Gift in Gratitude from Iran

My contribution to the Roscoe J. Pulliam Memorial Alumni Scholarship Fund is very small compared with what I would like to give. Being a former student, I have also known lean days when the checks didn’t seem to come through the mail because there weren’t any forthcoming.

Had an extremely pleasant visit with Parviz Zahedi over the Iranian New Year (which is the first day of spring). He has married a charming girl who was his private secretary. This year the Iranian New Year fell during Ramazan, and so much of Tehran was closed due to religious observances. Because Iranians are Shi'ites, recognizing Karim Kahn as their leader, the Iranians are a much more liberal Moslem. And Tehran, being the capital, is more international in flavor. So we were fortunate in that we could move about and meet old friends.

If nothing dire happens in the near future, I will be visiting the campus this summer with my sons.

In the meantime I wish you a very successful summer and continued increase in contributions to the Pulliam Fund.

Pardon, Our Error

(The following letter was written in regard to the picture of three members of the 1914 basketball team which appeared in the January Southern Alumnus.)

I note the footmark of the picture says “the first basketball team at Southern.” This is definitely erroneous. If you will look at the 1907-08 Spaulding’s Basketball Guide you will see a picture of the team at SINU consisting of Ben Bovinet, Fred Brown, William Brown and others whom I cannot recall. I do not believe they were members of the first basketball team although I could be mistaken as I did not enter SINU as a student until the fall of 1908.

Also, if you will check with the 1908-09 and 1909-10 Spaulding’s Basketball Guides you will see pictures of SINU teams consisting of Paul DeLap, VandeVeer, Pathenal, John Searing and others whose names I cannot recall. It may be that Hawkins, Etherton and Parker were on these squads but I don’t recall that they were as I played on the same football squad with Parker in the fall of ’09 and again in the fall of ’12 and ’13. Elbert Etherton was a member of the ’12 and ’13 football squads but I don’t remember that Cy Etherton was.

History Past and Present

I wish the Southern playing cards and a membership in the Alumni Association. Enclosed check for both.

My mother, Mrs. Lavinia McConnaughey Robinson who passed away in 1936 at the age of 86, taught school in a log school house in Jefferson County, Illinois. She did not approve of decks of cards. A great change has taken place!

I’ll be 85 October 30, am enjoying good health and keep happy. Have three daughters. Our son, John Wilson Affolter, served in the U.S. Army over the same section of country in Kentucky that my father, I.W. Robinson, had served during the Civil War. John was honorably discharged in April 1944 and passed away in January 1951.

Paul I. Robinson, M.D. (whose father was my brother, Dr. James W. Robinson, alumnus of SINU) and myself are those left of the Isaac Wilson Robinson family of Jefferson County, Illinois. Paul retired as major general from the Army Medical Corps in 1958 and is with the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company.

Would enjoy being at SIU this year. Maybe I’ll be at Commencement 1961. With best wishes for the progress of SIU and my deep appreciation to the professors of Southern who have done so much to develop the University.

Students of botany at SIU are very fortunate. Some of their field trips take them but a few steps from the classroom. The entire campus is an arboretum, where they can study first-hand the lessons in their textbooks.

This Botany 101 class is interested at the moment in the Quercus Species Valutina—better known as the hybrid oak. Their teacher is Prof. Robert H. Mohlenbrock, Jr. '53, M.S. '54 (at far right), member of the Botany Department and sponsor of the Botany Club. He is holding a long-handled cutting instrument to secure specimens for closer study and microscopic examination.

During the last 10 years 240,000 trees have been planted on the SIU campuses. Prof. William Marberry '35, also of the Botany Department, has started the ambitious task of tagging each tree with an identification plate so that students and visitors can become acquainted with the extensive collection of native and exotic trees that make Southern one of the loveliest campuses in the country.

Lovely campuses just don’t happen—they are the result of years of planning and work on the part of a number of departments. Here at Southern the landscape architect’s office, the physical plant office, and the botanists all have a hand in making the University campus and its branches so attractive and inviting.

This is no small job at a University which has added several branches and whose main campus has grown from 20 acres to 800 in the span of 91 years.

An account of “The Beautiful Campus of SIU” appears on pages four and five of this magazine.

At June Commencement Ceremonies

Degrees Awarded to 950 Graduates

In impressive, colorful Commencement ceremonies held the evening of June 15 in McAndrew Stadium, degrees were awarded to 950 SIU graduates. Included were associate, bachelor, and master degrees, about 75 of which were given in absentia, and two doctorate degrees.

The two doctorate degrees, the second and third awarded by Southern, went to Alvin I. Cohen, M.A. '57, and William C. Holz, both in psychology.

Two honorary degrees also were given—a doctor of fine arts to Helen Hayes (Mrs. Charles MacArthur), first lady of the American theater, and star of stage, screen and TV, and a doctor of humane letters to George E. Mylonas, professor and head of the Department of Art and Archeology of Washington University in St. Louis.

Six advanced Air Force ROTC cadets received commissions as second lieutenants in addition to their degrees.

Faculty Service Awards were presented to 14 veteran members of the teaching staff. Two members will retire in September—Lula D. Roach, associate professor of art and a member 30 years, and R. A. Scott, professor of chemistry and a member 37 years.

Honored for 35 years' service were Frances Barbour, English; Ted R. Ragsdale, elementary education; Hilda A. Stein, zoology; and John I. Wright, history. For 30 years—J. Cary Davis and Vera L. Peacock, foreign languages; Robert D. Faner, English; Miss Roach; Annemarie E. Krause, geography; and Dean Willis G. Swartz, Graduate School and government. For 25 years—Willard M. Gersbacher, zoology; Douglas E. Lawson, educational administration and supervision; and Harley R. Teel, University School.

Seventy graduates of Alton-East St. Louis SIU Residence Centers had separate commencement exercises June 14 at the Southwestern Illinois campus at Edwardsville. Governor William G. Stratton was the speaker.

Commencement speaker was Virgil Hancher, president of the State University of Iowa. He challenged the graduates to use their “great possessions” to preserve and improve their heritage and to share them with the world’s underdeveloped countries.

Drawing his text from the Gospel of St. Matthew—in which the rich young man “goes away sorrowful, for he had great possessions” after Jesus had advised him to sell what he has and give to the poor—Dr. Hancher told the class, “You can, of course, choose the self-centered, selfish way of life. You can choose to play it cool, to be alert for the fast buck, to keep your hand out for payola, to decide every issue with the simple question, What’s in it for me?”

He told them they are recipients of an unearned opportunity—the “dynamic, social and political order into which you were born”—and for the sake of world order and progress this heritage and its wealth must be shared with less fortunate countries.

“Where it is good, preserve it; where it is weak, strengthen it; where it is in error, set it in the right way. Because whatever its faults may be, it has done more than any other social system to lift the masses of men above the margin of want and hunger, sickness and disease, cold and ignorance.”

SOUTHERN ALUMNUS
The phenomenal growth of Southern Illinois University—in size and in stature—is pretty well known by its alumni, by the citizens of the state, and by many outside the area. SIU now ranks as second largest institution of higher learning in Illinois and as 41st in the nation in terms of full-time student enrollment.

According to the annual Walters report of nationwide college enrollment trends, SIU has passed Northwestern University in full-time enrollment, ranking next only to the University of Illinois. Nationwide it has jumped four places over its 1958 position.

Southern's 7.6 per cent total enrollment increase during 1959-60 compares to a national hike of 3.6 per cent. The full-time student enrollment at SIU climbed by 7.8 per cent from the '58 fall quarter to the fall of '59, compared to an even four per cent increase across the nation.

Facts and figures such as these bring a feeling of pride to the University and to its alumni and friends. But it also brings problems that beset the officials and faculty greatly and the alumni and friends in a lesser degree, although they should be just as concerned about the consequences.

One of the most pressing problems is the space problem—not in outer space but right on the SIU campuses. It certainly is not a new problem but it becomes more acute.

The building needs at SIU extend back over a period of years. First the depression and then the war put a halt to expansion plans.

The last classroom building constructed before World War II was Parkinson Laboratory in 1928. McAndrew Stadium was completed in 1938 and there was a lapse of 11 years before the next construction project—the Power Plant, followed up in 1951 by the Service Shops and University School.

Despite the flurry of building in the last decade or so, Southern still is trying to catch up with its program. “Pay as you go” construction has not kept up with the growth.

Despite a construction gain of 23 new buildings since 1955, Southern now is using more temporary barns, barracks, quonset huts and houses than ever before. Last count was 170, most of them for housing, the rest for classrooms, offices, and other purposes.

Inability to obtain adequate housing was the principal reason almost 100 students out of a total 657 did not complete registration last fall. They comprised an increase of 27 per cent over a similar survey of four years ago, indicating their chief reason for not attending being no housing or inadequate housing available.

University housing officials have started a major appraisal of student housing needs for the next decade. The estimate in 1957 for 8,500 beds in the next 10 years may have to be revised. About one-fourth of the single students at Carbondale are in permanent University facilities.

Plans are underway for 11 more units for 990 single students in the Thompson Point and Small Group Housing areas. With completion of an eight-building group at Southern Hills for 128 student families, negotiations are well underway for 144 more apartments.

Housing is not the only space problem. Lack of space will mean night and Saturday classes for several more years. Fifteen to 20 per cent of local classes are held in the evening to 10 P.M. and on Saturday morning. This plan was innovated in 1954 because there wasn’t enough room for classes between 8 A.M. and 5 P.M. To give all students an equal opportunity the Sectioning Center was established to parcel out the desirable and the undesirable hours impartially.

Classes still go on in quonset huts, in old houses, and in military barracks. The majority of the alumni family are familiar with the crowded conditions of these makeshift classrooms.

Thompson Woods is a cool haven on hot summer days, green and shadowy, with its tall trees and thick brush.

An arboretum, the SIU campus is a lovely spot to visit any season of the year . . .

The Beautiful Campus at SIU

The entire campus of Southern Illinois University is an arboretum. Visit it most any time of the year and you'll see a lovely sight. It doesn't matter when—each season dresses up the campus in a new appearance.

Many who work and study at Southern take it for granted and walk unseeing past its landscape beauty. It's the visitor who appreciates the floristic richness all about the grounds. Alumni who have not returned in many years feel strange among so many new buildings but view with delight the familiar as well as the new landscape features.

Botanists are not the only ones who have a field day on the SIU campus. Art students find many subjects for assignments; zoologists find specimens aplenty; and in a region where garden clubs abound, the University is an ideal spot to visit.

At this time of year the campus is a verdant world. Everywhere is green in varying shades—in the broad lawns, the towering trees, the abundant shrubbery. It is a lush and refreshing view on these hot, summery days.

Last spring blossoms of all colors, sizes, and descriptions made the campus a veritable flower garden. First burst of color came from the crocus and Easter flowers which braved the cold winds and snows of late winter during the month of March. Warm sunshine and spring breezes brought forth the blossoms on the magnolias, forsythia, dogwoods, and redbuds. Last month a huge catalpa tree near Old Main was covered with flowers that looked like clusters of popcorn.

Come fall with its cool, brisk days the green will give way to the red, yellow, and brown of autumn foliage—brilliant and exciting. Even in the deadness of winter when bare trees are stark silhouettes, the thick green shrubbery and trees around Old Main, Shryock Auditorium, and Allyn Building provide a splash of color on the scene.

There is a great deal of planning, time, and work behind all these natural beauties. Since 1950 the landscape architect's office has been the primary factor in the planning of site development and landscaping. John F. H. Lonergan is the first and only landscape architect the University has had. On his staff are 13 men and 10 students.

They are concerned with the master planning of the entire campus. It is their job to plan seven to 10 years ahead of actual construction and development. They plan the location of buildings, roads, sidewalks, the sewer and electrical systems, the recreation area.

It is the physical plant office which has the job of maintaining the buildings, the landscaping, the grounds. This is a mighty task, an expanding job taking care of an expanding campus. Despite upheavals for new buildings, relocation, and the constant traffic of a busy university, the physical plant does a commendable job.

SIU landscaping is of both the formal and informal pattern. Buildings are surrounded by the formal type and these areas by the informal type. The formal pattern requires more work, more people. Five men are needed per acre for good formal planting.

The thousand ornamental types of plants on campus, though picturesque, need constant care. These include the deciduous plantings—the redbuds, dogwoods, flowering crab and cherry. All known vines are used in a number of ways.

The informal pattern surrounding the formal area offers a number of advantages. It gives the appearance of greater space, it sets off and isolates the buildings and gives them a background, and it has low maintenance landscaping. The rugged forest areas require even less care and only one person per acre is needed.

During the last 10 years 240,000 trees have been planted on the SIU campuses. These include red maple, gum, hard maple, yellow poplar, pin oak, and hackleberry. The University nursery contains trees up to 14-inch. The abundance of trees on campus has attracted numerous songbirds as well as a large population of squirrels.

Opened last fall was the Campus-on-the-Lake, better known to most alumni as Thompson Lake. With its beach, fishing piers, boating facilities, picnic grounds, and natural beauty, it has become a favorite spot with students and University personnel for recreation and relaxation. Twenty-five acres of woodland surround the 40-acre lake.

Another attraction at SIU is the Physical Plant greenhouses. Open to visitors, they have on exhibit flowers that are a panorama of color from bright garish hues to subdued pastels.

A visit to the SIU campus requires plenty of time to see all of the beauties. Plan a trip here whenever you can—the welcome mat is always out.
Douglas E. Lawson, professor of educational administration and supervision, is the first member of the Southern Illinois University faculty to receive the annual SIU Alumni Association “Great Teacher Award.” He was presented a check for $1,000 (tax exempt) at the Alumni Day Banquet program June 11.

He was selected for teaching excellence by members of the Alumni Association and the 1960 graduating class. Professor Lawson said he was “completely flabbergasted” at receiving this honor.

Native of Bristol, Colo., he has been at SIU since 1935 and has achieved wide recognition in the fields of educational philosophy and curricula. He was named dean of SIU’s College of Education in 1948 and served for six years before asking to be relieved of the post to devote full time to teaching—his first desire.

The Great Teacher of 1960

During a year’s leave—in 1947-48—he served as principal of Punahou School in Honolulu, Hawaii. He received his bachelor and master degrees from Colorado State College of Education and his doctorate from the University of Chicago.

Professor and Mrs. Lawson (Elnora Boos Baumgardner ’29-2, ’36) have three children—Jack B. ’57, M.A. ’58, who is working on his doctorate at the University of Chicago; and twin daughters, Joan (Mrs. William Crane), Lexington, Ky., and Jean (Mrs. Gene Rehn), SIU senior in education.

Professor Lawson was selected as SIU’s “Great Teacher” for 1960 because...

- He helped me blend together the importance of all learning transpired during college...
- He inspires students to greater desire for learning...
- For his thoroughness in advance preparation and excellent teaching techniques to insure everyone’s full understanding of the content of the course...
- Through his scholarly attitude and democratic ideals he helps his students develop their own ideals and attitudes.

Dr. Martin Van Brown (right), 1959-60 president of the SIU Alumni Association, presents Professor Lawson the association’s first “Great Teacher Award” of $1,000.
Alumni Day

Tradition was observed at SIU on Alumni Day June 11 with 10 class reunions, the seventh meeting of the Legislative Council, guided auto tours of the ever-changing campus, the gala Alumni Banquet, third presentation of Alumni Achievement Awards—and a hot steamy day.

Newest innovation and climax of the banquet program was the announcement of the “Great Teacher” at SIU and presentation of a check for $1,000 to the recipient, Prof. Douglas Lawson.

Alumni Day 1960 was pronounced the best attended on record. Older members of the alumni family far outnumbered their younger brothers and sisters, although newer classes had good representations. Alumni and their guests streamed in and out of the Student Union all afternoon attending various class reunions. Woody Hall dining room was full almost to capacity for the banquet.

One member of the Class of 1920 voiced surprise that tours were being made by car. She took the trip around campus and discovered that during the 40 years since she had left Southern it had far outgrown the one-block area of her day.

Alumni Achievement Awards were given at the Alumni Banquet program to three proud and beaming men. Dean Robert R. Hamilton '22-2, of the University of Wyoming College of Law, received his citation for professional achievement. Dean E. G. Lentz, ex '07, of Southern, and Lowell Roberts '15-2, Chicago, received theirs for service to SIU and the Alumni Association.

President Delyte W. Morris spoke briefly to the alumni family and revealed, for the first time, that barring unforeseen difficulties, Alumni Day 1961 would be held in the magnificent new University Center, now under construction.

Traveling the greatest distance to attend Alumni Day were Mr. and Mrs. Arza R. Hughes '28-2, '29 (Virginia F. Ragsdale '35), of Portland, Ore. The Classes of 1915 and 1920 tied for honors for having the greatest number of members attending their reunions.

Alumni Achievement Awards were presented to, from left, Lowell Roberts '15-2, Dean E. G. Lentz, ex '07, and Robert R. Hamilton '22-2, by Alumni President Martin Van Brown '23-2, '25, at far right.

New president of the SIU Alumni Association is George T. Wilkins '29-2, '37 (seated left), who succeeds Dr. Martin Van Brown '23-2, '25 (also seated). Standing from left are J. Lester Buford '24-2, '28, first vice president; Mrs. John S. Lewis (Elizabeth Harris '32) and Glenn Storme '29-2, re-elected corresponding secretary and treasurer respectively. Robert Lewis '40 is the second vice president.

The Illinois Teacher Education Scholarship Program

In the fall of 1954 there were 1,049 students attending Southern Illinois University on Illinois Teacher Education Scholarships.

Four years later, in the fall of 1959, that number had increased to 1,843, due in part to the constant vigilance of Jess Turnbow, field representative for the College of Education and Extension Division. When unused scholarships in this program were put into the state pool, it was Mr. Turnbow who ferreted them out and notified high school principals of their availability.

Scholarships under the Illinois Teacher Education program are for four years, awarded annually as of July 1. They are applicable at SIU and at the four state teacher universities. All recognized four-year public, private and parochial high schools are entitled to them based on enrollment. To high schools with enrollment up to 500, three scholarships are given; 500 to 1,000 enrollment, four scholarships; over 1,000 students, five.

In addition to these scholarships, 250 more are available each year for students who agree to take courses for teaching special education.

All expenses for four years for instruction, matriculation fees, graduation fees, tuition and activity fees or other fees in a program of teacher education are paid—all these but not fees charged in connection with construction and maintenance of buildings or laboratory fees and fees for books, supplies and materials.

A candidate must have graduated in the upper half of his class. He must inform his high school principal of his desire for such a scholarship. If he wishes one of the 250 scholarships for special education, he applies directly to Illinois Superintendent of Public Instruction.

The principal, in turn, sends to the county superintendent of schools the names of the candidates and their scholastic rank. The county superintendent certifies eligible names according to class rank to the state superintendent who issues certificates of scholarship. Then the high school graduate applies to any of the five Illinois schools included in the program. The University of Illinois does not come under this particular program.

Upon acceptance, the high school graduate notifies his county superintendent who certifies his name to the state superintendent.

If a principal fails to certify enough names to fill his school’s quota, the remaining scholarships are made available to other eligible schools in that county. A high school graduate must apply within two years after graduation for any unawarded, not used, or partially used scholarship that was available not more than two years before his application.

If a scholarship goes begging by June of the year following its availability, it is put in a state pool in the office of the state superintendent. Then a student from a county that has used up all its scholarships can apply for it. Through Mr. Turnbow’s persistent efforts, a number of scholarships from the state pool have been awarded to students already attending Southern. These students are reimbursed after they receive the scholarships for fees they already paid.

Because time is drawing short for making preparations to enter college this fall, it is advisable for high school graduates interested in the Illinois Teacher Education Scholarship Program to write immediately to Jess Turnbow at Southern Illinois University for the necessary information.
For the second year in a row Southern won the Interstate Conference All-Sports trophy. The Salukis edged out Western Illinois 79-75 for the honor.

The SIU win last year marked the first time in the seven-year history of the award that an Illinois member of the two-state, seven-school conference had captured the trophy.

Southern won six undisputed championships and tied for a seventh in the IIAC's 10-sport program. The Salukis took clear title to cross country, gymnastics, swimming, wrestling, baseball, and tennis crowns and tied for the basketball championship. SIU also finished in a three-way tie for second in football, third in golf, and seventh in track.

The SIU baseball team, Interstate Conference champs for the third straight season, were eliminated in the tough eight-team NAIA national tournament at Sioux City, Ia., on a slim 2-1 loss to Indiana, Pa., State. The Salukis earlier had been beaten 3-1 by Southern University of Baton Rouge, La., the defending national champion.

In other spring sports the tennis team captured its third straight IIAC title by edging Eastern Illinois 17-16 at the conference meets at Northern Illinois. SIU golfers finished third, one stroke behind second-place Western, and the track team ended in seventh place.

Veteran coach Leland P. (Doc) Lingle '21-2, '27, is back on campus again, almost fully recovered from a severe asthma attack suffered last winter. Lingle, SIU track and cross country coach since 1927, is teaching again during the summer term.

A gymnast who never competed in a varsity meet has claimed SIU's highest athletic honor.

Freshman Fred Orlofsky (left), North Bergen, N.J., was named Southern's most valuable athlete by election of varsity lettermen and received the Henry Hinkley Memorial Award from Gymnast Coach Bill Meade (right) at the annual All-Sports banquet. The trophy is presented each year by Sigma Pi fraternity in memory of a former SIU athlete from West Frankfort who was killed in the Pacific during World War II.

Fred Orlofsky earned the honor by turning in one of the outstanding AAU meet records in the nation this year (freshman gymnasts are not eligible for varsity competition at Southern). On May 1 he won the National AAU all-around championship at West Point to become one of the 12 men who will compete in July for a berth on the U.S. Olympic gym team.

This season he also won all-around titles at the Roy E. Moore Memorial Meet at Sarasota, Fla., the Central AAU, Central States AAU, and the Cleveland Invitational Open. He also won individual event championships at the Midwest Open in Chicago.

Orlofsky, 22, was National Junior All-Around Champion in 1957 and in December 1958 was a member of the U.S. squad that competed against the Finnish Olympic team.
Report on the Legislative Council

The SIU Alumni Association Legislative Council met the morning of Alumni Day, June 11, for its seventh annual session. Thirty-six classes were represented. Oldest class was 1895 with Mrs. Fred H. Wykes (Grace Swofford), Benton, in attendance. The youngest class, Class of 1960, had three representatives—Senior President Robert Hunt, Mary Lee Hake, and William Berry.

Council members and alumni guests were welcomed by SIU President D. W. Morris. Alumni President Martin Van Brown '23-2, '25, presided and Corresponding Secretary Elizabeth Harris Lewis '32 called the roll. Reports were made by the executive secretary of the Alumni Association, Robert Odaniell '51, and by the treasurer, Glenn Storme '29-2. Mr. Odaniell announced that of June 11 the association had a membership of 4,862, an increase over that of a year ago.

In other action the council voted to change Mr. Odaniell's title from executive secretary to executive director to make it comparable to that of the head of the SIU Foundation, sister organization. Also the Council approved the granting of honorary memberships to those persons awarded honorary degrees by the University, a group of 23 people.

Mrs. Lewis was re-elected corresponding secretary for a one-year term. Re-elected to the board of directors were David T. Kenney '47, M.S. '48, and George T. Wilkins '29-2, '37, who later was elected by the board as its president. Robert Lewis '40, Alton, is the new member of the board. Directors serve for four years.

Alumni Day 1961 will be held on Saturday, June 10. President Morris announced that barring unforeseen difficulties, Alumni Day will be held next year in the new University Center, now under construction.

Names of class representatives on the Legislative Council for 1960-61 head each class section in the class notes that appear on the following pages.

Listed under each class heading is the name and address of the class representative who takes office July 1 on the SIU Alumni Association Legislative Council.

John E. Miller

East St. Louis

It was with deep regret that John E. Miller, 2, had to be absent from the celebration of his Diamond Jubilee Reunion on Alumni Day last month. Although still very active in his home community of East St. Louis and nearby area, he has had to curtail his traveling.

Last year Mr. Miller had to miss Alumni Day and the personal acceptance of his Alumni Achievement Award because of an injury he had suffered a few months previous. He was honored for “74 years of service to Southern and all its interests.” At 95 he is Southern’s oldest alumnus.

Mr. Miller was an Illinois school teacher for 52 years, city superintendent of schools in East St. Louis for eight years, and superintendent of schools of St. Clair County for seven years.

He remains profoundly interested in his alma mater, in the Mississippi Valley (he is writing a history of the area), and in the complicated and fast-moving events on the international scene. In 1958 he was honored by the Optimist Club of East St. Louis as the world’s oldest active Optimist.

Therefore, if you will please let me know the terms of membership, I shall arrange to pay something toward the cost of sending me the Alumnus."

"I am always interested in the news that the Alumnus brings, for it adds to the news I get from my family. My sister, Mrs. Katherine Robinson, VTI-1 '58, of Carbondale, maintains some contact and I hear that my brother, Wilbur H. Fishman '15-2, of Cherokee, Iowa, is planning to attend a class reunion—or has that already taken place? Perhaps I shall attend a class reunion in 1962 (when I expect to retire) or soon thereafter. It is always good for old friends to get together after forty or fifty years!"

Named to Post in Public Health Work

Several months ago Howard E. Hough '42 left his position as head of the Bureau of Health Education in the Illinois Department of Public Health in Springfield to become secretary of the Paper Cup and Container Institute's Public Health Committee in New York City.

Mr. Hough, who majored in health and physical education at SIU, had been with the Illinois department since 1950, when he joined as a health education consultant in the Bureau of Maternal and Child Health, being promoted to director in 1953. Before that he was a staff public health educator with the Cook County Department of Public Health, Chicago.

During World War II he spent 31 months overseas, serving as an officer in the Army Medical Administrative Corps. He then taught and coached two years at Harrisburg Township High School before going to the University of Michigan for a master of public health degree.

The Houghs and their two sons live in Scarsdale, N.Y.

The Public Health Committee of the Paper Cup and Container Institute was organized in 1934, one of the first such groups established by private industry in this country to co-operate with public health practitioners. It assists in the development of programs to improve public health and sanitation. It also maintains a field service to provide health officials throughout the country with current information on new health department techniques. Mr. Hough is editor of its monthly Health Officers News Digest, which has been published over 20 years.

LAST CALL!

Only two more weeks to make reservations for the third annual SIU Alumni Family Vacation Camping Program at Little Grassy Lake. Reservations must be made by Friday, July 15. Write immediately if you already haven’t sent in your application blank and deposit.

Camping dates are August 12-20 and August 22-27. Specify which week—or both—and which of the three camping plans you prefer—

1. The regular program with everything furnished but linens. $27.50 for adults; $22.50 for children three to 12; $12.50 for children under three.

2. The plan for those who want to bring their own gear but wish to take their meals in the dining hall. $35 per couple per week and $13.75 per week for each additional member of the family.

3. The do-it-yourself plan for those who wish to provide their own gear and cook their own meals. $5 per week for the entire family for a site and participation in the recreational facilities.

Little Grassy is just 10 miles and 15 minutes southeast of Carbondale. It is the University's campus for instruction and training in outdoor recreation. The Department of Recreation and Outdoor Education co-operates in planning a program for every member of the family.

Swimming, hiking, boating, fishing, archery, skeet shooting, riding, handicraft, group singing, cookouts, nature study, loafing and relaxing are just a few of the attractions. Babysitting service, wonderful food, good companionship are a few of the others.

Only members of the SIU Alumni Association can participate in the camping program. If you are not a member, send an annual membership for four dollars along with your deposit check for one-fifth of the week's total cost for the family to the SIU Alumni Office, Carbondale.

Just leave your worries at home and come to the Alumni Family Vacation Camp.
SIU’s Space Problem . . .
first floor abandoned their quarters in a hurry when plaster and woodwork fell atop them. The upper floors already had been vacated because inspectors had declared them unsafe. Appropriations for remodeling had not come through and the project has been delayed for some time. Now there is no choice—it must be done or the building will stand almost entirely empty.

Vice Presidents John Grinnell and John Rendleman have taken temporary haven in the Home Economics Building while headquarters in an old home on West Grand are being renovated.

This is an old story at Southern but one that keeps repeating itself—as it has in all of the six state-supported schools of higher learning. State appropriations have been steadily increasing to each of them but their needs far exceed the amounts awarded. There is no hope of catching up, and surely none for expansion, if only the biennial appropriations requested are met. It will take much more than that.

In 1958 a bond issue to finance a construction program at the six schools was submitted to the voters but it failed to acquire the majority of those voting in the election.

Once again this method of raising revenues for the universities is to be submitted to the Illinois people in the November 8 election. They are asked to vote yes to help Southern Illinois University and the other five universities meet in part their building needs. The Bond Issue is for $195,000,000 and is to be used only for financing new buildings and other improvements.

In a campus-wide campaign SIU faculty and staff contributed $26,384.66 to publicize the Bond Issue throughout the state. This was more than the quota set in a drive at all state universities.

J. Lester Buford ’24-28 (seated left), Mt. William E. Selschott wrote that he was due to leave June 1 for six months of active duty in the Army. He had been teaching fifth grade in the Litchfield Public Schools.

Because she could not attend the first class reunion, Carolee Chambless Noren sent this message—"I very much regret that I shall be unable to attend the first anniversary of the Class of 1959. My husband, Lt. Clinton L. Noren '58, is in pilot training. We were married in January of this year and were immediately sent to Spence AB at Moultrie, Ga. Presently we are at Webb AFB, Big Spring, Tex. Yes, we are in big wide Texas, where there seems to be nothing except dust, heat, and Webb AFB. It is quite different from Southern Illinois. The tour of duty here will last until November. So we would appreciate hearing from past classmates. Our address is 610 State Street, Big Spring, Tex."

Joseph A. Williams is teaching at William Trimpe Junior High School, Bethalto.
Vice President John E. Grinnell and Director of Admissions Willis E. Malone '40 spent two weeks in Viet Nam to make a pre-contract survey of rural elementary educational facilities and needs, under the auspices of the International Co-operation Administration and the U.S. State Department. Results may lead to a three-year government contract under which SIU would provide teams to carry out lengthy supervising and counseling work in the Southeast Asian country. Aim of the program is to "improve rural life through improving rural education." Specialists would come from agriculture, handicrafts, mathematics, music, curriculum, administration and supervision.

Division Heads at Southwestern

The staff of the Southwestern Illinois campus has been reorganized and five acting division heads appointed—Kermit G. Clemans science; John J. Glynn, business; Nicholas T. Joost, humanities; Cameron W. Meredith, education; and Herbert H. Rosenthal, social studies . . . . Prof. Ralph Micken, chairman of the Speech Department and popular speaker of the SIU alumni club meeting circuit, is first vice president of the Illinois Speech Association and is in charge of the organization of its 1960 convention program . . . .

"Most Popular Faculty Member" at Southern is David T. Kenney '47, M.S. '48, associate professor of government and assistant dean of the Graduate School. He was presented an engraved plaque at the Spring Festival Assembly in McAndrew Stadium . . . . George Axtelle, professor of education, returned to Hawaii, where he lived from 1924 to 1930, to serve as summer professor in philosophy of education at the University of Hawaii.

Courses from Millinery to Hot Line

Thirty-seven workshops, short courses, and conferences are being held during Summer Session at SIU. Among them are eight specialized and unusual short courses offered to adults by the Division of Technical and Adult Education. These include Commercial Flower Arrangement, Hot Line short courses for linemen of co-operative electrical companies, School of Advanced Cosmetology, School Lunch Program, Bankers School for Junior Executives, course in millinery, and short courses for hospital managers and accountants and for restaurant managers . . . .

Benjamin Watkins, assistant professor of art, is the acting curator of SIU's new University Galleries. He will manage a new gallery in the Home Economics Building made possible with two $5,000 gifts from Mr. and Mrs. John R. Mitchell of Mt. Vernon. The gallery, located in two rooms and an adjoining corridor, will be opened in the fall, at which time the Mitchell's private collection will be exhibited. Mrs. Denise Zaslawski, research assistant in the Art Department's visual materials section, will be receptionist and assistant.

"Miss Southern" from El Paso

"Miss Southern" is a hazel-eyed sophomore music major from El Paso—in Illinois, that is. She is Jane Crusius, who was crowned at the Spring Festival in May after being selected for talent as well as for beauty. Two weeks later she was third runner-up in a field of 38 in the Miss Illinois contest . . . . John Benton, business major from Gurnee, has received a citation from President Eisenhower for rescuing a nine-year-old boy from drowning in a lake two years ago. The citation is one of only 24 given since 1910 and was made possible by the Red Cross.

Awards and Honors

At the annual Scholastic Honors Day on campus in May, 253 scholars were cited for high academic achievement. In the group were 75 students, winners of special awards and scholarships . . . . At a special Awards Day ceremony in McAndrew Stadium more than 50 AF ROTC cadets were honored for outstanding leadership and achievement . . . . The students of Chautauqua Apartments grabbed top honors in composite grade averages with a 3.98 average, again proving that married students make better grades than single ones.

Sixteen hundred high schoolers were guests of the School of Home Economics in the spring and were entertained with a fashion show, tour of the new building, music, exhibits, a tea, and a program on career opportunities in the home ec field. Mrs. Joyce Sturm Crouse '54, M.S. '58, was in charge of arrangements.
