Alumnus
Southern Illinois University/September, 1976
Welcome Class of '76,

Congratulations on obtaining your recent degree and welcome into the ranks of Southern Illinois University alumni. With the 1976 graduates totaled in, SIU alumni now number over 65,000. The numbers are impressive but it's the individuals who count with us.

We do hope you will consider the merits of joining the Association which is the only official organization of alumni for SIU. Our purpose is to serve SIU and YOU. It's that simple.

Membership supports the Alumnus magazine, six issues per year with news of the campus and alumni; information and ticket reservations for Homecoming; promotes and coordinates class reunions and professional alumni groups within schools, colleges, and departments of the University; assists the University Placement Service in locating jobs for alumni and relays information regarding job openings through alumni employers to the proper channels so that more alumni can find the "right" job.

Membership also offers class voting privileges for representation to the Legislative Council and the annual Great Teacher Award; the opportunity to participate in alumni group travel tours at reduced rates; purchase of books at reduced rates announced in the Alumnus; reduced rates on Saluki football and basketball season tickets; Morris Library book checkout privileges; use of Campus Beach, tennis and handball courts; Student Center bowling and billiard privileges at reduced rates. In addition, you will receive an attractive membership card and decal for your automobile. That isn't all—there are others and we are continuing to explore additional services.

This issue of the Alumnus is being sent to you with our best wishes for your success. If you have already joined the Association, you will continue to receive the magazine and other services. If you have not, we hope you will consider joining us. With your diploma you received an information form. Please return it so we can better serve you. First-year membership fees continue to be $4, payable to the SIU Alumni Association, SIU, Carbondale, III., 62901.

Again, welcome and we will be hoping to hear from you soon.

Sincerely,
Robert Odaniell
Executive Director
SIU Alumni Association

P.S. If you join for three years, we can make a special membership bonus offer. For $20 you will be a member for 36 consecutive months and will receive a beautiful marble SIU paperweight. Think about it!
The cornerstone of Southern Illinois University-Carbondale's long-awaited Co-Recreation Building will be laid during Homecoming ceremonies at 9 A.M., October 23. For the story on the new facility, see page 2.

Some new faces grace the ranks of SIU administration, enrollment is up, the budget is in and some old faces no longer grace the rolls of the University faculty. For the story on these and other SIU news items, turn to page 7.

Award-winning SIU artist John Deom has provided us with a handsome rendering of one of the University's most pleasant and pleasure-filled edifices. For details on how you can purchase a copy of this etching of Shryock Auditorium, see page 7.

New Co-Recreation Building

It's no coincidence that the cornerstone for Southern Illinois University-Carbondale's long-awaited Co-Recreation Building will be laid during formal ceremonies October 23. That's homecoming weekend and several hundred of the SIU-C alums whose fees are helping to construct the building will be in Carbondale to renew old acquaintances, attend the SIU-Northern Illinois University football game and, perhaps, steal a look at the building's progress.

The $8.9 million multi-sport complex is slated for completion in time for the beginning of the 1977-78 school year. The building, which has been in the works for more than a decade, will add a new dimension to the University's wide-ranging intramural and recreation programs.

The building got its start when a January, 1964 student referendum approved its construction and allocation of a $15-per-quarter fee—the Student Welfare and Recreation Facility Building Trust Fund (SWARF) fee. The fee was approved by the University's board of trustees in December, 1964, and since then, thousands of SIU-C alums and students have contributed to its construction.

What the building, located on Grand Avenue between Wall and Washington streets, will bring to the SIU-C campus are: modern facilities for basketball, volleyball, handball, racquetball, golf, swimming and diving, wrestling, judo, karate, weightlifting, dancing and other organized and individual activities.

The building will house a large gymnasium with three basketball, four volleyball and eight handball and racquetball courts; a golf room replete with computerized driving stations and synthetic putting greens; and weightlifting and exercise rooms.

A natatorium containing an Olympic-size swimming pool and diving facilities will accommodate up to 200 persons simultaneously. It will include four 1-meter and two 3-meter diving boards and a 5-meter platform tower. A maximum water depth of 16 feet will allow for a wide variety of uses—from water shows to scuba and diving events. There will be seating for 600 spectators and locker rooms will be equipped with saunas.

A large multi-purpose room will be situated on the building's upper level, along with several lounges which overlook the natatorium. The upper level will also contain spectator observation decks overlooking the gymnasium and handball-racquetball courts. Administrative office and a main lounge round out the upper level.
The building will house the combined staffs of SIU-C's men's and women's intramural programs, which cater to the athletic and recreational needs of the University's 21,700-plus students, in addition to faculty and staff.

The building was designed by Ralph Rapson and Associates, a Minneapolis firm, and general construction is being handled by the J. L. Simmons Co., Inc. of Decatur.

Guidelines for the Co-Recreation Building's use will be formulated by the Campus Recreation Advisory Board, composed of student, faculty, staff, civil service and alumni representatives. Mrs. Linda G. Brandon '70 of Carbondale is the recently appointed alumni representative to that advisory group on all SIU-C recreational and intramural activities and facilities.

The board helps oversee one of the most varied and wide-ranging intramural and recreational programs anywhere. Competition in more than 20 team and individual sports is available to SIU-C students throughout the school year.

The men's intramural staff includes Larry Schaake, coordinator of recreation and intramurals; James Malone, assistant coordinator for recreation and intramurals; and Mark Newman, assistant coordinator for sports-recreation clubs.

Members of the women's intramural staff include Jean Paratore, coordinator; Joyce Craven, assistant coordinator; and graduate assistants Judy Benedict, Sandy Meyer, Debbie Schaal and Ann Coughlin.

Bruce R. Swinburne, vice-president for student affairs, is responsible for intramural and recreational facilities and programs. He is assisted by William Bleyer, assistant dean for recreation and intramurals.

Together, this staff provides recreational and intramural activities which draw thousands of SIU-C students, faculty and staff annually into healthy competition in such sports as flag football, volleyball, handball and racquetball, tennis, water polo, cross country, basketball and swimming.

The new Co-Recreation Building will do much to enhance these programs, as well as providing luxurious new facilities for informal recreation.

When the Co-Recreation building is completed, it will complement an already-impressive array of recreational facilities which includes the SIU Arena, Campus Lake, Boat Docks, and Exercise Trail, SIU Tennis and Handball Courts, Arena athletic fields, Pulliam Hall pool and weight room and Davies Gym.
Retiring Faculty

A total of 31 retiring faculty members were honored at the University's August 6 summer commencement exercises. Leading the list was a man who was senior in terms of service years with 38. Constituent Groups

Two new alumni constituent societies were chartered at the July 10 Board of Directors' meeting. They are the School of Agriculture and College of Science constituent societies.

All members of the Alumni Association who graduated from these two academic units are automatically members of the newest professionally oriented societies.

Bylaws are being formulated for the new societies, which join already-chartered societies for the School of Business and Administration, Home Economics and the School of Technical Careers. Our goal is to organize each school and college into a constituent society in order to provide you with continuing professional contact with SIU.

News of the Campus

A handsome portrait of former SIU chemistry professor George M. Browne now graces the foyer of the auditorium on campus which bears his name. Browne, a member of the faculty from 1905 to 1932, was first chairman of the University's chemistry department. The portrait was presented to the University last May by Browne's son and daughter, Mrs. Margaret Karraker Browne '15 and Dr. Richard G. Browne '19 (pictured above), on behalf of the entire family.
New SIU Budget

Planned salary increases for faculty and staff at Southern Illinois University-Carbondale, further development of the SIU-C School of Medicine and activities funded by student tuition money will feel the sharpest edge of cuts in SIU funding for next year.

Reductions by Gov. Dan Walker in the SIU system appropriations bill approved earlier by the Illinois General Assembly have slashed more than $3.2 million from funds designated to operate SIU-C during the fiscal year which began July 1.

After reductions, SIU-C's operating budget for 1976-77 comes to $71.5 million, down from the $74.7 million approved by the legislature. The budget for the entire two-campus SIU system totals $108.3, down from an original total of $112.6.

Major cuts by the governor include $1,007,100 from a $2.5 million request for faculty-staff salary increases, $750,000 to replace expired federal "start-up" grants to the medical school, $253,100 in special program funding—much of it for a new law school, coal research and mining engineering programs—$406,000 to cover a 900 per cent boost in the cost of medical malpractice insurance for faculty physicians at the medical school; and $791,000 tuition income which SIU-C had planned to use for paying off dormitory construction bonds and other funded debt enterprises. Under state law, all money collected by the University, including tuition, goes back into the state's general revenue fund. The cuts reduce the amount of money collected by the University that may be retained for use in SIU-C activities.

Robert E. Gentry, vice-president for fiscal affairs, said that "in general terms," planned pay raises at the Carbondale campus will be slashed nearly in half, from an expected increase of 4.5 per cent to 2.5 per cent for all except civil service range employees where the cut is from 6.5 per cent to 4.5 per cent.

He said the removal of special program funding will force slowdowns in development of the School of Law, the Coal Extraction and Utilization Research Center, and the medical school.

The $791,000 reduction in the amount of tuition funds the University can keep may force increases in dormitory room and board charges and in fees to support operation of the SIU-C Student Center, Gentry said.

He said that the funding reduction's effect on dormitory operations could be offset either by increasing room-and-board rates or by cutting back on services offered to dormitory residents.

There are some new faces around the SIU Arena these days. Saluki athletics underwent a facelift this summer with the naming of former Kansas University and Chicago Bear star Gale Sayers as director of athletics. Sayers succeeded Doug Weaver, who departed SIU-C last spring for the athletic directorship of Georgia Tech University. Sayers is pictured with three other recent additions to the Saluki program: (from left) John Novotny, who succeeded Bill Brown as assistant athletic director; Rey Dempsey, new Saluki football coach; and Tom Simons, newly-hired sports information director. Novotny was assistant athletic director at Kansas University. Dempsey joined SIU-C from the Detroit Lions, where he coached the special teams. Simons was assistant sports information director for the St. Louis Football Cardinals. He has also been assistant sports information director at the University of Nebraska.
Alumni Board

Five members of the Board of Directors of the Alumni Association will complete their terms of office in October. They are Mrs. Pat Schroe­der '43 of Mascoutah, Larry Jacober '62 of Carbondale, Dale Cozad '58 of Champaign, Mrs. Jo Ann Jungers '52 of Alton and Dr. Jack Murphy '54 of Herrin. The Nominations Committee reports the following persons have been renominated for seats on the Board of Directors: Mrs. Jo Ann Jungers '52 of Alton and Dr. Jack Murphy '54 of Herrin. New Director candidates are Mrs. Shirley Oshel '67 of Harrisburg, Dr. Robert Pulliam '48 of Fairfax, Va., and Al Williams '70 of Macomb. The candidates have been nominated for four­year terms of office.

Election is scheduled for the 9 A.M. October 23 Legislative Council meeting at Carbondale. Other items on the agenda for that meeting are annual reports by the Association President, Treasurer and Executive Director and revision of the by­laws.

Enrollment Increase

Southern Illinois University-Car­bondale’s fall semester enrollment has jumped for the second straight year—any way you look at it.

The figure comparable to the official one (21,214) recorded last year on the 10th day of fall classes is 21,717. However, as a result of speeded­up registration procedures for off­campus students—many of them at military bases across the United States—the grand total 10th day enrollment is boosted to 22,119.

SIU-C’s director of admissions and records, Kirby Browning, says totals for 1975 and 1976 can’t be measured comparably because of the extra off­campus enrollments (approximately 400) that were in the hopper by the 10th day this year.

Browning said that discounting those off­campus increases, SIU-C is within an eyelash of a 21,700 enrollment limit set last spring when admissions of beginning freshmen for the fall semester were halted because of housing limitations and a re­stricted budget.

Frank Horton, vice­president for academic affairs and research, said SIU-C’s enrollment rise may be counter to statewide patterns:

“Our projections were closer to reality than we had any right to expect,” said Horton. “SIU-C appears to be one of the few institutions that will be up in enrollment this year.”

“However,” Horton noted, “unless the state recognizes the increase through appropriate budget allocations it will be difficult for us to hold at this point next year.”

Browning said admissions officials last spring projected an “acceptable increase” of 500 on­campus students in order to meet the enrollment ceiling. “Considering the fact that we’ve had more continuing and re­entering students than we anticipated, we came about as close to it as possible,” Browning said.

Totals show 12,113 continuing students (from spring or summer) at SIU-C this fall, a jump of 1,263 from last year. Re­entries (students returning from previous years) stayed about the same (at 565) and the number of transfer students dipped slightly, from 2,563 to 2,517. The number of beginning freshmen—those affected by the enrollment limitation—dropped to 3,085, down 242 from last fall.

Gaining in total enrollment are the sophomore class (at 4,681, up 419), senior class (at 4,344, up 367),
A "Watermelon Fest" sponsored August 20 by the Alumni Association drew more than 1,000 new students to the University's Student Center patio. The occasion was a revival of a tradition long associated with New Student Week at SIU-C and last held in 1969. Pictured above are some of the students, who came equipped with voracious appetites, as evidenced by the 2800 slices of watermelon consumed during the Fest. The Alumni Association expects to make an annual affair of the "Watermelon Fest."

junior class (at 3,915, up 274) and the Schools of Law and Medicine, with 426 students, an increase of 32 from last fall. Graduate School enrollment dipped from 3,434 last year to 3,337.

Browning said the entire freshman class (at 5,291) still ranks as the school's largest, despite an overall drop of 132 students.

Shryock Etching

A handsome etching of Southern Illinois University's distinctive Shryock Auditorium by award-winning art student John Deom is now available in a limited edition of 200 from the Alumni Association.

Prints of the Deom etching, pictured on the front cover, are available on fine quality Arches paper (22-inches by 26-inches), ready for matting and framing for $35. The price includes tax and mailing fees. Deom was one of two SIU-C senior art students who shared the 1975 Margaret L. Rickert Award, which carried a cash gift of $11,500. Checks should be made payable to the SIU Alumni Association, and mailed to the Alumni Office, SIU, Carbondale, IL, 62901.

STC Building

Legislators, area civil leaders and University administrators pitched in to break ground July 29 on SIU-C's new School of Technical Careers Building (pictured above in an architect's rendering).

The new $6.1-million structure will be located on the main campus, adjacent to the present Engineering and Technology Building. It will house STC programs in allied health and public services, applied technologies, and part of the graphic communications sequence, as well as administrative offices.

The three-story, 88,400-square-foot building is scheduled for completion in the summer of 1978.

Speaking on behalf of STC Dean Arden Pratt, Associate Dean Murnice Dallman said the new building on the main SIU-C campus should help break down long-standing barriers between career education and more traditional academic studies, as well as provide needed technical- and career-oriented education.

Present at the groundbreaking ceremonies were SIU-C President Warren Brandt; Ernest Simon, founder and first dean of the University's old Vocational-Technical Institute; state representatives Vincent Bircher (D-Chester), Ralph Dunn (R-DuQuoin) and Richard O. Hart (D-Benton); Sen. Kenneth Buzbee (D-Carbondale); and Carbondale Mayor Neal Eckert.

We'd like to remind you of the recently-appointed committee, chaired by Dr. Albert J. Shafter '48 of Harrisburg, which is charged with receiving your suggestions for nominees to the SIU Board of Trustees and submitting nominations to the Governor for his consideration. Trustees are appointed by the Governor to six-year terms with confirmation by the State Senate.

Your suggestions need not be limited to alumni. Any Illinois citizen is eligible. Please provide as much background material as possible with any names you offer.

Mail your suggestions to Alumni Services, SIU, Carbondale, Il., 62901 or to Dr. Shafter at Box 281, Harrisburg, Ill., 62946.

Some New Faces

Two SIU-C faculty members were recently tabbed for high-level administrative posts. John C. Guyon, former dean of the College of Science, has been appointed SIU-C's first associate vice-president for research and dean of the Graduate School under Vice-President for Acaademic Affairs and Research Frank Horton.

Guyon, who had been dean of the College of Science since 1973, will oversee the University's growing research program and administer the SIU-C Graduate School.

Clifford Harper, former director of Black American Studies and associate professor of English, is the new dean of general academic programs. In his new position, Harper will oversee University programs in general studies, developmental skills, University studies, special majors and pre-major advisement.

John W. Corker

The new director of the University's Student Center is John W. Corker. The 43-year-old Corker replaces Clarence "Doc" Dougherty, longtime Center director and now director of campus services.

Corker comes to SIU-C from the University of Massachusetts, where he directed that institution's Murray D. Lincoln Campus Center.

A replacement has yet to be named for SIU Arena Manager Dean Justice, who recently accepted an offer to manage the University of Texas at Austin's new multi-purpose sports and entertainment facility.

Justice first came to SIU in 1964. During his twelve-year stint as Arena manager, he has turned the SIU dome into the entertainment mecca of Southern Illinois.

Arena events under Justice’s management have ranged from rock concerts to basketball games and included the Ringling Brothers and Barnum and Bailey Circus, several top-line country and western shows, pre-season NBA basketball and, of course, Saluki intercollegiate athletic events.

C. E. "Gene" Peebles, for several years SIU-C's manager of business operations, is now vice-president for operations at Ohio University in Athens. Peebles' business operations responsibilities at SIU-C included such areas as physical plant, bursar, personnel, student center, airport operation and housing business services.

He started with the University as a student worker in 1940 and became cost accountant in 1953.

SIU'S SALUKIS OPENED their 61st football season this month—and their last as an independent team before becoming a full-fledged member of the Missouri Valley Conference in 1977. Needless to say, new head coach Rey Dempsey and his staff have their hands full trying to rebuild from four straight losing seasons (including 2-9 and 1-9-1 the last two years) into a team that can consistently hold its own against the likes of Tulsa and West Texas State.

Dempsey's track record seems to indicate that he is the kind of coach who is capable of doing the job. As a high school coach in Ohio, he took struggling programs at East Palestine and Canton Central Catholic and made both big winners. He left Canton to become an assistant coach at Bowling Green, then moved on to the head coaching job at Youngstown State in 1973.

At Youngstown, he inherited a Penguin team that had not had a winning season in five years. Dempsey's first team went 4-6, but in 1974, the Penguins surprised the football world with a 3-1 season and a spot in the NCAA Division II playoffs. Now, after a year as an assistant coach for the Detroit Lions in the NFL, Dempsey is starting what he hopes will be a similar rebuilding process in Carbondale. But he's neither promising, nor expecting, immediate recovery.

"I don't want to try to predict how many games we're going to win in 1976, or say how many games I'll be satisfied with winning," the 39-year-old native of East Pittsburgh, Pa., says. "A football program is something that takes time to build, it's not something you can accomplish in one year. I think we'll be a team that the fans will enjoy watching, though, because I think we'll do some things, both offensively and defensively, that they haven't seen lately."

One of the things that will be immediately noticeable to the fans will be the offense—a more wide-open attack from the Pro I formation made possible by the strong right arm of junior quarterback Jim Kelly and quality receivers Lawrence Love and Vic Major.

Kelly's return from a hip dislocation would take some of the pressure off a backfield trio of tailbacks Andre Herrera and Gary Linton and fullback Lawrence Boyd—an area where Dempsey considers the Salukis to be the strongest. With the quarterback, running back and receiving positions apparently set, the only question mark on offense is the offensive line and part of that problem is the switch from the wishbone to the Pro I.

Defensively, Dempsey expresses satisfaction with the starting unit he'll be able to put on the field, but he says he's worried about depth: "The defense is going to have to give a great effort because we don't have that many subs. If we're making mistakes, we'll have to correct them during the game, and that's tough to do. We're hoping that some young kids will be able to come on during the season and give us that depth that we need. Our kids are starting to understand what it means to hit, though. We're starting to get a lot more people around the ball. It seems like they're starting to understand what the total makings of defense are—that it's truly team defense."

THREE FORMER SALUKIS will be active in the National Football League this fall, led by all-pro quarterback Jim Hart, who enters his 11th season with the St. Louis Cardinals. Hart can be seen on Sunday afternoons wearing No. 17 for the Big Red, while tackle Lionel Antoine (No. 79) enters his fifth year with the Chicago Bears and center Carl Mauck (No. 55) enters his eighth NFL season with the Houston Oilers.

COACH LEW HARTZOG'S Saluki cross-country team opened its 1976 season with three tough meets in September, starting with the University of Illinois at Carbondale on Sept. 11, followed by a triangular at Bloomington, Ind., against Indiana and Western Kentucky on the 18th, and another home dual on the 25th against Illinois State.

The SIU harriers return four lettermen from last year's team which finished 3-4 in duals, third in the Illinois Intercollegiates, and second in the Missouri Valley Conference. Heading the list are seniors Pat Cook and Jerry George—the team's co-captains. Also back are a pair of sophomores who earned varsity letters as freshmen--Paul Craig and Mike Sawyer.

SIU's all-time leading rebounder, JOE MERIWEATHER, returns to Carbondale October 2, when the Atlanta Hawks meet the Chicago Bulls in an NBA preseason game at 7:30 p.m. at the SIU Arena. Tickets can be purchased at the Special Events Ticket Office of the SIU Arena. Phone 618-453-5341. Prices are $3.50, $4.50, $5 and $6. Children under 14 will be admitted at half-price. The game gives Saluki fans a chance to take in an interesting double header, with the SIU gridders meeting Lamar at McAndrew Stadium a 1:30 that afternoon.

THE WOMEN'S athletic program is well into the fall season as five sports--cross-country, tennis, field hockey, golf and volleyball--now are competing.

The cross-country team should have a very good season. Freshmen, Patti George, Linda Snovak, Patricia Grandis and Cynthia Ruester will need the first few meets to gain experience and poise. After that, the freshmen will join Peggy Evans, Jean Ohly and Denise Mortenson in pursuit of the state cross-country championship. In the past four years, the Salukis have yet to lose to an opponent from Illinois.

Also expected to do well this season is the tennis team, which lost only one player to graduation and should better its 5-2 spring record. Returning are Sue Briggs, Sue Csipkay, Shar Deem, Kim MacDonald and Trina Davidson. They'll be joined by freshmen Marsha Bladel, Carol Foss, Mauri Kohler and Thea Breite. The Salukis will have the home court advantage for the state tournament, which should help the team better its second place finish at last year's tournament.

The team which should be most exciting to watch is the field hockey team. With the return of most of the 1975 squad, which posted a 16-3-1 record, the Salukis must be considered contenders for the state field hockey championship. The Salukis will boast a talented lineup composed of returning players and freshmen in 1976. Veterans Lisa Millar, Ann Stribling, Helen Meyer, Peg O'Connell, Kathy Vondrasek and Kathy Kincaid should continue to lead the team. Freshmen Patty Jacques, Karen Roberts and Missy Wiejaczka will bring additional talent and depth.

The golf team's success will depend on the play of six freshmen: Sandy Lemon, Patty Williams, Jo Ann Idoux, Lori Sackman, Penny Porter and Judy Dohrmann. They'll have to overcome their inexperience quickly if SIU-C is to be a contender at the state tournament. Returning players on the golf team include Holly Taylor, Jan Ridenour, Kim Birch and Marilyn Hollier.

An improvement on last year's 16-14 record is expected by the 1976 Saluki volleyball squad. Returning players include Cathy Lies, Colleen Logan, Pearl Kosowski, Mary Shirk, Kerri Harris, Mary Ellen Kasley, Helen Malina and Jeri Hoffman. Several freshmen who could be a factor are Dinah Devers, Robin Deterding, Mary Gill, Becky Tobolski and Meripaul MacAhill. A winning season and a strong finish at the state tournament are expected.

Alumni,

here, there...

1928 CARL LEE STC '26, was honored in Murphysboro with the celebration of Carl Lee Day. The retired teacher and school principal spent most of his 40 years in the teaching field as principal of the Douglas school in Murphysboro. Lee served the school district and the community. He worked to keep the Douglas school open and he supported integration. “No one knows of the many things Mr. Lee did to help the kids, such as providing clothing or meals. He taught us how to love,” said one of his former students from Douglas.
