Among them are a state official, a nuclear research chemist and a former SIUC financial aids director.

Named as the recipients of the 24th annual awards to be presented at the 11 a.m. Alumni Recognition Luncheon are: David T. Kenney of Springfield, director of the Illinois Department of Conservation; David G. Karraker of Aiken, S.C., a research chemist at the Savannah (S.C.) River Laboratory, a U.S. Department of Energy Laboratory operated by the E. I. du Pont Co.; and Frank C. Adams of Carbondale, former director of the SIUC Office of Student Work and Financial Assistance.

Kenney and Karraker are being cited for outstanding professional accomplishment, while Adams is being honored for outstanding service and dedication to the University and the Alumni Association.

Kenney, a Carbondale native, whose great-great-great grandparents settled in Randolph County seven years before Illinois became a state, is the senior member of Gov. James Thompson’s cabinet. He was appointed to his conservation post in 1977.

Prior to his state appointment, Kenney was an SIUC political science professor, having been associated with the University in teaching or administrative capacities since 1951.

At various times during his career he served as director of the Public Affairs Research Bureau; acting dean of the Graduate School and assistant to the dean of the Graduate School.

He is a two-degrees SIUC graduate (bachelor’s in 1947 and master’s in 1949) and received his Ph.D. from the University of Illinois in 1952. He did postdoctoral work at the University of North Carolina in 1956.

A life member of the Alumni Association, Kenney has served as a member of the Alumni board of directors; has been his class representative on the Legislative Council since 1955; and was president and vice president of the Jackson County Alumni Club.

Karraker, Kenney, Adams

Three selected for Alumni accolade

David Karraker.

He is the author of a widely used textbook, "Basic Illinois Government," which utilizes an historic approach in describing state and local government. His chapter on prehistoric Illinois established Kenney as an authority on the Indian inhabitants of prestatehood Illinois.

He is ex-officio of the State Historic Preservation Office; was a member of the Illinois Law Enforcement Commission and served as president of the Carbondale Library Board from 1975 to 1977. He has been widely associated with the running of dog field trials and is president of the Illinois Brittany Association since 1980.

Karraker is married to the former Mildred J. Jones of Grafton, W.Va., and they have three children: Mark of Minooka, Mildred of Grafton, and David, a native of Sparta, came to SIUC in 1957 from his hometown, where he had been a high school principal since 1955.

His career has been divided between the development of chemical processes for recovery of defense nuclear material and research on the chemistry of the reactor-produced elements—neptunium and plutonium.

He directed the development of several methods of processing nuclear defense material at Savannah River. In 1965, he was appointed as research associate and since then has conducted research on the chemistry of the actinide elements.

Karraker has published over 60 papers and presented papers at American and foreign technical meetings and lectured at over 50 colleges and universities.

He is the eldest son of Margaret Browne Karraker, '16, and the grandson of Professor George M. Browne, the first head of the SIUC Chemistry Department, for whom Browne Auditorium on campus is named.

Karraker is married to the former Mildred J. Jones of Grafton, W.Va., and they have three children: Mark of Minneapolis, Emily K. Owens of Downers Grove and Frances of Oak Ridge, Tenn.

Adams is married to the former Mary Eleanor Calhoun of Jacksonville, Ill., a 1963 graduate of SIUC.

Frank Adams.

(1947-57). From 1957 until his retirement in 1977, Adams was the director of the student work and financial assistance program at the University.

During his tenure, Adams was responsible for administering about half a billion dollars in financial assistance to students. He's figured that out to $60,000 a day or $124 per minute during the workday for each day of classes. At the peak of his administration, Adams managed over 6,000 student employees.

In addition, he has authored or coauthored six books and has served as a consultant to the U.S. Office of Education to more than 100 college work-study programs. Also, he has taught in the higher education and secondary education departments at SIUC.

He has served as the president of the American Work-Education Foundation and is the editor of the "Mid-Western," a newsletter for the Midwest Association of Student Employment Directors.

He is listed in "Who’s Who in American Education" and "Who’s Who in the Midwest," and has written over 25 journal articles.

Adams is married to the former Mary Eleanor Calhoun of Jacksonville, Ill., a 1963 graduate of SIUC.
SIUC gets $3.4 million grant
To train 570 Malaysian aviation technologists

SIUC has received a $3.4 million training grant from the government of Malaysia to provide aviation technology training to some 570 Malaysians.

The three-and-one-half-year grant is aimed at aiding Malaysian economic development by providing trained technicians who eventually will man that nation’s aircraft industry. In all, according to Mokhtar Mohd. Shah, who is in Carbondale Aug. 31 to finalize the SIUC-Malaysian agreement on behalf of the Malaysian government.

Participants will be enlisted personnel from the Royal Malaysian Air Force, many of whom will enter the civilian aviation industry upon their discharge, he said.

The first 75 participants arrived in Carbondale Aug. 13 and will join in an intensive program of technical English language training at SIUC’s Center for Arid and Semi-Arid Land Education (CAREL) in Carbondale. They then will move into technical training at SIUC’s School of Technical Careers (STC) aimed at gaining them certification as airframe technicians, power plant technicians and avionics technicians.

Average age of the participants is 19 years. Most have completed some technical training in Malaysia and have some post-secondary education. They will spend 12 months studying both technical English and aviation technology at SIUC before returning to Malaysia, according to Hollis E. Merritt, assistant dean for academic affairs at STC.

As many as 250 Malaysian trainees will study at SIUC at any given time during the course of the three- and one-half-year program, said Merritt.

“We are very pleased to have been awarded the Malaysian program. SIUC was competing with several other American universities for this contract,” said Merritt.

“The project that will result from this program can only allow us to enroll more Illinois students in future years at no additional cost to taxpayers,” he added.

Hartzog named acting A.D.

Has been SIUC track coach for 22 years

Lew Hartzog has been named acting director of intercollegiate athletics for men at the University.

Hartzog, who will enter his 22nd year and 17th as a head coach at SIUC, is named to the post Aug. 18 by Bruce R. Swinburne, vice president for student affairs.

Swinburne, who administers SIUC’s men’s and women’s intercollegiate athletics programs, said Hartzog will assume his duties Sept. 1, and serve until a permanent director is hired.

“I feel very good about the fact Lew Hartzog has accepted the position. His commitment to SIUC and Missouri State University, his total integrity and the maturity he will bring to this important administration are all key considerations in my decision,” said Swinburne.

He said Hartzog will not be a candidate for the permanent position of men’s athletic director or a possible combined position over both men’s and women’s programs, should a decision be made to combine the two programs administratively.

Gale Sayers, current director of men’s intercollegiate athletics, announced his resignation (effective Sept. 1) in July. Sayers plans to enter private business.

The 58-year-old Hartzog came to SIUC in 1960 as head coach of the SIUC track and field and cross county teams. His teams have dominated Missouri Valley Conference action since SIUC joined the league in 1974.

A home NCAA District 5 track coach, the year, Hartzog has coached more than 50 All-Americans and seven Olympic-caliber student-athletes.

He joined the SIUC staff from Northwest Missouri State College, which was head track coach from 1955 to 1960. Prior to that Hartzog coached and taught high school in Colorado and Missouri State University at Fort Collins in 1953.

Hartzog’s first coaching and teaching job was at William Christian High School in Independence, Mo.

Darling quits dean post

Takes Texas Tech academic VP slot

The dean of SIUC’s College of Business and Administration has been named the chief academic officer at Texas Tech University in Lubbock.

No plans have been made to name a replacement for Darling, said John Guyon, vice president for academic affairs and research, Guyon said he’ll meet with administrators in the College of Business and Administration before a replacement dean is named.

“We’re deeply sorry that he’s leaving SIUC, but it’s a great opportunity for him, and we wish him well in Texas,” Guyon said.

As vice president for academic affairs at the Texas institution, Darling will oversee academic programs in that university’s Colleges of Agricultural Sciences, Arts and Sciences, Business Administration, Educational Assessment, Extension, Home Economics and the Graduate School and School of Law. He’ll also be responsible for Texas Tech’s division of continuing education.

“I feel very good about the fact Lew Hartzog has accepted the position. His commitment to SIUC and Missouri State University, his total integrity and the maturity he will bring to this important administration are all key considerations in my decision,” said Swinburne.

He’s also taught or held administrative posts at the University of Missouri-Columbia, University of Alabama at Tuscaloosa and University of Missouri at Kansas City, and has been a visiting professor at the Helsinki, Turku and Vaasa Schools of Economics in Finland and Alexandria University, Egypt.

He is co-author of seven books on management and marketing and has written more than 100 research articles in his specialties.

Darling said he’s proud of what the College of Business and Administration has accomplished while he’s been dean and he leaves SIUC “with regret.”

“The College of Business and Administration has experienced an unusual period of growth and development, and I am very pleased to have been able to play a part in this process,” he said.

He has an associate degree from Graceland College, Lamoni, Iowa; bachelor’s and master’s degrees from the University of Alabama at Tuscaloosa; and holds a Ph.D. degree from the University of Wisconsin.

grams run by SIUC departments have contributed to the decline. Available to pay for service projects is a lack of overall administrative direction and a drop in the amount of money spent on the campus since 1961. Faculty retirees:—Jacob O. Bach, professor of educational leadership, came to SIUC as an instructor in 1951. Former chairman of the department of educational administration and supervision, Bach also was head of the Educational Research Bureau.—Will Gay Bottje, professor of music, joined the faculty in 1957 after a two-year stint in the University of Mississippi’s music department. He has composed and performed several electronic operas while at SIUC which have been performed all over the country.—Opal June Burger, assistant professor of vocational education, came to SIUC as an instructor in 1964. A graduate of Indiana University, Ms. Burger holds a master’s and Ph.D. degrees from SIUC.—Gordon K. Butts, professor of curriculum, instruction and media, joined the SIUC faculty in 1960 as an instructor. He is the former chairman of the University’s instructional materials department and directed the University’s training institute for media centers.—Peter Bykowski, instructor of dental laboratory in the School of Technical Careers, is former supervisor of the department. The Plymouth, Pa., native came to SIUC in 1956.—Mary C. Callaghan, associate professor and coordinator of the School of Technical Career’s dental hygiene program, joined the SIUC faculty in 1974.—Charles T. Cowe, English instructor in the School of Technical Careers, joined the faculty in 1965. A Johnstown City native, he is a 1953 graduate of SIUC.—E. Leon Dunning, professor and chairman of SIUC’s department of technical education, joined SIUC in 1967. In 1970 he was named winner of the Standard Oil Good Teaching Award.—Richard F. Engesfeld, assistant professor and coordinator in the Division of Continuing Education, joined the SIUC faculty in 1966 as an adult education supervisor.—John H. Erickson, professor of vocational education, came to SIUC in 1955 as an associate professor.—George A. Flummer, acting director of computer affairs, came to SIUC as assistant director of the computer center in 1965.—Charles A. Helwig Jr., instructor in continuing education, joined the SIUC faculty in 1964. A Paducah, Ky., native, he is a 1960 graduate. He was a longtime instructor in SIUC’s degree program at Menard Correctional Center, the pilot program in the counseling center, came to SIUC in 1977.—Keith Leasure, professor of plant and soil science, joined the SIUC faculty in 1966 and was appointed chairman of the department that year. Leasure also served as vice president for academic affairs and provost of SIUC. In 1970, he returned to full-time teaching and research in the School of Agriculture and since that time has been named the school’s outstanding teacher.—Clint R. Meek, professor of guidance and educational psychology, joined the faculty as an associate professor in 1957.—Frank R. Paine, associate professor of cinema and photography, joined the SIUC faculty in 1960. An Ames, Iowa, native, Paine served as supervisor of SIUC’s film production unit, and has been president of the national University Film Producers Association.—Arden L. Pratt, dean of SIUC’s School of Technical Careers for the past decade, will join the Washington, D.C.-based Service Members Opportunity College as director. Pratt is credited with expanding the University’s assistant director of office programs to include a full-fledged baccalaureate degree curriculum and developing it as a national model.—Robert S. Resnik, professor of music, joined the SIUC faculty in 1949 as an assistant professor.—Roy Earl Tally, director of diversification, came to SIUC as an assistant purchasing agent in 1957.—George A. Toberman, director of purchasing, came to SIUC in 1957 as a purchasing agent.—Andrew T. Vaughn, associate professor of health education, joined the faculty as an assistant professor in 1958. He is former director of general studies and early in his career served as an assistant football coach.—Frank Eugene Vaughn, associate professor of secretarial and office specialization in the School of Technical Careers, joined the faculty in 1962 as an instructor. A Marion native, he has two SIUC degrees.—Richard W. Watson, professor of physics and astronomy, joined the faculty in 1956 and is the former chairman of the department. Watson is a 1982 SIUC graduate.
Dempsey optimistic about gridders’ season

After opening the 1981 season on the road for the seventh consecutive time, SIUC’s football team has yet to make its home debut in McAndrew Stadium (9-12 against a tough Wichita State team).

The game, an important Missouri Valley Conference encounter, was to be high-roller for the eleventh consecutive time, winningest coach in the school’s football history, Amos Bullocks, were scheduled to be among the registrars who are expected to include Ken Byrd, a 6-3 guard from Toledo; James Copeland, a 6-10 center from Chicago; and Dennis Goins, a 6-6 guard from Flint, Mich., is expected to join the club at the end of the fall semester.

“With only six starters (four offensive and two defensive) returning from last year’s 3-6 club, the Saluki brain trust concentrated its pre-season drills on developing more consistency on offense and dependability on defense.”

“We don’t like to talk about what the other people have that much, however,” Dempsey said. “We’re taking the positive approach and, as a matter of fact, have good reason to feel that way this season despite some personnel changes.”

With only six starters (four offensive and two defensive) returning from last year’s 3-6 club, the Saluki brain trust concentrated its pre-season drills on developing more consistency on offense and dependability on defense.

“We like our offensive possibilities even though we do need some polish in certain areas,” Dempsey said. “Our running game is good with Walter Poole, a 5-10, 180-pound senior from Hubbard, Ohio, leading the way.”

While Poole is the defensive leader for the club, he is expected to spell Poole.

At the same time, the Salukis this year expect to look far more to the passing game. Rick Johnson, a 6-2, 180-pound junior from Wichita State, Lambert, and Stafford Stephenson, who moved in from the University of Evansville, are looking forward to the upcoming season.

“We are excited about the fresh start in Saluki basketball with a completely new staff,” Van Winkle said. “We have some excellent returning players and hope we have plugged a few holes with the two or three weeks of recruiting we were able to do.”

Returning from last year’s squad are eight letterwinners, including four starters. Among the registrars who are expected to include Ken Byrd, a 6-3 guard from Toledo; James Copeland, a 6-10 center from Chicago; and Dennis Goins, a 6-6 guard from Flint, Mich., is expected to join the club at the end of the fall semester.

“No doubt we’ll be the underdog in most of our games this season, especially Missouri Valley Conference games,” Van Winkle said, “but we firmly believe we’ll surprise some people.”

Van Winkle hopes to fire up cagers

The 1981-82 basketball season will mark the start of a new era in SIUC’s history. For the first time since the program was initiated in 1913, the Salukis will be operating under a new coach—Allen Van Winkle.

Van Winkle, formerly head coach at Jackson (Mich.) Community College, was selected as the successor to Joe Stoiafied following SIUC’s 7-20 season of last year. In just three years at Jackson, Van Winkle’s teams compiled an 86-14 record and three conference championships.

And, while some problems still exist in the Saluki camp, Van Winkle and his new assistants, Herman Williams who formerly served here under the late Paul Striegel of Carbondale (place-kicker) and Paul Molla of Mascoutah (place-kicker).

The offensive line, too, is expected to play a key role in any success the Salukis are likely to have this season. Mainstays there are center Warren Haynes, a 6-5, 245-pound senior from Chicago; Greg Fernandez, a 6-3, 210-pound senior from Carlisle, Pa.; Dates Nazem, a 6-3, 230-pound senior from Orlins; and Donald Capretzer, a 6-3, 275-pound senior from Joliet.

Another strong area of the club is its kicking game spearheaded by Tom Lambert of Carbondale (punter) and Paul Molla of Mascoutah (place-kicker).

Gale Sayers opens Chicago marketing firm

Former SIUC athletic director Gale Sayers announced recently he will open a marketing communication firm in Chicago.

Sayers said the firm will specialize in market research and analysis, public relations, advertising and management consulting. The firm intends to provide marketing plans for reaching minority groups.

His partners include Nino Noriega, a former Associated Press newswoman and former manager of the Insurance Information Institute, and Robert Wolf, who heads an advertising firm in the Chicago suburb of Olympia Fields.

Sayers said the firm will be named Sayers/Wolf/Noriega Communications.

Sayers said his firm is negotiating for space in the Hancock Building in Chicago. His business address is: P.O. Box 10053, Chicago, Ill. 60693.

Sayers, who resigned as SIUC athletic director during the 1981 season after five years, was a five-time All-Pro National Football League player and the third leading rusher in Chicago Bears history.
Cager signs 3-year pact

Former SIUC basketball standout Joe C. Meriweather signed a three-year contract recently with the Kansas City Kings of the National Basketball Association. Contract terms were not announced.

Meriweather, who ranks third in all-time scoring at SIUC with 1,556 points during his three-year Saluki career, played 1,514 minutes for the Kings in 1980-81 after being traded by the New York Knicks two weeks prior to the start of this past season.

The 6-11 forward ranked fifth in Kings' scoring (7.8 points per game) and third in rebounds (5.3 per game). He only missed eight games out of the 81 game season, and was second in blocked shots, trailing center Sam Lacey, 120-30.

In the NBA playoff mini-series opener against Portland, Meriweather connected on a jumper with 97 seconds remaining to lift Kansas City to a 98-97 win. He finished with 13 points.

Alumni Recognition Game tickets free

For the first time in four years, admission to the Alumni Recognition Basketball Game, scheduled for Jan. 16, 1982, will be free.

The seventh annual Alumni gathering will feature the Salukis and Indiana State University in a 7:35 p.m. meeting in the SIUC Arena. Previously, alumni and their family members were charged $1 per ticket. However, free admission is available for all SIUC alumni and their family members who send advance ticket orders before Jan. 8. No free tickets will be available at game time. Regular ticket prices will be paid at the gate.

Tickets may be obtained by writing the SIUC Alumni Office, Student Center, Carbondale, IL, 62901, or may be picked up in person from the Alumni Office. If you have any questions, call (618) 452-3408.

All mail orders must include a self-addressed, stamped return envelope.

The game is planned each year by the SIUC Alumni Association and the men's athletics department to express appreciation to alumni and their families for their continued support of the University and its athletic programs.

For 2nd year

Dave Stieb named to All-star team

Former Saluki outfielder Dave Stieb, now a pitcher for the Toronto Blue Jays, was named to the American League All-Star team for the second consecutive season.

Because of this summer's baseball strike and the brevity of the season, Stieb, who posted a 4-7 record with a 3.31 earned run average at the time of the mid-season classic, was excited about his selection.

"It certainly was a nice surprise," said Stieb, the only Saluki ever picked to play in the All-Star event.

While he worked only one and two-thirds innings, yielding only one hit, a double to the Dodgers' Steve Garvey, Stieb was forced to bat in the bottom of the ninth inning. That was because American League Manager Jim Frey of Kansas used all of his potential pinch hitters.

Since he joined the major leagues in 1978, hitting has not been one of Stieb's forte and the American League's designated hitter rule allowed him to escape gracefully.

With his club down 5-4 in the ninth inning, Stieb wasn't able to help much. He struck out.

The San Jose, Calif., native was an All-American outfielder in 1978, his only season with the Salukis. He notched a .384 batting average with an SIUC record of 12 homers and 48 RBIs.

Realizing he possessed a strong throwing arm, Saluki Coach Itchy Gottfried resigned June 30 from SIUC after three years as head coach at the University. He was named under fire after posting a 31-49 record including 17 consecutive losses this past season.

Gottfried gets new job

Former SIUC basketball coach Joe Gottfried has been hired as an assistant athletic director at the University of South Alabama in Mobile, Ala.

The 41-year-old Crestline, Ohio, native began his new position July 1. He will be in charge of women's sports and the non-revenue producing sports.

Gottfried resigned June 30 from SIUC after three years as head coach at the University. He was named under fire after posting a 31-49 record including 17 consecutive losses this past season.

SIUC Alumni questionnaires bring over 20,000 responses

More and more SIUC alumni are responding to the Alumni Association's pleas to return their questionnaires. At the Alumni deadline over 20,000 questionnaires have been returned, according to Bradley Bowen, assistant director of development and services.

"We are overwhelmed and pleased at the response," Bowen said.

During July and August nearly 12,000 questionnaires were mailed to the Alumni Office, Bowen said. The Alumni Office hopes to receive 20,000 responses, which would represent about 40 percent of the alumni mailing list.

Over 15,000 questionnaires were mailed out during the first two weeks of June.

"We would like to encourage anyone who has not returned a questionnaire to this office to please do so now," Bowen said.

The information will be used to help other University units and the Alumni Association to characterize alumni groups so as to serve specific needs of alumni. All data collected is strictly confidential and will only be released in statistical formata.

Williamson, Saline, Union clubs award scholarships

The five 1981 winners of the Williamson County SIUC Alumni Scholarship were: William Joe Bazzetti, son of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Bazzetti of Herrin; Kelly J. Bazzetti, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James L. Bazzetti of Herrin;_mapleton, an accounting major.

The top male scholar in May was Michael John Funk Jr. of Litchfield, a design major.

The August Class of 1981 honored the academic achievements of Robert E. Conrad of Poyl, Cal., an educational administration major and Karen Williams of Johnstown City, an elementary education major.

Alumni Academic Achievement recipients named at graduation

Academic Achievement Awards are given each year by the SIUC Alumni Association at May and August commencements to the top scholastic male and female graduates of each graduating class.

Each recipient receives a certificate of their achievement from the Alumni Association. In case of tie, all persons receive the award.

Three May graduates tied for the top scholastic female honor. They were: Pauline Bernand of Decatur, a business major; Therese Paulette Pinzone of Decatur, a business major; and Thelma Patty of Herrin, a business major.

The benefits and reasonable cost merit your consideration, as well as a supplement to your present, personal or corporate insurance.

HOSPITAL ILLNESS PLAN

This program provides important "extra" income needed when you or your family are hospitalized as the result of a sickness or accident. Daily benefits from $25 to $100 are paid directly to you from the FIRST DAY of hospitalization. YOU decide how best to use the funds - to help pay the deductibles in your "regular" hospital insurance or even to cover the daily expenses like food, transportation that continue despite your confinement.

ACCIDENTAL DEATH & DISMEMBERMENT

This program pays $5,000 to $250,000 protects you and your family when the unexpected happens. The tragedy of a serious accident or accidental death is only heightened when you're financially unprepared to handle the costs.

Considering the alarming frequency of serious injury and death from accidents, this program is a valuable asset to your insurance portfolio. More information about the plan and the low group rates please write or call;

Alumni Campers

There were no dishes for Mom to wash and Dad got to do all of the fishing he's been talking about for the past year. And the kids went swimming, camping and took outdoor nature walks. The whole family had a great time at the SIUC Alumni camps. The kids pictured above enjoyed one week in July at SIUC Touch of Nature facilities at Little Grass Lake, just south of the SIUC campus. For the first time ever, another group of Saluki campers enjoyed a week at Camp Broussis on the shores of Elkhart Lake in the heart of Wisconsin resort area, 55 miles north of Milwaukee for one week in June.

Where there's a will, there's a way.

Will Power

"All the rest, residue and remainder of my real and personal property I give, devise and bequeath to Southern Illinois University Foundation, a corporation, Carbondale, Illinois." (Excerpt from will)

Just how powerful can these 26 words be?

SO POWERFUL that should you include them in your will the Southern Illinois University Foundation could create an endowed fund that could annually provided the needed dollars for programs that are essential to maintain a quality and provide academic excellence.

SO POWERFUL that these dollars could continue in perpetuity as a memorial to a wise alumni.

SO POWERFUL that a scholarship fund could be established to provide assistance to students with exceptional ability.

SO POWERFUL that you have the WILLS POWER—and you don't have to be a millionaire to have it work for you.

Inquiries about bequests and other forms of planned giving are welcome. For more information, please clip the coupon below and mail it to the Office of Development, Southern Illinois University Foundation, Carbondale, Illinois 62901.

I would appreciate additional information about including SIUC in my will. I am pleased to indicate that I have already included SIUC in my will.
Alumni: living everywhere

A 1981 alumni distribution analysis of SIUC graduates and former students has found Salukis in every county in Illinois, every state in the United States and in 95 foreign countries, according to Robert Odaniell, executive director of the Alumni Association.

Illinois tops the list with 53,445 Salukis. The second largest alumni constituency is Missouri with 3,218. The next eight states in order of SIUC population are: California (2,847), Florida (1,541), Texas (1,444), Indiana (1,329), New York (1,182), Michigan (904), Ohio (861) and Wisconsin (770).

The next 10-state ranking is: Colorado (762), Arizona (702), Virginia (642), Kentucky (579), Pennsylvania (566), New Jersey (541), Iowa (539), Minnesota (426) and Washington (413).

Largest gainers (besides Illinois) in the past year were California (364), Missouri (335), Texas (175), Florida (165), Arizona (153), Colorado (105) and New York (100).

The alumni ranks dropped in six states during the year: Connecticut (by 49), Kentucky (21), South Dakota (8), Mississippi (5), Delaware and the District of Columbia (1 each). In the 1980 analysis, only North Dakota lost SIUC alumni. This year, that state gained six Salukis to raise its total to 65.

Once again, Cook County has the largest in-state population with 11,111 followed by downstate Jackson County (home of SIUC) with 5,613.

The other top 10 Illinois counties are: Williamson (2,763), DuPage (2,518), St. Clair (1,904), Madison (1,610), Franklin (1,570), Sangamon (1,438), Lake (1,160), and Jefferson (1,032).

Interestingly, the largest shifts of Saluki population were on the international scene. The international roster of 95 different countries increased from 1,056 Salukis overseas to 1,370.

Canada once again boasts the most Salukis with 243 (an increase of 96) followed by Hong Kong (91), Thailand (85), Iran and Taiwan (both 66), Japan (59), France (54), England (49), Germany (46), Italy (45), Australia (39), France (32), Venezuela and Vietnam (29 each), and Nepal (26 each), Philippines (25), Lebanon and Mexico (25) and Korea (21).

Foreign countries with at least 10 graduates include Brazil and Saudi Arabia (16 each), France and Israel (14 each), New Zealand (13), Argentina and Kenya (12 each), Costa Rica, Germany and Switzerland (11 each) and Egypt, Ethiopia, Jamaica and Paraguay (10 each).

The SIUC Alumni Association has more than 100,212 alumni in its files. Of this total, the Association has current addresses for 80,299; lists 3,947 as deceased and counts 15,966 for whom the Alumni Office has no current addresses.

From Taiwan to Taylorville...
From Belgium to Belleville...
Salukis live all over...

Alumni total: 80,299 (includes 1981 graduates and 1,370 foreign alumni from 95 nations).

First Rh.D. hooded

Being first at something has its drawbacks—being a pioneer isn’t easy. But for Michael Nelipovich, being first paid off in August with a special kind of reward.

Nelipovich was graduated Aug. 8 from SIUC with the first Rh.D. degree (doctor of rehabilitation) ever awarded in the United States. As he stepped on to the platform in the SIU Arena to accept his diploma and be ceremonially “hooded” the air of the solemn pomp and circumstance gave way to an outburst of cheers and applause from the 3,000 or so persons in the audience at SIUC’s summer commencement exercises.

“I didn’t know what to do,” Nelipovich said. “I just stood there in awe.” Because, unlike most of the people receiving degrees that Saturday, the 36-year-old father of three is legally blind.

When Nelipovich left his job as an instructor for the blind at the University of Arkansas in Little Rock two years ago to work on the doctor of rehabilitation degree at SIUC, he knew it wasn’t going to be easy, and it wasn’t.

“It took me twice as long to read assignments, edit my papers and take exams,” he said. There were other sacrifices: things like moving from a spacious four-bedroom home in Little Rock to a cramped apartment in Carbondale, eating hamburger instead of better cuts of meat for dinner and drinking Kool-Aid instead of soft drinks.

Nelipovich and his wife, Helen, estimate that his two years of graduate work at SIUC cost them $30,000 in lost pay. He’s since returned to the University of Arkansas as an assistant professor of rehabilitation.

“arely hit home then,” he said. “It’s a great honor to be first in the country to receive this degree.”

Nelipovich earned his degree through SIUC’s Rehabilitation Institute. Established in 1957, the institute already offers master’s degrees in counseling, rehabilitation administration and behavior modification. The Rh.D. program is designed to prepare graduates to go into one of four areas: research, education, administration, or upper-level service in non-profit organizations.

The Rh.D. program was approved by the Illinois Board of Higher Education in 1978. Applicants for the program must have two years of professional experience to qualify for admission.

Nelipovich’s research focused on organizations that accredit service agencies for the blind. His dissertation examined major recommendations made by the National Accreditation Council from 1975 to 1980.

Nelipovich said the lack of research in that field has inspired him to continue his work.

“I’ve only scratched the surface,” he said. “My education has just begun.”
