SIU contributes to medical field

News of Southern's most recent contribution to the medical services in the Chicago area is vast. The tie-in of Southern alumni with one hospital in particular, the Illinois Central Hospital in Chicago, is something more than coincidental.

In 1949 SIU sent two of its best to the University of Illinois Medical School at Chicago—Dr. John M. Johnston, '49, and Dr. Basil A Moskoff, '52. They were graduated in 1954, before which time they spent two years as externs at Illinois Central. John later returned for two years of general surgery training and completed his year as chief resident. He is married, has a little girl, and is continuing his training at St. Francis Hospital in Peoria. Basil is married, has two boys and is doing general practice in Zeigler.

Prior to this, Drs. Larry Fiene, ex '48; Gene Monroe, '48; Warren (Quint) Bradley, '48; Judson Phillips, ex '48; and Robert Rawson, '48, interned at IC in 1952-53. Fiene is married, has three children and is practicing in Sparta. Monroe is married, has four children and is practicing in central Illinois. Quint is married, has two children, and recently completed a residency in radiology at the Research and Educational Hospital in Chicago. Phillips is doing general practice in southern Illinois. Rawson finished two years of residency in general surgery at IC and is continuing his training at Hines Veterans' Hospital in Chicago.

In 1950, SIU sent eight of her boys to medical school at the University of Illinois. This group included Drs. Charles B. Koch, ex '50; William Irvin, '50; Gene G. Sloan, '49; Denton B. Ferrell, '52; Orlan Pflasterer, ex '50; David Rendleman ex '49; Joseph L. Novak, '50, and William R. Lawrence, '43, '50. Koch is married, has a little girl, interned at Marshfeld Clinics, Wisconsin, and is present in general practice at New Lisbon, Wis. Irvin and Rendleman interned at St. Louis City Hospital and are now in the armed service. Dave is married and has one child. Novak interned at Cook County Hospital and is now practicing in southern Illinois. Sloan, Pflasterer, and Lawrence all interned at IC Hospital. Gene is married, has one boy, and is at present in service. Orlan is in general practice in Marissa. Lawrence is chief surgical resident at Illinois Central Hospital. Ferrell is interning at IC.

The next year Southern furnished Drs. Jean Boatright, '50; Don (Flip) Ervin, ex '49; Richard Maulding, ex '51; Gene Poole, '50; Howard Shackelford, ex '51; Jim Turns, ex '51; and H. Dean Jones, '51. Boatright is married to Betty Glasscock, ex '52, and they have one son. (Boatright is now physician at SIU). Flip is married, has a daughter, and is present in interning at Marshfield Clinics. Maulding is married to Rita Presley, '52, has a son, and is an intern at Cook County Hospital. Poole is an intern at Research and Educational Hospital in Chicago. Shackelford and Turns are both married, and intern in Decatur. Jones is married, has a son, and is interning at IC Hospital—will enter service soon.

The next year's class included Dr. William R. Durham, Dr. Harold Elliott, and Dr. Leo A. Ankenbrandt, all ex '52, who began internship at IC Hospital July 1. Carol Boles, ex '24, is an extern at Illinois Central at present.

The fascination which IC seems to hold for SIU grads will insure that southern Illinois will some day be well supplied with doctors who have something more than medicine in common. All of the above, with one exception, joined the same medical fraternity, Alpha Kappa Kappa. This organization serves mainly as a social outlet, but in addition is a wonderful home and place to study and affords an excellent place to get together and discuss old times and old friends at SIU. Especially frequently mentioned in the sessions are Drs. Gersbacher, Neckers, Van Lente, and Kaplan, along, of course, with many others, but these seem to stick in our minds! Wonder why?

Isn't it interesting how Southern's boys stick together even as long as five or six years after they leave for bigger and better things?

From Sunny Spain

How is everything back at Southern? Everything is just fine over here in Spain except it is just a little hot. We have had some fairly consistent 100 degrees temperatures for the last month. Along with this, it has only drizzled for about ten minutes so you can guess how hot and dry it is.

I have been expecting to see some of my old schoolmates over here on vacation this summer but so far I have only met one couple that had visited a friend at SIU. However, I have met quite a few people that have heard of Southern and the wonderful work being done there. I have been over here seven and a half months and look forward to seeing you all in about 14 more.

Give my regards to all. Sorry I forgot my renewal. Adios.

Needs 1925 Obelisk

Enclosed is a check for my dues. Sorry I'm a little late in payment as I thoroughly enjoy the Southern Alumnus and read it from cover to cover.

It was very nice to be present at the last reunion and to see so many people I knew. Carbondale will always seem like home to me, and I'm intensely interested in Southern.

I have a peculiar request and I suppose it's hopeless, but here it is! Does anyone remember Mary Boos 'way back in the (continued on page 23)
On The Cover

The six girls pictured on the cover were this year’s candidates for Southern’s Homecoming Queen.

Third from the left is Jane Curry of Cairo who was chosen to reign over the three-day festivities.

The other girls are, left to right, Kay Sue Eadie of Vandalia, Pat Bruce of Fairfield, Jo Anne Hortin of Albion, Lois Kalla of Chicago, and Dot Hamilton of Hammond, Ind.

Crowned in traditional ceremonies in Shryock Auditorium on Thursday night, October 25, Miss Curry is a senior, majoring in history at Southern. She is past president of the Social Senate and Woody Hall, residence for women.

Members of the queen’s court were the Misses Bruce, Eadie, Kalla, and Hamilton.

We regret that this issue of the Southern Alumnus went to press too soon to include Homecoming pictures and a story, but highlights will be included in the next issue.
One of the most eagerly awaited events of the year, Homecoming, often loses its true meaning in the flurry of activity prior to the celebration.

The event is theoretically designed for alumni who want to return to the old alma mater to renew old acquaintances and make new ones. However, to students it means house decorations, floats, parades, rallies, football games, dances, queens, and more. Little thought, if any, is given to the alumni by most of them.

This is not meant to be derogatory to the students who put in many hours of hard work in preparing the colorful events that are a part of the Homecoming ritual. Homecoming would lose all of its flavor without it.

But we wonder why the alumni, the honored guests, are shunted off to small meetings and ignored by the majority of the student body. Even high school guests are given guided tours of the campus and free entertainment and tickets to a football game. Why aren’t alumni afforded the same courtesies as our high school guests? How about introducing the alumni at the football game, or even better and more feasible, reserving a section of the stadium for them free of charge?

The 1956 Homecoming is part of the past. This largest of all celebrations saw the initiation of one of the most impressive and expensive entertainment events ever undertaken at Southern Illinois University.

The event was the star-studded stage show the evening of October 27. Well-known recording artists Jaye P. Morgan, The Hilltoppers, and Buddy Moreno's orchestra gave the show goers a performance of which many a television show would be envious.

Jane Curry, senior coed from Cairo, reigned over the festivities as queen. Attending her royal highness were Lois Kalla, senior from Chicago; Dot Hamilton, senior from Hammond, Ind.; Pat Bruce, senior from Fairfield; and Kay Sue Eadie, junior from Vandalia. Also in the court were Pat Dey, sophomore from Carbondale, and Pat Elder, freshman from Eldorado.

Johnny Long's orchestra provided music at the Homecoming dance Saturday evening.

The SIU campus had a distinguished visitor in the person of Vice-President Richard M. Nixon. The Vice-President spoke to a house of students and townspeople in Shryock Auditorium October 24. Nixon was making his final swing through the country before the November 6 election.

The “suburbanites” of Southern will soon be back in town after spending half of the fall quarter in their “summer homes.” The male students who have resided at Little Grassy Lake and Giant City State Park are scheduled to be in the new Thompson Point residence halls before the close of November, according to Dean I. Clark Davis, acting director of Student Affairs. The men had been “banished” to the camps when the dorms were not completed at the opening of the fall term. The Little Grassy campers had the worst of the lot as they had to live in tents during the period. The Giant City inhabitants were more fortunate with a solid roof over their heads; they slept in barracks. A regular bus service to and from the campus was provided for the commuters.

Jack Thatcher, senior from Flora, is the 1957 Spring Festival chairman. Thatcher was elected in all-school fall elections October 23. Thatcher is the present managing editor of The Egyptian, official student newspaper.

Also chosen in the elections were class officers for all classes and freshmen student council representatives.

Sigma Beta Gamma, professional radio and TV fraternity at SIU, will sponsor a new television series over WSIL-TV (Channel 22) Harrisburg, beginning in mid-November.

The new show will be devoted to student entertainment and ten minutes will be devoted to a specific department of Southern. All positions, including the cameramen, directors, etc., will be filled by students. The show will be on at either 5:00 or 5:30 p.m. once a week.
OUR PURPOSE HOLDS

by Dr. John Erle Grinnell

Colleges and universities throughout the nation are observing American Education Week—November 11-17. Southern’s Dean of the College of Education views the situation on our own campus.

BEFORE THE TURN of this bustling century, when Southern Illinois University, lost in the hills of Little Egypt, started preparing young people to be teachers, education was still keyed to the long, slow years of the horse and buggy era. Along the frontiers and in the rural regions of the middle west the schools were altered but little from those which Ichabod Crane presided over a century before.

Windows of Learning

The teacher, usually a woman, taught the reading and writing and arithmetic, conducted the spelling bees on Friday afternoon, and prepared her charges for the occasional program of recitations and songs. As often as not she swept her schoolhouse, tended the fires, and kept the president of the school board apprised of the simple needs of her school. If she had to scatter her efforts over a wide range of grades and ages, she had the satisfaction of feeling the pupils’ warm responses to the mystery and magic of books and of knowledge, any knowledge of the strange world hidden behind the hills. The school term was short and the curriculum meager, but the windows of learning were flung wide and the pupils ranged the world with excited imagination.

In those days as now teachers of Southern served with the dedication that earned the early fame of the Normal. But the ardor of the opening years did not abate when the exploding early years of our century brought the automobile, moving pictures, radio, and the aeroplane and almost overnight transformed a secure, slow-paced era to one of the hustle and insecurity of rapid change.

Southern saw the changes come and moved at the front of the change. The three R’s remained the solid core, but one after another new subjects moved into the schools: art, music, nature study, cooking, sewing, manual arts, agriculture, commerce, general science. The teachers of Southern became “educators.” They read widely, earned more degrees, joined associations, and attended conventions. The young men and women who came here and studied went out as missionaries to spread the exciting word of progress. New services became necessary as an ever-increasing percentage of all children flocked into the schools. Pupil transportation followed consolidation of districts, and with it came such innovations as school lunch programs, health services, guidance, and safety patrols. School libraries under trained librarians, teacher welfare, and parent-teacher groups extended the scope and interests of the teachers. New methods excited the professors back at Southern and were passed along within a school generation to the far flung corners of southern Illinois.

Facing the Educational World

No period, however, in the turbulent years since the passing of the horse and buggy age was more fraught with wonder and peril than the one Southern faces now—as a full-fledged dynamic university in an age still speeding up. Here are the features of the educational world Southern faces now:

1. Rapidly increasing school populations because of increased birth rates during and following World War II.
2. Continuing consolidation of school districts eliminating small and uneconomical schools and creating ever larger and more diversified schools on both elementary and secondary levels.

3. Ever new fields of study born of the changing times in upper elementary and high school years, such as conservation, safety, radio, consumer economics, and many others relating to industry, marriage, and even baby-sitting.

4. New services and activities passed on to the schools by the homes or the community. These include extended guidance, health service and activities, character and civic training, automobile driving, and education of the handicapped.

5. New methods and aids. Among these are the audio-visual aids of all sorts—films, slides, recordings, models, and even closed circuit television.

In the meanwhile, the College of Education of SIU extends its training and services in ever-widening circles to keep, as it always has, in the forefront of the educational movement. Never has there been more enthusiasm or higher competency for the multiform task than at present. Every year sees adaptions and extensions to meet and to anticipate the demands of the times—as need for new type of training appears. Southern has stepped into the gap. A separate Department of Special Education was formed this year to serve better the needs of the mentally and physically handicapped children through expert teacher training, through consultative services to school officials, and through research and experimentation.

Similarly, a Department of Elementary Education and a Department of Secondary Education have been authorized by the Board to give better focus to the specialization on both levels. Educational administration and supervision have also been marked for distinctive work, especially on the graduate level, by recognition as a separate department. A new Department of Instructional Materials was formed to give impetus and guidance to the teacher and the school librarian in the production and use of teaching aids.

Teachers of Teachers

Probably the longest single stride of this exciting year in the history of teacher education at Southern is the planning of a program for teachers of teachers. At no level is the shortage of well-trained teachers watched with more anxiety than at the college level. If the teachers colleges of America are to meet half of the insistent demands for more and better teachers during the next generation, universities with the will and the means must take steps immediately to provide the varied and exacting education necessary. Southern counts itself one of such universities and has launched plans for advanced study leading to the doctorate degree. The staff of the College of Education will continue to give the same unstinting effort to evaluating and experimenting with all methods and materials for improving teaching on the elementary and secondary school levels. Moreover, the staff will give that work even greater zest and meaning by weaving it into the newly added objective of preparing college teachers who in turn will assume leadership in the training of teachers. The College of Education will also direct a part of its efforts toward more advanced training for administrators wishing doctoral degrees and preparing for important administrative posts.

At present the College of Education is handicapped in its growth and in the range and character of its research and teaching by lack of space and facilities. An education building is sorely needed, as are other buildings for the University. All people deeply interested in education in southern Illinois have strong hopes and some expectation that the Legislature will soon make available funds for the construction of an educational building on the SIU campus. Meanwhile, at SIU our purpose holds to move as fast as the world moves and to be ready for all tests of our strength and versatility.

SALUKIS PRESENTED

Two pure-bred Salukis, one of the rarest breeds of dogs, were presented to Southern during half-time ceremonies of the Homecoming football game.

The dogs are a gift of W. W. Vandeveer, ex '09, president of Ashland Oil Company and twice president of the Southern Alumni Association. The presentation was made to President D. W. Morris.

The Saluki, an ancient Egyptian hunting dog, is the school symbol. One of the mascots given by Vandeveer is a direct descendant of a champion from the kennels of King Ibn Saud of Saudi Arabia. He is an 18-month-old male named Ornah Farouk of Pine Paddocks. The other Saluki is a 10-month-old female, Burydown Datis, who was whelped in England. Vandeveer obtained the dogs from the Pine Paddocks Kennels near his Rocky River, O., home as a gift to students and alumni.

The Saluki, oldest pure breed in the world, has been identified in records dating back to 3600 B.C. There are only a few hundred of them in this country, according to the exclusive Saluki Club of America.

The new SIU mascots will be housed in kennels owned by Dr. Robert Scott, a chemistry professor at Southern. King Tut, the original Saluki mascot of SIU, was killed by an automobile two years ago.
An Alumnus in Profile

The story of Grant Hughes, ex '16, as told by Kenny Bennett, editor of Arketex Family News and publisher of The Putnam County (Ind.) Graphic

If old Diogenes were in business today, he could turn out his lantern if he changed his original pursuit to the hunt for a perfectionist.

All this ancient Greek philosopher would have to do would be to make a stop at the Arketex Ceramic Corporation office (located in Brazil, Ind.). There he would find his man—Grant L. Hughes, secretary-treasurer and executive assistant to the president and director.

But while gaining his title of Mr. Perfectionist, Mr. Hughes has earned the reputation for fairness in all his dealings. He himself says the nicest compliment he ever received was: “Hughes is a hard taskmaster but you will always find him fair.”

Grant's pride in neatness and precision is reflected in his very appearance. And he likes to have his home or business in the same order. When a general housecleaning is going on in any of the plants, the question usually is asked: “Was Mr. Hughes here, or when do you expect him?”

Mr. Hughes literally has done nothing but live Arketex since becoming a member of the team on opening day, May 21, 1937. His constant push, unlimited energy, desire for the finest, and loyalty to his company and its men have been contributing factors to the Arketex success story.

Grant made his debut into the world back on October 30, 1897, when he arrived at Dongola, Ill. He attended Southern Illinois University at Carbondale and Metropolitan College at Elgin. Grant entered the Army in World War I when he was 20 years old, spending most of his time as a “glorified clerk” for 13 months at Camp Taylor, Ky. He was mustered out of service as a private first class.

His training and experience prior to coming to Arketex were in business management and in commercial and governmental accounting. He was accountant and business manager of the Jacksonville (Ill.) State Hospital from 1920 to 1933 and served as a partner in the Central Audit Company of Jacksonville and Springfield from 1933 to 1937.

Mr. Hughes assisted in the audit of the predecessor company by which Arketex Ceramic Corporation began business back in 1937. He began as auditor and later served as assistant secretary-treasurer. He became secretary-treasurer and executive assistant to the president and director in 1941.

He is treasurer and director of Glazed Tile Sales, Inc., and chairman of the Industrial Committee of the Brazil Chamber of Commerce, director of the YMCA and active in other community betterments.

Grant is past commander of the Jacksonville American Legion Post, the Morgan County (Ill.) American Legion and the district American Legion of that area. His work with the Legion, especially the disabled, has been editorialized twice in the Legion’s national magazine. He also has served as state secretary and state treasurer of the Grand Voiture 40 & 8 of Illinois. He is a 32-degree Mason and Shriner and member of the Elks Lodge. Grant is also a member of the Baptist Church and is listed in “Who's Who in the Midwest.”

Mr. Hughes married Lucella Stoltz of Fairfield, Ill., in 1917, and they now reside at 106 N. Murphy Ave., in Brazil...

Does this understanding and dynamic perfectionist have a hobby? In case you haven’t guessed, it’s a full-time one, too. It's Arketex.

Religion in Life at Southern

Probably every generation of young people has been accused of "going to the dogs." We've had the "Gay Nineties," the "Roaring Twenties." We've had the "jazz" age, the "be-bop," the "jitterbug," and now it's "rock 'n' roll." But somehow we feel the students of today are as interested in their spiritual life as they are in rock 'n' roll. At Southern the students find time for both.

Our students believe that no well-rounded educational program is complete without religious experience. The University also recognizes this fact and now includes a minor in religion as part of its curriculum.

Local churches are filled each Sunday with University students. Many of them set aside a part of each day for Christian fellowship and meditation.

In order to encourage religious life at Southern, the Inter-Faith Council was organized in 1953 to act as an advisory group to the Office of Student Affairs. The council began with a membership of eleven, including one pastor or adult and one student representative from each of the recognized religious denominations on campus, plus one representative from the Office of Student Affairs. The council's paramount purpose is to encourage and assist the religious groups on campus in their individual programs.

The Baptist Student Foundation provides classrooms, chapel, library, cafeteria, dormitories and recreational centers. Thirty-six courses are offered in Bible and related subjects, with 51 college hour credits.

Canterbury Club provides study, fellowship and worship for Southern students who are baptized or confirmed members of the Episcopal Church or who are interested in the Episcopalian Church and its club program.

Gamma Delta fosters religious discussion programs and social activities for members of the Lutheran Church. The club's aims are "to make a thorough study of the Bible and the relations of the Christian faith to contemporary problems and to show the vital force of Christian faith through service to the Church and the world and to establish and maintain Christian fellowship among Lutheran students."

The Newman Club is made up of Catholic students. Affiliated with the National Newman Club Federation, its purpose is "to foster the spiritual, intellectual, and social life of the students." The club sings High Mass every third Sunday at the St. Francis Xavier Church.

The Student Christian Foundation is interdenominational and since its beginning in 1943 has provided a center for Christian worship and fellowship for hundreds of students and faculty. The first and only interdenominational, inter-racial foundation at Southern, the organization was formed "to cultivate and guide into maturity the Christian faith young people bring to the campus." Every Sunday morning an impressive worship service is conducted in the foundation chapel. The choir members, the ushers, and most of the worshippers are students. Sermons are delivered by the foundation director and by guest ministers. Each Sunday worship hour is preceded by a discussion group conducted by Dr. Wesley Ward and other SIU faculty members. Last year the Sunday morning services contributed $500 to benevolent giving. This was in addition to their foundation pledges. Its dormitory upstairs provides rooms for Christian young men attending the University, including some from foreign countries.

During the week, the Student Christian Foundation conducts noon hour chapel service and through prayer and meditation students gain strength to meet their problems.

University enrollment is expected to reach 12,000 by 1965 and if this figure becomes a reality (and it gives every indication of becoming a reality), an estimated 3,500 students will be associated with churches supporting the foundation. In addition, an estimated 1,000 "no preference" students will be prospective members. The present building housing the foundation is to be removed.

Typical worship service to make room for the expanding construction program at Southern. In 1955 the foundation's board of directors voted to launch a capital funds drive, with a minimum goal of $200,000 for erecting a new foundation building. Architects are preparing plans for this structure. Tentative plans call for a chapel to seat 125, expandable to accommodate 400; dining facilities; classrooms; offices; lounges; et cetera.

The Wesley Foundation of the Methodist Church, in its third year of operation, is developing a comprehensive program which will include worship services, discussion forums, spiritual life retreats, deputation and social service opportunities, dramatic presentations, credit courses, recreation, and counseling.

The Christian Science Organization provides an opportunity to share experiences at their testimonial meetings conducted by the students every first and third Thursday. One lecture each year by a member of the Christian Science Board of Lectureship is also sponsored by the group.

Another important function of the Inter-Faith Council is planning and directing activities of the annual Religion in Life Week.

First known as Religious Emphasis Week, during this observance there are individual religious group meetings, religious discussions in many houses, and a religious movie shown one night during the week. There is an all-school assembly one evening. Another feature is a faculty dinner, at which time panel discussions on vital religious topics are debated. Several outstanding men have been speakers for the all-school assemblies.

Financing has been one of the problems of the council. Since Southern is state-supported, the council cannot receive funds for the cost of the assembly speakers during Religion in Life Week, and these assemblies have become a part of the Freshmen Assembly Program. The religious preference cards which students fill out upon entering SIU, programs and other printing have been provided by the Office of Student Affairs. Also, the council is permitted to take a silver offering at the Messiah which is given annually. This has provided funds to allow special activities during Religion in Life Week.

The students who find time for spiritual life at Southern are also, in many cases, leaders in other campus activities, social as well as academic.

With a program like this at Southern, we aren't going to be too concerned with fear for this "Rock 'n' Roll" generation.

PILOT STUDY OF SOUTHERN ILLINOIS

Dr. Charles C. Colby's new book, "Pilot Study of Southern Illinois," was published last month by the Southern Illinois University Press. Described as "the first positive study of Southern Illinois," the book is designed as a tool for regional planning. Comprehensive information on the area's livelihood structure, industrial and recreational potential, and unrealized opportunities for growth presented by Colby are the result of more than two years of research, including field investigations, interviews, and surveys.

The book includes for the first time a 24 x 32 inch colored map of the Shawnee Hills region, showing the proposed Shawnee hiking and horseback trail. It was recently explored on horseback by Dr. D. W. Morris and a group of Southern Illinois University students.

Dr. Colby, emeritus professor and chairman of the University of Chicago geography department, is an internationally prominent geographer and has had wide experience in area studies. He has been a consultant in land planning with TVA, a member of the Land Committee, National Resources Planning Board, and a chairman of the Mid-Century Conference on Resources for the Future. He completed this study while a member of the SIU faculty.

A series of personal appearances was arranged by the University Press October 19-23 in the area to introduce the "Pilot Study."

Order the new book through your local bookseller or the Southern Illinois University Press, Carbondale. The price is $7.50.

TO SPONSOR PROGRAM

SIU is one of 20 midwest institutions selected by the U.S. State Department to sponsor a program of "Citizen Consultations" on subjects vital to the nation's long-range international problems.

A project of the National Commission for UNESCO, the program's aims are to encourage interest in and study of important international problems, to give the National Commission and the State Department views of representative citizens who have studied the problems, and to "establish a better two-way flow of communication about these problems through local-state-national-international channels."

Project chairman is Dr. Frank Klingberg, professor of government at Southern. According to Klingberg, some 100 area citizens will be invited to serve on work groups. Topics selected for nationwide study are: "The American Citizen's Stake in the Progress of Less Developed Areas of the World"; "Our Moral and Spiritual Resources for International Cooperation"; "The National Interest and Foreign Languages"; and "The American as International Traveler and Host."

GRADUATE COURSES AT SHURTFLEFF COLLEGE

Southern's Board of Trustees has approved an agreement sanctioned earlier by Shurtleff College trustees whereby graduate courses will be taught by SIU on the Shurtleff campus. The agreement provides for use of classrooms and other facilities for extension courses otherwise unavailable in the Alton area.

Shurtleff staff members handle registration of extension students, and check out books from Southern's library to SIU students on the Alton campus. The college also provides janitorial service, pays for heat, light, and incidental expenses.

The University will reimburse Shurtleff on the basis of student enrollment, and will provide any special equipment, such as laboratory supplies, maps, and motion picture projectors.

Trustees of both institutions agreed that Southern would have complete freedom in scheduling courses open only to graduate students but would consult Shurtleff officials about any courses open to undergraduates.

FOREIGN STUDENTS

Twenty-nine foreign countries are represented in this fall's registration figures. A record enrollment of 90 are now on campus. Korea and Formosa lead the list with 41 students between them. Other countries with five or more are Germany, Iran, India, and Jordan.

The remaining breakdown: Egypt, Greece, and Iraq, three each; France, Mexico, Nigeria, Peru, Philippines, and Venezuela, one each; and single students from Belgium, Belgian Congo, Costa Rica, Gold Coast, Honduras, Hong Kong, Israel, Jamaica, Luxembourg, Pakistan, Puerto Rico, Syria, Thailand, and Uruguay.

DISTRICT GOVERNOR

Dr. W. G. Swartz

Dr. Willis G. Swartz, dean of the Graduate School at Southern, was elected governor of District 216, Rotary International, last month. The only nominee, Dr. Swartz was elected by acclamation.

Dean Swartz has been active on district fellowship committees and has introduced dozens of students from foreign countries to Rotary Clubs throughout southern Illinois. He was at one time a member of the National Council of American Association of University Professors and has been active in church and community affairs.

APPLIED SCIENCE PROGRAM ACTIVATED

A new applied science program was activated this fall in the industrial education department, including the present two-year pre-engineering course of study as well as a bachelor’s degree curriculum in industrial supervision. Courses to enable students in pre-engineering to obtain a third year of work at Southern are to be added by the fall of 1957. Industrial education pre-engineering courses will be eventually shifted to the applied science program. Courses in the applied science program include machine and tool design, engineering drawing, mechanics, statics, dynamics, surveying, mechanics and industrial laboratories, descriptive geometry, and testing laboratory experience.

SOUTHERN PLAYERS ANNOUNCE SCHEDULE

To accommodate an increasing demand for tickets, four of the five plays scheduled by Southern Players will have a full week’s run.

The first play of the season was presented October 26 during Homecoming weekend and was a portrayal of Emlyn Williams’ “Night Must Fall.”

Other plays scheduled are “Arms and the Man” by George Bernard Shaw, December 3–8; Shakespeare’s “Romeo and Juliet,” February 11–16; “A Streetcar Named Desire” by Tennessee Williams, April 15–20, and “Our American Cousin,” May 13–18.

Season tickets are priced at $2.50, with individual gate admission at $1.00. Curtain time is 8:00 P.M.

POPULAR PROFESSOR DIES SUDENLY

Dr. Oliver W. Beimfohr, associate professor of geography at SIU, died suddenly October 12 at Doctors Hospital in Carbondale of an acute heart congestion caused by a pulmonary embolus.

Dr. Beimfohr joined the faculty in 1949 and in 1954 was honored by being named Southern’s most popular professor by the members of the student body.

His monograph, “The Industrial Potential of Southern Illinois,” which he wrote for his doctoral thesis, was published last year by the Southern Illinois University Press. It was written in 1952, the year he received the Ph.D. degree from Ohio State University.

Dr. Beimfohr is survived by the widow, a 15-year-old son John, and two brothers. Funeral services were held at the local First Presbyterian Church, of which he was a very active member.

NEW ENROLLMENT RECORD

With more than 6,100 students enrolled at Southern, a new record has been set. The figure, including a record freshman class of well over 2,000, compares to an enrollment of 5,554 resident students a year ago.

The on-campus total shows men outnumbering women more than two to one. Other programs, including extension, technical and adult education, and University School add to this figure nearly 3,000 additional persons who are enrolled for full and part-time study.
Salukis Move Into Second Place

by Bill Hollada, '51

Winning two of their first three conference games, Southern's grid team moved into second place in the Interstate Conference with high hopes of at least tying for second for its best finish since 1947.

With three conference opponents remaining—Illinois Normal, Western Illinois, and Northern—SIU needed wins in at least two of the three games to sew up a tie for the runner-up spot.

Central Michigan, the powerhouse of the conference again this season, is expected to go through the year without a league loss. Last year the only blemish on its 8-1 record was a 14-13 upset at the hands of Southern.

Injuries, especially lime burns, put a number of SIU players on the sidelines following the rain-soaked game with Eastern Michigan. Whether the Salukis could overcome these injuries was the big question facing Southern in its remaining games.

Heading Southern's offense is sophomore halfback Carver Shannon of Corinth, Miss. In his first five games he scored 66 points and averaged almost 100 yards per game rushing, netting 488 yards in 51 carries.

He scored 15 points as SIU roared back to trounce Illinois Wesleyan, 40-0, after being held scoreless the first half. He made all 13 points as Southern lost to Central Michigan, 32-13, and tallied all 14 of SIU's points in the 14-7 Saluki win over Eastern Michigan.

Against Eastern Illinois he tied a conference single game scoring mark as he made 24 points while Southern was blanking Eastern, 33-0. Of the first five, the only game in which he was held scoreless was the Bradley contest which SIU lost, 26-20.

With three league games remaining, Shannon needed only 10 more points to set a new conference scoring record.

Quarterback Bill Norwood of Centralia has worked out well in the signal-calling position, filling the vacancy left by Gerald Hart of West Frankfort. Replacing Captain Bill Spratt, fullback from Salem, who is on the sidelines this year because of an old injury, is Richard White of St. Louis.

SIU's line play has been improved and shows more depth than it has in several seasons. The depth of the line is still not as great as many of the other conference teams, but there are few seniors on the squad this year and the Junior Varsity team has more good material than usual.

Seniors on this year's team include Tim Bowers, guard from Murphysboro; Jim McCann, guard from West Frankfort; John Gelch, end from Sesser; Gene Krolak, senior from Chicago; and Spratt. Another player, tackle Ed Hayes, a junior, is in his last year of eligibility.

Following SIU's Homecoming game against Western Illinois October 27, Southern's schedule includes the following tilts: November 3, at Washington University; November 10, Illinois Normal; November 17, at Northern Illinois.

BASKETBALL PROSPECTS

Five lettermen plus several Junior Varsity players and a host of freshmen were among the more than 60 players who turned out for the opening of cage drills at Southern October 15.

A lack of height but plenty of speed may feature this year's squad. Tallest returning letterman is 6' 5" Larry Whitlock, Mount Vernon, who is the top prospect for the starting center position this year.

Other lettermen turning out for beginning drills were Captain Gordon Lambert, Marion; Seymour Bryson, Quincy; Warren Talley, Pinckneyville; and Robert Welch, Centralia.

Another letterman, Marion Rushing, Pinckneyville, is expected to report at the end of the football season.

Only lettermen not returning from last year's team are guards Richard Blythe, Hammond, Ind.; Joe Johnson, Mount Vernon, and center Gus Doss, East St. Louis. Blythe and Johnson graduated, while Doss, who would have been scholastically ineligible, has transferred to another college.

Two of the best incoming prospects are Marvin Jones, freshman from Lincoln High School of East St. Louis, and a returning serviceman, Frank Borgsmiller, sophomore from Murphysboro. The tallest newcomer is Robert Holz, 6' 5'', a transfer from Illinois Normal.

Among those returning from last year’s team are Arlen Hill, Pinceneyville; Sammy Duane, Galatia; Garrison Newsom, Shawneetown; Charles Wade, Greggsville; Cleveland Hammond, Alton; Clifford Christian, Patoka; Don McGee, Chester; Tom Hallam, Albion; Richard Hughes, Shawnee; Joe Gonzales, Granite City; Don Curry, Aurora; and Don Dudacek, Edwardsville.

Among the promising newcomers are two Southern Illinois guards, Richard Jones (5' 8''), Herrin, and Don Griffin (5' 7''), West Frankfort.

“Considering their size,” said Holder, “these two were among the best high school guards in the state last year. The big question is not their height but whether they can get their shots off quick enough against tall opponents. Both have the advantage of being shifty.”

class of 1926? Someway or other I have lost my 1925 Obelisk—1925 was the year I attended a full year—then taught seven months at Grimsby in a little country school. By going summers and mid-season terms of 1925 and 1926, I received the two-year diploma for a teacher’s certificate. I couldn’t take part in activities in 1926 but I had such a wonderful year and so many friends in 1925. That was the year I was queen of the Mardi Gras. I’m wondering if anyone has an Obelisk gathering dust who would send it to me.

I want to say “hello” and “lots of luck” to all my friends of Southern—also to the many teachers who are still there.

Recalls the “Old Days”

I understand your office is interested in “what’s current” with members of ALL your alumni. If I had not married and continued my education at Southern, I would have graduated with the 1933 class—along with some of my very special friends, such as State’s Attorney John G. Gilbert, Paul McRoy (who later became my employer when I had my own radio program on his station), Kathryn Lentz, Jane Warren, Evelyn Bell, Jean Smith, Elizabeth and Marion Dill, Ruth Stevenson, Beulah Borger, Evelyn Hodge, James Barrow, and many others. But years have lapsed since making contact with most of them.

I would like very much to hear from any of my former schoolmates who would care to drop me a line or write to me—would love to have them visit me and my family here in Utah.

There isn’t a day that goes by that I haven’t a thought in my mind for some past friend that I knew at Southern. Wonderful and exciting memories of the days when I was honored as May Queen, Football Queen, and a member of the Obelisk art staff, and a member of The Student Council—in those days quite an honor.

I am thankful for all these things! But the person or individual that has had the greatest influence on my life and my plans for the future is still a faculty member at old Southern—no other than Lula D. Roach, associate professor of art. I think she is one “great lady” that should be honored among all women. Her ability to teach and make her students love and respect her at the same time is a great accomplishment in itself. She has always been a living example of how one should be, how one could look dressed appropriately, and what one could accomplish by working diligently at what one might love most!

... God has been good and kind to me and to my family. I have three wonderful children and I have remarried to a very wise and wonderful man who is daily helping me to achieve my “life’s dream.” We are building a home that I have designed, which is to be used also as an art gallery for both my paintings and those of other artists. And in additional efforts, I am in the process of writing three novels. In the near future, I hope to resume my radio program which I had to give up a few years ago ...

Sorry I can’t make it for Homecoming this year, but you can be sure my thoughts will be with each of you.

I am enclosing my personal check to cover this year’s membership in the Alumni Association.

Off to Europe

We are going to Toul-Rosieres AFB in Northeastern France to join my husband. We are scheduled to sail October 18 from New York.

My sons, Gregory Nelson, 9, and Gary John, 6, and I have been living in Kansas this past summer while we waited for our port call. We have thoroughly enjoyed being near our relatives and I have seen several friends whom I had not seen for years. I have had delightful visits with two former Southern students, Mildred Wooldridge Smith (Mrs. Frank), ex ’38, and Ann Wham Tom (Mrs. Theodore), ’40.

Before our transfer to France we were at Reese AFB, Lubbock, Tex., from May, 1952, to June, 1956. I liked living in west Texas and while there I was very busy with Cub Scouts, P.T.A., club activities, a Sunday School class, and various other things.

I was in Germany a year, 1949, but did not get to see much of Europe so during this three-year assignment in France I hope to do a lot of traveling—of course, with the family.

I look forward to receiving the Southern Alumnae and enjoy the news.

SIU anthropology students and Museum staff members will be busy for weeks unpacking archaeological specimen which arrived recently from Durango, Mexico, where members of the 1956 SIU summer field session excavated the material. One and three-fourths tons of specimen, packed in 15 large wooden boxes, arrived by truck. Dr. J. Charles Kelley, Museum director, says this is much more than was obtained during the 1954 field session in Mexico. It includes pottery and stone artifacts, such as projectile points, axes and grinding stones, heads, figurines, carved bone, and spindle whorls.
