SONJA GELIN graduated from Southern Illinois University, Carbondale, in May 2020 with a B.A. in Art History and minors in French and History. She wrote her paper “Finding Refuge in Reason and Religion: Understanding Pombaline-era Architecture and Reform through 18th Century Azulejo” in Dr. José Najar’s History 392: Historical Research and Writing class. She intends to pursue graduate studies in art history and history, focusing on Lusophone and Francophone art and material cultures. She received the history program’s Edward J. O’Day Paper Award for the best undergraduate student paper in 2021-2022.

ETHAN BROWN is a senior in Technical Resource Management. He wrote, “Whiteness and an Immigrant’s Attainment of the “American Dream”: Chinese and Polish Immigrants in the United States” for Dr. Jose Najar’s History 392 class in Spring 2021 under the direction of Dr. Najar, Joshua Cannon, and Antonio Salazar.

WILLIAM “JACOB” DUNNING graduated in May 2021 with a B.A. in History and minors in Political Science and Economics. He wrote “Coffeehouse Capitalism: From London to America” in the Fall of 2020 for Dr. Bean’s course, History 464 American Capitalism. Jacob was awarded the Caldwell-Jones Scholarship for holding the highest GPA in the History Department during his time at SIU. He had another essay published in SIU’s Grassroots literary magazine. He currently lives in Austin, TX, where he works for Concordia University Texas, and plans to enroll in a master’s degree program in 2022.

GABRIELLA SALEMI is a senior in History Education. She wrote “Ideology and Intervention: The Case of Afghanistan’s Opium Economy From the Cold War to the War on Terror” for Dr. Najar’s History 392 Historical Research and Writing course. She hopes to inform the public on lesser-known histories and bring attention to current events.

JUNIPER OXFORD graduated from Southern Illinois University, Carbondale, in May 2021 with a B.A. in History and a minor in Political Science. Currently, she is working on her M.A. in History at the University of Vermont. She wrote “Teddy and Fighting Bob: Progressive Presidential Candidates of the Early Twentieth Century United States” for Dr. Joseph Sramek’s History 392 class in Fall 2020. She intends to pursue a Ph.D. in History and is keenly interested in the research of twentieth-century American political history and the history of social movements.
