Alton, Ill.
Enclosed is our check for three dollars for our alumni dues for another year.
I believe the question is usually asked each year at renewal time if there is anything new. This year there is. My husband, Dr. Robert William Lewis (1940), has been promoted by the Shell Oil Company at Wood River. May 1st he became head of the Experimental Laboratory in the refinery. His former position was group leader in the chemical section of the Research Lab.

Enclosed you will find a booklet announcing the opening of our new home office building which might be of interest to you or students wishing to locate in the southwest after completion of their studies at SIU.
El Paso Natural Gas Company is an excellent company to work for. I am employed as a gas accountant in the Gas Purchase Accounting Section of the Gas accounting division of the Accounting Department.
I am now married with a little boy 17 months old and we make our home in El Paso. We have another Southern alumnus in El Paso, Kenny McGuire (1940) is the new head coach at our newest high school, Burgess High School. Last year he was assistant coach at El Paso high school.

Probably no couple is more familiar to the great majority of Southern alumni than Dean and Mrs. E. G. Lentz, pictured at the Alumni Reunion Banquet.

Lentz first came to Southern in 1914 as an instructor in history. During the years he has faithfully served the University as teacher of history, dean of men, executive assistant in education and administration, acting director of the Alumni Service and University Professor.

Lentz, now professor emeritus, spends his leisure hours in writing and wood carving. The still handsome and genial couple are at home at 520 So. University Ave., Carbondale. (Photo by Charles Todd, Civil Service employee of the SIU Photographic Service).

Richard D. Lane

Lane, SIU adjunct professor, first came to the Carbondale Forest Research Center in January, 1947, from the Ames Research Center at Ames, Iowa.

Originally from Zanesville, Ohio, Lane has had most of his working experience with the U. S. Forest Service. He has worked also with the Soil Conservation Service and the National Park Service. Lane holds a master's degree from Iowa State College.

Noble H. Kelley

Noble H. Kelley is chairman of the psychology department. A former professor at the University of Louisville, Kelley joined the SIU faculty in the fall of 1951.

Kelley received his Ph.D. from the State University of Iowa. He is secretary-treasurer of the American Board of Examiners in Professional Psychology.

works to revitalize the lagging forest economy of Southern Illinois

By Richard D. Lane

The cry of TIMBER-R-R! rang clear and loud over the hills and across the valleys of southern Illinois at the turn of the century. This warning cry, so common in timber cutting operations, has gradually faded to mere echoes of the past. But, there are many reasons to believe it will be revived again and be recognized as symbolic of better things for southern Illinois. We still have the basic forest resources, and we have several forestry programs aimed at revitalizing our lagging forest economy.

The Forest Resource
During 1948 and 1949 the Forest Service, with the help of the State, inventoried the timber supply in Illinois. They found that the southern 16 counties had 1,042,000 acres of forests. Studies made of others indicate that these counties contain an additional 750,000 acres of wild land that is probably best suited to growing timber. All together this land makes up 45 per cent of the total area in the 16 southern counties. Here are some additional facts brought out by the inventory:

1. Approximately 85 per cent of the forest land is privately owned. The remainder is in public ownership such as the Union County State Forest, the Shawnee National Forest and the Crab Orchard Refuge.

2. The forests contain 2,691,000,000 board-feet of sawtimber. If of the right species and grade, this would be enough timber to construct 250,000 modern frame homes.

3. Annual sawtimber growth is 103,000,000 board-feet while annual drain is 57,000,000 feet—we are using just over one-half the annual growth.

We may rightly conclude from these few facts that our forest resources are important to our economy and can be the basis for a larger forest industry. However, we must recognize that some handicaps exist. For example, practically all of our timber is hardwood and much of it is low quality. These two conditions, common throughout much of eastern United States, restrict somewhat how we can use our timber. Further, we need to know more about how to grow more and better timber and to get more efficient, complete timber utilization. Recognition of the inherent value of southern Illinois' forests and the need for information on how to protect, grow, and utilize them more fully led to establishment of the Forest Service reforest industries and; (3) finding more efficient, profitable ways to market forest products.

The Carbondale Research Center's objective is to serve the people of southern Illinois and similar adjacent areas by determining and demonstrating how best to protect, grow, and use the forest resource. The Station's policy has always been to integrate its program with other forestry interests, both public and private, and to gear its research to local problems. As a result, much of the research completed or in progress has been done in cooperation with state, other federal, and private interests.

The University-Research Center Team

During 1950 a series of conferences was held between President D. W. Morris and others of the University and members of the Center staff. These exploratory discussions unearthed many common objectives and developed numerous possibilities for better service to southern Illinois through cooperative efforts. This was the beginning of the University-Research Center team and resulted in moving the Center's headquarters to the campus. At first, the team had only a few members and faced a tough schedule. The schedule still is tough; but the team has been strengthened by both the University and the Center. The first cooperative research project was with the Agriculture department. Currently, research is underway between several University divisions and the Center.

School of Rural Studies

Dr. W. E. Keeper, head of the School, and Mr. John F. Hosner, Instructor, are working with Dr. L. S. Minckler, Mr. G. H. Deitschman and others at the Center to develop and demonstrate methods that will improve production of forest crops. Their joint studies include: management of pine plantations; possibilities of planting pine hybrids in southern Illinois; management of small tracts of native hardwoods, such as farm woodlands; methods for cutting native hardwoods to obtain adequate and desirable natural reproduction; and other similar studies. Parts of the Kaskaskia Experimental Forest have been set aside for the University's use in these studies. The Forest also is used by the University for student training.

Two years ago the School of Rural Studies and the Center, in cooperation with the University of Illinois, the State Extension Service, the Illinois Agriculture Association, the Illinois Division of Forestry, and others held the first Farm Forestry Field Day in this area. A second Field Day was held last fall and others are planned for the future. These public demonstrations are held to help farm woodland owners, farm and community leaders, sawmillers, and others become acquainted with the newest developments in forestry at the Kaskaskia Experimental Forest.

Botany Department

In southern Illinois, as well as in other sections of the United States, cottonwood is one of the more important species in the bottomland hardwood forests. Several industries prefer it for containers, boxes, crates, other kinds of containers, veneers for plywood, kite sticks, and construction lumber. Nine plants in or near this area produce veneers for containers, using approximately 10 million board-feet of southern Illinois timber annually. Most of this is cottonwood. These industries are forced to throw away or relegate to less valuable uses any of the partially processed wood that contains an abnormal structure known as gelatinous fibers. This amounts to a significant volume.

The Botany department and the Center, in collaboration with the Forest Products Laboratory at Madison, Wisconsin, are studying the abundance, distribution, and location of these fibers in cottonwood trees. Dr. Walter B. Welch, chairman of the department and Dr. Margaret Kaeser, associate professor, are conducting the investigations. The information they obtain will be related to visible characteristics of trees and logs so that the "bad" trees can be identified in the woods.

Technical and Adult Education

Dr. E. J. Simon, Dean, and Mr. W. W. Rice, instructor (employed jointly by the University and the Station), of the University, and Mr. David E. Herrick, of the Center, are organizing a research and training program directed toward expanding local forest industries. This program will be concentrated at the jointly financed and operated wood utilization pilot plant located on the Southern Acres campus. Construction of the pilot plant is expected to be far enough along by this fall to permit class work and some research to begin. Recently, the Woods Charitable Fund, Incorporated, Chicago, established a cooperative fund to aid the Station in this research program in southern Illinois.

Several research projects already are in progress. In one of these, the adaptability of locally grown hickory for use as seats in outdoor stadiums is being tested. Hickory lumber for these tests was produced at the Kaskaskia Experimental Forest, cut into slats at the University's Physical Plant, treated at the Forest Products Laboratory, and then installed in McAndrew Stadium. A second study, made at the forest in 1953, was conducted to determine the relative costs of moving logs from upland hardwood forests by three sizes of tractors and several methods. Field work has been completed and the data are being compiled and analyzed for publication. The Caterpillar Tractor Company, Hyster Company, Fabick Machinery Company, and others assisted the University and the Station in this study.

In addition to the specific projects just described, the University-Research Center team has been given real assistance by several other University offices. These include Area Services, Information Service, Statistical (Continued to page 18)
Showers throughout the day fail to dampen spirit of Alumni for Reunion Day, June 11

Governor and Mrs. William G. Stratton and SIU President and Mrs. D. W. Morris exchange greetings beneath their umbrellas as showers greeted alumni and guests returning for reunions.

Some 325 alumni and guests attended the Alumni Reunion Banquet

Aubrey J. Holmes, '35, Springfield, was elected president of the SIU Alumni Association at its annual Reunion day meeting on June 11. Holmes, past 1st vice president of the association, is executive director of the Illinois Teachers Retirement System. Other officers elected were: Dr. Guy Lambert, '33, West Frankfort, 1st vice president; and Donald L. Bryant, '40, Ladue, Mo., 2nd vice president. William T. Davis, ex '32, Carbondale, was reelected treasurer. Mrs. Elizabeth Harris Lewis, '32, serves as corresponding secretary.

In other business the Board voted approval of the Alumni Saluki Award which will give assistance to athletes. A committee, headed by Dr. Lambert, will be meeting throughout the summer to establish a method of procedure for securing funds for the award. The Board also heard a progress report on the Student Union Building Fund program.

The Legislative Council met on the afternoon of the 11th. The Council heard annual reports by past alumni president Ed Curtis, director Robert Odanell, and treasurer William T. Davis.

The Council also elected three new members to the Alumni Board of Directors to fill the expired terms of R. E. Muckelroy, '03; William Price, '48, and Guy Gladson, '10. Those persons elected were: Donald L. Bryant, '40; Mrs. Ruth Keith Throgmorton, '22, and Paul F. McRoy, '34.

Earlier in the day Governor William G. Stratton spoke briefly at the laying of the cornerstone of Southern's new library. Members of the Alumni Board of Directors and Legislative Council were guests at the library luncheon honoring Governor and Mrs. Stratton.

The Department of Psychology is relatively new at Southern Illinois University. A limited number of courses have been offered for some time in the College of Education. Consistent with the general growth of the University, a new all-university department was activated in September, 1951, in the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences, with the appointment of Dr. Noble H. Kelley as chairman. In September, 1952, additional appointments were made to the staff, and for the first time a regular schedule of courses was offered.

In addition to its instructional program and the conduct of research, the Department of Psychology offers a program of psychological services. The activities of the Psychological Services Center include Psychological Counseling, Play Therapy, Psychodiagnostic Appraisal, a consulting service to community groups on psychological problems, and a consulting service in Industrial Psychology to industrial management, labor executives, and business organizations. These services are offered on invitation and are given without charge as part of the University’s program of services to the communities of Southern Illinois.

Services in psychological counseling, psychodiagnostic appraisal, and play therapy are offered by professional clinical psychologists whose educational training and supervised experience in internship meet the standards of the American Psychological Association. Psychological counseling involves a series of interviews with students who are perplexed, worried, and confused in the conduct of their everyday living. The purpose of this professional counseling is directed toward better understanding of self and more effective life adjustment.

Play therapy is offered to children who are too young to utilize the personal and conversational type of interview. Many of the children served are referred by the Speech Therapy Center on the campus.

A psychodiagnostic service, including intellectual assessment and comprehensive personality appraisal, is available. Psychological examination is utilized in connection with the regular clinical counseling program and the program of play therapy with children. This service is available also to other professional persons and to agencies and institutions in southern Illinois.

The staff of the Department of Psychology is available for consulting service to institutions, agencies, and community groups on the psychological aspects of personal and social relationships. Adult study and discussion programs may be arranged at the convenience of interested persons. Forums on the psychology of human relationships are conducted by staff psychologists for schools, churches, clubs, and other community organizations. These forums include the use of films and one-act plays, followed by group discussion under the direction of a psychologist.

In Industrial Psychology, a consulting service is offered to business and industrial firms on problems of selection and placement, safety and accidents, supervision and training, attitudes and morale, and other areas where psychological factors are related to work satisfaction and efficiency. A series of sessions are held with a group of union executives and also with a group of industrial leaders for the purpose of improving human relations in the productive work situation. Each summer, in cooperation with the Area Services Office and the Division of Extension, a special conference on industrial psychological problems has been held on the campus for interested persons. Invited specialists from other states have participated in and contributed to the success of these conferences.

An increasing acceptance of psychological services accompanies a more wide spread recognition that psychological problems exist in all forms of human relationships, ranging from the personal life of the individual to the complex group life of an organization. Each year an increasing number of clients, both individual and group, voluntarily seek assistance in the solution of their problems. The Psychological Services in the Department of Psychology are under the supervision of a Diplomate of the American Board of Examiners in Professional Psychology. All relationships between clients and the professional staff are of a confidential nature and this confidence is always respected.
Largest Class In History Is Graduated

More than 480 students received degrees at Southern's 80th annual commencement exercises on June 12. This was the largest graduating class in the history of the University; the previous record number of degrees was 396 in 1950.

Mark Van Doren, poet, novelist, essayist and winner of a Pulitzer Price, was the commencement speaker. He has authored or edited more than 50 volumes, and has been a professor of English at Columbia University since 1942.

Some 330 students received bachelor's degrees and 82, master's degrees. Among the graduates were 62 candidates for associate degrees in business or technology offered by the Technical and Adult Education Division. For the first time, these students received degrees for completing two-year terminal programs at the same ceremonies where four-year and advanced degrees were awarded.

For the first time, too, a Certificate of Specialist degree was awarded for completion of one year of studies beyond the master's degree. The first candidate was Lloyd D. Bauersachs of Campbell Hill.

MUSEUM MOVES

Remodeling of a former gymnasium space in Altgeld Hall, second oldest building on the campus, is underway for use by the SIU Museum.

The area has been partially in use as a museum annex for the past two years. J. Charles Kelley, museum director, says the present Museum quarters on the third floor of Parkinson Laboratory building will be vacated at a later date to provide more space for the science departments. The former Altgeld Hall gymnasium will become an exhibit area for the Museum.

Summer Enrollment Hits New Peak

A record 2501 students were registered at Southern's summer session midway through the first week of the term.

They were among the last students who were able to enroll under the current tuition rates. A new tuition schedule, approved by the board of trustees last November will go into effect with the beginning of the fall term.

Registrar Robert A. McGrath expected additional students to sign up for summer classes before late registration ended. Others will not be on campus until workshops on Counseling the Handicapped and in other fields start.

McGrath compared the 2501 figure as of June 23 with a total enrollment of 2310 last summer. It included 369 freshmen, 435 sophomores, 485 juniors, 482 seniors, 446 graduate students, 111 unclassified students, and 173 in the Vocational-Technical Institute.

More than 98 per cent of the students already enrolled for the summer are Illinois residents.

Summer Camp Opened At Grassy

Southern's annual summer camping program opened at Little Grassy lake on June 20 with a two-week counsellor's training course.

Pupils from area schools are now participating in the program as campers at a six-weeks program for groups of elementary school children between the ages of nine and 13.

The camp is divided into two programs—one for girls directed by Ruth Schmatz, Harrisburg teacher; and the other for boys conducted by James Wilkinson of the men's physical education department. Robert Franz of the department is in charge of all water activities. Dr. William Freeberg, chairman of the recreation and outdoor education department, is camp director.

Each camp program is offering swimming, canoeing, archery, riflery, firemaking, cookouts, hiking, overnight trips, nature study, fishing, handicrafts, and campfire programs.
Point Construction
To Start Soon

As soon as the state 1955-57 biennium appropriations are released after July 1, construction is expected to be started on four residence halls, a dining hall-student services building and an agriculture building on Southern’s campus, according to Charles Pulley, University architect.

State funds will be supplemented by bond issues permissible under a self-liquidating program for residence hall construction.

The proposed residence halls and dining facilities comprise the first stage of development for a 24-acre Thompson’s Point housing area lying between two necks on the north side of Thompson’s Lake southwest of the current campus area. The first stage development will be in the east portion of the Point.

Each of the proposed four residence halls will contain 28,750 square feet of floor space and will have three floors and a basement, providing housing facilities for 120 students per unit. Each floor will contain 16 two-student and two four-student rooms plus a resident fellow’s room on second and third floors and a counselor's apartment on the first floor. The first floor also will have a 16-by-30 foot classroom-study area.

The basement in each residence hall will contain a recreation room, laundry, trunk storage room, hobby room, and an equipment room. Each building will be 35-by-224 feet.

The proposed dining hall and student services building facing the east on the edge of the lake will include three dining rooms having a total seating capacity for 498 students. Pulley says the building will have sufficient kitchen and dining facilities to handle students of four additional residence halls. Total floor space will be 32,778 square feet.

The first floor will have the dining areas, serving facilities for two serving lines, kitchen, bake shop, meat processing and storage facilities, ice cream making room, food storage space, dishwashing facilities, lounge and coat room, and offices. The basement will provide game rooms, a mail room for the residence halls on the Point, student services counter, locker rooms, vegetable preparation and storage facilities, food storage, incinerator, and mechanical equipment rooms.

The first stage program, estimated to cost approximately $3,000,000, will include developing the Thompson Point farm land area from scratch. Necessary improvements will include site development, a 30-foot road, a steam tunnel connection with the existing Thompson Woods tunnel loop, storm and sanitary sewers, underground electrical service, water and gas mains.

Pulley explains that the farthest dormitory on the Point will be approximately 2400 feet from the front of Southern’s new library building — the same distance as are the present temporary men’s resident halls east of the Illinois Central railroad. The new hall area will be adjacent to the proposed ag. building.
AG BUILDING
PLANS ANNOUNCED

Charles Pulley, SIU architect, recently made public the plans for a new agriculture building and greenhouse facilities to be erected near Thompson Woods.

The brick and concrete block building will be constructed in a rough "F" shape and contain 72,144 square feet of space. Pulley said it would be approximately 548 feet long and 60 feet wide.

He said the building would contain 49 staff offices, eight secretarial offices, nine class room labs and 10 research labs.

It will also have 26 classrooms capable of holding 1,000 students simultaneously. A 500-seat auditorium will contain a movable partition making is possible to hold two meetings each of 250 persons at one time.

The green houses, to be located between wings of the building, will contain 8,825 square feet of space.

The building will be constructed on the west side of Thompson Woods and south of the Chautauqua housing project. Pulley said total cost of site and development, construction and equipment will be about $2,600,000.

He said construction would start in August providing funds are available. The building is to be completed by spring of 1957.

ROTC Cadets Attend Summer Camp

Fifty Air Force ROTC cadets at Southern are attending summer training units during periods between June 19 and August 20, according to Col. Alexander R. MacMillan, SIU Professor of air science and tactics.

The four-week units, held each summer as part of the advanced Air Force reserve officer training program, are located at various installations. Thirty-six SIU cadets are attending a training unit at Bergstrom Air Force Base, Austin, Texas, from June 19 to July 16; four at Sheppard Air Force Base, Wichita Falls, Texas, from June 19 to July 16; three

Students Work In Summer Stock

More than twenty of Southern's students began work on an arduous schedule of summer stock theatrical productions in Bronson, Mo., on June 21.

The student actors and aspiring journalists who are acting as their press agents face a rigorous daily program, extending from 6 a.m. until about 11 p.m. The troupe is presenting six plays, each running five nights, for the entertainment of visitors to the Ozark resort town in July and August.

A "Shepherd of the Hills Theatre" has been built for the actors by the Branson Chamber of Commerce and the local Park Board. The students are sleeping in the dressing rooms backstage.

The actors are under the direction of Dr. Archibald McLeod and the journalism students are supervised by Dr. Howard R. Long.

The SIU actors make a six week tour of Southern Illinois each spring, but this is the first time they have performed in another state. Dr. C. Horton Talley, dean of the School of Communications at Southern, said it was believed that the summer stock venture would be a valuable internship for both the drama students and the young journalists. They will get college credits instead of pay for their experience.

Opening the season will be a production of the mystery-comedy, "The Cat and the Canary," July 6. Other plays already announced include: "My Three Angels," "Our Town," "Village Green," and "Elithe Spirit."

at Ellsworth Air Force Base, Rapid City, South Dakota, from July 24 to August 20; and seven at Minneapolis-St. Paul Municipal Airport, Minnesota, from July 24 to August 20.

Upon completion of the advanced AFROTC program of which the summer training units are a supplementary part, cadets will be eligible for commissions as Air Force junior officers.

FIELD TRIP OPEN FOR NON CREDIT

Vacationing pleasures and geography will mix in the fifth annual SIU geography field trip which will begin for three weeks August 13.

Floyd F. Cunningham, geography department chairman directing the tour, has opened the course to interested persons wanting to participate in the guided tour without receiving college credit. Advance enrollment of persons for college credit have not taken up the 35 reservations possible for the geography tour. Area school teachers will find the trip interesting and educational, he said.

Traveling by chartered bus, the group will cover 3,800 miles, visiting industrial, agricultural, and scenic areas of north central United States and southern Canada. The group will return to Carbondale September 2.

During the tour the group will visit points of interest in Cleveland, O.; Buffalo, Niagara Falls, and Rochester, N. Y.; Ottawa and Winnipeg, Canada, with stops at intervening points; Minneapolis, Minn., and Chicago.

Cunningham says the field cost of $170 will cover registration, transportation, rooms in hotels or motels, tuition, and insurance. It does not include the cost of food and other incidentals.

Workshops To Start In Landscape Gardening

Two-week summer workshop courses in landscape gardening, will be offered by the SIU Extension Division at Dongola (July 18) and Mt. Vernon (August 15).

Dr. Lowell R. Tucker, SIU associate professor of agriculture who will teach the course, says the persons enrolled will meet four hours each morning.

The course will deal with the selection, use and care of plants; land use and the location of buildings, walks and driveways with reference to beauty, utility, health and safety factors.
New Faculty Appointments Made

James L. C. Ford, dean of the school of journalism at Montana State University, was recently named professor of journalism at Southern.

Ford has been assistant editor of Fairchild Publications and Popular Science; cable editor for Associated Press in San Francisco and for United Press in New York, and a Chicago Tribune and Milwaukee Journal staffer. He has also taught at the Universities of California, Oregon, and Wisconsin.

The SIU board of trustees, in recently approving more than a score of continuing and temporary appointments, also named Willis Moore, professor of philosophy and psychology at the University of Tennesse and one-time visiting professor at Columbia University, chairman of Southern’s department of philosophy.

Robert G. Layer, a former Chrysler Corporation employee and associate professor at Texas A & M and Fairmont State College, was appointed acting chairman of the department of economics.

Francis Matthew Lynch, director of adult education and coordinator of apprentice training in the public schools at Reno, Nev., was appointed supervisor of adult education in the Division of Technical and Adult Education. He set up the first National Defense Industrial Training Program in northern New York and taught in several high schools in that area.

Another addition to the journalism department was D. Wayne Rowland, seven years an editor and publisher of several weekly and one daily paper in Missouri.

Thomas G. Scott of the Illinois Natural History Survey was named adjunct professor of Cooperative Wildlife Research, an advisory position.

Other continuing appointments included: Chester J. Atkinson of the State University of Iowa, associate professor of speech; Wendell Johnson, formerly of Syracuse University, instructor in mathematics; Frank Moake of Johnston City, instructor in English, and Milton Shute, formerly of the staffs of Cornell and the University of Georgia, instructor in Cooperative Forest Service Research.

Term appointments included: Paul Thomas Carroll, assistant professor of Guidance and Special Education; Richard E. Dahlberg, instructor of geography and geology, and Zamir Bavel, lecturer in mathematics.

NURSING PROGRAM HEAD NAMED

Miss Virginia Hall Harrison, head of nursing programs at the University of Missouri, Columbia, has been appointed professor of nursing at Southern Illinois University, effective September 1, Dr. Henry J. Rehn, dean of the SIU College of Vocations and Professions, has announced.

Miss Harrison will be in charge of Southern’s nursing program, authorized earlier by the SIU Board of Trustees. She will devote the next school year to organizing the new program, recruiting faculty and students. SIU officials hope to be able to accept the first class of nursing students by September, 1956, Rehn said.

A registered nurse, Miss Harrison is the daughter of the late Judge and Mrs. John A. Harrison of St. Louis. She received the Bachelor of Science in Nursing at St. Luke’s Hospital, St. Louis; Master of Science in Nursing Education from St. Louis University, and has done graduate work toward a doctorate at the University of Missouri. Since 1949 she has been at the University of Missouri, where she was instrumental in re-opening the school of nursing which now has more than 120 students enrolled.

She also has attended Washington University, St. Louis; and the Chicago, Indiana, California, and Vanderbilt Universities.

Alumni Club News

Missouri Club

Dr. Ted Ragsdale, professor of education, addressed the May meeting of the Missouri Alumni Club in Clayton. Some 60 persons were present.

New officers elected by the club are: M. Paul Mosely, ex ’39, president; Nada Grammaticoff, ’40, vice president; Mrs. Martha Stieg Butcher, ex ’41, corresponding secretary and Charles V. Brockett, ’49, treasurer.

Peoria

Lee Webb, ’50, was elected president of the Peoria Alumni Club at a dinner meeting of the club on May 21. Other officers elected are: James Baker, ex ’48, vice president and William Lee Tripp, ’51, (reelected) secretary.

Some 30 persons heard Dr. William Tudor, associate director of Area Services, speak briefly.

Springfield

More than 40 persons attended the buffet supper of the Springfield Alumni Club held in the airport Flight Room on May 14.

Speakers for the evening were C. C. Franklin, assistant professor of men’s P. E., and William Freeburg, chairman of the recreation and outdoor education department. Following the business meeting, Franklin served as caller for square dancing.

Chicago

“Recent Developments at SIU” was the topic of Dr. Orville Alexander’s address before the annual meeting of the Chicago Alumni Club at the Chicago Art Institute on May 27. Dr. Alexander is chairman of the government department.

Others on the program included Harold Bailey, ’32, who sang three songs and Robert Teeter, ’04, who led the singing of the SIU alma mater song he composed. Mrs. Mary Lansden Bates, ’90, was the oldest alumni attending.

Officers elected by the 60 persons attending were: William F. Price, ’48, president; Marc Green, ’33, vice president; Imogene Berry, secretary and Wesley Bovinet, ’37, treasurer.
Promotion In Rank Announced

Three SIU professors have been promoted to the rank of dean in Southern's newly-created Schools of Communications, Fine Arts and Rural Studies.

The new deans are C. Horton Talley, Communications; Burnett Shryock, Fine Arts, and Wendell E. Keeper, Rural Studies.

At the same time, the board of trustees elevated Ernest J. Simon from associate professor to professor. He will retain his present titles of Dean of the Division of Technical and Adult Education and Associate Dean of the Division of Extension.

Talley, Shryock, and Keeper will also retain their roles as acting chairman of the departments of speech, art, and agriculture until successors can be named. Departments are grouped in the new "Schools" as follows: Communications: speech and journalism; Fine Arts: art and music; and Rural Studies: agriculture and the University Experimental Farms.

The board of trustees also approved a total of 28 changes in academic rank. Associate professors given full professorships were Victor Randolph and Helen Zimmerman, College of Education; Max Turner, assistant dean of the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences; I. P. Brackett, speech; and Elbert H. Hadley, chemistry.

Named to associate professorships were: Clyde Brown, John Pruis and Eugene Fitzpatrick, College of Education; James Mowry and Fred W. Roth, agriculture; Harry Bauernfeind, Division of Technical and Adult Education; John O. Anderson, speech; Jack W. Graham, Office of Student Affairs; Dilla Hall, mathematics; Leslie Malpass, psychology; Lulu D. Roach, art; John W. Voight, botany; and William O. Winter, government.

Appointed assistant professors from instructional rank were: Scott Hinners and John Hosner, agriculture; Robert L. Gallegly, assistant business manager; Frederick Lauritzen, art; Dorothy McGinniss, library service; Alice Rector, Placement Service; and Clarence Stephens, College of Education.

Grant Made To Archaeology Study

An $8,000 grant for archaeological and ecological study of archaic culture in eastern United States has been awarded the SIU Museum by the National Science Foundation, Washington, D. C.

Dr. J. Charles Kelley, SIU Museum director, announced official confirmation of the grant and said that it will be used for the 1955 SIU summer archaeological field session in the Cache River valley of Southern Illinois and for study of related documentary sources and museum collections during the year ending May 31, 1956.

Eight students are enrolled at the summer field session. They are from SIU, University of New Mexico, University of Chicago, and Washington State College.

Summer headquarters are set up at the Forestview rural school east of Ullin, a central location from which to make surface surveys of the Cache valley and to excavate promising sites. Howard Winters, junior researcher for the project, said that members of the Museum staff already have located some 80 sites of prehistoric habitation in the study region.

Actual field work in the area began July 5. Students enrolled in the field course spent the first two weeks on campus for orientation lectures and field trips to other excavation sites in the area.

Kelley explained that the archeological culture research project under the $8,000 grant will include study of related environmental factors such as plant and animal life, and geological features. Specialists in botany, zoology, and geology from SIU and other universities will participate in the project.

Capacity Enrolled At Institute

A capacity enrollment of nearly 50 persons from nine states and Puerto Rico was registered for a 10-day Rehabilitation Institute recently held at Southern.

Dr. W. A. Thalman, acting chairman of the department of guidance and special education, said that professional people in various rehabilitation services were enrolled from New York, North Dakota, Illinois, Oregon, Michigan, Nebraska, Missouri, Ohio, Washington, D. C., and Puerto Rico.

Cooperating in sponsoring the workshop were the Illinois Division of Vocational Rehabilitation, the Illinois Tuberculosis Association, and Southern Illinois University. The program was built around the principles and practices of developing and coordinating rehabilitation services, bringing into focus the many related services that help the handicapped.

Kenneth W. Hamilton, Ohio State University associate professor in the school of Social Administration, served as general coordinator for a workshop staff of 32 consultants.

Present at the opening session to greet the workshop participants was Dr. Charles D. Tenney, SIU Vice President for Instruction. Greetings also were extended by Dr. E. C. Cline, state supervisor, and Dr. Ben D. Kinnamon, Jr., executive director, of the Illinois Division of Vocational Rehabilitation.

Librarian Institute

A three-day institute for southern Illinois public librarians was held at Southern recently under sponsorship of SIU and the Illinois State Library.

Miss Dorothy McGinniss, SIU assistant professor of library service, was institute coordinator. Consultants were Mrs. Laura C. Langston, Illinois State Library chief of extension services, and de Lafayette Reid, Jr., acting assistant state librarian.
SMALL BUSINESS COUNCIL ORGANIZED

A Small Business Council of 74 members, organized to encourage students to go into business in their home communities, recently held its organizational meeting at Southern University.

Business leaders from 28 towns and 20 counties attended the first session to hear Ralph Bedwell, director of Southern’s Small Business Institute, explain the goals of the Council. In addition to steering students toward training in business careers, Council members will help promote new small business development in area communities and aid in expansion of existing business.

Dr. George Hand, vice president in charge of business affairs at Southern, is chairman pro tem, and Bedwell is secretary. Among the members are industrialists, bankers, attorneys, newspaper and radio executives, public school administrators and labor union representatives. Students studying under the Small Business Institute will take general education courses and receive specialized training in technical skills.

SIU President D. W. Morris explained the two years of planning that led up to the establishment of the Small Business Institute a year ago. Other committees yet to be formed under it are a technical advisory group of area specialists in sales and advertising, tax structures, production and other fields, and an SIU faculty committee to contribute to the instructional, research or educational service programs of the Institute.

Members of the Council, who will serve until Dec. 31, 1956, are:
- A. B. Gill, Alton
- Eckford J. De Kay, Alton
- R. J. Lewis and George E. Parks, Anna
- Anthony E. Bott, Curt E. Eckert, C. A. Heiligstein, Roy W. Levin, and John W. Lewis, Belleville

Education College Conference Held

The fifth annual conference of the SIU College of Education was held July 7-8.

Planned in conjunction with the annual exhibit of the Illinois Bookmen’s club, the conference was co-sponsored by the Illinois Congress of Parents and Teachers and the Southern Illinois Educational Council of 100.

Concerned with improving reading skills, the two-day session featured addresses by Dr. William Kottmeyer, assistant superintendent in charge of special services, St. Louis public schools. Dr. Kottmeyer spoke on “Basic Problems of Reading in the Modern Classroom”; and he discussed “What Parents Should Know About Teaching Reading.” Dr. Ted Ragsdale, SIU education professor, was program chairman of the conference.

All sessions were open to the public and answers were given to many of the criticisms currently being leveled at the teaching of reading in today’s schools.

Lecture demonstrations were given by Kay L. Ware, general consultant and supervisor for kindergarten through eighth grade, St. Louis public schools. Her topics were “Television Programs in Teaching Spelling”; “Television Programs in Reading Skills, the two-day session featuring addresses by Dr. William Kottmeyer, assistant superintendent in charge of special services, St. Louis public schools. Wayne Williams, Du Quoin junior, was named Southern's outstanding athlete for the 1954-55 season at the annual All-Sports banquet.

An end on the SIU football squad and a baseball outfielder, Williams received the Henry Hinkley award, given annually by Sigma Pi fraternity in memory of a former Southern athlete killed in World War II.

Williams was also named captain of the Southern grid team for next year. Other captains for the 1955-56 season are: Basketball—Joe Johnson, Mt. Vernon junior; Track—Sam DeNeal, Harrisburg, sophomore; Cross Country—Howard Branch, Mounds, sophomore; Wrestling—Paul Steingruby, Fults, junior; Swimming—Robert Montgomery, Graffton, freshman; Tennis—Rod Merriman, Pana, sophomore; Golf—Andy Barnett, West Frankfort, junior; Baseball—Gene Tabacchi, Auburn, junior.

Awards were also given by the "I" club to the "Most Valuable Players" in four major sports. Gib Kurtz, E. St. Louis, was named for basketball, Tabacchi for baseball, and DeNeal for track. Cliff Johnson, Cairo, the most valuable football player, has been graduated. His award was presented to Coach Bill O'Brien for delivery.

A season's end lapse cost Southern the IIAC baseball crown but failed to dim the Salukis' shining 14-5 overall record.

Southern lost two games to Michigan Normal and split two with Central Michigan in a disastrous road trip that relegated the Salukis to second place with a 6-4 record.

Outside of those final four games, the Salukis had a fine season. A 3-3 record on the spring training trip caused Coach Glenn "Abe" Martin to remark, "It's one of the finest teams I've ever taken south."

After the southern tour, the Salukis romped over Arkansas.

Ed Hayes tossed the shot put 46 ft. 10¼ in. to crack the old record set by Bill Guiney in 1942. Hayes added 19 inches to Guiney's effort.

The mile relay team of DeNeal, Vern Sprehe, Anthony Velasco and Bob Kacznyski twice lowered the old record of 3:27.2 to 3:42.2.

The old mile relay record was set in 1938 by Strusz, Parsons, Sutton and Morgan.

Southern took four of six dual meets, losing to Eastern Illinois and Cape Girardeau. It was the first time in more than a decade that the Cape runners were victorious. The loss was later avenged.

The Salukis finished second in the Illinois State College meet and fifth in the IIAC meet.

IIAC officials turned down Southern's request to play fewer than six conference football and 12 basketball or baseball games.

"The IIAC decision was a clarification of the rules," stated Dr. Carl E. Erickson, Athletic Director.

"The important fact we learned was that VTI students are eligible to participate in sports if they are carrying at least 12 hours and are working for a degree or an associateship," Erickson said.

Erickson said that Southern wanted to cut the schedule in order to eliminate the long road trips, especially the Michigan schools, except for about once every five years.

"It is 522 miles to Michigan Normal and 661 miles to Central Michigan," Erickson said. "The trip is made in cars or busses. The baseball team was gone a week to Michigan and that meant one week of school was lost. Also, with our limited budget, we had to board the team for that length of time."

"With a shorter conference schedule we could compete with teams that are closer. But we'll accept the decision and go along with the present schedule," he concluded.

Master of ceremonies for the banquet was past alumni president Ed Curtis. He introduced the banquet speaker, Aubrey J. Holmes. Later, Curtis accepted a $200 check from Joseph Kalla, senior class president. The check, gift of the senior class, will be used for a building directory in the proposed new Student Union building. Kalla also presented the senior class to full membership in the Alumni Association.

Services, Chemistry department, Physics department, and the Physical Plant.
The University and the Forest Experiment Station have joined forces to shorten the time needed to develop a larger, permanently productive forest economy in southern Illinois. The basic forest resource is at hand. Proper protection, reasonable management, and complete, efficient utilization of the timber available will insure a stronger forest industry. So — the cry of TIMBER-R-R, the buzz of saws, the pungent odor of freshly cut lumber, and the whine of woodworking machinery may once again be commonplace. These sounds and odors will be signs that our wood-using industry is healthy again — that it is making its full contribution to our economy.

NAME MAKES NEWS

The weight of 87 years keeps John W. Emmerson, '92, pretty close to home these days, but it doesn't keep him from remembering with some measure of pride the opposition he had to overcome in order to attend Southern.

The opposition came from an unusual source — his father. Emmerson's father believed that if John went away to school, he would get a "big head" and not amount to a "hill of beans." Consequently, the elder Emmerson refused to give John any money for a college education.

With the aid of his mother, Emmerson collected enough money to enroll at Southern, and from then on he worked his way through. Graduation found him the valedictorian of his class, proving that father doesn't always know best.

After leaving Southern, Emmerson taught at several southern Illinois schools. He was principal of Marion high school one year, principal of Mt. Vernon High one year, principal of Nashville High two years, and superintendent of Alton public schools five years.

In 1896 he was awarded a life teaching certificate in Illinois.

Emmerson left Illinois in 1901 and went to Canon City, Colo., where he was appointed assistant postmaster. He served in this capacity for 20 years and then was postmaster for 13 years, retiring in 1934.

Active in civic, social and religious affairs, Emmerson was Bible school superintendent of the First Christian Church for 35 years, much longer than anyone has ever held it. He was a member of the school board, president of the Chamber of Commerce, a director of the Y. M. C. A. for 21 years, and a member.

After reviewing her post-Southern experiences, Mrs. R. E. Luebbers, (Lita Hindman), '18, nationally known home economics authority, believes there is a noticeable discrepancy in the existing college curriculum.

Mrs. Luebbers feels there is too much emphasis on fact and method rather than on why and the resulting situation. While she acknowledges the fact that Southern is among the leaders in meeting the needs of its students in preparing for a career, she says, "It would appear that every student passing through a school should be given training in "Living" or some such named course and that as the person advances the training should be intensified to meet the needs. Such a course would include the physical, mental training and hygiene as well as human relationships in business, professions and daily living wherever the person may be."

Mrs. Luebbers has attained national recognition for her work in home economics. She is listed in the International Blue Book of Who's Who in the World, American Women, Principal Women in America, Who's Who in Chicago and Vicinity and Who's Who in Ohio.

A recipient of degrees from the University of Illinois and Iowa State College, Mrs. Luebbers taught in several Illinois high schools, including West Frankfort, Cobden, Valmeyer, Sparta and Geneva.

For five years she was director of home economics at Blackburn College and for two years the dietitian and head of home economics at Alblon College. She also taught at Indiana State Teachers College.

Mrs. Luebbers has done clinical work as a home adviser in Jacksonville, Ill., and as an institutional consultant for the Michigan Department of Social Welfare.

Author of many articles in national periodical magazines, Mrs. Luebbers has been a free lance newspaper reporter and feature writer. Active in club work, Mrs. Luebbers was president of the Albion, Mich., Women's Club, chairman of American Home Committee of Calhoun County Federated Women's Clubs, art chairman of Michigan Congress of Parents and Teachers, president of the Albion Branch of National League of Pen Women, and Star Point Martha in the Order of the Eastern Star.

She is a member of Omicron Nu, home economics honor society. Mrs. Luebbers' address is Box 87, Albion, Mich.

Arthur J. Andrews, '20, who took his first formal instruction in agriculture at Southern, is now Illinois state supervisor of agricultural education.

Andrews, a member of the Board of Vocational Education, has held his present position since 1943. He supervises 75 departments in southeastern and southern Illinois.

After being graduated from a two-year course in 1920, Andrews taught at Alvin and Bismark high schools in Vermilion county. In 1923 he received a bachelor's degree from the University of Illinois.

From 1923 until 1928, Andrews taught vocational agriculture at Flora high school, and from 1929 until 1935, he was farm adviser for Pope and Hardin counties.

Andrews taught at Mt. Carmel high school from 1935 until accepting his present position in 1943. He received a master's degree from the University of Illinois in 1942.

While at Southern, Andrews was a member of the Agriculture Club and the Socratic Literary Society.

Andrews is married to the former Bessie Lois Hershey, '20, who is now teaching in the Mt. Carmel, Ill., city schools. They have two sons, Dale and Robert, both Southern alums.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrews live at 927 Cherry St., Mt. Carmel.
Albert Walter Webb, '25, has done quite well in the stock market—not the market of the financier, but the market of the thoroughbred cattle raiser.

Webb operates the 600-acre "Webb Polled Hereford Farm" in Ewing, Ill. He has a herd of 125 registered Polled Hereford cattle in which the top blood lines in the country are represented.

Sheep are also raised on the farm, and Webb ships in feeder lambs from Texas and the Northwest for grazing and feeding purposes.

Webb's interest in stock raising in particular and agriculture in general doesn't stop at the occupational level. He has devoted much time to various agricultural boards and committees.

For six years Webb was on the Board of Directors of the Illinois Agricultural Association. During this time he helped promote the idea of an agricultural building at Southern Illinois University. He also helped in the promotion of the Southern Illinois Grain Co.

He has served as secretary and president of the Franklin County Farm Bureau and on the board of directors of the Illinois Wool Marketing Association. He has also been on the board of directors of Country Life Insurance Co., Country Mutual Casualty Co., and Country Mutual Fire Insurance Co.

Webb was a member of the Board of Livestock Commissioners, a state agency.

For two years he was director of the state board of the Illinois Rural Rehabilitation Corp. and for six years a director on the state committee of the Farmers Home Corp.

One of the organizers of the Franklin County Soil Conservation District, he served on the committee for four years.

Two years ago Webb helped organize the Grasslands Polled Hereford Club Inc. Two successful cattle sales have been held by the club in Benton, Ill.

Webb was graduated from a two year course at Southern in 1925 and from the University of Illinois College of Commerce in 1928. After teaching at Dahlgren, Ill., high school three years, he was employed by the Illinois Rural Rehabilitation Corp. For six years he was rural rehabilitation supervisor for the Farm Security Administration with offices in West Frankfort and Eldorado, Ill.

He also worked as a land appraiser for the Farm Security Administration.

He and his wife, the former Ruby Devota Stokes, of West Frankfort, Ill., have three children.

JULY, 1955
Roger Annear, ex ’47, recently received acclaim as a promising young artist after an exhibition of his work at the Marcel Coard Gallery in Paris.

Twenty pictures plus drawings, all executed in five months, were shown from Feb. 17 through Mar. 4, and Annear received reviews in 16 Paris newspapers as well as in the Italian, Spanish and Swiss press.

Several of the works went into the collection of Count Doria, president of the French critics and one of the most important collectors in the world.

Annear, now in the United States, was offered a contract by the Coard Gallery, and he plans to accept it when he returns to Paris in September.

“I’m sorry I can’t present you with a romantic picture of the artist’s life in Paris,” Annear writes. “I lived in respectable Passy, comparable to Boston’s Beacon Hill. I could count on one hand the number of times I sat in cafes and I did not even grow a beard.”

Annear entered Southern in the summer of 1944. His schooling was interrupted by a 20 month hitch in the army, after which he came back to Southern in 1947 to complete his sophomore year.

In the fall of 1947, he transferred to the University of Colorado and began studying art seriously. He began exhibiting in regional competitions in 1948, first in Omaha, Neb., then in most of the mid-western and southern states.

After receiving a Bachelor of Fine Arts degree, Annear went to Mexico and lived for eight months in Morelia, Michoacan. There he worked with Alfredo Zalce, a well known Mexican artist, who arranged for a showing of Annear’s work in the State Museum of Michoacan.

In January of 1951, he began graduate work with a fellowship at the University of Iowa. Meanwhile he continued exhibiting in local competitions including those in Decatur, Springfield, and Peoria, Ill. Peoria gave him an award in 1952.

Annear didn’t complete his graduate degree, but instead went to New York where he “took part time work as a model to survive.”

Fortune smiled on Annear in the fall of 1953. Almost simultaneously he received a $100 award from the Emily Lowe Foundation for New York artists under 35 years of age, and a $2000 fellowship from the Louis Comfort Tiffany Foundation. The grant was given for “travel and study in museums but came as an outright gift of money.”

In April, 1954, Annear went to Europe after visiting major museums in Washington, Boston, Philadelphia, Baltimore and New York. From May until September he traveled through Spain, Italy, Switzerland, France, Belgium, Holland, England and Germany, visiting over 50 museums as well as monuments, cathedrals and other architecture of interest.

Annear returned to Paris in September and prepared his well-received exhibition at the Marcel Coard Gallery.

Currently painting in New England, Annear intends to return to Paris in the fall for an indefinite period.

Of his painting, Annear says, “It is definitely ‘School of Paris’ and was long before I went there. The critic for the Paris Herald-Tribune called it ‘lyrical expressionism’ and other critics pointed out the influence of Georges Braque. Like him, I paint mostly still-life — an occasional landscape or figure. The subject has no message; my interest is in the formal relationships and the paint only.”

Annear’s present address is 19 Main St., Durham, N. H.

SOUTHERN ALUMNUS
Phil Coleman, '52, whose flying feet established him as the best distance runner in Southern's history, may be the nation's next great distance star, if recent performances are indicative and the opinions of some track experts are valid.

Coleman's potential was exhibited most recently at the Chicago Daily News Relays, held on Mar. 26, when he finished second in the mile behind Wes Santee, currently considered the best American miler. Santee's 4:04.2 broke an 11-year-old record held by Gil Dodds, while Coleman's 4:09.5 was the fastest time in his career.

Dodds, the celebrated "Flying Parson who had an average time of under 4:10 in eight years of big time competition, seems convined that Coleman is going places, according to Southern track coach Leland Lingle.

"Dodds told me that Phil is going to be the next great miler in this country," Lingle said. "Dodds knows all about Coleman. Dodds was coach at Wheaton all the time Phil was running at Southern. The only time Dodds ever saw him lose was in the snow at Illinois Normal when Phil was a freshman."

A graduate student at the University of Illinois, Coleman competed in Chicago to run for the University of Chicago Track Club. He won the Chicago Invitational Feb. 26 in 4:11.2.

"Every time Phil runs, he gets better," observes Ted Haydon, coach of the University of Chicago track team and mentor of the U. of C. Track club.

Coleman is "just blossoming out as a miler," according to Chicago sports columnist John Carmichael, and for a person who didn't win a race in high school, he's doing a remarkable job of blossoming.

The slender long-striding runner didn't begin his track career until 1948, when he was a senior at Carbondale, Ill., community high school. He ran a mile in less than six minutes in a physical education class, and the instructor encouraged him to go out for track.

Although he never finished first, he improved enough to take third place in the mile in the Southwest Egyptian Conference meet.

Coleman returned to Southern in September, 1948, and proceeded to accumulate a record that ranks him as one of the all-time Southern track greats.

A highly versatile runner, Coleman ran distances ranging from a mile to three miles. He won the state and IAAC cross country championships as a junior and the state championship as a senior.

He hit his collegiate peak when he was a senior. He carried off the first place trophy in the Loyola University cross-country invitational, and he finished first in the St. Louis Globe-Democrat Turkey Day run.

It was during his senior year that Coleman set the existing Southern records of 4:15.3 in the mile and 9:41.2 in the two-mile.

Coleman entered the army after being granuated in 1952 and continued his winning ways, including wins in the All-Army and All-Service steeplechases. He also collected several medals won in the mile and three-mile runs at various service meets.

Coleman returned to Southern May 10 and ran an exhibition mile in 4:14.5 on a rain-soaked track. This time is believed to be the fastest mile ever run in Southern Illinois.

The son of Dr. Claude Coleman of Southern's English department, Phil has amied his long legs at the 1956 Olympic games, but he isn't sure what event he'll enter.

Coleman married the former Wyona Smith, '54, and they live at 404 E. Elm St., Urbana, Ill.
