SOUTHERN BUYS FIRST LOTS FOR EXPANSION

Purchase of the first tracts of land adjacent to the campus for Southern's post-war expansion program was completed early in July, and a ceremony in the office of the President featured the delivery of the first purchase check to Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Colp of Carbondale. Mrs. Colp is the former Miss Eula M. Harris, '18.

This state warrant, in the sum of $12,427, was for purchase of the Colps' property at 910 S. Illinois Ave.

On July 12, Governor Dwight H. Green released warrants totaling $87,836 for acquisition of nine tracts, including the Colp property. The warrant was presented to Mr. and Mrs. Colp by Frank G. Thompson, Southern alumnus, director of the State Department of Registration and Education and music department at the campus for 21 years.

FIRST CHECK DELIVERED

250 Attend June Alumni Banquet

Attendance at the Alumni Banquet June 6 exceeded 250, and forced the arrangements committee to move the feast from the cafeteria to the old gymnasium in the Science Building.

Dr. Percival Bailey of Chicago, '12, was elected president for 1946-'47. Other officers chosen were first vice president, Dr. Leo J. Brown, '32, Carbondale; second vice president, Roy R. Bryant, '38, Metropolis; secretary, Miss Irene D. Brock, '41, Du Quoin, Ill.

W. B. (Slatz) Valentine '38, Alto Pass, '32, retiring president, acted as toastmaster for the occasion.

Speaker of the evening was Roy V. Jordan of Centralia, 1905-1914, who outlined obligations of an alumnus to the University, and the obligations of the University to its alumni.

The alumni owe goodwill to their alma mater; may "become scouts for recruiting students"; and "can be of great assistance in securing needed appropriations from the legislature for the support and the enlargement of the University and its curricula."

The University, on the other hand, "should have available to even the humblest citizen services that make life more enjoyable and the income of the region greater. . . . on the material side (and) on the spiritual side," the speaker declared. "The University should train students and it "should also contribute to the general good of the area which it serves."

Elected to the Alumni Board of Directors at the June meeting were: George Calhoun, '29-'36, Elsberry, re-elected; Lowell Roberts, '15, Chicago; Mrs. Barbara Burr Hubbs, '21, Chicago; Prof. Robert Hamilton, '22, University of Wyoming Law School, Laramie, Wyo.; and W. B. ("Slatz") Valentine, '38, Alto Pass.

The four new members succeed George Schroeder, '48, Carbondale; Arthur Edmison, '37, Mt. Vernon; Irene Brock, '41, Du Quoin; and Mrs. Alice Parkinson Feirich, Carbondale.

University President Chester F. Lay welcomed the alumni back to the campus, gave a brief report on the status and expansion program of the University, and introduced Dr. Orville Alexander, '31, professor of government at the University, who was recently named director of alumni services.

Valentine reported that a constitution for the association is being drafted and will during the ensuing year be sent to all alumni for their consideration.

He also reported that the Alumni Board of Directors had voted its...

Southern Campus A Meeting Ground

The Southern campus is more and more becoming the gathering place for all Southern Illinois students. During the past year and a half more than a score of organizations or special groups have met at Southern, either in programs sponsored by the University or in their own regular sessions.

This summer, the University has conducted a two-day conference for Southern Illinois newspaper editors, an aviation education conference, a health conference and training school for the Illinois Congress of Parents and Teachers, an eight-weeks’ workshop in health education, and a week-long administration workshop in health education.

During the past year and a half such groups as farmers, industrialists, Boy Scouts, sewage operators, fruit growers, creamery producers, and educators have met on the campus.

Produced in round table form, the broadcasts dealt with "new frontiers" in history, economics, government, business and industry, science, natural resources, health, and education.

Musical background for the program was furnished by a radio orchestra directed by John Wharton, instructor in music; Robert D. Parker, associate professor of English, served as moderator; Bill Holder, Carbondale, a student, acted as announcer. The series was sponsored by the University Information Service.

Speakers on the various round table panels included President Chester F. Lay, members of the faculty, and, in some cases, off-campus speakers.

The summer student body includes students from all states in the College of Education, 285 in the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences, 225 in the College of Vocations and Professions, and 101 in the Graduate School.

Several hundred students, chiefly veterans, are expected to continue their studies during August in a group of workshops, seminars and tutorial courses on the campus.

A rural education workshop will be conducted during August at Mt. Vernon, and three workshops on conservation will be held at Belleville, Chester and Vienna.

Placing extension and placement on a full-time basis, President Chester P. Lay has appointed Raymond H. Dey, former superintendent of Carbondale Community and Attucks high schools, as director of these two services.

Last year, Southern conducted extension classes in 17 Southern Illinois communities, with enrollment of more than 1,000. Appointment of a full-time director will make possible a substantial broadening of Southern's extension services, as well as further development of its placement service.
