THE MAIL BAG

Plight, Indeed

I was pleased to read the special report on humanities in the May '65 issue of Southern Alumnus.

I am an August, 1964, graduate of Southern (BFA) and find that my degree with a painting major means almost nothing. I was considered a very promising painter by my instructors and, at the risk of sounding conceited, I must say that I consider myself a painter of at least apparent promise. But I find the art departments of so many large universities to be so heavily indoctrinated by scientific rather than creative accomplishment that a student who wasn't in an honorary society finds it hard to do graduate work. Hardly ever can an art student receive financial assistance. How else is he to survive?

I find myself in Poverty, by the President's definition of poverty, and unable to go on to school, unable to get any form of related job, and almost unable to carry on my once creative work.

Material creature comforts are what people sell themselves for and humanities are truly dying.

In March, Larry received his M.S. in geodetic science from Ohio State University. Having completed his studies at OSU, he has returned to an active life with the U.S. Air Force. He is stationed with the 1381st Geodetic Squadron at Warren Air Force Base, Cheyenne, Wyoming.

Both Larry and I would love to have SIU alumni in this area visit us. We enjoy reading all the news in the SIU Alumni.

Charm Lingers

Southern Illinois University is playing a great part in leading today's young people, and I am proud of its growth and achievements in the field of education.

The school had a great charm and warmth when I attended 15 years ago, and with all its changes, I am happy that it retains this feeling. Last summer, on a short visit to Illinois, I visited the campus one afternoon with my mother, and I felt at home there though the surroundings were different. It is a wonderful school and I am proud to call it my alma mater.

SIU Family

I always look forward to all publications from SIU.

SIU means more to me than ever before, because my sons are students there. Charles (Bud) Kragness is in his third year now; Robert (Bob) Kragness is making arrangements to return for his second term this coming spring; and now Don Kragness has made application to enter the fall term, 1965.

Don will graduate from Moline High School at Moline, Illinois, in June. Don has been very active in all fields of music, but has become an exceptional percussionist. In addition to his band and orchestra work in school, he has been a member of the Tri-City Symphony for three years. He is also a tenor in the High School Concert Choir, Boys Glee Club, and Madrigal Singers.

We are hoping that he may be permitted to audition for a music scholarship at SIU. I was very fortunate in that I had a music scholarship my four years at SIU from the College Choir and Madrigals. The scholarship was a great help to me.

Congress Planned at SIU

"Vision 65," an international congress on "New Challenges for Human Communications" spanning a score or more of the cultural, educational, technical, and commercial channels by which man speaks to man around the globe, has been called October 21-23 to be held at Southern Illinois University.

Creative thinkers in such fields as television, motion pictures, graphic design, art, data processing, genetics, social science, education, engineering, architecture, and government from nine countries already have accepted the invitation to participate in the program.

He succeeds James D. Turner, who has accepted a position as vice president for academic affairs at Humboldt State College, Arcata, Calif. Dr. Turner, who drafted the original proposal resulting in the University's selection as contractor by the federal Office of Economic Opportunity, is a former director of the East St. Louis Center.

1,800 Degrees are Awarded

More than 1,800 students received degrees during commencement exercises held June 16 on the Carbondale campus. At Edwardsville, some 500 students received degrees the following evening.

In an address entitled "Defeating the Prophets of Doom," Carter Davidson, president of the Association of American Colleges, urged graduates to use their "trained intelligence" in working to make the American dream a reality in the years to come. He said a civilization which does not stress trained intelligence, but falls back on prejudice and emotion to solve its problems, is doomed.

Candidates for bachelor's degrees numbered 1,400. There were 207 two-year associate degree candidates, and 261 master's and doctoral degree and specialist certificate candidates.

Harold B. Gores, president of Educational Facilities Laboratories, Inc., a Ford Foundation subsidiary which finances research toward the improvement of education buildings and equipment, was commencement speaker at Edwardsville.

He said the "ferment" taking place these days on the American campus is a "newly discovered national resource for energizing our society and speeding it toward what it must become."

Candidates for bachelor's degrees numbered 416. There were 86 master's and 28 associate degree candidates.
Rational Action Movement

Students seek stronger voice in areas directly concerned with student affairs

By BEN GELMAN

(Editor's Note: The rapid growth of the nation's colleges and universities is accompanied by many maladies, among them the problems of providing the classroom space, competent instructors, a space-age curriculum. Across the nation administrators are faced with still another problem, that of the student in his search for identity in what has been described as the "multiversity." The students protest—in orderly fashion and in not-so-orderly fashion. Through the Rational Action Movement, students at Southern Illinois University let their voices be heard. They went about the job earnestly, but without the rabidity that has characterized such demonstrations on many campuses. Below, Mr. Ben Gelman, university editor of the Southern Illinoisan, gives his account of the Rational Action Movement at the University.)

Spring 1965 at Southern Illinois University will be remembered for, among other things, the birth of the Student Rational Action Movement—RAM for short.

The movement was organized April 29 by some 150 students. They named a coordinating committee of 20 "vice presidents."

RAM sponsored two rallies on the Carbondale campus for "student rights" and made headlines in area newspapers as its members petitioned the University administration for more participation in decision-making in matters directly concerned with student affairs.

Both rallies were entirely peaceful in nature and consisted of talks by students—one faculty member spoke at the first rally—and music by student performers.

University officials offered to meet with RAM members to discuss a series of requests outlined at the first rally.

The final session was a marathon 16-hour meeting with President Delyte W. Morris at the President's Office from 9:30 A.M. May 9 to 1:30 A.M. May 10.

The RAM activity was touched off by dissatisfaction on the Carbondale campus with planning for an all-university Student Council, as required by recently revised University statutes and by-laws.

Until now, there have been separate Student Councils on the Carbondale and Edwardsville campuses.

But the RAM list of "rights and responsibilities" outlined in a statement read May 3 at the first rally in front of Morris Library was of a more general nature.

Six specific requests were made, including the right of students to: define, establish, and operate a student government free from unilateral changes by the administration; procedural safeguards for students in alleged violation of university rules; establish their own publication, free of censorship; freedom of expression in classes, elsewhere at the University, and outside it; establish the student activity fee and have authority to administer and allocate the funds collected; and to be informed in writing of all rules pertaining to students and of prospective changes, prior to adoption of such changes.

About 1,000 students attended the May 3 rally.

The President offered to meet with RAM leaders on May 6. Several sessions were held, culminating in the May 9–10 discussion.

Early on May 10, nearly 20 RAM leaders called a second rally, for the same day. About 350 students attended.

An open letter to Dr. Morris was read. It restated the student requests and added that "significant progress was attained" in the discussions.

Dr. Morris offered to suggest to Student, Faculty, and University Councils that the matter of student rights be studied and that a working group be set up to provide an "ongoing self-evaluation in the context of continued growth" of the University.

A development related to RAM was the formation on campus of the Action Party, which swept into office in the Carbondale student government for the coming fall the student body president, vice president, and three Student Council members, all that the party had nominated.

The Action Party's platform was essentially the same as the RAM statement of rights and responsibilities.

George J. Paluch, senior from Chicago, the student body president-elect, has been active in RAM, as has been the outgoing student body president, Patrick Micken, Carbondale.

After the May 10 rally, no further demonstrations were held, but a group of 13 members marched to the office of Ralph W. Ruffner, Vice President for Student and Area Services, June 2 to present two petitions.

One was a petition originated at the beginning of the RAM activity early in May, which stated that "student dignity" was "at a low ebb" on campus. It had 3,000 signatures.

The other, with about 400 names, concerned a proposal that students be given final choice about any change in student government, such as whether an all-university Student Council be set up. This proposal had been turned down by the University Council as illegal, according to University statutes.

One development which might be attributed to RAM activity concerns the form of the student government for the fall term worked out between the administration and the Carbondale Student Council.

News of the Campus

the Carbondale campus will be members of the all-university Student Council, they will also be authorized to meet separately on matters of one-campus concern.

Under the terms of an arrangement approved by a slim majority of students on both campuses, this form of government will continue through the fall term only. During the term, students must develop a working paper on implementing a permanent form of all-university student government.

Many of the RAM leaders were seniors who graduated in June.

RAM members have predicted that RAM will probably not continue next year as an action group. They said, however, that the ideas generated by RAM will probably guide the procedures of the Action Party in the University student government.

ROTC Program Elective

The Southern Illinois University Board of Trustees and the Office of the Secretary of the Air Force have agreed on a proposed new elective Air Force training program that will be expanded to the Edwardsville campus.

Board action was taken upon recommendation of President Delyte W. Morris after word was received by Lt. Col. James F. Van Ausdal, professor of aerospace studies at the University, that the elective training plan had been approved both in Washington and at Air University, Maxwell Air Force Base, Ala.

Approval had been awaited by University authorities since a sentiment poll was tabulated in April. With 3,000 students and more than 500 faculty members taking part, sentiment strongly favored elective military training.

President Morris' recommendation provides for both four-year and two-year voluntary programs on the Carbondale campus and a two-year voluntary program at Edwardsville, both leading to commissions. Currently, there is no program at Edwardsville.

Paul A. Schilpp to Visit

Philosophy teacher Paul A. Schilpp, former president of the American Philosophical Association, will be a visiting professor of philosophy at the University in the fall.

He has been a member of the Northwestern University faculty for 29 years.

One of the best known philosophy teachers in America, he is one of only two American consultants in philosophy to the Encyclopaedia Britanica.

Foundation Elects President

Aubrey Holmes '35, Springfield, former president of the Alumni Association, was elected president of the Southern Illinois University Foundation at its annual meeting in June.

He succeeds Charles Mayfield '39, a member of the Alumni Association Board of Directors, who has served as Foundation president for four terms. Mr. Mayfield was elected vice president.

New directors elected at the meeting were Dale Cozad '58, Champaign, and Thomas Graman, Metropolis.

Mrs. R. G. Crisenberry, Murphysboro, was appointed to the board to complete the unexpired term of her late husband, former Senator Crisenberry, who died in May.

The Foundation's third annual Service Recognition Awards were presented to John D. Dill, St. Petersburg, Fla., and SIU President Delyte W. Morris.

Mr. Dill is a former district manager of Metropolitan Life Insurance Company in Carbondale and was an original incorporator of the Foundation. He served as its president for four terms.

Dean Henry Rehn Retires

Henry Rehn, dean of the School of Business at the University, is retiring because of poor health.

Robert E. Hill, professor of economics at Kent State University, Ohio, and a native of Kincaid, has been named his successor.

Dr. Hill received the bachelor's degree from Illinois Wesleyan University, the master's from Indiana University, and the Ph.D. from the University of Alabama. He has taught at the University of Illinois and Kent State.
Cast of President Shryock Given to Son

A plaster cast of the sixth president of Southern Illinois University has been retrieved from a second-hand store and returned to the Carbondale campus, where his son is dean of the School of Fine Arts.

The cast of Henry William Shryock, president from 1913 to 1935, was presented to President Delyte W. Morris at the annual Alumni Banquet by J. Virgil Fishel '20-2, Arcola physician, who found it as he rummaged through the store in nearby Tuscola.

Dr. Fishel wrote to the Alumni Association: "A few days ago, while I was wandering around a second hand store at Tuscola, I found a plaster cast with 'H. W. Shryock' inscribed below...Charles J. Pardee's name is on the plaque, and no doubt he made it." The letter appeared in the March issue of the Southern Alumnus.

The late president's son, Dean Burnett H. Shryock of the School of Fine Arts, upon hearing of the discovery, wrote to Dr. Fishel saying, "I have a strange feeling I remember this, and that it was displayed in the old art room in Old Main. I had forgotten that Charles Pardee (member of the history department from 1929 to 1951, now deceased) was responsible for it." Dean Shryock expressed a desire to cast it in metal to make it more permanent.

The cast, Dr. Fishel answered, would be delivered by him for presentation at the annual Alumni Banquet. "Your father was one educator who really inspired me when I needed it," he said.

Dean Shryock could not be present for the banquet and the gift was accepted by the University's president since 1948, Delyte W. Morris.

Pedestrian Overpass Planned

A 570-foot long pedestrian overpass spanning Route 51 and the Illinois Central Railroad tracks through the Southern Illinois University campus will be built this summer and fall.

Designed to serve students in the new University Park residence halls and in other areas east of the railroad tracks, the overpass is scheduled for completion in November.

Architects estimate that residents of University Park will make 17,000 trips a day across tracks and highway. Future expansion will mean more than 30,000 trips a day.

The bridge will be 12 feet wide, ramped at both ends. Entrance on the west will be 100 feet from the highway and 70 feet north of Harwood Avenue.

East of the tracks, the bridge will end at the site of the present Health Service. Ramps will fork off north and south to the residence halls.
Night scene at University shows lights burning late at Wham Education Building (bottom) and Morris Library. Dots of light are mercury vapor area lamps, which have replaced incandescents because of longer burning time, better light.

Central Illinois Public Service Co. electricians assemble a new substation near the main campus. With a 7,500 KVA capacity which could be expanded to 15,000 KVA it will furnish power for rapidly expanding campus.

Maintenance man high above McAndrew Stadium hauls up bag full of light bulbs for replacement job. Eight standards support bank of 24 lights each. Lights are checked each season. Average life is 1,000 hours.

Arena lighting includes 194 ceiling units above playing floor, seats. Below, the unit during a day-long job of changing all bulbs in the Arena proper. Sizes range from 750 to 1,500 watts. Manager Dean Justice keeps a log on lamp-hours burned and changeout is timed to precede burnouts.

Ever wonder how they changed those house-light bulbs rimming Shryock Auditorium rotunda? Here's your answer: from the attic, where the whole fixture is removed for the job.

Using a pole-type changer, maintenance man replaces an incandescent bulb at a parking lot. Life of these bulbs is rated at 2,500 hours.

Obstruction lights on the power plant smokestack are no replacement problem. Units are attached to stick on a latching mechanism. They're unlatched with a winch, hauled down guidelines.

Harold Norton, SIU electrical maintenance man, crouches on a water pipe as he changes a reflector bulb underneath the swimming pool at University School.
By virtue of superb records posted by three spring sports teams, baseball, golf, and tennis, SIU's overall won-lost record for the 1964–65 school year was once again well above the breaking point.

While competing in dual meets and contests, Saluki athletes posted 85 victories and lost just 36 times during the past nine months and were equally impressive in national meets as well.

Baseball, golf, and tennis, coached respectively by Glenn (Abe) Martin, Lynn Holder, and Carl Sexton, were largely responsible for the fine finish as the three outdoor activities accounted for more than one-half of the victories with a composite 43–14–1 mark.

Martin's outfit again proved to be one of the winningest teams in Southern's athletic program as it matched the 20 victories claimed by Coach Jack Hartman's basketball quintet last winter.

Included in the 20 triumphs was a first-round NCAA regional tournament win over Ohio Wesleyan which enabled the Salukis to qualify for the title skirmish along with Western Illinois. The visiting Leathernecks used steady pitching and a timely hitting attack to top Southern, 6–3, in the finals and spoiled Martin's hopes of a second straight college-division regional crown.

The '65 season was a great one, however, for Martin and his experienced squad led by Kent Collins, Albion, Gene Vincent, Rockport, Ind., John Hotz, Webster Groves, Mo., Al Peludat, East St. Louis, and John Siebel, St. Louis.

The Salukis had key victories over St. Louis University, one of eight teams to qualify for the NCAA World Series, and Cincinnati, Kentucky Wesleyan, Tulsa, Parsons College, and Arkansas State, all of whom enjoyed winning campaigns.

Also winding up their season with a runner-up's trophy, although gained on a national rather than just a regional level, were Holder's golfers.

The Saluki linksmen finished behind a hot-shooting Middle Tennessee State team in the college-division tourney at Springfield, Mo., after having won 15 and losing six in regular-season play.

John Phelps, Carbondale, and the Muehleman brothers, Bill and Tom, of Alton, were pacesetters for SIU throughout the season. Phelps, while playing most of the time in the number five spot, posted a 16–4–2 record and averaged 77.5. Bill Muehleman was 16–5–1 with a 75.9 mark and Tom 16–6 with a 77.3 average.

Sexton's netters, although unable to duplicate last year's fabulous record when they went through the entire season unbeaten, wound up with a neat 8–3 mark. Top victories were over Oklahoma City, Wichita State, Cincinnati, and Washington U. of St. Louis.

Number one player Lance Lumsden, British West Indies, collected the best individual record by winning nine of his 11 matches. His only losses came at the hands of classy performers from Corpus Christi and Wichita State.

While Coach Lew Hartzog's track team was unable to contribute anything to SIU's overall record, it did fare well in larger meets such as the Florida, Texas, Kansas, and Drake Relays and in season-ending national affairs.

The mile relay combination of Robin Coventry, Melbourne, Australia, Bill Cornell, Chelmsford, England, Jerry Fendrich, Evansville, Ind., and Gary Carr, Mt. Vernon, Ind., was primarily responsible for the Saluki successes. While collecting a number of blue ribbons and other impressive seconds and thirds, the group lowered SIU's record to 3:09.2 in the event.

Cornell attracted national attention as an individual as well while competing in the mile run, and freshman Oscar Moore, White Plains, N.Y., also established himself as one of Southern's future greats in open three-mile races.

Meet Bert Casper

Bert Casper '25-27, Cobden, former superintendent of the Cobden Unit School District, succeeded Walter B. Young, Jr., ex '47, Carmi, as president of the Alumni Association on Alumni Day. Mr. Casper has long been active in the Association and has been a member of the Board of Directors since 1959. He was a teacher and school administrator for 35 years prior to his retirement in 1963. He and Mrs. Casper, the former Mary Alice Reno '25-27, live on a farm near Cobden and both are active in the First Presbyterian Church. The new president is a member of several professional and civic organizations. He received the master's degree from the University of Illinois.

The new president of the Alumni Association spends much of his time farming, but, since he is retired, he has time to fish, read, listen to stereo music, participate in the work of the First Presbyterian Church, and visit with the school people. He and Mrs. Casper and his brother Gene discuss remodeling of the manse, which Mrs. Casper helped prepare for a new minister. Below, the former school superintendent talks over school matters with his successor, Dorris Garner '50, M.S. '51, in the gymnasium where the famed Appleknockers, 1963 runners-up in the state basketball finals, started their outstanding feat.
English Professor Claude Coleman is the 1965 Alumni Association Great Teacher.

The Great Teacher Award, presented to a member of the University faculty selected by vote of Alumni Association members, includes a check for $1,000. The award was given to Professor Coleman as a climax to the annual Alumni Banquet held June 12 on the Carbondale campus.

Professor Coleman, director of the Plan "A" Curriculum, set up in 1961 to stimulate a limited number of the more talented students, was described in one ballot as "a fine gentleman, a man well-versed in all that life, as well as books, teaches."

A native of Douglas County, he has been a member of the University faculty since 1946. He has the doctoral degree from the University of Illinois.

Active and emeritus members of the faculty are eligible for the Great Teacher Award, which was presented for the sixth time this year.

Purpose of the award is to recognize talent for classroom teaching. In the voting, no consideration was to be given to research accomplishments or administrative ability.

Association members were asked to give their reasons for their Great Teacher selections. Of Professor Coleman, they said:

"Detailed knowledge of a vast range of literature and ability to focus on any one 'at the drop of a hat.'"

"He strives for excellence. His teaching level is far beyond what is required. He attempts to convey more than technical knowledge, he tries to give an appreciation of the principles underlying the technical aspects of his subject."

"Love of subject, real interest in students, his humor, and his unassuming manner."

"A good sense of humor and understanding which are so vital in an instructor and teacher."

Professor Coleman's response follows:

"This is one occasion in which I can agree with everyone present. To those of you who voted that this award should go to someone else, I am in entire agreement. And to those of you who voted that it should come to me, I owe my deepest appreciation.

"If there is one point to be made about my teaching, it must be that I try to establish a feeling of rapport and friendliness with every student. I try to challenge the student to do a high quality of work, and I treat him with respect as an equal, because he is my equal in all respects except those of age and experience.

"I shall refuse to believe that this award came to me because of my orderliness and careful planning. To believe this would set back the progress of education about 50 years. I promise you rather that I shall count it as a tribute to friendliness and respect, for I honor all students as those heroes of the future who will assume, in good time, the burdens and responsibilities now carried by my generation. Education is always engaged in a perpetual battle with the forces of darkness and evil. It is my hope that you young people will fight this battle with greater valor, and greater success than we have. From the depths of my being, I thank you."
Alumni Achievement Award

For Service to the University, to the Alumni Association,

For Outstanding Professional Achievements

Louis P. Shannon

John G. Gilbert

Arthur H. Doerr, Jr.

Fred R. Cagle

LOUIS P. SHANNON—By The Association of Alumni and Former Students of Southern Illinois University to honor him for exceptional achievements in the business and industrial world.

As a public relations executive for du Pont Corporation he has traveled extensively. A recent count showed he had made over 2,200 speeches as an authority on industrial progress and chemical developments. He has lectured on 113 college campuses from Maine to Southern California. Invariably he is introduced as a graduate of Southern Illinois University.

His early career was devoted to teaching and school administration in Illinois high schools. Broadly educated at five colleges and universities, he earned the master's degree from the University of Florida.

His formal education and teaching experience helped him to rise rapidly in the du Pont organization which he joined early in World War II.

As Chief Supervisor of Training for du Pont, he was responsible for training personnel for the entire high explosives industry. Later he worked at Oak Ridge and Hanford where his company's product was plutonium for the bombs that ended World War II.

The Alumni Association proudly grants this Achievement Award of 1965 in acknowledgment of his distinction as a highly successful business and industrial leader.
JOHN G. GILBERT—By The Association of Alumni and Former Students of Southern Illinois University in recognition of years of devotion and service to the University and the Alumni Association.

His family is a three generation SIU family. His father, John P. Gilbert, was Chairman of the Biology Department; John and his wife Helen are both graduates; their daughter Pam graduated in 1964 and was Miss Southern and Miss Illinois in 1962; and their daughter Gail is currently enrolled. Their son Phil is in high school, and may one day also become a student at the University.

John's contributions have been made as an alumnus, as a private citizen, and as a public servant. To the Alumni Association he has been a true friend and a staunch supporter. He served both as a member of the Board of Directors and as President in 1942. During that year he assisted with the drafting of the original by-laws and incorporation of the Southern Illinois University Foundation. John has also served as a representative of his class to the Legislative Council.

With experience as an FBI agent, and as a practicing attorney in Jackson County for over twenty years, with eight years as State's Attorney, he was elected to the Senate of Illinois in 1960. Now in his second term, and with his interest in education, he serves as Chairman of the committee to visit all state-supported universities and as a member of the Senate Education Committee. In addition, he is Chairman of the Banks, Savings and Loan Associations Committee, and is a member of the Committees on Conservation, Highways, Judiciary, and Reapportionment.

This Achievement Award of 1965 is presented as a token of sincere appreciation and gratitude.

ARThUR HARRY DOERR, JR.—By The Association of Alumni and Former Students of Southern Illinois University as a tribute for his outstanding accomplishments as a teacher, researcher, author, and administrator in higher education.

A member of the Class of 1947 at Southern Illinois University, he has risen to the position of Dean of the Graduate College at the University of Oklahoma, compiling an enviable list of accomplishments along the way as an outstanding student, teacher, and researcher in the field of geography. He has taught at several major universities in the United States; in 1950 he conducted a tropical land use program for the Puerto Rican Department of Agriculture and Commerce; he was a recipient of a Fulbright Professorship in 1958-59 which enabled him to teach and do research at the University of the Philippines; he is co-author of a book, Principles of Geography; and he has written more than forty chapters and articles for books and periodicals in the field of geography. He was the recipient of a significant award in 1955 at the University of Oklahoma for “extraordinary excellence in teaching and student counseling of freshmen and sophomores.” He was named Dean of the Graduate College in 1962.

It is with pride that we present this Achievement Award for 1965 for professional accomplishment.

FRED RAY CAGLE—By The Association of Alumni and Former Students of Southern Illinois University as a salute to him for his outstanding achievements in the fields of biological sciences, communications, and international affairs.

Named Vice-President for Institutional Development at Tulane University in 1963, he is responsible for planning, design of a management data system, public relations, liaison with government and corporations, alumni activities, and the development of two new Tulane research and advanced education campuses. Prior to being named to this position, Dr. Cagle served Tulane as Coordinator of Research and as Professor and Chairman of the Zoology Department. From 1938 to 1941 he was a member of Southern Illinois University faculty and director of the museum.

In the field of communication, he has served as chairman of the Committee on Translations for the American Institute of Biological Sciences, as consultant in public affairs to the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, as consultant in science information to the U.S. Public Health Service, and as a member of the Science and Technology Committee of the Library of Congress.

Presentation of Alumni Achievement Awards by former Alumni Association President John Lester Buford was accompanied by an entertaining series of dialogues as he had each recipient defend his right to receive the honor. Mr. Buford was presented an Alumni Achievement Award in 1959. Winners are Arthur H. Doerr, Jr., John G. Gilbert, Fred R. Cagle, and Louis P. Shannon.

Alumni Banquet

This year's banquet was hailed as one of the most entertaining in Alumni Day history. Credit is due former Alumni Association President John Lester Buford '24-28, Mt. Vernon, for his banter with Achievement Awards winners, and them for holding their own with him, and credit is due retiring President Walter B. Young, Jr., ex '47, Carmi, always excellent as a toastmaster.

Alumni Day 1965 will be remembered for a long time by many graduates and former students, especially the members of the Class of 1915.

They were the honored class, back for their Golden Reunion. And 21 of the 42 living class members returned for the event. There were 55 in the original class.

They gathered at Bevis Cafeteria for breakfast and later were guests of honor at a luncheon given by President Delyte W. Morris. There they were presented 50 Year Certificates.

The annual meeting of the Legislative Council began with a coffee at mid-morning. Council members re-elected Mr. Young and Everett E. Miller '39, Lake Bluff, to the Alumni Association Board of Directors, and elected Mrs. Harold Dycus (Jane Curry '57, M.A. '58), Carbondale, and W. Stewart Williams '29, Springfield, members of the Board. They succeed Elizabeth Harris Lewis '32 and Glenn W. Storme '29-2, both of Carbondale.

Later, the Board met and named Maurice Clark '38, M.S. '53, Western Springs, president-elect, Andrew Marcec '56, Normal, and Roger Spear '48, Carbondale, vice presidents, and Mrs. Dycus secretary. New officers were installed at the Alumni Banquet.
State of the University

In a "State of the University" address, delivered at the Alumni Banquet, President Delyte W. Morris said the desire for self-improvement is a force at SIU "that will shape the nature of our school."

He told of the development of the Vocational Technical Institute, at first looked upon unfavorably by many but now a model for technical instruction; of the Community Development Service, formed to help Southern Illinois; "and we have seen changes" of new concepts in teaching technology.

Dr. Morris predicted that during the next 15 years the most noticeable changes at the University would be in study at the doctorate level, "but I hope at Southern Illinois University we won't be forced to shut off the most open type of enrollment possible until a system of junior colleges becomes a reality.

"If we cannot keep the doors open, many young people in Southern Illinois won't be able to go to college."
