The School of Law Catalog covers in detail questions concerning the School of Law program at Southern Illinois University at Carbondale. (It supersedes Vol. 22, No. 3, of the Southern Illinois University at Carbondale Bulletin.) All statements in this catalog are announcements of present policies and are subject to change at any time without prior notice. They are not to be regarded as offers to contract. The law school is in the process of revising its second and third year curriculum; therefore, new requirements may go into effect for all law students as of the fall semester, 1982.

History

The Southern Illinois University System is a senior public university system comprising two diverse institutions—Southern Illinois University at Carbondale and Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville—and serving approximately 33,000 students.

Chartered in 1869, Southern Illinois Normal University served as a teacher-training institution until 1943, when the school was transformed into a university, giving official recognition to the area's demand for diversified training and service. SINU became Southern Illinois University in 1947, and in 1949 began offering off-campus academic courses in the Metropolitan East St. Louis area, an initiative which led to the eventual development of a separate, distinctive institution in Edwardsville.

The mission and scope of The Southern Illinois University System are highly complex and emphasize a commitment to fine quality in education. As the Southern Illinois University System has grown and flourished, its constituent universities have developed programs of instruction, research, and public service which have attracted and served students, faculty, and staff not only from the region but from throughout the state of Illinois, the nation, and from overseas, as well.

The universities within the Southern Illinois University System offer a broad range of academic programs at the associate, baccalaureate, master's, doctoral, and professional levels. In addition to the many undergraduate degree programs offered, the system supports more than sixty academic programs which lead to the master's degree and twenty-two which lead to the doctorate. The professional schools are designed to provide first-rank health and legal graduates trained to meet the particular needs of the people of Illinois. Southern Illinois University at Carbondale operates a School of Law in Carbondale and a School of Medicine headquartered in Springfield, the first year of which is offered in Carbondale; Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville operates a school of nursing in Edwardsville and a School of Dental Medicine in Alton. More than 6,000 of the 33,000 students currently enrolled are in graduate and professional programs.

The instructional, research, and service missions of the two universities reflect the needs of the geographic areas in which they are located. The system is also committed to serving state, national, and international needs, a commitment reflected in educational activities located away from the main campuses in communities throughout the state and nation. Countries throughout the world experience this commitment through research and training exchanges and student exchange programs.

The Southern Illinois University System is governed by a nine-member board of trustees, which sets policy that enables the institutions to carry out established objectives. The chancellor of the Southern Illinois University System is the chief executive officer of the system and is the primary link between the universities and the Board of Trustees. The university presidents report directly to the chancellor and are responsible for the internal operations of their institutions.

Location

The city of Carbondale is approximately 100 miles southeast of Saint Louis, Missouri, in Jackson County, the western border of which is the Mississippi River. Some of the most rugged and picturesque terrain in Illinois lies south of Carbondale. Sixty miles to the south is the historic confluence of the Ohio and Mississippi rivers; the two rivers form the border of the southern tip of Little Egypt, the name given to the 14 southernmost counties in Illinois. The region immediately surrounding Carbondale is noted for its large peach and apple orchards. Two state parks and four lakes are located within 10 miles of the campus and much of the area is a part of the Shawnee National Forest.

Campus

The University campus, comprising more than 3,290 acres immediately south of the city of Carbondale, includes a 981 acre developed portion with woods and a lake as a site for academic buildings and residence halls. The buildings are located in wooded tracts along two circular shaped campus drives, named for Lincoln and Douglas. Two beautiful features, located near the center of the campus, are a wooded tract preserved in the tradition of native forests of Southern Illinois and several buildings which formed the original campus a century ago. Approximately seventy-five permanent buildings and several hundred temporary buildings are located on the campus.

1 School of Law

In May, 1971, the Illinois Board of Higher Education published Phase III of its study, A Master Plan for Higher Education in Illinois. It was therein stated that a new law school "should be opened at Southern Illinois University in Carbondale as soon as appropriate planning, approval, and funding can be achieved." The University, which has main campuses at Carbondale and Edwardsville and which was aware of the need for more good law schools and particularly for a school in its region, immediately took steps to make the school a reality. An appropriation for this purpose was secured from the Illinois legislature in June, 1972, and shortly thereafter Hiram H. Lesar, then dean of the School of Law at Washington University, was employed as the first dean of the new school. The nucleus of an able faculty, experienced in practice and teaching, was recruited, and a first-year class was accepted to begin study in September, 1973.

Purposes

The main purpose of the School of Law is to train lawyers who will be competent to practice law now and in the future. In addition to specific legal rules, the student must learn analytic skills, research techniques, and the basic legal principles and policies underlying the current applications of those rules. He or she should also learn the basic skills of advocacy, counseling, and negotiation.

The second purpose of the School of Law stems from recognition of the social fact that lawyers are expected to provide a large part of the leadership in a wide spectrum of American life. In general terms this means that lawyers must perform two functions which go beyond rendering competent legal service. They must be prepared to serve in a "watch-dog" capacity with respect to the proper functioning of American institutions, and they must be prepared to participate in "making law." Of course, the lawyer-legislator "makes" law but so does the member of the important bar association committee charged with responsibility for drafting proposed legislation.

The second purpose of the school, then, is to assure that the leadership function performed by lawyers is carried out well. For this purpose the lawyer requires not only the whole range of skills and knowledge needed for the practice of law, but also an understanding of our institutions and a sensitivity to potential conflict areas. Two things are essential to carrying out objectives of such breadth: a curriculum which balances the course offerings as carefully as possible so that neither purpose is sacrificed to the other, and a faculty with unusual breadth of knowledge and vision to formulate that curriculum and with an extraordinary ability to implement it, both within and without the classroom.

The third purpose of the school—which is essential to the fulfillment of the other two—is to instill in its students a proper conception of the professional responsibilities of the lawyer and the organized bar, an understanding of the nature and role of the legal profession, and knowledge and appreciation of the ethical principles by which all lawyers are bound.

It is the school's position that this kind of training can best be accomplished with a student body numbering from 350 to 450—small enough so that faculty and students may know one another and large enough to justify a faculty of sufficient size to offer all the courses that should be given in a modern law school.

Facilities

In the summer of 1981 the law school occupied a new and contemporary building situated on the western edge of the campus near the lake. The building houses classrooms, student lounges, administrative and faculty offices, and the library, as well as a courtroom and large, in-house clinic facilities.

Library

The law library provides those resources for research which a high quality faculty and student community need. The new Law Building includes a spacious, 41,000 square-foot library facility to house the library collection, study spaces, and staff. An extensive menu of services ranging from expert legal reference to computer-assisted information retrieval is offered to the law school community.

Law books and law-related information accessible through other media, such as videotapes, microform, or computers, are the core of a law library. From a starter collection of 20,000 volumes contributed by Southern Illinois University library in 1973, the law library has grown rapidly to more than 185,000 volumes—a collection larger than the collections of more than half of the academic law libraries in the country. This mature library resource includes as part of that volume count 222,350 pieces of microform, the equivalent of 77,835 physical books. Because of the small student body size, duplication of titles in the book collection has been minimal. Consequently, the collection is richer in variety of titles than in most law libraries of the same size.

Not so easily quantifiable are the library's computer-assisted research systems (LEXIS and Westlaw), its computer-assisted instruction system (PLATO), and computer-assisted library technical process. These are important to the description of a contemporary law school library because they are an indication of the library's ability to provide information in non-traditional ways, ways which are sometimes more efficient, more accurate, or more responsive to user needs. The law library at Southern Illinois University has consistently been a pioneer in utilizing technology to improve library services.

The library collection includes an almost complete inventory of primary American legal sources, state and federal, and substantial holdings in English, Canadian and international law; moreover, a strong retrospective collection of legal journals has been developed, and the law library subscribes to approximately 1,100 current legal journals or newsletters. The collection of state legal materials which includes all annotated statutes, appellate judicial opinions, and all published regulations for the fifty states is an important reason why this law library has become a truly regional resource. The law library maintains subscriptions to looseleaf and other current awareness services supporting all major curricular research efforts of the law school.

A variety of sophisticated indices, including a superior card catalog and the interpretive services of law-trained librarians, provides access to the fully cataloged and classified collection. The library has been a selective government depository library since 1978, and the extensive array of government publications received is fully integrated into the cataloged collection and available to both the law school community and the public.

The physical facilities of the new law library combine a serene decor with an eminently functional arrangement. Ample seating at both carrels and tables is provided for library users. The relationship of library service centers to library users and to the library collection is a model for the efficient and immediate accessibility of library services.

The resources of over 1,650,000 volumes in the University library are readily available also to law students to supplement the strong, well-staffed law school facility.

Accreditation

The SIUC School of Law has been fully accredited by the American Bar Association and has applied for membership in the Association of American Law Schools.

Curriculum

FIRST YEAR

The first year curriculum has been newly revised and the 1981-82 academic year is the first year that it is offered. It is required. It differs from the first year curriculum in many, if not most, schools in that first-year legal writing and reasoning is taught in small sections of up to 20 students each by regular full-time faculty members.

First Semester		Second Semester
Course	Hours	Course	Hours
Contracts I	3	Contracts II	3
Property I	3	Property II	3
Torts I	3	Torts II	2
History of Procedure	2	Civil Procedure I	3
Legal Research I: Sources and Methodology	1	Criminal Law	3
Legal Writing and Reasoning	2	Legal Argumentation	2

SECOND AND THIRD YEARS

The second and third year curriculum is in the process of being revised to conform with the first year curriculum. It is expected that this revised second and third year curriculum will be in place in the first semester of the 1982-83 academic year. The rules that follow pertain to the second and third year curriculum as it now exists. These rules may continue or they may change with the revision now being undertaken. Constitutional Law II, Legal Bibliography II, The Legal Profession, and the Senior Writing Seminar have been required courses.

The Senior Writing Seminar requires the production of a paper of the quality of a law journal comment. SIUC Law Journal members have not been required to take a seminar since it is expected that their law journal work is of the equivalent nature.

Up to 6 semester hours of credit for course work taken in the Graduate School may be applied, with permission of the deans of both the Graduate School and the School of Law, toward the number of hours required for the J.D. degree and toward the residence semester requirement. A student must earn a grade of B or better in such work for School of Law credit to be given, but this letter grade will not be reflected on a student's School of Law record, nor will it be used to compute the law grade-point average.

The combined total of course work permitted in each of the areas of clinical law, moot court board, and law review may not exceed 6 semester hours.

The second and third year courses offered during the 1981-82 academic year are as follows. Although it is expected that most, if not all, of them will be continued after the revision, there may be different credit hours, semester sequencing, and so on.

Course	Hours	Course	Hours
Administrative Law	3	Juvenile Justice System	2

The Senior Writing Seminars being offered during the 1981-82 academic year are as follows:

- Natural Resources Law
- International Human Rights
- Property Law Problems
- Tax Policy
- Products Liability

In previous years, other topics included the following:

- Civil Procedure
- Criminal Justice
- Constitutional Law
- Business Law

In addition the law school offers a separate summer school program with courses established each year on an ad hoc basis.

Admission

To be admitted as a candidate for the Juris Doctor degree, an applicant must have received a bachelor's or the equivalent and must have demonstrated capacity for the study of law by a satisfactory undergraduate record and satisfactory performance on the Law School Admission Test (LSAT). Forms for applying for admission may be obtained from the School of Law, Southern Illinois University at Carbondale, Carbondale, Illinois 62901.

The LSAT is administered on a nationwide basis by the Law School Admission Services, Box 2000, Newtown, PA 18940, and is offered on the SIUC campus four times each year. The test administration dates in October or December of the applicant's final year of undergraduate study are preferred.

Applicants must also register with the Law School Data Assembly Service (LSDAS) by completing the form found in the LSAT bulletin of information and returning it to the Law School Admission Services. Applicants must have transcripts sent to LSDAS by the registrar of each college and professional or graduate school attended. Test scores and evaluations of transcripts are reported to applicants and to the law schools they designate. Applicants should indicate on the LSAT/LSDAS matching forms that their scores and evaluations are to be reported to the Southern Illinois University at Carbondale School of Law. It is not necessary that application for admission to the School of Law be made before taking the test or registering with LSDAS.

Applications for admission to the school may be filed any time after September 1, but preference will be given to applicants who file their applications prior to January 1. There is a $10.00 application fee.

An applicant who is admitted is required to make a security deposit of $100 by April 1, unless accepted later, when several weeks are allowed. This deposit will be credited against the first semester's tuition and fees.

Admissions are made without regard to race, religion, sex, national origin, age, handicap, or other factors prohibited by law. The law school is expanding its affirmative action program and continues its participation in the Council on Legal Education Opportunity (CLEO) program.

Degree Requirements

A candidate for the Juris Doctor (J.D.) degree must satisfy the entrance requirements, fulfill the residence requirements, and satisfactorily complete a total of 90 semester hours of work for credit and must take all required courses. The required courses currently consist of all first year courses, Constitutional Law I and II, Legal Bibliography II, The Legal Profession, and a senior writing seminar.

RESIDENCE REQUIREMENTS

A candidate must complete six semesters of residence, not less than the last two of which must be in this School of Law. In order to obtain residence credit for a semester, a candidate must examine in a minimum of 12 hours of work and must obtain final credit in a minimum of 10 hours of work. A candidate who either examines in or obtains final credit for fewer than the required minimum hours will be given proportionate residence credit. No credit toward residence is given in courses in which a student receives a failing grade.

LIMITATION OF COURSE HOURS

No student may register for more than 16 hours without the consent of the dean. It is advisable for students to devote most of their time to their work in the school. Students who undertake substantial employment outside the school should reduce their course loads.

ATTENDANCE AND WITHDRAWAL

Regular attendance is expected and required of each student. An instructor may exclude from any class a student who is unprepared and may, after prior notice, exclude from the final examination in any course any student whom, for reasons of lack of preparation or lack of attendance, the instructor deems unqualified to receive credit in the course. Specific rules regulating attendance and withdrawal from courses are furnished each student prior to registration.

EXAMINATIONS

A student who has not withdrawn, or been withdrawn, from a course is expected to take the examination for that course at the regularly scheduled time. Unexcused failure to take an examination will result in a failing grade. If failure to take an examination is excused, the student may, with the permission of the dean and the instructor, take the examination after the rest of the class or at the time it is next regularly offered. Withdrawal from a non-required course must be made in accordance with University deadlines.

POOR SCHOLARSHIP RULE

Grades are given in numbers, with 75 being the average required for graduation. A student who fails to have a cumulative average of 74 at the end of the first year or a 75 at the end of any other academic year will be dropped from the school for poor scholarship. A student whose average at the end of the first year is below 74 may appeal to the dean, who refers the petition to the Academic Standards Committee to recommend acceptance or denial of the petition for readmission.

Tuition and Fees

Tuition and fees in the School of Law are established by the Board of Trustees and are subject to change whenever conditions make changes necessary. Present tuition and fees for regularly enrolled law students (taking 12 or more semester hours) are $522.75 per semester for residents and $1,225.95 per semester for non-residents. Books will cost about $200 per semester.

Financial Aid

Although the School of Law has limited resources for financial aid at its disposal, some assistance is available.

The University maintains an Office of Student Work and Financial Assistance through which work on campus, cooperative work-study programs, the federal work-study program, various veterans benefits (both state and federal), tuition remission scholarships, and student loans may be negotiated. For more specific information, students may contact the Office of Student Work and Financial Assistance, Woody Hall, Southern Illinois University at Carbondale, Carbondale, Illinois 62901.

In addition, there are available through the law school:

1. A number of Dean's Club scholarships, made available through contributions by the school's benefactors.
2. The Judge James O. Monroe, Jr. scholarship, made available through the Judge James O. Monroe, Jr. endowment fund established by the Madison County Bar Association.
3. The Max Turner Memorial Scholarship Fund, established in memory of an early advocate of the new law school.
4. Hiram H. Lesar Scholarship Awards.
5. Illinois Bar Foundation Research Fellow Program (Warren B. Buckley Estate).
6. A limited number of research assistantships awarded to members of the second- and third-year classes primarily on a merit basis. These are provided from the school's state-appropriated funds. Assistantships are also awarded to each of the six members of the Moot Court Board.
7. A limited number of work opportunities in the law library and in the administrative offices of the school. These are provided from the school's state-appropriated funds.
8. A limited number of cash grants awarded from the school's activities funds derived from various sources, including application fees.

Specific instructions for applying for financial aid are mailed during the summer to entering students who indicate in their admission applications that they are interested in financial aid.

Housing

University on-campus housing is available for 4,700 single students and 576 married students. Two newly-remodeled residence halls across the street from the law school are reserved for law student single-room occupancy, and several apartments in married student housing are reserved for law students. Off-campus housing is readily available. Inquiries concerning on-campus or off-campus housing may be obtained from University Housing, Washington Square, Southern Illinois University at Carbondale, Carbondale, Illinois 62901

Honor Code

"The cornerstone of our legal system is the integrity of the individual lawyer." Preparation for law, therefore, must encourage individual integrity as well as understanding of law. The essence of an honor system is the observance by each student of high ethical standards of conduct. The system yields immediate tangible advantages of convenience—examinations are not supervised, a student's word is accepted as the truth, and ownership of personal belongings is respected; it yields also lasting intangible values of the spirit—those who have lived under an honor code are forever dissatisfied with any less rigorous standards. Students of the school have adopted an honor code and elected an ethics council to enforce it. Copies of the code, as amended, will be sent to applicants on request and will be sent routinely to all accepted applicants.

Student Bar Association

The student body has drafted and adopted a constitution and by-laws for the Student Bar Association of which every regular law school student is a member. The association functions primarily through officers and committees elected by the membership at large and plays an integral role in the operation and governance of the law school. The students who serve as representatives to the faculty meetings are elected by the students, and those who serve on the various faculty committees are appointed by the dean from a list submitted by the president of the Student Bar Association.

Legal Aid Clinics

The school operates a prison legal aid clinic, an externship program, an aid to the elderly program, and a juvenile justice program. The clinics provide selected students with a number of internships and research assistantships. Other students may obtain credit. The work with prison inmates, with the Land of Lincoln program for indigent persons, with the public defender and appellate public defender programs, with the elderly and with youthful offenders, as well as with other selected programs, gives students an unusual opportunity for variety in the clinic experience. Civil as well as criminal problems are encountered. Clinic credit may not be given before a student's fourth semester, and a student may not register for more than three hours of credit prior to obtaining a student (711) license to practice in Illinois. Clinic credit must be approved by the law school clinical law committee. The total hours obtainable are limited.

Law Journal

The Southern Illinois University Law Journal is a scholarly legal publication which is printed quarterly. The journal is managed and edited by an editorial board, with the published materials supplied by students, law professors, and other members of the legal profession. Work on the journal affords the student intensive training in legal research, analysis, and writing. All students are eligible to write for the journal and earn writing and academic credit for demonstrating superior writing skills. A small percentage of the journal candidates will be invited to be members of the editorial staff of the journal on the basis of grades at the end of the second and third semester. Membership on the editorial board is attained by completion of the writing and administrative requirements. There is an election for the offices of editor-in-chief, managing editor, articles editors, notes and comments editors, research editors, and business editor.

Moot Court

The moot court program is a comprehensive one. It provides a required experience in appellate practice in the first year as a part of the legal argumentation course. This is followed by an opportunity to pursue an advanced program in the second and third years. The school has participated in the National Moot Court competition since 1974 and plans to continue to do so in the future. Since 1977 students have competed in the ABA-sponsored National Appellate Advocacy competition and since 1979, the Jessup International Law Moot Court activity. Other competitions have been available to interested students.

Concurrent Degree Programs

A student who has been admitted separately to the School of Law and to the graduate program in business administration may apply for permission to study concurrently for both the Juris Doctor and the Master of Business Administration degrees. This permission must be requested from both the School of Law and the graduate program in business administration, ordinarily prior to entry into the second-year curriculum of the School of Law.

During the first academic year of concurrent work on the two degrees, the student enrolls only in the first-year law curriculum. In any subsequent academic term the student may enroll either for courses only in the School of Law or only in the Graduate School, or for courses in both units. A student registered for both law and graduate courses in the same term must enroll for a minimum of 10 semester hours in law, and 12 semester hours in total, in order to meet A.B.A. residence requirements and the academic requirements of the School of Law.

Completion of the concurrent programs requires that the student successfully complete 81 semester hours of law courses and 30 semester hours of courses that meet M.B.A. requirements. In addition, the student must fulfill all other requirements of the School of Law, the Graduate School, and the program in business administration for the J.D. and M.B.A. degrees. A student, with law school approval, may obtain similar law credit for a master's degree in other disciplines if the work follows the guidelines set out for the J.D./M.B.A. The school currently has, for instance, several students pursuing J.D./Master in Public Affairs and J.D./Master in Accountancy degrees. It should be noted that the requirements for a master's degree are solely the concern of the discipline awarding that degree.

Placement Services

A full range of placement services is offered to students and alumni including current job listings, on-campus interviews with prospective employers, and resume assistance. Students are encouraged to begin career planning early in their law school years and to seek summer and part-time legal employment experience. The placement office will make every effort to help students identify and pursue employment opportunities.

The School of Law is firmly committed to a policy against discrimination in employment based on sex, race, religion, age, handicap, or national origin and we expect that all employers who use our placement services will make certain that no such discrimination occurs.

Of the eighty-one members of the class of 1980, seventy-four had notified the Placement Office by February, 1981, that they were employed, at salaries ranging from $12,000 to $26,000.

Research Bureau

The purposes of the research bureau are to furnish high quality service to attorneys while providing paid research and writing experience to law students. Second- and third-year students are eligible for participation in the organization which is administered by a student steering committee with the advice and assistance of a faculty adviser.
