University General Information

History

The Southern Illinois University System is a senior public university system comprising two diverse institutions—Southern Illinois University at Carbondale and Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville—and serving approximately 33,000 students.

Chartered in 1869, Southern Illinois Normal University served as a teacher-training institution until 1943, when the school was transformed into a university, giving official recognition to the area's demand for diversified training and service. SINU became Southern Illinois University in 1947, and in 1949 began offering off-campus academic courses in the Metropolitan East St. Louis area, an initiative which led to the eventual development of a separate, distinctive institution in Edwardsville.

The mission and scope of The Southern Illinois University System are highly complex and emphasize a commitment to fine quality in education. As the Southern Illinois University System has grown and flourished, its constituent universities have developed programs of instruction, research, and public service which have attracted and served students, faculty, and staff not only from the region but from throughout the state of Illinois, the nation, and from overseas as well.

The universities within the Southern Illinois University System offer a broad range of academic programs at the associate, baccalaureate, master's, doctoral, and professional levels. In addition to the many undergraduate degree programs offered, the system supports more than sixty academic programs which lead to the master's degree and twenty-two which lead to the doctorate. The professional schools are designed to provide first-rank health and legal graduates trained to meet the particular needs of the people of Illinois. Southern Illinois University at Carbondale operates a School of Law in Carbondale and a School of Medicine headquartered in Springfield, the first year of which is offered in Carbondale; Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville operates a school of nursing in Edwardsville and a School of Dental Medicine in Alton. More than 6,000 of the 33,000 students currently enrolled are in graduate and professional programs.

The instructional, research, and service missions of the two universities reflect the needs of the geographic areas in which they are located. The system is also committed to serving state, national, and international needs, a commitment reflected in educational activities located away from the main campuses in communities throughout the state and nation. Countries throughout the world experience this commitment through research and training exchanges and student exchange programs.

The Southern Illinois University System is governed by a nine-member board of trustees, which sets policy that enables the institutions to carry out established objectives. The chancellor of the Southern Illinois University System is the chief executive officer of the system and is the primary link between the universities and the Board of Trustees. The university presidents report directly to the chancellor and are responsible for the internal operations of their institutions.

Location

The city of Carbondale is approximately 100 miles southeast of Saint Louis, Missouri, in Jackson County, the western border of which is the Mississippi River. Some of the most rugged and picturesque terrain in Illinois lies south of Carbondale. Sixty miles to the south is the historic confluence of the Ohio and Mississippi rivers; the two rivers form the border of the southern tip of Little Egypt, the name given to the 14 southernmost counties in Illinois. The region immediately surrounding Carbondale is noted for its large peach and apple orchards. Two state parks and four lakes are located within 10 miles of the campus and much of the area is a part of the Shawnee National Forest.

Campus

The University campus, comprising more than 3,290 acres immediately south of the city of Carbondale, includes a 981-acre developed portion with woods and a lake as a site for academic buildings and residence halls. The buildings are located in wooded tracts along two circular shaped campus drives, named for Lincoln and Douglas. Two beautiful features, located near the center of the campus, are a wooded tract preserved in the tradition of native forests of Southern Illinois and several buildings which formed the original campus a century ago. Approximately seventy-five permanent buildings and several hundred temporary buildings are located on the campus.

1 School of Law

In May, 1971, the Illinois Board of Higher Education published Phase III of its study, A Master Plan for Higher Education in Illinois. It was therein stated that a new law school "should be opened at Southern Illinois University in Carbondale as soon as appropriate planning, approval, and funding can be achieved." The University, which has main campuses at Carbondale and Edwardsville and which was aware of the need for more good law schools and particularly for a school in its region, immediately took steps to make the school a reality. An appropriation for this purpose was secured from the Illinois legislature in June, 1972, and shortly thereafter Hiram H. Lesar, then dean of the School of Law at Washington University, was employed as the first dean of the new school. The nucleus of an able faculty, experienced in practice and teaching, was recruited, and a first-year class was accepted to begin study in September, 1973.

Purposes

The main purpose of the School of Law is to train lawyers who will be competent to practice law now and in the future. In addition to specific legal rules, the student must learn analytic skills, research techniques, and the basic legal principles and policies underlying the current applications of those rules. He or she should also learn the basic skills of advocacy, counseling, and negotiation.

The second purpose of the School of Law stems from recognition of the social fact that lawyers are expected to provide a large part of the leadership in a wide spectrum of American life. In general terms this means that lawyers must perform two functions which go beyond rendering competent legal service. They must be prepared to serve in a "watch-dog" capacity with respect to the proper functioning of American institutions, and they must be prepared to participate in "making law." Of course, the lawyer-legislator "makes" law, but so does the member of the important bar association committee charged with responsibility for drafting proposed legislation.

The second purpose of the school, then, is to assure that the leadership function performed by lawyers is carried out well. For this purpose the lawyer requires not only the whole range of skills and knowledge needed for the practice of law, but also an understanding of our institutions and a sensitivity to potential conflict areas. Two things are essential to carrying out objectives of such breadth: a curriculum which balances the course offerings as carefully as possible so that neither purpose is sacrificed to the other, and a faculty with unusual breadth of knowledge and vision to formulate that curriculum and with an extraordinary ability to implement it, both within and without the classroom.

The third purpose of the school—which is essential to the fulfillment of the other two—is to instill in its students a proper conception of the professional responsibilities of the lawyer and the organized bar, an understanding of the nature and role of the legal profession, and knowledge and appreciation of the ethical principles by which all lawyers are bound.

It is the school's position that this kind of training can best be accomplished with a student body numbering from 350 to 450—small enough so that faculty and students may know one another and large enough to justify a faculty of sufficient size to offer all the courses that should be given in a modern law school.

Facilities

The Lesar Law Building is a new and contemporary structure situated on the western edge of the campus near the lake. The building houses classrooms, student lounges, administrative and faculty offices, and the library, as well as a courtroom and large in-house clinic facilities.

Library

The law library provides those resources for research needed by a high quality faculty and student community. The new law building includes a 41,000-square-foot library that houses the collection, study spaces, and staff. An extensive menu of services, ranging from expert legal reference to computer-assisted information retrieval, is offered to the law school community.

Law books and law-related information accessible through other media, such as videotapes, microform, or computers, are the core of the law library. From a starter collection of 20,000 volumes contributed by SIUC's Morris Library in 1973, the law library has grown rapidly to more than 200,000 volumes—a collection larger than those of over half the academic law libraries in the country. This mature resource includes as part of that volume count 242,230 pieces of microform, the equivalent of 82,716 physical books. Because the student body is small, the duplication of titles has been minimal; consequently the collection is richer in variety of titles than those of most law libraries of similar size.

Not so easily quantifiable are the library's computer-assisted research systems (LEXIS and Westlaw), its computer-assisted instruction system (PLATO), and its computer-assisted library technical processes. These are important to the description of a contemporary law school library because they are an indication of its ability to provide information in nontraditional ways—ways that are sometimes more efficient, more accurate, or more responsive to user needs. The law library at SIUC has consistently been a pioneer in using technology to improve library services.

The library collection includes an almost complete inventory of primary American legal sources, state and federal, and substantial holdings in English, Canadian, and international law. A strong retrospective collection of legal journals has been developed as well, and the library subscribes to approximately 1,130 current legal journals and newsletters. The collection of state legal materials, which includes a set of annotated statutes, the appellate judicial opinions, and all published regulations for each of the fifty states, is an important reason why this law library has become a truly regional resource. The law library maintains subscriptions to looseleaf and other current awareness services supporting all major curricular and research efforts of the law school.

A variety of sophisticated indices, including a superior card catalog and the interpretive services of law-trained librarians, provides access to the fully-cataloged and classified collection. The library has been a selective government depository library since 1978, and the extensive array of government publications received is fully integrated into the cataloged collection and available to both the law-school community and the public.

The physical features of the law library combine a serene decor with an eminently functional arrangement. Ample seating at both carrels and tables is provided for library users. The relationship of library service centers to library users and to the collection is a model for efficient and immediate access to library services.

The resources of over 1,650,000 volumes in the University library are readily available also to law students, to supplement the strong, well-staffed law school library.

Accreditation

The SIUC School of Law has been fully accredited by the American Bar Association and is a member of the Association of American Law Schools.

Curriculum

FIRST YEAR

The first-year curriculum is required. It differs from the first-year curriculum in many, if not most, schools in that first-year legal writing and reasoning is taught in small sections of no more than 20 students by full-time faculty members.

First Semester		Second Semester
Course	Hours	Course	Hours
Contracts I	3	Contracts II	3
Property I	3	Property II	3
Torts I	3	Torts II	2
History of Procedure	2	Civil Procedure I	3
Legal Research I: Sources		Criminal Law	3
and Methodology	1	Legal Argumentation	2
Legal Writing and Reasoning	2

SECOND AND THIRD YEARS

The curriculum for the second and third years is being revised to conform with the first-year schedule. The revised curriculum is meant to be in place by the 1983-84 academic year. The rules that follow pertain to the second and third years as they now stand; they may or may not be changed in the revision process. Constitutional Law I, Legal Research II, The Legal Profession, and the Senior Writing Seminar have been required courses.

A Senior Writing Seminar requires a paper of the quality of a law journal comment. SIUC Law Journal members have not been required to take a seminar, since the law journal work is of equivalent stature.

Up to 6 semester hours of credit for course work taken in the Graduate School may be applied, with permission of the deans of both the Graduate School and the School of Law, toward the number of hours required for the J.D. degree and toward the residence semester requirement. A student must earn a grade of B or better in such work for School of Law credit to be given, but this letter grade will not be reflected on a student's School of Law record, nor will it be used to compute the law grade-point average.

The combined total of course work permitted in each of the areas of clinical law, moot court competition, and law review may not exceed 6 semester hours.

A list of second- and third-year courses offered during the 1982-83 academic year follows. Although it is expected that most, if not all, of them will be continued after the revision, there may be different credit hours, semester sequencing, etc.

Senior Writing Seminars being offered during the 1982-83 academic year are as follows:

Natural Resources Law	Property Law Problems
Products Liability	Tax Policy

In previous years, topics have included the following:

Business Law	Criminal Justice
Civil Procedure	International Human Rights
Constitutional Law

The law school offers a separate summer school program with courses established each year on an ad hoc basis.

Admission

To be admitted as a candidate for the Juris Doctor degree, an applicant must have received a bachelor's degree or the equivalent and must have demonstrated capacity for the study of law by a satisfactory undergraduate record and satisfactory performance on the Law School Admission Test (LSAT). Forms for applying for admission may be obtained from the Office of Admissions, School of Law, Southern Illinois University at Carbondale, Carbondale, Illinois 62901.

The LSAT is administered on a nationwide basis by the Law School Admission Services, Box 2000, Newtown, PA 18940, and is offered on the SIUC campus four times each year. The test administration dates no later than October or December of the applicant's final year of undergraduate study are preferred.

Applicants must also register with the Law School Data Assembly Service (LSDAS) by completing the form found in the LSAT bulletin of information and returning it to the Law School Admission Services. Applicants must have transcripts sent to LSDAS by the registrar of each college and professional or graduate school attended. Test scores and evaluations of transcripts are reported to applicants and to the law schools they designate. Applicants should indicate on the LSAT/LSDAS matching forms that their scores and evaluations are to be reported to the Southern Illinois University at Carbondale School of Law. It is not necessary that application for admission to the School of Law be made before taking the test or registering with LSDAS.

Applications for admission to the school may be filed any time after September 1, but preference will be given to applicants who file their applications prior to January 1. There is a $15.00 application fee.

An applicant who is admitted is required to make a security deposit of $100 by April 1, unless accepted later, when several weeks are allowed. This deposit will be credited against the first semester's tuition and fees.

Admissions are made without regard to race, religion, sex, national origin, age, handicap, or other factors prohibited by law. The law school is expanding its affirmative action program and continues its participation in the Council on Legal Education Opportunity (CLEO) program.

Degree Requirements

A candidate for the Juris Doctor (J.D.) degree must satisfy the the entrance requirements, fulfill the residence requirements, and satisfactorily complete a total of 90 semester hours of work for credit, and must pass all required courses. The required courses currently consist of all first year courses, Constitutional Law, Legal Research II, The Legal Profession, and a Senior Writing Seminar.

RESIDENCE REQUIREMENTS

A candidate must complete six semesters of residence, not less than the last two of which must be in this School of Law. In order to obtain residence credit for a semester, a candidate must examine in a minimum of 12 hours of work and must obtain final credit in a minimum of 10 hours of work. A candidate who either examines in or obtains final credit for fewer than the required minimum hours will be given proportionate residence credit. No credit toward residence is given in courses in which a student receives a failing grade.

LIMITATION OF COURSE HOURS

No student may register for more than 16 hours without the consent of the dean. It is advisable for students to devote most of their time to their work in the school. Students who undertake substantial employment outside the school should reduce their course loads.

ATTENDANCE AND WITHDRAWAL

Regular attendance is required of each student. An instructor may exclude from any class a student who is unprepared and may, after prior notice, exclude from the final examination in any course any student whom, for reasons of lack of preparation or lack of attendance, the instructor deems unqualified to receive credit in the course. Specific rules regulating attendance and withdrawal from courses are furnished each student before registration.

EXAMINATIONS

A student who has not withdrawn, or been withdrawn, from a course is expected to take the examination for that course at the regularly scheduled time. Unexcused failure to take an examination will result in a failing grade. If failure to take an examination is excused, the student may, with the permission of the dean and the instructor, take the examination after the rest of the class or at the time it is next regularly offered. Withdrawal from a non-required course must be made in accordance with University deadlines.

POOR SCHOLARSHIP RULE

For students who entered law school before fall semester 1982, grades are given in numbers on a scale of 65 to 100, with 75 being the average required for graduation. A student who fails to have a cumulative average of 74 at the end of the first year or 75 at the end of any other academic year will be dropped from the school for poor scholarship.

For students who commence law studies during or after fall semester 1982, grades are given in numbers on a scale of 0.0 to 4.0, with 2.0 being the average required for graduation. A student who fails to have a cumulative average of 1.9 at the end of the first year or 2.0 at the end of any other academic year will be dropped from the school for poor scholarship.

A student whose average at the end of the first year is below 74 under the old grading system or below 1.9 under the new grading system may appeal to the dean, who refers the petition to the Academic Standards Committee to recommend acceptance or denial of a petition for readmission.

Tuition and Fees

Tuition and fees in the School of Law are established by the Board of Trustees and are subject to change whenever conditions make changes necessary. Present tuition and fees for regularly enrolled law students (taking 12 or more semester hours) are $677.75 per semester for residents and $1,637.75 per semester for non-residents. Books will cost about $200 per semester.

Financial Aid

Although the School of Law has limited resources for financial aid at its disposal, there are available, through the school:

1. A number of Dean's Club scholarships, made available through contributions by the school's benefactors.
2. A limited number of research assistantships awarded to members of the second- and third-year classes primarily on a merit basis. Assistantships provide a tuition waiver and a modest monthly salary. These are provided from the school's state-appropriated funds. Assistantships are also awarded to the students who serve as assistants to professors teaching first-year legal writing and legal argumentation.
3. A limited number of work opportunities in the law library and in the administrative offices of the school. These are provided from the school's state-appropriated funds.
4. A limited number of cash grants awarded from the school's activities funds derived from various sources, including application fees.

Specific instructions for applying for financial aid are mailed during the summer to entering students who indicate in their admission applications that they are interested in financial aid.

The University maintains an Office of Student Work and Financial Assistance through which work on campus, cooperative work-study programs, the federal work-study program, various veterans benefits (both state and federal), tuition remission scholarships, and student loans may be negotiated. For more specific information, students may contact the Office of Student Work and Financial Assistance, Woody Hall, Southern Illinois University at Carbondale, Carbondale, Illinois 62901.

SCHOLARSHIPS AND AWARDS

1. James O. Monroe Award. The income from an endowment fund established by the Madison County Bar Association in memory of the late judge is awarded annually to a student who has demonstrated excellence in legal research and writing.
2. John S. Rendleman Award. One hundred dollars is awarded to the "outstanding" senior selected by the seniors. Mr. Rendleman held several administrative positions at Southern Illinois University, including that of president of the Edwardsville campus.
3. Max Turner Memorial Scholarship Award. The fund was established in memory of Professor Max W. Turner, a political science professor and member of a group which planned a law school at SIU. Awarded to a student who has demonstrated integrity and distinguished scholastic achievement.
4. Hiram H. Lesar Scholarship Award. The income from an endowment fund established by Dean Hopson to honor the first dean of the law school is awarded to students who have demonstrated integrity and distinguished scholastic achievement.
5. W. Philo Gilbert Memorial Scholarship Award. A scholarship fund established in memory of a prominent Carbondale attorney and friend of the law school. Awarded to a student who has demonstrated integrity and distinguished scholastic achievement.

6. Fahy and Cheney Award. Established by the Rockford labor law firm and given to the best student in the fall labor law course.
7. Illinois Bar Foundation Research Fellow. A grant to a third-year law student, selected by the school, to assist a professor with a research project.
8. American Bar Association Section of Urban, State and Local Government Award. A book award to one senior who excelled in courses on Land Use Law and to one senior who excelled in Local Government or Municipal Corporation Law.
9. Bureau of National Affairs Law Week Award. A year's subscription to Law Week to the graduating senior who has made the most satisfactory progress in his or her final year.
10. Matthew Bender Award. A textbook award to a senior who has excelled in natural resources law.
11. Prentice-Hall Tax Award. A plaque awarded to a senior who has done outstanding work in tax courses.
12. West Publishing Company Awards. Corpus Juris Secundum volumes and Hornbooks are awarded to freshmen, juniors, and seniors for significant legal scholarship or the highest scholastic averages in class.
13. Lawyers Co-op Publishing Company Awards. American Jurisprudence volumes are awarded to the top students in selected courses.

There are also state and national essay competitions on legal subjects, and scholarships are available to law students at any school from a variety of organizations. Information about these opportunities is available in the law school.

Housing

University on-campus housing is available for 4,700 single students and 576 married students. Two newly-remodeled residence halls across the street from the law school are reserved for law student single-room occupancy, and several apartments in married student housing are reserved for law students. Off-campus housing is readily available. Inquiries concerning other on-campus or off-campus housing may be obtained from University Housing, Washington Square, Southern Illinois University at Carbondale, Carbondale, Illinois 62901.

Honor Code

"The cornerstone of our legal system is the integrity of the individual lawyer." Preparation for law, therefore, must encourage individual integrity as well as understanding of law. The essence of an honor system is the observance by each student of high ethical standards of conduct. The system yields immediate tangible advantages of convenience—examinations are not supervised, a student's word is accepted as the truth, and ownership of personal belongings is respected; it yields also lasting intangible values of the spirit—those who have lived under an honor code are forever dissatisfied with any less rigorous standards. Students of the school have adopted an honor code and elected an ethics council to enforce it. Copies of the code, as amended, will be sent to applicants on request and are distributed to all freshmen at orientation.

Legal Aid Clinics

The school operates a prison legal aid clinic, an externship program, an aid to the elderly program, and a juvenile justice program. The clinics provide selected students with a number of internships and research assistantships. Other students may obtain credit. The work with prison inmates, with the Land of Lincoln program for indigent persons, with the public defender and appellate public defender programs, with the elderly and with youthful offenders, as well as with other selected programs, gives students an unusual opportunity for variety in the clinic experience. Civil as well as criminal problems are encountered. Clinic credit may not be given before a student's fourth semester, and a student may not register for more than three hours of credit before obtaining a student (711) license to practice in Illinois. Clinic credit must be approved by the law school clinical law committee. The total hours obtainable are limited.

Law Journal

The Southern Illinois University Law Journal is a scholarly legal publication which is printed quarterly. The journal is managed and edited by an editorial board, with the published materials supplied by students, law professors, and other members of the legal profession. Work on the journal affords the student intensive training in legal research, analysis, and writing. All students are eligible to write for the journal and earn writing and academic credit for demonstrating superior writing skills. A small percentage of the journal candidates will be invited to be members of the editorial staff of the journal on the basis of grades at the end of the second and third semester. Membership on the editorial board is attained by completion of the writing and administrative requirements. There is an election for the offices of editor-in-chief, managing editor, articles editors, notes and comments editors, and research editors.

The Journal of Legal Medicine, published by the American College of Legal Medicine, presents, on a regular basis, articles written by students at Southern Illinois University School of Law. This arrangement is designed to allow law students who have special interests in law and medicine to pursue those interests through scholarly research and publication.

Legal Argumentation

The legal argumentation program is a comprehensive one. It provides a required experience in appellate practice in the first year. This is followed by an opportunity to participate in regional and national competitions, including the ABA-sponsored National Appellate Advocacy and Client Counseling Competitions, the Jessup International Law Moot Court Competition, the National Trial Competition, and the National Moot Court Competition.

Concurrent Degree Programs

The School of Law, in cooperation with the Graduate School, offers concurrent J.D. and master's degrees in business administration, public affairs, and accountancy. A student must be enrolled in both the graduate program and the law school. The master's programs ordinarily require 30 hours of study, while the law degree requires 90 hours. When the master's and J.D. degrees are pursued concurrently, a significant reduction in the total number of hours required to earn both degrees is achieved. Details of the concurrent degree programs are available from the law school registrar, Norma Brown. Students should make their interest in the concurrent degree program known to the registrar after the completion of the first year of law school study.

Research Bureau

The purposes of the research bureau are to furnish high quality service to attorneys while providing paid research and writing experience to law students. Second- and third-year students are eligible for participation in the organization which is administered by a student steering committee with the advice and assistance of a faculty adviser.

Student Organizations

The student body has drafted and adopted a constitution and by-laws for the Student Bar Association of which every regular law school student is a member. The association functions primarily through officers and committees elected by the membership at large and plays an integral role in the operation and governance of the law school. The students who serve as representatives to the faculty meetings are elected by the students, and those who serve on the various faculty committees are appointed by the dean from a list submitted by the president of the Student Bar Association.

Other student organizations are Phi Alpha Delta, the Donald F. McHenry International Law Society, the Women's Law Union, the National Lawyers Guild, the Black American Law Students Association, the Christian Legal Society, and law student divisions of the Illinois State Bar Association and the American Bar Association.

Placement Services

A full range of placement services is offered to students and alumni including current job listings, on-campus interviews with prospective employers, and resume assistance. Students are encouraged to begin career planning early in their law school years and to seek summer and part-time legal employment experience. The placement office will make every effort to help students identify and pursue employment opportunities.

The School of Law is firmly committed to a policy against discrimination in employment based on sex, race, religion, age, handicap, or national origin, and we expect that all employers who use our placement services will make certain that no such discrimination occurs.

Of the sixty-six members of the class of 1981, fifty-five had notified the Placement Office by February, 1982, that they were employed, at salaries ranging from $12,000 to $27,000.
