Fewer student work hours predicted for fall

By Debby Ratemann
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Student workers will probably be working fewer hours next year or less student workers will be hired, Student Work and Financial Assistance Director Frank Adams said Wednesday.

The recent minimum pay hike to $1.90 an hour will force a cutback in hours or workers "unless we get more funds than we did this year," Adams said.

He is not optimistic about the $6 million Student Workers Assistance Act pending in the Illinois General Assembly. "They've tabled it and I don't think it will pass this year," Adams said.

This means students next year "will work less hours, but earn the same amount of money, because of the pay raise," Adams said.

"If a student works 17 hours this year, he will probably work 15 hours next year," Adams said. "This isn't the first time we've had to cut back."

Adams said full-time civil service workers will not be hired to fill the gap. "If a student cleans a building 20 hours a week this year, the building will just be cleaned 17 hours a week next year," he said.

"Most students can still get jobs within one month to six weeks if they really want to work," Adams said. "We have trouble filling clerical jobs; the demand for good typists exceeds the supply, and they can be placed very easily."

Adams dismissed the newly-formed SIU Student Workers Union as a potential "damage" to student work programs.

"I don't think unions for students will benefit the great majority of students," Adams said.

"I know they get enthusiastic about this every once in awhile," said Adams, who has been with SIU 17 years. "But the student work program is under Civil Service merit board regulations, and their best bet is to go through that."

"We've got the minimum wage," Adams said. "If the Student Workers Union tried to force a higher pay rate on the University by going on strike, we would fire the students and get along without them."

Adams added that he is "real proud of young people willing to work for financial and educational reasons."

"The actual work experience may be very valuable; it will impress most personnel people if you've worked to help put yourself through school," he said.

"Students need to realize they're going to have to earn a living," Adams said. "That's what they're here for; to get ready."

SIU enters 104 list in class action suit

Jeff Jouett
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

A list of defendants in SIU's class action suit against 104 terminated faculty was delivered to Circuit Judge Peyton Kuncie Wednesday afternoon.

Kuncie said it would be Monday, at the earliest, before he decides whether or not to release the list to the public. The Jackson County Courthouse will be closed Thursday and Friday for Memorial Day.

The list of name and sub-class of each terminated faculty member was taken to Kuncie by John C. Feirich, attorney representing SIU in the suit, in compliance with a May 23 court order.

The class action suit is directed against three sub-classes of faculty, represented by a total of six specified defendants, Feirich said Wednesday. Sub-classes, according to Feirich, are tenured staff, staff with continuing appointment, and staff with term appointment.

The list is the first official tally of defendants released by SIU administrators since the class action suit was filed last December.

Kuncie ordered the list in connection with a May 23 hearing of a motion to dismiss the suit on the grounds that the 104 do not fit the legal definition of a class. Kuncie said Wednesday that the slate of names and sub-classes "was to assist me in deciding if the suit is class action or not."

In another May 23 court order Kuncie requested attorneys to file comprehensive briefs concerning the dismissal motion within 10 days. Wednesday, Kuncie reported he would wait to receive and consider the briefs before making any decision on whether he will release the names to the public.

Feirich said he did not file the list of defendants with the Circuit Clerk because a review of the transcript of the May 23 hearing showed that the court "required the University to deliver a list to the court."

"Judge Kuncie was extraordinarily explicit in his directions and I followed them to the letter, absolutely and literally," Feirich said.

Feirich reported that the list of dismissed faculty was brought to his office Wednesday by "someone from the office of University legal counsel."

Feirich added that "it is my offhand impression" that the list presented to Kuncie did contain names of terminated faculty who have made out-of-court settlements with the University.

A release, forfeiting representation in the class action suit, must be signed by terminated tenured or continuing appointment faculty negotiating a cash settlement, SIU interim President Hiram Lesar has said. Representative defendants named in the suit are: William H. Evans, English professor; Harry H. Nickle, associate professor of physics; Robert B. Harrell, assistant professor of English; Ingrid Gadoway, foreign language instructor, and Edwin Delmastro, audi-visual assistant in Learning Resources Service.

University Programs dean selected

By Brenda Penland
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Ken Serfass, director of Continuing Education at the University of Missouri, has been "informally approved" as dean of University Programs, Dean Stuck, assistant provost, said Wednesday.

Stuck said the appointment hasn't been acted upon by the Board of Trustees but will be officially approved at the next board meeting June 13.

The dean of University Programs is a new post which is the result of five divisions being put under one program. Continuing Education, the President's Scholar Program, General Studies, Special Programs and International Education all will be under the dean of University Programs, Stuck said.

He said the five programs were put under University Programs to form a more efficient system.

"All the programs seemed to deal with programmatic implications," Stuck said. "We felt if we pulled all of them together under one dean, there would be a more efficient use of personnel."

There no longer will be any deans of the programs, only directors, he said.

Current deans of the programs have either retired, requested teaching assignments or been named directors of their programs, Stuck said.

Raymond Dey, dean of Continuing Education, has retired. John W. Voigt, dean of General Studies, has requested a teaching position in botany. International Education Dean B.C. Hedrick has been named director of that program.

Special Programs is currently part of the Office of the Vice President and doesn't have a dean or director. The President's Scholar Program doesn't have a dean but does have a director. The President's Scholar Program directorship is the only director's position remaining to be filled in the University Programs.

The current director of the President's Scholar program, Allan L. Lange is on sabbatical. Stuck said a man is being considered for the interim director position.

Serfass is one of four new deans designated during a year of change at SIU. With the exception of the College of Communications and Fine Arts, all deanships have been officially filled.

Vice President and Provost Keith Leasure said a man is being considered for the Communications and Fine Arts position, but "we won't release his name until he is confirmed by the Board of Trustees."

Stuck said a man has accepted the job. "He has verbally agreed but no contract has been signed," he said.

Herbert Fink, current dean of the College of Communications and Fine Arts, agreed to take the job for one year. Leasure said Fink asked the administration to find another dean.

Of the deanships that have been filled, one dean has already assumed his duties and three more will start their jobs before July 1.

John Guyon, from Memphis State, has been the dean of Science since May 1. The new dean of the College of Liberal Arts is Lon Shelby, professor of history, who will begin his duties on July 1.

Gil Kroening, assistant dean of Agriculture, will become dean of that school on July 1.

The only other directorship not filled is the position of director of the School of Journalism, Stuck said.

"We are in the midst of negotiating for a director of journalism," Leasure said. Bryce Rucker was temporarily appointed as journalism director until a permanent director could be found. Rucker resigned from the position this quarter.

Language instructor searches for 'real reason' of termination

By Diane Mizialko
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Ingrid Gadoway is an instructor of foreign languages. She's 31 years old, a native of Germany who came to the United States in 1964 as a Fulbright exchange student. Before coming to Southern Illinois, she studied and taught at Memphis State University and Tulane University.

Ms. Gadoway is a wife and mother. Her husband is working on his second Ph.D. Her son, born in 1969, the year before Ms. Gadoway joined the SIU foreign language faculty, is handicapped. He was born with a hole in his spine and attends nursery school in a wheelchair.

Ingrid Gadoway has received two tenure evaluations since she came to SIU. She received excellent ratings in teaching, research and service—the three areas in which a faculty member is evaluated by his or her department for tenure.

She teaches German and has designed a new course which will be added to the curriculum next year.

But Ms. Gadoway won't be teaching that course. In December, she joined the 104.

There's nothing really unusual about Ingrid Gadoway's predicament. Not this year—not at SIU. And there's nothing unusual about her reaction to her situation.

In a recent interview, Ms. Gadoway discussed her career at SIU, searching through it for the "real reason" for her termination. She's proud of her accomplishments here. Student and professional evaluations of her teaching performance are consistently high. (She was one of the "Mirror Eight"—highly rated faculty members who were terminated.) She's proud of her service to her department on committees and in improving the German curriculum. She's especially proud that she's always felt she has worked on a congenial basis with her colleagues and superiors.

So she's puzzled by her termination. "Why me?" she asks. She thinks she has come up with an answer.

"I think it was retaliation," she said. In 1971, Ms. Gadoway filed a discrimination complaint with the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare. Her complaint was based on an alleged salary inequity. In 1970, when she was hired at the minimum instructor's salary of $700 a month, she claims, male instructors in the same department with similar qualifications were being hired at higher salaries—some 50 per cent higher.

The HEW investigation has been slow and SIU has made no attempts to conciliate voluntarily, she said.

In August 1973, Ms. Gadoway filed a salary discrimination complaint with the Illinois Fair Employment Practices Commission.

In October 1974, she was one of seven foreign language faculty members whose salaries were found inequitable by the U.S. Department of Labor.

After her termination, Ms. Gadoway filed a complaint with the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission. This complaint not only cites inequitable salary and asks for back pay but also charges SIU with retaliation.

Ms. Gadoway feels she's almost unwillingly caught up in her discrimination hassle with SIU. "I'm not a troublemaker," she said. "I would have compromised at any time, but the University has shown no voluntary compliance."

"There has been no good faith effort made to explain why not," she added.

To add to Ms. Gadoway's theory of retaliation, SIU named her as one of six defendants in its class action suit on the question of financial exigency as a basis for the December terminations.

The class action suit revolves around the question of tenure, Ms. Gadoway said. She is untenured and feels her case has nothing to do with tenure, but relates rather to sex discrimination. In her view, she said, involvement in the class action suit only serves to interfere with investigation of her discrimination complaints, especially her complaint before the FEPC.

Because of the suit, Ms. Gadoway said, SIU has complied slowly, and then only in part, with FEPC subpoenas relating to her case. The suit "frustrates" the investigation, she said.

SIU Legal Counsel John Huffman said Ms. Gadoway's part in the class action suit means nothing. "She was chosen at random to represent a class of employees that do not hold tenure and have a certain kind of appointment."

Acting as her own attorney, Ms. Gadoway has moved to have her case separated from the class action suit. A circuit court ruling on her motion is pending.

To further support her retaliation theory, Ms. Gadoway supplied a list of seven foreign language faculty named as underpaid by the Department of Labor last October. Of the seven on the list, six received termination notices in December and one has retired.

To find whether Ms. Gadoway's retaliation theory is valid, one must ask the SIU decision-makers why she was fired. What criteria were applied to Ingrid Gadoway and the other 103 faculty members who received dismissal notices in December?

Huffman insists that an individual faculty member's relationship to "the system" had no bearing on his or her dismissal.

On the other hand, Huffman said, "The mere fact that a person has filed a discrimination charge didn't insulate him from the process that Academic Affairs used in determining the 104."

Huffman felt the point was important enough to repeat: "Only academic criteria were used."

Of the seven foreign language faculty members who were involved in the Department of Labor investigation, Huffman confirmed that six received termination notices. One of the six resigned voluntarily at the end of winter quarter, he said, and two will be relocated in other University jobs. Both of these hold tenure.

That leaves three. Of these, two are considering settlement offers from SIU, Eugene Timpe, chairman of Foreign Languages, said. The one remaining is Ingrid Gadoway.

It was Timpe, with the help of his six section heads, who decided which faculty members in foreign languages would be cut in December.

Timpe explained the process as it filtered down from the office of Keith Leasure, vice president for Academic Affairs and provost.

Leasure informed the College of Liberal Arts of the dollar amount in salaries that had to be cut from the college. In turn, from the dean of the college, Timpe received notice that $210,000 was to be cut from foreign languages.

Of his 43 full- and part-time faculty members, Timpe lost 20 people, he said. A few of these were voluntary resignations and were counted towards the $210,000 goal. At the last minute, he added, he was able to save three faculty members.

"I was never told who to cut," Timpe said. "There's no question about it—we were not given orders. Anthony Hall and the dean's office are clean on this one."

In December, Timpe said, he asked each of his section heads to prepare a priority list of faculty members, listing the most expendable at the top. Then Timpe took the lists and, from the top, began cutting.

"And I had to look each one of them in the eye and tell them they'd been fired," he said.

"We didn't just cut fat—we had to get down to the bone and gristle of the department. The people we cut weren't second-class."

Timpe said in cutting he tried to retain the core of the foreign language department which one day may serve as a basis for rebuilding. He also had to consider the fact that because SIU has dropped the mandatory foreign language requirement for liberal arts students, his department's service role was severely truncated.

The terminations were hard on Timpe; he admits that. He also said, wearily, that he knows some terminated faculty feel they were fired in retaliation.

"The Department of Labor findings had nothing to do with the termination notices, nor did HEW or the FEPC or any other complaints," he insisted.

Ingrid Gadoway

Timpe added that there are faculty members with discrimination complaints against SIU who were not fired any many fired who had no complaints.

Ingrid Gadoway, Timpe said, is a valuable and competent faculty member. Timpe said he hates to see her go. But, he said, it was simply a question of priorities. As good at her job as Ms. Gadoway is, someone else was more crucial to the department.

Timpe called his decision "a tough one," and his voice conveyed the message that he was understating the situation.

It's been tough on Ingrid Gadoway and her family, too.

And if one multiplies the Ingrid Gadoway story by 104—104 times the bewilderment, suspicion and worry—one begins to see how tough it's been on SIU.

Every day they ride the, hearse

DANVILLE, Va. (AP) — To help out during the energy shortage, nine workers at the Goodyear Tire & Rubber plant here are sharing a ride they wouldn't want to make alone — in the back of a hearse.

"We were urged by the company to do something to save gas during the energy shortage," says Sylvester Madden of Blanche, N.C., a fork lift driver at the Goodyear truck and aircraft tire plant.

"So I bought a used hearse, put in an extra heater fan, bolted in five old school bus seats and went looking for riders to share the 36-mile trip to and from work."

Madden and his nine riders agree that the arrangement not only saves gas but can be fun. Says Madden, "I don't know of another hearse where the riders tell jokes."

Advice easier to get than abortions in area

Second of Three Parts
By Randy McCarthy
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Strong feelings about abortion limit the visibility of clinics and physicians willing to do the operation in Carbondale, but they don't hinder dissemination of abortion information.

Because abortion is a highly emotional and controversial topic, local physicians and counselors worry that undue publicity could lead to elimination of the already limited sources of abortion information.

Local women seeking abortion information may turn to several agencies for help. These include SIU's Human Sexuality Services, Women's Center and the Yellow Pages.

Sexuality Services refers women to two clinics which provide abortion services—Reproductive Health Services in St. Louis and the Concord Medical Center in Chicago, said director Barb Dahl.

Bobby Pieper of the Women's Center said most clinics and physicians who perform abortions require patients to first receive counseling on alternatives to terminating the pregnancy.

The Women's Center doesn't refer callers directly to clinics, but to the local office of the Clergy Counseling Service for Problem Pregnancies, a national organization.

The Clergy Counseling Service puts the woman in touch with one of three counselors who outlines the alternatives open to the woman. These include marriage, giving birth and keeping the child, putting the child up for adoption or terminating the pregnancy.

If the woman is a student she is asked to contact HSS and arrange to meet with a counselor. If she decides to get an abortion HSS can make an appointment for the operation within two or three days, Ms. Dahl said.

Like the Woman's Center, the Clergy Counseling Service does not arrange abortion clinic appointments. If a client opts for an abortion she is given information on the services and facilities of the St. Louis clinic and can arrange the operation herself.

If the woman goes to either the St. Louis or the Chicago clinic she is given a physical examination, medical counseling and a medical interview. Also, basic laboratory work—including a pregnancy test, venereal disease check and a test to determine the woman's Rh factor—is done.

The preliminary tests, abortion procedure and one-hour of observation after surgery take between three and four hours, Ms. Dahl said. An abortion at either center costs $160 plus transportation.

HSS refers women to the St. Louis and Chicago clinics because of a professional relationship among the three units, Ms. Dahl said. The two clinics believe HSS provides professional counseling to its clients and HSS approves of the clinics' facilities for performing the operation, she said.

HSS receives no money from either clinic for referring women to them.

Before the Supreme Court decision of 1973 which legalized abortions, locating clinics or physicians who would do the surgery was very difficult, Ms. Dahl said.

Since the decision the operation is more easily obtained, but is required to perform abortions.

Finding a physician willing to do the surgery still is difficult in many parts of the state, Ms. Dahl said. Because Carbondale is the only area community that has a hospital with the facilities to do the surgery, Southern Illinois women who want an abortion must choose between Carbondale or a St. Louis or Chicago clinic.

In order to make abortion information more widely available, HSS offers a training program for hospital and social agency personnel and area ministers interested in counseling women with problem pregnancies, Ms. Dahl said.

"The Southern Illinois region is becoming aware of the importance of counseling about problem pregnancies," she said. The training program helps these persons in rural communities give more professional counseling, Ms. Dahl explained.

SIU intervenes in utility hike hearings

By Diane Mizialko
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

In an effort to save on utility bills, SIU has intervened in Illinois Commerce Commission hearings on a Central Illinois Public Service (CIPS) rate increase request, John Huffman, SIU legal counsel, said Wednesday.

CIPS has requested the commission to approve an increase of about 9.4 per cent in electric rates and 8 per cent in natural gas rates. If approved, the new rates would increase SIU's yearly bill by an estimated $120,000, Huffman said.

SIU is the only intervenor in the rate increase hearings. Huffman has attended ICC hearings in Springfield to cross-examine CIPS witnesses and Thursday will submit a brief stating SIU's case against the increase.

The current ICC hearings are on an interim rate increase of 5 per cent. The 5 per cent raise is designed to tide CIPS over until the commission makes a decision on the larger, permanent increase, Sam Poe, CIPS information director, said.

CIPS wants the interim rate hike by June 1 or as soon after as possible, Poe said. The revenue gained by the interim increase would enable CIPS to meet the indenture terms of $40 million worth of 30-year first mortgage bonds it plans to issue in January 1975, he said.

The remainder of the increase, if granted, would help CIPS meet other costs which Poe said have spiraled. As costs have increased, Poe said, "our earnings have been falling drastically over the last 10 inflationary years."

"Our opinion is that CIPS has not presented sufficient evidence to prove they need the interim rate increase," Huffman said. "We take the position that their last increase should be enough to hold them for awhile."

CIPS last raised its rates in March 1973. That raise, Huffman said, cost SIU approximately $100,000.

If CIPS does not receive the interim rate increase, its bond rating will drop and the anticipated bond sale will cost CIPS more in interest, Poe said. The bonds are needed to finance construction. CIPS plans to spend $530 million on construction between 1974 and 1978, he said. Sixty-five per cent of that amount must be raised on the stock and bond market.

S-Senate urges unveiling of Affirmative Action Plan

By Brenda Penland
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The Student Senate requested Wednesday that the SIU administration make the Affirmative Action Plan public.

The Affirmative Action Plan is a University program designed to combat discrimination on the basis of age, sex or race.

Matthew Rich, student trustee-elect, said, "The whole thing (the plan) has been kept a mystery." He said the public doesn't know what is involved in the Affirmative Action Plan.

Rich urged the administration to "make it public so everyone can see it." He asked why the administration is afraid to release its contents.

Pay raises for 106 SIU faculty members effective May 1 to correct "inequities" in pay scales were made in accordance with the Affirmative Action Plan. The plan has been brought up before the Department of Health Education and Welfare (HEW) and if passed by the HEW becomes law, Rich said.

The original plan was rejected by HEW in December and SIU submitted a revised plan in January.

"If we wait until it's passed by the government, it will be too late," Rich said. The Graduate Student Council (GSC) passed a bill similar to the senate's request last week.

In other business, six new Judicial Board appointees were sworn in by Student Body President Mike Carr.

The six new members are: Mike Badger, a sophomore government and administration of justice major; Jan Kruse, a junior physiology major; Mike Ryan, a junior forestry major; Monroe Smith a senior majoring in accounting; Marilyn Tedeschi, a junior special education major; and Bill Wayne, a business marketing major.

The new members will begin serving on the J-Board the first day of summer quarter.

The senate also passed a bill urging signs be erected on Interstate 57 denoting the location of SIU. The bill pointed out that other state universities, such as Eastern Illinois University and the University of Illinois have signs located on Interstate 57.

Letters describing the bill will be sent to Gov. Dan Walker, the Board of Trustees, the Department of Highways and Michael J. Bakalis, superintendent of public instruction.

A motion to impeach Sen. Tom Mellman for behavior unbecoming a senator failed after being voted on three times. The second time Mellman voted for his own impeachment but quickly changed his mind when other senators followed suit.

Trustee plan for systems council draws criticism in GSC report

By Gary Houx
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The Graduate Student Council (GSC) expressed dissatisfaction with the SIU System Council plan at its Wednesday night meeting.

Members unanimously approved a report by Jeff Tilden, history, which criticized the methods the Board of Trustees used to get input on the plan from campus groups.

"They are asking for input now—four and a half months after the fact," Tilden told the members. "We are now forced to come up with a response. If we had been asked beforehand, we would have cooperated right away. But this plan went straight into effect without input from constituencies."

The system document was released to campus groups on January 19 and the groups were originally given 90 days to respond to the report. However, action on the plan was delayed at the May Board of Trustees meeting to allow more time for input.

Tilden also cited "vagueness and ambiguity" in the report. "The main ambiguity is the proposed relationship the System Council will have with external agencies," Tilden said. The relationship can be interpreted two different ways, he said.

The GSC approved Tilden's report and a motion that the GSC ask the Board of Trustees to review the systems council plan again.

Council, Eckert decide on pay increase for Fry

By Dan Haar
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

After a second closed evaluation session, the Carbondale City Council and Mayor Neal Eckert decided to give City Manager Carroll Fry a five per cent raise in pay.

A formal resolution "compensating the city manager" for his services to the city will be presented at the next council meeting Monday night, Eckert said.

Eckert said the council members also decided to hold quarterly, open sessions in the future specifically covering problems in the community, including those that people may have in dealing with city government.

Council members left the approximately two-and-a-half hour closed session remarking that the session had gone well.

At the closed meeting, Fry responded to reports made by each council member and Eckert on his performance during the past year.

"The council was critical of the city manager and itself," Eckert said. Eckert explained that the problem of making a city government with central authority—as Carbondale is—responsive to the people was the major thrust of the criticism.

Residents must understand the city manager form of government, Eckert said. He added that the government must also watch that it remains responsive.

The results of the criticisms and discussion at the closed session are that the council will try to find positive ways to approach the problem, Eckert said. No details on what kind of approaches were discussed, Eckert said. "We just decided we need something," he said.

Wednesday night's meeting followed a similar closed session May 20. At that meeting, Council members submitted their reports to Fry on his performance.

Eckert said he still thought the closed meeting was good for discussing salary review and other employment matters.

Eckert did say that hopefully the quarterly, open sessions the council members decided to have will serve to discuss problems concerning the city manager or the council.

Council members decided to set up an evaluation meeting with the city manager after the council's first evaluation meeting with Fry last year.

Kissinger bid brings peace to Mideast

JERUSALEM (AP)—In a dramatic diplomatic triumph for Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, Israel and Syria agreed Wednesday to separate their hostile armies on the Golan Heights front. The accord raised hopes for a more durable peace in the Middle East.

A senior American official said Kissinger believed the pact could lead to a revolution in Arab-Israeli relations and give impetus to more moderate Arab forces.

But even as the agreement was announced, Israeli planes bombed and strafed "terrorist targets" on the western slopes of Mt. Hermon, and Syrian and Israeli tanks and artillery blazed away at each other on the Golan front for the 79th straight day, communiqués said.

The pact, negotiated by Kissinger in 32 days of intense diplomatic effort, will be signed in Geneva on Friday. It followed by five months a similar accord he worked out between Israel and Egypt on the Suez front.

Letters

Racism as a smokescreen

To the Daily Egyptian:

In my letter in the May 15 DE, I dealt with the political implications and role of SIU as a white institution functioning in a white orientated American system. The issues that I pointed out were that:

1. SIU as a public institution does not service the needs of Illinois black people, Illinois black communities or SIU black students who will work or live in these communities.

2. There is little or no black student programming funds or academic programs to prepare or orientate black students to deal with the massive problems that they will be faced with in Illinois black communities. There is much more of a suppression and limitation of proposed and existing black-orientated programming and a general mis-orientation-mis-education of black students.

3. The millions of dollars (from black and white taxes) allocated to SIU support and deliver white-orientated middle class interests and not black-orientated interests.

4. There is overt and candid racial discrimination through personal racial arrogance and systematic institutionalized racism in counselling, classes and the various academic departments of SIU.

Mr. Volger's "extremely distressing" reactionary response to what I said showed that he either misunderstood what I was saying or that he just wanted to be vaguely, emotionally defensive about something he knows very little about. He did not deal with the above issues. I don't have the time and energy to waste trying to emotionally respond to Mr. Volger's reactionary and nebulous rebuttal challenging whether there is oppression and racism at SIU and in American society. He would either have to be very politically confused as to how the system works or extremely naive to make the statement that there is no discrimination because he has not seen any or encountered any as a white person. In fact it's a total mystery as to what Mr. Volger was trying to say in relation to my letter.

Now if Mr. Volger wants to rationally and politically deal with the above issues instead of getting off into an emotional indictment of: "them vs. us", or "haves vs. have-nots", or "who is to blame—black people for being 'have-nots' or white peoples for being 'haves'—then very well and good. My contention is that the relationship between grade schools, high schools and all other existing institutions in society are part of a systematic, working bond with SIU. How SIU orientates (or indoctrinates) its graduating products to teach or work with their expertise in all these institutions deeply affects them. It is not just the history books that are "white-orientated", the whole system is. Anyone who says that I am racist for stating that SIU and other institutions are "white-orientated" is doing nothing but reflecting his own white-racist-orientated views and apparently fails to understand the roots of his own racism or racism in society. Emphasis and stress should be placed on what are the political, economical and sociological aspects that maintain, perpetuate and utilize racism as a smokescreen.

More glass houses

To the Daily Egyptian:

We are three SIU students who are tired of seeing the Daily Egyptian used as a personal forum for the obtuse political expositions of Professor C. Harvey Gardiner.

His letter to the editor in the May 11 edition was typically inane. Moreover it was reckless and in poor taste.

We feel that in light of his latest letter, Professor Gardiner has left himself open to three alternatives:

- (1) He could resign his position,
- (2) He could be removed by the administration, or
- (3) He could quietly (and without sending a farewell note to the Egyptian) commit suicide.

If Professor Gardiner declines any of the above courses of action, then the editors of the DE should garrote themselves with their typewriter ribbons.

Memorial Days chaotic

Memorial Day—does it matter what day Americans remember their war dead? Isn't it trivial?

If a person has suffered the agony of having someone close to him killed in a war, he will remember that person always.

Congress says the holiday should be observed on the last Monday in May. But Illinois legislators voted last year to celebrate Memorial Day on the traditional May 30 so the living could remember the dead, instead of enjoying a three day weekend.

As a result, confusion reigns. Carbondale and other cities' banks, stores, city offices and schools have taken their pick as to which day their place of business will be closed.

Many parents throughout the state were at home Monday while their children were in school. Thursday, many parents will be at work with their kids left unattended at home.

Illinois Representative Harold A. Katz, D-Glencoe, already has introduced a bill to return the state to a single Memorial Day date—that being, the last Monday in May—to coincide with most of the rest of the nation.

Another state representative, Clyde Choate, D-Anna, however thinks Congress should reverse its action.

Memorial Day means many different things to many people. For some, it's a time for parades, for city swimming pools to open, for picnics, for end-of-the-school year get togethers and it marks the beginning of summer.

For others, it's a time set aside to remember. Holidays are observed by families who usually get together, have fun and relax. This year, in Illinois, that was hardly possible.

Illinois legislators should reverse the decision they made last year. Those who want to remember would and those who want to go out and have fun, could.

Journey to immortality

To many students, Duke Ellington is nothing more than a name. However, his musical genius has influenced nearly all types of music during the past 50 years.

He was not a stranger to college campuses. Honorary degrees from 23 colleges and universities, nationwide, proves this. Thanks to the medium of motion pictures he can be seen in "Blazing Saddles," doing a parody of himself.

His charm, good taste, and elegance added to the "Ellington" persona. Above all he took things in stride. He once said, "I work, and I write, and that's it."

The quantity of his work was as amazing as the quality of it. At 15, he wrote his first composition and for the next 60 years composed almost 6,000 works.

They ranged from single line riffs and popular songs to sacred music and movie, television and ballet scores. By doing so, he fulfilled the American Dream by rising from rags to riches using his natural ability.

He received countless honors including the Medal of Freedom, our nation's highest honor. In France he was made a member of the Legion of Honor. The Swedes elected him to the Royal Swedish Academy of Music.

Duke Ellington died, from cancer and pneumonia, last week in New York City. He may be gone but his music will live forever. His theme song, "Take the 'A' Train," now represents a man who is on the road to immortality.

The shift in youth's values

A new survey taken by the Yankelovich organization for five major foundations shows a dramatic shift in American youth's attitudes in the brief timespan between 1969 and 1973.

Broadly speaking, the trend showed the adoption by noncollege youths of attitudes on sex, morals, religion, and politics that had surfaced earlier among college youths.

And again broadly speaking, the trend should prompt Americans to take a searching look at the basic principles and goals on which the culture's moral and social precepts are based, and to articulate these precepts afresh and more meaningfully. The survey found the following changes in reactions between 1969 and 1973 on key issues:

Living a clean moral life is a very important value—a drop from 77 per cent to 57 per cent among noncollege youths holding this view, and from 45 per cent to 34 per cent among college youths.

Belief that hard work always pays off—a decline from 79 per cent to 56 per cent among noncollege youths, and from 56 per cent to 44 per cent among college youths.

Casual premarital sexual relations are morally wrong—a decline from 57 per cent to 34 per cent among noncollege youths, and from 34 per cent to 22 per cent among college youths.

Religion is a very important value—a decline from 64 per cent to 42 per cent among noncollege youths, and from 38 per cent to 28 per cent among college youths.

An encouraging trend is that many youths want relief from stress on material goals: the percentage that "would welcome less emphasis on money" rose from 54 per cent to 74 per cent among noncollege youths, and 73 per cent to 80 per cent among college youths. Also, more youths are taking an interest in political parties, and more affirm the basic health of American society.

A constructive way to view the results of the Yankelovich survey is to question whether they reflect changed attitudes on deeper moral and societal values per se, or a turning away from what youth takes to be a hypocritical expression or only surface observance of moral values. There has been widespread disillusion over the basic moral integrity of institutions—government and campus not alone among them—raised by such divisive issues as the Vietnam war. The trend may in part reflect the trickling down of youth attitudes into the lower grades during the years of campus unrest. And with college students today showing less alienation from established society, there may be some rebound from the survey's finding of widespread rejection of longheld values.

Nonetheless, the stark shift in attitudes on sex, morals, family, religion in a brief four-year span, now encompassing the noncollege majority as well as the college minority, indicates either a youth adrift or searching for a new expression of values and morality, or both.

The full Yankelovich study will be released in book form this fall. It is the fifth and most comprehensive in a series of Yankelovich youth studies. An earlier one showed a surprising similarity in attitudes held by business executives and college youths.

Of course one does not determine what values and morals should be by opinion survey. But neither does one close the gap between those who hold for stricter moral terms and those who seek a "freer morality," by condemning the gap itself. The challenge stands for clearer perception and expression of the basic spiritual and ethical truths that should underpin society's standards.

"Let's do it"

To the Daily Egyptian:

After reading Marquita Grady's letter in the May 28 DE, I have to agree with many of her points. There are many injustices in this world. I also agree that Carbondale should wake up. But to "kick the first white ass we see"? Really, Ms. Grady, this is as sick as the injustices themselves.

A number of incidents have been occurring on this campus which have either not been reported or have been hushed up by the university, possibly because enrollment is dropping already. It is clear that it is time for change.

Let's stop thinking of ourselves as blacks and whites—we're PEOPLE. The past we cannot change, but we can work on the present. Everyone at SIU has one thing in common—we're here. Pretty insubstantial, you may say. Well granted, Ms. Grady, some of us have a tougher time getting here than others, as you say, but still we're here. We could leave our pasts behind and make something out of this.

It starts with the individual. Maybe we should start thinking about the person next to us. We have to start realizing that if we hurt him, we hurt ourselves as well.

I'm not just talking about blacks and whites. Spend an evening in Merlin's some time and tell me how much you think people are looking out for each other's welfare. Even partying has come down to, "I'm going to have a good time," instead of "Let's have a good time." Possibly we have stopped thinking about other people. Sometimes I wonder if we haven't just stopped thinking.

I noticed, Ms. Grady, that you like to categorize people, "blacks, whites, Southern Christians, p.i., policemen," etc. You know and I know that we're all different. Maybe we're all a little hung up on that fact. Maybe we could get past categorizing and start thinking about people.

So I agree with you, Ms. Grady, when you say, "Wake up, Carbondale." This is a place where it could happen. It could work out. Maybe its starts as simply as a smile and a friendly—no, genuine—"hello." Life isn't one person's trip, it's our trip. So, "Hello, Marquita," and "Hey, Carbondale!" Let's do it.

The measure of a grade

To the Daily Egyptian:

It was my pleasure (?) to attend the Honor's Day activities at SIU-C. While the program was indeed more "personal" than in previous years (can you get more impersonal than having your pre-recorded name, along with two thousand other students, piped through the arena's sound system?), it also demonstrated the intellectual sterility present at this university.

The educational attitudes of the university community were crystallized in a speech by Ms. Janet Burger, an honor student in business education. She asserted that this was indeed our day as we had "worked, sweated and cried" in the process of achieving those grades which we were now being honored for.

It would appear that even with the demise of David Derge, educational "excellence" has continued to be measured by a student's grade point average. The higher the GPA the more "educated" one is assumed to be. It may simply be that we have different concepts of education. I find myself in the philosophical camp of Paulo Freire who sees education as the "process of becoming critically aware of one's reality in a manner that leads to effective action upon it." By such a definition most students are not at SIU to be educated, they are here to be labelled, processed, sifted and marketed.

I wish to congratulate the President and his Vice-Presidents, the department chairpersons and their respective faculty, and the students and their parents for making last Sunday's activities a very personal display of this university's most successful "educational" products.

To the Daily Egyptian:

I read with interest, Dr. Robert A. McGrath's recent editorial (DE: April 13) entitled "Some of The Good Things at SIU". Dr. McGrath is to be complimented for taking the initiative to put into writing many of the factors that make SIU one of the outstanding educational institutions in the nation. Having an opportunity to see a number of colleges and universities across the country, I can candidly without hesitation, concur with Dr. McGrath's assessment of SIU-C attributes.

To the Daily Egyptian:

The incidents you expressed (were the lifeguards really jovial?) are part of life for white as well as black, Miss or Ms. Grady. Doesn't prejudice, after all, boil down to how individuals react, each to the other? The only radical element of your letter, was your use of the terms "you" and "we". These terms, and the use you make of them, seem to me frighteningly exclusive. They seem to imply that all blacks think in one way, and all whites in another. Correct me if I'm wrong in my assumption that humanity is comprised of individuals, rather than colors, Miss or Ms. Grady.

Medical Institute planned

Doctors may prescribe education

A new concept in health care—education for the patient, who, what, where, why, and at what cost?—will be the focus of an institute to be held June 25 and 26 at the Student Center Ballrooms.

Patient education, deemed an important integral part of health care by most health and hospital professionals, is essentially grounded on the assumption that if a doctor can prescribe medication for his patient, he can also prescribe education for him so he could overcome certain sensitivities that may result from his ailment or disability, according to Andrew Marce, coordinator at the SIU Division of Continuing Education.

Insurance, besides covering costs of medication, then, could possibly reimburse patients for the prescribed education that they receive.

Health education as a reimbursable service in health facilities, particularly hospitals, has been accepted by the American Hospital Association, the American Medical Association, the Health Insurance Council, and Blue Cross and Blue Shield, Marce said.

The Institute, the first in a projected series of three, will help participants conceptualize a sound framework for developing model patient education programs to meet individual community needs. It is designed specifically for physicians, hospital administrators, insurance workers, nursing and patient relations staff, social workers, health educators, and other health professionals.

Program participants, nationally recognized in their respective fields, include Harold M. Granning, M.D., assistant surgeon general and director, Division of Facilities Utilization, Bureau of Health Resources Development, U. S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare; Ruth Richards, M. P. H., acting deputy director for the division; Jack J. Rheingold, M.D., senior attending staff, Washington Hospital Center, Washington, D. C.; Clarence Pearson, director of Administration and Health Planning, Health and Welfare Division, Metropolitan Life Insurance Company; Anna W. Skiff, M. S. P. H., health education consultant, USPHS, Staten Island; and Lawrence W. Green, associate professor in the School of Hygiene and Public Health at Johns Hopkins University.

Topics to be examined include "Concepts of Patient Care: Evolution and Significance," "Guidelines and Criteria for Program Development," "Cost Effectiveness and Reimbursement," "Patient Compliance," "Evaluation Designs," "Reports of Experiences with Patient Education Programs," "Role of Hospitals: A Point of View," and "Health Education Programs in Hospitals: A Status Report." A fee of $20 will include all meals, materials, and admission to the sessions of the Institute. The Institute is jointly sponsored by the Department of Health Education, the College of Education, the School of Medicine, the Division of Continuing Education at SIU in cooperation with HEW, the Bi-State Regional Medical Program (Illinois and Missouri) and the Southern Illinois Health Manpower Consortium. Further information and registration forms may be obtained from Marce at Division of Continuing Education.

SIU couple's translated play set to appear

Professor James A. Kilker of the Foreign Languages and Literature Department, and his wife, Mrs. M.J. Kilker, will have their translation-adaptation of the French play "Case for a Rebel" presented by the Unity Theatre in London, June 7 through July 8.

The play, written by French playwright Emmanuel Robles, will be performed in English for the first time. "Rebel," which was written in the early 1960s, has been performed on television in Germany, Holland and France, while having been performed on stage in Brussels four years ago in the Royal Park Theater.

Professor and Mrs. Kilker collaborated on the translation-adaptation of the play for about a month and a half in the early summer of 1973. The translated play was presented to the Unity Theatre in London late that summer, and was accepted for performance at the beginning of this year.

Kilker has translated and published a number of short stories written by Robles, and is currently working on a critical biography of the playwright. Mrs. Kilker, who received her doctorate degree in speech at SIU in 1972, is presently writing articles for theater publications.

Numerous student soloists to perform in Friday concert

By Dave Stearns
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Various student soloists will be featured with the University Orchestra in the Concerto Concert at 8 p.m. Friday in Shryock Auditorium.

The concert will begin with the first performance of Harry McLamb's Symphony No. 1, a piece he composed for his master's thesis.

"It's a skillfully composed piece that manipulates the orchestra's instruments well. We try to have the orchestra perform one student work each year," director James Stroud said.

Randy Blue, who is the first student in SIU history to work for a master's degree in conducting, will direct the orchestra and soloist Barbara Davis in Kimbel Stout's Bassoon Concerto.

"As for the piece itself, the composer worked in the neo-classic model tradition—something like Paul Hindemith," Stroud explained. "In this concerto, Stout cleverly solves the problem of setting a mild-voiced instrument, such as the bassoon, with an orchestra. The orchestra is of a smaller size, as is Mozart's music."

Also, the University Orchestra will perform a piece by Gustav Mahler for the first time since Stroud became director. Brenda Lualdi will be the mezzo-soprano soloist in three songs from Mahler's collection, "The Youth's Magic Horn."

Another mezzo-soprano, Catherine Mabus, will sing "In the Silent Night" and "Spring Waters," two songs by Sergei Rachmaninoff.

Ms. Mabus, who is highly partial to Rachmaninoff's music, said, "The music is extremely well-written for the mezzo-soprano voice. The flowing, lyric melodies show a strong consideration for the singer."

Two piano concertos will be featured on the program. Kay Fields will be the piano soloist in the "allegro" movement from Felix Mendelssohn's Piano Concerto No. 2.

"I'd call it a neo-classic piece, but at the same time it's highly romantic," Stroud said. "The concerto sets off the piano brilliantly, yet it exploits the orchestral resources well while exhibiting the contrasts one associates with Mozart."

Concluding the evening will be the "allegro" movement from Robert Schumann's Concerto in A Minor for Piano and Orchestra. Terry Martin will be the piano soloist in this concerto, which Schumann himself called, "a compromise between a symphony, a huge sonata and a concerto."

Stroud explains: "The piece is more like a symphony featuring a piano soloist, for it isn't a brilliant showpiece but a work dependent on lyricism and piano skills other than virtuosity."

"Being selected to play on the Concerto Concert is a very high honor," Stroud explained. "Orchestral time is a very valuable commodity, and the selection of soloists for this concert is highly competitive."

The concert is free of charge.

Flash Gordon film serials to be shown

Due to the efforts of Student Government Activities Council (SGAC), SIU students will be able to watch complete coverage of Flash Gordon's trip to the distant planet of Frigia behind Woody Hall at 8 p.m. Friday.

According to Jim Rohr of SGAC, Flash is traveling to Frigia to obtain a precious antidote to ward off the deadly Purple Plague believed to have been cast upon Carbondale by Ming the Merciless.

The Flash Gordon to be shown is the same original 1940 serial which brought millions of people back to their local theaters every Saturday afternoon to find out the result of the previous week's cliff-hanger. The Flash Gordon serials will be shown from 8 p.m. until 1:30 a.m., with the rock group "Rockets" playing intervening 45 minute sets from 8 to 8:45 p.m., 9:45 to 10:30 p.m. and 11:30 to 12:15 p.m.

Rohr said that students planning to stay a long time should bring blankets. In case of celestial disturbances, the program will be held in Ballroom D of the Student Center.

Masters degree to be offered this fall in public affairs

Beginning fall semester, the Department of Political Science will offer a new Master of Public Affairs (M.P.A.) Degree program, according to Charles Goodsell, professor of government and director of the program.

The M.P.A. degree program was first conceived about three years ago, Goodsell said, and had to be approved by the SIU Board of Trustees and the Illinois Board of Higher Education before going into effect.

"This degree will serve a real need in education, namely public service. It's designed to give the student a good dose of relevant material without keeping them on campus indefinitely," Goodsell said.

The degree program is aimed at serving two different groups of students, Goodsell said. First, recent college graduates who are planning careers in public or quasi-public organizations. The second group would be those mid-career public servants holding B.A. degrees who wish to upgrade their professional skills.

Goodsell said similar degrees may be academically oriented to produce teachers, but the M.P.A. degree is more professionally oriented. He also said the degree name is nationally recognized and the program will be highly flexible.

Three new core courses are being added to the curriculum for the M.P.A. degree: Advanced Public Administration, Planning and Budgeting Systems, and Advanced

Latin music fest set for Thursday

Coffee and refreshments will be served at the festival, which is free of charge and open to the public.

Textbook Rental sets return times

Textbook Rental will be open Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. for the return of rental texts.

The deadline for the return of rental texts is June 17. Any books not returned by the deadline will be billed to the account of the person to whom they were checked out.

The first day for the rental of texts for summer quarter will be June 18.

Instead of a thesis, M.P.A. degree candidates will be required to write an internship report. Those mid-

Proposed zoning ordinance may limit local cooperatives

By Dan Haar
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The growth of housing cooperatives, where more than two unrelated persons rent a dwelling and share expenses, may be slowed drastically in Carbondale if the City Council approves the proposed zoning ordinance.

At least 30 per cent of the areas where cooperatives are allowed would be zoned as districts which would prohibit any future cooperatives, according to the ordinance's map.

The hardest hit area for housing cooperatives, according to the map, is north of Pecan Street, roughly between Michaels Street and Oakland Avenue.

This area, where there are many cooperatives, would be zoned R-1, single family residential. According to the proposed zoning ordinance, cooperatives would not be allowed to remain.

Another area which would be affected by the proposed map is roughly bordered by East Walnut Street on the south, Pecan Street on the north, Oakland Avenue on the west and University Avenue on the east.

This area, which would be zoned R-2, would allow cooperatives only by special exception.

To obtain a special exception, a person would have to submit a request to the City Planning Department, including information on development plans.

The Planning Department would forward the request to the Planning Commission, a citizen board. The commission would hold a public hearing on the request, gathering, among other things, input from the neighborhood involved.

The commission would then send its recommendations to the City Council, which would make the final decision.

City Planning Director James Rayfield said the areas were zoned for single-family residences because there is "primarily single-family housing there now."

Rayfield said he and the members of the citizen Zoning Commission felt that the neighborhoods were entitled to the "amenities of a single-family residential area."

Groups of students living together off-campus often cause problems for the neighborhood, Rayfield said. The problems include noise, sanitation, parking congestion and upkeep on buildings.

"The zoning ordinance and the zoning map aren't going to please everybody," Rayfield said.

Don Monty, assistant city planner, said the city has the legal right to zone according to the relation of the people who live in a particular dwelling. That right was upheld earlier this year in a court case involving a New York controversy.

Monty said that although the city can zone by occupant relationships, the question is whether it should. He said he thought the restricting of cooperatives from certain areas was allowed by a prevalent negative attitude of residents toward students.

If all city ordinances concerning housing were enforced, Monty said, student housing would not present as great a problem. He cited ordinances that deal with noise and other nuisances, and building, safety and health codes.

Barrett Rockman, who rents out houses and apartments in the affected areas, criticized both the ordinance and the map. Rockman's concern with the ordinance is how housing cooperatives are defined.

According to the ordinance, cooperatives are combined with rooming houses. The ordinance's definition of a rooming house is "any dwelling unit which provides sleeping and/or eating facilities for more than two but less than 10 unrelated individuals."

Rockman said cooperatives should be defined separately, with separate regulations. The cooperative is prevalent in any city which has a disproportionate share of students in its population, he said. In Carbondale, that fact should be accepted, Rockman said.

Instead, the cooperative is shunned by residents and, with the passage of the ordinance, would be limited.

Rockman cited a study made four years ago by the Planning Commission when he was a member of it.

The study advocated that areas in which cooperatives would be allowed be increased. "Instead of increasing the area as recommended, the city has decided to decrease the area," Rockman said. He said growth of cooperatives should be planned but not restricted.

The council will hold a public hearing on the zoning ordinance text Monday. A public hearing on the map will be held June 20.

Testimonial dinner planned for retiring Ag School dean

By Charlotte Jones
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

A testimonial dinner for the Dean of the School of Agriculture Wendell E. Keepper, who is retiring July 1, is set for Friday at 6:30 p.m. in Student Center Ballroom B.

Bill Lyons, former director of University News Service, will serve as master of ceremonies.

A black walnut plaque made by the forestry department will be presented to Keepper.

About 133 friends and associates of Keepper's, including Charles Shuman, former national president of Farm Bureau and Orville Bentley, dean of the University of Illinois School of Agriculture, have made reservations for the dinner. Keepper, 64, said he started making plans for early retirement two years ago. "I'm ready to retire. It's time for a new dean. Younger people who are going to have to live with the decisions made in the School of Agriculture should be the ones making them."

Keepper said the School of Agriculture had grown from about 300 to 800 students since he came to SIU 24 years ago.

Keepper earned his doctorate degree from Cornell University and served five years as an instructor at Cornell.

He then taught agricultural economics for 12 years at Pennsylvania State College before coming to SIU as chairman of the agriculture department in 1950.

Keepper has worked in various foreign assignments through the United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization. He was a farm management consultant to the Venezuelan Ministry of Agriculture for six months in 1956. From 1960-62 he was on leave from SIU to serve as FAO administrative officer based in Rome, Italy where he helped plan and develop teaching, research and extension programs for several European nations.

In May 1964, he evaluated agricultural education projects in Bolivia followed by a similar assignment in Iran in 1965. In 1968, he represented SIU as an agricultural consultant to a new university being built at Salta.

Keepper said he and his wife will remain at their home, located just south of Carbondale, following his retirement.

Grad students offer plays today, Monday

Three plays, written and directed by Department of Theater graduate students, are scheduled for end-of-the-quarter presentation.

"Dynasty," written by Michael Moore and directed by Andre Sedriks, will be presented at 7 p.m. Thursday in the University Theater. The play is set during the Civil War and revolves around a captured Union officer who creates a financial empire in the South.

Lane Bateman's "Kiss the Sky," directed by Randy Lockwood, will be performed at 5 p.m. Monday in the Laboratory Theater. The play is about two male couples who take a young man into their home.

"Cabbages and Kings," written by Marty Jones and directed by Margaret Richardson, will be staged at 7 p.m. June 3 in the Laboratory Theater. College life and political involvement are the themes.

The plays were produced in an experimental playwriting workshop under the supervision of Christian Moe, professor of theater. Admission to all three productions is free.

YWLL petitions to get Communists on ballot

Members of the Young Workers Liberation League (YWLL) are collecting signatures on campus and in the community for a petition requesting the Communist party be put on the ballot for the Illinois elections in November.

Jay Schaffner, chairman of the Illinois chapter of the YWLL, said more than 1,000 signatures have been collected in the past two days in Carbondale, and the signature drive will last through Friday.

Twelve thousand signatures have been collected so far statewide, Schaffner said. A total of 25,000 signatures are needed by Aug. 1 to put the party on the ballot.

Schaffner, 22, is one of three Communist Party candidates for positions on the Board of Trustees for the University of Illinois. If the 25,000 signatures are collected, he said, this will be only the second time in 40 years that the Communist Party will be on the ballot in Illinois.

The YWLL will have a table set up in the solicitation area of the Student Center through Friday, Schaffner said, where literature and information about the YWLL and the Communist Party may be obtained. Schaffner said persons interested in helping with the collection of signatures should contact the YWLL at the information table.

Selections of Film Festival to be presented this weekend

Selections from the Ann Arbor Film Festival will be shown at 8 p.m. on Friday and Saturday at the Student Center Auditorium.

This free program is being sponsored by the Student Government Activities Council Films Committee, the Cinema and Photography Department, the Women's Center and the University Galleries.

According to Ernie Graubner of the University Galleries, the independent film festival held at Ann Arbor, Mich. is one of the more notable in the country. Graubner traveled to Ann Arbor to attend this year's festival in March and selected the 18 films which will be shown here. He watched 35 hours of film during the course of one week, and chose a "great variety" of films for SIU viewing.

The films average about 15 minutes each, and the program will run about 2½ hours each night.

Camil says government tried to stop veterans against war

By Gary Delsohn
Student Writer

Scott Camil, one of the Gainesville Eight, told about 100 persons in the Student Center Tuesday night the federal government attempted to destroy the Vietnam Veterans Against the War (VVAW).

Camil, six other members of the VVAW and one "sympathizer," were acquitted after a 14-month legal battle. They were tried in Gainesville, Fla., for "conspiring to organize numerous fire teams to attack, with automatic weapons, fire and incendiary devices, police stations, police cars and stores in Miami Beach" during the 1972 Republican National Convention.

Camil, like the other defendants, volunteered to serve in Vietnam. He enlisted in the U.S. Marines three days after he graduated from high school. He was wounded twice in his 20-month stint in Vietnam and received nine medals.

He came back to the States in 1969 and still felt his time spent in

Scott Camil

Vietnam was worthwhile. "Who was I to question the Government?" he asked.

Over a period of time he began suspecting the government's motives for the war. In 1971, after going to the Winter Soldier Investigations in Detroit, he was "convinced that I had been tricked, deceived, used and that my life had been made expendable for reasons that I didn't consider patriotic."

After the Winter Soldier Investigations, Camil joined the VVAW and during a Washington anti-war demonstration, he and other vets, threw their Vietnam service medals on the White House lawn, in protest of the war.

During this time, Camil claimed, he was constantly being spied on by agents and undercover men. He drew up a plan for a self-defense system at the convention and gave these plans to a close friend to have copies made. Camil said the "friend" gave a copy to the FBI, so the government knew exactly what the VVAW was planning.

He described the situation as one in which "the spies were spying on the spies, who were spying on the spies." Six of the original 23 arrested were agents, Camil claimed. The conspiracy was later whittled down to eight.

Camil said the trial had a circus atmosphere. The defendants' rights were constantly circumvented by the judge. "The government," Camil said, "has certain ways to circumvent people's rights which most people don't know about."

Camil told of an incident during the trial when the judge attempted to place the eight on probation for their alleged disruptions in the courtroom. The defense lawyers protested the ruling, telling the judge he could not probate anyone unless they have been convicted of a crime and sentenced. When the judge heard this, according to Camil, he said, "Don't tell me I can't do it. That's the way I always do it."

A suit was filed by the defendants in connection with this violation, which, according to Camil, only was one in a series of attempts by the Justice Department to "destroy the VVAW." The defendants were acquitted on all counts but, Camil claimed, "the government was successful in disrupting our activities." The southern branches of VVAW are now nonexistent, he said.

Camil is no longer affiliated with the VVAW, "for a number of reasons." "Right now we're doing the best we can to show what the government did to us," he said.

Most of his time is now taken up by public speaking engagements and work on a book about the trial and "other related things." He told the audience he is certain he is still being watched by "someone." The film script from his book was stolen from a friend's Los Angeles apartment. "Who could use that?" he asked.

Fall semester economics class to examine poor

The economics department will offer a new course this fall focusing on the economics of poverty entitled "Contemporary Economic Problems" (Economics 300, section 2).

The course will not be limited to purely economic aspects of poverty, but will also examine the subject from sociological, political and psychological points of view.

The course will be taught by Professor Arthur Ford, who has recently published the book "Political Economics of Rural Poverty in the South." Ford's book examines the role of economic structure and political power in the sociological and psychological transformation of rural groups in the South and Appalachia since the 1930's.

The three-hour, three-credit course is open to all interested students.

SIU to conduct teaching tests

SIU has been designated as a testing center for the National Teacher Examinations (NTE), which will be held on campus July 20.

Many college seniors preparing to teach and teachers applying for certification, licensure, or those seeking positions in school systems which encourage or require the NTE will be taking the tests, according to Harley Bradshaw, head of the Testing Division, Career Planning and Placement Center.

Bulletins of Information describing registration procedures and containing registration forms as well as sample test questions may be obtained from the Testing Division, CPCC, Washington Square, Building C.

Woodlawn Cemetary

Services to be held at historic site

Memorial Day services will be held in Carbondale and Murphysboro Thursday to honor area war dead.

Carbondale's service will be held at Woodlawn Cemetary, the reputed birthplace of Memorial Day observances.

Services will begin at 9 a.m. with advancement of colors by members of the SIU-ROTC and the Carbondale American Legion. Invocation will be offered by Rev. M. Thomas Harrell of Bethel AME Church.

The featured address will be by local historian John W. D. Wright who will speak on the significance of Woodlawn Cemetary in the development of Memorial Day into a national observance.

A memorial observance was held in Woodlawn Cemetary April 29, 1866, shortly after the close of the Civil War, according to Wright.

This initial event drew 200 Civil War veterans to the cemetary to honor fellow soldiers who had fallen in battle.

Gen. John A. Logan spoke at the ceremony and said "Every man's life belongs to his country and no man has a right to refuse when his country calls for it."

Later, as Commander of the Grand Army of the Republic, Logan signed General Order 11 which set May 30, 1868 as a Memorial Day, which it was hoped would be "kept up from year to year."

General Order 11 will be read at Thursday's services.

During the services, the Daniel Brush Chapter of DAR will lay a wreath on city founder Brush's grave. The local Cub Scout troop will lay a wreath on the grave of Agill Conner, another of Carbondale's founders. The Day Care Nursery of Lantanna Baptist Church will place a wreath on the Unknown Soldiers Monument. A wreath will also be placed on the grave of Lt. Governor Alexander Jenkins who served in the Joseph Duncan administration, 1832-34.

The American Legion will offer a firing squad salute. Dismissal will be by Rev. Harrell and the colors will be retired by the SIU-ROTC and American Legion.

Mayor Neal Eckert will be master of ceremonies.

The American Legion will conduct simple services at the City Cemetary in Murphysboro.

A post spokesman said there will be a speaker and a firing squad salute, but other details were not available.

City and County offices will be closed Thursday in observance of Memorial Day. Federal agencies will operate as usual.

No funds for moving

'Glove Factory' to remain

The University facilities presently occupying the Good Luck Glove Factory at East College and South Washington streets will remain there despite the soon-to-be-available space of the Faner Building, according to Dave Grobe, coordinator of facilities planning.

Grobe said the University would like to move the facilities on campus but indicated that will be impossible until more funds for buildings become available.

"In our capital budget process this year we asked the state for more money to put up additional metal buildings on McLafferty Road. Our plan was to ask for four, five or six additional buildings. These buildings would have been used to accommodate the facilities presently occupying the Glove Factory," Grobe said.

The Glove Factory, which the University began renting in 1967, houses four facilities, according to Grobe. The four facilities are:

Morris Library and the Law Library use a portion of the first floor for storage.

General Stores, which is part of the Purchasing Office, uses the basement for storage.

Surplus Property stores equipment on the first floor. Most of it, according to Grobe, is obsolete equipment that is state-owned and cannot be readily disposed of.

The art department, primarily sculpture, occupies the second floor.

"If we had General Stores and Surplus Properties out of the Glove Factory," Grobe said, "we would try to accommodate the other facilities on-campus."

For history research professor C. Harvey Gardiner the old saying "one thing leads to another" can be amended to read "one thing leads to seven others."

In August, 1972, Gardiner's article "Los japoneses y Colombia," published by the Academia de Historia del Valle del Cauca in its "Boletin", initiated that Colombian body's interest in the general theme of Japanese relations with Latin America. Seeking and obtaining permission to publish Spanish-language versions of other Japanese-Latin American studies by Gardiner, the journal of December, 1973, contained seven articles.

More important than the appearance of seven articles in a single issue of a periodical is the unification of related materials previously published in widely separated places and in languages (Japanese and English) that restricted Latin American access to them.

Pro golfers gather for Kemper Open

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP)—They're all here. Some reluctantly, to be sure. But all the great names of pro golf have gathered for the $250,000 Kemper Open.

There's good reason for it. No-shows could lose their rights to compete on the pro tour because the Kemper, which begins Thursday on the 7,085-yard, par-72 Quail Hollow Country Club course, is one of three "designated tournaments," in which the game's leading players are required to play. The first one, the Colonial National in Fort Worth, Tex., two weeks ago, got mixed reactions from the game's leading names. Arnold Palmer didn't like it. Lee Trevino was enthusiastic. Jack Nicklaus took a "wait and see" attitude.

And Nicklaus wouldn't be in this one if he weren't required to.

"It wasn't on my own," he said. "I hadn't planned on playing in any of the three. I had to re-arrange my schedule a little."

"We can't yet tell whether it's doing any good or any harm. We'll have to wait and see. There may be some changes. There's no way of knowing what we might come up with."

It's one of the few times in recent years that Nicklaus—the game's all-time leading money winner and owner of a record 14 major titles—wasn't a favorite. The only time he played this tournament he missed the cut.

He has won only once on the tour this season, well off his pace of the last few years, and some others are coming on strong.

There's Tom Weiskopf, the defending champion here and the only two-time Kemper champion; Johnny Miller, the young man who has been the sensation of the tour this season with five victories, and South African Gary Player, the Masters champion and winner of last week's Danny Thomas-Memphis Classic who insists "I'm playing absolutely the best golf of my career."

Foreign athletes get AAU okay

CHICAGO (AP)—The Amateur Athletic Union agreed Tuesday to let foreign athletes participate in the upcoming International Prep Invitational Track and Field meet.

In an out of court settlement of a suit brought by the National Collegiate Athletic Association, the AAU stipulated that it would fully sanction the June 8 meet and issue travel permits to foreign athletes who were invited, a spokesman said.

Sponsored by the Northern Illinois Track Coaches' Association, the meet will be held in Mt. Prospect. The AAU had barred foreign high school athletes from participating, claiming there was danger of professionalism. The suit was brought to stop the AAU from barring foreign athletes. About seven athletes from other nations were invited.

SIU soccer club to hold banquet

The SIU International Soccer Club will hold its annual banquet Saturday, at the Pyramids residence hall, 516 S. Rawlings, from 4-7 p.m.

All active club members from the 1973-74 school year are invited to attend.

According to Dan Habel, coordinator of the event, some of the activities will include a film on the 1970 World Cup as well as film shorts from the SIU-Fort Campbell game.

Recapping the season, the soccer club finished up with a 5-2 record.

Playoffs slated in coed volleyball

The coed volleyball league will terminate its season with two playoff games Thursday evening.

At 8 p.m. the Bumpin' Bozox will play the Anodynes in the semi-finals. After the semi-final game, the winner of the 8 p.m. match will play the Ore in the finals.

Giants drop Cubs

CHICAGO (AP)—Gary Thomasson's two-run double and Dave Rader's two-run single, both with two out in the first inning, and Bobby Bonds' homer in the seventh led the San Francisco Giants to a 5-4 victory over the Chicago Cubs Wednesday.

Rookie John D'Aquisto was the winner, boosting his record to 3-5, but needed relief help from Randy Moffitt in the eighth.

Cubs' starter Rick Rueschel, 34, got into trouble in the first inning when the Giants loaded the bases on singles by Tito Fuentes and Garry Maddox and a walk to Steve Ontiveros.

Thomasson's double scored Fuentes and Maddox. After Mike Phillips walked, filling the bases again, Rader singled, driving on Ontiveros and Thomasson.

The Cubs scored two runs in the third on successive singles by Billy Williams, Jose Cardenal and Rick Monday and a fielder's choice.

Chicago added two more in the eighth on a bases-loaded single by pinch hitter Chris Ward. Following Ward's hit, Matt Alexander grounded to first base, but Vic Harris was thrown out at the plate in an attempt to score from third.

Shartzter's revenge earns MVP award

By Mark Tupper
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

The Salukis were leading the Minnesota Golden Gophers 6-0 in the eighth inning of their pre-championship District IV baseball game when with two outs, bronze Steve Shartzter took his position at the plate.

Pitcher Dennis Aller had already seen the batter rip three singles in the game, but none-the-less jumped ahead of Shartzter with two strikes. Looking calm and relaxed, Shartzter dug his cleats into the dirt and choked up on the bat.

"We'll never get revenge this way," Shartzter had said two nights previous after the Salukis dropped a 9-4 decision to the Gophers, he personally going 0-4. "I've got to start hitting again."

The Saluki sophomore left fielder watched Aller's pitch break down and away from him. Shartzter stepped smoothly into the ball and swatted it high over the fence in left field for the only home run hit in the District IV tournament. A single in the ninth gave him a record-tying five hits for the day and helped drive the Salukis onto the title.

After Shartzter played the championship game with a pulled leg muscle and had three more hits in four at bats, the members of the working press voted him the tournament's highest individual honor—the District IV Most Valuable Player award.

When told of the honor, Shartzter was moved nearly to tears. "I couldn't believe I had won it," he says now. "Maybe they felt I deserved it, but it really should have been a team thing."

The bat of Steve Shartzter has sizzled all season long. He returned from the spring trip hitting over .500, batted over .400 for over half of the regular season and will enter the College World Series in Omaha, Neb. with a .383 mark.

Although Shartzter leads the team in homers with seven, he doesn't consider himself a power hitter. "I've always had a good average and a lot of runs batted in," Shartzter said. "Strength-wise, I'd say I'm stronger than average from my elbows down."

"But I'm really not a power hitter. As soon as I start thinking that, I know I'm through."

Shartzter was one of only two freshmen to play regularly last season, and when he was forced to miss the final four games of the year and the 1973 District IV playoffs with a broken finger, he left the lineup as the team's second leading hitter, batting .339.

Steve Shartzter

"Since last year I've worked hard on hitting the breaking pitches and I've tried to avoid swinging at bad pitches. I cost myself a lot of points last year by swinging at bad pitches," Shartzter contends.

Shartzter, like many of the Saluki hitters, credits much of his success at the plate to his coach, Itchy Jones. "I can't tell you how grateful I am that when any of us begins to do something wrong at the plate, Itchy always knows what it is.

"At the districts, I had gotten a few hits, but they weren't my kind of hits," Shartzter recalled. "I went to Itchy for some extra help and he pointed out that I was swinging on my front foot instead of staying back on the ball. The changes I made showed Saturday. I knew I would hit the ball Saturday."

"One of the greatest things about playing on this team is knowing that there's nothing about the game that either Itchy or Mark (assistant coach Mark Newman) can't help you with if you're willing to listen and want to learn," Shartzter said.

"We have as good a chance as anybody to win the World Series," Shartzter reasoned. "We have more confidence now, having lost that first game and then fighting back, than I think we would have had if we'd swept the series."

The MVP tourney award was not the first of such honors for Shartzter. He was voted the All-Tournament third baseman in the state high school meet, playing for Macon, even though he played only one game at that position.

Whether it's hitting for an average, smashing the crucial RBI single, making a hard catch in the outfield, showing SIU's trademark speed on the basepath or hitting a tough pitch out of the ballpark, Steve Shartzter will figure big in SIU's College World Series hopes.

Compulsory exercises to open gymnastic trials

By Mark Tupper
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

Compulsory exercises open the SIU-hosted United States Gymnastics Federation (USGF) Elite National Championship meet and World Games Trials from 1 to 5 p.m. and 7 to 10 p.m. Thursday in the SIU Arena. Admission to both sessions will be free.

The 40 finest U.S. woman gymnasts will compete for the national Elite Class titles and the right to continue on to the final World Games team trials in California.

Trying for her record fourth consecutive all-around championship, Philadelphia Joan Moore Rice will begin competition as the seventh-ranked woman in the meet.

Rice is the defending 1974 NAAU Champion and was a member of the U.S. World Games Team in 1970 and a member of the 1972 U.S. Olympic Team. Her frequent appearances on national television makes the blue-eyed brunette the most recognizable in the tournament.

As defending floor exercise champ from 1971-73, any 9.5 scores will not be unexpected. Rice represents the Manettes of Philadelphia, who, coached by Bill and Ginny Coco, have four other Elite qualifiers in the meet.

Teammate Ann Curr, a 16-year-old Manette, currently holds the sixth place ranking going into the Elite nationals with a qualifying score of 73.10. Although having international experience against France and Hungary, the 11th grader from Northwest High School has just come into her own in 1974.

Only the Southern Connecticut Gymnastics Club, coached by Muriel Grossfeld, has more members in the meet than the Manettes. Grossfeld's Janet Anderson, possibly the oldest in the Elite field at 23, leads the Connecticut Club with a second place ranking and a 74.20 qualifying score. Anderson was a Pan American Games and World Games team member.

Young Dianne Dunbar from California enters the meet as the nation's leading woman gymnast with a qualifying score of 74.55. And pre-tournament observations from SIU Coach Herb Vogel indicate that Dunbar will be difficult to upset.

Three SIU gymnasts—Sandi Gross, Stephanie Stroman and Lynn Govin—will compete in the meet. Govin is the highest ranked Saluki in 10th place.

Two Friday sessions, beginning at 1 and 7 p.m., will be held to perform the optional routines. Admission to these sessions will be $1.50 for students and $2.50 for non-students.

The finals will be held at 8 p.m. Saturday and will feature all of the individual event champions and the all-around champ. An all-event ticket booklet is available for $5. Tickets are now on sale in the SIU athletic ticket office from 1 to 5 p.m.

Seventh-ranked Joan Moore Rice prepares balance beam routine for the elite championship meet.

'Without grease'

Gaylord Perry ages to perfection

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) — Gaylord Perry, unshaven and with specks of gray flecking his three-day-old beard, sat slumped on the dugout steps looking a decade older than his 35 years.

A puffy stomach eased over his beltline and he appeared for all the world like a tired middle-aged man.

An older man stood on crutches behind the dugout and asked Perry for an autograph.

"Yes sir," Perry said, bounding to his feet in darkened Arlington Stadium.

"I don't like to turn anyone away, particularly in my age group," Perry said, smiling.

Perry's work differs from the ordinary 35-year-old man. With an 8-0 victory Tuesday night over the Texas Rangers, the Cleveland ace's record jumped to 8-1 for the season-tops in the major leagues.

Perry hasn't lost since opening day. That was April 6 to the New York Yankees.

And to hear him talk, Perry is making do just fine without his greaseball that sent opposing managers on furious temper tantrums.

"I'm just not using the greaseball anymore," Perry said. "I hated to see it leave the game. . . I enjoyed using it."

Perry claimed he can't remember the last time he doctored up the ball with a load of petroleum jelly.

"I honestly can't remember the last time I threw the pitch," Perry said.

Texas Ranger slugger Jeff Burroughs said, "It was the same Gaylord Perry. He changed speeds a lot, nibbled on the corners all night and threw a lot of strikes. But he threw no greaseballs or spitballs."
