Dakin will step down as city chief of police

By Dan Haar
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Carbondale Police Chief Joseph Dakin Monday night announced to the City Council that he will resign June 4 because of the council's refusal to allocate more money to maintain the quality of the police department.

Dakin told the council that the $808,054 it budgeted for the police department in the 1974-75 budget was not enough to maintain the professional police force that has developed since he became chief of police three and a half years ago.

Dakin said he decided to resign because of differences between him and City Manager Carroll Fry on the police budget.

The police union has been negotiating with Fry, the council's negotiator, on a new contract. The old contract expires at midnight Tuesday.

"I would like to remind the city council that a lot has been accomplished and I think it is your responsibility to continue," Dakin told the council members.

Dakin announced his resignation after the Carbondale Ministerial Association commended him and the police department.

The association said that "When Joseph Dakin became chief of police for Carbondale, the Carbondale Police Department was dispirited and disorganized and Carbondale had the

Nixon vows to 'tell all' in tape transcripts

WASHINGTON (AP)—Fighting to blunt impeachment moves, President Nixon said Monday night he would give a House committee and then make public edited transcripts of White House conversations that "will tell it all" in the Watergate scandal.

Sharply attacking the Senate testimony of his former counsel and chief Watergate accuser, John W. Dean III, Nixon traced for a national TV and radio audience his activities in the Watergate controversy.

He said he was waiving the precedent of executive privilege to make public the transcripts of dozens of private presidential conversations.

But he said such disclosure was necessary to prove to the public he personally had no knowledge of the Watergate break-in and did not participate in a subsequent cover-up.

The President said he would allow the senior Democrat and Republican on the House Judiciary Committee to listen to the tapes and verify that none of the deletions relate to relevant Watergate matters.

His action, Nixon said, would quash the "vague general impression of massive wrongdoing" in the nation's highest office. Nixon said he has nothing to hide, and the tapes will show it.

The President acknowledged that portions of the conversations were ambiguous because they are recordings of individuals "just thinking out loud."

"Never before have records so private been made public," he said, adding that he was placing his trust "in the basic fairness of the American people."

As Nixon spoke in a nationally broadcast speech, the transcripts were stacked beside his Oval Office desk, each set in a notebook. One, emblazoned with the presidential seal, faced the television cameras.

Nixon said the notebooks contain more than 1,200 pages of transcripts of private conversations he held between Sept. 15, 1972, and April 27, 1973, with regard to Watergate.

The President said he would make public not only these transcripts, but also transcripts covering tape recordings of 19 other conversations, and more than 700 White House documents, which already have been delivered to the House committee and the Watergate special prosecutors.

Nixon also said he does not know how the celebrated 18½-minute gap in one tape recording could have occurred. But he said he is certain it was not done purposely by his secretary, Rose Mary Woods.

Trustees will get plan for funding of health program

By Randy McCarthy
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

A resolution calling for shifting revenues from fees to pay for an expanded student health program will be placed before the Board of Trustees at its May 9 meeting.

No provision for increase in total fees paid by students is included in the resolution.

The basic thrust of the proposal is to transfer $15 of the $22.50 collected from the Student Welfare and Recreation Fund (SWRF) fee to the Student Medical Benefits (SMB) fee to cover the costs of providing extended medical coverage, specialty care and hospitalization for students.

Although students wouldn't be assessed higher fees, the money collected by the SMB fee would increase from $17.25 to $32.25 per semester, providing about $530,000 per year to pay for more medical services.

Sam McVay, Health Service administrator, said about $318,000 would be spent to obtain hospitalization coverage for students to cover "100 per cent of all costs up to $50,000 per student for each medical problem."

Bruce Swinburne, dean of students, said the amount of money needed to pay for the hospital plan is based on providing 150 days of care at $125 per day for each 1,000 students enrolled in the University.

If a student is hospitalized for more than five days the cost will be paid for using part of about $100,000 included in the health plan for expanded medical coverage. The cost for a student requiring specialized treatment will be paid for using money from about $100,000 in funds set aside for specialty care.

The cost for a student requiring specialized treatment will be paid for using money from about $100,000 in funds set aside for specialty care.

If a student is covered by private hospitalization plan he may receive a refund for money paid as SMB fees. The amount of refund would depend on the degree of coverage provided by the private hospitalization and might result in a total refund of SMB fees, Swinburne said.

If the board okays the resolution it will be making only a policy decision approving the move toward a comprehensive medical program at the University, McVay said. Specific provisions of the plan won't be sent to the board for evaluation until this summer when bids for supplying the services could be taken.

McVay said if the comprehensive health program is established, each student will receive compensation for the cost of treating injuries or illness incurred while a student at SIU, even if he isn't on campus at the time.

Money paid as SMB fee also will entitle students to protection between semesters when students are away on break, he said. "This will plug the gaps (in present medical protection at SIU) to insure that the plan is a truly comprehensive package."

Swinburne said the expanded health plan is needed because, although many students think they are covered by hospitalization protection, the University doesn't provide this benefit as part of the services paid for by SMB fees.

"We estimate that 37 per cent of the students have some health coverage, but some are minimally covered," Swinburne said.

He said the administration expects the board to approve the resolution, thus enabling the University to begin letting bids for the services in time to implement the program fall semester.

"I don't know why they would turn us down," he said. "We expect the plan to be passed by the board."

Coordinator re-elected

Philpot plans changes for BAC

By Carl Flowers
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The newly re-elected coordinator of the Black Affairs Council (BAC) Monday outlined plans for turning the group into a "quasi-governmental organization" as a result of minorities having no placement in student government.

"Student government does not represent the minorities at SIU," said coordinator Edgar Philpot after winning re-election to the BAC Saturday.

Post-election plans for BAC include shifting the council's focus from that of "an activities-oriented group to a quasi-governmental organization," said Philpot.

Philpot also said he is pondering the idea of starting a minority-group coalition on campus, adding, "I believe in the saying, 'Unity is strength.'"

Philpot, a junior from Chicago who is majoring in administration of justice, was re-elected Saturday after balloting at the Student Center. Five other students had sought the post. Officers are chosen by vote of BAC member organizations.

Harry Lane, a sophomore marketing major from Chicago, was elected treasurer, and Leonard Sykes, a junior from Chicago majoring in journalism, was selected as editor of the UHURU-SASA, a black newspaper.

Council members, said Philpot, will attend Wednesday's Student Senate meeting when the Joint Fee Allocation Board's (JFAB) proposed fee allocations are scheduled to be voted upon by the Student Senate.

BAC is contesting the JFAB's fee allocation for the Council for the 1974-75 school year. The council, after receiving $20,000 this year from the board, requested $46,000 for next year. The JFAB recommended $10,000 for the BAC.

Referring to the proposed reduction in BAC fees, Philpot said "it seems strange that no other organization received a 50 per cent cut in fees."

Philpot said the problem lies in the Student Government Activities Committee (SGAC) decision to discontinue its practice of funding student newspapers.

He said the SGAC had previously provided total funding for the UHURU-SASA, but because of conflicts incurred with the KOL-SHALOM, a Jewish newspaper, the decision to stop funding was made.

Philpot said Jewish individuals and organizations, "having a strong hold on the American economy," support the KOL-SHALOM and the paper will

Hambletonian race will stay in DuQuoin for at least 3 years

By Dave Ambrose
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Du Quoin State Fair will keep the Hambletonian Trotting Classic at Du Quoin through 1977.

The decision to leave the race in Du Quoin, where it has been run for the past 17 seasons, was made by the Hambletonian Society's board of directors at a meeting in New York City Sunday.

"We had a good decision Sunday," Fred Huff, vice president of Hayes Fair Acres said Monday of the contract that gives Du Quoin a three-year extension to host the race from 1975 to 1977.

Seventeen members of the board of directors reviewed previous bids from Du Quoin, New York State Fair, Saratoga Harness Racing Inc. and the Ohio Valley Harness Racing Association before approving the race to Du Quoin on the first ballot.

All four tracks had offered bids Oct. 28 when the society's board of directors voted to move the race to Liberty Bell Racetrack in Philadelphia.

When the society offered Liberty Bell the contract April 15, however, the Philadelphians failed to sign.

William Hayes, president of Hayes Fair Acres, attended the Sunday meeting and had not yet returned Monday.

Huff said the bid Hayes offered was nearly the same as the one he offered in October.

"The only difference," he said, was the addition of $25,000 for the fillies division of the race bringing the total fillies purse to $50,000.

Hayes was also armed with a letter of support from Illinois Gov. Daniel Walker, "without which he felt his chances would not have been as good," Huff said.

According to Huff, the key statement in Walker's letter was:

"We will either reinstitute the Hambletonian Trust Fund which was created last fall or secure by other means the necessary funds."

Huff said Walker was referring to an effort to secure $125,000 for the Hambletonian open purse and the $25,000 for the fillies division.

The trust fund plan calls for the Illinois Racing Board to grant one extra race date a week to eight other state harness tracks with parimutuel betting. A percentage of the parimutuel handled would go to the Hambletonian purse.

The fact that Liberty Bell was no longer bidding was also a factor in Du Quoin's favor, Huff said.

Society members who were also stock holders in the Liberty Bell track were ineligible to vote in last October's meeting, but were supporters for Du Quoin Sunday, Huff explained.

The three-year contract extension will begin in 1975, 50th anniversary of the Hambletonian.

Rehiring of 104 urged by AAUP

A resolution calling for SIU to rehire the 104 teachers terminated in December was unanimously passed by delegates to the 60th annual meeting of the American Association of University Professors in Washington, D.C. Saturday.

Citing an "unsubstantiated claim of financial laxity," and an "oppressive lawsuit," the resolution criticized the David Derge administration. The resolution also criticized Interim SIU President Hiram Lesar for his "inadequate half-measures" in meeting the termination problem.

The convention also directed SIU to withdraw the lawsuit against the 104, urgently seek extra-faculty economy measures, live up to commitments regarding tenure, and work promptly to involve faculty members "in all relevant decisions."

"I really haven't any comment until I have the time to analyze the resolution," Lesar said Monday afternoon. "I believe in tenure and I'll do my best to see we comply with AAUP guidelines." Lesar said he has belonged to AAUP for 35 years.

The resolution referred SIU to the AAUP 1972 guidelines for meeting problems related to financial exigency. Continuing willingness to "provide guidance and assistance" to SIU in meeting the AAUP doctrine was promised.

DE committee proposal explained by editor

By Jeff Jouett
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Even though a committee of professional editors studying the Daily Egyptian editorial structure recommended a "student editor-in-chief," that "in no way means a student-run newspaper," said George Killenberg, committee chairman.

Killenberg, managing editor of the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, headed a panel of five editors who suggested several changes in the campus newspaper in mid-March.

Vice President for Academic Affairs Keith Leasure, said he and SIU Acting President Hiram Lesar would "implement the spirit of the report as it best fits our situation here" by the beginning of fall semester 1974.

At least two of the editors making the study did not read a final draft of the committee report, a telephone check revealed Monday. The report contained only one signature, that of Wendell Phillippi, managing editor of the Indianapolis News.

"I've never seen a final copy and I don't think all other committee members have," William Morgan, publisher of the Sparta News-Plaindealer said.

Morgan said he "was very much concerned about the way the report is being interpreted" on the basis of an article that appeared in the Southern Illinoisian.

The article stated that students and faculty would soon have full control of the Daily Egyptian, Morgan said.

"Nothing could be farther off from our suggestions," Morgan said, "and that was not at all what the committee recommended."

"It was my understanding that the student editor-in-chief would be only one of seven to determine editorial policy," Morgan explained.

"And the faculty managing editor was intended to be a working professional journalist given faculty status," he said.

Edward L. Horn, the current managing editor of the Daily Egyptian, has an administrative contract that expires June 30. Horn was graduated from the University of Texas and has 13 years working experience.

Killenberg agreed that his committee meant for a professional journalist to be giving faculty status while serving as managing editor but added he "saw no reason a current faculty member with a strong professional background" could not fill the position.

"We also suggested the Journalism School chose a working professional as its new director," Killenberg added.

Bryce Rucker, director of the School of Journalism, announced his resignation, effective the end of summer quarter, on April 26.

Thomas Phillips, editor of the Pana News-Palladium, said he had not seen the final report but anticipated no major changes between it and a preliminary report the editors' committee had discussed.

Phillips said he "would like to see a professional man or faculty member with experience" pass on the benefit of that experience to the students."

Killenberg said he had seen the final draft of his committee's report and that "it differed from the preliminary report by only a paragraph or two."

Killenberg did not know which paragraphs differed but said he was sure all committee members had been consulted before changes were made.

Each of the three editors questioned stressed that the main thrust of their report recommended the Daily Egyptian be used more as a laboratory for journalism students under professional guidance. All emphasized the need for a closer relationship between the Daily Egyptian, the faculty and more of the students.

Phillips and the other editor on the study committee, C. L. Blanton III of the Sikeston (Mo.) Standard, were not available for comment Monday.

A committee made up of four journalism faculty members and four journalism students was set up at an April 15 journalism faculty meeting to investigate procedures for implementing the editors' report.

The student-faculty committee will hold its second meeting at 2 p.m. Tuesday.

Dean plans student drive on enrollment

Students will be asked to help in an enrollment drive with a personal touch that "could solve a lot of problems," said Dean of Students Bruce Swinburne.

Before the end of the week student resident assistants in all on-campus dorms will be asked to compile a list of friends of residents on their floor who may be prospective students at SIU, Swinburne said.

Then, Swinburne said, the Office of Admissions will send a personalized letter to potential students that will include the name of the friend suggesting them and an invitation to consider attending SIU this fall semester.

Swinburne said he is hoping to generate 3,000 names which will result in sending about 2,000 letters to genuine prospects. He said he will try to have the mailings completed within three weeks.

"If the program gains 10 student enrollments for SIU, that's wonderful," Swinburne said. "If we pick up 500, then a lot of problems are solved," he added.

Funding for SIU from the Illinois Board of Higher Education for 1974-75 will be based on fall semester student-teacher ratios, according to Acting SIU President Hiram Lesar. Lesar has predicted an enrollment drop of from 400-700 students for next fall, which could necessitate further budget cuts.

Although the letters will be sent late in the academic year, Swinburne said studies have shown that up to a third of students haven't decided which college they will attend by as late as July 13.

Florida senator indicted

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Senate Watergate committee member Edward J. Gurney, (R-Fla.), has been indicted by a county grand jury on charges of violating state election laws, the senator's Washington office said Monday. Gurney immediately declared his innocence.

The grand jury reportedly ordered the indictment drawn up last Friday, before it recessed until Wednesday.

The grand jury began its investigation of Gurney at the urging of Marshall Harris, a Democratic state legislator from Miami. He charged that the senator had acknowledged last second highest crime rate in the state of Illinois. Three and one half years later, Carbondale's crime rate is in the 80s."

After the association finished its presentation, the crowd attending the council meeting, mostly policemen and their wives, loudly applauded Dakin.

When Dakin reached the podium he began by saying that "I am not quite sure that I can say everything I want to say."

Dakin explained the police department had been developed into a professional department that has drastically reduced crime in Carbondale.

He told the council that the peace of the community should be the primary concern of the city.

JFAB meeting to be held today

December that he violated state election laws by receiving campaign donations and failing to report them.

JFAB meeting to be held today

A Joint Fee Allocation meeting will be held at 2 p.m. Tuesday in the Student Center activities room C.

JFAB committee member Ron Adams said anyone who had complaints about the JFAB's recommendations can attend the meeting.

Dakin also mentioned that the possibility of outside funding questionable if the community does not adequately concern itself with the department.

"I hope the City Council will take steps to preserve the quality of the police department," Dakin said.

After his announcement, Dakin explained his decision. "The budget ceiling (for the police department) was set by the council but we need more money. We made the request to the council for more money but they have not acted on it," Dakin said.

"Basically this is a failure to respond to the police department that's done a professional job. It's kind of a kick in the teeth to the police department," he said.

Dakin also said the threat to community safety is the most important concern and is now placed in jeopardy because of the council's refusal to allocate more money. He said more money could come from about $600,000 in revenue-sharing funds the city is using for capital improvements.

"The police department will not be funded at the level it should be funded at. The quality will go downhill," he said. Dakin said he would not return as chief even if more money is allocated.

Fry explained the differences between him and Dakin by saying that Dakin thought the police department should have more money but the city just didn't have the money.

Fry said it would take an extra $45,000 to fund the department at the present level without any raise in pay for policemen. He said that so far the union has not settled on how much the wages will be.

"I can't say if more money will be offered because we don't know what they want," Fry said.

Fry also said that he didn't think the drop in the quality of the police department would be that significant. "Every time you lose people you're going to lose the level of services. I forecasted that last year," Fry said.

"I'm sorry he's leaving. He is a very capable person," Fry said.

The police union has been negotiating for three months with Fry on a new contract.

Detective Charles Stonecipher, vice president of the Carbondale Police Officers Association, said the police want a 7 per cent raise with no lay-offs. Fry wants to give the policemen a 6.2 per cent raise without filling three vacancies, Stonecipher said.

"The city has to make up its mind: does it or does it not want a professional department," Stonecipher said. "He (Dakin) feels that the City Council is letting him down because the city is not funding the way they should."

Stonecipher said the patrolmen were angry that Dakin was forced into leaving. "We lost the best chief around," he said.

Dakin was hired Dec. 3, 1970 when he was assistant administrator of industrial security and fire protection for a Standard Oil Co. affiliate in Venezuela.

More power to the students

Not until the Student Senate and trustee are delegated some authority that affects the mass of students in an important way will voter turnout increase noticeably. And it's time students, through representatives were delegated more authority.

Only about 20 per cent of the students voted in the campus election this spring. It's difficult to believe that 80 per cent simply don't care about university politics. A sense of hopelessness probably is more accurate and it is justified.

After all, why be concerned about who represents students on the board of trustees when the student has no voting power. And how is the Student Senate important? It has no control over massive amounts of student money. It has no authority to enforce policy. It has no firm control over curriculum. It has no voice in hiring administrative personnel or faculty.

The sentiment among students seems to be that the senate has a token duty of allocating small amounts of money to campus organizations while serving as a high class complaint bureau wielding little weight—neither helping students much nor hurting students much regardless of actions.

Yet, the role of the senate and trustee as links to the administration and Board of Trustees can not be discounted entirely. Though they may carry little weight they are important because they are the only elected student representatives. And because they are representatives, to students, more decision-making control should be vested in them. Mere expression of opinion is of little value.

A university is its students and students should play a tangible role in university governance—not the role of a puppet. Students should have some clout in all facets of policy making. Students should play a significant role in drawing budget proposals. And they should have a part in planning curriculum.

Lobbyists get the credit for putting a student on the board of trustees. Lobbying may well be the answer to getting voting privileges for him. It also could spark legislation which would give Illinois campus senates increased authority.

Not until student representative bodies have some real power will voter turnout increase. And only then can students be tagged apathetic for ignoring the polls.

Same old song

Student government has reached a crossroads in its effectiveness concerning students. It can either assume a more active role in convincing the SIU administration and faculty this university is here for the students to attain an education, or it can continue the mumbo-jumbo "I don't know what's going on" attitude that has plagued it for the last year.

Student government often failed to react to a situation until the avenues of reproach had vanished. Conversely, it frequently over-reacted once realizing the ramifications of a situation. Although this condition is a recurrent problem in student government, this is not the only problem.

The administrators should loosen their ties, the faculty should clean their eyeglasses and student government should become aware of the real problems plaguing this school. All three elements should listen to the ideas, complaints, recommendations and proposals of one another. There should be open discussion of the issues with 'compromise' the main thought lingering in the minds of all three constituencies.

If student government is to remain a viable organization on this campus, then it 'had oughta' start doing its homework. This just might show the faculty and the administration that student government does represent the main reason students attend this university—to learn and to profit from that learning.

Where's the real problem?

To the Daily Egyptian:

With the advent of this campus's recent political activities, one should ask himself, just where does the real problem lie?

Is it in the previous administration, or could it possibly be somewhere else? What can be done to improve the relations on this campus, improve our outlook to the rest of the state and to make our own outlook appear better to ourselves?

There are now stories released stating that another 50 or so faculty members will have to be terminated. Since Dr. Derge is now removed, who can be responsible for this action? There is a lot of sentiment around this campus that there is another body of people who are more directly to blame and that perhaps they ought to be replaced, by honest and truly devoted people. A school cannot function on its best accord if the people "running it" have their hands tied behind their backs.

Productive research is threatened, and the constant atmosphere of gloom which fills the air will surely be detrimental if things don't get changed. It doesn't need to be said if any professors, civil service employees or instructors spoke their true opinions, they would have an understandable reason for fear of losing their jobs. Remember, there will be another 50 people losing their jobs.

Another question that comes to mind is what will the next president have in store for him? Will it be a cooperative system which will leave him to act as he feels or will he be compelled to bend to the whims of "other" people? Will he be permitted to allow the university and Student Senate to have a deciding voice in university affairs, or will they be set out to pasture again? I think everyone is aware of the possible differences of events which may have taken place if the students and faculty had some sort of deciding voice pertaining to campus affairs.

In summary, I ask all of you to analyze the situation and think of what is going on other than what appears to be happening on the surface, and maybe if we are all lucky, a big picture will come out of the sky, bless us all with its knowledge and wisdom. And maybe again, SIU will be a thriving community in which the people of the state of Illinois can be proud.

Sign-up system unjust

To the Daily Egyptian:

As I do not know to whom to address this complaint, I am submitting an editorial in the Egyptian in hopes that the appropriate persons will read it and listen.

This ticket line bit (for the Leon Russell concert) is the biggest fiasco I have encountered in my years at Southern. Not only is it inefficient and needlessly complicated, but (and this is my main complaint) it is grossly unfair. I am assuming that the reason for this sign-up business is to give the people who want to take a little extra time and trouble the opportunity to obtain the better tickets. But, sweet folks, this is how it really is: Minnie Biertrinker signs up on the individual list as number 40 and is allowed 19 tickets. I come along and sign up as number 60. Minnie and I both get up at 6 a.m., stand in line for over an hour, endure a bunch of crap, and miss our 8 o'clock classes. Now who gets the better tickets?—Minnie's eighteen friends who are home in bed, that's who. And not only Minnie's eighteen friends, but also the eighteen friends of numbers 1-59. Rumors had it at the Center this morning that some fellow at the top of the list slapped down over $1000.

There are numerous alternatives. I'm sure, that must be a bit more fair. Other than the obvious option of abolishing the sign-up procedure all together, couldn't the number of tickets per person be limited to, say, four? And, instead of asking all signees to be at the ticket office at 7 a.m., wouldn't it be much more together to ask numbers 1-50 to come at 7:00, numbers 51-100 at 8:00, etc.? Where were your heads at, you who thought up this scheme?

I can endure crowding and a hectic atmosphere (in fact, it's even a bit fun), but what I am upset about is the injustice of this system. All I've got to say is—it better be a good concert.

Bercedis Peterson
 Civil Service Secretary

Implementation not origination

To the Daily Egyptian:

It seems that I must make an apology for Mr. Delsohn. If he was the reporter that interviewed me concerning the ticket line system for Leon Russell, he neglected to mention several statements that I made to him. Had he mentioned these statements there would be more understanding of this system.

First of all, let me state that I was not an originator of the present system. If Mr. Delsohn had been on our campus for a longer period of time than his knowledge indicates, he would have been aware of the fact that this has been the accepted procedure for at least the two years that I have been here. In those two years I have gone through many ticket lines, and all have had a certain amount of confusion about them. Also, I happen to be the student worker supervisor for the 7 a.m. to 10 a.m. shift at the Student Center, resulting in a closer observation of many of the ticket lines. I have seen well run ticket lines and poorly run ones. I think that I could have run mine better, but since I am human I make mistakes. I do know that I will run the next one I work better.

Going back to Mr. Delsohn, I had told him one of the basic reasons for the ticket lines was to prevent the type of disorganized hysteria that was present at the ticket sales for Fleetwood Mac. The ticket line method that I implemented is not perfect, if Mr. Delsohn can come up with a better one, or anyone else, by all means I for one would be for it. As I am sure the personnel of the Arena and Student Center Ticket Office would be too. As I understand it, our method was copied from the bigger schools, such as U of I. I also understand that at these schools, the day or two prior to ticket sales (their lines last a week or more) they require check ins every three to four hours.

Would Mr. Delsohn prefer this to our method of once every 24 hours? I hope not. I wouldn't. So to prevent shoving and fighting in ticket lines, and to prevent flared tempers the ticket line was implemented. There still is a certain amount of shoving and flared tempers with ticket lines, but with the help of the students and those in charge of the ticket lines most of the problems can be eliminated.

Daily Egyptian Opinion & Commentary

EDITORIALS The Daily Egyptian encourages free discussion of current issues through editorials and letters on these pages. Editorials, labeled Opinion, are written and signed by members of the student news staff and by students enrolled in journalism courses and represent opinions of the authors only.

LETTERS—Readers are invited to express their opinions in letters which must be signed with name, classification and major, or faculty rank, address and telephone number. Letters should be typewritten, and their length should not exceed 250 words. Letter writers should respect the generally accepted standards of good taste and are expected to make their points in terms of issues rather than personalities. Acceptance for publication will depend on limitations of space and the timeliness and relevance of the material. Unsigned letters will not be accepted, and authorship of all letters must be verified by the Daily Egyptian. It is the responsibility of the Daily Egyptian to determine content of the opinion pages. Other material on pages four and five include editorials and articles reprinted from other publications, syndicated columns and articles, and interpretive or opinion articles authored locally.

'Crazy, zany' affair foreseen in upcoming Spring Festival

By Mike Chamness
Student Writer

The upcoming Spring Festival entitled "Southern's Silly Slapstick Spring" should be a "crazy, zany" affair.

At least that's how Thom Brackett, head of the Spring Festival planning committee, describes the Wednesday through Sunday celebration on campus.

"Anything crazy, zany or just for the students to let go," commented Brackett when asked how the festival would fit the "Silly Slapstick" theme.

The festival will feature live musical entertainment each evening in addition to various contests, parties and free refreshments.

The festivities begin Wednesday

Russian expert to speak at SIU

A specialist on relations between Russia and the U.S., Professor John M. Thompson of Indiana University, will speak at SIU Thursday and Friday.

At 7:30 p.m. Thursday, he will give a talk on "The Uncertain Triangle: Moscow, Peking, Washington" in Lawson 141. The talk is free and open to the public.

Friday morning Thompson will meet with students interested in Chinese-Russian-American relations.

For further information, contact Harold McFarlin, assistant professor of history.

Ticket sales set for Beach Boys

Tickets will go on sale Thursday at the Student Center Central Ticket Office for the Beach Boys concert in the Arena May 16.

Sales will begin at 7:30 a.m. at $4, $5 and $5.50, with student tickets reduced to $5 and $4.50. Remaining tickets will be sold at the SIU Arena Sunday. Other in-town sales sites include Penny's, Sav Mart, Tempo, Wards, and out-of-town at Sears in Cape Girardeau and Mt. Vernon, and Galtin's in Paducah.

with a balloon throwing contest scheduled for 2 p.m. at the Old Main Mall. Free cotton candy will be given away.

Wednesday evening the scene shifts to Student Center Ballroom D where a dance featuring the "Rockets" will be held along with the second annual "Invisible Pet Show." The dance will be from 7:30 to 11:30 p.m. with the make-believe pet show to start at 8 p.m.

Thursday will be highlighted by a comedy film festival, a tug-of-war and another dance.

The flicks, starring Bugs Bunny, Road Runner, the Three Stooges, Abbott and Costello and the Marx Brothers, will be shown in Ballrooms A, B and C beginning at 7:30 p.m.

"Dixie Diesel," a rock group that was the back-up group for "Ethos," will perform downstairs in the Student Center during the film festival.

The tug-of-war and a stand giving away popcorn will be in conjunction with the film.

Students will really get a chance to loosen up Friday when there will be a prune-eating contest. The champion prune-eater will receive a $20 gift certificate. The prune feast and a silly joke contest will be held at 9 p.m. in the Ballrooms.

Also Friday night "Head East" will play at a "Suppressed Desire Party." That will begin at 8 p.m. in the Ballrooms.

"People should come to the party dressed as someone or something they admire or always wanted to be," explained Brackett who added that a $30 gift certificate would be awarded at the party.

Saturday will be Contest Day. From 1 to 3 p.m. in the Arena area, talents such as hand-walking, orange-passing, sack and three-legged racing etc. will be put to the test.

The entertainment portion of the Spring Festival peaks Saturday night with the Leon Russell concert set for 8 p.m. in the Arena. Tickets for the Russell concert are on sale in the Student Center.

Sunday will be the final day of "Southern's Silly Slapstick Spring." "Spanky" McFarland, of "Spanky and Our Gang" fame, will present a two-hour show which will include film clips and trivia contests. "Spanky's" show will be at 8 p.m. in the Ballrooms.

Also Sunday evening Thompson Point will sponsor a beach party.

"Students should pre-register for contests at the Student Center in the solicitation area on the first floor across from the Oasis," said Brackett, explaining that pre-registration is needed for planning purposes. Prizes will be given for each contest.

It's not enough to play oldies

Jazz band creates own music

By Dave Stearns
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

"It's not enough to read Hesse and drink clam chowder," writes poetess Anne Sexton.

And in the case of the SIU jazz band, it's not enough to play charts written by other people, even if they are by such jazz greats as Stan Kenton and Maynard Ferguson.

"Glenn Miller's music has been done too much," said jazz band director Alan Oldfield. "If everything went right, every piece on our concerts would be new music created by the band. I want the band to create their own style of music, to make the band a creative entity in itself, not just copy old music."

Although the jazz band concerts offered during the past year—such as their upcoming performance at 8 p.m. Wednesday in Shryock Auditorium—have been about one-fourth student composed and arranged, Oldfield hopes that by next year at least half of their programs will consist of original music.

Some of the new music to be presented Wednesday includes three pieces by Bill Cowling of Evansville, Ind., "Germ Motive" by band member Jay Hungerford, "Alice in Wonderland" by Oldfield, a piece by faculty member Will Gay Bottje, as well as Kenton's "Chiapas," and a Ferguson-Downey arrangement of "Give It One."

In addition to these pieces, drummer John Von Ohlen will be guest artist. Von Ohlen is a veteran of Stan Kenton's band, and is now dividing his time between forming his own band and giving jazz clinics at various universities.

He will perform, for the most part, with a jazz quartet consisting of Oldfield on piano, London Branch on bass, and David Riddles of sax—all School of Music faculty members.

And it is these guest artists who have prompted the band to be one of the most frequently performing ensembles in the School of Music—despite the fact that several of the principal musicians have gone to Los Angeles to seek their fortunes.

"The musicians in the band, which are also active in classical ensembles, have had more opportunity to improvise this year, and they've gotten better at it," Oldfield said. "A good improvisational musician is one who can demonstrate his technical ability and can shape his ideas. Some musicians can play notes that work well in the particular tonality—but they don't go anywhere. The better ones lead somewhere and can build to peaks, taper off and build again."

Oldfield also explained that the nature of the music spawns a strong rapport among the musicians. "So much more of a musician's personality and inner self comes forth in improvisation," he explained. "How well they play depends on their togetherness. In jazz, the musicians must listen to everyone and interact accordingly—they can't get by on just playing their notes. They have to get involved, and listening carefully to the ensemble is crucial."

Speaking of improvisation, the Bottje piece slated for Wednesday's program has fewer controls than the music the band usually plays. Specifically, the style of playing is only suggested and requires three conductors to be performed.

The title: "Games People Play." The concert is free of charge and open to the public.

Chrysler profits plummet

DETROIT (AP) - Chrysler Corp., reporting its first quarterly profits dropped 86 per cent from last year, announced Monday that prices of its 1974-model cars and trucks will go up an average $99 on Wednesday.

The company said retail prices likely will go up again before July 31.

Citing "world gasoline shortages, inflation and fears of a recession," the auto maker reported earnings of $1.6 million, down from last year's record $89.8 million. Per-share earnings were three cents, off from $1.71 for January-March 1973, the firm said.

The announcement of Chrysler's earnings decrease came three days after General Motors reported its first quarter profits plummeted 85 per cent from last year. The auto giant's per-share earnings of 4 cents represented its lowest return since 1948.

The beleaguered U.S. auto industry, affected by soaring inflation and the energy crisis' impact on big car sales since December, has

Local human relations group to support passage of ERA

The Carbondale Human Relations Commission recently voted nine to one to support the Equal Rights Amendment (ERA), which is expected to be voted on in the Illinois General Assembly within the next few weeks. The Assembly has defeated the amendment twice.

Six men and three women commissioners voted to support ERA. One man voted against it.

"It is not only women who support this action, but men also who see the value in such an amendment," the Commission said in a press release. "We join with other organizations, including labor unions, church groups and educational organizations, representing both men and women."

The Commission asked that citizens write their legislators urging passage of the amendment.

"We feel the benefits which will accrue to all of society when its members are equal in the eyes of the law cannot be too strongly emphasized," the release said.

Sierra Club to meet tonight

Slides showing a recent backpacking trip to Arches National Park and the Maze District of Canyonlands National Park will highlight the regular monthly meeting of the Shawnee Group of the Sierra Club which begins at 7 p.m. tonight.

There will also be a report on last week's Congressional action on eastern wilderness legislation. Leo Eisel, Director of the Illinois Division of Waterways was originally scheduled to talk tonight, but was forced to delay his visit when Congress rescheduled the public works appropriations hearings this week.

The public is invited to attend the meeting in the basement community room of the Carbondale Savings and Loan on West Main Street.

Movie studios film process

'Day For Night' theme works

By Michael Hawley
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

In "Day For Night," director Francois Truffaut has taken a documentary approach towards filming the filmmaking process. The result is a movie which marvelously succeeds at every level.

"Day For Night" is basically a film by Truffaut about Truffaut making a fictional film, "I Want You to Meet Pamela." It will be playing at the Varsity Theatre through Wednesday night only. It should be seen, for it is one of the best first-run films to hit Carbondale in ages. Although it is a French film, the dialogue has been dubbed in English to make it accessible to everyone.

A Review

In "Day For Night," Truffaut becomes very concerned with the time-honored concept of film being totally illusion. The film begins with a city street scene in which the viewer follows the paths of two men. They eventually confront each other, and one raises his arm to give the other man a slap. Immediately, someone hollers, "Cut!" and we discover that we have been watching the filming of a film. This serves as a perfect preface for the rest of the movie.

On one level, "Day For Night" is a dictionary of cinematic contrivances. The viewer is shown the making of soap suds snow, the recording of sound effects, an artificially controlled fireplace and the placing of inconspicuous cue cards. The film's title stands for a film technique which can make footage filmed during the day appear to be filmed at night.

But despite all of its deceptiveness, Truffaut also goes through great pains to show that cinema can not be seen as being only an illusion, for too many real elements enter into, and directly effect the end product. He shows how the personal lives of the actors and film crew, and the uncontrollable demands made by shooting deadlines, steer a film away from its preconceived design.

For example, the actress starring in the "Pamela" film has a momentary fling with the film's leading man. She confesses to the director that she will never forgive herself for cheating on her husband, and will now live her life alone. In preparing the next day's script, the director remembers her statement and incorporates it into her film dialogue.

Other circumstances show that film is equally a product of reality as of illusion, such as the destruction of some important film in a laboratory mishap, the automobile death of an actor, and the pregnancy of an actress who must film a bathing suit scene.

Inevitably, the two films often combine into one. It becomes difficult to tell when the actors are rehearsing lines for the "Pamela" film, portraying their characters in "Day For Night," or even being their real life personalities.

In "Day For Night," real-life actress Valentina Cortese plays an aged, drunken Italian actress named Severine. During the shooting of one scene, Severine insists the director let her use a style that she used with director Fellini. It is no coincidence that Cortese really did have a major role in one of Fellini's films, "Juliet of the Spirits."

Besides being an excellent documentary which details the complicated evolution of a single motion picture, through the use of a narrative story Truffaut also successfully conveys the spirit of community which exists when a film goes into production. Actors and film crew become a family-like unit, all living in the same hotel, and often in the same beds.

The actors and actresses in "Day For Night" must be given a double commendation, for they were all required to play two different roles. Jacqueline Bisset, who portrays "Pamela," and Jean-Pierre Leaud, who plays a temperamental and immature actor are both very accomplished in their roles.

Jean-Pierre Aumont as the elderly actor who is killed, and of course, Francois Truffaut as the director are equally skilled. But the finest acting is done by Valentina Cortese, particularly when she arrives drunk for the filming of an important scene and tries three times to exit through the set's china closet.

Truffaut has also managed to pay a small tribute to the filmic art's great heritage. "Day For Night" is dedicated to Lillian and Dorothy Gish, two famous actresses from the early years of film. One sequence of "Day For Night" consists of more than a dozen film study dooks being piled face-up, exposing such tribute-paying titles as "The Films of Hitchcock," "Godard" and "Cocteau."

It is understandable why this film won an Academy Award for Best Foreign Language Film, and might win it for Best Picture next year. I don't know if "Day For Night" is an accurate representation of how Truffaut directs, but regardless, it is his triumph.

Although the film isn't as concerned with the director's psyche as Fellini's "8 1/2," was, there is one dream sequence of Truffaut's which is precious, for it reveals the roots of fanaticism of those who give their lives to the art of motion picture making.

In it, a boy (probably the young Truffaut) walks down a street in the pre-dawn hours, carrying a cane.

Graduate Student Council to study fee allocation change

The Graduate Student Council (GSC) is scheduled to act on two resolutions concerning the general student fee schedule for next year at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in the Student Center Illinois Room.

The resolutions, outlined by Dean of Students Bruce Swinburne at the April GSC meeting, call for a payment of $75 per semester per student next year instead of the $50 per quarter charged for general student fees now and a transfer of $15 of the Student Welfare and Recreation Fund to the Student Medical Benefit (SMB) fund.

The GSC is also scheduled to act on the recommendations of the Joint Fee Allocations Board concerning the allocation of student monies to student activities for 1974-75.

"We have to act and ratify a certain portion of the recommendations before Swinburne can send it to the Board of Trustees," Executive Secretary Sharon Yeargin said Monday.

A formal response to the SIU Systems Document will be discussed at the meeting. The GSC "may not decide" on a final response Wednesday, Ms. Yeargin said.

Names of nominees for the GSC officer seats and representatives to the Graduate Council will be submitted at the meeting. The nominees will speak at the following GSC meeting, Ms. Yeargin said.

Panel discusses prison reforms

By David Kornblith
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Illinois correctional reforms have been restricted by politics, an SIU instructor in administration of justice said during a panel discussion over the weekend.

"The state should get off the stick and do something about the problems," said Joe Coughlin. "But there are too many things stopping the state from moving."

Coughlin and three other experts in Illinois corrections participated in Friday night's panel discussion entitled "Illinois Corrections: What's in Store for Illinois Taxpayers in the Next Ten Years."

The discussion was sponsored by the Free School and took place at the One of the problems facing Illinois corrections officials is the size of the present prisons, said Tom Israel, superintendent of the Menard Correctional Center. If the institutions were made smaller, Israel said, there would be greater chance for communication between inmates and prison officials.

With smaller populations, inmates "could be separated and possibly one group could set up a self-government," Israel said.

Coughlin said another problem is that persons who commit violent crimes are the criminals who end up in prison.

Champ Brahe, director of the House of Glass, said the current parole system is an "exercise in deception." Inmates experience "culture shock" upon trying to step back into society from prison. The House of Glass, and other work release programs enable inmates to move slowly into the mainstream of life, Brahe said. He added that work release inmates have a substantially lower recidivism rate than those returning to society directly from prison.

But those currently chosen for work-release programs are skimmed off the top, Brahe said.

Israel outlined four goals that could lead to a more effective prison system.

The first objective would be to make the institution safe for inmates and staff, Israel said.

Being able to translate money and equipment into useful prison programs is another important goal, he said. All the money won't do any good if it is not used correctly.

Bringing a human element to institutions is also important, Israel said. Providing hot water, showering facilities and decent food is not too much to ask.

Finally, providing opportunities for rehabilitation and schooling should not be forgotten. Illinois correctional institutions need more of this, Israel added.

Sgt. Marlen Happel of the Menard Correctional Center said he is optimistic about some of the revelations being made now.

Because institutions are hiring higher-caliber personnel, there are bound to be some changes, he said.

Brahe said corrections should start looking to prevention in the next few years. "We deal with things after the fact," he said.

The Royal Lipizzan Stallion Show went through many routines including this leap.

More horse sense needed to enjoy Lipizzan Stallions

By Michael Hawley
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

To a real horse enthusiast, "The Wonderful World of Horses featuring The World Famous Lipizzan Stallions" was probably a very exciting spectacle. Other people may have valued it as being pleasant family entertainment.

And for others, it was probably the most boring two hours of this past weekend. Unfortunately, I was among the latter group.

A Review

To someone who is not trained to recognize when a horse is doing something extraordinary, many of the featured acts may have seemed the same, only with different riders. If it is really that difficult for a horse to walk sideways, I apologize to them for not having applauded every time they did so.

Some of the acts presented, however, were appreciable no matter what the extent of one's horse knowledge might be. One of these was the last number of the show, "The Grand Quadrille," in which eight of the Lipizzaners and their riders performed an intricate ballet-like formation.

It was fascinating to watch the horses move in intricate patterns around the performing area with such seemingly effortless grace. Basically the same kind of thing had been performed earlier in the show by two, three and four horses, but it wasn't really that impressive until done in a larger quantity.

Another one of the more amusing acts was Bonnie Bale, the "Sparkling Teenager," who rode her American Saddlebred horse "Playboy" sidesaddle. "Playboy" was particularly good at doing a high kick step, and would probably do very well in the chorus line at Radio City Music Hall.

An attempt to bring comedy into the show was done by Maynard and Christianni and their tiny Reagal White Stallions from Georgia. Their act was the kind performed in many European circuses, and was a refreshing change in the program. Also entertaining was the dancing stallion "Sardust," and the Appaloosa Hollywood stunt horse, "Chief Bear Paws."

One of the show's biggest disappointments was the heavily promoted tribute to Mexican cowboys, "Los Charros De Mexico," which came off as being no more authentic than a wooden nickel. Some of the more difficult dressage movements were also disappointing. For instance, when one Lipizzaner was performing a "piaffe," or trotting in place, the horse was moving forward quite noticeably.

But despite any of its drawbacks, the show was performed with a sense of style and showmanship. When many of the more difficult feats were performed, they were repeated at various locations in the performing area to give everyone a close-up view. The huge chandelier and mirror ball also added some very nice affects to the performance.

"The Wonderful World of Horses" was obviously aimed at an audience that enjoyed seeing horses dancing to such tunes as "Shine On Harvest Moon" and "Alexander's Rag Time."

Bob's, Whitt's and Papa C's face loss of liquor licenses

Three liquor license holders will lose their licenses at midnight Tuesday if they fail to provide more information on their applications. Mayor Neal Eckert, liquor commissioner, has decided that licenses will not be issued to Buffalo Bob's, Papa C's and Whitt's Lancer's Restaurant and Cocktail Lounge because the establishments have not supplied sufficient information on their license applications. The establishments may be issued licenses if the insufficiencies on the applications are taken care of.

Papa C's application does not include required fingerprint information of each person owning more than one per cent of the corporate stock.

Buffalo Bob's has failed to submit a copy of its lease for the coming year.

Whitt's Lancer's Restaurant and Cocktail Lounge has not included a copy of its lease for the coming year.

The Carbondale Liquor Advisory Board held meetings for three consecutive Wednesdays to review license applications for the coming year.

The board recommended to Eckert that all applicants be approved except for seven establishments that failed to include enough information of the applications.

The other four were Holiday Inn, Eagles Lodge, LBJ's and the Patrician Restaurant and Cocktail Lounge. The application insufficiencies on these applications were taken care of after the board's recommendations Wednesday.

All other liquor license applications have been approved by Eckert.

Early enrollment urged for U of I

SIU students who want to take correspondence courses through the University of Illinois should enroll early, Paul H. Tippy, director of the courses at U of I said.

In order to complete a course during the summer, a student must plan his program carefully, allowing time for materials to be shipped, a work schedule to be set up, arranging and taking the final examination and completion records to be cleared, Tippy said.

Students should enroll according to procedures outlined in the Correspondence Catalog from U of I.

Noted architect, works, subject of upcoming lecture

Retired University of Illinois architecture professor Ralph Marlowe Line will present a lecture and slides concerning the life of architect Louis Sullivan at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in Neckers Auditorium, Room B-240.

Sullivan, best known as the father of the American skyscraper and the teacher of Frank Lloyd Wright, designed the Wainwright Building in St. Louis among many other accomplishments.

Line has collected 74 prints of Sullivan's work which have been shown in art museums, libraries and galleries across the country.

The lecture is sponsored by the Department of Interior Design and is free.

DID YOU KNOW

By Steve Shafer

Oddly enough, of all the home runs that Hank Aaron has hit in his career, he has never hit an inside-the-park homer.

What was the greatest lineup that ever took the field for one baseball game? Well, take a look at this one... All nine starters on the team that played for the American League in the 1934 All-Star game made the Hall of Fame... That's the only time in history that every starter on one team made the Hall of Fame... The starters in that 1934 All-Star game were Lou Gehrig, Charlie Gehringer, Joe Cronin and Jimmy Foss in the infield, Babe Ruth, Heinie Munnich and Al Simmons in the outfield, Billy Dickey catching and Lefty Gomez pitching.

You're serious about photography. So is the Canon F-1.

To you, photography is more than a hobby. You may never want to become a professional. Yet your photography is as important a means of self-expression to you as your speech. You demand the same excellence in your photographic equipment as you do of your photographic skills.

The Canon F-1 is the camera that can fulfill any photographic task to which you put it. It can stand up to your ability in any situation.

Naturally, a great camera like the F-1 won't ensure great results. That's up to you. Yet—it's nice to know that your camera can grow with you as a photographer.

Part of the reason for this is the F-1 system. Since it was designed in totality, it offers total performance. There is nothing added on in the F-1 system. Everything works as it was designed to, and integrates superbly with everything else. You'll spend less time worrying about operating the camera than in shooting. And that's what creative photography is really all about.

Controls fall into place under each finger. It's no accident. Professionals who depend on a camera for their livelihood have a deep regard for the F-1's handling. It's amazing how much a comfortable camera can improve your work.

Sharing these lenses and many of these accessories are the new Electronic Canon EF, with fully automatic exposure control, the FTb, now improved with all exposure information visible in the finder, and the TLb, great for a second camera body or for getting started in Canon photography. Canon. For serious applications. For serious photographers.

Isn't it time you got serious?

Mining bill sponsors fend off amendments

WASHINGTON (AP) - Sponsors of a bill imposing stiff controls on strip mining fended off a series of amendments Monday they contend would seriously weaken the bill including a coal industry-backed proposal to limit citizen suits.

The votes came as the House Interior Committee completed action on one of the bill's most controversial sections, establishing a new permit system and imposing strict environmental controls on surface mining.

The committee has been debating amendments to the bill for two months, but sponsors said they were hopeful a final vote could be taken this week.

The committee rejected, by a voice vote, an industry-supported amendment that would limit the filing of citizen suits to only those "adversely affected" by a strip mining operation.

Rep. William A. Steiger (R-Ariz.), the amendment's sponsor, said it was aimed at avoiding an avalanche of irrelevant citizens lawsuits.

He said there were plenty of other ways written into the bill by which citizens could oppose strip mining operations.

But Rep. Morris K. Udall (D-Ariz.), the bill's prime sponsor, said the amendment would "water down the right of people to bring lawsuits" and would prohibit action by "citizen groups who live in an area which they don't want to see despoiled."

By an 18 to 16 vote, the committee also rejected an amendment supported by the Nixon administration but opposed by environmentalists that would have limited the amount of information made public prior to a surface mining permit hearing.

The strip mining bill authorizes states to establish their own programs for permitting and controlling surface mining. In the absence of a state program, the Interior Department would enforce the regulations.

The committee finished action on the last of 55 amendments introduced to the section of the bill authorizing permits and environmental controls. Some of the amendments adopted Monday resulted from compromises between mining, administration and environmental interests.

One such action was the committee's nearly unanimous decision to delete from the bill a provision that would have provided a "bounty" to persons who supply information to the government that results in penalties against mining operations.

The original bill provided for such payments in amounts up to one-third of the maximum $10,000-a-day fine which can be imposed for violations of the proposed strip mining act.

Symposium to end Tuesday

Archeology trends studied

A symposium examining the work of retiring anthropology professor Walter W. Taylor will begin final day at 9 a.m. Tuesday in the Student Center Kaskaskia Room.

The symposium, attended by members of the SIU anthropology department and several noted U.S. archeologists, is exploring recent trends in archeology.

The program began at 9 a.m. Monday with a general discussion. At 2 p.m., Jon Muller, associate professor of anthropology, presented a paper on "Paleoecology." Participants debated this subject during the afternoon before an audience of about 50 students.

Other professors participating in the seminar are: R. Berle Clay of Tulane University, Robert C. Euler of Fort Louis College, George Gumerman of SIU, James N. Hill of UCLA, William Longacre of the University of Arizona, Charles Redman of New York University, Jonathan Reymann of Illinois State University, Stuart Struver of

Eight match sweep provides women netters with first win

By Kenneth Pilarski
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

With their first win of the season against John A. Logan Junior College, 8-0, the SIU's women's varsity tennis team proceeded to drop decisions to Principia 9-0 and Eastern Illinois University 5-4.

Against Logan, the women netters captured the six singles matches and both the doubles matches. Sandy Schenck defeated Maria Julia 6-3, 6-3 in the No. 1 singles match. The win was Schenck's second against one loss.

Kim Smith picked up her first win of the season as she defeated Peggy Deterding 6-3, 6-1 in the No. 2 singles match. Karen Tiesling defeated Jean Golmeister 6-1, 6-3 in the No. 3 singles. The win was the first for Tiesling.

Marilyn Geninatti notched her first win with a 7-5, 6-4 decision over Patty Lyles. Renee Kupeck defeated Kay Russell in straight sets 6-0, 6-0 to capture her first win of the season. Sue Bartholomew concluded the sweep of the singles matches with 6-0, 6-2 decision over Debbie Eubanks.

In the No. 1 doubles match, Kupeck and Barb Smisko combined to defeat Russell and Eubanks, 6-3, 6-2. Smith and Tiesling defeated

SIU women take fifth in golf tournament at ISU

The SIU women's varsity golf team finished fifth in a field of eight schools in Saturday's invitational golf tournament at Illinois State University.

ISU captured the match-play competition with 295 total points. Stephens College was second with a 255 total, Central Michigan was third with 242, the University of Illinois finished fourth with 203, SIU was fifth with 148, Western Illinois was sixth with 142, Eastern Illinois was seventh with 123 and St. Mary's College was eighth with a 110 total.

In a medalist play, SIU finished sixth with a team total of 439. ISU was first with a team score of 349. Individual medalist honors went to Janice Kemple of University of Illinois and Stephens Shelly Grose for first place. Stephens' Bonnie Dennison was second and SIU's Sandy Blaha and ISU's Jo Beth Kemp tied for third.

Deterding and Golmeister 6-1, 6-1 in the No. 2 doubles match.

Against Principia, the women netters were severely out matched as Principia marched to an easy 9-0 victory. Tennis coach Sally Cotton summed up the meet by saying, "Prin was just too strong for us."

In the Eastern Illinois meet, SIU captured three of the six singles matches but lost the meet in the doubles competition.

Meg Putnam picked up her fourth win of the season with a 6-4, 6-3 win over Eastern's Bobbie Odette in the No. 1 singles match. Linda Levine defeated Sue Saner in the No. 5 singles 6-3, 6-4. The win was Levine's first of the season.

Jane Natal won the final singles match with 7-5, 6-3 win over Jeanne Clapp.

In the No. 1 doubles match, Putnam and Smisko teamed up to defeat Carol Haas and Debbie Vogle 11-7. The No. 2 doubles decided the meet as Natal and Robin Nelson were defeated in a close match 10-11 by Debbie Honson and Pam Webster.

Jami and Peggy Conroy were defeated in the final doubles match 11-2 by Eastern's Cindy Moore and Linda Thiede.

The women golfers will be in action again Saturday as they travel to DeKalb for the State Tournament.

PROTECTION FOR PARENT

A young parent buying life insurance will often ask for prices on $100,000. When he hears what this much protection will cost, he will often end up with a small five or ten thousand dollar policy. This does not have to happen. No one can say how much money it will take to give a child born today an even break growing up, but the figure is probably closer to $100,000 than to $10,000. Here's how you can afford as much protection as you need to insure your family's security.

Klass' no-hitter highlights four wins

By Mark Tupper
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

Rob Klass' no-hitter highlighted a four-game weekend sweep for the SIU Salukis as they stretched their consecutive win streak to 24 games and the season record to 31-5.

Three wins over St. Louis and another against Arkansas State moved the Salukis into the final month of play. SIU plays 14 games in May.

Klass' 5-0 no-hitter came in the second game of Saturday's doubleheader with the Billikins and was kept intact with several standout defensive plays and 10 strike-outs. The only St. Louis player to reach base was rightfielder Larry Giovanni, who walked with one out in the third inning.

A good fielding play by Saluki shortstop Stan Mann for the first out in the first prevented a single for catcher Rich Spitzfaden.

But the play of the game came in the sixth when SIU's leading hitter, John Hoscheidt, showed he can play defense as well.

St. Louis' top hitter, Marty Pranger lashed a Klass fastball deep into the left center power alley. Hoscheidt sprinted towards the wall. A strong cross wind pushed the ball away from Hoscheidt, but in a last second desperation lunge, Hoscheidt's left hand plucked the ball from the air for the out.

"The ball was tailing away and rising," Hoscheidt said after the game. "I just got to it at the last minute."

Two strike-outs ended the Billikins sixth, and Klass was only three outs away from his first no-hitter as a Saluki. The first out in the seventh came on another standout play by Mann, who fielded a high chopper over the mound and threw to Mike Wilbins at first.

Klass worked the second batter to a 3-2 count before he caught him looking. It was his 10th strikeout pitch of the day. Before Klass got his final out, he called for the SIU trainer to examine his right thumb which had developed a blister.

Klass returned to the mound. Bill Hopfinger hit a spinning one-hopper to Wilbins, who fielded the ball near the first base line and stepped on the bag to complete Klass' hitless game.

"My fastball was ungodly," Klass chattered as he came off the mound after the game. "It was moving six to eight inches outside and my breaking pitches were staying down. But I had some great plays behind me today."

"I said a 'Hail Mary' when that one Hoscheidt caught was hit," Klass said shaking his head. "I couldn't believe it when he caught it."

Klass' father, Gilbert Klass of Evansville, Ind., drove to Carbondale to see Rob pitch and was a very happy man after the game. "I'm just gonna kiss that No. 11 (Hoscheidt) and Stanley (Mann)," the senior Klass chuckled at the side of the SIU dugout.

"Rob's fastball looked great. He can really play. I'm going to bring my father and mother-in-law down here every weekend."

The win was Klass' seventh of the year against no defeats and lowered his ERA to 1.84.

The Salukis won the first game of Saturday's doubleheader, 5-3, when a successful squeeze bunt by Bert Newman scored two runners to break a 3-3 deadlock in the sixth inning.

Ron Hodges went the distance for SIU, picking up his fifth win of the year against one loss.

A 9-2 beating of St. Louis and a 10-6 win over Arkansas State gave SIU wins No. 30 and 31 Sunday. Jim Bokelmann and Scott Waltemate were the winning pitchers for the Salukis.

Bokelmann struck out seven and Steve Shartzter hit a single, double and a two-run homer to lead a 15-hit Saluki attack. Shartzter's homer, a screamer over the left-field fence, came in the fifth inning. The fifth was one of two three-run innings for the Salukis.

Against Arkansas State, the Salukis were sailing along with a 10-0 lead until Waltemate left the game in the seventh inning. Ray Huelsman relieved Waltemate in the eighth and was shelled with a triple and four singles to drive him from the mound.

Arkansas' five runs in that inning forced Saluki Coach Richard "Itchy" Jones to bring in righty Bill Dunning. Dunning gave up a solo homer in the ninth to complete the Arkansas State scoring and cut its rally four runs short.

SIU's big offensive boost came when second baseman Howie Mitchell hit a bases-loaded homer over the left field fence, scoring Mann, Claude Crockett and Wayne Ruegger ahead of him. Jim Locascio got two hits and two RBI's to help the Salukis.

SIU has the week off until a Friday single game at Illinois State. That will be followed by a doubleheader at Illinois State, Saturday and a home game against Murray State, Sunday.

SIU relayers take honors at Drake meet

Running a 1:23.0, the Saluki 880 relay took home its third championship of the year, at Friday and Saturday's Drake Relays.

SIU previously won the 880 at the Florida and Kansas Relays.

"We proved we are the best," said SIU's Lonnie Brown, who teamed up with Terry Erickson, Gerald Smith and Mike Monroe to win the 880.

"Texas Southern had the inside lane on us and couldn't beat us," said Brown. "If they can't beat us on the inside, they can't beat us." Texas Southern won the 880 at the Texas Relays, turning in the sixth best time in the world.

SIU track coach Lew Hartzog commented, "We have now established ourselves as the best 880 relay team in the nation."

The tracksters took fifth in the 440 with a 40.5. Texas Southern came back to take the 440 running a 40.1. "In the 440 we had four good legs, but three bad passes," said Hartzog.

SIU's mile relay team failed to qualify for the finals when Monroe pulled up with a cramp after running 120 yards of his 440 route.

Phil Robins continued to improve in the triple jump as he set a new SIU record with a 53' 10" jump, good enough for second place. Illinois' Charlton Ehizvelen won the event, jumping 55' 2 1/4."

Bill Hancock, finished ninth in a field of 18 in the high jump. Hancock went 6' 9" before he was eliminated.

Golf team finishes twelfth

The SIU golf team finished 12th in an 18-team field in the second annual Drake Relays Invitational, held Thursday and Friday in Des Moines, Iowa.

Illinois State won a playoff from Nebraska to decide the team championship at the Hyperion Field Club.

"We were close to Nebraska after the first day," Saluki Coach Lynn Holder said. "But we didn't shoot as well the second day."

Illinois State and Nebraska had finished with a team total of 595

SIU coach Richard "Itchy" Jones and an umpire get in a few choice words in Saturday's game.

Women's softball team drops two

By Kenneth Pilarski
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

The SIU women's varsity softball team's record dropped to 2-6 Saturday after a 16-1 trouncing by Eastern Illinois University and a 5-3 loss to Western Illinois University.

Against Eastern, the pitching was wild, the offense was unable to produce consistently and the defense was erratic. Vicky King, losing pitcher for SIU, gave up eight hits, 13 walks and didn't strike out a batter.

Debbie Frischkorn and Sue Hinrichsen led the Salukettes with two hits each. SIU matched Eastern's eight hits, but threw the game away with seven errors.

SIU scored its one run in the sixth inning when Annelle Griffin singled, took second on a fielder's choice and scored on a single by Hinrichsen.

In the second game, SIU tightened up its overall play but still lost to Western Illinois 5-3.

The defense committed only one error. Cathy Lies gave the Salukettes a somewhat stronger mound performance than in the past as she gave up only four hits but walked nine. Lies struck out one.

The Salukettes' runs came in the second inning. Pat Wenger singled and Glennie Smith was safe on an error. Frischkorn followed with a single, driving in Wenger with the first run of the game. Smith and Frischkorn later scored on a wild pitch while Griffin was at bat. Griffin led the SIU offense with two hits.

The second team lost to Western 20-8 and Eastern 22-2.

Maggie Massa was the losing pitcher against Western. She walked five and didn't strike out a batter. Highlight of the game was a three-run homer by Marty Ferry in the first inning.

The Salukettes could must only two runs on three hits against Eastern Illinois.

SIU to host fighting Illini in tennis match on Tuesday

By Bruce Shapin
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

Playing its fourth match in six days, the SIU tennis squad will host the fighting Illini of the University of Illinois at 2 p.m. Tuesday on the SIU courts. The Salukis are 13-9 following victories over Kansas Saturday and Indiana State Monday.

The Indiana State Sycamores were never in the match Monday, as the Salukis handled them 9-0. Playing under windy conditions, the netters went two sets in eight of the nine matches.

Dane Petchul and Scott Kidd, SIU's No. 1 doubles team, went three sets before they could put Bill James and Curt Williams away. Winning the first set 6-2, James and Williams came back 6-4 to force the match to a third set. The final set was decided by a tie-breaking round, as Petchul forehand ended the set and match, 7-6.

Other scores from Monday's action saw the Salukis' new No. 1 singles man, Jorge Ramirez, besting Max Pohorny, 6-3 and 6-1; Petchul defeating James 6-2 and 6-4; Kidd beating Kurt Earhardt 6-1 and 6-3; Steve Temple scoring a 6-0, 6-1 decision; Felix Ampon defeating Williams, 6-2 and 6-4; Mel Ampon in decision over Tony Dittmer, 6-0 and 6-1; Scot Huguélet and M. Ampon besting Pohorny, 6-1 and 6-0; and Kristian Cee and Temple beating Ehrhardt and Dittmer, 6-0 and 6-1.

SIU defeated the Kansas Jayhawks Saturday, 5-4. "Kansas is a real tough team, which made it a great win," said Saluki coach Dick LeFevre. The netters went into the doubles portion of the Jayhawks match, tied at 3-3. Petchul and Kidd won 6-3 and 6-4, to join M. Ampon and Ramirez, who were winners 4-6, 7-6 and 6-2, to clinch the match. Saluki winners in singles play were Petchul, F. Ampon, and Temple.

Tuesday's match against the Illini promises to be a close one, according to LeFevre. "They beat us last year 5-4, so we'll be ready for the same kind of dog fight this year," said LeFevre.
