Morris Named Head Of New Council

After 22 years as president and one year as president emeritus of Southern Illinois University, Dr. Delyte W. Morris has gone to Washington, D.C. to serve as executive director of the newly incorporated National Council on Educating the Disadvantaged.

Morris retired Aug. 31 as president emeritus of SIU. His retirement had been announced by the SIU Board of Trustees in June.

Morris outlined his new chief duties as working with colleges and universities to provide academic programs for public school teachers and administrative supervisors. Education of disadvantaged elementary and secondary pupils will be the program's main concern.

Incorporated July 26 as a nonprofit group, the council said in a prepared news release that its aims will be to "facilitate a national system of cooperative university programs for the identification, diagnosis, remediation, rehabilitation and prevention of educational, physical, psychological, social, economic, vocational and environmental disparities and deficiencies which affect, impair and limit school children, their teachers and their supervisors."

A tribute to the retired president has been entered into the Congressional Record by Rep. Melvin Price (D) of East St. Louis. Price's remarks were inserted in the July 8 edition of the House "Record."

He said that during Morris' tenure SIU "emerged from the academic backwaters as a struggling teachers college to a modern university complex that is the 17th largest in the United States."

He cited SIU's enrollment growth from 3,013 in 1948 to more than 35,000 on two campuses when Morris became president emeritus in 1970.

"Delyte Morris has been more than a builder or entrepreneur," Price said. "He has fought valiantly for the students and the faculty. He breathed life into the university in order that its academic standing is top rated. Delyte Morris' spirit embodies the whole of the university. It is a personal monument to his strength and imagination."

Price said the education community "lost an invaluable resource" when Morris retired.

"I know of no other man who has been as responsible for bringing quality higher education to Southern Illinois... He forged a strong partnership between the university and the areas in which it is located. To him, the University functions to serve all the people."
Honorary Degrees Awarded

Honorary degrees were conferred on three persons in SIU commencement exercises in September. Recipients were William Ackermann, Gustav Bohstedt and Mary Mullane. All received the doctor of science degree, Ackermann and Bohstedt in the Carbondale commencement and Ms. Mullane at Edwardsville.

Chief of the Illinois State Water Survey, Ackermann is regarded as a leading U.S. authority on water resource management. He won the 1967 Lincoln Medal for work in technology toward the advancement of human welfare. Ackermann has assisted in developing water resource projects at SIU.

Bohstedt, an animal husbandry expert, is an emeritus professor at the University of Wisconsin and has been a visiting professor on two occasions in SIU’s department of animal industries. He helped develop the department in 1957-59.

Dean of the College of Nursing at the University of Illinois at Chicago since 1962, Ms. Mullane previously held the same position at the University of Iowa. She has been cited for distinguished service by the Illinois League of Nursing and was named Detroit “Nurse of the Year.”

Also honored at Edwardsville was Mrs. Suzanne Wicks, high school teacher, who received the Distinguished Service Award.

SIU Library Holdings Enlarged

Lovejoy Library at Edwardsville and Morris Library at Carbondale now house approximately two million volumes.

Acquisitions for Lovejoy Library during the 1970-71 fiscal year totaled 55,392 volumes. This brings the library’s total reported holdings to 469,743 volumes. The new acquisitions are slightly higher than the preceding year when 51,636 volumes were added.

Morris Library additions during fiscal year 1970-71 totaled 136,626 items and brought the library’s total holdings to 1,403,535 volumes. The new acquisitions are substantially lower than the preceding year, when 170,000 items were added. However, approximately 35,000 of the 1969-70 acquisitions were stocks stored for the new Undergraduate Library which has just been opened this fall.

Edwardsville Housing Code

SIU trustees have adopted a student housing policy for the Edwardsville Campus establishing minimum standards for occupancy. The campus, designed primarily to serve commuters, has operated previously with housing regulations adopted from the Carbondale Campus. This trustee action establishes separate policies for the Edwardsville Campus.

According to the housing policy, SIU at Edwardsville will continue to develop on-campus housing until not more than one-fifth of the full-time student enrollment is accommodated. Rate of development of on-campus housing will be dependent on the availability of funds. At the present time, the University operates 244 apartment units in the Tower Lake area.

Carbondale Car Policy

SIU at Carbondale can no longer tell students whether they can use, operate or possess an automobile off the campus.

The new regulation, approved by the Board of Trustees and effective Sept. 1, says merely “No person affiliated with Southern Illinois University at Carbondale shall operate or park an unregistered motor vehicle on University property except with permission of the Security Office.”

Students still must register cars to park on campus and those privileges have not yet been extended to freshmen and sophomores under 21.
