SIU Buildings Renamed After Faculty

Two buildings and a student art gallery at SIU were named Dec. 8 in honor of former SIU faculty members.

The SIU Board of Trustees approved plans to name:
- The Life Sciences I Building the "Carl C. and Gertrude Lindgren Hall."
- The Home Economics Building the "Eileen E. Quigley Hall."
- An art gallery in the Allyn Building the Nicholas Vergette Student Art Gallery.

The Lindgrens were pioneering researchers at Southern whose yeast reproduction studies opened up what many experts consider a new field of genetics and heredity research.

In 1948 Lindgren came to SIU as director of the biological research laboratory, SIU’s first unit dedicated solely to research. Also, he organized and was the first chairman of the SIU microbiology department. He retired in 1965.

Mrs. Lindgren was her husband’s research assistant. She retired in 1968 and died last March.

At one time, she was credited with isolating more yeast strains than any other living researcher.

Mrs. Quigley became SIU’s first dean of home economics when it was organized in 1957. She came to Southern in 1948 as the chairman of that department.

She was instrumental in the construction of the Home Economics Building which opened in 1959.

Mrs. Quigley retired in 1969 and married Paul Vivers. They now live in Pompano Beach, Fla. Her first husband, Floyd W. Quigley of Cardondale, died in the mid-1960’s.

Vergette was an associate professor in the SIU School of Art, when he died of cancer in 1974. A sculptor who joined the SIU faculty in 1959, Vergette was elected to the British Royal Society of Arts in 1966, on the second SIU faculty member so honored.

Vergette’s works have been exhibited in more than 100 shows on three continents. He is perhaps the best known on the SIU campus for a series of free-form ceramic sculptures which are located between the Wham Building and Morris Library.

Saluki Cagers Win Evansville Tourney

Within 48 hours, the SIU Basketball team captured three victories, one being the title of the 22nd annual Evansville Holiday Tournament.

To do so, the Salukis needed a double overtime in the championship game Dec. 30 to oust the Univ. of New Orleans, 65-64. The win followed a 59-51 first-round win over Mercer.

Then, less than 12 hours after the championship game, the Salukis battered William Jewell College of Liberty, Mo., 84-58 at the Arena. William Jewell is the alma mater of SIU basketball coach Paul Lambert.

SIU got involved in the tourney to led a helping hand to a friend in time of need by offering to serve as the host team of Evansville’s holiday tournament, Dec. 29-30.

The Salukis volunteered because of the Purple Aces’ tragic loss of its entire 14-member basketball team along with Coach Bobby Watson and 14 others who perished Dec. 13 in a plane crash near Evansville.

The gesture was made by Lambert Dec. 15 before he and the team departed for Los Angeles to take on UCLA.

The Salukis and Aces in their long standing rivalry were scheduled for two regular season games this year, Jan. 2 and Feb. 13. With the tournament games, SIU still meets the NCAA limit of a 27-game schedule which is needed to be considered for post-season play. SIU had not been scheduled to play in the tournament previously.

Murray State, Mercer and the Univ. of New Orleans, the tourney’s other participants, had also agreed to play.

Saluki Gary Wilson, averaging 21 points per game, was named the tourney’s most valuable player.

Wilson played the full 50 minutes of the two-overtime victory over New Orleans as he scored 20 points and grabbed 13 rebounds. He tallied 21 points against Mercer.

Sophomore Barry Smith of Eldorado, Ill., won the tourney’s sportsmanship award. He was a popular sentimental choice because two of the Aces’ basketball players who died in the tragic crash had played high school ball with Smith.

“Playing in the Evansville event as a replacement for the Aces may have added some new dimensions to our season,” Coach Lambert said. “The shocking tragedy and our subsequent involvement may have added a little maturity to our young men.”

Lambert is very pleased with the way the team came back from the double overtime Friday night to play so well on Saturday.

“I think the kids still had the adrenalin pumping from winning the tournament,” he said.

Pictured above are the 1977-78 Salukis who recently won the 22nd annual Evansville Holiday Tournament. Front row (l-r): Coach Paul Lambert, lettermen: Al Grant, Barry Smith, winner of the Evansville sportsmanship award; Gary Wilson, most valuable player of the Evansville tourney; Milton Huggins; Wayne Abrams; Dan Kieresowski; Herman Williams, assistant basketball coach and George Lubelt, assistant basketball coach. Back row (l-r): Bobby Bone, graduate assistant; James Orr; Scott Russ; Charles Moore; Christopher Giles, Anthony Frazier; Jac Claitt; Bob Middleton; James Linn and Wendell Cooper. The Salukis play five home games in February: Drake (Jan. 9), the alumni recognition game; Tulsa (Jan. 14); Indiana State (Jan. 19); West Texas State (Jan. 26) and New Mexico State (Jan. 28). The team will have four home games in February: St. Louis (Feb. 8); Wichita State (Feb. 11); Bradley (Feb. 23) and Creighton (Feb. 25). All home games begin at 7:35 p.m. in the SIU Arena.
Foundation Pledges Top Two Million

Gifts and pledges to the SIU Foundation totaled more than $2.7 million during the 1976-77 fiscal year. This represents a giving increase of 3.4 per cent over last year. J.C. Garavalia, director of the SIU annual giving program, pointed out that the most important aspect of last year's Living Endowment fund raising program was the increase in cash gifts from $248,006.40 to $476,309.49, an increase of 126 per cent.

In addition, he said, the number of donors increased from 3,924 to 5,611, an increase of over 42 per cent. Included were 2,782 alumni.

Gifts in kind which includes items such as books, laboratory equipment, aviation equipment and art works for an example, increased from $542,284.75 compared to $800,968 this past year, Garavalia said.

Deferred income during the past year totaled $85,328.74. This was created from three bequests of persons who named the University as beneficiaries in their wills.

In addition to this, $438,000 was recorded as expectancies through bequests and trust arrangements with individuals, bringing the deferred expectations to a total of $2,187,300.

Four direct mail campaigns have been initiated for the 1977-78 Living Endowment program, Garavalia said.

For those persons who have not been contacted, but wish to donate. Garavalia said contributions can be mailed to the Office of Development, SIU, Carbondale, Ill. 62901. Checks, which you can designate to any program or activity approved by the University, should be made payable to the SIU FOUNDATION.

Law Grads Gain Jobs

At least two-thirds of the members of SIU's second School of Law graduating class now are employed in their profession according to a recent law school survey.

In addition, the survey indicates that the graduates are earning anywhere from $12,000 to $20,000 per year with the average salary range from $8,500 to $19,500. The 1976 law graduates reported an average salary of $13,800.

Rita Moss, the Law School's placement director, reported that 45 graduates out of 74 answered the questionnaire.

Fifteen reported they are working in small firms, 10 are serving clerkships with federal and state governments.

The 1978 Job Prospects are, "good," with many first and second year law school students lining up summer clerkships.

SIU Rehabilitation Institute May Receive Doctorate Degree Program

SIU may soon become the first university in the United States to offer a doctorate degree in rehabilitation if the University's request to establish the new degree program is approved by the Illinois Board of Higher Education (IBHE).

The SIU Rehabilitation Institute would be an ideal place to initiate such a program, according to the associate commissioner of education for the State of Connecticut.

Since the SIU Rehabilitation Institute has a long and distinguished history, all the staff and other resources need to build such a program and one of the finest, professional programs anywhere," James S. Peteres, II, a recognized pioneer in the field and director of Connecticut's Division of Vocational Rehabilitation for 22 years.

Peters, who is a visiting professor at SIU this year, was invited to evaluate SIU's program and make recommendations as to the feasibility of offering a doctorate program here.

"Frankly, I was overwhelmed by the readiness I found here for such a program. The University already has ample staff and resources and the need certainly exists in our professional field," Peters said.

The biggest hurdle to overcome in establishing the new program is the hesitancy of some academicians to consider rehabilitation as a separate discipline, Peters said.

"Some professionals feel rehab should fall within the purview of psychology or education. There are Ph.D. programs in both areas which offer so-called concentrations in rehabilitation," he said.

"But rehabilitation implies service oriented to the total needs of the individual - as opposed to just psychological or educational needs," Peters said.

He said rehabilitation incorporates the psychological, educational, vocational, medical and recreational needs of handicapped individuals.

"The profession and the academic training for that profession have reached a point where establishment of a Ph.D. program would be logical and timely," Peters said.

Peters said the new degree offering would involve little, if any expense.

Plans were announced Dec. 8 for construction of an 18-hole championship-level golf course on the campus of SIU.

No state tax appropriations will be involved in the development, according to SIU-C President Warren W. Brandt. Richard J. (Dick) Heath of Evansville, Ind., a golf course owner and tournament promoter, will build and operate the course under terms of a 40-year lease with SIU.

The University’s board of trustees heard details about the plan Dec. 8, then gave Brandt a go-ahead to work out a formal lease agreement. It’s to be brought to the board for consideration at the February meeting.

Under the proposal, Heath and golf course architect Robert Eilsworth, designer of Heath’s Oak Meadow Country Club in Evansville, will lay out and build the SIU-C course and operate it year-round. The course site covers approximately 250 acres.

Heath would set greens fees, but the University would get first-use priority for intercollegiate play and classes. At all other times it would be open to the public.

SIU-C’s faculty, staff and students and possibly alumni, would get discounts (at least 20 percent) and SIU-C would pay no more than half the regular greens fee for physical education classes.

As another aspect of the development, Heath said he plans to build a 50,000-square-foot lodge and condominium complex on a section of private land within the course boundaries – close to a road between SIU-C’s Evergreen Terrace family housing project and the campus’ Douglas Drive.

It would include a dining room and lounge, pro shop and locker rooms as well as 80 “deluxe hotel-type suites” which would be part of a condominium rental pool arrangement. The balconies overlooking the course and campus, would be sold to individual buyers. They would share in rental proceeds when suites not being used by the owners were rented out overnight. Heath said the Oak Meadow lodge has 43 such condominium units.

The course would be laid out south and west of SIU-C’s campus lake, an area that now mostly fields and tree clusters. McLafferty and Reservoir roads are planned as west and south boundaries. Easternmost point of the course would be the Arena drive off Reservoir Road; the tip of the northernmost fairway would skirt the “back door” entrance to SIU-C’s Small Group Housing area. Nestled in a corner of the course north of Evergreen Terrace would be a 10-acre lake.

One edge of the course would loop through the bluegrass “sod farm” and lawn west and south of the president’s home on the campus. Eilsworth said the design will closely approximate that of Oak Meadow, which Heath built in 1971 and then bought in partnership with his mother in 1974.

Preliminary sketches call for 50 to 60 sand traps on a course that could go to 6,800 yards for championship play. Bent-grass type greens, dwarf bluegrass fairways and forestation (tree plantings, relocations and removal) will be landscaping features.

An underground system would be put in to water the fairways and greens. Golf cart trails probably would be built, along with a lighted driving range. Eilsworth said. The lease agreement will include provisions for negotiating future construction of another nine or 18 holes.

Heath said if construction starts next spring, the course could be seeded in mid-August and opened by May of 1979. The lodge would be ready for business at the same time.

“This course is going to be designed for NCAA and major tournament play.” He ached.

“There isn’t another one like it at any Illinois campus; we’re going to make it as much like Oak Meadow as possible. It’s going to be a great University and community attraction and I’m excited.”

George Mace, vice-president for University relations, said the course will be called “The Saluki.” Heath, whose family founded the Heath Candy Co. of Robinson, developed and managed a big-purse professional tournament in Robinson that brought the PGA tour there six times from 1968 through 1973. He also managed two PGA open tournaments.

In the next two years, the student salary base pay will be raised from $2.65 in 1978 to $2.90 Jan. 1, 1979 and to $3.10 effective Jan. 1, 1980.

Besides increasing the base pay, a student who now earns the base pay ($2.65) will be paid the same amount over the new minimum wage, Bruce Swinburne, vice president for student affairs, said.

Swinburne said the University anticipated an increase in student wages when requesting the 1978 budget and therefore, no cuts in student jobs are expected this year.

For those students, there is a limit as to how much they can earn during the semester. The maximum amount is computed on the basis of a student’s need, he said.

Because of the maximum amounts these students can earn, the increased wages may result in some student having to work shorter hours.

If they continued to work, their current hours, work-study students would have to terminate their jobs after earning the maximum amount.

Student Workers Get 35-Cent Raise

Approximately 99.5 per cent of SIU’s 3,200 student workers will receive a 35-cent an hour increase effective Jan. 1, 1979, according to Gordon White, director of the Student Work Office.

The raise will reflect an increase in the minimum wage from $2.30 an hour to $2.65 an hour in accordance with a bill recently signed by President Jimmy Carter which would increase the minimum wage by 45 per cent by 1981.

The average student salary at SIUS is $2.39 per hour, with a salary range of $2.30 to $3.85, White said.
SIU Trustees:
—Oppose Tuition Hike

Despite a state plan calling for a $63 hike in tuition at SIU by 1980, the Board of Trustees voted unanimously Dec. 8 to oppose an increase in rates.

In a resolution, the board said, "We should maintain our commitment to low tuition charges and reaffirm the authority of locally governing boards to determine rates."

The board faces an Illinois Board of Higher Education (IBHE) policy which says undergraduates should pay tuition equal to one-third of the cost of instruction by the 1979-80 school year.

Alumni, who are on record as favoring free tuition for Illinois' public universities, followed the IBHE plan, students would have to pay $63 more in two years.

The rate is based on an instructional cost of $1,763 to educate each SIU student, according to a report by the board staff. As the instructional cost increase, the tuition would go up proportionately.

Ask IBHE for $39.5 Million to Build

The SIU Board of Trustees plans to ask the Illinois Board of Higher Education (IBHE) for $39.5 million for new construction during the new fiscal year that begins next July.

Meeting Nov. 10 in Edwardsville, the SIU board approved sending a letter to the IBHE a priority listing of 63 capital construction projects which included 46 projects for the Carbondale campus.

Top priority items on campus include: planning money for the EPA-mandated control installation at the campus power plant ($389,800); a Law School building ($7.5 million); construction of the power plant control system ($74 million); equipment for the remodeled Parkington Laboratory ($810,000); additional funds to complete the Parkington remodeling ($24,000); and remodeling of the 52-year-old Dorothy R. Davies Gymnasium ($21.1 million).

—Approve Tenure Rules

New tenure rules were adopted by the SIU Board of Trustees Dec. 8.

The action came in a 4-0-3 vote after the board had defeated two amendments proposed by the trustees.

The new rules, contained in a nine-page document, replace a short section of the SIU board statutes which previously had served as tenure guidelines.

Among the changes: the document would require all teachers seeking tenure to do teaching, research and service and would prohibit instructors from being awarded tenure.

Under the new rules, only assistant professors, associate professors and full professors are eligible for tenure.

The two proposed amendments which were voted down included one which would have given the SIU School of Medicine different tenure rules than the rest of the University, which would not require research as a criteria for tenure. The other would have made SIU instructors eligible for tenure.

The new rules became effective Dec. 8 and apply to the faculty hired before that date. Those currently employed at SIU may choose to continue to work either under the old tenure rules or the new rules.

Foundation Elects Four Board Members

A lawyer, a geologist, a surgeon and a former member of the SIU Board of Trustees have been elected to the board of directors of the SIU Foundation, according to Joseph Goodman, executive director.

The new directors are: John Gilbert '33, Carbondale attorney and former state senator; Theodore Glass, Mount Vernon, consulting geologist; David Rendlemen ex '51, Carbondale surgeon and Eugene T. Simonds, Carbondale construction firm owner and former SIU trustee.

The four who will serve on the board until 1980, Join 18 other board members. This board makes policy for the SIU Foundation, a private corporation which channels funds and gifts to the SIU Community High School boards.

Students

Gilbert is a former Jackson County State's Attorney and state legislator. He received the SIU Alumni Achievement Award in 1965, and was honored in 1976 with a Distinguished Service Award by the University.

Glass is a past president of the Illinois Geological Society and an independent oil and gas producer. A native of Anna, Rendlemen has been a surgeon at Carbondale's Memorial Hospital since 1961. He is a clinical associate professor in the SIU School of Medicine and is the former chairman of the local YMCA board of directors.

Simonds, a native of Sparta, is a past member of both the SIU and Carbondale Community High School boards.

Alumni Can Buy Rec Permit

SIU alumni can now purchase semester permits to use the facilities at the University's Intramural-Recreational Sports Center.

The $20 use permit per semester can be purchased at the information desk at the center from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. Monday through Friday. Bill Bleyer, center director said.

Alumni eligibility can be established by a current Alumni Association membership card or an official copy of their University transcript signifying an earned degree from SIU.

Those purchasing a use permit may also rent a storage locker in the building for $12 ($5 lock and towel deposit included.)

Previously, alumni were only permitted to use the facilities on a daily basis at a charge of $1.

Continuing Ed Sets Up 11 Travel Programs

Eleven tours are tentatively planned for SIU's annual travel study program next summer.

Trip proposals include a work-study program in Haiti, a Scandinavian tour, a cultural trip through Italy and European concert tour by the SIU choir.

The purpose of the travel study program is to encourage students, faculty, staff and alumni to enrich and broaden their own education. Joseph Lynch of Continuing Education said.

Two of the tours will take participants into the Rocky Mountain area for botanical and ecological studies.

The Scandinavian trips will include a study of consumers, social services and housing progress and a month-long (June 1-30) look at the work and methods of Scandinavian craftsmen, architects, designers and manufacturers.

A seven-week (June 19-Aug. 8) Mexican tour will introduce students to the people, culture and history of that country through first hand experience in a Mexican university, home and travel.

A Russian study tour has been proposed for July. Study students will study the language and culture of the Soviet Union (at Moscow International University).

An eight-week program called, "Cross-Cultural Work-Study Experience in Haiti," will allow students a chance to participate in a culture social and linguistically unlike their own.

The SIU Choir tour is set for May 14-June 10 and covers 10 concert performances in France, Italy, Germany and Austria.

Various broadcasting systems in eight European countries (Great Britain, Holland, West Germany, France, Switzerland, Luxemburg, Czechoslovakia and Austria) will be studied from May 14 to June 13.

All of the study-tour programs are eligible from three to six credit hours.

Interested alumni should write Joseph Lynch, Division of Continuing Education, SIU Carbondale 62901 or call (618) 536-7751.

Students Have Campus Dentist

SIU students now have a dentist on campus to take care of their dental emergencies.

Effective Dec. 19, students made appointments for dental problems. The services were set up at the School of Technical Careers – Carterville campus in Building FL, Room 110.

The program was approved by a student referendum in Spring, 1977. Since summer semester, students have paid a $2 fee for the program included in the $4 medical fee benefit. The program has been budgeted $80,000 to operate from fall, 1977 until summer, 1978.

The purpose of the program is to provide indicated and possible, emergency dental care that requires no immediate external follow-up.

Dr. Dominic Cittadino has been hired as the dentist to take care of the emergencies.

Cittadino will take care of any type of dental emergency disorder such as: relief of pain from the oral cavity, loss of fillings, chipped teeth, any type of trauma to the oral cavity and recession of lose crowns. Also, he will instruct students in dental disease prevention.

He was hired to direct and operate the program in November. Since then he has organized the office facilities such as the two dental chairs and X-ray unit. He also has prepared a projected operational budget that falls $4,000 short of the $80,000 budgeted for the program.

At a later date, the program will be evaluated by a 12-member committee comprised of students, a local dentist, a dental hygiene student, the Health Service director, a dental hygiene faculty member and the chairman of the Allied Health and Public Services.

Psychology Department Highly Rated

SIU's department of psychology has received impressive marks in a national survey of university and college psychology programs.

The survey, published in the October issue of the professional journal American Psychologist, rates the SIU-C psychology department among the top 36 in the nation on the basis of faculty productivity.

Survey-takers W. Miles Cox and Viola Catt of Indiana University at Bloomington based faculty production on the number of publications in any of 13 American Psychological Association (APA) journals.

SIU overall ranking places it ahead of such institutions as the University of Chicago, Columbia University and the University of Southern California.

Cox and Catt also rank-ordered the top 58 (out of some 370 institutions offering recognized Ph.D. degrees in psychology) universities in terms of productivity per faculty member.

SIU with 26 full-time psychology faculty, was tied for 32nd with Cornell University in that ranking, ahead of such universities as Princeton, Harvard, Brown and Michigan.

The Cox-Catt study examined faculty publications over a six-year period (1970 to 1975).

SIU was the only institution in the nation to attain top-five ranking in two prominent journals, The Journal of Consulting and Clinical Psychology and the Journal of Counseling Psychology.

"The Cox-Catt survey is the most accurate yet undertaken to measure the overall scholarly research productivity of psychology departments," according to David Ehrenfreund, chairman of the SIU-C psychology department.
Sue Faber Leads Scoring

Freshmen Sue Faber of Wayne, N.J., is leading the women's basketball Saluki statistics with a 19-point average after three games.

In addition the 6-0 center is blistering the nets with a 54 shooting percentage from the field and a 76 percentage from the line. Also, she is the team's second leading rebounder, gathering 11 caroms per game. Center Bonnie Foley, 6-3, leads the team with 13 rebounds per game.

"Faber is extremely aggressive and helps us score when we need the points," Coach Cindy Scott said in her appraisal of the 17-year-old center.

The Salukis, 2-1, posted wins over Indiana University (62-38) and Illinois State University (62-57) and lost to Central Missouri State University (58-50).

Next on the agenda for the Salukis is the Saluki Invitational, a double elimination tournament, slated for Jan. 19-21 at Davies Gymnasium. Participating will be SIU, Purdue, Central Michigan, the Univ. of Wisconsin, Madison, the Univ. of Illinois-Chicago and the Univ. of Missouri-St. Louis.

SIU will play the winner of the Missouri-St. Louis-Purdue game at 1 p.m. Jan. 20.

Indoor Track Season Begins Jan. 12 at KSU

With two tracksters returning who scored all of the Salukis' points in the NCAA nationals and led the team to a tenth place tie, SIU head coach Lew Hartzog is highly optimistic going into this year's indoor track season.

Last year, junior Rick Rock placed third in the long jump and senior Gary Hunter was third in the pole vault to lead the Salukis in the NCAA indoor meet.

Both return in 1978. They will team with sprinter Mike Kee; pole vaulter Tim Johnston; distance men Mike Sawyer and Paul Craig; weight men John Marks and Stan Podolski; triple jumper Ken Lorraway and quarter milers Scott Dorsey and Steve Lively to form a strong nucleus.

In addition, Hartzog has added stand out freshmen David Lee and Lance Peeler to strengthen the sprint and field events.

SIU's first meet of the indoor season will be Jan. 12 at Lawrence, Kan., against Kansas State and Kansas.

Saluki Cagers Off To Slow Start

Basketball Coach Paul Lambert faces the challenge of repeating last season's 22-7 mark and the Missouri Valley Conference title.

Thus far this season, it hasn't been easy for Lambert.

Through nine games, the Salukis are 5-4. Three of the losing decisions could have gone either way. However, the Salukis lost to Illinois State, 51-48; Auburn, 66-65 and 76-73 to Georgia Southern in overtime.

Southern's most recent loss, 90-75, to UCLA was in the Bruin's Pauley Pavilion. Only six visiting teams have managed a victory at Pauley since it opened in 1985.

However, the outlook is bright as SIU has been getting a good showing from its young players and some conference time, the Salukis should be a strong and competitive team that will once again contend for the MVC title and the right to return to the NCAA playoffs.

Leading the way for the Salukis has been 6-6 junior forward Gary Wilson who is averaging 20.5 points a game and 8.4 rebounds. He was named to the All-Marshall Tournament Team for his efforts there as was sophomore Al Grant who has been hitting at a 9.4 clip while pulling down 7.4 rebounds.

The Salukis opened the season with the win over Roosevelt with Wilson scoring 23 points and sophomore forward Barry Smith adding 19 along with 16 rebounds.

Game two saw a great struggle between highly rated Illinois State (then 5-0) and the Salukis. The game went right down to the wire before the Redbirds were able to put the game away.

Games three and four were played at the Marshall Memorial Tournament where SIU finished third a fter losing to the eventual champ, Auburn and defeating Marshall in the consolation game.

Georgia Southern's Eagles provided the competition in game five. For the second straight year, the Eagles came out on top, besting the Salukis in overtime despite a 27 point effort by Wildon.

The eighth-ranked Bruins dropped the Salukis in game six. Southern had their last lead at 8-6 and last tie at 10-10 before UCLA ripped off eight points in a row to 18-10. SIU only trailed 12-32 at intermission.

Lambert used all 12 members of his travel squad and finished with an all-freshmen lineup on the floor.

SIU Gymnasts Begin Dual Competition

With a win in the Ball State All-Around classic and a fifth place finish most recently in the prestigious Rocky Mountain Invitational, Saluki gymnastics head coach Bill Meade is anxiously awaiting the start of dual meet competition on Jan. 6, at Ball State.

Saluki all-arounders Rick Adams, Kevin Muenz, Scott McBroom and Dan Muenz, Kevin's brother, plus specialists David Schieble and Jeff Barlow in vaulting will carry the Salukis through a tough dual meet season.

Adams was SIU's most consistent performer in December, as he won the individual title at the Ball State All-Around classic and was eighth in the Windy City Invitational.

Should the Salukis win their first dual against Ball State, it will mark the 200th career victory for Meade at SIU. His record in 22 years as head coach is 199-55.

The first home dual of the season will be January 9 against Louisiana State.
Glenn Signs With Buffalo

Mike Glenn, one of the finest shooting guards in the collegiate ranks last season, signed a one-year contract Dec. 14 with the Buffalo Braves.

To make room for him on the roster, the Braves waived the fourth-year guard Gary Brokaw who had been acquired from Cleveland last October.

Glenn, 6-3, was selected by the Chicago Bulls in the second round of the 1977 NBA draft, and was the first player picked in that round.

He never got to training camp, however, after suffering a fractured vertebra in his neck in an automobile accident near his Rome, Ga., home late in August. Glenn spent six weeks in a brace that extended from his neck to his hips.

Signed by the Braves as a free agent, Glenn who has completely recovered from his injuries played his first professional game against the Phoenix Suns in Phoenix Dec. 14 and scored three points— all on free throws.

Described by Braves Coach "Cotton" Fitzsimmons as a "super outside shooter," Glenn made 57.1 per cent of his field goal attempts while starting 104 in four varsity seasons at SIU.

He was the Salukis' top scorer the last two seasons, averaging 19.4 points per game as a junior and 21 points last year. His 609 points as a senior made him only their third player in Southern's history to hit 600 points in a single season. And, Glenn's 1,878 points rank him second on the school's all-time scoring list.

Also, he is an excellent free throw shooter with a career percentage of 87.6. As a senior, he made 93 per cent of his attempts from the line.

Glenn proved to be an outstanding achiever in the classroom as well as the court during his college days. The 1977 grad majored in math with a minor in computer science. He earned Academic All-America honors the last three years and was the leading vote-getter for the squad during the 1975-77 season.

Commenting on his signing, Glenn said, "I've really got to thank God for this opportunity to come back after the injury. I've heard a lot of good things about Buffalo and the Braves and I'm really happy to be here.''

Women's SID Named

Mitchell Parkinson, 27, recently was named sports information director of Women's Intercollegiate Athletics, Charlotte West, athletic director, announced.

A native of Cleveland, Tenn., he currently is completing his master's degree in communications at the Univ. of Tennessee, Knoxville. He received his bachelor's degree from UK in 1972 in communications.

Parkinson has worked as the sports editor of the Cherokee Signal in Cleveland, Tenn., and as a sports reporter for the Daily Beacon, UK's student newspaper.

He replaces Carol Van Dyke who resigned in September to take a similar position at the Univ. of Minnesota.

Wrestlers Hope To Improve Record

Coach Linn Long's Saluki wrestlers hope to rebound from last year's disappointing 5-18 record. Despite an extremely tough schedule, Long has the personnel to make a strong comeback.

Heading the list of returnees is junior John Gross (118) who posted an impressive 20-9-1 slate as a sophomore. Gross will be joined by sophomores Paul Hibbs (124) and Dale Eggert (150) to give the Salukis a strong nucleus.

However, Long will have to contend with a squad that is very thin and will not be able to afford any injuries if SIU is to compete with the likes of Oklahoma State, Lehigh, Louisiana State and Cal-Poly, at San Luis Obispo.

Gridders Finish 3-8

After posting a remarkable 7-4 record in his first year at SIU, head football coach Rey Dempsey's second Saluki squad fell to 3-8 this past season, but no one connected with Saluki football is discouraged.

In 1977, the Salukis played with a young and inexperienced team who dealt with a killer schedule, seven of their 11 games on the road. With the tough schedule the Salukis faced teams like Temple (who upset 24-20), Southern Illinois, Eastern Illinois, East Carolina, West Texas State (Missouri Valley Conference champs) and Arkansas State.

However, despite the schedule and their relative inexperience, the Salukis were in every game and with a few breaks might have won more than three games.

The offensive team, while inconsistent most of the year, gives signs of being much better next season. Fullback Berneln Quinn, who rushed for 822 yards on his way to football coach Rey Dempsey's second team, returns, as does quarterback John Cernak who was impressive starting the last three games.

On defense, the Salukis were tough with senior linebacker Dan Brown leading the way and capping a great career by being named to the All-Missouri Valley Conference team after posting a team high 141 tackles.

Returnees Oyd Craddock, a safety, and Ron Geels, the monster back, both earned second team All-MVC honors, and will be back to provide the Salukis with a stingy pass defense that should be one of the best in the MVC.

Craddock led the team in interceptions with five while Geels had four. Also, they ranked two and three, respectively, in tackles behind Brown.

The biggest cause for optimism, though, is the number of returning Salukis. Of the 32 players who made the final road team to West Texas, 41 return.

The biggest challenge facing SIU is to recruit talented players to fill the gaps in the Saluki lineup.

"We've got the majority of our letter winners back next year, but we absolutely cannot afford a bad recruiting year in any of our first four years," said Dempsey. "We have to keep recruiting the quality players we need from high school and junior college in order to be where we want to be at the end of our five-year program. Despite the 3-8 record this year, we've made a good start and I think we have the student body to be at the end of our five-year program."

Hall of Fame Induction, Feb. 10

SIU inductees to the new Athletic Hall of Fame will be initiated Feb. 10, according to Donald Boydston, former athletic director and chairman of the Hall of Fame ceremony committee.

Boydston said the celebration will start with a reception beginning at 5:30 p.m. at the University House on campus.

A banquet beginning at 7 p.m. at the Student Center will follow.

The inductees also will be honored at halftime during the SIU-Tulsa basketball game Feb. 11 at the SIU Arena.

The names of the Hall of Fame inductees will be announced shortly. Look for the names in your local newspapers.

Nominations for the inductees were solicited in the September and November issues of the Alumnus. The SIU Lettermen's Club who set up the Hall of Fame, formed two committees to select the inductees. The athletes are divided into two time periods, (1915-1945 and 1946-1972).

The March Alumnus will have the complete story.

Spotlighting Saluki Sports

Training Table on the hoof — This steer doesn't know it, but he's about to be converted to protein by several hungry SIU athletes. The steer was donated to SIU-C basketball coach Paul Lambert (right), who made a point of studying the bovine's foodwork closely. Donors John Montgomery (standing, rear) and son Gary (left) of Goreville promised to have the animal processed and transported to Carbondale in plenty of time to provide a steak dinner for Salukis basketball and football players. Lambert accepted the unusual donation during a livestock auction in Goreville. The Montegomery's own a market center and meat farm in Goreville.
