Where Were All the '21ers?

I would like to say "many thanks" to those making Alumni Day such an enjoyable occasion.

Though there was a good representation from classes of years long gone, it's too bad it couldn't have been better. They don't know what they missed, especially this year with the dedication of that "fabulous" University Center Building.

Wonder where the rest of the "Twenty-one-ers" were? Hope they all show up in 1966.

Please find enclosed a check for four dollars for my alumni registration fee for the Jefferson County Alumni Association. I have completed an SIU extension course in interior decorating in December, 1959, given in the Mt. Vernon Township High School under Herbert F. Theiss.

According to the Alumni constitution, a person who has completed a term at SIU is eligible to join the Alumni Association. I wish my name to be added to the SIU Alumni Association of Jefferson County.

OBELISKS WANTED

The President's Office at the SIU Southwestern Illinois Campus at Edwardsville needs a number of copies of the Obelisk to complete a set of the yearbook. The volumes they need are for the years 1914, 1916, 1917, 1920, 1921, 1922, 1923, 1926, 1927, 1928, 1931, 1932, 1933, 1939, and 1945. Anyone having copies to contribute may send them to the President's Office, Southwestern Illinois Campus, Edwardsville.

news section of the Alumni magazine. We have had a different address each year, and we have yet to be included in either the '53 or '55 news. We would like very much to have the information put in once. Think it could be arranged?

As I indicated when I attended Homecoming activities last fall, I flew to Paris with our three-year-old, Pam, last November 5, and were met by a beaming Charles, who had arrived several months before to begin his duties as a navigator with the 41st Troop Carrier Squadron at Evreux-Fauville Air Base, 60 miles northwest of Paris. He has become a world traveler in his almost-year of duty here, as this base has supported the UN operations in the Congo since the trouble last July, and Leopoldville, Lumumba, and Tshombe have become household words to all of us here. Other regularly scheduled trips from here include stops at bases in Greece, Turkey, India, Italy, Spain, etc., so as you can see, my husband really gets around!

We have had one delightful family trip, touring Holland during tulip season this spring. A highlight of that trip occurred the morning of April 25. As we were loading our car after spending the night at a motel in Breda, Holland, we were surprised to find that Dr. and Mrs. Foote of Southern had spent the night in the unit next to ours. They were returning to Paris after a trip into the tulip fields, and were apprehensive about getting back into the city, as the Algerian uprising had begun two days before. We all decided the "small world" tag was applicable here.

Is it possible for overseas members of the Alumni Association to receive your information by air mail? We always receive literature too late—for instance, we got the ballots for Great Teacher award, only to find that the deadline for voting had passed a couple of weeks before!

Would certainly enjoy hearing from or seeing any Southern people in this part of the world. We live in the city of Evreux, and our local address is 2 Rue A, St. Michel Village (American), Evreux, though any mail must come through our APO address.

On The Cover

The 1961 Alumni Family Vacation Camp at Little Grassy Lake last month was a great success.

Twice as many people were there this summer as there were last summer—120 or so. Thirteen families the first week and 16 families the second week of the camping program came from Illinois, Iowa, Kentucky, Missouri, and Ohio. Six Carbondale families attended and three came from the Chicago area. A grandmother brought two of her children and three of her grandchildren.

Two of the families had attended all four years of the camping program, three had attended three years, and two had attended two years.

What do alumni campers do at Little Grassy? The pictures on the cover will give a glimmer of their activities—the crafts instructor, Henry Majlinger, explaining some of the projects to the more ambitious campers . . . the Buddy D. Cross '53 (Carol Hughes '54) family of Alton paddling their own canoe (he's president of the Madison County Alumni Club) . . . the children clustering around Susie Spiller, Marion, one of the several counselors . . . Donald R. (Red) Cross '51, M.S. '58, freshman football coach, member of the Little Grassy staff, and chief chef in charge of the thick juicy steaks sizzling on the grill . . . and Robert Chamness '35, Belleville, taking a siesta, a favorite pastime of a working man on vacation . . .

It was a busy time for the staff of the Department of Recreation and Outdoor Education who had charge of the recreation program, for Alumni Executive Director Bob Odaniell, who had charge of the camp one week, and Field Representative Jay King, who had charge of it the other week—and who took these pictures for the Southern Alumnus.

Summer Commencement

June Commencement was rained out of McAndrew Stadium and the August Commencement almost suffered the same fate. About 6:45 P.M. on August 11 showers fell on the early arrivals at the stadium but by the time graduation ceremonies started at 7:30 the weather had cleared enough for commencement to be held as planned.

More than 2,500 attended the exercises and saw 538 members of the summer graduating class receive degrees—258 bachelor degrees, 210 master degrees, five doctoral degrees, nine associate degrees, one certificate of specialist, and 55 bachelor degrees to graduates from the Southwestern Illinois Campus. This was the largest summer graduating group from SIU.

Speaker for the occasion was Georgia Gant Winn, professor of English on the Carbondale Campus and member of the faculty since 1947.

She admonished the graduates to restore the balance between practical materialism and humaneness in contemporary America. She said that "America can not endure by scientific mastery alone," that the nation's principles of existence are not founded upon science, but "are the essence of the humanities."

Receiving doctoral degrees was the largest group since Southern began offering Ph.D. programs four years ago—Richard J. Dandeneau, Carbondale, in speech; Bryce D. March, M.S. '53, Cape Girardeau, Mo., John R. Slow, M.S. '57, Eldorado, and Leslie E. Woelfin, Morehead, Ky., all in secondary education; and B. Mohandas Baliga, Madras, India, in government, awarded in absentia.

Commissioned second lieutenants in the U.S. Air Force at commencement were James K. Akley, Langleyville; Jerry D. Bateman, Olney; John H. Madding, Mt. Erie; Donald C. Menzel, Atlanta; John A. Hoffman, Ramsey; and Max K. Jones, Carbondale.

More Scholarships Available

A new Teacher Training Scholarship bill passed by the Illinois Legislature and signed by Governor Otto Kerner provides for 800 to 900 more scholarships to SIU and the four state teacher universities. These grants are available to Illinois public, private, and parochial high school graduates going into the teaching field.

The four-year scholarships pay all fees and tuition expenses except book rental and student union costs and can be used over a period of six years. Living expenses are not included in the grants.

The new law also provides an incentive for more students to train in the special education field.

Southern now has 2,660 students at both campuses attending on teacher education scholarships, 2,185 at Carbondale and 475 at Edwardsville.

High school graduates who are interested in securing one of these scholarships can get information concerning them from their high school principal or by writing Jess Turnbow, Southern Illinois University.

Honored that evening were four faculty members who retired at the end of the summer session—T. W. Abbott, professor of chemistry, acting dean of academic affairs and former dean of the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences, member of the faculty 33 years; Mary Louise Barnes, assistant professor of food and nutrition in the School of Home Economics, member of the faculty 32 years; Tina M. Goodwin '14-2, '28, assistant professor in the University School, member of the faculty 36 years; and W. A. Thalman, professor of guidance and member of the faculty 32 years.

School of Technology

On July 1 the School of Technology replaced the School of Applied Science, following the signing of a bill by Governor Otto Kerner permitting the University to grant engineering degrees.

Although the School of Applied Science, under the acting chairmanship of Ralph Gallington, provided virtually the equivalent of four years' engineering training, some courses will be added to the engineering curriculum for a full-scale degree program in engineering.

Stephens Named SWIC Vice President

Clarence W. Stephens '33, professor of education and central budget officer for all SIU campuses, is the new vice president for operations of the Southwestern Illinois campus, succeeding Harold W. See, who was named a research professor last November.

Dr. Stephens, who has been at Southern since 1952, first served as a teacher in the University School and as a professor of secondary education. He organized the present student work program and in 1958 was appointed budget officer.

President Morris recommended the appointment of Dr. Stephens because of his experience in the central office of the University and because of his extensive knowledge of the educational needs of the Southwestern Illinois area.

New budget officer is Clifford R. Burger, associate professor of accounting, member of the faculty since 1958, and a CPA.

Named an assistant in the SWIC vice president's office was H. Bruce Brubaker, professor of education, who will coordinate the functions of a new General Office at the Alton Center. In charge of the General Office in East St. Louis is Virgil Seymour, assistant professor in social sciences.

The five acting heads of the SWIC academic divisions at the Alton and East St. Louis Centers have been granted head titles. Acting heads since May, 1960, they are John J. Glynn, business; Cameron W. Meredith, education; Nicholas T. Joost, humanities; Herbert H. Rosenthal, social sciences, and Kermit G. Clemans, science and technology.

Andrew J. Kochman, associate professor of theater and speech, is acting head of the Fine Arts Division, replacing Herrold Headley, who returns to full-time teaching.

SIU Faculty in Viet Nam

One team of SIU educators is in Viet Nam and a second is to leave soon under two-year programs with the International Cooperation Administration.

In Saigon now are Willis Malone '40, director of admissions and group leader; Prof. Alexander Reed, chairman of the Department of Animal Industries in the School of Agriculture; Mrs. Mabel Lane Bartlett '43, associate professor at University School, and her husband, Bill Bartlett, of Printing Service; Harold Lerch '52, M.S. '56, assistant professor in education and mathematics; and Fred J. Armistead '30-2, '38, principal of Harrisburg Junior High School.

This team is advising and consulting to help solve a teacher shortage and to upgrade existing school programs. They are working with curriculum, teaching, and educational problems in the National Normal School in Saigon, in the normal school in Qui Nhon, and in other normal schools as conditions permit.

Professor Malone and Vice President John Grinnell went to Viet Nam early in 1960 to make a preliminary survey. From their report a contract was arranged. The contract is for two years and perhaps a third year.

Wilbur R. Venerable is acting dean of admissions while Mr. Malone is away.

Second Team Leaves This Month

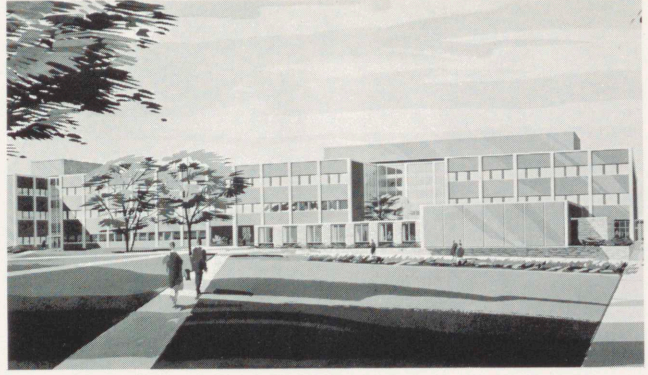

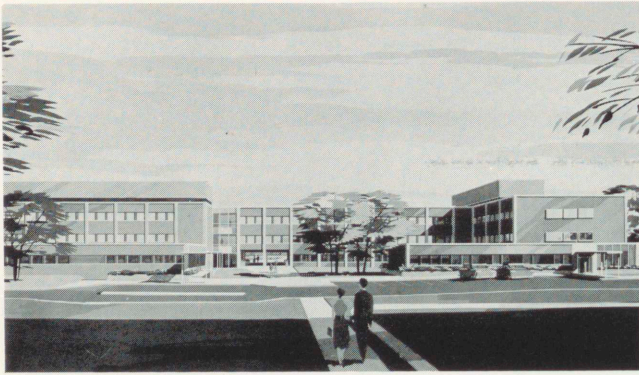

A second team, this one from faculty of the Vocational-Technical Institute, is slated to go to Saigon about September 15. VTI Director and head of the group, M. Keith Humble, was to leave September 1.

On the team are G. LeLon Traylor, machine shop instructor; John Griswold, welding instructor; and Lucien D. Willey, auto mechanics instructor. A fifth member will be named later.

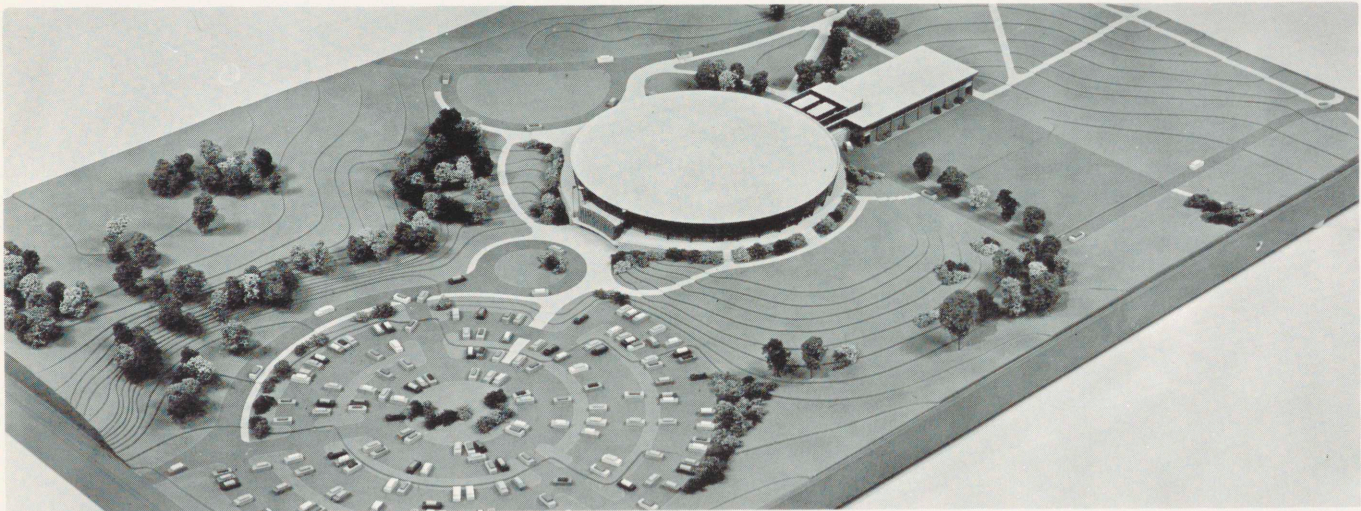

These specialists will assist at the Phu Tho Polytechnic School in Saigon, helping plan for and install new equipment, overhaul the school's curriculum, and help prepare materials and courses for training teachers.

The two-year contract to aid in the vocational and technical education of Viet Nam was the result of a survey trip early this year by Ernest J. Simon, dean of the Division of Technical and Adult Education. He spent a month there visiting various types of schools and industries.

This was Dean Simon's second trip to Southeast Asia. He spent 20 months in Burma in 1958-59 as a technical consultant in vocational education to the government of Burma under a Ford Foundation grant.

Bond Issue Funds Provide for

Vital New Building Program

With the passage of the Universities Bond Issue last fall—through the efforts of alumni and other voters in Illinois—SIU soon will launch a new construction program on its Carbondale and Edwardsville campuses.

SIU's share of the $195-million Bond Issue is $53,250,000, of which $28,250,000 will go to the Carbondale campus and $25-million to the Edwardsville campus.

Six buildings are listed on the Carbondale priority list—(1) College of Education and Clinical Center Building, (2) Physical Education and Military Training Building, (3) Morris Library Addition, (4) Industrial Education-Applied Science Building, (5) General Classrooms, and (6) Communications Building.

Before any of these buildings can be completed and serviced, however, an addition must be built to the Power Plant. Two new 80,000-pound steam generators, at a cost of about $400,000, will be added to boost the heating capacity from 99,000 to 226,000 pounds of steam per hour. They will replace one of the three 33,000-pound units now in use. The Power Plant addition is estimated to cost $900,000.

As soon as the revenue bonds are sold, work will begin on the first three buildings on the priority list.

The College of Education and Clinical Center Building will adjoin the existing University School on the west, connecting with it by a covered corridor. A multiple-story building, it will house the clinical services in the right wing. Costing about $3,300,000, it will add the largest amount of teaching space (154,658 square feet) of any of the new buildings.

Thirty classrooms will be included, housing all teacher-training classrooms, an auditorium, a small lunchroom, and a number of specialized rooms. There will be audio-visual instruction rooms in which slides, charts and other teaching aids can be made and studied, a basement section for the study of instructional equipment, and observation classrooms with one-way glass. The building will have built-in closed-circuit television to the classrooms.

The Education Building will house all 14 departments of the college, replacing the three barracks near Morris Library and various buildings housing offices and services.

The $3,500,000 Physical Education-Military Training Building will be located on the south side of the campus, near Thompson Drive and in middle of what now is old Route 51. A dome-shaped arena structure, it will have a wing for offices, classrooms, and locker rooms. It will accommodate most of the student body for important events. Its capacity for arena-type events will be 7,800; for platform events, 12,000; and for exhibitions using both the floor and the concourse, 2,300. The first stage will include a basketball floor with seating for 10,000. Concerts, conventions, graduations, exhibitions, agricultural shows, are among the events which will be held there.

The first stage also will include a connecting building with 12 physical education classrooms, locker rooms, and a 400-car circular parking lot plus some outdoor P.E. facilities. Later an open-sided field house which will provide a place for track and field events, a swimming pool, and additional buildings for military training and physical education instruction, as well as parking space, will be constructed.

The 300-foot diameter main auditorium-gymnasium will have some 2,000 permanent seats as well as collapsible bleachers and folding chairs. The wing will house offices for the Departments of Health Education and Men's Physical Education as well as athletics and intramurals. When the men's P.E. department moves into the new structure, the old gymnasium will be given to the women's P.E. department.

Five more stories will be added to Morris Library at a cost of $3,000,000. This is stage two of the planned three-stage building first occupied in 1957. The second floor will be completed and the building expanded to include a full-length third floor and a four-story "tower," about two-thirds the area of the lower floors.

When completed, Morris Library will have a capacity for one million volumes. It now has close to half a million books, nearly double the number the University had four years ago. Libraries Director Ralph McCoy estimates the million volume mark will be reached between 1970 and 1975. The library is adding 40,000 volumes a year.

Morris Library now seats almost a thousand people. After the second stage it will seat nearly 2,000 and when completed over 2,500.

The unfinished tower will be used by the Regional Library, the third floor by the science and education libraries, and the second floor by the rare book room, some specialized collections, and the humanities library. The social studies library on the first floor will be expanded and the facilities for audio-visual aids and textbooks service in the basement expanded.

Second stage of the 1961-62 Carbondale building program will include the Industrial Education-Applied Science Building, $4,200,000; General Classrooms Building, $3,250,000; and School of Communications, $3,250,000. All buildings are slated for completion by 1964 or earlier.

Plans for the Edwardsville Campus will appear in a later issue.

Present Construction Program

Three major new construction projects, two full-scale remodeling jobs, and completion of an existing building have occupied the construction scene during the summer.

The three major projects which are on schedule are all housing: five residence halls for 600 more students at Thompson Point, six more units for 270 students in the small group housing area (Greek Row); and nine additional apartment buildings for 144 student families in the Southern Hills project. The whole program, which includes an addition to Lentz Hall, Thompson Point dining center, is on time for projected completion next summer.

Being rushed for completion for the fall term is the auditorium wing of the Home Economics Building which will house studios for SIU's educational TV station, Channel 8. The station is scheduled to go on the air this month. A transmitter building has been constructed at the Tamaroa site and concrete foundations for a 900-foot tower set in.

Also being pushed is a $100,000 remodeling program underneath the grandstand at McAndrew Stadium. The new area will include coaches' offices, dressing rooms, shower and locker rooms. It should be finished by football season.

Slightly ahead of schedule is total reconstruction of Anthony Hall, 48-year-old former residence hall which will be turned into headquarters for the Division of Area Services. Virtually everything inside the shell of the building has been removed. Steel beams have proven to be in surprisingly good condition and may be retained although they may have to be reinforced. New concrete floors will be put in. When completed next spring the building will have a new main entrance at ground level.

The 218-car parking lot between McAndrew Stadium and University Center has been finished. A blacktop surface was applied, four sets of steps and ramps set in to lead from the lot to the stadium. Sodding around the lot and plantings on "islands" inside also were completed. A connecting road link between a drive south of the stadium and the loop road going into University Center had black-topping, curbing, and guttering this summer.

Physical Plant work crews continued the first-floor renovation at Old Main, where a phased remodeling of all classrooms is in progress. Six rooms in the upper floors and three on the main floor have been completed.

Next major road-building operation will be extension of the campus loop road from the south Oakland intersection, near Small Group Housing, to Chautauqua Street. Four houses on the west side of Oakland will be removed to make way for the extension. Removed to make way for another projected roadway extension will be the C-shaped barracks near stadium drive, now housing the janitorial services and faculty secretary's office, and a Harwood Avenue residence used by the Department of Health Education. The road will ultimately connect the University Center parking lot area with Harwood Avenue.

Top Debate Team Ends Successful Two-Year Round

Southern's exploits on the athletic field are well known, with many champion teams and fine athletes winning praise, awards, and headlines. One top-notch team which has not won the acclaim it rightfully deserves is the top debate team of Kent Brandon, Carbondale, and Keith Sanders, Benton, both '61 graduates.

In the tradition of conference-winning athletic teams, the Brandon-Sanders duo made a "bowl" trip to Hawaii in May for the University of Hawaii Intercollegiate Speech Tournament as a climax to their outstanding collegiate debate career.

They won second place. Undefeated in six preliminary rounds, in the final round they were defeated by the College of the Pacific whom they had defeated earlier in preliminaries.

Mr. Brandon won second place in extemporaneous speaking and Mr. Sanders was a finalist in the oratory class. Both received trophies with a gold figure and a replica of a Hawaiian god. Coach Jack Parker, who accompanied them, lectured.

The Hawaiian tourney concluded a year in which the two debaters won 24 of 29 contests in national competition at Dartmouth College, Notre Dame University, and Northwestern. Last year they were rated tops in the Midwest and represented this region in the National Debate Tournament at West Point Military Academy. Last summer they defeated the University of Southern California in a TV debate on the program, "Rebuttal," from Chicago.

Chairman of the Speech Department, Prof. Ralph A. Micken, in lauding his prize-winning team, said they won their success by "building meticulously logical argument, concisely presented and compellingly phrased. They're so quietly persuasive, judges sometimes forget they're judging them."

SIU and Peace Corps

Since President Kennedy announced plans for a Peace Corps, SIU students and faculty have participated in one way or another in its establishment and training.

Richard Poston, research professor and former director of the Department of Community Development which he organized in 1953, spent eight weeks during the summer at Rutgers University. He taught a course in community development to 162 Peace Corps volunteers. Sixty of the workers will be sent to Colombia, S. A., to assist that government with a "Community Action" program.

The Colombian project will be under the auspices of CARE, Inc., for whom Professor Poston did a world-

Debate Coach M. J. (Jack) Parker has directed debate at Southern since the fall of 1959. Before that he was at the University of Vermont four years and had two teams which qualified for national championships.

Keith Sanders is remaining at SIU to attend Graduate School and serve as assistant debate coach on a fellowship. Kent Brandon has a Hardy Scholarship at Northwestern University.

wide study on community development in 1960. He traveled in several Latin American countries and spent from August to November in Colombia outlining a training program for Colombians to work under "Accion Communal." His assignment to the Peace Corps was a result of this work.

George L. Criminger '50, M.S. '54, of the Department of Community Development, also served as a lecturer to the trainees at Rutgers.

Student Peace Corps Activities

W. Stephen Hoffman, student from Barrington, is director of a volunteer group of students and faculty interested in the Peace Corps program. He is the University's official representative and coordinator.

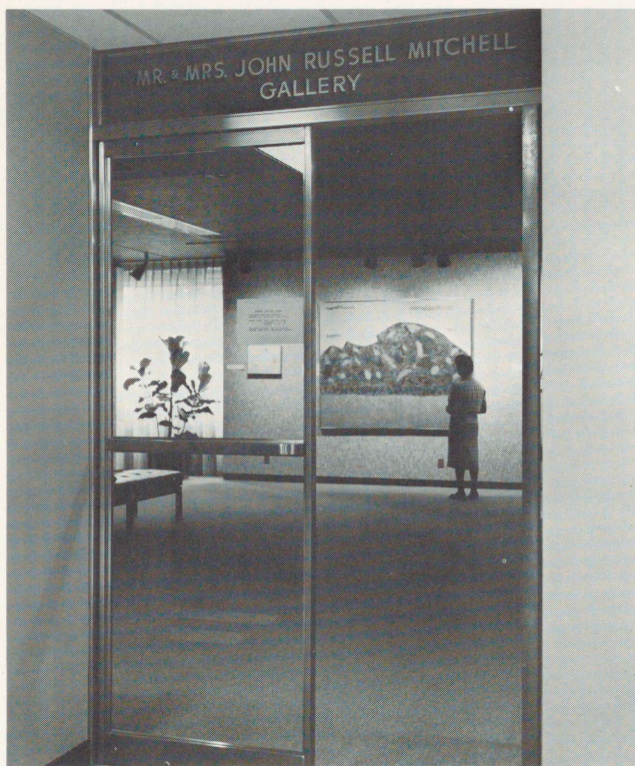

Three students went to Washington last spring to attend the National Conference of Youth Service Abroad. William Morin, Kankakee, student body president; Marie Turnipseed, Newton, SIU National Student Association coordinator; and Richard Childers, West Frankfort, chairman of the International Relations Committee, participated in forums and workshops concerning the Peace Corps program.

SIU's New Art Gallery

Through the interest and generosity of Mr. and Mrs. John Russell Mitchell, of Mt. Vernon, SIU has a new art gallery—the Mr. and Mrs. John Russell Mitchell Gallery, located on the first floor of the Home Economics Building. Opened in May, it has drawn students, University people, groups and visitors from many parts of the country.

It was at the December 1959 meeting of the Board of Trustees that approval was made of “the official establishment of University galleries for the purpose of attracting gifts of works of art and for the housing of such gifts and purchases.”

The first gift came from Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell and was used to design and decorate the first gallery. Some $15,000 was contributed for carpeting, furniture, lights, fixtures, and equipment. Paintings are exhibited on linen-covered walls.

Entrance of the Mr. and Mrs. John Russell Mitchell Gallery in the Home Economics Building.

Mr. and Mrs. John Russell Mitchell

Mitchell Gallery is open from 1:30 to 5:30 P.M. daily except Saturday. Prof. Benjamin P. Watkins, of the Art Department, is acting curator of University Galleries. Assisting him is Mrs. Denise Zaslowski, who is research assistant and gallery receptionist. Native of Poland, she gained recognition as a portrait painter before coming to the U.S. with her husband, the late Prof. Emil Zaslowski, of the SIU Government Department.

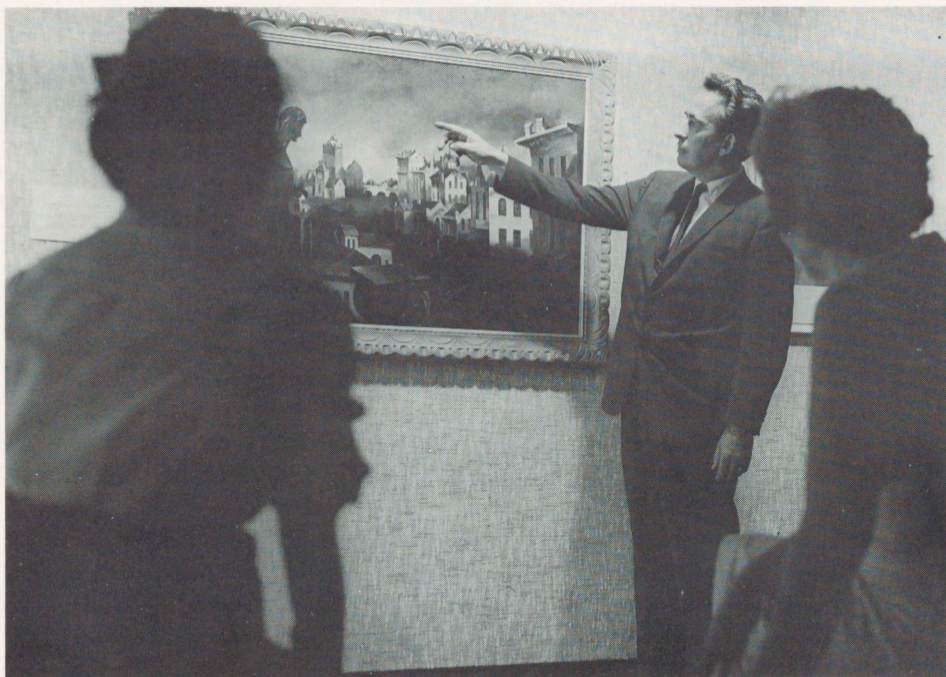

Formal opening of Mitchell Gallery and a reception for the guests of honor, Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell, were held May 14. Several hundred guests attended. First display was for the most part paintings from the Mitchell collection—works of George Bellows, Thomas Eakins, Mary Cassatt, George Luks, and Maurice Prendergast.

The Mitchell Gallery is one of several galleries to be known collectively as University Galleries. In reporting plans for the program, Burnett Shryock, dean of the School of Fine Arts, explained that it would “not be confined to four walls or one building or even the indoors.” For a number of years the Art Department in the School of Fine Arts has maintained a regular exhibition at Allyn Gallery on the first floor of Allyn Building.

Since a concerted effort was started two years ago to build an art collection, more than $25,000 worth of new art, most of it through gifts, has been acquired. All gallery gifts are received through the SIU Foundation.

One of the acquisitions (an anonymous gift) is “Very Dark Mountain” by the American nature-abstractionist Milton Avery and valued at $5,000. Mr. Watkins has termed it “an important one for any American collection.” Two $1,000 gifts came from the Martin family—$1,000 from Martin Oil Company of Clayton, Mo., to establish a Thomas W. Martin Memorial Fund for SIU art purchases and another $1,000 from Mr. and Mrs. Harold T. Martin, Chicago.

Six modern American drawings were purchased with the Harold T. Martin gift—works of Steven Pace, Al Newbill, Joseph Steffanelli, Sal Sirugo, Tom Young, and Urban Reva. In addition, the University has bought from other funds works by Paul Burlin, Herman Cherry, Edward Dugmore, and John Grillo. Another gift of four paintings valued at $3,500 has been received from Ben Weiss of New York City. The works, all contemporary American, are "Hypersensitive" by Walter Quirt, "The Gourds" by Theodore Stamos, "My Studio" by James Lechay, and "Abstraction" by Carl Holty.

Among more recent gifts are a cast bronze sculpture, "Standing Man," by Italy's Mario Negri, a gift of Allan D. Emil, prominent New York collector; the painting, "Ruby Nude," by John Sloan, a founder of the "Ashcan School," and a gift of Edward Bergman, Chicago collector; a large red abstraction by Genichoro Inokuma, purchased with a cash gift from Mrs. Gertrude Perrin of New York; and Alexander Brooks' oil painting, "Interior," a gift of Actress Helen Hayes, Hon. D.F.A. '60. "Miss R.," a nude by the late Walt Kuhn and a part of the collection of Miss Hayes' late husband, playwright Charles MacArthur, has been loaned to the Galleries for five years.

Curator Watkins is planning monthly exhibits. A Summer Variety Show included a random selection from the University Galleries' permanent collection, most of them acquired through individuals and organizations. Eight of the works are from the Federal Art Project during the 1930s. Two styles of work were shown—representative realism and abstract expressionism. Among the paintings were works of Mary Gregory, MFA '60, of Australia, and Aleese Kilpatrick Martin, MFA '59.

In September a group of small sculptures from the Bertha Schaefer Galleries of New York, collages, and sculptures of Prof. Bruce Breland will be displayed. In October a Ford Foundation Retrospective of 35 oil paintings by Milton Avery will be on exhibit. A sculpture exhibit is tentatively scheduled for February.

Two workmen assist Curator Watkins in displaying Milton Avery's "Very Dark Mountain," a gift to the University Galleries.

McKeefery

Abbott Retires; McKeefery New Dean

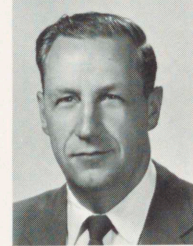

New dean of academic affairs is William J. McKeefery, vice president of Washburn University in Topeka, Kan. He succeeds Talbert W. Abbott, who retired September 1 after 33 years on the faculty, 15 years as dean of the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences.

Dean McKeefery, graduate of Princeton Theological Seminary, will also be professor of philosophy. He holds a bachelor's degree in electrical engineering and a doctor's degree in philosophy (from Columbia University), worked as an engineer for General Electric, taught at Princeton, and was dean of Alma College in Michigan before going to Washburn.

New Department Chairmen

Two of the three departments of the School of Fine Arts have new chairmen this fall.

Mueller

Robert E. Mueller replaces Fred H. Denker, who has been acting chairman of the Music Department since the departure of Henry Bruinsma to Ohio State University two years ago. Professor Mueller, native of Tomah, Wis., has been at SIU since 1948 teaching music theory and piano. He has a bachelor's degree from the University of Wisconsin, master's from Northwestern University, and doctorate from Indiana University.

Chairman of the Art Department is Herbert L. Fink, who succeeds Warren Brandt. Professor Brandt has returned to painting in the East.

Professor Fink comes to Southern from the Rhode Island School of Design, where he was associate professor of graphic arts. He has been a design consultant for International Telephone and Telegraph, CIBA Pharmaceuticals, and Yale Press. His work has been displayed in leading museums and galleries in this country, including Boston Museum of Fine Arts, Philadelphia Museum of Fine Arts, and Library of Congress.

trance into SIU. Alumni who have children or know of high school students contemplating attending SIU should direct their inquiries as early as possible to the Admissions Office. This could save a great deal of confusion and perhaps disappointment at the last minute.

Attention: 1962 Freshmen

Once upon a time a high school graduate, along about August following his June commencement, decided which college he wanted to attend, wrote in for admission and in September arrived on campus ready to start his college career.

Today that's a fairy tale, something which happened a long time ago. Today the high school student can't afford to wait until the last month to make such decisions. He must decide where he wants to go when he is a high school junior or senior, then start making application for acceptance and admission before he even receives his diploma.

The 1962 college freshman who desires to attend SIU can start this fall making preparations. And he is a wise student who does.

Next month, on October 1, 1961, he can apply for admission and housing by writing to the Admissions Office, SIU, Carbondale. The Admissions Office will supply him with all necessary information about the steps to be taken and all necessary forms to fill out.

If he ranks in the upper two-thirds of his class, he can be granted admittance at the end of his seventh high school semester—that's in January, 1962. If he ranks in the lower third of his class, he must wait until June, 1962, and completion of his high school work to be considered for admittance.

All 1962 freshmen must take the American College Test and it can be taken during the senior year in high school. Most high schools administer the ACT but students at high schools which do not give it will have a number of opportunities to take it in their area.

University housing will not be assigned to the prospective student until he is accepted for registration.

Another process that can be undertaken before entering college next fall is advisement. Appointments with academic advisers will be made for the student to receive careful advisement on his course of study after he has been admitted.

The Admissions Office will gladly answer all questions concerning en-

Sports at Southern

by Fred Huff

Although attaining an all-time peak at SIU last fall, football—Saluki style—is headed toward an even greater season this year with only a few “ifs” standing between Coach Carmen Piccone and Company and national grid-iron recognition.

Southern flirted with the nation's top-ranking small-college elevens in 1960, and, apparently enjoying the company, hopes to return this fall when the Salukis challenge a stiff 10-game schedule which includes non-conference contests with Missouri School of Mines, Drake, Wisconsin (LaCrosse) State, and powerful Bowling Green.

In addition, Piccone's pack of tenacious behemoths will be facing Interstate Intercollegiate Athletic Conference opponents for the final time and, no doubt, will be anxious to bid farewell to the league with successful defense of their 1960 title.

Only a prolonged siege of misfortune could dim SIU's line prospects as a host of outstanding veterans are returning to dominate the picture. However, Saluki fans may have to say a silent prayer of protection for Amos Bullocks and Ron Winter each time one is involved in a pile-up.

Bullocks, a three-year standout, ranks as Southern's number one bread-and-butter back, and halfback reserves are too thin to provide an adequate replacement. The quarterback situation is much the same with Winter apparently in a class of his own, due to invaluable experience picked up the past two seasons.

Barring tragedy at either of those two spots, however, Southern appears set for the 10-game slate which could wind up with the national small-college championship game being played at McAndrew Stadium Saturday, November 18, with Bowling Green.

Such a statement, which admittedly is prejudiced, doesn't necessarily mean that the Salukis are a shoo-in for national recognition, or for that matter, even a repeat conference championship. But, the makings for such a delectable dish are present.

Returning from last year's 8-2 club, which lost only to Bowling Green and national small-college champion Ohio University, are 19 lettermen including 13 linemen and six backs.

End positions are bolstered by four veterans in Gene Rodriguez, Jim Battle, Charles O'Neill, and Jerry Eskoff. Battle was a rugged mainstay of Southern's forward wall a year ago, but may receive more frequent rest periods this season depending on the situation. Rodriguez, although comparatively light at 185, makes up for any deficiencies with an excess amount of hustle. O'Neill and Eskoff also are determined flankers with excellent potential.

The club's strongest point appears to be the tackle slot and that in itself may be an indication that the Salukis will rely on power plays to produce a bulk of their offensive yardage.

Jim Thompson, a 215-pound junior, and Ken Moore, a 220-pound third-year candidate, will be occupying first-string positions at the outset of fall practice sessions, but are in for stiff competition from teammates Gene Williams, Sam Silas, and Al Kalapinski.

Williams, also a junior, is a burly 245-pounder who gained NAIA second-team All-American honors last year and has the potential of becoming an outstanding lineman. Silas, another junior, is expected to weigh in around the 250 mark and probably won't have to shed too many pounds before reaching tip-top playing condition. Kalapinski, a 240-pounder, may be asked to shed a few, but commands a lot of respect from opposing linemen with his bulk.

Capt. Paul Brostrom, a 215-pound

bulldog, heads a trio of returning guards which also includes John Longmeyer and Frank Imperiale. Longmeyer tips the scales around the 225 mark while the latter is 10 pounds heavier. All three thrive on body contact and should have little difficulty in holding their own.

Shaun Hawthorne is the lone returning letterman at the center post where the Salukis were well fortified with Gardy Secker last season. Hawthorne, however, saw considerable action and owns a wealth of experience.

Winter and Vern Pollock will provide steadying influence on Southern's gridders while quarterbacking the offensive unit. Winter, a Carmi prep product and one of the few area athletes on the SIU football squad, set a new record for touch-down passes last season and may have an even finer campaign in 1961.

Backing up Bullocks at right half will be Charles Lerch, a case-hardened 185-pounder who could be a pleasant surprise to Saluki fans. Lerch was forced into a first-team position early last season, but was injured shortly thereafter. He could be an offensive fooler just as Dennis Harmon and Dennis Harley may develop faster than expected.

Both Harmon and Harley will be operating at left half and either could sparkle on given occasions or once they pick up collegiate experience.

Only position where the Salukis will be without a letterman from last year's club will be a fullback where Charley Frericks, a sophomore, currently has the inside track. He was the leading ground-gainer on an undefeated freshman team last season and has tremendous drive with his fireplug-like 5-8, 205-pound body. Operating behind him will be Charles Hamilton, an ex-serviceman from Herrin, and Bobby Hall, a Murphysboro sophomore who has only a troublesome knee preventing him from gridiron greatness.

A 25-year-old freshman, Bonnie Shelton, Columbus, Ga., may also provide a few thrills for Southern's football fans this season. Shelton, who became somewhat acquainted with the athletic setup around SIU last spring when he was number one dash man on Coach Lew Hartzog's track team, is highly touted as a topnotch end and pass receiver. He gained valuable experience while serving a long hitch in the Army and may be just the offensive weapon Piccone needs to keep the opponents' defense honest.

Regardless, Southern's attractive slate of six home football games is expected to draw a record number of fans this season after an average of 10,000 per game were in attendance last fall.

After playing their opener out of town, the Salukis meet Drake University, Central Michigan, and Northern Illinois on successive Saturday nights before highlighting Homecoming activities by entertaining Eastern Illinois. Wisconsin State will be a holiday visitor November 11 while the season's finale one week later features rugged Bowling Green.

New Look For Marching Salukis

Fans of the "Marching Salukis," 120-piece marching band, are in for some surprises when the group makes its debut this month at the first home football game.

Under Director Donald Canedy, M.S. '58, the band is undergoing a complete transformation, from uniforms to instrumentation to musical style. Dubbed by Director Canedy the "New Concept in Band," the group bids fair to be quite unlike any now playing.

First off, the old military uniforms—now threadbare after 21 years of use—are being junked in favor of shawl-collared dinner jackets: red for the brasses, black for woodwinds, and Wallace plaid for percussionists. The plumed hats are going out in favor of Homburgs. All bandmen (and bandwomen) will wear black tuxedo-type pants.

Probably the most eye-opening change will be the band's sound. "No more John Phillip Sousa stuff," according to Mr. Canedy. "We want strictly a big, open stage-band sound. The entire ensemble effect will be more top, more middle, and more bottom."

Increased decibel strength and tonal range will come from the addition of some strange new instruments, notably a battery of mellophoniums—bell-front French horns, recording tubas (in contrast to the serpentine Sousaphone), a variety of trumpets pitched in different keys, and wheeled percussion units, including everything from bongo drums to xylophones. There will be two of these units, each containing a variety of separately tuned drums.

The band's formations will be simple, geometric precision movements with few attempts "to tell stories." The patterns will be set up to illus-

Sports Kickoff Dinner

A Sports Kickoff Dinner will be held Wednesday, September 13, at University Center and alumni are invited to attend. The football and cross country teams, cheerleaders, and the Marching Salukis will be special guests but all of Southern's nine championship teams of 1960-61 also will be honored.

Tickets are $3 and can be purchased at the Information Desk of University Center or ordered from the SIU Alumni Office by Monday, September 11. Because of the limited number of tickets for the general public, tickets should be ordered as early as possible.

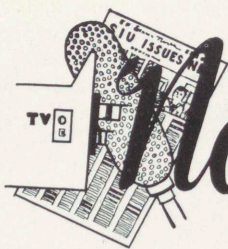

trate contrasts between the various instrumental groupings and the color groupings of their uniforms.

The band's "book" is being done by Glen Daum, student director of SIU's Southern All Stars jazz orchestra and a senior music student from Centralia. He did many similar stage-band arrangements for last year's Marching Salukis.

The 1960 band, hailed by football fans as the best in Southern's history, reportedly "broke up" the crowd at Ohio University when it played there last fall.

Director Canedy said Paul Yoder, the nation's best-known contemporary composer for marching bands, has agreed to write a special "showcase" number for its opening performance. The band also is booked to play at halftime of a Chicago Bears professional football game in Chicago during the season.

The Marching Salukis will be introduced to their new sound and look in the regular weeklong preschool band camp at Little Grassy Lake September 10-17. The bandmen will practice eight hours a day to be in top shape for the opener September 23.

"This is a great honor and one which I really do not deserve because I was not present when the honorary degree was conferred upon me. Ill health prevented me from coming to Carbondale at the time. Also I am not certain that I belong in such select company as Mlle. Boulanger, Helen Hayes, Major Seversky, Percival Bailey, Irving Dilliard, etc. I have, however, had the pleasure of meeting many of the notables and am privileged to have some of them—Percival Bailey, Reed Hodge, Irving Dilliard—as personal friends. Reed Hodge I knew well from fishing trips in southern Illinois. Percival Bailey lived at my mother's home in Carbondale and Irving Dilliard was at Harvard as a Nieman Fellow.

"Our trip through Georgia could be fraught with peril. The boy and I both bear the name Sherman, after the general who was quoted by a Boston lady as saying: 'War is heck.' He certainly played heck with Georgia. However, the differing nomenclature used by North and South may lessen our danger. The general was known to the North as William Tecumseh Sherman, but, to the South, his name has been Anathema.

"Although the 1961 graduates are unaware of it, my absence will deprive them of some goodies. For the '31 class response, I had planned a rousing half-hour speech contrasting the bleak outlook in 1931 with the rosy prospects of 1961. Exhorting all new grads to forge ever onward and upward, I had intended to raise their enthusiasm to fever pitch by intoning Longfellow's Excelsior.

"What a pity it is that those starry-eyed youngsters must be denied this added fillip to their Commencement Week! I'm real shook just from thinking about it. But c'est la guerre."

Comedian Dick Gregory

Since last fall the name of Dick Gregory, ex '56, has been popping into the news, at first a mention here and there and later feature stories in Time Magazine, New York Times, St. Louis Post-Dispatch, Chicago Tribune—even Vogue magazine. A two-minute appearance on John Daley's special TV show, "Cast the First Stone," in September was followed by a number of appearances on the Jack Paar Show, Ed Sullivan's Show, and Dave Susskind's Open End program.

He became an overnight sensation, and nightclubs all over the country—from Chicago's Playboy Club, where he started early in the year, to New York's Blue Angel, San Francisco's hungry i, Cincinnati's Surf Club, and Freddie's at Minneapolis—were put on his booking list.

On May 4 Dick Gregory "came home" to the SIU campus for two performances. He found a warm welcome from his former teachers and friends and enthusiastic applause from his audiences in Shryock Auditorium. A former track star here, he didn't forget his coach and friend, Leland (Doc) Lingle, who had inspired him and encouraged him during student days. He presented Doc with a piece of luggage to show his appreciation.

Between shows he greeted many acquaintances and happily signed autographs and records. Alpha Phi Alpha, his fraternity, gave him a plaque as their most distinguished alumnus. It was a fine homecoming!

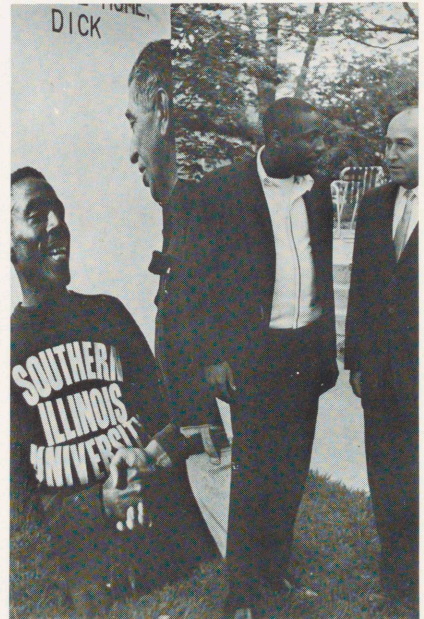

Dick, a native of St. Louis, got a scholarship to Southern, enrolled in business administration, entertained at campus talent shows (he won two individual competition prizes in the Theta Xi shows), broke several track records, one of which still stands (880-yard run), and won the Hinkley Award as Southern's Outstanding Athlete.

He served in the Army, drifted to Chicago, where he got fired as a postal clerk because he poked fun at the mail service. He had always wanted to be a comedian and played at a little night club on Chicago's southside, the Esquire, for $10 a night. He even tried running his own club but went broke. But he wouldn't give up and kept making the rounds of the booking offices, occasionally working at Roberts Show Club.

Finally he got his break last January, Friday, the 13th, when he substituted for the comic at the Playboy and was an instant hit. After that his success snowballed and he rose from a salary of $250 a week to $1,700 a week.

Called the "Negro Mort Sahl," Dick Gregory has won success with his humorous approach to the race problem and his witty topical patter about anything and everything in the news headlines. He has been called a comic without rancor, "bright but not brassy," the "first Negro stand-up comedian," a humorous philosopher, refreshing, intelligent, sophisticated, disarming, casual, off-hand.

He smokes incessantly during his performance as he comments on events and people in his rapid-style delivery. He shows great insight in his observations.

Gifts of Books and Eggs

A unique and valuable collection of American and British literature of the late 19th and early 20th centuries, one of the finest libraries of its kind, has been presented to the University by an anonymous donor. The collection, largest acquired by Morris Library through gift or purchase, includes about 8,000 volumes representing some 1,400 authors, both major and minor. The collection is mostly fiction, with some poetry and drama. A large number of volumes are first or limited editions and many are autographed or presentation copies. The library, well known to collectors, was assembled over 30 years by a New York attorney. Most of the books were personally selected by him and are in excellent condition. The donor purchased the collection from the estate of the deceased collector. . . .

Col. L. R. Wolfe, retired Army officer of Kerrville, Tex., and author of several research papers on birds of the Far East, presented the Zoology Department his collection of 500 bird eggs, some of them dating back 75 years. Termed "an excellent representation of North American bird eggs, both marine and terrestrial," the collection has eggs of 130 species and subspecies.

Parallax New Publication

First issue of Parallax, an independent student-operated magazine, was published in June. Second issue is due this month. Aim of Parallax is to provide a media for students, faculty, and area residents to express their individual ideas to others. Original work in art, design, prose and poetry is based on quality and is not restricted in subject matter. Franklyn Moreno is publisher, Richard Kuroski is editor and art director. . . .

With the installation of a Xerox, a photocopying machine, in Morris Library, vandalism of library books has been greatly cut. During the first two months it was in use, nearly 8,000 page reproductions were made. The Xerox was secured as the result of mutilation of books and library materials when students tore out pages for assignments. Printed pages are reproduced by the machine at the rate of six per minute. Students pay five cents a page to buy whatever copies they require.
