107th holiday service attracts 60 residents

In a windblown ceremony touched with confusion, about 60 Carbondale residents Monday honored Southern Illinois war dead at Woodlawn Cemetery.

Woodlawn, at Main and Graham Streets, was the site of the first Memorial Day service in 1866, and this year was its 107th annual memorial.

City Councilman Archie Jones, acting as master of ceremonies, told those assembled that even though many of the soldiers buried at Woodlawn are unknown, they are honored for what they fought for.

A University ROTC color guard posted the flag at the speaker's stand. It was the only one of three at the stand that had 50 stars.

A flag-raising ceremony was followed by the traditional reading of Gen. John A. Logan's 1863 General Order No. 11 to the Grand Army of the Republic, which officially designated May 30th as Memorial Day.

Carbondale Mayor Neal Eckert urged the spectators not to address themselves merely to their own problems, but to be concerned with the problems of their country.

Referring to the war dead, Eckert said, "These people we are honoring had the courage to act on these problems. I hope we do too."

The Daniel H. Brush Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution placed a wreath at the grave of Col. Daniel Brush, founder of Carbondale. Wreaths were also placed at the grave of the unknown Civil War soldier and two other soldiers' graves.

The American Legion, VFW Auxiliaries, and the Federated Women's Club, participated in the wreath-laying ceremonies.

Storm floods city, kills SIU student

By Tom Finan
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

A storm which deluged Carbondale with 3.25 inches of rain Saturday night left automobiles stranded, stores and homes flooded and at least one person dead in its aftermath.

The fatality, Michael R. Olcott, 24, SIU freshman from Marengo, was a passenger in a car driven by James F. Petersen, also an SIU student, during the storm Saturday night. Petersen told Jackson County Sheriff's police that he and Olcott were driving along Makanda blacktop when they found a tree blocking the road about one mile from Rt. 51.

Petersen said Olcott got out of the car and touched the limb, apparently unaware that a power line had fallen on it, and was electrocuted. Olcott was pronounced dead on arrival at Doctor's Memorial Hospital in Carbondale.

Funeral services for Olcott will be held at the Cooper Funeral Home in Marengo at 1:30 p.m. Thursday. Burial will be at Marengo City Cemetery.

Olcott served in the U.S. Marines before coming to SIU.

He is survived by his father and mother, Robert and Carol Olcott, and by his brothers and sisters, Kenneth, Wendy, Aimee, David and Jennifer.

In Carbondale, water flooded the streets, making them impassable in some places. Water was over a foot deep in areas along Illinois Avenue and South Wall Streets.

Carbondale Police reported numerous cars stalled in the deep water.

Water was reported a foot deep in businesses along Illinois Avenue and water pressure burst the glass of the front door at Diener Stereo, 409 S. Illinois Ave.

The SIU-Carbondale Police Community Relations Center, 312 S. Illinois Ave., which opened Saturday with a ribbon cutting ceremony, was also flooded in the storm.

A spokesman for the U.S. Weather Bureau at Southern Illinois Airport said the recorded rainfall for last Memorial Day weekend was 1.75 inches.

Anthony Blass, director of the SIU Physical Plant, said he hadn't heard of any storm damage. Blass said there had been some water seepage in the basement at Morris Library.

A spokesman for Central Illinois Public Service said various lines around Carbondale were down. The spokesman said no towns were without power for any great length of time with the exceptions of McClure and Olive Branch.

The two towns were without power for over six hours because high water had washed out bridges, the spokesman said.

A scheduled rifle salute to the dead was omitted, taps was played, and the Rock Hill Baptist Choir sang "Battle Hymn of the Republic."

The benediction, offered by the Rev. L.W. Wilson of the Bethel A.M.E. Church, asked "the fellowship of the Holy Spirit on us all."

A simultaneous Memorial Day service was jointly conducted by the V.F.W. and American Legion at Glenhaven Memorial Gardens, on Old Rt. 13, West of Carbondale.

Steam engine puffs out of Marion

With a hoarse, high whistle and a blast of steam the first run of the Crab Orchard and Egyptian Railroad pulled out of the North Market St. station in Marion at noon Monday.

"Get a good hold," someone cried, as the train gave a few soft bumps and pulled past a crowd of about 125 persons waving hats, hands and handkerchiefs.

Before the train even built up a good head of steam, U.S. Rep. Kenneth Gray, D-West Frankfort, was walking up and down the aisle shaking hands with all the Southern Illinois boosters on board the area's newest tourist attraction.

The Marion High School Band pretty much filled up the first car, adding melodious toots and thumps to the holiday atmosphere aboard.

The train was led by a 27-year-old steam locomotive which American Rail Heritage Ltd., owner of the Crab Or-

Proceedings begin in Equity swindle

CHICAGO (AP) — The Illinois Attorney General is initiating criminal proceedings in what he described as possibly the largest fraud in the history of the country—the Equity Funding Life Insurance Co. swindle.

Atty. Gen. William Scott said his investigators have gathered enough information to begin presenting evidence to a grand jury this week.

Equity Insurance was chartered in Illinois and nominally headquartered in Elmhurst, a suburb of Chicago.

Scott said he is taking the grand jury action partly because of the Illinois charter and partly because "the Watergate mess has immobilized some branches of the federal government," delaying any criminal proceedings on possible federal violations.

Investigations in the recent months have shown that, through the sophisticated manipulation of computers, a massive fraud was perpetrated in phony insurance policies.

The Illinois Department of Insurance has taken over Equity Insurance and has been paying death claims.

The parent company, Equity Funding Corp. of America, a giant mutual fund firm, is undergoing bankruptcy proceedings in California.

Scott said that while the investigation of Equity Insurance continues in California, he was told by the attorney general there that there are no plans for criminal proceedings in California.

"I'm sure the federal government will be getting into it," Scott said, "but let's face it, when I was in California a week ago there was no attorney general of the United States and no head of the SEC... there's no one at the top to push a button."

Under Illinois law, the attorney general has no authority to call a state grand jury except in antitrust matters.

Therefore, Scott said, for the Equity investigation, he is going to "borrow" a county grand jury, that of Du Page County, in which Elmhurst is located.

He said he believes he is on firm legal ground in doing this, but that he would not be surprised if this move is challenged.

Interpretation requested

Grad residency policy remains unanswered

By Sherry Winn
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Request for a formal interpretation of residency requirements for graduate students has gone unanswered by the administration, the Graduate Student Council (GSC) committee reported Friday.

The ad hoc committee on residency requirements asked both SIU President David R. Derge and John Huffman, legal counsel, for a formal interpretation of residency requirements.

Derge said he wouldn't make any statement of policy because the question of residency is currently in litigation in the courts.

No statement has been received by the council from Huffman.

In March, the committee was formed to look into the matter of residency. Several complaints had been made to the council, about the inconsistency of the legal counsel in granting residency.

One graduate student threatened to sue the University and in fact did hire a lawyer. He was granted residency a week later.

At the meeting Friday, 24 members of a total of 65 attended. At both the April and March meetings fewer than 24 members attended.

The GSC has been officially recognized as a governing body of the University, and George Wilson, president of the GSC, has proposed restructuring the council.

Because restructuring constitutes a change in the GSC Constitution, two-thirds of the membership of the council must vote to pass or defeat the proposed restructuring.

But two-thirds of the membership is never present for a meeting.

An ad hoc committee on organization was formed at the April meeting to study the restructuring proposal and whether it is feasible or not.

The committee presented its final report Friday. The committee found that the proposal is "feasible and desirable. Input for this decision has been from graduate students, chairmen of departments and deans."

Wilson proposes that a Graduate and Professional Student Senate be formed comprising 24 members—two senators from each of the 10 colleges and two schools.

For the first time, the GSC will incorporate students from the schools of law and medicine and any other professional program at SIU.

The committee studying the restructuring presented the following guidelines for the organization of the new graduate student body:

—Graduate student unit councils should be formed whose memberships will be comprised of representatives from each of the departments within the colleges or schools.

—The unit councils will draft an operational paper and file it with the Graduate and Professional Student Senate Office by October 30.

—Departmental organizations should be formed to elect representatives to the unit council.

—A committee to rewrite the GSC constitution should be formed and the constitution rewritten by October 30.

—A committee to work on the phasing process and the coordination of organizational efforts at the departmental and college level should be organized and begin work immediately.

After some discussion about the committee's report, the council decided to call a special meeting to continue discussion on restructuring and to vote on the proposal, if the necessary two-thirds membership is present.

No date was set for the meeting.

As a bona fide representative body of the graduate students the GSC has the power to make recommendations for the allocation of all graduate student activity fees. In the past the GSC had to request funds from the Fee Allocation Board established for students at the University for both graduates and undergraduates.

The procedure for making the recommendations was left to the council.

The council voted Friday to establish a Fee Allocation Board, which will be a sub-committee of the council's Finance Committee, "to develop criteria and procedures for the allocation of graduate student activity fees and to present its allocation recommendations directly to the GSC for approval."

This board will be comprised of seven to 12 members, to be elected before the third week in September.

The treasurer of the council will be an ex-officio member of the board.

In other action, the council elected representatives to the Graduate Council and heard reports from committees established during the past year.

Those elected to the Graduate Council were: Larry Lagow, higher education; Tony Puchello, higher education; Karen Evans, higher education; Phil Lenzini, philosophy; and Mike Durkman, fine arts.

Europe plans quieter jet

PARIS (AP) — A consortium of four European companies Monday announced plans for a $13 million airliner designed to be twice as quiet as the quietest passenger jet now flying.

The Europlane twin-jet is designed to carry 180 to 200 passengers on short-to-medium-range routes and is scheduled to go into service in 1979, its makers said at a news conference at the Paris air show.

Werner Blohm, chairman of Europlane company, said by 1985 there will be a market for more than 1,300 aircraft of this type, with the largest demand being in the United States.

"The plane's quietness is fundamental to the design," Blohm said.

The plane is designed for use with existing engines, which will be placed to the rear and sides of the fuselage. With the motors above the level of the wings, persons on the ground will be shielded from the noise, Blohm claimed.

As presently conceived, the plane is well below the maximum allowable noise ratings established by the U.S. Federal Aviation Administration (FAA), Blohm said, and will still be within noise limits if the American agency lowers them later.

Blohm said the Europlane's closest rival in its market category will be a twin-jet being designed by Boeing.

The Europlane company is made up by the British Aircraft Corp., Saab-Scania of Sweden, Messerschmitt-Belkows-Blohm of West Germany and Construcciones Aeronauticas of Spain.

Two Women join Saluki Patrol

By Andrea Nelson
Student Writer

The old adage, "A policeman's lot is not a happy one" doesn't seem to apply to policewomen, at least not to Patrolwomen Kathy Connors and Rita Blakeslee. They are the first female members of the Saluki Patrol, a student-based division of the SIU Security Police.

Both women have expressed satisfaction with the acceptance on the patrol by both Saluki patrol members and the public.

Patrolwoman Connors, 21, a junior majoring in administration of justice, has been working on the patrol for five weeks.

"The response we have gotten has been just great. Some of the University Security Police are still trying to get used to the idea of female patrolman, but I haven't heard of any complaints thus far," Ms. Connors said.

Ms. Connors said that she currently collects parking fees on lot 13 across from the Student Center.

"There have been a few incidents in the parking lot where my authority has been challenged by people who try to get out without paying, but I don't think it was because I am a woman. They probably gave me less trouble than they would have given a man in the same situation," she said.

Ms. Connors said that initially her superiors were hesitant to allow her to stay on duty at the lot until 1:30 a.m., when her shift was completed.

"Now I guess they figure that if I took the job, I also have to get used to the risks involved," she said.

In reference to the possibility of attack, Ms. Connors said that although the Saluki Patrol doesn't offer any specialized courses in self-defense yet, she intends to take a course in karate this summer.

"When I told my parents that I had joined the force, they were shocked, but now both they and my husband's parents are very proud of me. My husband is with the Saluki Patrol, and he thinks it's wonderful," she said.

Looking towards the future, Ms. Connors said she would like to eventually become a detective after her graduation from SIU.

Patrolwoman Rita Blakeslee, 18, a freshman majoring in corrections and law enforcement at VTI, said the Women's Liberation movement had very little to do with her decision to make policewoman her career.

"I'm for some aspects of Women's Lib, but that's not why I applied for the job. Actually, I heard about this opportunity in one of my classes, and my instructor encouraged me to look into it. Up until that point there were no other women working with the Saluki Patrol," she said.

A member of the patrol for just three weeks now, Ms. Blakeslee said that so far she hasn't experienced any difficulties based on her sex, only a lot of comments and surprised looks.

"Right now I am on the lake and woods patrol, which is an on-foot watch from 6 p.m. to midnight. I'm paired with another patrolman, and our job is to prevent rapes, to check doors, and to issue tickets at places inaccessible to the security police," she said.

Ms. Blakeslee said that once a week, she and the other members of the Saluki Patrol must attend a class which teaches how to use handcuffs and nightsticks, the operation of the radio, traffic control and other skills which fall under the category of general police procedures.

"There are an awful lot of pressures involved in this kind of work, but I love it, and I would like to be an example for other girls who thought they might be interested in careers in police work, but felt it wasn't possible because of their sex," Ms. Blakeslee said.

"At first I was hesitant to ask too many questions. I was afraid that the others on the patrol would stop thinking 'new' and start thinking 'girl.' Now I realize that it's okay to ask, and they will help me all they can," she said.

Ms. Blakeslee said that she would like to go to work with the Chicago Police in a squad car after graduation, but as of yet, that city does not allow women to hold that position within the force.

Capt. Lyndal Graff, supervisor of the Saluki Patrol, said that he became interested in recruiting women after reading about similar policies in other metropolitan police forces.

"I decided to make my patrol a more progressive one, so I contacted some people at VTI and they sent me five applicants. Based on the interviews I had with these women, I chose Cathy and Rita," he said.

Graff said that all of the members of the student patrol are on probation for their first quarter on the force.

"If they don't measure up, they are let go. If they can't pull their weight, they make it all the more difficult for everyone else," he said.

Graff said the recruitment of women for the patrol has helped the overall spectrum of the members, and he expressed enthusiasm for what he perceived to be improvements in their attitudes.

Commenting on the risks involved in being on the Saluki Patrol, Graff said, "The greatest dangers are snowballs in the winter, and bottles that are dropped from dormitory windows. I believe the riot era is over."

"The women in our patrol use the same equipment, have the same uniforms and share the same duties. I believe that a woman, given the proper training, can handle any situation as well as a man," he said.

Astronauts may complete full mission

SPACE CENTER, HOUSTON (AP)—SkyLab commander Charles Conrad Jr. replied "you betcha" today when asked in a space news conference if he thought he and his crewmates could complete a full 28-day mission in this nation's first orbiting laboratory.

"We're in good shape to complete a full 28 days up here," Conrad replied to one of several questions submitted by newsmen here and relayed by Mission Control.

"Everything's clean as a whistle in here and work is going along as well as we expected it," he added. "We see no problems."

The seven-minute conference, televised to the Space Center, was held during a lunch break on the astronauts' fourth day in space.

chard and Egyptian Railroad rescued from a railroad museum in Freedom, Wis. Three cars, filled to their total capacity of 192 persons, chugged along behind. The cars once were part of the Illinois Central electric train system that served commuters on Chicago's South Side. Some of the old advertising cards, promoting Chicago banks and businesses, still hang along the walls.

Despite its out-of-town heritage, the train assumed a purely local character by being christened "The Pyramid Express." Aaron Walker, Marion, who submitted the name in a contest sponsored by the tourist train company, won a $25 savings bond for his winning idea.

Before too long, the train had reached its legal speed limit of 20 m.p.h. and was swaying into Crab Orchard Wildlife Refuge.

Rep. Gray, gripping the back of a seat for support, had to lean close to reporters and well-wishers to make himself audible above the clacks and chugs of the train.

"This train can't do anything but enhance tourism in Southern Illinois," Gray said.

Tourism is on its way to becoming a local industry "co-equal with coal," he predicted. "Tourism can be a $1 billion-a-year industry," Gray added.

The 14-mile run into Crab Orchard and back to Marion needs an "added attraction," Gray said. "Something like an Indian village or a man wrestling an alligator."

Local support is absolutely necessary to promote Southern Illinois tourism, Gray said. "I've been telling the local people, 'If you want outside interests to make all the profit, just sit and do nothing.'"

There won't be much local opposition to an influx of tourists, Gray maintained, because there is plenty of room in Southern Illinois for tourists to "spread themselves out." The improved highway system, linking Southern Illinois to large metropolitan areas also will promote orderly relations with tourists, Gray added.

American Rail Heritage Ltd., founded to create the tourist steam railroad, was represented at the grand opening trip by its officers. Garbed in traditional striped overalls, Herbert Soberg, executive vice president and treasurer, shoveled coal into the boiler. President Hugh Crane, similarly attired, took the throttle as the train puff its way to Crab Orchard past backyards, alleys and farms. Their excitement at seeing a dream come true was translated into frequent blasts of the train's whistle.

American Rail Heritage Ltd. has about 20 stockholders. W.E. Schirber, vice president and general manager of the firm, said. About "six to eight" of the stockholders are local residents, he estimated.

As a thin blanket of steam and coal smoke spread along the train's route, it was inevitable to wonder how trackside residents would feel about the possibility of the Pyramid Express passing by four times a day in summer, as plans dictate.

"They'll get used to it," John Mitchell, master mechanic of the railroad, said. The train's boiler is too small to fall under the jurisdiction of the Environmental Protection Agency, Mitchell noted. In addition, Mitchell, who is an engineer, said he doesn't feel the smoke is as serious a pollutant as it appears.

A glance out the window as the Pyramid Express clacked along seemed to reveal that no one minded the smoke and whistling at all.

At every crossing and all along the way to the wildlife refuge, small knots of people smiled and waved as the old train passed by.

Editorial East meets West

In light of the recent scandal involving the president of our "sister school," Hanyang University, it seems an appropriate time to re-examine the nature of our relationship with that institution.

President Lyun Joon Kim was indicted May 7 for bribery and embezzlement, just three months after President David R. Derge established an exchange program with the school. Kim was also relieved of his presidential post following the indictment.

Although Kim has not yet been tried and the integrity of a University cannot be judged solely on the actions of its president, one might wonder how a relationship with Hanyang University can benefit SIU. Questions also arise as to how much Derge knew about Kim and the University when he agreed to an exchange program involving SIU faculty and students.

"Every major University must have a strong international dimension which is nurtured and developed," Derge said after his 11-day excursion to Seoul. By what measures did Derge test the mettle of this university before committing our institution to be its "sister." There is no indication that he sought any opinion or advice from those on campus acquainted with Korean educational systems. Not that the campus lacks such sources. There are, in fact, 15 Korean students at SIU and one Korean faculty member at VTI. There are also other sources, such as professor of history C. Harvey Gardiner who has lectured at a number of Korean universities.

And the suggestion that Derge has any extensive personal background in international education is highly questionable. A review of his published works shows great knowledge in state politics, but no authoritative works in international education bear his signature. It would seem only logical for him at least to have sought some information from those partially knowledgeable in the area.

After his return from Seoul, Derge said he had discussed a program whereby SIU could contribute to upgrading Korean educational systems. How is an institution which has offered no prior coursework focused on Korean language or culture to prepare an American student to shift into a Korean system? Who at SIU is such a knowledgeable authority that this school could hope to "upgrade" an educational process which is currently squirming under the thumb of a near dictatorial president? Could it be that SIU would pretend that the educational and governmental system of Illinois would be right for Korea too?

Derge also noted upon his return that the students at Hanyang University are dedicated, hard-working and motivated. Certainly that conclusion might have been a bit hasty considering Derge doesn't speak Korean and observed the students for only 11 days.

Not only must the objectives and concerns of President Derge be scrutinized, but also those of Basil Hedrick, dean of international education, and the Board of Trustees.

Prior to Derge's trip to Korea, it was hardly mentioned that such an agreement was under consideration or that the University had investigated the matter. Hedrick met Derge in Seoul but has never offered any rationale to the university community—whose interests ideally are at heart here—about establishing an exchange program.

Final approval of the conferring of honorary degrees had to come from the Board of Trustees. One wonders how aware the board is of SIU's capacity to meet needs required in such a program. Could it be that the board offers no more to SIU than a rubber stamp to the presidential will?

It was noted in a March 6 article in the Daily Egyptian that "Kim apparently makes it a hobby to set up sisterhood relationships with foreign universities" and customarily awards honorary degrees to the university presidents responsible for setting up the relationships. Kim initiated what former president Robert G. Layer called a "last minute statement of friendship" during a visit to SIU in 1971. Layer said he was "hardpressed" to discover Kim's purpose in coming to SIU and says the present administration was under no commitment to further any agreement with Kim.

What, then, was Derge's purpose in setting up the exchange program and accepting an honorary degree from Hanyang University? Honorary degrees are historically conferred upon individuals out of recognition for philanthropic action toward an institution, or for recognition of an outstanding alumnus, or to honor a great person who has made some significant contribution to mankind, or to draw a crowd to hear a commencement speaker who is to be so honored. Into which category does Derge fit in regard to Hanyang University?

And even further, into what category does Kim fit in regard to SIU?

In March, an unofficial campus source speculated Kim would arrive at SIU in June to receive his honorary degree from this institution. Can SIU in good conscience now bestow such an honor upon a man whose integrity is in question?

Hopefully, SIU will reconsider its status with Hanyang University and move in a direction to best protect its own integrity and the interests of its students, faculty, staff and administration.

Hopefully in the future, SIU will not further impede its search for academic excellence by entering into such relationships in as seemingly a reckless manner as with Hanyang.

Letters to the editor

"Interrogation"

To the Daily Egyptian:

Ed Harmond made an interesting comment in the May 25 edition of the Daily Egyptian which states that he wonders if the present administration is in any way attempting to keep the SIU community well-informed about relevant material. I wish to state at this time that in my interpretation, the administration of SIU couldn't give a damn less about informing the community. As is policy with this newspaper I wish to deal only with absolute facts.

At the beginning of fall quarter this school year, I had an appointment with the president of SIU-C. What followed was I think testimony to my above statement. As I entered the president's office in Anthony Hall, I was rudely intercepted by Dr. David R. Derge, alias the president of this university. Let me point out that I had asked for the appointment and merely wished to ask him questions on several relevant things.

In an extremely rude manner, and with three of his assistants by his side, including his legal counsel, John Huffman, he began an interrogation of me. He alluded to the points in several of my previous letters, (all of which he had before him mounted on loose-leaf paper), and stated that there were several statements in the letters which were false and libelous. He then DEMANDED that I write a letter to the Daily Egyptian apologizing to him. When I asked him what the truth was so I could be better informed and state the true facts in an apology, he refused to tell me. He would not inform me of the "truth" so that in the future I could "get things right." (Dr. Derge's words)

I find this behavior totally unbecoming a university president and find this case (out of the several cases I have had with him), to be testimony to the fact of the total disregard the president of SIU has in regards to the students of SIU. I must repeat at this time that all of the above is absolute fact and not in any way false or libelous.

You're safe

To the Daily Egyptian:

We are writing in response to the Southern Illinoisian article of May 22, the Daily Egyptian article of May 23 and the AP wire story which reported the memo banning publication of editorials or letters "which originate from the Radio-TV, public relations, journalism, cinema and photography sector which are critical of the administration" and to the statement of May 24 in the Egyptian.

No faculty member in cinema and photography has ever written a letter to the Egyptian or an editorial for it in reference to the university administration or university policy. Letters which have caused concern apparently came from one student majoring in this department. To censure an entire university department—faculty and students alike—and to restrict their access to a supposedly free press because of the actions of 1-322nd of the department's student population is wrong.

We would like to make it clear, also, that the Department of Cinema and Photography does not and will not assume responsibility for statements made by its students or its faculty acting as private citizens. At the same time, we hope we may still assume that a person does have the right to exercise his freedom to express his own opinions in a responsible manner.

Suggestions

To the Daily Egyptian:

The purpose of this letter is to bring to your attention a problem I feel should be corrected. It appears that there are many more copies of the Daily Egyptian being printed each day than are necessary. As a result, there are a great number of newspapers left over. The printing of these excess newspapers is a needless waste of newsprint, but the biggest waste are the trees that are cut down to make the newsprint.

These excess papers are part of a tree that took years to grow. It is a waste to the environment to have that tree cut down if it isn't going to be used for useful purposes. My suggestion is that the Daily Egyptian conduct a survey among students to find out approximately how many students read the Daily Egyptian. From the results of this survey the Daily Egyptian could determine how many copies should be printed. The Daily Egyptian could also designate a central location where students could bring back used newspapers for recycling. By recycling the old newspaper, the Daily Egyptian could reduce the waste and cost of newsprint. These suggestions are to be intended to be helpful, not critical, so I hope the Daily Egyptian will consider them.

Good morning housewives and other shut-ins. It's time for another daily chapter of "Return to Payoff Place"—the heartwarming story that reveals the most intimate secrets of the just plain folks who live in a typical Middle American community called "Whitehouse."

When we left them yesterday, Jim, the honest burglar who wants to go straight, was telling kindly old Sheriff Sam all about The Mysterious Phone Call.

Burglar Jim, as you remember, told Sheriff Sam that he had a Mysterious Phone Call from his old friend, Mr. Caulfield, who worked for Mayor Dick. Mayor Dick, Jim said, offered to spring him from the pen and give him a bundle of money if he promised not to rat on his old buddies. Otherwise, he'd have him rubbed out.

"But I'm a good American first and a burglar second," said Honest Jim forthrightly. "And therefore I decided to rat on my buddies."

Sheriff Sam, however, said he couldn't arrest Mayor Dick on hearsay evidence like that—specially when Mayor Dick denied the whole thing. But he promised to go right on gathering all the hearsay evidence Mayor Dick could deny.

Meanwhile, pipe-puffing old John and Maurice the Bagman denied arranging a love affair between Mayor Dick and a wealthy paramour for $200,000. They said the paramour, who suddenly remembered an appointment in South America, wasn't trying to buy Mayor Dick's favors, but only wanted to contribute to good government. Either way, it looked like $200,000 down the drain. Mayor Dick, however, denied it, one way or the other.

At the same time, John's Other Wife, Martha, who was or was not kidnaped, beaten and drugged, has been very quiet lately. This has given rise to vicious rumors she's suffered a breakdown. Or a breakup. Or acute laryngitis. In an oversight, Mayor Dick has not yet denied this.

On the other hand, former Police Chief Helms said he refused Mayor Dick's instructions to tell Ephram Zimbalist Jr. not to raid a Mexican laundry. He said he didn't know anything about Mexican laundries. Mayor Dick said he didn't either. He then removed Chief Helms from office and transferred him to the sticks.

For suspense, our romantic lead, that handsome young idol, John III, wants to tell all he knows, if anything, about all the guilty things he and everybody else did—if Sheriff Sam won't send him to jail because he's really innocent.

John III was fired by Mayor Dick after he denied writing a report Mayor Dick said he wrote. That was before Mayor Dick denied the whole thing.

Anyway, our scene today opens in a psychiatrist's office. Burglars have rifled the files searching for detailed revelations of a famous patient's most intimate sexual life. Mayor Dick, however, has denied any knowledge of such things.

But first, this message.

Do you suffer from dirty money? Are you tired of the inconvenience of sending it out to unreliable Mexican laundries? Use Coverup!—the miracle cleanser that removes all traces from your $109 bills.

And, now, back to "Return to Payoff Place" and the hidden secrets of just plain folks. Unfortunately, however, our time has expired. So look in again tomorrow, friends. And meanwhile, stay tuned for "Truth or Consequences!"

IPIRG survey

To the Daily Egyptian:

In commenting on the recent Illinois Public Interest Research Group auto diagnosis survey, Mr. Lucian D. Willey charged in his letter that the IPIRG test car wasn't electronically diagnosed and that the work performed on the automobile was conducted by two VTI students. IPIRG was led to believe the car underwent an electronic diagnosis and subsequent investigation indicates that either the diagnosis or its equivalent was performed. In either case, the results of the survey were not influenced by this factor.

Mr. Willey didn't say that the two VTI students worked on the IPIRG test car under the supervision of a VTI instructor who certified the diagnosis and work performed on the automobile. In a telephone conversation with an IPIRG representative on May 22, this VTI instructor stated he was "completely satisfied" that the diagnosis and tune-up were performed and that the car was "in good condition." This work was further checked and certified by an IPIRG mechanic.

Mr. Willey resents that VTI was not informed of IPIRG's intent regarding this survey. When this project was conceived in late 1972, VTI was contacted regarding possible assistance. IPIRG was informed that VTI hesitated to cooperate because local automobile dealers might retaliate by refusing to hire VTI graduates. Because IPIRG was aware of VTI's excellent reputation and financially noncompetitive status it decided to have its test car tuned at VTI without their knowledge, so that their automotive technology graduates might be protected from such retaliation. IPIRG in reporting the survey results was careful not to imply that VTI was working in conjunction with IPIRG.

It seems from the tone of Mr. Willey's letter, which refers to a "publicity stunt" and an effort "to embarrass area new car dealers," that IPIRG's motives and actions have been distorted and prejudged. This is unfortunate because IPIRG was responding to the requests of area consumers for such a survey. It should also be reiterated that IPIRG is concerned with the collection and presentation of consumer-relevant information. The overwhelmingly positive reaction to this recent effort from Southern Illinois car owners—and a few car dealers—indicates that these goals were achieved. One matter which remains unresolved is why Mr. Willey, a man hired to train mechanics, would be so critical of efforts to disseminate such information regarding the competence of area mechanics.

Obstacle course

To the Daily Egyptian:

Recently, walking to the General Classrooms Building, I had to weave my way through a maze of parked bicycles to get inside. It bothered me at the time but when I took time to think that I could at least see these obstacles whereas a blind student could not, I really became incensed.

The blind students spend weeks learning directions and counting steps so that they can make it to their classes. Then some inconsiderate person has to park their bicycles in front of the doors jeopardizing the safety of the blind students. These people cannot take the two minutes necessary to move their bikes 30 feet to the bike rack next to General Classroom 2. It is more important that they save themselves 60 feet of walking and create a dangerous situation for a blind student.

Possibly students learn something at SIU but it sure isn't considerate for the other person.

Show stoppers

Follies coming to SIU stage

By Kathie Pratt
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Opening with "A Pretty Girl is Like a Bird," a takeoff on a Ziegfeld Follies number, the vaudeville show which opens at 8 p.m. Wednesday in the University Theater offers a variety of humorous and entertaining numbers.

The show's producers, Katie Hollis and Mary Falk, decided to present this production because a previous show held last summer was such a success.

From a group of more than 75 people who auditioned for the variety show, 80 were chosen to present their favorite skits. And the range of numbers is as varied as the people who appear in them.

Entitled, "Please Don't Ask Us for a 50-Foot Stud," the show will include juggling acts, singing and musical comedy. There's even a roller skating act by Vicki Rose and Chris Rahner.

Dr. Alfreds' Straumanis, instructor of theater, will provide a bit of culture in singing Russian and French songs. Laurie Baker will sing an operatic number from "Candide."

Ed undergrads to elect representatives

The election of undergraduate representatives to the College of Education Standing Committee will be held from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Wednesday.

All undergraduates enrolled in the college are eligible to vote. Lawrence Dennis, chairman of the Student-Faculty Concerns Committee, said, Undergraduates set for one academic year.

In the first act there is also a song and dance number "Can't Help Lovin' that Man" from "Showboat," as well as a lip-sync of a Bette Middler song, "Boogie Woogie Bugle Boys," a takeoff on the Andrews Sisters.

Opening the second act will be a medley from the Broadway show, "Grease," followed by a company number "Mister Man of Mine," featuring May Falk as a soloist.

Michael Dixon, graduate student of music who has appeared in a number of local operas, will perform a medley of songs by the Carpenters.

Chuck Herbst, publicity director, describes the show as "a wild cat production—which is a nice way of saying we don't have money."

Although admission is free, donations will be accepted, Ms. Hollis said.

"It's so rare that you get anything free around here we don't see how anyone can turn us down," Ms. Hollis said.

In addition to appearances by guest artists, such as Archibald McLeod, chairman of the department of theater, the production will feature pro-show activities beginning at 7:30 p.m. in the lobby of the University Theater.

Performers in the lobby will include Bonnie Laurie and her wonder dog, Rueben; Russ Devonch doing a Groucho Marx imitation; and Elaine Gallis demonstrating belly dancing.

Cordah Robinson will set up a kissing booth, with kisses selling for 37 cents. Joan, Dietrich will do a magic act and Bonita Blandi will be on hand to tell fortunes.

Ms. Hollis said that if the show is a success, an extra performance may be presented some time during the week. She also expressed a hope that a talent scout may be in the audience and decide to put the production on the road.

Memorial Day origin recalled

By Diane Mizalke
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

One April day in 1866, a Civil War widow visited a country churchyard near Carbondale. She had come to place flowers on the grave of her soldier husband.

The widow's simple memorial ceremony was observed by three Civil War veterans who happened to be standing nearby.

The next day, the three comrades visited Carbondale and began enlisting community support for a public ceremony to honor the Union dead.

On April 29, scarcely a year since Lee's surrender at Appomattox, a group of Carbondale citizens gathered at Woodlawn Cemetery. There, they held the first Decoration Day service.

As part of the observance, 319 Civil War veterans, assembled at the Methodist church and marched to the cemetery to hear a speech by General John A. Logan.

A community barbecue followed Logan's address. The townspeople roasted hogs donated by local farmers.

The next year, 1867, Decoration Day was again observed in Carbondale. In 1868, General Logan, who was then commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, issued a general order designating

May 30 a holiday "for the purpose of strewing with flowers or otherwise decorating the graves of comrades who died in defense of their country during the late rebellion." General Logan added his hope that the observance would be "kept up from year to year."

From Illinois, the custom of Decoration Day soon spread. The holiday, now called Memorial Day, has been legally recognized in most states.

Memorial Day, instituted to honor Civil War dead, is now dedicated to the memory of all those who died in any of the nation's wars.

SIU Grant Association receives $11,000 award

SIU's Ulysses S. Grant Association has been awarded an $11,000 grant from the General Services Administration (GSA), according to a press release from Congressman Kenneth J. Gray, D-Ill.

The GSA awarded the grant based upon the recommendation of the National Historical Publication Commission, the release stated. Funds for the grant were provided by Congress. The grant will run from July 1, 1973 to June 30, 1974.

John Y. Simon, project director, said the grant would be used for preparing an edition of Grant's papers.

"The money will be used to prepare materials dealing with the beginning of the Vicksburg campaign," Simon said. "Part of the money is for the employment of two professional researchers to find materials in the National Archives."

Simon said this was the ninth consecutive grant the association has received. The project, which Simon said is a comprehensive work, was started 10 years ago. Thus far, four volumes have been published by the SIU Press.

Art exhibition opens in Mitchell Gallery

An exhibition of the work of Robert Cavey and Richard Hohimer, both graduate students in the School of Art, will open with a reception at 7 p.m. Wednesday in Mitchell Gallery.

Cavey will be showing paintings, drawings, prints and sculptures. His work is the result of an attempt to bring about a connection between cartoon art and traditional museum art with the result often falling into the realm of serious humor.

Hohimer's works will include drawings constructed with a crayon and painting medium, designed to show a more direct emotional approach toward artistic expression.

He has exhibited his work widely in the Midwest area and has received awards from the Indianapolis Museum of Art and the Evansville Museum of Arts and Science.

Cavey's work has been published in All-American Rag, Bijou Funnies, Yellow Dog and Truckers Almanac. His own comics, Toe Jamb, has recently been published by Last Gasp Eco-Funnies.

Cavey received his undergraduate degree from Stout State University in Menominee, Wis. Hohimer graduated from the University of Evansville in 1969. Both will receive their master's degree from SIU in June.

The exhibition will remain in the Mitchell Gallery through June 8. The gallery is open weekdays from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. and admission is free.

Liberal Arts will hold elections

Elections of faculty, graduate and undergraduate representatives to the Council of Liberal Arts will be held from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. Tuesday.

All voting faculty member, graduate and undergraduate students in the College are eligible to vote. Polling places will be located in the offices of all departments of the college and in the advisement office.

Edward O'Day, chairman of the committee on selection and election, said problems have arose concerning the undergraduate nominees. He said most of the undergraduate representatives will have to be elected by write-in votes since only a few are listed as nominees.

O'Day said he hopes more undergraduates will submit nominees before the election. "This is part of the governing of the College," he said. The Council formulates policies concerning graduation requirements in the College, he added.

Terms for the Council members will be from July 1 to June 30, 1974.

Symposium speakers differ on Watergate judge's role

By Rafe Kilgler
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

In extraordinary circumstances, a judge may have to drop his neutral stance and assume a more adversary role to see that justice is served, Richard Richman, circuit judge of Jackson County, suggested.

Richman's suggestion, made at the symposium on the Courts sponsored by the SIU Student Civil Liberties Union Thursday night, concerned Federal Judge John Sirica's conduct during the trial of the Watergate break-in defendants.

Richman said that Sirica may have been "out of line" when he donned the role of a prosecutor and began to question the defendants himself. However, he added, the defendants had refused to talk and it was due to Sirica's interrogation that the information on the break-in was discovered.

Richman said the judge's actions may have been "legally" wrong, but "morally" right, since, without them, the Watergate case would have ended there.

Joining Richman, as co-panelists, were Ms. Eugenia Hunter of the Court Observing Project of the ACLU-SI chapter and Dennis Hogan, first circuit defender of the Illinois Criminal Defender Project.

Hogan said Sirica should have left the questioning to the prosecutor. He said he thought the information would have come out anyway. But, he added, a judge should never become an adversary in his own court.

Ms. Hunter discussed the need for more unbiased courtroom observers to watch trial proceedings and make sure that judges do not step out of bounds denying defendants their rights.

Ms. Hunter has worked as such an observer with the ACLU since May of 1970. Her report on judicial misconduct was released before last November's election and recommended against the retention of two judges.

She said press coverage of the report was insufficient and both judges were "just barely" retained by the voters.

However, she noted, the report did have an effect. One judge has improved his courtroom behavior, she said, while the other has become extremely irritated with the courtroom observers.

Discussing the media's role in trial reporting, Richman said the media "never get interested in the courts unless there is a sensational trial—and then they overdo it."

Richman said the press could perform a watchdog function over the courts, if they increased reportage of civil, traffic and less sensational criminal trials.

Of course, Richman said, the state has the responsibility to supervise the conduct of judges and other public officials. The financial disclosure statute is one method, as is the Judicial Inquiry Board, established in 1971 to review complaints of judicial misconduct, he said.

The nine-member board, composed of judges, lawyers and laymen, is a good idea, Ms. Hunter said, but it has been ineffective to date.

She said that of 125 complaints, the board has dismissed 95 as having "no substance" while the remainder of the complaints are in various stages of investigation. Two complaints, filed last Dec. 15, have yet to be reviewed by the board, she added.

Hogan suggested that the board, which operates "close to high people," may be ineffective due to political considerations. He said that having judges and lawyers on the board may also hurt board activity.

"Too often," Hogan explained, "professional people are reluctant to criticize those in their own field."

Hogan said the board might be more effective in taking action against misbehaving judges, if it were composed of a "bunch of young lawyers with zeal." Unfortunately, he said, "those of us who have been around for awhile, tend to lose our edge."

Obelisk issue will be late; fee delay blamed by editor

By Richard Lehman
Student Writer

A combination of delay in fee allocations and having a small staff explains why Obelisk will be issued late this year, according to Jackie Clark, editor of the yearbook.

The yearbook will be available near the end of the summer or at the start of fall quarter, Ms. Clark said. "It is not known yet if the Obelisk will be mailed to the graduating seniors who purchased the book. Last year it was mailed free of charge to the seniors," she added. The Obelisk got a late start this year because funds for operation were not received until late fall quarter. Usually the Obelisk is started during summer quarter, and with an adequate staff it can be finished on time, Ms. Clark said.

The Obelisk staff for 1973 includes the editor, one photographer and two volunteers. Ideally there should be a staff of around 12 members. The staff hopes to finish the 312-page Obelisk by the end of this quarter, the editor said.

When material for the Obelisk is finished it will be sent to the Walsworth Printing Co. in Marceline, Mo. There 2,300 copies will be printed at a cost of $13,000, Ms. Clark said.

The Obelisk received $6,000 from student fee allocations last fall quarter, and the rest of the money will have to be made on sales of the yearbook, she explained. "The Obelisk is victim of lack of interest because fewer than 1,000 yearbooks have been sold this year, she said.

"SIU wants the Obelisk to continue year after year, but they do very little to help it," Clark said.

Clark said she does not think there will be an Obelisk next year unless SIU provides some money.

Young Citizens plan approved for city

By Sandra Brown
Student Writer

The Young Citizens for Progress (YCP) program which was born to replace the now defunct Model Cities Youth program, recently met city approval.

Abraham Westley, acting director of YCP, said Carbondale needs an effective youth program and he hopes this will be it.

The Model Cities youth program was terminated during a recent period of evaluation and funding cutbacks of the entire Model Cities program.

Westley said the idea for the UCP was initiated about a year ago but failed during its development. He said that he and four other men proposed the plans for it again and he has faith that this time it will be more effective.

In addition to youth involvement, the program stresses community involvement. YCP will cover all of the Jackson county area. It is designed for young citizens from ages 8 to 25 but will also try to reach citizens from pre-school to old age, Westley explained.

YCP will work closely with various departments of SIU, especially counseling and testing, psychology, economics, business and recreation. The vocational Training Institutions services will also be enlisted, Westley said.

Members of the SIU faculty and several students have already been recruited for free tutoring as part of the program. YCP will offer educational, recreational and vocational facilities as well as other learning and developmental skills programs.

Westley said YCP hopes to obtain cooperation and assistance from such community institutions and organizations as the police department, city churches, employment centers, the Jaycees and city Council.

The program is now awaiting guidelines from the state before becoming active.

SIU Orchestra in concert Friday; 6 soloists listed

A Concerto Concert by the SIU-C orchestra, conducted by Richard Strawn, assistant professor of music, will be presented by the School of Music at 8 p.m. Friday in Shryock Auditorium.

Soloists will be Mrs. Mona Irey, soprano; Wayne Miller, trumpet; Vicki Mayo, soprano; James Betts, horn; Ronald Hill, pianist; and Bruce Sternfeld, pianist.

Electronic systems go into schools

NEW YORK (AP)—Two safety systems new in New York schools have been installed by Norcon Electronics here.

By one-at South Shore High School, Brooklyn, and Theodore Roosevelt High School, Bronx—a teacher wears a small pensize ultrasonic device in a pocket. If he is attacked or senses danger, he presses "the pen," which sends a silent signal to a receiver in a central area in the school.

The other system is a series of nine TV monitors in a central area of the school, watching corridors against intruders. Meyer Levin High School and Winthrop High School, Brooklyn, have that.

TP recycling project lags

By L.L. Reed
Student Writer

The Thompson Point glass and metal recycling project that was successful last year is not making progress this year, says Mickey Chusid, former Thompson Point student senator and one of the organizers of the project.

"We organized the project in February of 1972 and it was working real well, but last year's people are gone now and I really haven't put much work into it this year," Chusid said.

The intention of the project, he added, was to provide an extensive Thompson Point pick-up service for discarded glass and metal. Pick-up was made by the SIU Outdoor Laboratory and the refuse was taken to the Jackson County Work Activity Center.

Chusid said money received from the collection is used by the center to finance its school for handicapped children.

"We wanted to have a refuse can on every floor of the dorm so residents wouldn't have to go all the way down to the Lentz Hall loading dock where the garbage to be recycled is picked up, but we just have not been able to do this," Chusid said.

One of Chusid's aims is to start a paper recycling center. "Each day The Daily Egyptian uses a ton of newspaper and it takes 17 trees to make all that paper per day," Chusid said.

He said anyone interested in getting involved with any of these projects could get in touch with him at Lentz Hall.

Chusid said there is no system in Carbondale to recycle paper, "and this is a real waste. These projects are organized by the student government at Thompson Point, but we need help if any of these projects are to succeed."

Chusid said discarded IBM cards from the SIU Outdoor Laboratory could be sold to provide money for a paper recycling center.

"These cards have a high resale value, but unfortunately, the cards are legally owned by the state. All state-owned materials must be sold by the Illinois Surplus Sales Agency."

"The laboratory has saved enough of these cards to fill an entire railroad car, and if we could persuade the ISSA to sell these cards to us at a low price, we could resell them and start a paper recycling program," Chusid said.

Indian ruins is topic of Lunch and Learn

At several locations in Southern Illinois, sightseers can look upon some unusual facets of the geography. Specifically, Indian Mounds, built by the Indians of the Mississippian and Hopewellian cultures that roamed the area thousands of years ago.

Jon Muller, professor of anthropology, will discuss these mounds and the prehistoric Indians of Southern Illinois at noon Wednesday in the Ohio Room of the Student Center for the Division of Continuing Education Lunch and Learn presentation.

Muller will also discuss the late prehistoric archeology of the area between the years 1600 to 1700 A.D. Temple or religious mounds built by the Indians will be included.

A slide presentation will be included, showing the various sites and types of mounds that can be found in Southern Illinois.

Sides of archeology work in the SIU field school will be included.

Lunch will cost $1.85 and reservations must be made by noon Tuesday with the DCE office, 453-2385.

Child care facilities for persons attending the lunch are available through the Division of Continuing Education for Women. For information contact Edith Spees, 453-2381.

Ann Smedley, coordinator of Lunch and Learn asks that persons attending the lunch arrive shortly before noon so the presentation can begin on time.

Clarence Carter, a graduate student in the School of Music at SIU, will present his graduate recital at 8 p.m. Tuesday at the Old Baptist Foundation Chapel on the campus.

Carter, a tenor, will sing operatic arias, French and German classical numbers, and a group of spirituals.

Carter has had leading roles in a number of operas produced by SIU's Marjorie Lawrence Opera Theater.

His recital accompanist will be Wilfred Delphine. The public is invited to attend the performance. There will be no admission charge.

DuQuoin concert enlivens audience

By Dave Steiner
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

In an outdoor pavilion at the DuQuoin State Fairgrounds, the H. Geils Band, Albert King and Rare Earth performed Friday evening.

This concert was the first at the Fairgrounds this year, and it is an excellent place to listen to music. Pretty countryside and a swampland pond provided a backdrop for the musicians.

Of the three bands, Albert King was the best. King is a good performer, a good guitar player and is backed by a tight band. Comprised of two trumpets, a saxophone, piano, organ, bass and drums, King's band fleshed out those well used blues patterns with excellent improvisations.

Also featured in King's band was a hefty female vocalist whose 196 pounds were contained in a glittery white suit.

Singing songs like "Them Changes" in a sharp gutty voice and performing nearly every popular dance of the past ten years, she was a very appealing warm-up for King's entrance.

After a long introduction, Albert King stropped onstage smoking a white pipe and wearing white-framed sunglasses. He picked up a V-shaped guitar that looked like something out of a Flash Gordon movie, and began playing high quality blues that makes one wonder why he is not more popular.

A Review

King's guitar style is flashy. He squeezed and bent notes, shading and prolonging them by effectively utilizing feedback from his amplifier. And the horn section played the basic melodies of the songs, providing a brassy contrasting backdrop for King's guitar solos.

Near the end of King's set, the J. Geils Band could be seen driving up to the stage area in their Cadillac limousines, near Albert King's road worn bus.

While the J. Geils band is quite exciting to watch, the music is excessively crude rock and roll in the tradition of Grand Funk Railroad. Lead singer Peter Wolf's costume was a short black dress with a cape and black tights. While singing in his raspy voice, he hyperactively walked and hopped around the stage, dragging his microphone stand behind him. The harmonica player, Magic Dick, rolled his body around the stage. The keyboard player (labeled) and provided the organ, and the drum set was decorated with a glittering dollar sign.

"Are you ready to get a little bit crazy?" Wolf asked the audience. As showmen, the J. Geils Band knocked themselves out and whipped the audience into a frenzy. However, their tough, abrasive sound, their mediocre musicianship and the lack of creativity made a very unpleasant assault upon the ears.

Rare Earth are mediocre instrumentalists, too, but they try for a more interesting sound by carefully constructing their songs. Where as the J. Geils Band was one constant climax, Rare Earth varied the levels of loudness by exploiting the versatile sounds that can be obtained from the instruments, individually and collectively.

Although Rare Earth are not acrobatic showmen and did not play a ear-splitting decibels, they have a tough sound that is dominated by the drummer. Even if they don't have the musicianship to make their sound totally successful, they have good musical ideas.

DuQuoin State Fairgrounds is a pleasant place to attend a concert. It's too bad that all the music presented was not of Albert King's high quality.

Wind Ensemble concert to feature Liszt music

Mel Steiner, director of bands, will conduct the SIU Wind Ensemble in a concert at 8 p.m. Wednesday in Shroyck Auditorium.

Aided by piano soloist Steven Barwick, the ensemble will perform Liszt's "Concert No. 1." Barwick is a professor of music.

Percy Grainger's "The Power of Rome and the Christian Heart" will feature Ted Stewart on organ. Steiner said the piece is based on musical feelings inspired by the strife and agony of the early Christians in ancient Rome.

"Symphonic Movement" by Vasily Nelyubel will feature guest conductor William Clarida, superintendent of schools in Herrin, an SIU graduate.

Also on the program is Darius Milhaud's "West Point Suite," which was commissioned in 1922 for the Sesquicentennial Celebration of 150 years of progress at the U.S. Military Academy, Steiner said.

The first movement of Borodin's Second Symphony and Hindemith's "March from Symphonic Metamorphosis of Themes by Carl Maria Von Wever" are also on the program.

Admission is free.

St. John qualifies for NCAA finals

Trackmen finish 2nd at Modesto

By Jim Braun
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

If the weekend invitation to the California Relays proved nothing else, it gave Lew Hartzog and the four members of the Southern Illinois mile relay team a boost in confidence for the upcoming NCAA finals.

"We know now that we can run with anyone else in the United States," head coach Hartzog said Monday morning. "We have a right to feel real pleased."

The "pleasure" came in the wake of the Salukis' second-place finish at the 32nd annual running of the California Relays in Modesto. The team of Gerald Smith, Lonnie Brown, Eddie Sutton and Terry Erickson was clocked in 3:10.1, only 0.8 seconds slower than the winning team from Texas.

Rounding out the top four schools were Arizona State (3:12.0) and Southern California (3:13.5). Other teams entered in the mile relay included the San Diego Track Club, holder of the nation's best time (3:06) this spring, the Philadelphia Pioneers, Idaho State and Texas Christian.

In other results at Modesto, the Saluki 440-yard relay team of Smith, Sutton, Erickson and Joe Laws "unofficially" placed sixth, while former Southern sprinter Ivory Crockett was edged at the wire by Herb Washington in the 100-meter dash.

SIU's 440-yard relay team won its semifinal heat in 41.0, but it was not quick enough to advance to the finals. The other heat produced five better times, led by California International (40.1) and followed by Southern California (40.1), Memphis State (40.2), Philadelphia Pioneers (40.3) and Texas (40.5).

"I'm sure we could have run a faster time if we had been in a faster heat," Hartzog said.

Laws (100-yard dash), Brown (440-yard intermediate hurdles) and Bill Hancock (high jump) were oner SIU entries but they didn't place high in their respective events.

Four other Salukis—Gerry Craig, Jack St. John, Phil Robles and Stan Patterson—entered the Central Collegiate Championships in East Lancing, Mich. St. John ran 28.46 in the six-mile run, 14 seconds slower than the school record-holder, Oscar Moore. In doing so, St. John qualified for the NCAA finals. Craig, finishing sixth in 29:12, missed the national qualifying time by five seconds.

Robins jumped 48-9½ in the triple jump to place second to Cincinnati's Phil Lanier. Patterson advanced to the meet finals in the 100- and 200-yard races, but failed to place.

Hartzog called the winning Texas time "a real good one, considering the windy day." The Saluki time was almost one second faster than their previous best against Lincoln (Mo.) University two weeks ago.

Hartzog related that, running in Lane 8, the outside lane, SIU was sixth in the field after Smith's leadoff 49.0 leg. Brown's 46.9 lap catapulted Southern into first, while Sutton's 46.6 left Texas with a five-yard lead going into the final lap.

Erickson, indoor 440-yard champ, couldn't make up those yards in his 47.8 leg as Longhorn Don Sturgall kept his squad in front to stay.

"I think Terry may have been a little weary of his injury," Hartzog said. Erickson has suffered a muscle spasm in his right leg for the past six weeks.

"But I think that this race proved to us that we can run with the best, and the kids should be even tougher for the nationals."

Last year, Southern's same mile relay combination placed fourth to winner UCLA, Oregon and Texas-El Paso.

UCLA's mile-relay team didn't run at Modesto but Hartzog thinks they'll be the team to beat in the June 7-9 finals at Baton Rouge, La. Also in contention for the national crown, according to Hartzog, is Texas; Michigan and his Salukis.

The SIU coach is still unsure of his leadoff relay man. It's between Smith and Wayne Carmody and the pair will race three times—on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday—to determine Southern's squad at the nationals.

Representation at the NCAA affair also includes the 440-yard relay team, Sutton and Laws in the 100, Smith in the 200, Erickson in the 440, Craig in the three-mile run, St. John in the six mile, Robins in the triple jump, Mike Bernard in the high jump and Hancock in the high jump and decathlon.

Caught leaning

Saluki freshman leftfielder Steve Shartzter gets caught in a rundown during the SIU Wisconsin contest earlier this season. Shartzter, who claims he had no idea that he would be a starter this year for the varsity, plans to play in the playoffs with his broken finger. Miami-Ohio gains berth to playoffs

Miami of Ohio secured the fourth bid in the 1973 NCAA District 4 baseball playoffs, defeating Ohio University 5-1 in the opening game of a doubleheader Saturday to clinch the Mid-America Conference crown.

Ohio University came back in the nightcap to down Miami 10-4. Friday's single-game was canceled because of rain.

Miami will come to Carbondale Wednesday, ready to battle Big 10 Conference Champion Minnesota Thursday at 3:30 p.m.

The Oxford, Ohio squad is 27-7 for the season.

Broken finger won't stop Shartzter

Holding a starting position on the nation's fifth ranked baseball team is still a little hard to believe, Steve Shartzter, SIU's freshman leftfielder, said during a recent interview.

Shartzter, hitting .339 until sidelined with a broken finger, had no idea he'd be a starter when coming to SIU.

"I would have been pleased to have won a starting position on the Junior Varsity team or to sit on the varsity bench," he said.

The 175-pound Elwin native broke his right middle finger while fielding a fly ball against McKendree College May 15.

"I put my right hand on the glove to cover the ball before the ball got there," he explained.

He added that the finger will give him the greatest problem when throwing.

"I'll play even if the finger is broken," Shartzter said concerning the upcoming NCAA playoffs Thursday-Saturday at SIU.

Shartzter's primary reason for attending SIU is its baseball reputation. He also said SIU was close enough to home—but not too close—and that Southern offered him a scholarship at a position other than pitcher, which he started at SIU school.

Until at high school, Shartzter played the outfield. Committing only two errors all season speaks for his ability to adjust.

A standout baseball and football player at Macon High School, Shartzter pitched more than two-thirds of the baseball games he played.

During his junior year, the high school of 250 students finished second in the Illinois High School Baseball Championships.

Shartzter pitched Macon to the finals, losing the championship to Waukegan, 4-2. Waukegan scored three unearned runs.

In addition to his baseball scholarship, Shartzter was offered several football scholarships. However, his 175 pounds was not good enough in the 200-and-over sport, he felt.

Commenting on the College World Series to be played June 8-14 at Omaha, Neb., Shartzter said, "Our chances of winning are excellent. The best thing we've got going for us is that as a team we are really close."

One of the weaknesses he himself will have to overcome is swinging at bad pitches. Shartzter said, "I've got to quit swinging at the pitches that aren't even close, including those that hit the ground before crossing the plate," he said.

Shartzter's finest game was against Illinois State May 4. The Salukis clobbered the Redbirds 19-6 in the opening game of the weekend three-game series.

In the contest, Shartzter had five runs batted in (RBI), including a grand slam homerun.

Shartzter said he would take a probaball offer and leave school only if it was a better deal than he actually deserved. He said, he feels he owes it to coach Itchy Jones to stick around because Itchy has done so much for him.

Rain delays Indy. 500

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—Polesitter Johnny Rutherford and former champions Mark Donohue and Bobby Unser led the starting field into a flaming first turn of the rain-delayed 57th Indianapolis 500-mile race Monday.

It began 3 hours 5 minutes after the scheduled noon, EDT, start due to rain.

At least five cars were involved in an explosive, grinding crash as the field moved into the first turn of the race. The race was stopped immediately after the crash and rain then followed.
