LETTERS
Belleville, Ill.

Intentions are good only when put into practice so I'm finally getting around to reporting the happenings since my last letter in 1951.

My husband still works for Westinghouse Electric Corp. downtown office. He is an electrical application engineer with Southern Illinois as his territory.

I taught for two years in Fairview, a suburb, and a half year in Belleville. The half year ended just a few weeks before our first and only child was born—a son. That was in February, 1954.

Now, I'm strictly a homemaker, mother and tutor. Judging by the reports in the education field, it's a poor time for teachers to begin families for they are needed in the schools to take care of each year's "bumper-crop" of children.

We bought our home a year and a half ago here in Belleville. We have learned that a home-owner has little time to relax for there is always something to fix, change, or improve but it's so much fun.

I'll try not to wait so long for the next report.

On The Cover

Probably most of you will recognize the spot where our boy and girl are standing—it is on the walk between Shryock auditorium and the Allyn Art building. Responsible for the many trees and bushes pictured is William Marberry, '35, assistant professor of botany, with the assistance of physical plant gardeners. The campus is especially beautiful in the spring. Photo by Joe Sheckler, SIU Photographic Service.

Charles D. Neal

Neal has been director of teacher training at Southern since 1949. He first joined the faculty in 1948 and served briefly as principal of the University training school. Neal attended Southern from 1931 to 1934 before transferring to Indiana University where he continued on to receive his doctorate. His experience includes 11 years in the elementary schools and five years in high school.

Harold E. Briggs

Briggs is chairman of the SIU history department. He came to Southern in 1945 from the University of Miami where he had headed the history department for ten years. Briggs received his bachelor's degree and master's degree from the University of South Dakota. His Ph.D. is from the State University of Iowa. His experience also includes three years as a high school superintendent and seven years as head of the history department at Culver-Stockton College, Canton, Mo.

J. Minnette Barber

Miss Barber is currently on leave from SIU and making her temporary home in Miami, Fla. She came to Southern's English department in 1936 from Monticello College. Prior to this she had taught at the University of Illinois and in a college in China. Miss Barber maintains her permanent address as: Wasco, Ill. Her Florida address is: 2501 S. W. 31st Ave., Miami 33, Fla.
Graduate Internship

SIU program puts theory to practice

by Charles D. Neal

Southern Illinois University is one of the pioneer institutions of higher learning to develop a graduate internship plan in the field of education in which the student works in a public school 5 days per week for a period of 9 months. The plan was conceived and developed during the 1949-50 school year.

The SIU plan of graduate internship grew out of an educational conference between the staff of the College of Education and the public school administrators in the 31 Illinois counties nearest Southern.

The teacher training staff in the College of Education undertook to develop an internship program to implement the recommendation made at the conference.

When the outline of the program was completed, more than 500 administrators, including elementary and high school principals, public school superintendents, and county superintendents, were notified by letter of its development. The response from these educators was gratifying. Of the many comments received, none was adverse. School administrators generally approved the program.

At the time the plan was announced, most students preferred to earn their graduate degree in Education by the established 9-month program on campus. There were a few applicants the first year, but since the announcement had been made three months after the beginning of the school year, it was considered too late for regular internees to start. their year's work. One applicant was, however, accepted this first year on an experimental basis, and he did six months of internship, working in the Community high school of Cisne, Illinois. J. O. Clemens was the cooperating public school principal.

And now, today, after 27 graduate students have earned their master's degrees under the internship plan, one administrator (Fred J. Armistead, Harrisburg) has said the following about the value of the program:

"It has taken a long time for professional educators to realize the distance between educational theory and its practice in the field. Too often in the past, the practice was given too early in the college student's career in too thin doses to have much of a lasting result. It seems as if he was loaded with what this or that authority said and then left to sing or swim when he got his first position.

Under actual conditions as found in the public schools and often far from the more ideal ones found in laboratory schools, the intern comes to grips with the same factors he will find in succeeding years without becoming swamped.

It is my observation that the internship program is an ideal mixture of theory and practice. My only regret—it was not invented soon enough to have helped train me."

Actual Experience

In attempting to carry on a suitable internship program, the staff feels that the preparation of master teachers, supervisors, and administrators is as important as the preparation of medical doctors and that a system of internship is as necessary for one as for the other. The master educator needs to become thoroughly acquainted with an actual public school situation, to learn to evaluate theory by trying it in practice, and particularly to learn to take cognizance of his own progress from time to time, evaluating it by sound educational standards.

These aims, it is believed, can be effectively realized only in a program that provides actual experience in an actual situation—a period of internship training. With these thoughts in mind, the following objectives for the internship program have been presented:

1. To develop better teachers, supervisors, and administrators than can be developed through a graduate program of theoretical training.

2. To make the transition from so-called student preparation to full-time teaching, supervising, or administering a graduate one.

3. To guide the intern in evaluating theory by trying it in practice.

4. To instil in the intern the correct interpretation of a code of professional ethics.

5. To provide opportunity for the intern to develop under guidance, desirable professional interests, habits and ideals.

6. To provide a testing ground for the beginning educator on which it can be determined whether more training is needed in certain areas before he enters the teaching profession on a full-time basis.

7. To present the graduate student with an opportunity to test his own theories.

8. To secure integration of theory and practice under competent and adequate supervision before the intern enters a full-time teaching position.

9. To put the ideal of "learning by doing" into practice on the college level.

10. To provide graduate students with practical experience in working effectively with parents and other members of a community in developing the public school program.

Internship Plan

The Southern Illinois University Teacher, Supervisor, or Administrator Internship Program is designed to meet the needs of graduate students who desire to obtain practical experience in a public school while they are working for a master's degree or a professional certificate in Education. Graduate students may enroll in either a teaching, supervising, or administrative program, majoring on either the secondary or elementary level. The plan of graduate internship is flexible and is designed primarily for the purpose of meeting individual needs. The schedule of experiences must follow to some degree a general framework re-
Intern James Parker integrates theory and practice under competent supervision in Marion.

The instructional value of the program depends upon good supervision. The University supervisor works in close connection with the cooperating public school administrator in supervising the intern during the entire 9-month program. The university supervisor makes a minimum of one visit a month to the intern in the school where he is employed. He spends the entire day evaluating the program and discussing the problems with both the intern and the public school administrator. Each intern is expected to keep a day-by-day record of the problems he has encountered, solutions he has worked out, and his appraisal of the results he has obtained. Each month when the intern receives notice of the visitation date, he mails his supervisor the day-by-day record of the past month. This procedure affords the supervisor the opportunity of studying and checking certain problems and procedures well in advance of the visitation date. It particularly affords the supervisor with a complete day-by-day record of “just what happened last month.” University supervisors are finding that such a record, properly kept, is an invaluable instrument in evaluating the student’s progress and growth and in providing a basis for revising and improving the program of University supervision.

It is also during these monthly visits that careful attention is given by the supervisor to the intern’s experience in each competency set up early in the term by the intern, the public school administrator, and the university supervisor. For example, if it’s found during the January visitation that attendance at only two board meetings had been listed by an administrative intern under the heading “Working with Boards of Education,” the supervisor would find out why more meetings had not been attended and set up means of correcting this particular deficiency.

When the supervisor returns to the campus following a visitation, he summarizes his recommendations in the form of a letter, which is written directly to the intern.

In addition to these monthly visitations, the university supervisor enriches the intern’s experiences through any or all of the following media:

1. Seminars held on campus where interns meet for discussion of their programs and the problems that have arisen in connection with them.
2. Visitations to other schools and governmental agencies, including the University School, for the purpose of exploring various programs, administrative devices, and teaching techniques and methods.
3. Full-day conferences between present and past interns and the graduate internship consultants.
4. Correspondence between monthly visitations by the intern and supervisor in which certain problems or specific needs are addressed (Continued on page 15)
Research and writing in the field of local history have been receiving a considerable amount of attention throughout the country in recent years. We are becoming more aware of the necessity of knowing the past if we are to understand the present and plan for the future. There are many opportunities for research in the field of Southern Illinois history and various members of the history staff at Southern Illinois University are working on research projects in that field. The University has been liberal in granting time and money to carry on the work. The results of several of the projects have been published in well known magazines and historical journals. The history department is also carrying on a long term program of collecting manuscripts, newspapers and other source materials as well as secondary works dealing with the area. This will be merged with other Illinois and Middle Western materials which will make it a unique collection of Americana and the only one of its kind in the country when it is completed. Grass roots historical studies are a very important phase of the area service program being conducted by the University.

The history of any region is largely the history of its towns. While this is true of Southern Illinois, little scientific investigation of its many towns and villages has as yet been done. Our knowledge of Southern Illinois history will be limited until detailed accounts of its many towns and villages have been carefully prepared. This will be a task of some magnitude and offers a real challenge to the historians of the area.

During the past few years I have been working on a research project dealing with various phases of the early history of Cairo, Illinois, a very important town located at the junction of the Ohio and Mississippi Rivers. The materials for this project on Cairo during the Civil War are located in the Cairo Public Library, the Alexander County Court House, the State Historical Library, the University of Illinois library and in the National Archives in Washington, D. C. Evelyn Snyder, director of the Cairo Public Library, has not only been helpful in the use of materials there but has been able to locate and borrow valuable newspaper collections from local citizens. The topics to be considered in the project are numerous and only a few of the major ones can be mentioned and considered here.

Settlement

Although land speculators and townsite companies were active at the junction point of the Ohio and Mississippi Rivers as early as 1818, settlement there was slow. In 1826, Cairo was a mere stopping place with a tavern and a store and as late as 1850 it had only 242 inhabitants. The completion of the Illinois Central Railroad to Cairo in 1854 and the development of extensive steamboat traffic caused the town to grow rapidly. Although handicapped somewhat by the high water of 1858, the United States census of 1860 reported a population of 2,188, 55 of whom were negroes. By the time of the outbreak of the Civil War its population had increased to around 3,000 and it was an active, bustling river town. It was the county seat of Alexander county with a well organized and stable city government.

The local press carried advertisements of numerous freight and forwarding companies and commission merchants. It had four organized churches with resident ministers and a four room public school with two hundred pupils. There was a Masonic Lodge, a Fenian Brotherhood and a newspaper. It had the usual practicing lawyers and physicians. There were two drug stores, numerous grocery and general stores, two “fashionable” barber shops, a billiard hall, and many hotels, restaurants, and boarding houses. There were several amusement halls, and the Atheneum Theatre, which specialized in the legitimate drama. There were two ice cream parlors that, according to the local press, sold “an especially fine article” and several establishments that served oysters “raw, stewed or fried.” Saloons and drinking establishments were numerous, some of which advertised under such names as: The Magnolia, the Queen City, the Oriental, the Olive Branch, Washington Hall and the Saint Nicholas. The Cairoites were proud of their town and the editor of the Cairo City Weekly Gazette did not hesitate to say so.

Cairo Politics

The people of Southern Illinois favored the Democratic party in the fall elections of 1860 and voted heavily for Stephen a Douglas. Lincoln received 106 votes in Alexander County, 76 of which were cast in Cairo, while Douglas received 784 votes in the county and 347 in the city. The vote for Breckenridge was 79 and 73. The Cairo City Weekly Gazette was very critical of Lincoln and the program of the Republican party and did not hesitate to say what the editor thought. He accused Lincoln of acting like a “stupid schoolboy” on his trip to Washington to take the oath of office and had nothing favorable to say about his inaugural address. The people of the area seemed to fear what the editor called “coercion” and on February 28, 1861, he wrote in part: “Coercion will not be tolerated and the Black Republican mandate will not be endorsed by the people of Egypt.” There was feeling that in case of war or trouble they preferred to remain neutral. After the firing on Fort Sumter, the opposition ceased and Cairo was enthusiastic toward the northern cause, although the area voted Democratic in the elections of 1862 and 1864.

There was a movement for the organization and formation of a separate state of Southern Illinois. There were numerous meetings in Alexander and adjoining counties and a considerable amount of newspaper comment. An editor from Carthage, Illinois, wrote the editor of the Gazette on April 5, 1861, stating that a division of the state was being talked of there in case reconciliation could not be worked out. On March 21, 1861, the Gazette printed a long discourse explaining how Southern Illinois was fitted for statehood by natural re-social life. He went on to say: “Being a distinct people we are entitled to a special government and should examine our region carefully that we may be assured that it possesses the material elements necessary to success.” However, when a newspaper in an adjoining county suggested the possibility of annexation to the Southern Confederacy, the Cairo editor explained that while he favored statehood he could not approve such a plan.

The War Years

After the firing on Fort Sumter, there was fear that the south might move on Cairo and capture it because of its strategic importance. Federal troops, however, were promptly moved into the town and within two or three months there were between six and seven thousand troops in the immediate area. Fort Defiance was fortified on the point and garrisons were established at Villa Ridge and Mound City. Bird Point in Missouri was later occupied. General Grant was located there for a time and there are records of visits by Generals McClellan, Halleck and other federal military leaders. Three Southern Illinoisans, Logan, Lawler and Reardon, organized regiments and later became generals in the northern army. The victories at Fort Donelson and Vicksburg opened the river to New Orleans and large numbers of troops and enormous amounts of military stores passed through the city on their way to the northern armies. The local press reported that the celebration had gone off in a “very appropriate manner.” They and their friends met in the engine house and “partook of a fine oyster supper, (the first fresh oysters of the season) drenching it down with reasonable quantities of the finest brands of champagne and Catwaba.” A number of speeches were made. The editor closed his remarks with following observations: “The Arab Fire company is one that reflects credit upon our city. It is composed of about fifty of our most vigorous and active young men and during the three years of its existence has rendered the public such service as should always be gratefully remembered and at least occasionally substantially acknowledged.”

The same company held its annual Washington’s Birthday Ball in February, 1863, at Eastman Hall. According to an observer the “hall was tastefully decorated and the music was furnished by the Cairo Contillion Band. They danced into the early hours of the morning.” The net proceeds amounted to $116. The members of the company at this time were reported to have increased to one hundred, which was probably to take care of the increasing

Of the early history of Anthony Hall I know very little, but in the ten years or so, prior to my regime, it had been run very efficiently by Mrs. Alice Kelsey Wright, Miss Mary Crawford, and Miss Sara Baker. Mrs. Wright, now an assistant professor of mathematics, has many friends and admirers among the alumnae dating back to her days as director of Anthony Hall. Miss Crawford, who has died since, though a martinet, gave a touch of aristocracy to life at the dormitory and is remembered also for her kindness to those who needed it, and for her even-handed justice. Miss Baker, my immediate predecessor, was certainly a great success as director and now has a fine position as Supervisor of Education for the American Armed Forces in college extension classes given under the University of Maryland in Vienna, Austria.

To her I owe a debt of gratitude for some of the happiest years of my life, the period from June, 1937, to December, 1948, for when she decided in the spring of 1937 to resign from her position at Anthony Hall, she recommended to President Roscoe Pulliam that he appoint me in her place. I was already on the campus, having come there to teach English in the fall of 1936 and I was already familiar with Anthony Hall, as Miss Baker had permitted me to have dinners there for several months. In addition, I had substituted for her a couple of week-ends, so she could be away. Also, I had had six years of experience in dormitory life at Monticello College at Alton and had liked it very much. So when Mr. Pulliam offered me the post, I was glad to accept it, as I knew Miss Baker was leaving a very well organized, smoothly-running concern. However, I asked for an assistant as I felt the position was altogether too confining for one person alone. Mr. Pulliam agreed, and the matter was settled. Thus, on the first week in June of 1937, Miss Kathryn Caveglia, '33, (Mrs. Robert H. Healy, Collinsville, Ill.) and I took over the supervision of the Women's Residence Hall.

My first acquaintances in the dormitory were Dorothy Gene, '40, (Mrs. Joseph Kriers, Pasadena, Calif.) and Margery Buckingham, '40, (Belleville, Ill.), members of my "Freshman group" who in the fall of 1936 had told me with enthusiasm of their life at Anthony Hall. Later on, at dinner at Miss Baker's table, I had become acquainted with Ruth Eileen Simpson, '38, (Fairfield, Ill.), Connie Beach, '38, (Carbondale), Mabel Penry, '41, (Mrs. Marshall Howell, University City, Mo.), Mari Lu Hetherington, '38, (Mrs. J. W. Gaskins, Phoenix, Ariz.), Guinna Cotter, '39, (Mrs. Russell Boren, Omaha, Neb.), "Tim" Niedringhouse, '41, (Mrs. Tom Langdon, Carbondale), and a few more. When I moved in, these girls as well as others, gave a cordial welcome and I was also glad to find two friends in Elizabeth Forester, ex '37, and Libby Forwood, who had transferred from Monticello. All in all I felt quite at home. And I shall always recall gratefully the kindness shown to me by Ruth Eileen, who had been Miss Baker's secretary and who stayed on as mine. She was invaluable in teaching me the ways of life at the Hall, and also the routine of the office. Connie and Mabel, who worked for Mr. Miles in the business office during their undergraduate years, also gave me much help and advice about the relationship of the dormitory to Mr. Miles' department. Mari Lu and "Tim" as well were employed in campus offices and were very helpful.

During my first summer, when my ten year old niece, Ann, came down from Chicago for a visit, she found Anthony Hall the most delightful place she had ever known. Several girls took her under their wing and let her tag along to Carter's or uptown. Ann thought going to Carter's top-notch entertainment. She had so much fun that when the time came for her to return to Chicago, she cried and wanted to stay on, though she finally compromised by deciding to return for her college education. Elizabeth Forester and Dixie Bean, '46, (Mrs. George Weitzel) were among those who were particularly nice to Ann. It is very sad to realize that dear, gay, clever Dixie Bean is no longer living.

The fall of 1937 brought changes. Kay Caveglia left to be married and Hilda Stein became assistant, and a very fine one she proved to be. Ruth Eileen went to West Frankfort to teach, and Marie Williams, '39, (East St. Louis, Ill.) became secretary. During my years at the Residence Hall I was fortunate in having a long line of very good secretaries, many of whom, I am glad to say, still keep in touch with me. Marie was followed by Betty Jean Harris, '40, (Mrs. Everett Sanneman, Jr., Louisville, Ky.), Edith Davis, '41, (Mrs. Arnold Farris, Marion, Ill.) Marguerite Norman, '42, (Mrs. Tho­wald Kragness, Marion, Ill.) Dorothy Pemberton, '41, (Mrs. David McNeill, Eldorado, Ill.) Kathleen Cockrum, Mabel Cockrum, ex '47, (Mrs. Joseph Sinkaiwic, Loves Park, Ill.) Patricia Stahlheber, '45, (Mrs. Louis Karraker, Jonesboro, Ill.) Nola Faye Finley, '50, (Mrs. Carroll Loomis, Chicago) and Alice Vravick, '48, (Mrs. Arthur Ackerberg, Brookfield, Ill.) each in turn, and not a "dud" in the lot. Since I have been in Florida I have had the pleasure of visits from Alice and Dorothy. Secretaries changed often, as usually each girl was a Senior, or at least a Junior when she started, and thus had to leave in a year or two, but each one, before leaving, trained a successor for me. I think back on them all with much gratefulness for their faithful service.

Assistant did not change as often, though I had several besides Miss Caveglia and Miss Stein, including Miss Mary Goddard, ex '35, Miss Golda Hankla, '31, (Carbondale) and Mrs. Mabel Penry Howell. One summer Miss Stein was director in my place, and for another, Miss Ann Marie Krause “ran the show” very effectively. Miss Hankla was with me for several years. Perhaps she was the hardest soul of them all, for she seemed able to enjoy a long stretch of dormitory life, which some people find wearing.

One of the chief events of my first years at Anthony Hall was the campaign the girls put on to make Guinna Cotter Homecoming Queen. For several years the sororities had had the successful candidate, but in the fall of 1938, the Residence Hall girls conceived the idea of running beautiful, statuesque Guinna Cotter. They worked feverishly for their objective, and even our most conservative girls got into the furor of the competition. I remember well one usually quiet girl whose job it had been to pass out slips of paper exhorting voters as they came out of the auditorium after chapel. She came home quite shocked. “Miss Barber,” she cried, “you may not believe this, but there is a girl over on the auditorium steps offering to kiss any man who will vote for her candidate. She’s practically selling herself for votes.” Well, Guinna was elected, and when she was crowned at the Homecoming dance, late Saturday evening, there was a big celebration at the dormitory. The fire alarm bell rang madly at midnight, and war whoops resounded through the corridors.

In subsequent years several Anthony Hall girls won the coveted crown. Dorothy Lee Mitchell, '40 (Mrs. Russell Langford, Browns, Ill.) Orbalee Hubbard, ex '41 (Mrs. Robert Hunter, Van Nuys, Calif.) Dorothy Lill, '42 (Mrs. William Larson, Mascoutah, Ill.) Gloria Barger, '46 (Mrs. S. H. Frazier, Rochester, Minn.) and June Otrich, '45 (Mrs. Earl Walls, Brocton, Ill.) are among those whom I recall.

As I think back over my years at the dormitory many incidents crowd into my mind. No one who was there at the time of the diphtheria quarantine, or on the night of the fire-cracker episode, or in the winter when the Army came, is apt to forget. Anna Mae Gebauer, '41, (Mrs. George Langdon, Troy, Ill.) furnished the reason for the quarantine when her sore throat was pronounced diphtheria and she was isolated in the infirmary. Cultures given to everybody turned up nine carriers, Miss Hankla and eight students. Miss Hankla went home to Jonesboro, but the other eight suspects were marooned in the East end of third floor, which was partitioned off for them. One of these suspicious characters was the irrepressible Dorothy Anne Davis, ex '39, better known as "Mickey" who, I learned later, held court from the fire escape platform in the wee small hours, until the night watchman chased her suitors away. Guinna Cotter, who was one of the internees, was expressively bored, as I suppose were all eight to say nothing of some seventy others kept indoors. At first when the girls were confined, they thought being quarantined might after all be something of a lark, but most of them soon became very restless and spent a great deal of time roaming around the building like caged lions, or gathering in groups to bewail their fate. A few played bridge or ping pong in the recreation room. A very small number did a very little studying. Everybody wanted to use the telephone at all hours. By the time it was all over, in four or five days, they all acted as if they had been freed from a penitentiary.

There is one incident in particular that stands out in my memory. I was awakened one night around twelve by what sounded like a revolver shot. As we had a very temperamental night watchman, given to firing shots in the air to scare away prowlers on the campus, I thought to myself the watchman is up to his usual tricks. Then I heard feet running on the second floor corridor above me. The night watchman could have nothing to do with this phenomenon! I grabbed my warm robe, shoved into my slippers, and rushed up the steps. As I came to the top of the stairs at second floor, “Dot” Lill was standing in the doorway of her room, next to the staircase, calling out: “Girls, get back into your rooms. Stay in your rooms.” No one was heeding her. All of them were pouring into the corridor, and girls from third floor were starting down. I said, “Girls what is the matter?” Half a dozen tried to explain to me that someone had fired a gun on second floor. I answered, “That’s absurd. Who would fire a gun in the dormitory?” They insisted someone had. Then I countered, “Who? Where is the gun?” Meantime I got the corridor lights turned on, and suggested they find the missing weapon. Well, they found only the remnants of a giant fire-cracker! But considerable damage had been done, as somebody had started a rumor of suicide which had spread like wildfire and many girls were intensely disturbed. Two of them had hysterics and Miss Hankla and I spent an hour or two getting everybody calmed down.

Then we went downstairs and took thought as to what girl in our group had the kind of sense of humor that might lead her to fire a giant cracker at midnight in a girls’ dormitory. We considered three possible suspects. We wondered about Athena “Corky” Kourdouvelis, ex ’41, but decided as a freshman she wouldn’t have enough “nerve.” As “Dot” Lill loved practical jokes, and as she had been urging the others to stay in their rooms, I asked her the next morning if she had anything to do with the matter. She was highly insulted that we would think her capable of such a cowardly act. After this interview Miss Hankla and I, hav-

Griffin Addresses Ag Club Banquet

E. D. Griffin, '15, vice president of Allied Mills, Inc., Chicago, was the featured speaker at the annual banquet of the SIU Agriculture Club held during January. Some 250 persons heard Griffin speak on "Agricultural Leadership — Preparation and Execution."

Certificates of recognition from the Agriculture Club for services to the club and to area agriculture were presented to Harold Kuehn, '51, Elkville, and George Cockrum, ex '39, Benton. Kuehn farms 640 acres in partnership with his father and is a member of the Jackson County Farm Bureau board of directors. Cockrum is agriculture representative of the Bank of Benton. Students receiving certificates were: Denny Coleman, Shawneetown; Andy Marcec, East St. Louis; John Fleckenstein, Belle Rive; and William Hull, Carbondale.

Microbiology Receives Another Grant

The microbiology research laboratory at Southern has received another $5300 grant for yeast research.

The laboratory received its latest one-year grant from the Illinois Division, Inc., of the American Cancer Society, Chicago. It will be for study of antigenic composition of yeast.

Directed by Dr. Carl Lindegren, the lab has been working for three years on synthesis of proteins in yeast for the national office of the American Cancer Society on a yearly grant now amounting to $8,000, but this is the first time the state organization has contracted for yeast research here.

Other agencies sponsoring research under Lindegren's direction include the Atomic Energy Commission and the U. S. Public Health Service.

SIU To Offer Language Workshop

Southern's foreign language department will conduct a summer workshop, June 20-July 15, for teachers who instruct grade-school children in a language.

The workshop will be open to elementary school teachers with one year or more of college French, German, or Spanish; and to high school foreign language teachers interested in teaching a language to grade-school children.

Classes will meet from 7:30 a. m. to 12 noon Monday through Friday and will include observation of foreign language classes which Southern has been conducting with Carbondale children for the past three years.

Study will also stress oral drill, discussion of methods, lectures on learning of young children, and practice with special materials, according to Dr. Vera Peacock, chairman of the department.

Inquiries for more information may be addressed to Dr. Peacock.

Assistantships Open To Science Teachers

High school science teachers will have a chance to go back to school this summer and get paid for it.

The program to be offered at Southern will enable the high school teachers to work as research assistants with SIU scientists so that they may be better able to encourage teenagers to enter scientific and technical careers. In most cases, the high school teachers will receive free tuition and about $400 compensation through the program, sponsored by the National Science Teachers Association, a department of the National Education Association.

"This step is being taken to sharpen interest in scientific research since there is an increasing shortage of well qualified technical personnel in industry and in defense establishments as well as in educational institutions," the NEA said.

SIU is one of two schools in Illinois to offer this training.
Eldorado Cited By Freedom Foundation

The “Operation Bootstrap” project of Eldorado, Ill., last month won the Freedom’s Foundation top award for community programs.

The Eldorado Community Development Association received a cash award and a George Washington Honor Medal in recognition for its study and action program that began a year ago last fall. T. Leo Dodd, president of the association, participated in the award ceremonies at Valley Forge, Pa.

The “Operation Bootstrap” program at Eldorado was undertaken with the aid of Richard W. Poston, director of the SIU department of community development. Through public meetings at which townpeople analyzed their problems and recommended solutions, the town has attracted industry, conducted city beautification projects, improved recreation and opportunities for youth, and bolstered community pride.

A citation from the Foundation commended Eldorado “For the Operation Bootstrap Project, the story of a town in which the period of growth was wearing out, complacency and inertia were setting down, physical assets were deteriorating, attention to civic enterprises was ebbing, and the absence of opportunities were symptomatic of a decay that infected the entire community life. When the idea generated that with widespread and energetic action, the town could lift itself up by its own bootstraps, and it did!”

National Education Club Installed

The Alpha Upsilon chapter of Pi Lambda Theta, national honorary organization for women in education, has been installed at Southern.

Hallie Hoffarth, East St. Louis, is president of the organization. Miss Helen Zimmerman, associate professor of women’s physical education, is sponsor.

Beauty ruled Southern’s roost during the winter months with four co-eds receiving crowns for physical charm above and beyond the call of academics.

Top of the crop was Bonnie Bunch, Kampsvisle, Ill., freshman, who was crowned “Miss Rural Electrification of 1955” at Atlantic City. She won the title before 5,000 persons gathered for the annual meeting of the National Rural Electric Cooperative Association.

Pat Bruce, Fairfield, Ill., sophomore and “Miss Illinois of 1954,” was elected AF ROTC Queen. She was crowned at the annual Military Ball.

Other candidates were Barbara Furst, Evelyn Martin, Jo Ann McIntire and Lois Kalla.

Pat was commissioned an honorary cadet lieutenant colonel and the others were commissioned honorary majors. All five girls received white dress uniforms and will participate in reviews and other ROTC functions.

Shirley Lane, VTI student from Herrin, Ill., was crowned Independent Student Association Sweetheart at the “Diamond Sweetheart Ball.”

Other contestants were Pat Du Bonn, Betty Frech, Arlene Sedlack, Shirley Stout and Pat Henderson.

Shirley will travel with the Southern delegation to the National ISA Convention at Colorado A & M, Fort Collins, Colo., where she will compete for the national sweetheart crown.

Marilyn Eckert, freshman from Herrin, was named “Miss Anthony Hall.”

Other finalists were Mary Lou Bondurant, Jeanne Barbou, Donna Van Ewyk and Joyce Hastings.

Marilyn received a crown, a large trophy, a bracelet and a dozen red carnations from the men of Anthony Hall.

Southern debaters came out second of a field of 21 schools entered in the ninth annual Intercollegiate Forensic Meet. Although Southern’s record of 14 wins in 18 debates was the best in the tournament, Augustana won the sweepstakes trophy by a five point margin.

Richard Rieke won a gold medal as one of the four top debaters in the tournament. Sue Alice Martin was awarded a silver medal for second place in the original oratory division.

The Student Council voted to eliminate the use of party names in elections.

This change was made in conjunction with a suggestion now under consideration to change the Council’s constitution so voting will be by districts instead of by classes to get fairer representation.

A company of 10 Southern Players are on the road with two productions, “Cinderella” and “The Cat and the Canary,” in the third annual spring tour that started in March and will finish in April.

The players present “Cinderella” to matinee audiences of school children and present “The Cat and the Canary” to adult audiences in the evening.

About 30 southern Illinois communities are included in the tour.

Members of the touring group are Nancy Yost, Sharon Talley, Ann Hart, Darwin Payne, Dixie Buyan, Dorothy Womack, Stanley Bushkill, Hal Choisser, David Brookbank and Robert Chamness.

A group of campus bachelors are manning cook stoves and scrub buckets to lead an at-home life. And they are living happily ever after.

Forty-eight unmarried students have set up housekeeping in eight university apartments. The two-bedroom apartments, a section of the Chautauqua housing project for married veterans, were turned over to the bachelors to help relieve a student housing shortage brought on by a gigantic increase in enrollment.

SOUTHERN ALUMNUS
The 1954-55 basketball season now lies in the graveyard of other dead seasons, and Southern's epitaph might well read: "Sometimes hot, sometimes cold; sometimes timid, sometimes bold."

In the season marked by sporadic brilliance, the Salukis sometimes overcame taller teams with the greatest of ease, only to encounter nights when they couldn't whip cream.

Unfortunately, the bad nights came more frequently than the good ones. The Salukis finished the season with a 10-13 record, the worst one in a couple of decades. It was the first time in the nine years that he has been head coach that Lynn Holder has finished under the .500 mark.

In IIAC play the Salukis were third with a 6-6 record. Western Illinois won the crown with an 11-1 slate with Michigan Normal the runner-up at 7-5. Southern was the only conference team to defeat Western Illinois.

Capt. Gib Kurtz, senior from E. St. Louis, was voted the most valuable player. Kurtz was the only senior on the squad.

Kurtz set a new school individual scoring mark with 37 points against Central Michigan at Mt. Pleasant and was chosen on the second all-IIAC squad.

Gene Stotlar, former Little All-America basketball star at Southern, was named as one of the 1955 selections to the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics Basketball Hall of Fame at Los Angeles.

As a freshman guard in 1945-46, Stotlar led Southern to the league title and the NAIA championship. His play at Kansas City earned him the Chuck Taylor trophy as the most valuable player at the tourney and a berth on the first team of the Little All-America squad.

He scored 237 points during the season, 62 in the NAIA finals, to help him toward all-IIAC honors. A former Pinckneyville high star, Stotlar was named as halfback on the all-conference grid squad the two seasons he played.

After the 1946 football season he dropped athletics to concentrate on his pre-medical studies and finished his training at St. Louis University.

Now serving as a first lieutenant with the Army medical corps in Germany, Stotlar was unable to attend the presentation March 11 at the second annual NAIA awards luncheon at Kansas City.

Southern really got "in the swim" of intercollegiate athletics when coach Ed Shea launched the first swimming team in the school's history.

As far as victories were concerned, the Salukis didn't make a very big splash. They were submerged six times in as many meets.

But, considering that this was their maiden effort and that many of the team's members had never swum in competition before, the results are not discouraging. Shea, a widely-known swimming coach with a national reputation, can be expected to turn out a top-notch team in a few seasons.

Coach Jim Wilkinson's wrestling team posted their best season in Southern wrestling history with six wins, one loss, and one tie.

The grapplers had to go all the way to Indiana University of the Big 10 before they could find a team good enough to beat them. The 22-7 loss came at season's end.

Illinois Normal, the IIAC champion, tied Southern in the opening match of the season.

Southern's victory string included single wins over the powerful Ritenour YMCA of St. Louis and Western Illinois and twin killings of Great Lakes Naval Station and Eastern Illinois.

In the IIAC meet, Southern took third place behind champion Illinois Normal and runner-up Western Illinois. They also finished third in the Wheaton Invitational.

Top award-winner on the squad was John Orlando, freshman from St. Louis Ritenour high school. Orlando compiled a 12-3-1 season and collected two championship titles and one second place trophy.

A former Missouri state champion, Orlando won the 157-pound title at the IIAC meet and at the Wheaton Invitational. He finished second at the University of Illinois Invitational.

Orlando, plagued by a shoulder separation suffered in football practice, was handicapped early in the year and started slowly. After his number two showing at Illinois, he dropped a decision to Illinois Normal in the season's dual meet opener. Then he shifted into high gear and won 10 straight matches before being tumbled in his last bout with Indiana's Hoosiers.
ing narrowed the field to one, decided to say nothing further about the episode and see if the culprit could not confess. Public opinion in the Hall was very censorious about anybody who would, as someone said, "be fool enough to play a trick that would frighten everybody half to death." Two weeks went by; then Glady's "Wessi" Westwood knocked at my door, and came in, looking very shamefaced. She said: "Miss Barber, I set off the giant cracker." I answered, "Yes, I was made a sort of Mess Sergeant. I was not anxious to have the job, but President Pulliam, and Dr. R. A. Scott, Co-ordinator between the College and the Army, insisted it was my duty to feed the cadets. Of course, in some ways it was fun; I got to know many very interesting young men, and made a few lasting friends among them.

In July, 1944, the Army departed and then came the prodigious task of putting the Residence Hall back in shape for the girls. I thought we'd never get ready, but we did, after a fashion, and, in the fall they came back, very happy to return.

No reminiscences of Anthony Hall would be complete without mention of some of the girls who conquered great obstacles in order to get a college education. Wilhelmina "Billy" Poelman, '41 (now deceased), Lucille Nelles, '39, Florence Mahan, '20 (Mrs. Holland Horton, Chicago) and Peggy Logan, though completely blind, made their way through college. "Billy" went on to graduate school and eventually with the help of a seeing-eye dog became a social service worker in Chicago. But "Billy" is dead, and is greatly missed by the many who loved her. Becky Poirot, '50, proved that total deafness need not be too much of a hindrance and graduated with a fine record. Helen Blackburn, '46 (Salem, Ill.) and Vivian Lupardus, '46 (West Frankfort, Ill.) though on crutches, both did very well in college. Helen was for a time an assistant in the mathematics department at Southern. Vivian is in West Frankfort working with handicapped children and very successful in her field.

There isn't time and space to tell of the hundreds of fine young women who lived at Anthony Hall during my eleven years there. I can shut my eyes and see what a beautiful sight the girls were in their evening dresses, assembled in the dining room on state occasions, such as at our annual Thanksgiving and Christmas parties, or at a Faculty dinner. Many of them gladdened my heart by remembering me each year at Christmas time, and I am grateful to all of them for the good life we had together, and for their unfailing co-operation at all times.

to legitimate drama, offering plays six nights a week with a change of performance each time. Under the management of George T. Crump, it maintained a permanent stock company of ability presenting well known stars from time in the favorite plays of the period. Such well known players as Mr. and Miss Couldock, Fanny Brice, Ada Harris, Jennie Hight and Emma Waller appeared in such plays as Guy Mannering, The Jew of Frankfort, The Hunchback, Loan of a Lover, Lucretia Borgia, Hamlet and The Merchant of Venice. Handicapped by deep mud in the streets, defective sidewalks and at times a cold theatre, the loyal patrons overflowed. While the editors of the Gazette and of the theatrical leaflet, the War Eagle, were usually enthusiastic in their praise of the performances, they expected competent acting. On January 25, 1865, after the presentation of a benefit for Robert James, the stock company’s leading man, the editor of the Gazette took the company severely to task for not knowing their lines.

Cultural Interests

There were other evidences of cultural interests in Cairo during the Civil War. Late in February, 1861, a Mr. Griswold was operating a dancing school at Eastman Hall. He advertised that he would take a class of gentlemen at 7:30 on Thursday evening and a class for ladies and misses on Saturday afternoon at 3:00. The local editor “puffed” him as “a competent teacher and a gentleman in every respect fully worthy of patronage.” In December, 1861, the first public library was started in Cairo. The Catholic Church at that time announced that it would circulate its library of between 250 and 300 volumes for a yearly fee of $2.00 per person. The librarian was Mr. Murphy, who would issue books at 2:00 p.m. every Sunday and every Thursday at 7:30 p.m. The library had 46 volumes on historical subjects, 59 volumes of biography, 79 standard novels, 24 religious books and a number of books for children. It hoped to increase the size of its offerings as soon as possible. The Gazette closed its statement thus: “We sincerely hope that the public will make use of it.”

The topics mentioned and briefly discussed here represent only a small part of the material involved in a piece of research of this type. When the project is completed, I expect to publish my findings in one or two documentary articles which will give us more knowledge and a better understanding of the history of Cairo than we have heretofore possessed.

discussed that should be acted upon rather quickly.

Service to the Area

Perhaps one of the greatest services to the area is when interns decide to remain within the school system that sponsored their internship. When this situation occurs, it means that these interns were trained on the job for a particular position on the staff. This was the case of Mary Wilson Smith and Ray Miller when they interned in the Cape Girardeau Public Schools. Superintendent L. J. Shultz emphasized the value of this type of area service when he wrote the following statement after Mr. Miller and Mrs. Smith had completed their internship and had served an additional year as a regular staff member:

“Now that sufficient time has passed since two of our administrators completed their studies on your internship program, and they had time to demonstrate their ability by performance, I want you to know that I am more than well pleased with their work.

These persons have been trained to assume responsibility, to plan carefully their work, to understand and share the problems of their teachers, and to help them solve their problems and to cooperate wholeheartedly with the administration.

The grand success of your program is at least partially the result of your careful selection and placement of the intern, the broad and sensible program you provide, your personal interest in the success of each intern, and the wholesome cooperation you have with the administrators of the schools represented.”

The following school systems have cooperated in the program:

Sparta Elementary School; Administrator, T. Lessley Wilson; Interns, Henry Barnard, Don Lucy;

Jackson, Missouri, Elementary School; Administrator, R. O. Hawkins; Intern, Marshall Brooks;

West Frankfort High School; Administrator, L. Goebel Patton; Interns, Alan Crawford, Jackson Drake, Warren Jennings, George Sawchak, Richard Packard and Paul Beaty;

Eldorado Schools; Administrator, Ralph Slow; Interns, Ruth Grant and Mary Ann Cagle;

Cape Girardeau, Mo., Public Schools; Administrator, Louis J. Schultz; Interns, Mary W. Smith and Ray Miller;

Cisne High School; Administrator, J. O. Clemens; Interns, Herbert Thompson and Lewis Dobbs;

Norris City High School; Administrator, H. J. Phelps; Intern, Robert Barnhart;

Harrisburg Schools; Administrator, Russell Malan; Interns, Ronald Darnell, Harry Lewis and Robert Schmatz;

Cartherville High School; Administrator, W. S. B. Dean; Intern, John Ramey;

Marion Schools; Administrator, William Bundy; Interns, Helen Richey, Robert Sulcer and James Parker;

Murphysboro Jr. High School; Administrator, W. H. Carruthers; Interns, Pat Kelly and Gaydon Brandt;

Carbondale University School; Administrator, John D. Mees; Intern, Charles Thate;

Waltonville High School; Administrator, Dale Alcorn; Intern, Edward Kownacki;
OLD Main wasn't too old—just 19 years—when the class of '05 walked through its doors as undergraduates for the last time.

Through the years, Old Main has taken on a time-worn and weather-beaten appearance while the '05 alums have scattered like petals in the breeze. Although the alums have scattered, they'll find that when they gather June 11 for their 50th class reunion, Old Main hasn't lost an inch.

Here is what the '05 graduates have been doing in the past 50 years:

- Mrs. C. M. Thompson (Pearl McCarthy) is children's librarian at Carbondale, Ill., city library. An English major, she has also attended the University of Chicago.
- She has also been a teacher and office worker. Her two children, Helen and Alice, attended Southern. She lives at 413 W. Main St.
- Mrs. Bennett Alvis (Letty Hughes) lives at 7011 Washington Ave., St. Louis, Mo. She has been a secretary for the past 10 years and also been a teacher. Her daughter, Lillian Alvis, also attended Southern.
- Lena Burgess Gunn, a former teacher, lives at 10 N. E. 48th St., Miami, Fla.
- Mrs. W. A. Beeter (Hazel Smith) lives at 3239 Clinton St., Berwyn, Ill., member of the Socratic Literary Society at Southern, she taught in Danville, Ill., for two years and in Carbondale for one year. She has lived in Berwyn for 47 years.
- Dr. Claude LaRue has been practicing medicine since 1910. He has attended St. Louis and Boston Universities. He also has special certificates in eye, ear, nose and throat treatment from Harvard Medical School. He lives at 620 Wilder Place, Shreveport, La.
- Mrs. Anna Pickles Brownlee, who lives at 512 Morgan St., Anna, Ill., has taught in Illinois, Tennessee, Wyoming and Arizona. She has studied at the University of Chicago and Arizona Teachers College. Her daughter has a master's degree from Columbia University.
- Mrs. Flia Jane Pickles Sanders has taught 50 years in Anna-Jonesboro. She has attended the Universities of Chicago, Illinois and Colorado. She writes that her greatest honor came when she was invited to ride in the Anna centennial parade with Frank Willard, the creator of "Moon Mullins." She lives at 512 Morgan St., Anna.
- Mrs. Edith Entsminger Miller lives at 804 W. Pecan St., Carbondale, Ill. One of her grand-children, Everett Miller, is now attending Southern.
- Cloyd C. Hall is a retired high school principal living at 1613 Idaho Ave., Santa Monica, Calif. He has a master's degree from Southern California.
- Mr. and Mrs. Roy Vail Jordan (Grace Brandon) live at 323 W. Walnut St., Carbondale, Ill. He is Professor Emeritus of education at Southern. He has held several offices in Illinois teachers' organizations, and he received a citation for meritorious service in selling defense bonds from the Secretary of the Treasury.
- Mrs. Jordan has been active in women's club and church work.
- Mrs. Charles A. Gullett (Ruby Ether eton) recalls the graduation exercises of '05 in which Pearl McCarthy Thompson, Leona Etherton Dippel and she sang "The Blue Danube." Edith Entsminger Miller sang a solo, and John Stevenson gave a demonstration of radio. Mrs. Gullett lives at 805 S. Monroe St., Decatur, Ill.
- Dr. Lewis M. Webb, '18, Richmond Heights, Mo., is a surgeon and president of the staff of the Evangelical Deaconess Hospital, St. Louis.
- Harley Harris, '07, 111 Pine St., Manistee, Mich., is superintendent of the Manistee Iron Works.
- Rolla E. Hillier, '13, St. Petersburg, Fla., is pastor of a Methodist church there.
- Mrs. James W. Baston (Clara Barth), '09, is a housewife and living at 804 N. 41st St., E. St. Louis, Ill.
- Roy Vail Jordan (Grace Brandon) graduated from Southern in 1929 and has been a teacher since then. He is now attending Southern.
- Mrs. Jordan has been active in women's club and church work.
- In 1920-1924
- Capt. Julia Mikals, '24, is a physical therapist for the Air Force. Her address is PO Box 318, Sarasota, Fla.
- Mrs. William A. Howard (Vester Bostick), '26, writes that she is a substitute teacher in Sparta, Ill. Her address is 804 W. Pecan St., Carbondale, Ill. She has been a teacher for the past 25 years:
- Mrs. Samuel H. Rife (Laura Miflord), '26, manages a Carbondale lumber yard. He and his wife (Anna Meininger), '29, live at 409 Beveridge.
- Mrs. Lorena Webster, '25, 2112 Division St., Murphysboro, Ill., is teaching at De Soto, III.
- Mrs. William A. Howard (Vester Bostick), '26, writes that she is a substitute teacher in Sparta, Ill. Her address is 804 W. Pecan St., Carbondale, Ill. She has been a teacher for the past 25 years:
- Mrs. Samuel H. Rife (Laura Miflord), '26, manages a Carbondale lumber yard. He and his wife (Anna Meininger), '29, live at 409 Beveridge.
- Mrs. Lorena Webster, '25, 2112 Division St., Murphysboro, Ill., is teaching at De Soto, III.

seven great-grandchildren.

Mitchell, who has always been active in the Mt. Carmel Methodist Church, was president of the Epworth League for many years. He was Sunday School superintendent for 33 years and a delegate to the General Conference of the Methodist Church eight times.

He was also a delegate to the national Republican convention in 1928 that nominated Herbert Hoover for the presidency.

Retired from business for five years, Mitchell enjoys reading, television, and visiting with friends. He rarely misses a morning church service.

Mitchell lives at 323 E. Fifth St., Mt. Carmel, Ill.

J. M. Mitchell, ex '80 have all attended Southern. Dean lives at 422 James St., Carterville.

Mrs. Vivian Randolph Reeves has been teaching in the Harrisburg, Ill., city schools for 18 years. She lives at 1301 Walnut St., Eldorado.

Zetta Kelley Lee is an art instructor in West Frankfort, Ill., schools. She has traveled extensively in the United States and Mexico. Her address is 905 W. Chestnut St.

Hubert L. Gibbs is principal of Farmersville, Ill., high school. His two children, Barbara and Donald, have attended Southern.

Mrs. Thomas Newton (Ruth Rachel Berry) teaches English at Riverside, Ill., junior high school. A member of Delta Sigma Epsilon sorority, she was vice-president of the junior class, senior representative to the student council and a member of the Obersell staff. She lives at 114 Lincoln Ave.

Thomas Newton teaches social studies at Riverside. Captain of the football team in 1929 and a four-year letterman, he was line coach in 1930 when Southern won the Little Nine-teen championship.

Mrs. K. L. Hamlin (Letha Lorene Kerley) lives at 3401 Bancroft Dr., Spring Valley, Calif. She is a book-keeper-secretary.

Mrs. Everett Tennyson (Alberta Mitchell) is a housewife in McLeansboro, Ill. She taught for 16 years and has traveled extensively in the United States.

W. Raymond Etherton lives at 2022 Center St., Northbork, Ill. He is Cook County assistant superintendent of schools. He also teaches in the educa-tion department at Batar College, Lake Forest. At Southern he was a member of many organizations, including the Zetetic Society, Agriculture Club and Strat and Fret Dramatic Club.

Mrs. Charles E. Nelson (Alma Forbes) teaches in Peoria, Ill. She lives at 521 S. Sixth St., Chillicothe. Mrs. William Parks (Ethel Pease) is a housewife at 1725 N. 19th St., Grand Junction, Colo. She formerly taught school.

Dr. Roye Bryant is director of placements and an associate professor of education at Southern. As a student he was editor of the Egyptian and president of the Socratic Literary Society and the Forum Debating Club.

Mrs. Dewey Horrell (Ruth William-son) lives at 1721 E. Poplar St., West Frankfort, Ill. She teaches the third grade in West Frankfort city schools.

Mrs. Catherine McElvain teaches in Murphysboro, Ill. She has been a private art teacher. At Southern she was one of the art editors of the Obelisk.

Mrs. Joe Lushene (Martha Lillard) is a housewife at 841 Windsor Ave., Chicago, Ill. She has done clerical and office work.

Mrs. Ray Harris (Aurelia Davis) lives at 130 N. Hampton St., Roch-mont, Ga.

Mrs. Clara Berber Diers is a hardware retailer in Murphysboro, Ill. Her son, John Henry Diers, is now attending Southern. In 1947 she was president of the Women's Athletic Association and received letters in all sports. She taught school in Carbon­dale, Streator, Murphysboro, Eldorado, and Evanston, Ind. She lives at 801 North St.

Mrs. Paul Whitfield (Helen Armes) is secretary to the chief of the Neuro-psychiatric Service, Veterans' Admin­istration Hospital, Jackson, Miss. For awhile she was chief of educational therapy at the same hospital. At Southern she was a charter member of Delta Sigma Epsilon sorority. She lives in Pocahontas, Miss.

Ruth Moore lives in Havana, Fla., where she is a Bible teacher in the public school. She taught in Illinois public schools for six years and has traveled in Europe, Africa and Pales­tine.

Mamie Rexer teaches at Vienna, Ill., high school. Previously she taught at Go­conda high school. At Southern she was a member of the Socratic Society, YWCA, and the Latin Club.

N. Norwood Adams is an astronomer at the U. S. Naval Observatory. He has been a grade and high school teacher. He lives at 6817-19th Road N., Arlington 13, Va.

Cora Rathert teaches elementary school in Ava, Ill.

Mrs. Ruel D. Hartwell (Judith Han-cok) is a civilian employe for the Navy. She has been a teacher and office manager. She lives at 2929 Wychwood Lane, Waukegan, Ill.

Mrs. Georgia Lorene Weaver Davis, who lives at 104 Highmoo Ave., Anna, Ill., is a senior visitor for the Illinois Public Aid Commission. She has been a teacher and deputy tax collector.

Mrs. C. E. Kiefer (Lylinda Fox) re­sides at 802 Chautauqua, Carbondale, Ill. Now a housewife, she has taught elementary and college art. Her son, an eighth grader at University school,
James E. Miller, '85, who has outlived all the other graduates of Southern, vividly remembers the fire that destroyed Old Main in 1883. Now 90 years old, Miller calls the fire "one of my greatest experiences." Old Main at that time was virtually the whole college, and classes were held in vacant rooms downtown and wherever space was available. Graduation ceremonies were conducted in a tent. Miller terms the whole affair "not quite a circus but sometimes a little strange."

"I had many profitable and some amusing experiences with my teachers and with my fellow students," Miller writes. Among the instructors Miller recalls are Dr. Robert Allyn, president of the college; Miss Martha Buck, grammar teacher who taught "with her own book and her own style"; and James Brownlee, "a delightful and companionable soul who recited poetry."

Miller remembers two students that achieved fame: Joseph B. Gill became lieutenant governor of Illinois, and Louis Beaucamp became a noted engineer with the Santa Fe and Missouri Pacific railroads. In World War I he was appointed territorial governor of Alaska.

There were four men and six women in Miller's class. "All of the girls were beautiful, talented and in every way attractive." Miller remembers.

Miller was born November 21, 1864, on a farm near Caseyville, Ill. His father was a member of the Illinois legislature from 1869 to 1872. As chairman of the house committee on education, he supported the bill that created a state university out of the agricultural college at Champaign.

Miller attended Caseyville grade school, studying such things as algebra, philosophy, grammar, botany and physiology. When he was 15 years old, his father bought him a suit to St. Louis and sent him to Southern.

After graduation, Miller taught school for 55 years. As superintendent of the E. St. Louis, Ill., schools, he introduced manual arts, taught the first salary schedule and teacher conferences and exacted compulsory student attendance. He was public librarian for two years and installed a children's department with suitable books and a director of child reading.

At one time Miller was a student of William James, and he is a good friend of famous poets Carl Sandburg and Edwin Markham.

In 1905 Miller was married to Lily Coulter, whose family was related to John Coulter of Lewis and Clark fame of 1804. Coulter discovered the unusual springs, pools and geysers in 1807 that is now Yellowstone National Park.

Miller has had a position with the U. S. District Court for the past 12 years. He also does some farming, "I have known all of the presidents of Southern," Miller writes, "and have been able to call my friends so many of the fine souls who labored there."

The Millers have one daughter. Miller makes his home at 3047 Aubudon, East St. Louis, Ill., lives at 308 Barber St., West Chicago, III. She is director of a nursery school.

Marvin Muckelroy is a chemist in Carbondale, Ill. He lives at 409 W. Main St. His two children, Benny and Marilyn, have attended Southern.

Mrs. Clyde Winkler (Elma Spiller) is a housewife at 1004 E. Elizabeth St., Carbondale, Ill. At Southern she was a member of Delta Sigma Epsilon sorority. Her son, Ralph, is now attending Southern.

When Samuel Franklin, ’20, undertakes a project, he often hurdles barriers that would be insurmountable to other men. Now 87 years old and with defective eyesight, he recently took an active part in the construction of a four-room house.

Franklin, a retired teacher, has built more than 20 houses in his lifetime. “They kept me out of mischief when I wasn’t teaching school,” he explains.

House-building, however, is one of Franklin’s minor accomplishments. He is proudest of the fact that he earned his diploma from Southern when he was 53 years old.

Franklin taught for almost 10 years before he came to Southern. Farming had been his occupation until his wife and William Johnson, Clinton County, Ill., superintendent of schools, encouraged him to study and take an examination for a teacher’s certificate.

After obtaining his certificate he taught first at Dorsey, Ill., and then at Madison. Fourteen years of teaching in country schools followed before he decided to attend Southern.

The effects of an injury incurred while teaching at Madison made studying very difficult. In a fall from a high scaffold, Franklin suffered broken ribs and a head injury that impaired his powers of concentration and memory. It was quite a struggle for him to remember what he read in text books, but after many long exhausting sessions with his books, he re-developed his memory.

After graduation he taught manual training and mechanical drawing at West Frankfort, Ill., high school.

Samuel Franklin, ’20

From there he went to Creal Springs where he was superintendent of schools.

Franklin returned to Madison county and taught for several years in city and country schools. He was the first to teach manual training in the county, while teaching in the town of Madison.

After 50 years of teaching, Franklin’s eyes finally grew too weak and he retired at the age of 87.

Mr. and Mrs. Franklin have five children and 18 grandchildren. He and his wife live at 421 Monroe Ave., East Alton.

In A. Wayne Randolph, '39, American families in Maracaibo, Venezuela, have a sort of educational insurance for their children. As Director of Education for American Schools in Maracaibo, it is Randolph's job to insure American children an education comparable to that which they would receive in the United States.

Elected to the position in 1954, Randolph is also a consultant for other schools in Venezuela.

Randolph, an experienced educator long before he received his Bachelor's degree, entered Southern in 1930 after graduating from Golconda (Ill.) high school. Most of his degree was earned in summer sessions while he taught during the school terms. When he received his degree in 1939, he already had nine years of valuable teaching experience.

While teaching in Pope County from 1931 to 1935, Randolph was secretary of the county teacher's association and held several offices in the township and sectional organizations of teachers.

In 1935 he began a five year period of teaching in Monroe county. During that time he was a committee member to administer objective tests to all eighth grade graduates of the county.

The first president of the Southern Illinois chapter of the American Dairy Girls, Randolph also served as secretary and treasurer there. In 1939 he was elected president of the Rural Teachers' Association of Illinois.

Moving to the nationally known "Child City" at Mooseheart, Illinois, in 1940, Randolph was head of the social studies department, assistant principal and assistant dean of boys.

In 1943 Uncle Sam beckoned, and Randolph went to the Navy, where he served as an officer in charge of three refresher schools and wrote a course of study which was adopted for this type of training. Later he became the Educational Officer for the Receiving Station at Norfolk, Virginia.

In 1946 he returned to civilian life and Mooseheart high school. In 1949 he was appointed Superintendent of Schools, Community Unit 306, Douglas County, Illinois.

From 1952 until he was elected to his present position, Randolph served as administrative assistant to the Director of Teacher Training and Laboratory Schools at the University of Wisconsin. He was also a member of the High School Relations Committee and Accrediting Team.

Randolph has done graduate study at the University of Colorado, Ohio State, Washington University (St. Louis), and the University of Wisconsin.

Randolph, an active leader of Boy Scouts for the past fourteen years, is a member and immediate past president of Phi Chapter of Phi Delta Kappa. While at Southern, he was a member of the Agriculture club and Kappa Phi Kappa fraternity.

His wife is the former Melva Stieg, ex '37; she and their two sons, Robert, 10, and Stanley, 8, are in Maracaibo.

Arthur E. Abney, '46, in an atmospheric sense—is in “high” society for he is the director of the Department of Aeronautics of Illinois. Abney was appointed to the post in September, 1954.

Not a fledgling in the flying business, Abney piloted Navy planes from 1942 to December, 1945, after taking flight training through Southern’s Civilian Pilot Training program. He first enrolled at Southern in 1938. After time-out for war duties, he completed requirements for a Bachelor of Science degree in education in 1946.

Abney was with the Air Traffic Control division of the Civil Aeronautics Administration from 1946 until entering Lincoln College of Law, Springfield, Ill., in 1947. While working toward a law degree, he was employed in 1947-48 by the Legal Division, Illinois Service Recognition Board, and in 1948 he started as a pilot with the Department of Aeronautics. Elevated to assistant director of the department in March, 1950, he was graduated from Lincoln and admitted to the Illinois Bar Association in 1951.

A member of the Springfield law firm of Douglas and Wilson, Abney is assistant director of civil defense for Sangamon County. He is a member of the Illinois Bar Association, Sangamon County Bar Association, Junior Chamber of Commerce, Naval Reserve, and Reserve Officers Association.

Abney married Helen Fetzer, a Springfield girl, in 1945, and they have two boys, ages five and six. While at Southern, Abney was a member of Kappa Delta Alpha fraternity and the Camera Club. He organized the Flying Egyptians, a group of 35 Southern boys who bid farewell to college joys and entered the Naval Air Cadet program in 1942. He worked in the library during his entire time at Southern, and taught in Saline County before entering service.

Abney writes that he has “a very fond memory of Carter’s and a warm spot in my heart for the Delta Sigas, Tri Sigis, and the girls over at Anthony Hall.”

Carl Lutes, '48, first flutist for the world renowned Longines Symphonette, has the distinctive honor of being the featured soloist on transcontinental tours. Pianists and violinists are usually preferred as soloists instead of wind instrumentalists.

Lutes began playing the flute when he was ten years old. Since he had a comprehensive education in music when he enlisted at Southern in 1944, he decided to major in English. He completed his freshman year before he joined the Navy.

After two years with the fleet, he returned to Southern and received his degree in 1948. Besides practicing the flute four hours a day and the piano one hour, carrying a full academic load, and working part-time in the library, he still found time for the university orchestra, chorus, French Club, and Sigma Tau Delta, honorary English fraternity.

After graduation Lutes taught English and music for a year at Christopher (III.) high school, where he was a former pupil.

In 1949 Lutes went to Paris to pursue his musical training at the National Conservatory of Paris and the Sorbonne.

After two years abroad Lutes returned to Columbia University and received his Master's degree. A week after graduation he joined the Longines Symphonette.

Commonly known as a radio announcer, the Longines Symphonette broadcasts weekly over CBS to a national audience.

Besides music, Lutes has a wide range of interests, including literature, study of languages, cinematography, swimming, traveling, and sampling any new cuisine he can find. His home address is:

Anne, on January 25.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Cundiff (Anne O'Rourke, '44)
2500 So. Birch St.

Alhambra, Calif.

Enclosed are my alumni dues for the present year, which have been delinquent since January.

To bring the alumni records up to date, I am currently employed as a research mechanical engineer at the missile division of North American Aviation, Downey, California. For five years previous I was a research engineer in hydrodynamics for California Institute of Technology.

My home is at 2308 South Roark in Alhambra. There are at present two children, Tommy and Timmy, 4½ and 8½, with a new arrival expected in July.

Sincerely,
Marshall E. Stelzriede, '41
2308 So. Roark Dr.

Fresno, Calif.

I do not deserve to have you keep me on the mailing list but I appreciate it. I have lived in Fresno for over thirty years, raised two children—both married and my daughter has four children, my son three. That gives me a grand alibi for doing nothing about all the notices, etc., concerning the progress of SIU.

I am enclosing $2 for a membership for my sister, Mrs. Colton Womslee, '06, of Phoenix.

Thanking you for your perseverance. I am

Sincerely,
Alma Appel O'Hara, '14

Tyndall A.F.B., Fla.

My address has been changed since being sent to jet interception school here in sunny Florida. Really appreciate the paper and other publications.

Sincerely,
2/Lt. Charles C. Hines, '54
Box 282, 3627 Student Officer Sq.

Paducah, Ky.

Our address is correct on your mailing list, but our new 4-bedroom home (our pride and joy) will be finished in a couple of weeks, and our address will be, 2211 Nathchez Lane, Paducah, Ky.

I do look forward to the alumni papers, and would be lost without them, it is the only way I can keep up with all my friends.

Oh yes, we are also proud of our boys, J. Carlton, 25 month, and David Alan, 7 months.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Graydon East,

Enclosed you will find a check for $3 in full payment of one year's dues to the Alumni Association for my husband, ex '51, and I.

My husband is working at Chevrolet as an order picker in the Parts Department. I am teaching my second year at Berkeley high school as a commerce teacher after teaching 5 years in Sesser.

My sister, Mrs. Robert Carter (Mary Lou Pinkham, '48) is also teaching Physical Education and Commerce at Berkeley high school. Her husband works for TWA Airlines.

Another graduate of 1948 is also teaching at Berkeley high school. Miss Nedra Reames is teaching social studies.

We have a new Senior high school and were able to move into it during Christmas vacation. We are all very happy teaching here.

I hope this information will be of help to you.

Yours very truly,
Mrs. Gene Linn
(Emma Pinkham, '48)
6031 Berkeley Drive

Mascoutah, Ill.

My husband, Russell W. King, '51, and I (Ruth Young, '52), enjoyed especially the last Alumnus and were pleased to read news of many of our college friends. We are looking forward to your future publications.

In addition to his work at Scott Field Air Force Base as Educational Specialist, my husband is now a part-time insurance representative for American Farmers Mutual Insurance Company.

We have two children; they are Rebecca Ruth "Becky", two and one-half years old, and Steven Wayne, seven months old.

Sincerely yours,
Mrs. Russell W. King,
