Return of the Alumni

Perfect football weather. An undefeated Saluki team. Good times, good friends.

Homecoming 1983 on Nov. 5—with the theme "Return of the Alumni"—played witness to records set in football and in attendance at McAndrew Stadium.

The alumni returned, and so did their spirit and enthusiasm for SIUC. We recap that weekend for you in this issue, with articles on:

- John E. King named the 1983 Alumni Great Teacher, page 6,
- the new Alumni Association officers and board, above and page 5,
- Homecoming photos, pages 6-7,
- the football Salukis, still undefeated at press time (10-0) and rated number one in the 1-AA division, page 12.

ALSO INSIDE: $2.9 million in gifts to SIU Foundation (page 2); the Alumni Emeritus College, and how you can help (page 5); and a preview of the Saluki basketball season (page 12).
Increasing interest in quality education at SIUC is resulting in increased financial support by alumni and other friends.

Gifts totaling $2,916,372 were received by the SIU Foundation in the past fiscal year, compared to $1,967,965 the previous year. This amount is in addition to gifts made directly to the university and to individual departments or schools.

Equally as significant is the impressive 34 percent jump in the number of individual gifts—from 13,404 in fiscal 82 to 18,011 in fiscal 83.

Steve McNally, president of the SIU Foundation, is particularly pleased with this 34 percent increase. "The most important part of the total development program of the university is the involvement of our alumni," McNally said in announcing the totals. Over 12 percent of the alumni body gave a gift to the Foundation last year, ahead of the year before and just slightly under national average. McNally's goal is to raise this figure to 25 percent.

The amount of the gift is less important than the number of people who give to the university, McNally emphasized. A supportive alumni body makes it easier for the Foundation to attract corporate gifts. "When we present proposals to corporations," McNally said, "they will always ask us, "How many of your alumni give to the university?" If the percentage of alumni giving is high, the implication is that the university is doing a good job. Gifts to the Foundation are distributed to SIUC by the partnership with the alumni themselves, who are responding generously and in increasing numbers to the goal of superior education at SIUC.

Of 50 Best Towns

Carbondale: One Of 50 Best Towns

Hugh Bayless came to Carbondale, saw it—and has now praised it in his new book, The Best Towns in America (Houghton-Mifflin, 1983).

Bayless, a writer living in California, has chosen Carbondale as one of the 50 best places to find a better life in the U.S. "Carbondale is an important trade and educational center, the home of Southern Illinois University," Bayless wrote in his chapter on the town. SIUC "provides a wide variety of continuing education courses for adults in the area" and is "a multipurpose institution."

In making his final selections, Bayless visited numerous cities and towns across the country. He paid particular attention to clean air, convenience, lack of congestion, safety, a relatively inexpensive lifestyle, and solid educational and cultural opportunities.

Most of the 50 towns chosen by Bayless are located in the midwest, southwestern and southeastern states. Bayless automatically excluded towns with over 100,000 population. When the number of people reaches and exceeds that figure, Bayless believes, the levels of crime, smog and congestion begin to affect the quality of life in those areas.

Jackson County, where Carbondale is located, has a population of 57,400. Carbondale was chosen as an All America City in 1972.

Morris Library Goes "On Line"

This fall, Southern Illinois University at Carbondale students, faculty and staff are finding that Morris Library has vastly expanded its ability to provide books and other materials they need. SIUC has become fully operational in the Library Computer System (LCS), one of the largest such projects in the nation to date, according to library officials.

The computer system was made possible by a two-year, $700,000 Library Resources Sharing Grant through the Higher Education Cooperative Act.

Foreign Graduates Will Benefit From Proposed Re-entry Program

Foreign graduates who have spent from two to six years at SIUC sometimes face adjustment problems when they return home. Under a plan proposed by SIUC President Albert Somit, however, foreign graduates will find it easier to return to their native countries. In turn, they'll be able to help the next group of students who are coming to SIUC.

The proposed re-entry program is now under study by Charles B. Klasek, director of International Education at SIUC. Somit and Klasek spent one month touring the Far East this fall. The major purpose of the trip was to cement educational ties with the People's Republic of China, Nepal, Malaysia and Hong Kong. (See "Highlights of Far East Trip," below.)

The program will avoid "the tremendous cultural shock" that can occur in both coming to the United States and returning home, Somit said.

In China, for example, Somit and Klasek met Sun Jian-Qiu, who had earned a master's degree in English at SIUC in 1982. "She told us that her teachers here had driven her much harder than her Chinese instructors had," Klasek said. "When she returned to China, she was quite upset here at first. But when she returned home, and her superiors looked over her credentials, she was told she would start immediately teaching graduate students."

"My education at SIUC was outstanding," Klasek said. "I'll tell that to any body," Somit added.

The debriefing program will help the graduates explain what they learned in the context of their own native countries. The graduates' governments, which helped send them to the United States, should know that they are returning, what experiences they had, and which institutions were particularly helpful and which weren't," Somit said.

The proposed program will be based in the native countries. "Many had left right out of high school and now didn't even know how to look for a job in their own country," Somit said. "They often found there was no program to evaluate how effective their U.S. education had been or to suggest how the next group of students going to the United States could profit from their experiences."

Donations to STC

Total $215,000

The School of Technical Careers (STC) at SIUC has recently received donations valued at $215,000. Two large donations worth $200,000 were given by Coli Industries' Elux Division, Davidson, N.C. Computer equipment worth $5,000 was donated by Texas Instruments, Inc., Houston and Dallas.

PARENTS OF THE DAY—Eugene V. and Donna M. Biggs of Murphysboro, Ill., pose with their daughter, Gay, a junior in SIUC's College of Education. The couple, both 1971 SIUC graduates, were honored as the University's "Parents of the Day" on October 8, 1983, as a result of an essay composition competition won by their daughter. Biggs is a flight instructor in the School of Technical Career's Aviation Technology program, while his wife is an assistant to the business manager at the SIUC Student Center.

Memorial Service For McFarlin

More than 200 persons attended a memorial service for Harold McFarlin on Oct. 12 in the SIUC Student Center Auditorium. McFarlin, former associate professor of history at SIUC, died Aug. 4 of a heart attack after two years of treatment for congestive heart failure. A Southern Illinois area-wide fund raising drive netted some $600. McGowan, a former SIUC men's tennis coach, and his assistant, Edward Hubert Massey. The two men were sentenced on Sept. 27 to three years' imprisonment for conspiracy to defraud, mail fraud and interstate transportation of fraudulently obtained money. The charges were related to schemes which allegedly defrauded SIUC of more than $1 million in connection with the purchase of computer equipment between 1976 and 1981.

Air Illinois Crash Kills Lorenz, Baker

Two SIUC faculty members and two SIUC alumni were among the 10 persons killed Oct. 11 in the crash of Air Illinois Flight 710 near Pekin, Ill.

"We are very pleased that a company like Texas Instruments recognizes the benefits of a working relationship between industry and education and is willing to help support our program," said William G. Shupe, acting director of STC's electronics technologies program. The microcomputers will boost SIUC's program because they can be used in computer-aided design work for complex electronic circuits, Shupe added.

Long-term Planning Sets Priorities for Academics

A two-year study of academic programs at SIUC has resulted in a set of broad policy changes in academics at SIUC. The study was authorized by the Academic Committee on Academic Priorities, is seen as a positive step in more closely matching student needs with faculty resources and availability of academic programs. The committee reached its decisions after studying a number of such issues during and prior to making the changes. The committee's work culminated in the establishment of a series of academic programs over the next several years.

Carman is the director of the annual giving for the SIU Foundation, "I just talked to some sweet people!"

Twenty student volunteers were on the phone that evening, Nov. 1, 1983, as part of the seven-week annual on-campus Telefund. The major goal was to raise $50,000 in private gifts.

But there was another purpose, and it is significant - to find "sweet people" with students in the alumni's former degree programs.

"Hola, alums," said STU's avionics program, talked that evening to an avionics graduate who gave her good pointers looking for a job. "He also asked me to say hello to one of his old teachers, who is my teacher, too," Reyes said.

The call, on campus in aviation technology, had reached "a lot of folks from the late '60s and early '70s who asked me questions about the school."

And Marsha Rodwell, a junior in aviation technology, wanted to find out, "What's changed on campus?"

For all three students, the Telefund was "the cause "a good cause." For the 30,000 alumni who were expected to be called during the Oct. 3-Nov. 20 period, the Telefund brought a good reminder of the University.

The end of October, some 23 percent of alumni called had made a pledge, at an average of $20 each. Anne Carman, who had organized the Telefund, said that donations would also come from some of the persons who hadn't been home on the weekends they were called. Those alumni will receive pledge slips with personal greetings from the students who had attempted to reach them.

For students and alumni, the Telefund brings together two groups of people pulling for the same goal: the betterment of the University.

Greg Voschen, a junior in aviation technology, got ready to make another call as other STC volunteers take part in the annual Telefund.
W. Ray Mofield Selected Alumni Association President

W. Ray Mofield plans to best the bushes a lot this coming year at the helm of the SIUC Alumni Association.

Elected president of the organization at Homecoming, the 58-year-old Mofield will focus on three areas during his reign: membership, scholarship and dues.

His first goal is to raise the Alumni Association's membership, and he says the best way to do this is to encourage alumni to help others to do the same.

"We want to get everyone involved in making the Association a better organization," he said. "If we get more members, we'll get more input, he said.

Mofield hopes the Association will use direct mail membership campaigns to entice persons who may have not been approached previously to join.

Mofield also plans to expand the alumni scholarship programs. "I want to solicit alumni funds with the hopes of developing a series of scholarships to attract the highly academically motivated students to SIUC," he said.

Finally, Mofield wants to discuss the possibility of increasing alumni dues to form a larger financial base for better Association programming.

"The current cost of $10 for an individual annual membership is too much of a bargain," Mofield said. "All the major universities charge much more and are able to offer diverse alumni activities because of it."

Ultimately, Mofield wants to publish the names of association members in a directory that lists current addresses and occupations.

"If we promote and publicize the SIUC alumni who are making contributions and joining the Alumni Association, it will encourage others to do the same," Mofield said.

Mofield gained experience in alumni activities in the early 1980s when he served two terms as president of his undergraduate alma mater's alumni association at Murray State University. He received a distinguished alumni award last year from the organization.

The second child of the late K.E. and Zela Irvin Mofield of Hardin, Ky., Mofield graduated with distinction from MSU in 1943. After spending 16 months in the U.S. Navy, he was hired to teach speech and Spanish at the Vienna (Ill.) High School.

He was encouraged to pursue a communications career after he won a radio contest. A short stint at the Northwestern University Graduate School in 1945 led the way to a 15-year job at WPAD, an AM-FM radio station in Paducah, Ky., where he ultimately became station manager.

He received his master's degree in economics from Columbia University in 1968. Mofield then served five years as director of academic affairs for the SIUC Radio and Television Department until he received a Ph.D. in communications in 1964.

Returning to MSU that same year as an executive assistant to the president, Mofield held that position until he was named chairman of the university's Department of Communications in 1968. He retired from administrative duties in 1975 and has been teaching in the department since then.

He is married to the former Janie Clutts and Harold A. Kuehn, of Du Quoin; and W. Ray Mofield, Ph.D. '64, of Hardin, Ky.

New Alumni Board Members Installed at Homecoming

Three incumbents and three newcomers were elected at Homecoming to serve terms on the Alumni Association's board of directors.

Incumbents elected to serve their second four-year terms are: Tony A. Clutts, '70, of Cobden; Harold A. Kuehn, '51, of Du Quoin; and W. Ray Mofield, Ph.D. '64, of Hardin, Ky.

Newcomers are: James T. Gildersleeve, '72, of Hudson; Robert L. Moess, M.S. '69, Ph.D. '79, of Carthage; and Richard N. Small, '59, M.S. '65, of Springfield.

Gildersleeve will serve the one-year unexpired term vacated by Jack W. Murphy, '54, MSED '57, Ph.D. '71, of Herrin, who died Dec. 17, 1982, of an apparent heart attack. Moess and Small will serve four-year terms.

Clutts, the state's attorney in Union County, Ill., was first elected to the board in 1979. Currently the president of the Union County Chamber of Commerce, he also has served as secretary and vice president. He and his wife, Susan, '72, MSED '74, have five children.

Kuehn was first elected to the Alumni board of directors in 1976 and served as vice president in 1981. Kuehn is the past president of the American Soybean Association and founder and director of the Land of Lincoln Soybean Association. He was named the SIUC School of Agriculture Alumnus of the Year in 1972. He is a farmer and lives with his wife, Nora, in Du Quoin, Ill.

Mofield, the new president of the Association, is a professor of radio and television at Murray State University in Murray, Ky. (See the related article about Mofield's plans for his presidential year.)

Gildersleeve is manager of Gildersleeve Enterprises and vice president of Gildersleeve fertilizer Co. in Hudson, Ill. President of the Bloomington Area Alumni Club since 1981, he served as secretary-treasurer from 1975-81. He is the Republican precinct committeeperson in Monee Creque Township, McLean County, Ill., and a member of the executive committee of the McLean County Republican Party.

Moess is Superintendent of the Carthage, Ill., Community Unit School District No. 5. He has been active in alumni programs in many areas. A former member of the Jackson County Alumni Club, Moess served both as president (1977-79) and vice president (1976-77). He taught mathematics at Carbondale's Lincoln Junior High School for six years before he was named principal of Lisleand School in Carbondale. He is married to the former Karla Garnati, '70, M.A. '71, and they have a son, Robert.

Small is the marketing director for SRBFG, Inc. Architects with offices in Carbondale, Champaign and Springfield, Ill. He was assistant state superintendent for the Illinois Office of Education (1971-76) and has been a principal of several Illinois schools. He was the Democratic candidate for the 13th District Congressional seat in 1974 and has been the president of the Springfield Area SIUC Alumni Club since 1982. He and his wife, Jeanette, have six children.

Teacher of Teachers:

John E. King

1983 “Great Teacher”

He had headed two institutions of higher learning and had been president of a nationwide education association before coming to the Carbondale campus in 1967.

King said he is impressed by three factors he feels are unique to SIUC:

1. The quality of non-traditional students (military personnel and re-entry working students) is unequal to any institution King has been associated with during his 50 years in education.

2. At SIUC it is possible to find teaching, research and service projects being given equal importance. At other major universities, King feels, the institution will usually focus on only one of them, not on all three at once.

3. Finally, the University serves the distinctively identifiable region of Southern Illinois. Many other institutions don't serve the areas where they are located as well as SIUC does, King said.

"SIUC is a great institution and has the opportunity to do great things. I am happy to have had the experience of being affiliated with the University," King said.

He has received Distinguished Alumni Citations from North Texas State University (1967), his undergraduate alma mater, and from the University of Arkansas (1983), where he had obtained his master's degree. He received his Ph.D. in rural education from Cornell University in 1941.

In the near future, King plans to do consulting and development work in South Carolina, as well as spend some time traveling before he returns to Carbondale, where he continues to make his home.

King is married to the former Glennie Beanland of Prosper, Texas. They have two daughters—Ann Reynolds of Los Angeles, Calif., who is chancellor of the California State University System, and Rebecca Wright of Olympia, Wash., a lawyer and affirmative action officer for Evergreen State College.

Salakis Seek Play-off Invitation

It's the snowball effect all over again. Not since 1967 has any Saluki sports team gained as much notoriety as the 1983 football team, undefeated in 10 outings and the nation's number one 1-AA team.

The Salukis success has touched off inquiries from major newspapers and radio and television stations in Chicago, St. Louis, Atlanta, and the Midwest. Letters have also come from alumni, professional football scouts and other football coaches, everywhere.

"There definitely is a lot of excitement. That's something we haven't seen since 1967 when the Saluki basketball team won the National Invitational Tournament in New York," said Fred Huff, assistant athletic director and acting sports information director.

No Saluki football team since the 1913 onset of the sport has won 10 games in a row. The 1930 team, which compiled a 9-0 slate, was the only other undefeated unit to this season.

Nationally, the SIUC footballers have never been regarded as a threat until this year, when the Dogs slowly rose to the 1-AA rankings to the premier spot on Oct. 25. During the first week of November, a Sports Illustrated magazine poll tabbed the Salukis as number 20 for all football teams in the nation. The number one team, Nebraska (10-0), is the only other undefeated unit in the nation.

In his eighth year as head coach, Roy Dempsey, who achieved his 50th SIUC victory Oct. 20, in a 43-13 Saluki triumph over New Mexico State, could only clinch his only undefeated season in 10 years of college coaching.

A master of resurrection dying football teams, the 47-year-old Dempsey has posted a 51-36 win-loss record at SIUC, more wins than any other coach in the nation's history.

Jim Dwyer Plays in 1983 World Series

A milestone in Saluki sports was sur-

New Saluki Records

The biggest Saluki casualty this season has been the record book. The Dogs antics have provided the following:

- Most interceptions in one game (eight against New Mexico State): Ties 1- AA record, sets Missouri Valley Conference record.
- Most touchdowns scored on punt returns in a season (four): Ties 1-AA record.
- Most extra points in a row (47): Dick Miller, SIUC. New 1-AA record, new MVC record.
- Most touchdowns on interception returns (4): Ties 1-AA record.

In addition, every time Buck Johnson, senior quarterback from Carbondale, Ill., passed the ball, he adds to the time passing and five total offense records broken last season. This season, he set a record in career attempts with 812, breaking Jim Hart's 671 record set during 1963-65.

fTW fL"s 11983 World Series

Philadelphia Phillies team, but he didn't play in the Series.

Dwyer, a 33-year-old left-hander from Tinley Park, was a part of the Orioles' plantation outfield. He hit .286 with eight homers and 38 RBIs during the regular season.

He was one-for-four (a double) in the American League Championship Series against the Chicago White Sox.

In the Series, Dwyer, a 1973 SIUC accounting graduate, became only the 18th player in baseball history to hit a homer in his first at bat. He finished with three hits in eight trips for a .375 average.

Confrontation Nov. 5 before 16,000 (the largest crowd ever in McAndrew Stadium). A called-back touchown, a missed two-point conversion, and a series of interceptions and recovered fumbles enabled the Salukis to squeeze by 28-26 in their last home game.

Emotion filled Saluki fans tore down the goal posts for the second straight week, an exuberant reaction to the first since Oklahoma A & M (now Oklahoma State) finished 9-0 in 1945.

The NCAA will award the team a 1-AA playoff pairing Nov. 20. Twelve teams, as voted on by a four-member NCAA committee, will be invited to play with the top four teams getting byes in the first round to be played Nov. 26.

Should SIUC remain undefeated, it would be guaranteed a first round bye and would play in the quarterfinals Nov. 29. The semifinals will be Dec. 10 at campus sites, while the championship Dec. 17 will be played at Johnson Hagood Stadium in Charleston, S.C. The semifinals will be televised regionally by CBS; the finals will be shown nationally by ABC.

The tickets will be $7 each, while University students will pay $2. For more information, phone (618) 455-5119.
