Help us And We’ll Help You

First, help us find summer positions for SIU-C students who need money to support the continuation of their education or who need some experience in their field of study. A full roster of summer jobs at the Student Work and Financial Assistance Office could spell opportunity for a great many SIU-C students.

If you know of any summer jobs or internships, please write to Summer Employment Coordinator, Office of Student Work and Financial Assistance, Southern Illinois University, Carbondale, Illinois 62901.

Secondly, up-date your placement files so that the University Placement Service is aware of your recent job experience and your availability in case a position opens in your field.

The University Placement Services are available to alumni as well as students. Their purpose is to make students and alumni aware of various employment opportunities and help employers in finding prospective employees who can fulfill various job needs.

An updated placement file is made available to interviewers visiting campus. However, a file also is sent free of charge, at the request of the individual or employer, to support applications for employment whenever a candidate has initiated his own contacts off campus.

If you are interested in finding a job, changing a job or having a vacancy filled in your business, please write to the Career Planning and Placement Services, Woody Hall B204, SIU, Carbondale, Illinois 62901.

Food Services Provide Meals ...

How would you like to cook for 12,200 appetites?
That's 12,200 appetites every day.
Keeping these appetites satisfied is difficult, but not impossible for two campus organizations at Southern Illinois University at Carbondale.
The two, the SIU-C Food Service and Interstate United, which is a privately owned management firm, cook tons of food every day. And the two groups offer meals at prices an academic community can afford.

About 4,400 students eat at one of three University Food Service cafeterias each day, Samuel L. Rinella, director of Housing Services Administration, said.

In order to prepare food, the University Food Service employs 150 civil service workers and 300 student workers to operate cafeterias at Grinnell, Trueblood and Lentz Halls. These cafeterias serve students living in resident halls at Brush Towers, University Park and Thompson Point.

Rinella said the University spends about $2.4 million a year for its food service budget or an average of $1.25 per meal per student.

Each student living in SIU housing pays $702 a semester for room and board. Rinella said $340 of the total pays for 20 meals per week. The remaining $362 covers the cost of a room.

The University Food Service's budget always operates in the "black," Rinella said. The food contract rates are increased the next year if there is a possibility of a deficit.

Interstate United serves another 7,800 persons at four serving areas in the Student Center, one cafeteria at Woody Hall and 20 banquet rooms in the Student Center, Manager Dan Roth said.

Each day Interstate feeds about 3,000 persons in the Student Center main cafeteria, 3,000 in the Oasis Snackbar, 1,100 at the Woody Hall cafeteria, 200 in the Center's second floor restaurant, 200 in the Big Muddy Room and 400 in the 20 banquet rooms in the Student Center.

Interstate employs 100 full-time workers and 50 student workers.
The Student Center food service has been operated by Interstate for 10 years. The firm hires all personnel, buys all food and plans menus. For its services, Interstate is paid a management fee and a commission of total sales.

To offset losses by the food service, the Center obtains additional money often from other center operations such as the bookstore; from student fees and from retained tuition, he said.

To add problems for Corker, $368,000 was cut by former Gov. Daniel Walker from the Center's 1976-77 budget. In hopes of making up some of the difference, Corker closed the Center from Dec. 23 until Jan. 3 in order to save $11,000. That was the first time the Center has closed during a student break.

Food sales are up more than 10 per cent over last year and that, combined with some cost-cutting measures, could mean about $30,000 more in revenue this year than anticipated, Corker said.

Attracting patrons to the center's food service areas, he said, is essentially important because between $25,000 and $28,000 worth of business must be done every week for the operation to break even. If the gross incomes goes to $30,000 a week, the center can add several thousand dollars to its net income per week.

Other measures are now being studied by Corker's staff and Interstate to trim the deficit.

In order for the University Food Service operation to budget money, an entire semester's meals are planned in advance, Lois Brumitt, assistant food service manager, said. The menus are planned by a representative of the food service management, a student from each of the three living areas and a food consultant from the SIU-C food nutrition department.

While meat is still popular, students are more nutrition conscious than 10 years ago, Miss Brumitt said.

During a year, the University Food Service serves about 1.8 million meals. In one meal, 6,000 dinner rolls or 1,800 pounds of french fries are consumed. In six months, 20,000 loaves of white bread are consumed. In four months, 232,717 pounds of pork, beef and chicken are eaten. Thirty thousand gallons of white milk are consumed in a three-month period.

Rinella said institutional food at SIU-C is "probably one of the best in the nation." He attributes this to the vast improvement in processed food, to SIU-C's modern cooking facilities and to experienced employees.

Pay increase restored

Pay increase money was restored to Southern Illinois University-Carbondale's 1976-77 budget in a legislative override Dec. 15.

The override restored $587,000 to SIU-C's personnel service for salary increases retroactive to Dec. 1. Also, the House of Representatives restored $442,900 to SIU-C's contractual service budget, including $406,000 for malpractice insurance.

Former Gov. Daniel Walker vetoed these funds from the SIU system budget when it was sent to him by the General Assembly last spring.

The reduction vetoes by Walker trimmed planned faculty-staff raises nearly—down to 2.5 per cent for faculty members and 4.5 per cent for Civil Service employees.

House action added two per cent average increase for all employees effective during the December pay period. The Civil Service increases were apportioned down the middle—one per cent for merit and one per cent across-the-board. Faculty and professional staff received an average of 1.25 per cent merit and three-quarters of one per cent across-the-board.

News of the Campus

President Warren W. Brandt said the University deeply appreciated the superb efforts of "our area legislators," faculty and community residents in acquiring these much needed funds.

Members of the Alumni Association Board of Directors, club officers in Illinois, community ambassadors and other alumni over the state helped in urging Illinois legislators to override the veto.
Faculty Take New Positions

The status of the following faculty or staff members at Southern Illinois University at Carbondale has changed: Alphonse E. Baartmans named chairman of the mathematics department; John H. Baker, associate professor and former assistant provost, named chairman of the political science department; James N. BeMiller, professor in the departments of chemistry, biochemistry and the School of Medicine, named acting dean of the College of Science.

Lawrence A. Bennett, top research man in California’s penal system, named director of the Center for the Study of Crime, Delinquency and Corrections. Melvin C. Brewer, acting director of service enterprises, named director. Warren E. Buffum, director of the budget office since 1972, named associate vice president for financial affairs. John C. Gardner, prolific and widely acclaimed novelist and English professor, resigned.

David Johnson, professor of law, named associate dean of the School of Law. Ernest L. Lewis, associate professor in guidance and educational psychology, was appointed chairman of that department. Sidney E. Matthews, assistant director of Morris Library, named director of library services. George T. McClure named chairman of the department of Philosophy.

Journalism Scholarship

A scholarship endowment has been established at the Southern Illinois University Foundation to honor five former School of Journalism faculty.

The Journalism Faculty Emeritus Scholarship Fund honoring Charles C. Clayton, James L.C. Ford, Betty Frazer, Jim A. Hart and Howard Long—will support annual scholarships to outstanding undergraduate journalism students.

George C. Brown, director of the School of Journalism, said, the awards will be based on demonstrated academic achievements and commitment to a professional journalism career.

SIU-C journalism alumni who wish to make contributions to the Emeritus Fund, should send their contributions to the SIU Foundation.

Budget Increases for 1977-78

The Illinois Board of Higher Education (IHBE) Jan. 11 recommended a $76.5 million operating budget for SIU-C's 1977-78 fiscal year, nearly $2.1 million of it is to come from proposed tuition increases.

The budget proposal is up about seven and one half per cent from the 1976-77 budget of $71.1 million. A large part of the increase—$3.8 million is earmarked for faculty-staff salary increases and pay adjustments for Civil Service employees.

The IHBE proposal is approximately $9 million less than $85.2 million budget request that the SIU-C Board of Trustees asked for in October.

Recommendations call for SIU-C and other state universities to receive salary increases averaging seven per cent plus an extra two per cent for lower paid non-academic employees. The IHBE said the bulk of the increases (six per cent) will be needed to stay abreast of consumer price hikes next year.

Tuition rates would go up to $90 a year for undergraduates and $120 for graduate students under the IBHE’s proposal. That would boost SIU-C’s rate for full-time, in-state students from $428 to $518 a year. Tuition has not been increased since 1972.

A higher medical school tuition of $1,345 was recommended. SIU-C’s School of Medicine tuition now is $642 for a full year.

Each Illinois board of trustees has the final say in approving tuition increases. Last year the IBHE proposed a tuition increase which was turned down by all boards of trustees.

IHBE’s budget proposal now will be submitted to the Illinois Bureau of the Budget, the Illinois Legislature and to Gov. James Thompson before final approval.
Choate Accepts SIU Job

State Rep. Clyde Choate, D-Anna, a 30-year veteran of the Illinois House has accepted a position as director of external affairs at Southern Illinois University at Carbondale.

Choate, 56, elected to his 16th term last November, resigned Jan. 7 from the Illinois House to begin the appointment Jan. 15. Final approval of the appointment still must be made by the University's board of trustees.

George R. Mace, SIU-C vice president for University Relations, said the duties of the new position include: establishing information and public relations contacts with state and national organizations and agencies, serving as an advisor to community and university groups who work with state and national political organizations, assisting with campus and community relations.

"Mr. Choate's long experience in government and his extensive familiarity with political leaders and the political process will be invaluable in this effort," Mace said.

A portion of Choate's working time will be spent organizing and coordinating weekend summer seminars for Illinois legislators, Mace said.

State legislators will come to SIU-C and undergo intensive seminars in specific issues pending before the legislature, he said.

Mace said the seminars will be an "informational kind of input to legislators that has nothing to do with a particular point of view. They will be totally non-partisan."

The planned seminars are based on the "presupposition that good public relations only flow from a solid base of meaningful services," Mace said. The first seminars may be held next summer.

Since first elected as a representative from the 59th district, Choate has sponsored or co-sponsored nearly all SIU-C's appropriations bills. He was a proponent of bills that provided revenue bond-funded residence halls, an educational television station, new academic programs such as engineering and the SIU-C Security police force.

Choate will work out of the SIU-C's University Relations area office in Carbondale and the School of Medicine Office in Springfield.

Intramural basketball

More than 2,400 SIU-C students will be involved before the intramural basketball season ends.

SIU-C men and women on 235 teams will play about 600 games up until mid-February. Playoff action will end when "All-University" Championship male and female teams are crowned.

A total of 2,082 students are on the 181 teams, Larry Schaaake, coordinator of SIU-C recreation and intramurals, said.

There are 64 other teams composed of 360 women, said Jean Paratore, coordinator of SIU-C women's intramurals. Men play basketball every week night at the SIU-C Arena while the women play three nights a week in Dorothy Davies Gymnasium.

Brandts Take Trip

At the invitation of the Taiwan government, SIU-C's President Warren W. Brandt took a three-week trip to the Orient during the latter part of December and January.

It was Brandt's first official visit overseas. He and his wife, Esther, left Carbondale Dec. 28 and returned Jan. 22.

Combining business with a little vacation, Brandt hoped to visit "various educational institutions." He described the official visit as "both educational and generally cultural."

During the trip, Brandt hoped to contact many of the SIU-C alumni in South Korea, Japan, Hong Kong, Thailand, Taiwan and Hawaii.

"In many cases, our alumni overseas have moved into significant positions," Brandt said. "Maintaining contacts with the alumni will help keep a good supply of these students coming (to SIU-C)."

SIU-C has 40 alumni in Taiwan, 31 in Japan, 55 in Hong Kong, 64 in Thailand, 11 in South Korea and 69 in Hawaii.

Early Admission Urged

High school students and community college transfers who are interested in attending SIU-C for the 1977 fall semester are encouraged to apply as soon as possible for admission, Jerre C. Pfaff, associate director of Admissions and Records, said.

In order for students to be processed in their interested major, it is necessary for them to apply for admission at the earliest date possible, he said. Already, physical therapy assistant, a major in the School of Technical Careers, is closed for any more fall admissions. Also, by applying early, students will have an opportunity to complete housing and financial arrangements.
To apply, beginning freshmen must rank in the upper half of their graduating class and obtain an ACT score of 16 or an SAT score of 720 to qualify for admission to baccalaureate programs. Freshmen also may qualify for admission by attaining an ACT score of 19 or an SAT score of 800 regardless of class rank, Pfaff said. New freshmen interested in entering one of the two-year associate degree programs in the School of Technical Careers must rank in the upper two-thirds of their graduating class or achieve an ACT score of 16 or an SAT score of 720.

Transfer students can qualify for admission if they have an overall “C” average. However, transfer students who have fewer than 26 semester hours also must meet new freshmen admission requirements.

Pfaff said approximately 6,000 freshmen and from 4,000 to 4,500 transfer students are accepted for fall admission at SIU-C. Already, the Admissions and Records’ office in Woody Hall has received 4,200 freshmen applications.

In 1976, fall admission for freshmen was closed June 1. Pfaff said he does not know if admission will be closed for this fall.

“We just do not know at this time if this situation will re-occur, but we do encourage all interested persons to apply for admission as soon as possible,” Pfaff said.

Prospective students who wish to obtain an application for admission may write to the Admissions and Records Office, Woody Hall, Southern Illinois University, Carbondale, Illinois 62901. Illinois residents may call toll free to the Admissions Office by dialing 800-652-3531.

Shryock Etching Still Available

The Shryock etching pictured on the cover of the September, 1976 issue of the Alumnus Magazine is still available for purchase.

The award-winning picture done by art student John Deom is available on fine quality Arches paper and ready for matting and framing for $35 apiece.

Checks should be made payable to the SIU Alumni Association and mailed to the Alumni Office, SIU, Carbondale, IL. 62901.

Saluki Cagers Tune up for 1977 Valley Race

THE SOUTHERN ILLINOIS BASKETBALL team tuned up for its second run at the Missouri Valley Conference title with an 8-2 mark in later 1976 and early 1977. The Salukis won their first six games—including a 68-55 win over defending Big Eight Camp Missouri in the opener. The decision, the best start in 29 years, helped the Salukis enter the national wire-service rankings for the first time ever, climbing as high as 16th in the UPI poll.

Then, the Salukis dropped two of the next three games and fell from the rankings. The first was a heart-breaking 67-66 decision to a solid, little-known Hofstra team in the finals of the Pittsburgh Classic (nee Steel Bowl). SIU-C followed with a 79-50 trouncing of Cal-Pol San Luis Obispo, shooting 64.4 per cent from the field.

However, the Salukis turned in their poorest shooting performance of the year (38.5 per cent) in a disappointing 83-67 loss at Georgia Southern on Dec. 20. SIU-C came back after the holidays though to roll up its most one-sided win in nearly a decade, blasting Benedictine (Kan.), 100-51.

AS USUAL, MIKE GLENN led the Salukis in the opening 10 games, averaging 21.9 points per game to rank high among the nation's scoring leaders. Glenn hit 61.7 from the field during that time to rank 18th, three notches below fellow senior Corky Abrams in the Jan. 1, 1977, NCAA statistics. Glenn ranked 17th in scoring while the Salukis as a team were 10th on defense (61.7 ppg.) and fourth in field goal percentage (53.8). Despite the Salukis' inability to hold off Hofstra in the title game at Pittsburgh, Glenn held the Civic Arena fans in awe with his outside shooting ability. In the 72-67 first round win over Pitts-burgh, the 6-3 guard from Rome, Ga., hit 15 of 22 shots from the 15 to 20-foot range and finished with 32 points. In the finals, he was hotter, hitting 16 of 23 and finishing with 33 points. Somehow, he wasn't named the tourney's MVP.

WINTER SPORTS ACTION got into high gear after the first of the year, with gymnastics, wrestling, swimming and indoor track teams entering the heaviest of their schedules.
Coach Bill Meade's gymnasts used a series of open meets in November and December to prepare for a 13-meet dual schedule that opened at Ball State Jan. 8. "We're a very young team this year," Meade said, "but with the experience we've gained in the early part of the season and head-to-head competition coming up against some of the top gymnastics teams in the country, I think we could challenge for high national honors by the end of the season.

Coach Bob Steele's swimmers were the most impressive Saluki unit in December, sweeping through Missouri-Rolla's Miner Relays, then winning 10 of 12 events and setting 10 school and meet records in walking away with the Illinois State Relays. "We went into the Illinois State Relays with the idea of winning every event," Steele said, "and we were a little disappointed when we didn't. We lost two relays by a total of .25 seconds, so I guess I can be satisfied with that."

Coach Linn Long's wrestling team got off to a rocky start in December and early January, dropping six of its first seven duals. However, the competition couldn't have been much stiffer. Four of SIU-C's foes, Slippery Rock, Navy, Lehigh and Cal-Pol-SLO, are ranked in the top 10 by Amateur Wrestling News. The lone win was over Purdue, 32-7.

The Saluki indoor track team under Coach Lew Hartzog opened its 1977 season with a triangular involving Kansas and Wichita State at Lawrence, Kan., on Jan. 15. How the Saluki thinclads fare against Wichita State could give an indication of their chances of defending their Valley indoor title at Columbia, Mo., Feb. 27-28.

SPRING IS NEAR and the first harbinger of that season is an SIU-C baseball game at Austin Peay on Feb. 6. After that unusually early opener, Coach Itchy Jones' Salukis visit Arkansas State Feb. 16, then head to Miami for their annual spring trip. Also, SIU-C's annual spring football game has been slated for Saturday, April 30 at McAndrew Stadium.

FOUR WOMEN WINTER ATHLETIC programs should have successful seasons. Defending state champions, the Saluki swimmers hope to retain their title this season under Coach Joyce Craven. Returning from last year's team are: Diane Friedman, Mindy McCurdy, Anne Gutsick, Kathy Kincaid, Jan Salmon and Molly Schroeder.

The women's gymnastic team hopes to regain the AIAW National Team title it relinquished in 1976. SIU-C had won consecutive national titles in 1974 and 1975. The team will be without Denise Didier. Didier, a two-time All American gymnast and co-holder of the 1976 National Collegiate Uneven Bar title, recently announced her retirement from sports. Plagued somewhat by injuries this season, Didier, 20, of Lombard, wants to devote more time to academics and religion.

"The loss of a gymnast who is among the leading contenders for national titles in bars, beam and vaulting makes Southern's bid for the 1977 National AIAW team title somewhat remote," Coach Herb Vogel said.

Although the Salukis captured the state and regional titles in 1976, their fourth place finish at the AIAW was their poorest finish in eight years.

WOMEN'S BASKETBALL COACH Mo Weiss has hopes that the team will be a strong contender for the state title. Last year, the cagers compiled a 12-9 record and finished second in the state. Returning players include: Denise Kelly and Kathy Vondrasek, both seniors; five sophomores, Theresa Burgard, Bonnie Foley, Jeri Hoffman, Helen Meyer and Sue Schaeffer. The women team will play two home games in the SIU-C Arena this year. The first will be Jan. 21 against Memphis State University and the second will be Jan. 29 against Union University. The Jan. 29 game will precede a men's varsity game against Tulsa. These games will be the women's second and third appearances in the SIU-C Arena.

The coed badminton teams begins its season with a new coach. Coach Cindy Scott has a young team, with nine of the 13 women seeing their first collegiate action. Only Janet Ridenour, Dawn Harriett and Barb Levy return.

Advertiseing Pays Off for Rita Fung in Hong Kong

Hong Kong may be just the place for a journalist who is willing to write about anything—and live on next to nothing. Rita Fung, '72 M.S. '74, knows through experience how things stack up in Hong Kong.

"Hong Kong journalism is as free as anything, one can get away with murder, Miss Fung said. While press freedom may not be the issue in this United Kingdom colony, making a living by writing is.

At 26, Miss Fung is media manager for Ted Bates Limited, Hong Kong's second largest advertising firm. Because advertising pays well, she does not do any freelance writing.

"The remuneration for writing jobs is not as good as advertising," she said. "Starting salaries are usually very low, writing jobs do not pay enough to live on."

Miss Fung, a former Daily Egyptian reporter as an undergraduate and a graduate assistant with the University News Service, worked for Cleveland's Fox and Associates Advertising Agency in September 1974 after graduation. While there, she billed over $1 million of advertising for Sears and Roebuck.

However, her stay in Cleveland was short because U.S. immigration officials rejected a second training period visa request. After college graduation, foreign students may have up to 18 months for practical training in the United States. Visas must be renewed every six months.

On March 31, 1975, she was forced to leave the states for her native Hong Kong. At home, she worked as an executive trainee doing advertising and media research with the Far East Division of Reader's Digest. In September 1975 she started at Bates.

Miss Fung said her master's degree opened a few doors and helped get a job. "I knew very little about the media in Hong Kong. I also knew very few people and that's important in getting a job. They always talk about 'connections'."

But the Bates agency apparently was impressed with her qualifications, although Miss Fung admits she did not flash her master's degree in the faces of prospective employers.

"Employers tend to think that if you work through a master's degree with good grades, you'll be able to learn much faster (at a new job) even if you have no experience."

At SIU-C, Miss Fung planned her degrees to include several courses in research techniques. That plus a research survey she compiled for Dairy Queen while working in Cleveland, helped her to get an advertising job in Hong Kong.

"With everyone so gung ho on research in advertising today, basic training in research does help a whole lot," she said.

Miss Fung had this bit of Chinese wisdom for future graduates: "Know exactly what you want to do after graduation and tailor your educational programs to it."
1953 The Rev. Jack Adams represented SIU at the inauguration of Robert S. Sutherland as the third president of Missouri Baptist College, St. Louis, Mo. He is one of the board members of the Alumni Association.

1954 Col. Elmer Funderburk is commander of the 22nd Combat Support Group at March AFB, Calif. He is also a member of the Strategic Air Command.

1955 Col. Leslie G. Jackson has been assigned as inspector general at the U.S. Air Force Academy. He also earned his M.S. degree in guidance and counseling from Troy State University this past year. He is married to the former Dorothy Koontz '54.

1957 Armand Re M.S. '59, is an assistant professor in the University of Cincinnati’s professional practice division. He will advise students in the industrial and graphic departments, for contacts with employers and for teaching assignments in the division’s career development classes. He lives in Cincinnati, Oh., with his wife, Joyce, and their son.

Those listed above completed life memberships in the SIU Alumni Association during the past two months before deadline time. If you are a member of the Association or qualify for membership, perhaps now is the time for you to consider joining the more than 2500 alumni who already have life memberships or are working toward them. Cost is $125 (minimum annual installment payment $25 over five years) or $150 (minimum annual installment payment $15 over ten years) for a single life membership. Family life memberships (if both husband and wife are alumni) are $150 (minimum annual installment payment $30 over five years) or $175 (minimum annual installment payment $17.50 over ten years). Benefits begin immediately. Life membership payments go into a permanent endowment, the interest supporting alumni activities in perpetuity.
