Bryant, Burris, Meehan, Moore Win Award

Two women and two men have been named the recipients of the 1979 Alumni Achievement Awards which will be presented as part of Homecoming activities Oct 13 at 11:15 a.m. during the SIUC Alumni Association’s Alumni Recognition Luncheon in the Student Center Ballrooms. Receiving the 22nd annual awards are: ROYE R. BRYANT ‘30, the first director of the SIUC Placement Center; ROLAND W. BURRIS ’59, Illinois State Comptroller; ELIZABETH C. MEEHAN MSED ’38, a retired assistant professor of education and BILLIE JEAN MOORE MSED ’68, head women’s basketball coach at the University of California, Los Angeles (UCLA).

Burriss and Ms. Moore are being honored for their outstanding professional achievements, while Bryant and Mrs. Meehan are being recognized for their outstanding service and dedication to the University.

A native of Norris City, Ill., Bryant spent 22 years as a public school administrator in Illinois before coming to SIUC in 1948. Retiring twice from SIUC (1968 and 1972), Bryant served in various capacities: field representative for the University (1948-49); the first director of the University Placement Services (1949-68); professor, taught courses in Educational Administration (1963-1968); assistant to the Chancellor (1969-70); Acting dean of the School of Home Economics (1969-71) and assistant to the President (1971-72).”

In addition, Bryant of Carbondale has served as president of six organizations and is the only person ever to be president of both the College Placement Council and the National Association of School. College and University Staffing.

Also, he is a 32nd degree Mason, a devoted Rotarian; served as a member of the SIUC Alumni Board of Directors and was the Association’s second vice president in 1946-47. In 1948, he was the president of the Massac County Alumni Club and from 1953 to the present he served as a member of the class of 1930 on the Alumni Legislative Council.

Bryant, a life member of the SIUC Alumni Association, received his master’s degree from the University of Illinois (1937) and his Ph.D. from Washington University (1952). He is married to the former Floralee Questell ’30.

From his days as editor of the Egyptian (1929-30) to his second retirement in 1972, Bryant has dedicated 46 years to education.

When Burriss, 42, of Chicago was inaugurated as Illinois State Comptroller Jan. 8, 1979, he became the third person elected to that office and the first black to be elected to a major political office in the state.

A native of Centralia, Ill., Burriss earned his bachelor’s degree in political science from SIUC in 1959; spent one year studying international law at the University of Hamburg in Germany and received his law degree from Howard University in 1963.

His first job was with the U.S. Treasury Department as a national bank examiner in the Office of the Comptroller of the Currency. Next, he worked for eight years at Illinois’ largest bank, Continental Illinois and was vice president when he left. In 1973, Burriss entered the Cabinet of Illinois Gov. Dan Walker as director of General Services. In 1977, he was named national executive director and chief operating officer of People United to Save Humanity (PUSH). In addition, Burriss has received numerous awards, honors and citations. He is listed in “Who’s Who in America,” “Who’s Who in Law,” and “Who’s Who in Government.” Ebony Magazine named him among “The 100 Most Influential Black Americans” (1979), while Fortune Magazine listed him as one of the “1,000 Successful Blacks in America” in 1969.

A life member of the SIUC Alumni Association and a member of the Alpha Phi Alpha fraternity, Burriss is married to the former Berlean Miller. They have two children, Roland II, 12, and Rolanda Sue, 15.

A native of Chicagee, Ill., Mrs. Meehan has one living son, William ’51, an attorney in Cairo. Her two other children, John and Mary Wilson ’57, both died of cancer.

Mrs. Meehan has a long career as a head basketball coach, Ms. Moore has reached heights most coaches only dream about.

For the eight years she was coach (Continued to Page Six)

SIUC Graduate Named U.N. Ambassador

President Jimmy Carter Aug. 31 nominated Donald F. McHenry, a 1959 master of science SIUC graduate in political science and speech, to replace Andrew Young as the U.S. ambassador to the United Nations. The appointment is still subject to Senate approval.

His appointment as U.N. Ambassador is one of the highest public appointments an SIUC graduate has received, University officials said.

Prior to his appointment, McHenry, 42, was Young’s deputy chief of the U.S. United Nations delegation.

Best known in U.N. circles as an expert in African affairs, McHenry was the chief U.S. diplomat at the Kennedy Airport negotiations recently with Soviet officials over several ballerina Ludmilla Vlasova whose husband had defected to this country.

A 1976 recipient of the SIUC Alumni Association’s Achievement Award, McHenry, a native of St. Louis and East St. Louis, joined the State Department in 1963 in the office of U.N. Political Affairs. He has served as advisor to several U.N. delegations and received the State Department’s Superior Honor Award.

In 1969, he was an assistant to Secretary of State William Rogers and special assistant to the counselor of the State Department from 1969-1971.

On leave from the State Department, McHenry worked with the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace as a guest lecturer at Georgetown University’s School of Foreign Service and was a guest scholar at the Brookings Institute.

In addition, McHenry served on President Carter’s transition team after Carter’s election and subsequently was appointed to his deputy position at the United Nations.

Colleagues regard McHenry, an experienced diplomat and expert on African affairs. However, unlike Young, he was not active in the civil rights movement.

His missions and interests have often focused on Third World policies. He tirelessly led protected negotiations for South African agreement on a United Nations independence plan for South West Africa, also known as Namibia.

He lives in New York City with his two daughters and a son.

The SIUC Alumni Association and the University wish you the best of luck in your new position.
Kenneth Shaw Named Chancellor

Kenneth A. Shaw, the current president of SIU at Edwardsville, has been named the permanent Chancellor of the Southern Illinois University System.

Shaw, 40, was one of four final candidates whose recent campus visits were sponsored by the Chancellor Search Assistance Council.

Under the chairmanship of Professor Keith Sanders, past president of the SIUC Alumni Association, which is composed of representatives of constituencies at Carbondale and Edwardsville, scrutinized the qualifications of over 200 applicants. The other three were Durward Long, vice-president of academic affairs of the University of Hawaii system; Donald Swain, academic vice-president of the University of California system, headquartered at Berkeley and Clyde J. Wingfield, executive vice-president for the academic affairs and provost at the University of Miami in Florida.

All of the candidates were interviewed on both campuses during the latter part of June or the early part of July.

SIUC Accreditation Approved

SIUC's accreditation has been continued for another 10 years in a report that says "SIUC has shown itself capable of developing and maintaining high caliber academic service programs."

Accreditation approval by the North Central Association of Colleges and Schools (NCA) covers all of SIUC's academic programs through the doctoral degree level. The University's professional schools of medicine and law are accredited by the American Medical Association and American Bar Association.

The 10-year time span for any single institution is the maximum possible under North Central guidelines. The next evaluation is scheduled for 1988-89.

The latest accreditation comes after two years of institutional "self-study (which resulted in a 500-plus page internal report) and a campus visit by a 10-member evaluation team headed by George A. Greis, arts and sciences dean at Oklahoma State University.

The team's final report said SIUC's academic quality has been maintained "despite administrative turnover and conditions of stress." But it said "tensions which exist are largely hangovers from the past and can be resolved."

The report specifically cited the 1974 "financial exigency" dismissal of 104 faculty members as an event that had "serious impact on faculty morale, the effects of which are still evident on the campus."

The report said team members were "delighted" with undergraduate students ("those contacted seemed to be well motivated and convinced they were getting good educational experiences") and said graduate students "gave the impression of being mature, well motivated and of high academic potential."

Undergraduate and graduate academic programs were said to be "strong" in general, and various departments were said to compete healthfully for majors and to enjoy high levels of use.

SIUC's off-campus continuing education programs, including those at more than 35 military bases around the country, "are well conceived and of high quality," the report said. It said SIUC graduate programs are "thriving," but the team recognized problems with equipment money and library space ("students are literally being pushed against the walls as windows and table tops are being used for storage").

SIUC's physical facilities are "good to excellent," said the report, and the school was commended for efforts to meet the needs of the handicapped. But it said funds shortages have meant a slowdown in building maintenance, which involves a calculation that "since neglect ... can only add to the ultimate cost of campus upkeep."

The report said SIUC's degrees from certificates to Ph.D.'s are "of high quality and well monitored internally."

The review team said the SIU board of trustees' decision to consolidate system-wide administration under a chancellor was "sound" and "should not have any negative impact on the quality of instructional, research or extension program of SIUC."

Team members called SIUC administrators "dedicated, hard-working and imaginative" and said progress in overcoming earlier tension between top administration and faculty members (as a result of the 1974 dismissals) is "moving slowly but surely."

Faculty morale was seen as "greatly improved" over the last three or four years, and general apprehensions -- about economic problems, "the specter of declining enrollment and budgets" and pressure for stepped-up research -- "are the same as those found on other campuses" or "not entirely unique to SIUC," the team said.

"SIUC has lived through a hectic decade and still emerges as a sound and solid institution," the report said.

"Much of the credit for this must go to a dedicated faculty and a few years of stabilizing administration. Faculty morale, while still not good, has improved markedly in recent years. Program quality has not been reduced. It is to the credit of the faculty that the unrest of the past and their present concerns have had minimum negative impact on the student body."

Ground Broken for SIUC Law School

Acting President Hiram Lesar dug in with fervor Aug. 4 to break ground for the long-awaited law school building.

For Lesar, who also is the dean of the SIUC Law School, it marked the end of six years of work to find a permanent home for the fledgling school he has headed since its opening in 1973

Currently housed in portions of three remodeled residence halls in Small Group Housing (Greek Row), the law school is expected to move into the new $7.6 million structure in fall, 1981.

Although Student Bar Association President Jim Rodgers, a senior law student from Eldorado, said students sometimes doubted the project would ever get under way, Lesar said he never doubted the building would be constructed.

"I felt all the time we'd get one. It just took more effort than we expected," Lesar said.

About 100 persons attended the ceremonies and heard University officials praise local legislators for their efforts in obtaining funds for the new building.

Law School start — State legislators and University-city officials stand by as Hiram H. Lesar, dean of acting SIUC president and School of Law, heaves spadeful of soil at groundbreaking ceremonies for new law school building at SIUC. Lesar also is acting president of the University. Ceremonies were Aug. 4.

15 Faculty Retire

One of South America's best known philosophers and the veteran director of opera at SIUC were among 15 faculty members for whom the 1978-79 academic year was their last at the University.

Their retirement was recognized at the University's summer commencement Aug. 4.

Joining philosopher Risieri Frondizi and opera director Mary Elaine Wallace House were several faculty members who registered upwards of 25 years of service at SIUC.

The retirees are: Arnold J. Auerback, 67, professor of social welfare and former chairman of that department, who came to SIUC in 1972 from California State University at Northridge. Mary Noel Barron, 64, associate professor of accountancy, who joined the SIUC faculty in 1948.

L. Ralph Casey, 63, former SIUC swimming coach, who has achieved a long list of coaching honors since coming to the University in 1957.

Kennes W. Dukett, 54, University archivist and associate professor in the Morris Library, who joined the SIUC faculty in 1948.

Kenneth R. Dukett, 64, former SIUC swimming coach, who has achieved a long list of coaching honors since coming to the University in 1957. At retirement, he is an associate professor of physical education.

Kennes W. Dukett, 54, University archivist and associate professor in the Morris Library, who joined the SIUC faculty in 1948.

Ralph L. Stotlar, 55, associate professor of physical education who joined the faculty in 1948; Mary Elaine Wallace House, head of the University's opera program since she arrived in 1969.

Other are: Robert B. Partlow, Jr., 60, professor and chairman of the department of English, who has spent most of his teaching career at SIUC and who is a well-known expert on Charles Dickens; John W. (Bud) Stiliar, 55, associate professor of physical education who joined the faculty in 1948; Mary Elaine Wallace House, head of the University's opera program since she arrived in 1969.

She was instrumental in the initiation of a master's degree in opera music some six years ago and has produced scores of operas over the years; William Westberg, 64, professor of psychology who came to SIUC in 1932.

He is a well-known industrial psychologist; Larry L. Wimp, 66, assistant professor of mathematics, who joined the Southern staff in 1954 and finally Eugene S. Wood, 57, professor in the School of Agriculture and former chairman of the department of agriculture industries. In addition, he has been assistant dean of the School of Agriculture and a vocational agriculture teacher in the former University School.

The SIUC Alumni Association wishes to thank you all for your years of service and dedication to the University and extends best wishes to you in retirement.

Budget Approved

A $13 million boost in SIUC's operating budget will provide salary increase funds totaling nearly $4.7 million for the year that started July 1, according to a breakdown of appropriations bills signed in July by Gov. James R. Thompson.

SIUC Acting President Hiram H. Lesar said appropriations for the new fiscal year include enough money to cover salary hikes averaging 7.7 percent for campus employees. Formulas for distributing the pay increase money were set earlier by former SIUC President Warren W. Brandt.

The total 1979-80 appropriation for SIUC is $89.7 million, of which $70.8 million is earmarked for the payroll. The tax-dollar share of the budget is $76.3 million. The rest — $17.4 million — will come from revenues generated by the University.

"We are delighted that the governor has signed our appropriation bill," said Lesar. "It will enable us to give substantial salary increases and puts us in a much better position with respect to support of the University's board of trustees over the "placing of systems concerns ahead of the needs of SIUC.

As of Sept. 1, Brandt has been appointed Vice-president for Finance and Administration of the University of Maryland System and is now headquartered in College Park.

A presidential search committee for both campuses will be set up at a later date.

Prior to assuming the presidency of SIUE, Shaw was vice president of Towson State University from 1969 to 1977, and assistant to the president of Illinois State University from 1966 to 1969. His B.S. degree is from Illinois State University, and he holds a Master's degree from the University of Illinois and a Ph.D. from Purdue University.

Shaw, his wife, Mary Ann, and their three children, will continue to reside in Edwardsville.

Living Endowment Tops Million

Cash contributions to the SIUC Living Endowment topped $1 million in the fiscal year that ended June 30, highest one-year total ever.

The Living Endowment program was established in 1974 to seek private gifts for the support of SIUC programs and activities. Total cash income that year was $848,006.

The first in a series, this award is co-sponsored by the SIUC College of Business and Administration and the Business Alumni Constituent Society.

The program's rapid growth was not unexpected, according to Garavalia. "We're hoping for continued growth in the program and have tried to build it on a very firm base," he said.

Donations are solicited from alumni, companies, and friends of the University through direct mailings, personal solicitations and telephone campaigns. More than 5,000 individual contributions were received in the latest effort.

Most contributors designate particular areas where they want their money used, such as athletics, student loans or scholarships.

Restrictions of the endowment money are channeled to areas of greatest need.

The Living Endowment was started with a $25,000 grant from the SIU Foundation, Inc. The endowment for the program has been built up by the University. Garavalia said that program costs have totaled approximately $140,000 over the last five years. During that time, $2.8 million in cash gifts has been received.
Salukis Lose Opener

At the rate things are going, the Missouri Valley Conference may do away with its preseason football polls.

Last year, West Texas State was picked to defend the title it won in 1977, while SIUC was pegged for a fifth-place finish by both the coaches and the media. However, SIUC defeated West Texas early in the season, 17-13, to start the Buffaloes on a slide to a last-place finish. The Salukis wound up third.

This summer, the experts gave the early nod to SIUC while picking the Buffaloes for another cellar-dwelling season. West Texas State players must not have seen the polls. They probably didn't know they weren't supposed to embarrass the Salukis in the opener, 14-0, but they did just that last week at Canyon, Texas.

The loss marked the eighth-straight year that SIUC has lost its season opener in football.

Jack Hartman Returns to SIUC Arena, Dec. 15

A Saturday, Dec. 15, home game with Kansas State and an appearance in Arizona State's Sun Devil Classic highlight the 1979-80 SIU-C basketball schedule.

The K-State game not only will mark the Wildcats' second appearance in the SIU-C Arena, but will be Wildcat coach Jack Hartman's first coaching return to Carbondale since he left the Salukis to take over at Kansas State in 1979-80. Hartman coached SIU-C to a 144-64 record in seven years and is remembered for his 1966-67 squad that included future All-Americans William & Larry Kavanagh.

SIU-C Arena Gets Volleyball National!

The SIU-C Arena will be the site of this year's Association for Intercollegiate Athletics for Women's Division I national volleyball championships Dec. 5-8.

This will be the first time SIU-C ever has been the site of an AIAW national championship.

Ticket prices and other tournament details can be obtained from Mitch Parkerson, sports information director, Women's Intercollegiate Athletics, SIUC, Carbondale, IL 62901 or call (618) 536-5567.

BY FRED HUFF

ASSISTANT ATHLETIC DIRECTOR

A quick commercial. DON'T MISS SEEING THE 1979 FOOTBALL SALUKIS!!!

We only can suggest, urge and plead with people so many times. And, we've perhaps over-extended ourselves already. Nevertheless, we'll shoot it one more time.

If you have even a slight interest in SIUC or the Saluki athletic program, you owe it to yourself to support the finest football team in many, many years.

First of all, football is the best sport, the best. Most knowledgeable fans realize it's not the final won-lost record which proves talent and dedication. An indicator, yes, but not the only barometer.

The '79 season, Coach Rey Dempsey's fourth since he took over a program which had produced only seven wins in the previous four seasons, is aiming at the Missouri Valley Conference championship. It's unlikely any team in the league will be able to go through the entire season with a perfect record. But it can be done.

Regardless, see the Salukis against Southwest Louisiana, Eastern Illinois, Illinois State, Wichita State, Indiana State and New Mexico State. It's a six-game home slate with all being played in the afternoon at McAndrew Stadium. * ...*

And, while we have the box out, we frequently hear..."What is the Saluki Athletic Fund?" while traveling around the area visiting with friends, alumni and newcomers to Southern Illinois.

Read our department's current fund-raising brochure and you'll learn the Saluki Athletic Fund is the heart of SIUC men's athletic program. The "fund," which supplements the department's general operating budget, consists of contributions from Alumni Lettermen Club members, alumni and friends of the program.

It's important, as much as supporting the football team with your attendance at games...

If you're not already subscribing to one area of support, you might be interested in learning more about the Saluki Athletic Fund. If so, drop a note to either myself or Athletic Director Gale Sayers.

There's a place for everyone and at a level, large or small.

Speaking of the Alumni Lettermen's Club, it's moving now as well as any time in recent history with Harvey Welch following effectively in the footsteps of past-president Seymour Bryson.

Newsletters sent to many former lettermen are producing new members and membership renewals. If you earned an athletic letter at SIU and are not receiving the newsletter, drop us a line with your present address...

...We've recently heard from...

Association Introduces Two Supplemental Insurance Programs

As the alumni group term life insurance program was so well received last year by SIUC alumni, the Alumni Association is introducing two new supplemental insurance programs.

The two programs, accidental death and dismemberment and in hospital indemnity, are available to all SIUC graduates, former students and their families.

The accidental death and dismemberment program is available to all those under 75 years old with no health information required and offers coverage from $25,000 to $250,000 for the insured; from $10,000 to $100,000 for a spouse, and from $2,500 to $25,000 for each child. This supplemental policy pays the insured directly. There are six different programs available.

In addition, the in hospital indemnity program is available to persons under 65 years old and will pay the insured directly. There are four plans available.

If you are interested in more information, please send your request to the SIUC Alumni Association, 1234 Main Street, Carbondale, Ill. 62901. Information may still be obtained concerning the group term life insurance program.

These specifically designed programs represent our continuing effort to provide tangible means of service to all SIUC graduates and former students.

The Association is pleased to add this to a long list of services to alumni.
