arrive at the University Center for a noon rally which began a four-day Democratic campaign swing through Illinois.

However, Don G. Agger, assistant secretary of transportation, did arrive to call Carbondale "a citadel of awful planning" and a "hideous breakdown of city planning." Under a Humphrey-Muskie administration, an investigation will be made into the Carbondale transportation problem, Agger promised.

While Carbondale has a city planning problem, the entire nation suffers from political campaigns of "smear and fear," according to Richard E. Richman who is seeking reelection as Jackson County State's Attorney.

"In my experience, this is the dirtiest year of political campaigns. It is all a national Republican device," Richman said.

According to Richman, law and order are not the issues in the local campaign.

"Order doesn't mean anything," he said. "Hitler had order. Italy had order. Spain had order. They had laws too."

"Justice is what is important, and we've had that in Jackson County," Richman asserted.

Justice is a key word in the theme of the four-day Democratic tour through Illinois. "We Humphrey-Muskie supporters believe that Humphrey is interested in justice, that he cares about people," said Larry Miller, a leader of the Young Democrats. "The title of our tour—Care-a-van—indicates this."

Doug Black, a negro businessman from Chicago, expressed his convictions that Humphrey cares about black people. He cited various causes that Humphrey supported in education, housing, labor, health programs and civil rights.

Chapters termed important part of alumni association

Local alumni clubs with their own leadership and programs and operating in their own communities are an integral and important part of the SIU Alumni Association.

Local club activities range from social events to special programs honoring top academic students in high schools of their respective communities and fund drives for scholarship or other aid to SIU students.

Programs of the local clubs frequently include speakers from the faculty. One popular program last year was a film of the Saluki victory over Tulsa in the Homecoming football game.

Periodic workshops for alumni club leaders are conducted by the Alumni Office, which assists the local club groups whenever and wherever possible in conducting their activities throughout the year.

Local SIU alumni clubs are located throughout Illinois, including the Chicago area, and across the nation. There also are SIU alumni clubs in Brussels, Belgium, and Taipei, Taiwan.

School link to be eyed

A communication's link between Illinois university campuses, including SIU, will be discussed at a special conference this weekend in Campaign.

Representing SIU at the conference will be Suzanne Faulkner and Carl Courtnier, student senators.

If the communication's link is established, said Courtnier, it could coordinate student demands in all areas, including housing and judicial matters.

With this coordination, campuses could have a lobby effect on the state legislature thereby possessing a power in the state, Courtnier added. Sam Panayotovich, student body president, said that he might also attend the meeting.

Richman.. the best choice

The race for Jackson County States Attorney has turned into a bitter battle and apparent clash of personalities between Democratic incumbent Richard Richman and his Republican challenger Ted Lorek.

It appears that Lorek has attacked Richman's incompetence on the basis of a dozen or so cases of deaths which have occurred in the county over the past three or four years.

Richman says his office has handled approximately 2000 cases during his term of office. He also says that not all of the cases that Lorek has cited were homicides. Some of the deaths were due to natural causes while others have not yet been determined by the coroner or pathologists.

Richman made it clear that all deaths are not homicides. And unless the coroner and pathologists can present some evidence that a victim died by other than natural causes, Richman feels an investigation is not necessary.

Lorek, in an attempt to discredit Richman's job as states attorney, has apparently failed to look at the work which has been done on the cases. He said nothing has been done in the way of investigating these cases while Richman was ready and able to explain what progress has been made.

Richman's experience in solving crimes through his work as states attorney far outshines that of his opponent's. Lorek, who is on the SIU legal counsel staff and operates a private law practice, has had little, if any, experience working on or representing criminal cases.

The job of states attorney is in need of a man with experience in the area of investigation with the amount of crime increasing throughout the United States. Richard Richman is the man best suited to carry out this duty.

John Durbin

By Robert M. Hutchins

The Supreme Court lately has pointed out that one object of a jury trial is to protect the accused against the government. Under our system, if the jury finds the prisoner not guilty, that is the end of the matter, for in almost all American jurisdictions the prosecution has no appeal.

Two law professors have now suggested ways in which the protection afforded by the jury could be extended to acquit the people who act in a measured way for reasons of conscience.

Paul A. Freund of Harvard and Joseph Sax of the University of Michigan point to the history of

What kind of world?

Should law allow for conscience?

seditious libel in England in the 17th and 18th centuries. They rely especially on the case of William Penn, who was acquitted in spite of the instruction of the judge that he must be found guilty.

Freund refers to the reaction of a juror in the case of Dr. Benjamin Spock, who was convicted of conspiring to counsel evasion of the draft. The juror said he felt bound to vote for conviction because of the instructions of the judge.

Freund is quoted in an interview in the New York Times as saying, "A court might hold that the law under which Spock and others were tried was valid enough—that a law against a conspiracy to aid and abet evasion of the Selective Service Law is a valid law. At the same time it might hold that we have to interpret 'aid and abet' in a way that preserves the right of freedom of conscience in expressing opposition. The law can be valid as long as it's applied in a circumspect way."

Freund says that juries ought to be able to say "not guilty" and not explain. He puts it this way: "There ought to be some new doctrine which would permit a judge to tell a jury that they were to decide the case in the light of all the circumstances."

If Freund's suggestion were followed, juries would have to give "respectful attention" to the law, but it would be made clear to them that nothing would bar them from acquitting the defendant despite respect for the law.

The Sax-Freund proposal is good so far as it goes. In the Anglo-American tradition juries always have been able to mitigate punishment when they were opposed to the law in question, or to the penalties required by it, or to the application of the law to the case at bar. Harsh sentences fixed by law have often disappeared because juries would not convict. The jury is supposed to reflect the sentiments of the community.

That is the trouble with the Sax-Freund proposal. All the presidential candidates, who are experts at judging the temper of the community, have concluded that the community wants to crack down on those who cause any public disturbance, especially those who act from reasons of conscience.

The temper of the community is paradoxical: almost everybody is opposed to the war in Vietnam, but nobody is to be permitted to say so in any effective way. President Johnson was not forced out of office by letters to the editor. The conduct of men like Dr. Spock dramatized the issue and made the point in a way that could not be ignored.

Although the Sax-Freund scheme would be helpful, what we really need is a clarification of the Bill of Rights, that group of provisions in the Constitution which is designed to protect us against an oppressive majority.

It seems clear, for example, that a man should not be convicted for protesting, even in an "illegal" manner, against an unconstitutional war.

Richman indicts Lorek campaign for distortion

Jackson County States Attorney Richard Richman has accused Republican candidate Ted Lorek of "deliberately distorting facts" to gain political support for his campaign.

Richman took issue with Lorek's charges that there has been a "total breakdown of law and order in Jackson County" during the past four years.

"The accusations are completely false and my opponent has not looked at the records and knows nothing about what he is talking," Richman said.

Richman said one of the reasons Lorek questions his ability to solve a number of serious crimes is because "he does not understand the function of the states attorney's office."

"The states attorney is not a policeman but rather a prosecutor," Richman said.

Richman contends that Lorek has not been in the Jackson County courthouse in Murphysboro often enough to judge anyone's record. Lorek has never had a single criminal law case as either a prosecutor or a defendant, Richman said.

"So, how can he judge," Richman questioned. "My record speaks for itself." "We have had a high percentage of convictions based on evidence received from law enforcement agencies. Our cooperation with these law enforcement agencies is excellent in spite of what Lorek has said."

Richman said that Lorek's "insinuations of failure of prosecution in alleged murder cases are based on a complete lack of information."

Richman pointed out the steps his office

Recent events, including a special session of the Grand Jury, have centered attention on the States Attorney Office. For this reason, Daily Egyptian reporter John Durbin interviewed the two candidates for the office. On this page are their comments.

Lorek denounces Richman's term as incompetent

Ted Lorek, Republican candidate for Jackson County states attorney, has lashed out at Richard Richman's "incompetence as a states attorney" because of his inability to solve a number of serious crimes in the past three or four years.

Lorek said the serious crimes include murders, rapes, arsons and burglaries in which "no action to speak of has taken place."

Lorek said that during Richman's term of office there have been no convictions in rape cases, no action in arson cases and very poor action in solving burglaries and other crimes.

Citing at least 11 incidents of violent deaths, Lorek recalls the beating and death of a migrant farmer March 17, 1967, on the McGuire fruit farm, south of Carbondale. Nothing has been done on the case and it has apparently been completely forgotten about, Lorek said.

Lorek, who serves as legal counsel at SIU and operates his own law firm, said that whenever Richman is questioned about the case he says "We are investigating."

Lorek said that Elmer Nichols was found dead near the SIU airport. Jackson County Sheriff Raymond Dillingier said "foul play was involved," Lorek said. But Lorek contends that nothing further has been done.

On June 18, 1967, the body of Joseph Odom was found on the patio of his home

Democratic incumbent

Jackson County States Attorney Richard Richman says his office's good working relationship with the law enforcement agencies in the county has effectively handled crime.

has taken in solving some of the outstanding serious crimes.

Concerning the Joe Odom case Richman said "there is no, and was no evidence at the time that Mr. Odom had been murdered. There is as much evidence that he committed suicide."

On June 18, 1967, the body of Joseph Odom was found on the patio of his home in Murphysboro.

Richman said the states attorney's office has talked to all witnesses that we know about and up to this point "there is no evidence to suggest the filing of charges."

Crime syndicate: "No basis for fact"--Richman Odom case: "Ridiculously handled"-- Lorek

Republican challenger

Ted Lorek says Richman has been "incompetent" as a states attorney because of his inability to solve crime and work with the law enforcement agencies in the county.

in Murphysboro, Lorek said. At first the police thought Odom had been shot to death, Lorek said. "But later his blood proved to be 90 per cent carbon dioxide."

Lorek said the Odom case has been "ridiculously handled" in turning up nothing.

"Considering his record over the past three or four years, we saw no satisfactory results," Lorek said.

Lorek said the major reason Richman

"You can't just arrest someone on suspicion," Richman said.

Richman explained that the Elmer Nichols case was closed because the coroner and pathologist said the cause of death was due to a heart attack. Nichols had been found dead near the SIU airport.

The states attorney's office has been unable to do anything on the migrant farmer case because neither the coroner nor the pathologists who examined the body have been able to determine cause of death, Richman said.

Richman was unsure of the date which the farmer was found dead but he thought it was in the early part of 1966.

Richman defended his handling of the grand jury investigation into Carbondale Mayor David Keene's charges of alleged bribery offers.

"Because he (Keene) had allegedly been offered a bribe and the community was concerned, I felt it was necessary to call the grand jury into session," Richman explained.

The investigation is continuing and "we will try to gather information from whatever sources that are available," Richman said. "I would hope the city officials will cooperate and turn over whatever information they come up with."

Richman said there is "no basis for fact" that any crime syndicate is operating in Jackson County. The FBI, Illinois State Police, Jackson County Sheriff's office, Illinois Crime Commission, Illinois Liquor Control Commission and all of the municipal police departments have investigated and discovered no evidence of a crime organization operating, Richman said.

The amount of crime in Jackson County "has not frightened the public nor put them ill at ease," Richman said.

Richman said he has been handicapped in his campaign because of the grand jury investigation and the illness of one of his assistants.

"I have not been able to get out of the office. I am a strong believer in personal contact but I am afraid I won't have time to get out and shake many hands before the election," Richman said.

"I think the people will see through my opponents desperate distortion of the facts on election day."

has been unable to solve these serious crimes center around his "problems getting along with law enforcement agencies."

Richman has also used bad judgment in charging suspects of serious crimes, according to Lorek.

Lorek pointed to an incident involving a Murphysboro policeman charged with rape. Lorek said the charge was based solely on the word of one individual.

Confirming his statement that Richman has problems getting along with police officials, Lorek said Carbondale Police Jack Hazel was quoted June 9, 1965, as saying, "Richman is trying to cover up his inability to get convictions."

Lorek said he feels the state's attorney has an obligation to "protect the people by prosecuting criminals who violate the law. If nothing is done, criminals feel they can get by with it." Having practiced law for five years, Lorek feels he has more experience than Richman had when the latter started as state's attorney.

Lorek said he has gained experience from working with the SIU Security Police and teaching at the Police Training School at VII.

Lorek said he plans to be available at anytime for anyone. "Presently, you can't get the states attorney when you need him and his phone number is not listed," Lorek said.

Lorek discounts the possibility that organized crime is operating in Jackson County. He does feel, however, that a "gang or group of individuals may be involved in some crimes."

Lorek said he felt Keene's bribery case was "poorly handled" by both the Carbondale city officials and the states attorney's office. He said he could not make a fair assessment of the city situation, however, because he did not have the information the states attorney and city officials possessed.

"My chances of winning are very very good at this time because we really don't have a states attorney in office," Lorek said. "He just has not been doing his job."

Action delayed on food machines

By John Durbin

After hearing a letter from the Carbondale Chamber of Commerce, the city council agreed to defer action on the proposed licensing of food vending machines and continue work on regulating amusement devices.

The Chamber's Board of Directors expressed opposition to the proposed ordinance providing for the licensing and regulation of certain types of coin-operated machines. But the board's opposition was directed primarily at that section calling for the licensing of food vending machines.

The council directed City Attorney George Fleerlage to continue work drawing up the ordinance but excluding the section involving food vending machines until a Chamber committee completes its study.

The Chamber asked the council to delay any action until its committee completes its study and makes a recommendation.

Harry Weeks, executive director of the Chamber, told the council that "the Chamber is primarily concerned with the section concerning food vending machines."

The first draft of the ordinance was drawn up by Fleerlage and Mayor David Keene and presented to the council at its Oct. 2 meeting.

Large crowd greets Nixon

Nixon also mentioned the name of Richard Ogilvie, candidate for governor, who made a seconding speech for him at the national convention.

"It's time for a house cleaning," Nixon said. "Dick Ogilvie, your next governor, and I will clean up crime. I am for a national police academy for training state and local law enforcement officials. You will be sure that young people can grow up without being afraid of walking the streets at night."

Nixon also touched on inflation and the farm problem. "Everyone is interested in their pocketbook," he said. "The wage earner has $11 to $14 more, on the average, than he used to. But ask his wife—she has $2 less to spend because the grocery bill is 20 per cent higher. The worker has been on a treadmill. You can stop the rising taxes. We have a program that will do that. We have a program that is designed for those who save."

Nixon concluded his 15 minute speech by urging everyone to support him.

The crowd then surged forward trying to shake his hand before he boarded his jet. Several persons fainted in the excitement and heat.

GOP candidate appears here

1:48 p.m.: "... and we'll give you a good new administration!"

Up go the balloons: green, pink, yellow, blue. Candidate throws both hands into the air, with "V" for victory fingers extended. Crowd cheers. Candidate walks off platform, grinning. Crowd cheers. Candidate shakes hands, grinning. Crowd cheers. Candidate plunges into the crowd, still grinning—and is lost from view.

And the crowd sways towards the waiting cars and buses. Their Nixon-Agnew buttons, ranging in size from that of a 25 cent piece to that of a large grapefruit, shining in the sun. And you overhear their comments:

"Great speech!" "Right! Absolutely tops!" "We really needed that down here!"

And the long lines of traffic start to move out onto Route 13, and the planes take off --- headed for the next speaking engagement of their man. And a blue Nixon balloon, caught in the draft of the departing aircraft, goes sailing up—right up—into the cool autumnal air, then glides down, lands on a broken stalk of Illinois corn, and breaks.

Moulton clarifies judicial revamping

By Wayne Markham

The fate of a Student Senate Judicial Reorganization plan drafted last spring was clarified by Dean of Students Wilbur Moulton during Wednesday night's Senate meeting.

In an impromptu address before the senators, Moulton revealed that the Senate plan was being considered along with proposals from the University Faculty Council and the University Legal Council.

According to the Dean of Students, 80 to 90 per cent of the Senate recommendations parallel the other plans and all three await further committee action.

The committee involved in the review affecting student discipline is made up of four faculty and three student members, Moulton told the Senate.

At the present time two students, Larry Bussuk and Bill Gasa are already on the committee.

Objection to the ratio of committee members came from some of the senators, but Moulton answered them by saying he was not adverse to having additional members appointed.

A third student member still awaits appointment by the Senate.

Moulton outlined the three objectives of the judicial plan which would consider establishing a new disciplinary code, setting up the disciplinary procedure used to enforce the codes, and clarifying the disciplinary sanctions provided.

The biggest advantage of the joint plan, Moulton told the Senate, would be to coordinate the judicial system instead of having the Senate, Faculty Council and University Legal Council draft separate proposals.

When questioned as to the approval of the plan, Moulton said, "The judicial system will not be put into effect until this committee rules on the report."

Moulton said the Senate would be asked to vote on the committee recommendations.

Prior to Moulton's announcement the status of the Senate judicial plan, which was submitted last spring, had remained in doubt.

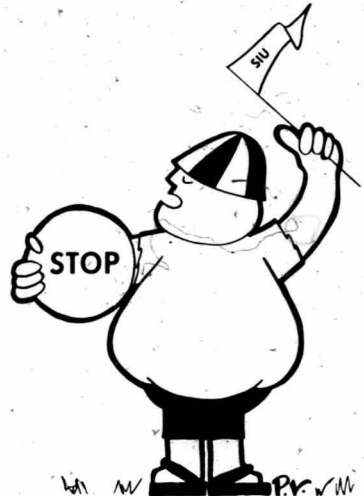

Last week some senators were critical of the administration when it was felt a special ad hoc appeals board set up by Chancellor Robert W. MacVicar might be an attempt to bypass the Senate-approved judicial system.

Frosh to become part of SIU with bonfire

Freshmen take heed. Tonight you will officially become a part of SIU with the traditional burning of the green beans during the Homecoming bonfire.

The bonfire, sponsored by the Homecoming steering committee and built by Alpha Phi Omega service fraternity, is set for 6:30 p.m. south of the Arena. A fireworks display is scheduled for 6 p.m.

The hour long festivities will include the announcement of Mr. and Miss Freshman and a rally led by the SIU cheerleaders. Football Coach Dick Towers and the football team will be honored guests at the rally.

Health surety available

Blue Cross-Blue Shield health insurance is now available to students, Hank Wilson, assistant to the dean of students, said.

Application forms can be obtained from the Graduate School office, the Dean of Students Office, the Sectioning Center on the second floor of the University Center or the VTI sectioning center.

Attached to forms for winter quarter are instant identification cards which can be presented when coverage is needed, Wilson explained.

The cards for fall quarter should be available at the Dean of Students Office in approximately two weeks, Wilson said.

Negro fellowship interviews

Negro men who will graduate from SIU in June will have an opportunity for interviews Nov. 5 that may lead to fellowships for graduate study in business.

Among the 97 business firms and governmental agencies to send recruiting teams to SIU's Placement Services during the first two weeks of November is a Consortium for Graduate Study in Business for Negroes, a cooperative organization of four universities—Indiana University, University of Rochester, Washington University and the University of Wisconsin. Each candidate accepted will receive a $2,000 fellowship and free tuition.

Neely Hall debate scheduled

Three faculty members in the Department of Government will debate the topic "Who Should be the Next President" at 8:30 p.m. today in Neely Hall.

Randall Nelson will defend Hubert Humphrey, John Baker will defend Richard Nixon and Roy Miller will defend George Wallace.

Following the debate results of the Neely Hall mock election will be announced. The event is sponsored by the Neely Hall President's Council.

Ex-volunteers needed as resource

The National Service Office is attempting to secure the names and addresses of former Peace Corps, VISTA and Job Corps volunteers now attending SIU, Hank Wilson, assistant to the dean of students, said.

The office is establishing a bank of resource persons who are willing to supply information to a campus coordinator and prospective volunteers. The information would be based on the volunteers' impressions and personal observation of the countries in which they served.

SIU student struck by Automobile

An SIU student was injured Wednesday when he was struck by a car while walking across a road near the Williamson County Airport.

Paul Johnson, 20, from Paxton, was returning from the Nixon rally at the airport when the incident occurred at approximately 2 p.m.

DuQuoin State Police said Johnson was struck about 100 yards east of Illinois 148 as he was attempting to cross the highway.

Johnson was taken to the emergency room of Herrin Hospital and then flown to Barnes Hospital in St. Louis for surgery, State Police said.

No report was immediately available on his condition. SIU Security Police said Johnson apparently lives at VTI.

Maria Pinckney, professional harpist and former member of the St. Louis Symphony, is shown practicing for her featured performance with the Southern Illinois Symphony's Homecoming concert, which is set for 8 p.m. Friday in Shryock Auditorium.

Benefit sale items sought

Donations of all kinds—from baubles to baked goods—are being sought by the Jackson County Humane Society for its annual Country Store benefit sale.

The sale will be Friday, Nov. 8, from 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. and Saturday, Nov. 9, from 9 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. in the basement of the First Presbyterian Church, 310 S. University Ave., Carbondale.

Proceeds go to the support of the society's animal shelter between Carbondale and Murphysboro. The annual event features a chili lunch and baked goods sale as well as antique, art, handicraft, used clothing and odds and ends departments.

Donations for sale may be taken to the church after 12 noon Tuesday, Nov. 5, or after 9 a.m. Wednesday through Friday. Pick-up service is available by calling 457-6919 or 457-2362.

Persons wishing to donate baked goods should call Mrs. Russell Trimble, 549-3405.

Cops warn 5 at rally

Five student members of the Young Democrats organization of SIU were reported being threatened by police for displaying placards bearing Hubert Humphrey's name at the Nixon Rally Wednesday.

Richard Shulhafer, Glenview, said he and four other Young Democrats were threatened with arrest by Williamson County law officers as they held their signs supporting Humphrey after Nixon's plane had taken off.

The Williamson County Sheriff's Office said it had no information about such an incident.

Health Service reports

The University Health Service listed the following dismissals for Wednesday: Norris Vactor, Wilson Hall and Roger Mills, Schneider Tower.

Barbershop harmony chapter promotes special song style

By Mary Frazer

Barbershop harmony is not dead music. It is being kept alive and promoted throughout the United States and Canada by members of the Little Egypt chapter of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barbershop Quartet Singing in America (SPEBSQSA).

The Little Egypt chapter, headquartered in Herrin, is

FFA group visits national conclave

Four students represented the SIU Chapter of the Future Farmers Association at a recent national meeting in Kansas City, Mo.

They were Bill Vaughan, Gary Appel, Rick Hiatt and Dana Sauer. They were accompanied by the chapter adviser Thomas Stritt, assistant professor of agriculture.

The group heard a speech by Republican presidential candidate Richard Nixon at the convention. They also participated in a conference for student-teachers of agriculture.

The collegiate chapters of the FFA are comprised of students majoring in agriculture education.

one of 700 chapters in the United States and Canada. The membership of the Herrin chapter is 42, and the total membership of all the chapters is 30,000.

The Little Egypt Chapter was given its charter one year ago. Since that time it has gathered enough members to form an active chorus and quartet.

Dennis Malone, graduate student in the SIU Broadcasting Service, is a member of the barbershop quartet and chorus.

Club membership, Malone said, is offered to any male in the Carbondale, Murphysboro, West Frankfort, Sesser, Pinckneyville, Marion and Mt. Vernon areas.

Although several non-students in the University and area communities belong to the chapter, Malone said he is the only student in the society.

A non-profit organization, the chapter donates all income from performances to the Institute of Logopedics, a charity for disabled children.

The Little Egypt Chapter is active in singing competition with other local and district chapters.

Malone, speaking for the local members, said, "We all enjoy singing barbershop harmony and we enjoy good fellowship and good fun".

Percussion group here

The Manhattan Percussion Ensemble, selected to represent the United States in its cultural exchange program with other countries has returned from a week tour and will appear before the Convocation audience at 1 p.m. today in the arena.

The ensemble, directed by Paul Price, has played percussion instruments ranging from water-buffalo bells, auto brake drums and corrugated wash-boards to a horse's jaw bone.

The group has completed a tour in which they performed 10 concerts and appeared on radio and television throughout Eastern and Western Europe and the Near East. The group traveled on request of the State Department as part of the cultural exchange program.

A coffee hour to follow the program in Altgeld is sponsored by the Hall Department of Music.

New recreation building site picked

A planned recreational building near Brush Towers will offer a variety of activities to students, says C.W. Thomas, Jr., of the Student Activities Office.

Site of the building was to be south of Lake-on-the-Campus, but was changed to a vacant area across from Brush Towers. The building, which is to be open to all SIU students, is bounded by Wall, Marion, Park and Grand Streets. This is more centrally located for more students than the first choice.

Jack Graham, chairman of the campus recreation facilities planning committee, said the biggest problem in planning for a building of this sort is getting the land. The building will be completed in about three years, after settlement of financial problems. It will contain an Olympic-size swimming pool, multi-purpose gym, two smaller gyms, weight lifting room, handball courts, locker, shower and storage areas. There will also be a lounge area and outdoor play fields. Graham said efforts are to make this a "pleasant and friendly place to visit."

Brush Towers is now the main concern of the building committee, Graham said. The 1,700 students at Brush Towers now have to share recreation facilities with the 1,800 students at University Park.

University Park had a "tremendous amount of work done in the recreation area," Thomas said. The well-planned illuminated area at University Park includes basketball nets, volleyball, badminton and tennis courts, flag football and baseball fields, shuffleboard and horseshoe pits.

SIU Press releases rare fifteenth century music

SIU has entered the recording field, with selections of 15th century music.

The first record, which includes two dozen selections, will be released Dec. 15, according to Wesley K. Morgan, SIU professor of musicology and director of the project.

The recordings are to be issued by the SIU Press under the label, "Pleiades Records."

SIU's Collegium Musicum, an organization of students and faculty interested in the performance of ancient and rare musical scores, is joined in the undertaking by the Collegium from the University of Chicago, directed by Howard Brown. The two groups have held joint recording sessions both on the SIU campus and at Chicago, Morgan said.

The music recorded is found in the Davison-Apel "Historical Anthology of Music" published by Harvard University, which has granted a license to the SIU Press to press and issue the recordings.

The two-volume anthology covers musical masterpieces from antiquity through the Baroque and Rococo periods (about 1760).

"These written examples are used in departments of music throughout the world to study the development of musical styles," Morgan said. "But written music is only one half of what music is about—it must be realized in sound."

Carl Lindgren will lecture in Czechoslovakia in August

Russian occupation forces in Czechoslovakia apparently have sanctioned scientific freedom, according to Carl C. Lindgren, SIU professor emeritus in microbiology.

Lindgren has just received an invitation to give one of the main lectures at a Symposium on Genetics and Industrial Microorganisms to be held at Prague, Czechoslovakia, in August.

"The University of Prague yeast laboratory is one of the largest in the world," Lindgren said, "and apparently it has received a Soviet go-ahead sign to hold this international symposium."

Lindgren also has been invited to prepare a 20-minute audio tape lecture for McGraw Hill Publishing Company for inclusion in the company's "Sound Seminars" series. Lindgren was asked to tape a discussion of "Scientific Freedom and Open Communication," the subject of a section in his recent book "The Cold War in Biology."

He is also the author of "The Brain in Evolution," which appeared in the Oct. 5 issue of Saturday Review.

Van Atta gets grant

Robert E. Van Atta, professor of analytical chemistry, has received a $9,219 grant to design, develop and test a simple, portable instrument to measure pollution.

The portable instrument will be used to identify such metals as copper, lead, cadmium, zinc, nickel and chromium in lake and stream waters.

The grant, awarded by the Office of Water Resources Research, Department of Interior, has been supplemented by an additional $5,000 from SIU, which was used in the acquisition of a pulse polarographic analyzer that will support the research.

Instructor writes on bicycle safety

Dale O. Ritzel, instructor in health and safety education, wrote the article, "Bicycle Safety—All You Need for a Campaign," which appeared in the October issue of The Instructor.

The article emphasized the need for the inclusion of bicycle safety in all elementary schools and the various ways of implementing a complete bicycle program of class discussion, skill tests and inspection tests.

Kansas picked to win

Kansas maintained its lofty perch as the number one team in the country by mowing down Iowa State last Saturday. However, the hair might get just a bit shorter this week as 14th-ranked Colorado tries for another upset. Our vote has to go to the Jayhawks as they take a big step toward the Big 8 championship, beating Colorado by ten points.

Southern Cal., just by being idle last Saturday, moved into second place. The Trojans will trip the Ducks of Oregon by twenty points. Ohio State lost its grip a little and dropped to 3rd. And with Michigan State, #17, on the menu this week, things might get just a little tense. The Buckeyes, looking at both a Big Ten title and possible Rose Bowl trip, will pull it out by two points.

Facing Murderer's Row week after week, Illinois runs into 4th-ranked Purdue, and will take another one on the chin, this one by 29 points. Tennessee is 5th; they meet U.C.L.A. The Bruins haven't run out of steam yet, but we'll go with Tennessee by 18 points.

And heading for its showdown battle with Southern Cal next Saturday, the 6th-rated Bears of California had better keep all eyes on the Washington Huskies this week. They have been known to cause trouble. With eyes in the right direction, Cal should win by 24.

If Notre Dame down in the 11th spot this week, can regroup, they should scuttle Navy by 28 points. And 12th rated Missouri, still a mighty big wheel in the Big Eight title fight, will Bump Oklahoma State by 13. Alabama, #13, is 26 points too strong for Mississippi State, and 15th-ranked Arkansas will just whistle by Texas A&M by 2 points.

Karate Club in tourney

By Dennis Sullivan

The SIU Karate Club is preparing for competition in the National Karate Tournament to be held Nov. 2 at the Chicago Coliseum.

About ten members of the club will make the trip, according to Bill Santeford, co-chairman of the club.

The other co-chairman is Jun-ichi Nagano, a Fulbright exchange student from Japan. Nagano is a first degree black belt in Karate and a third degree black belt in judo.

The SIU club was formed last March and gained University recognition in April.

Hosket signs with Knicks

New York (AP) — Bill Hosket, a member of the gold medal-winning U.S. Olympic basketball team and the New York Knicks' No. 1 draft choice, signed Wednesday with the National Basketball Association club after revealing he had received three other offers.

Nearly 60 men belong to the group, although only half that number are present at any one time for practice, Santeford said.

This is the first time the Karate Club has entered in competition, and Santeford advises "not to expect too much."

Competition in the national tournament is divided into two categories. One is the individual category, in which entries compete against an imaginary opponent. The other category is sparring with an opponent. Points are scored for touches to the body, Santeford explained. The contestant with the most points wins the match, and the winner of two out of three matches wins the contest.

In Karate the fundamental moves are the kick, punch and block. This differs from judo, whose fundamentals are basically matwork, throwing, squeezing and joint locking. Both methods are designed for self-defense.

Club members are preparing for the trip to Chicago by practicing the fundamentals and getting their bodies and minds into shape. Karate stresses both physical and mental conditioning. Concentration, speed, form, spirit, clear mind and confidence are of utmost importance.

The rankings of karate are similar to judo rankings. The beginner starts out as a white belt. Then as his techniques improve, he moves up to yellow, green, blue, purple, brown and finally to black belt. The black belt ranking is signified by degrees.

Intramural group seeking officials

The Intramural Office is seeking officials for the upcoming basketball season.

Students wishing to officiate should come to the Intramural Office, Room 128 in the Arena, to sign up.

Prospective officials are required to attend rule interpretation meetings and pass a written test on official intramural basketball rules before officiating the games this winter.

Bradley tops three departments

By Dave Cooper

Where would the football Salukis be without their starting wingback and place kicker Mike Bradley? They sure wouldn't be going into this season's Homecoming game with a 3-2 slate.

Bradley, a 5-10, 180-pound junior from Manchester, N.H., is leading SIU in three offensive departments.

In terms of average he is the leading rusher with 9.6 yards a carry. He has a net gain of 222 yards in 23 attempts.

But John Quillen is still first in rushing yardage, picking 435 yards in 101 carries for a 4.3 average. SIU's rushing attack has produced 712 yards, whereas their opponents have pounded out 705 yards.

By snaring eight passes for 134 yards, Bradley is on top in the receiving department. Quillen also has eight receptions, but they have covered only 89 yards.

With 24 of the Salukis' 76 points, Bradley is also the front-running scorer. He has scored only one touchdown, but his foot has accounted for 18 vital points, booting four field goals and six conversions.

Kickoff and punt return specialist Doug Hollinger is the runner-up with 18 points on three touchdowns.

Southern's passing game is still a problem, as they have gained only 383 yards via the air compared to 930 yards for their opponents.

Jim McKay, the Salukis primary quarterback, has passed for 250 yards on 20 completions out of 58 attempts. He has thrown for no touchdowns, but has tossed six interceptions.

And Tom Wisz, the backup quarterback, has fared no better than McKay, hitting on only seven of 28 passes for 82 yards. Like McKay, he has thrown no scoring passes, but has had five aerials picked off.

"Our passing isn't very good. It's something we just have to keep working on, but as long as we're winning I don't care," Coach Dick Towers commented.

Hollinger has returned nine kickoffs 204 yards for a 22.6 average, and has run back 13 punts 257 yards for a 19.7

average.

Barclay Allen is maintaining his fine punting, kicking the pigskin 44.5 yards a punt, one of the best averages in the nation.

Billed as best team ever

Frosh seek fourth win at NIU

When the SIU freshmen football team travels to Northern Illinois Friday, they will be trying to win their fourth game without a setback.

Billed prior to the start of the season as Southern's best freshmen group, the Saluki yearlings have rolled over the freshmen of Evansville 22-13, Murray State 27-22 and Memphis State 21-12.

Northern Illinois freshmen are 1-2 for the campaign.

The Salukis successes have been spearheaded by 6-2, 205-pound halfback Robert Hasberry from Heidelberg, Miss., 5-9, 175-pound fullback Joe Stasik from Pittsburg, Pa., and 6-2, 185-pound quarterback Tom Nottingham from Hampton, Va.

Hasberry has rushed for 184 yards in 29 carries for a 6.3 average, and Stasik boasts a 3.5 mark with 138 yards in 40 attempts. Nottingham, although pushed by reserve quarterback Lewis Jones of Dixon, has completed seven of 13 passes for 79 yards. Jones has hit on 10 of 25 passes for 190 yards.

Taking over the Salukis from Bolick, who is serving four months active duty in the reserves, is former graduate assistant Ralph Young. He is being aided by Charles Pemberton, Grant Henry and Charles Cignetti.

University of Michigan tops in passing, rushing

CHICAGO (AP) — The University of Michigan has the leading rusher and the leading passer in the Big Ten Conference football campaign thus far this season, according to figures released Wednesday by the Big Ten office.

Wolverine halfback Ron Johnson in 86 rushes in three games has a net gain of 399 yards for an average of 4.6. Johnson has scored 4 touchdowns.

Michigan's Dennis Brown has completed 34 passes in 65 attempts for 491 yards and a .523 average.

The second leading rusher in the conference after three league games is halfback John Isenbarger of Indiana. In 63 rushes Isenbarger has a net yardage gain of 342 and a 5.4 average. Isenbarger has scored two touchdowns.

Third place in the rushing statistics goes to Purdue's fleet halfback Leroy Keyes who has scored five touchdowns. In three games Keyes has carried 55 times for 300 yards for a 5.5 average.

Northwestern's surprising sophomore quarterback, Dave Shelbourne, is the Big Ten's second leading passer with 40 completions in 76 attempts good for 416 yards and an average of .526. Larry Lawrence of Iowa is third in the league with 31 completions in 59 tries good for 504 yards and a .525 mark.

Keyes is the leading scorer with five touchdowns good for 30 points followed by Indiana's Jade Butcher, Michigan's Johnson and Ohio State's Jim Otis. Each has four touchdowns and 24 points.

Job, salary data

Placement Services assists grads

By Muriel Kephart

To the prospective SIU June graduate who wonders what will be the monetary value of his diploma in today's job market, the University Placement Services has the answer.

The 1966-67 annual report of the University Placement Services and a 3 per cent projected increase for 1968 indicate the SIU graduate who has technical training and enters business or industry will receive an average annual salary of $8,800.

A salary of $7,350 will be paid to the non-technically trained graduate in business or industry.

Since many business and industrial firms have a trainee program with a lower salary during the training period, these salaries may not be indicative of the total salaries picture. In many cases, additional benefits in the way of commissions, insurance and expense accounts make a given salary more attractive.

The elementary education teaching jobs will be paying in the area of $6,100 a year, while the secondary level will be returning about $5,975 for a year's service.

Herall C. Largent, director of University Placement Services, pointed out, "There will be a large market of available jobs for the graduates who take advantage of the full interviewing season. Since the largest number of recruiters visit the campus between November and February, early registration for the free service will be beneficial to the student."

The areas of technology, engineering and agriculture are in constant demand to firms. To the non-business oriented student with a liberal arts degree, management and sales training programs are on a marked increase.

"Most firms that are hiring management and sales trainees, outside the business majors, are interested in his aggressive personality and social traits revealed through his interview," Largent advised.

Of the 1967 SIU graduates, 38.6 per cent went into teaching, 23.8 per cent followed business careers, 15.3 per cent continued on to graduate school and 7.6 per cent went into the military.

"Most business and industrial firms are interested in employing an individual even if he hasn't fulfilled his military obligation," said Largent. "The time that the employe spends with the firm before entering the service acts as a trial period."

Illinois claims the vast majority of SIU graduates, followed by Missouri, Indiana, California and New York. The Southern Illinois area (lower 41 counties of the state) employed 51.3 per cent of the 1967 graduates.

In the 1968 placement year, Oct. 1-Sept. 30, 460 business firms and 321 schools scheduled to interview 7,230 prospective employes. As a rule, business firms schedule interviews earlier in the year than do educational systems.

With the interviewing season approaching its most productive period Largent and his staff are busy scheduling interviews between registrants and future employers, always adhering to the Placement Service philosophy.

"The philosophy of the Placement Services encourages Southern Illinois graduates to accept positions where they can make the greatest contribution to society."

film, he said it should jolt and stimulate, be well-done and use new methods.

"The artist is a communicator telling it like it is," he continued. "Art is a definition of man's experience in life. In it you can get political, racial, social, economic and philosophical ideas."

Johnson said he once thought of having a tour of works of art on campus, but added, "This sounds too much like a General Studies course."

For students interested in some of the gems in the University Galleries' collection, Johnson mentioned some that are rarely seen. Off in a lounge of the Communications Building is a collection of about 50 photographs representing the skill of some of the most famous photographers in America.

In Morris Library, there is a drawing of King Farouk, which, according to Johnson, depicts all kinds of ideas like morality, ethics and propriety. And of course there is an exhibit of German expressionist paintings and drawings in Mitchell Gallery.

"You don't have to be an artist to appreciate the works of art," according to Johnson.

Art director says SIU lacks well-designed gallery space

By Stephanie Brown

SIU needs more art gallery space, according to Evert Johnson, director of University Galleries.

Johnson, who is in charge of the some 1,000 items in the University's art collection, said he feels that the Magnolia Lounge, the University Center Ballrooms and the Allyn Building "are not places well-designed for gallery exhibits."

There is only one gallery, Mitchell Gallery, on campus. Although 24,000 people a year view the gallery exhibits, Johnson thinks the rest of the campus is bare. He said he felt that people who spend most of their time in the Communications, Technology and Agriculture buildings "never get to the gallery."

Some art items—sculpture, tapestries, photographs, paintings and drawings—are found in most buildings on campus. "It's well and good to have decorative art but it should go deeper," Johnson said.

In an attempt to broaden the availability of art, an architectural arts program is bringing art more into the daily lives of students and faculty through original works of art purchased for new buildings.

"Why have art on campus? According to Johnson, a student gets an informal education through exposure living with works of art.

"You can view art with a natural curiosity instead of a broad background in art appreciation," he said. Likening contemporary art to a good

Faculty members to evaluate programs for disadvantaged

Two SIU educators have been appointed to evaluate Centralia and Metropolis programs designed to help disadvantaged pupils.

Named by Raymond J. 13 lucky in old Egypt

The ancient Egyptians believed 13 was a lucky number. For them there were 12 steps to be climbed during a lifetime. The 13th led to everlasting life.

Quick, assistant director for evaluation under Title I, Elementary and Secondary Education Act, were John R. Verduin and John P. Casey. Verduin is program director in the Department of Student Teaching and Casey is a member of the department's faculty.

Verduin said they will write a report on their evaluation that will appear in a booklet, "Title I—A Hope for the Disadvantaged."

Financial assistance available if students apply

By Larry Haley

Most students in need of financial assistance can probably get help—if they apply early enough, says Raymond De Jarnett, assistant director of Student Work and Financial Assistance.

Many scholarships and loans are available, he continued, and many are not claimed. For example, there are about 2,400 Illinois state grants and scholarships available each year for SIU students who can qualify.

Many students, De Jarnett explained, are not aware of the possibilities of obtaining a scholarship or grant whether it is state, federal or university supported.

Also, he said, some students expect a scholarship to come to them rather than applying for one. These two factors cut back the number of applicants considerably, he commented.

Application for any scholarship should be made before May 15, the year prior to entering school, De Jarnett said. Many students wait until they start the school year before applying. Then it is too late to help them for the present academic year.

The dead line for application for the Illinois State Scholarship was July 1, 1968. The final date for next year is Feb. 15, 1969, he stated.

To apply for a scholarship, an application can be obtained at Washington Square, Student Work and Financial Assistance, Building B. It must be mailed to the Illinois State Scholarship Commission in Deerfield, Ill., De Jarnett said.

Many grants are on a year-to-year basis and an application must be submitted each spring.

Grade status varies for different scholarships. Some require a 4.0 average while others merely require a student in good standing.

The National Defense Student Loan Program, according to the Student Work and Fi-ancial Assistance Bulletin, is a "long-term program from which eligible students are granted substantial loans for educational purposes." Qualifications are that students be citizens or persons in the United States in a permanent resident status, and in good standing. The amount of loan is about $250 per quarter for undergraduates and $625 per quarter for graduates.

Educational Opportunity grants are designed for students with exceptional financial need. To qualify, students must have received or applied for a National Defense Student Loan and must be employed in the Student Work Program.

The amount of the grant cannot be less than $200 or more than $800 per academic year.

Illinois State Teacher Education Scholarships are designed for selected students who plan to enter the teaching profession. Students who are in the upper third of their high school graduating class are eligible for the scholarship. The scholarship covers tuition fees, student activity fee and graduation fee. Students must be registered in a teacher training program while using the scholarship.

There are numerous scholarships available. Information about them can be obtained at Washington Square.

SIU master's degree offered in Metropolis

Courses leading to a master's degree in engineering, with a specialization in transfer and rate processes, are now being offered to engineers in the Metropolis area by the SIU School of Technology, according to Douglas S. Prensner, assistant professor of engineering.

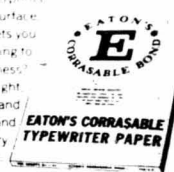

One course is offered each quarter in Metropolis, which Prensner says is the center of a large chemical industry. The courses will allow engineers employed in the area to further their education. A portion of the work for a master's degree must be done in residence at SIU. These extension courses, however, Prensner says, allow the men to complete some of their degree requirements while remaining at their present jobs.
