University General Information

History

The Southern Illinois University System is a senior public university system comprising two diverse institutions—Southern Illinois University and Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville—and serving approximately 33,000 students.

Chartered in 1869, Southern Illinois Normal University served as a teacher-training institution until 1943, when the school was transformed into a university, giving official recognition to the area's demand for diversified training and service. SINU became Southern Illinois University in 1947, and in 1949 began offering off-campus academic courses in the Metropolitan East St. Louis area, an initiative which led to the eventual development of a separate, distinctive institution in Edwardsville.

The mission and scope of the Southern Illinois University System are highly complex and emphasize a commitment to fine quality in education. As the Southern Illinois University System has grown and flourished, its constituent universities have developed programs of instruction, research, and public service which have attracted and served students, faculty, and staff not only from the region but from throughout the state of Illinois, the nation, and from overseas as well.

The universities within the Southern Illinois University System offer a broad range of academic programs at the associate, baccalaureate, master's, doctoral, and professional levels. In addition to the many undergraduate degree programs offered, the system supports more than sixty academic programs which lead to the master's degree and twenty-two which lead to the doctorate. The professional schools are designed to provide first-rank health and legal graduates trained to meet the particular needs of the people of Illinois. Southern Illinois University operates a School of Law in Carbondale and a School of Medicine headquartered in Springfield, the first year of which is offered in Carbondale; Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville operates a school of nursing in Edwardsville and a School of Dental Medicine in Alton. More than 6,000 of the 33,000 students currently enrolled are in graduate and professional programs.

The instructional, research, and service missions of the two universities reflect the needs of the geographic areas in which they are located. The system is also committed to serving state, national, and international needs, a commitment reflected in educational activities located away from the main campuses in communities throughout the state and nation. Countries throughout the world experience this commitment through research and training exchanges and student exchange programs.

The Southern Illinois University System is governed by a nine-member board of trustees, which sets policy that enables the institutions to carry out established objectives. The chancellor of the Southern Illinois University System is the chief executive officer of the system and is the primary link between the universities and the Board of Trustees. The university presidents report directly to the chancellor and are responsible for the internal operations of their institutions.

Location

The city of Carbondale is approximately 100 miles southeast of Saint Louis, Missouri, in Jackson County, the western border of which is the Mississippi River. Some of the most rugged and picturesque terrain in Illinois lies south of Carbondale. Sixty miles to the south is the historic confluence of the Ohio and Mississippi rivers; the two rivers form the border of the southern tip of Little Egypt, the name given to the 14 southernmost counties in Illinois. The region immediately surrounding Carbondale is noted for its large peach and apple orchards. Two state parks and four lakes are located within 10 miles of the campus and much of the area is a part of the Shawnee National Forest.

Campus

The University campus, comprising more than 3,290 acres immediately south of the city of Carbondale, includes a 981-acre developed portion with woods and a lake as a site for academic buildings and residence halls. The buildings are located in wooded tracts along two circular shaped campus drives, named for Lincoln and Douglas. Two beautiful features, located near the center of the campus, are a wooded tract preserved in the tradition of native forests of Southern Illinois and several buildings which formed the original campus a century ago.

School of Law

History

In May, 1971, the Illinois Board of Higher Education published Phase III of its study, A Master Plan for Higher Education in Illinois. It was therein stated that a new law school "should be opened at Southern Illinois University in Carbondale as soon as appropriate planning, approval, and funding can be achieved." The University immediately took steps to make the school a reality. An appropriation for this purpose was secured from the Illinois legislature in June, 1972, and shortly thereafter Hiram H. Lesar, then dean of the School of Law at Washington University, St. Louis, was employed as the first dean of the new school. The nucleus of an able faculty, experienced in practice and teaching, was recruited, and a first-year class was accepted to begin study in September, 1973.

Purposes

The main purpose of the School of Law is to train lawyers who will be competent to practice law now and in the future. In addition to specific legal rules, the student must learn analytic skills, research techniques, and the basic legal principles and policies underlying the current applications of those rules. He or she should also learn the basic skills of advocacy, counseling, and negotiation.

The second purpose of the School of Law stems from recognition of the social fact that lawyers are expected to provide a large part of the leadership in a wide spectrum of American life. In general terms this means that lawyers must perform two functions which go beyond rendering competent legal service. They must be prepared to serve in a "watch-dog" capacity with respect to the proper functioning of American institutions, and they must be prepared to participate in "making law." Of course, the lawyer-legislator "makes" law, but so does the member of the important bar association committee charged with responsibility for drafting proposed legislation.

The second purpose of the school, then, is to assure that the leadership function performed by lawyers is carried out well. For this purpose the lawyer requires not only the whole range of skills and knowledge needed for the practice of law, but also an understanding of our institutions and a sensitivity to potential conflict areas. Two things are essential to carrying out objectives of such breadth: a curriculum which balances the course offerings as carefully as possible so that neither purpose is sacrificed to the other, and a faculty with unusual breadth of knowledge and vision to formulate that curriculum and with an extraordinary ability to implement it, both within and without the classroom.

The third purpose of the school—which is essential to the fulfillment of the other two—is to instill in its students a proper conception of the professional responsibilities of the lawyer and the organized bar, an understanding of the nature and role of the legal profession, and knowledge and appreciation of the ethical principles by which all lawyers are bound.

It is the school's position that this kind of training can best be accomplished with a student body numbering from 300 to 400—small enough so that faculty and students may know one another and large enough to justify a faculty of sufficient size to offer all the courses that should be given in a modern law school.

Facilities

The Lesar Law Building, dedicated in 1982, is a contemporary structure situated on the western edge of the campus near the lake. The building houses classrooms, student lounges, administrative and faculty offices, and the library, as well as a courtroom and large in-house clinic facilities.

Library

The law library provides all resources needed for research by faculty and students in a superior law school. The new law building includes a 41,000-square-foot library that houses the collection, study spaces, and staff. Services, ranging from expert legal reference to computer-assisted information retrieval, are offered to the law school community.

Law books and law-related information accessible through other media, such as videotapes, audiotapes, microform, or computers, are the core of the law library. From a collection of 20,000 volumes contributed by SIU's Morris Library in 1973, the law library has grown rapidly to almost 240,000 volumes—a collection well above the median academic law library size and rich in its variety of titles. This mature library resource includes over 310,000 microform units, the equivalent of close to 100,000 physical books.

Not so easily quantifiable are the library's computer-assisted research systems (LEXIS and Westlaw), and its computer-assisted library technical processes. These are important to a contemporary law school library because they provide access to information in nontraditional ways—ways that are sometimes more efficient, more accurate, or more responsive to user needs. The law library at SIU has consistently been a pioneer in using technology to improve library services. For example, personal computers for student use are a recent addition to the law library.

The library collection includes an almost complete inventory of primary American legal sources, state and federal, and substantial holdings in English, Commonwealth, and international law. The library subscribes to approximately 1,500 current legal journals and newsletters and maintains a strong retrospective collection of journals as well. The extensive collection of state legal materials, including a set of annotated statutes, the appellate judicial opinions, and administrative regulations for each of the fifty states, has made the law library a truly regional resource. The law library maintains subscriptions to loose-leaf and other current awareness services supporting all major curricular and research efforts of the law school.

Several sophisticated approaches, including a superior card catalog, on-line and conventional indexes, and the interpretive services of law-trained librarians, provide access to the fully-cataloged and classified collection. The library has been a selective federal government depository library since 1978, and an Illinois state depository library since 1982. Government publications are fully integrated into the cataloged collection and available to both the law school community and the public.

The physical features of the law library combine a serene decor with an eminently functional arrangement. Ample seating at both carrels and tables is provided for library users. The library's design includes access and work stations for patrons in wheelchairs. The relationship of library service centers to library users and to the collection is a model for efficient and immediate access to library materials.

The resources of over 1,650,000 volumes in the University library also are readily available to law students, to supplement the strong, well-staffed law school library. A sophisticated interlibrary loan system provides access to materials held in other major research libraries around the country.

Accreditation

The SIU School of Law has been fully accredited by the American Bar Association and is a member of the Association of American Law Schools.

Curriculum

FIRST YEAR

The first-year curriculum is required. It differs from the first-year curriculum in many, if not most, schools in that first-year Legal Writing and Reasoning is taught in small sections by full-time faculty members.

SECOND AND THIRD YEARS

The curriculum for the second and third years remains flexible. Constitutional Law, Legal Research II, the Legal Profession, and the Senior Writing Seminar are the currently required courses. Changes may be made in requirements in the future.

A Senior Writing Seminar requires a paper of the quality of a law journal comment. SIU Law Journal members are not required to take a seminar, since the law journal work is of equivalent stature.

Up to 6 semester hours of credit for course work taken in the Graduate School may be applied, with permission of the deans of both the Graduate School and the School of Law, toward the number of hours required for the J.D. degree and toward the residence semester requirement. A student must earn a grade of B or better in such work for School of Law credit to be given, but this letter grade will not be reflected on a student's School of Law record, nor will it be used to compute the law grade-point average.

The combined total of course work permitted in each of the areas of clinical law, moot court competition, and law review may not exceed 6 semester hours.

Summer School

The law school offers a limited summer school program with courses established each year on an ad hoc basis. New students are not admitted in the summer.

Admission

To be admitted as a candidate for the Juris Doctor degree, an applicant must have received a bachelor's degree and must have demonstrated capacity for the study of law by a satisfactory undergraduate record and satisfactory performance on the Law School Admission Test (LSAT). Forms for applying for the LSAT and for admission to the law school may be obtained from the Office of Admissions, School of Law, Southern Illinois University, Carbondale, Illinois 62901.

The LSAT is administered on a nationwide basis by the Law School Admission Services, Box 2000, Newtown, PA 18940, and is offered on the SIU campus four times each year. The test administration dates no later than September or December of the applicant's final year of undergraduate study are preferred. LSAT scores which are more than three years old will not be considered by the admissions committee.

Applicants must also register with the Law School Data Assembly Service (LSDAS) by completing the form found in the LSAT bulletin of information and returning it to the Law School Admission Services. Applicants must have transcripts sent to LSDAS by the registrar of each college and professional or graduate school attended. Test scores and evaluations of transcripts are reported to applicants and to the law schools they designate. Applicants should indicate on the LSAT/LSDAS matching forms that their scores and evaluations are to be reported to the Southern Illinois University School of Law. It is not necessary that application for admission to the School of Law be made before taking the test or registering with LSDAS.

Applications for admission to the school may be filed any time after September 1, but preference will be given to applicants who file their applications prior to January 1. There is a $15.00 application fee.

An applicant who is admitted is required to make a security deposit of $100 by April 1, unless accepted later, when several weeks are allowed. This deposit will be credited against the first semester's tuition and fees.

Admissions are made without regard to race, religion, sex, national origin, age, handicap, or other factors prohibited by law. The law school has an active affirmative action program and participates in the Council on Legal Education Opportunity (CLEO) program.

Admission of Handicapped Students

The School of Law maintains a strong commitment to make all services, programs, and activities available to students with disabilities. Our new facility provides access for those in wheelchairs or with limited mobility. Both the campus and the city of Carbondale are accessible to students who use wheelchairs, and to those who are semi-ambulatory, visually handicapped, hearing-impaired, or otherwise disabled. The University Housing Office provides modified housing in the Thompson Point residential area and in the family housing areas.

The law school will gladly help handicapped students make arrangements to meet special needs. Students who seek further information should consult the Admissions Office or the University's Office of Disabled Student Services.

Pre-Law Study

The law school does not require any particular subjects or specific course of study for admission. A broad, general education is better preparation for the study of law than specialized subjects closely related to the law. The prospective law student would be well advised to take such subjects as history, government, economics, philosophy, literature, logic, mathematics, and accounting. Courses in the hard sciences are appropriate. Proficiency in analytical skills is essential to both the study and practice of law.

The principal tool of the lawyer is the art of expression, and the importance of the study of English cannot be over-emphasized. The pre-law student should acquire facility in the communication of ideas, both oral and written.

Degree Requirements

A candidate for the Juris Doctor (J.D.) degree must satisfy the entrance requirements, fulfill the residence requirements, and satisfactorily complete a total of 90 semester hours of work for credit, and must pass all required courses. The required courses currently consist of all first year courses, Constitutional Law, Legal Research II, the Legal Profession, and a Senior Writing Seminar.

RESIDENCE REQUIREMENTS

A candidate must complete six semesters of residence (the last two must be in this School of Law). In order to obtain residence credit for a semester, a candidate must complete a minimum of 12 hours of work and must obtain final credit in a minimum of 10 hours of work. A candidate who either examines in or obtains final credit for fewer than the required minimum hours will be given proportionate (12ths) residence credit. No credit toward residence is given in courses in which a student receives a failing grade.

LIMITATION OF COURSE HOURS

No student may register for more than 16 hours without the consent of the dean. It is advisable for students to devote most of their time to their work in the school. Students who undertake substantial employment outside the school should reduce their course loads.

ATTENDANCE AND WITHDRAWAL

Regular attendance is required of each student. Specific rules regulating attendance and withdrawal are set forth in the law school rules. Copies of the rules are available in the law library.

EXAMINATIONS

A student who has not withdrawn, or been withdrawn, from a course is expected to take the examination for that course at the regularly scheduled time. Unexcused failure to take an examination will result in a failing grade. If failure to take an examination is excused, the student may, with the permission of the dean and the instructor, take the examination after the rest of the class or at the time it is next regularly offered. Withdrawal from a non-required course must be made in accordance with University deadlines.

POOR SCHOLARSHIP RULE

Grades are given in numbers on a scale of 0.0 to 4.0, with 2.0 being the average required for graduation. A student who fails to have a cumulative average of 1.9 at the end of the first year or 2.0 at the end of any other academic year will be dropped from the school for poor scholarship. During the student's senior year a 2.0 average must be obtained in courses taken during that senior year.

A student whose average at the end of the first year is below 1.9 may appeal to the dean, who refers the petition to the Academic Standards Committee to recommend acceptance or denial of a petition for readmission.

SCHOOL OF LAW ACADEMIC RULES

Copies of the academic rules of the law school are available in the law library, and are controlling if in conflict with statements contained in this bulletin.

Honors

The Dean's List is compiled every semester and includes those students in each class who rank in the top 15% of full time students. Those students comprising the top 10% of each class are eligible for nomination to membership in Phi Kappa Phi, a national honorary society.

GRADUATING HONORS

Individuals in the top 3% of a graduating class are awarded Juris Doctor degrees, Summa Cum Laude; the next highest 7% are awarded Juris Doctor degrees, Magna Cum Laude; and those in the next highest 10% are awarded Juris Doctor degrees, Cum Laude.

Tuition and Fees

Tuition and fees in the School of Law are established by the Board of Trustees and are subject to change whenever conditions make changes necessary.

Present tuition and fees for regularly enrolled law students (taking 12 or more semester hours) are $851.95 per semester for residents and $2,039.95 per semester for non-residents. Books will cost about $200 per semester.

Financial Aid

Although the School of Law has limited resources for financial aid at its disposal, there are available through the school:

1. A significant number of research assistantships awarded to members of the second- and third-year classes primarily on a merit basis. Assistantships provide a tuition waiver and a modest monthly salary. These are provided from the school's state-appropriated funds. Assistantships are also awarded to the students who serve as assistants to professors teaching first-year legal writing and legal argumentation.
2. A limited number of work opportunities in the law library and in the administrative offices of the school. These are provided from the school's state-appropriated funds.
3. A limited number of cash grants awarded from the Foundation funds, derived from various sources including contributions by the school's benefactors, from the school's activities funds, and application fees.
4. A limited number of tuition-remission scholarships awarded on an academic basis to first-year students and on a financial-need basis to second- and third-year students.
5. A limited number of fellowships available to minority students with demonstrated financial need.

Specific instructions for applying for financial aid are mailed during the spring to entering students who indicate in their admission applications that they are interested in financial aid.

The University maintains an Office of Student Work and Financial Assistance through which work on campus, cooperative work-study programs, the federal work-study program, various veterans benefits (both state and federal), and student loans may be negotiated. For more specific information, students may contact the Office of Student Work and Financial Assistance, Woody Hall, Southern Illinois University, Carbondale, Illinois 62901.

Honor Code

"The cornerstone of our legal system is the integrity of the individual lawyer." Preparation for law, therefore, must encourage individual integrity as well as understanding of law. The School of Law has adopted its own comprehensive ethics and disciplinary code. The high regard for ethical conduct at SIU is reflected in the practice of giving each law student a key to the building and library. Copies of the code will be sent to applicants on request and are available in the law library.

Modern Law Office Technology

The law school has recently purchased over $150,000 worth of microcomputers and word processing equipment. Much of this equipment will be available for use by students in the course on the Delivery of Legal Services and in the law school clinical program. The aim of the course is to teach law students, particularly those going into middle sized and small law offices, the use of the latest in computer technology as it applies to the practice of law. Large firms have used computers for years, but the computer revolution now makes such technology available to all lawyers. Graduates from SIU will be able to assist their future employers in establishing or enhancing the technical capabilities of the firms. The clinic itself will be run as a contemporary law office, making use of sophisticated computer technology.

Clinical Program

The school operates an extensive, in-house legal aid clinic. It also offers a limited externship program. The clinic provides selected students with a number of internships and research assistantships. Other students may obtain credit. Clients include the elderly in thirteen southern Illinois counties and the inmates of three state and one federal prison. Students also work with the Land of Lincoln program for indigent persons, with state's attorney's offices, and with public defender and appellate public defender programs. There is an unusual opportunity for variety in the clinic experience. Clinic credit may not be given before a student's fifth semester. The total hours obtainable are limited.

Law Journal

The Southern Illinois University Law Journal, published quarterly, is a scholarly legal journal which publishes articles and shorter student work on the law and law-related topics. Published materials include articles written by law students, law professors, judges, and other members of the legal profession. The journal is managed and edited by an editorial board made up of third-year law students. Members of the editorial board are elected from those second-year students who have successfully completed the journal's candidacy program. The candidacy program involves second-year students in an intensive program of legal research, writing and analysis under the direction of the editorial board. Participation by second-year students in the journal's candidacy program is determined on a competitive basis open to all students in good standing.

The Journal of Legal Medicine, published by the American College of Legal Medicine, presents, on a regular basis, articles written by students at Southern Illinois University School of Law. This arrangement is designed to allow law students who have special interests in law and medicine to pursue those interests through scholarly research and publication.

Legal Argumentation

The legal argumentation program is a comprehensive one. It provides a required experience in appellate practice in the first year. This is followed by an opportunity to participate in regional and national competitions, including the ABA-sponsored National Appellate Advocacy and Client Counseling Competitions, the Jessup International Law Moot Court Competition, the National Trial Competition, and the National and ABA Moot Court Competitions.

Concurrent Degree Programs

The School of Law, in cooperation with the Graduate School, offers concurrent J.D. and master's degrees in business administration, public affairs, and accountancy. A student must be enrolled in both the graduate program and the law school. The master's programs ordinarily require 30 hours of study, while the law degree requires 90 hours. When the master's and J.D. degrees are pursued concurrently, a significant reduction in the total number of hours required to earn both degrees is achieved. Details of the concurrent degree programs are available from the law school registrar, Norma Brown. Students should make their interest in the concurrent degree program known to the registrar after the completion of the first year of law school study.

Research Bureau

The purposes of the research bureau are to furnish high quality service to attorneys while providing paid research and writing experience to law students. Second- and third-year students are eligible for participation in the organization which is supervised by a faculty member.

Student Organizations

The student body has drafted and adopted a constitution and by-laws for the Student Bar Association of which every regular law school student is a member. The association functions primarily through officers and committees elected by the membership at large and plays an integral role in the operation and governance of the law school. The students who serve as representatives to the faculty meetings are elected by the students, and those who serve on the various faculty committees are appointed by the dean from a list submitted by the Student Bar Association.

Other student organizations are Phi Alpha Delta, Delta Theta Phi, the Donald F. McHenry International Law Society, the Women's Law Union, the National Lawyers Guild, the Black American Law Students Association, the Christian Legal Society, and law student divisions of the Illinois State Bar Association and the American Bar Association.

Placement Services

A full range of placement services is offered to students and alumni including current job listings, on-campus interviews with prospective employers, and resume assistance. Students are encouraged to begin career planning early in their law school years and to seek summer and part-time legal employment experience. The placement office staff will make every effort to help students identify and pursue employment opportunities.

The School of Law is firmly committed to a policy against discrimination in employment based on sex, race, religion, age, handicap, or national origin, and it expects that all employers who use the placement services will make certain that no such discrimination occurs.

Statistics gathered on the class of 1984 by February of 1985 indicated that 92% of the 107 class members were employed. Sixty-one percent of the employed graduates had accepted positions in private practice, and 24% held positions with federal, state, or local government. Sixty-four responses to a salary question indicated a range from approximately $14,000 to $37,000. Seventy-seven percent of the graduates settled in Illinois.
