Faculty group raps Board’s veto decision

By Dale McConnachie

Chancellor Robert G. Layer may assume the office of president on Sept. 1 but controversy continues as to the question of whether veto rights will be granted to the Board of Trustees under the campus governance system.

The Carbondale Federation of University Teachers (CFUT) last week issued a statement criticizing the Board of Trustees for granting the chancellor veto rights. The statement, as given by CFUT President Jonathan Seldin, reads:

"At the CFUT meeting last week, there was some discussion pointing out that, for some time, the faculty on the Carbondale campus is not on equal par with the administration in University governance. Instead, the faculty’s role, as the recent announcement by the Board of Trustees (developed in secret session) indicates, can only be advisory under the present statutes and policies of the Board.

"We of the Carbondale Federation of University Teachers encourage our colleagues to join us in creating an organization which, because of its strength and position outside the statute, will have an effective voice in University governance.

"The operationally autonomous governance structure under which a presidential cabinet exists has been in effect at Northern Illinois University the past year. Said John B. Gardner, assistant to NIU President Richard Nelson, Monday:

"Gardner said NIU’s governance structure operates quite successfully and he was critical of students and faculty members “inherent suspicion of them, referring to University presidents” and administrators.

"The governance structures are substantially the same as at all state universities,” Gardner said. “The president’s authority may differ depending upon the University but in any case, the president is responsible to a Board regardless.

"While Gardner said he felt Layer would have “more influence” than former Chancellor Robert LaCours, he felt that Layer would “not have as much political clout” as former NIU President Delbert Morris, who ran for both the Carbondale and Edwardsville campuses.

"The response by various Board of Trustees members has differed to some degree.

CFUT claims administrators misuse funds

The Carbondale Federation of University Teachers (CFUT) specifically stated that it would review SIU employment policies by members of the computer science department. The statement was issued by CFUT President Jonathan Seldin.

"The Carbondale Federation of University Teachers expresses dismay and indignation at the excessive fringe benefits offered to the already overpaid chief of staff of the Board of Trustees.

"The tax-free house offered to a man already making a reported $38,000 per year indicates once again that the University is better off for the benefit of a few overpaid administrators while the needs of students and faculty are being severely cut back.

"At a time when the SIU library book fund is being cut over $100,000 and more than 100 teachers are being fired, when faculty salaries are being effectively cut back and when higher tuition costs are forcing poor students out of school, SIU continues to spend in support of highly paid individuals who do no teaching.

"We are also dismayed that a position described by Mr. Elliott of the Board of Trustees as a "nearer who fills the vacancy of the two SIU campuses and "nearer president” than any other administrative post was filled by an arbitrary Board action with no consultation with students, staff and faculty.

HEW to review SIU employment policies

A review of overall employment conditions and procedures relating to possible sex discrimination by a compliance agency is expected to be initiated by a complaint received from the Chicago Civil Rights Commission in the area of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW).

It has been estimated that about 170 female faculty members have filed sex discrimination complaints with HEW.

Scott could not specify the number or nature of complaints from SIU but said the office has been getting so many complaints that it has established a priority system based on the date complaints are filed to handle them.

Mrs. Carmen Amoros case is one being investigated first because of its importance and because it was filed earliest, Scott said.

Scott said three or four members of the Civil Rights Office staff will visit SIU. He said he will have to initially coordinate the group’s work.

The Carbondale Federation of University Teachers (CFUT) has begun a review of the employment policies at Southern Illinois University. The review is being conducted by HEW.

The Carbondale Federation of University Teachers expresses concern that the Illinois General Assembly has failed to enact a policy to prohibit discrimination in employment. The federation believes that the University is better off for the benefit of the University.

Conference will be held to speak with Chancellor Robert G. Layer, the University legal counsel, and persons in charge of academic and personnel.

Scott said.

The team will present the findings of its investigation to the University and if it finds evidence of sex discrimination, it will direct the University to make restitution to persons discriminated against and to change policies which may be discriminatory.

Scott said the investigation of the University would take about two weeks and will include all areas of employment policies.

He said all persons alleging discrimination against will be heard regardless of whether they have filed formal complaints.

The sex discrimination complaint initiated the review, Scott said, "but once it’s initiated, we’ll take up all related matters.

If the team does find evidence of sex discrimination, the University, as decreed by the findings of formal hearing procedures for the University, would be instituted, but Scott said he did not foresee any problems if a finding were made against the University.

"For instance, if we did find that Mrs. Amoros was discriminated against, we would have compiled an adequate substantiation of a case as to have no cause for further discussion unless she were to file a suit in fact," said Scott. "If this were not the case, we wouldn’t find for her."
Lockheed loan bill passes by one vote

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a dramatic 49 to 48 vote, the Senate today approved $1.2 billion in federal loan guarantees for Lockheed Aircraft Corp., assuring the company of the cash it says it needs to avoid bankruptcy.

The bill was passed in the House last Friday, 119 to 109, and now goes to President Nixon, who has said he favors it.

Nixon hailed the Senate vote as “in the best interests of the American people.”

He said in a statement: “This action will save tens of thousands of jobs that would otherwise have been eliminated. It will have a major impact on the economy of California, and will contribute greatly to the economic strength of the country as a whole. It will help to ensure that the nation’s largest defense contractor and its largest airplane manufacturer will continue serving the nation’s needs. It will also help ensure that this country will continue to play a leading role in the development of aerospace technology.

Nixon emphasized that the measure “provides no federal guarantees for Lockheed, merely provides a government guarantee for a loan which will be made only through private means.”

Daniel J. Haughton, chairman of the board of Lockheed said the company

“...will continue to serve the needs of this nation and the members of Congress of Lockheed’s dedication to repaying the guaranteed loans without loss to the government,” Haughton said.

In the Senate voting, the bill was 49 to 48 after 30 minutes of calling names, Sen. Markle Cook, R-Ind., stood by his desk in the hushed chamber waiting to be recognized. Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., whispered to the clerk. “Mr. Cook,” called the clerk.

“Are,” said the senator.

The suspense-packed vote marked the finale of more than two months of controversy and debate in which the administration warned of peril to the economy if Lockheed was allowed to go under. Opponents led by Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., said bailing out the firm would be a blow against free enterprise.

“...it’s very important that we now watch Lockheed like a hawk...” said Proxmire, who had accused Lockheed of mismanagement in defense contracts.

“...There will be a big temptation on the part of the administration to keep them afloat by giving them sweetheart contracts,”

Lockheed says it needs the federal backing for private banks to meet deliveries of its L1011 TriStar airbus, a 450-passenger commercial jet. Deliveries were delayed when Edwards Royce Ltd., maker of the TriStar, collapsed earlier this year.

Coordinator makes ready trauma center operation

By Donna Kay Koranda
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Robert Motti, coordinator for the Carbondale-based region five trauma center, began the task of preparing the center for operation last week.

A trauma center is basically an emergency operation with faster communications and better trained personnel than hospitals can normally provide, according to Motti.

"A trauma patient," Motti said, "is one who is in need of physical force. This would include gunshot wounds, stab wounds, burns, fractures, injuries, or stab wounds."

Motti brings in this job 20 years of service experience including one year as an administrator at Hahn Children’s Hospital in Vietnam.

"The way it was before," Motti explained, "a patient could be taken to a smaller hospital that did not have adequate facilities or staff. This system (trauma centers) would bypass the smaller hospitals."

Motti explained that information will be compiled on any trauma patient admitted to the hospital. This information will be forwarded to a computer bank in Chicago. Thereafter, any doctor faced with a similar situation will be able to quickly obtain suggestions on bandaging and an outline of what has been done.

A radio communications system is planned to call for help from the scene of the accident. The hospital will be equipped with a patch system so the man at the accident can get hold of a specific doctor even at home through one call.

And for development in six months to a year will be a bariatric, Motti said. "This will not mean that all medical personnel will be stationed at the hospital. However, the trauma center will be able to use police, National Guard and private helicopters in emergency cases, he said.

Region five, which Motti will coordinate, is comprised of 10 counties. These range from the northern tip of Illinois to slightly north of Effingham. Motti said the other eight regions are in approximately the same stage of development.

Nationwide railroad strike ends

WASHINGTON (AP) — About 100,000 teamsters won pay hikes of nearly $1.55 an hour over 42 months in a nationwide contract settlement Monday, and called off their crippling strike against 19 railroads.

Railroad officials said they would be rolling quickly to start moving tons of stranded food, grain, coal, steel, auto and other shipments in large areas of the South, Midwest and West affected by the strike.

The settlement between the A.T. & T. United Transportation Union and the nation's rail industry brought expressions of pleasure and relief from the White House, where Secretary of Labor J.D. Hodgson said the agreement included provisions allowing the railroads to change work rules for greater flexibility in handling some of the costs of the $2.1 billion in wage hikes over 42 months.

RFU criticizes Board on veto issue

"We want to hear all sides," said Edward C. Beery, trustee from Chicago. "If a representative from the University wants to make a statement in the Board at August meeting, he can. Beery, as well as Trustees 10, 11, 12, 13 and 14, have a vested interest in the University."

Women must forget traditional roles

Service-oriented occupations because he does not even consider the possibility of their entering the professions.

Women must now begin to reject the traditional stereotyped education mapped out for them by society. Their education and training is programmed and planned for them the moment the doctor says, "Mr. Jones, it's a baby girl."

That baby girl will be wrapped in a pink blanket and the unequal segregation of the sexes will have begun.

Small wonder that the young girl sitting across from her counselor will be unable to refuse educational, economic and social slavery. Small wonder, because she has been psychologically enslaved and programmed as such since the moment of her birth.

Women, if they are to attain total equality, must become revolutionaries. They must refuse to accept the Greek philosophers thought, "It is thy place woman, to hold thy place and keep within doors."

"Let women learn in silence," must also be rejected.

But more than merely rejected, women must replace those thoughts and concepts that they symbolize with positive values based on female experience.

Women must come to realize that the superficial symbolizations that surround them are only negative when they perceive and accept them as negative. Old negative thoughts about femininity must be replaced with positive thoughts and actions.

The softness, warmth and gentleness that are used to stereotype women are positive human values. The strength of Christ, Martin Luther King and Gandhi was a strength born not out of violence but of gentle, understanding and genuine human compassion.

Women must move outside the walls of their stereotypes but must retain the values on which they were built.

This is not to say, however, that women are inherently those things that the stereotypes say they are. Because of the long enforced roles that women have had to play, they should know by now that these values are good ones to hold on to. To become a liberated woman, there must be two things. First, one must be a woman. Second, one must reject not only the stereotypes others hold but also the stereotypes that women hold of themselves and others.

Spiro Agnew’s secret mission

By Arthur Hoge
Chronicle Features

Now that Vice President Agnew has 141 aides, five jet transpots and two British Cadillacs, has come to the end of their month-long, round-the-world, press-free, purpose behind it all can at last be revealed.

On the surface, the trip seemed designed merely to get Mr. Agnew together with the leaders he must address in foreign lands in hopes he would reap some benefits from their private chains.

For example, in Morocco, the Vice President conferred for 18 hours with American golf star, Bubba Parz. And the next day in Spain, he had a similiar marathon session with the top British professionals, Tony Jacklin. Among the benefits that accrued, according to observers, is that Mr. Agnew has now stowed his backpackings.

The ground Mr. Agnew broke was in the sand trap on the fourth hole in Chung Hee Park, Korea. The Vice President contended in a trap door which led to a CIA underground helicoper paid once aboard the co-pilot Mr. Agnew started a tape recorder and a familiar voice said:

"Good morning, Spiro. I want to make one thing perfectly clear: the dictator of a large Asian country may be ready to talk turkey. Your mission, should you decide to accept it, Spire, is to fly to the capital of China and wangle me an invitation to come visit."

As usual, should you, blow it, I will be forced to disavow any knowledge of you and your mission. This tape will erase itself in five seconds so that it may be deleted from our files."

It was an unprecedented Vice President who turned to the pilot and gave the historic order: "Take me, Mr. Agnew, to Taipei."

Thus General Hershey, Chinese Kasheek was somewhat surprised when Mr. Agnew dropped in. But he was immensely pleased when the purpose was explained to him.

"I've been worried," he said, "that after a quarter of century of supporting me on Taiwan, you Americans would come to reconquer the Mainland. The visit of your President will prove this isn't so. And please tell him to bring Mrs. Coolidge with him."

It was a week later that Mr. Nixon sent Henry Kissinger to Peking and Mr. Agnew to Ethiopia, the Congo and other equally important major powers.

But Mr. Agnew's visit to Taipei did much to reassure Chiang of continuing U.S. support. For as Mr. Agnew told him on parting, "Don't worry, Generalissimo. As the President has told me many things, he would no more dump you than he did me."

If this reassurance that Chiang is counting on in this hour of crisis. As for English-speaking, American-educated, Washington-knowledgeable Madame Chiang, she's packing.

The House will, of course, be forced to deny this story. Some Americans will continue to believe Mr. Agnew never visited either China or Taiwan.

We, if they want to think we spent all that money and went to all that trouble just to improve his background, that's their headache.

VTI water resources study to be moved to Edwardsville

By University News Services

A water resources technology program at the University of Illinois' College of Engineering's Institute will be moved to Edwardsville, according to VTI Dean Annette Pratt.

"This is in line with our policy of developing new curricula to meet specific public needs," she said. VTI has pioneered several such courses of study, including the state's first accredited dental laboratory technology curriculum and programs in sanitary science and highway and civil technology, which were unavailable at any other school.

The two-year program at VTI was developed in consultation with government and industry to deal with public and industrial water and pollution control methods. Opened two years ago, it was designed primarily to train technicians for water and sewage treatment plants.

Dean Lawrence R. McKee of the Edwardsville Science and Technology Division said the curriculum would become "an integral part, which we hope will strengthen our new bachelor of science program in sanitation technology, approved by the Board of Higher Education this summer to start with the opening of fall term. The Edwardsville program will include an intensive control along with waste treatment and water resources."

Graduates of the program will have a broad area of competence because of its greater depth. "In smaller communities, they should be capable of handling some of the functions of the city engineer," McKee said.

Each group will include a selection from Randall Thompson's "Footsteps," Kathleen Warner of Cairo will be accompanied by the first portion of the program.

The two groups will join voices in a Pergolari's "The Magnificat" accompanied by a six-piece orchestra. Pergolari has written extra parts for— and flute—for the instrumental accompaniment.

Sedans for "The Magnificat" will be Deanna DeCaro of Carlyle, soprano; Joyce Harlow of Carterville, contralto; Keith Lowe of Rising Sun, Md., tenor; and F. Joseph Krupa of South Holland, bass.

Orchestra members are John Hubbell of Overland, Mo.; violin; Gail Little, faculty wife, second violin; Joanne Hinkle of Carbondale, flute; George Hassey, music faculty, oboe; and Kathleen Warner of Cairo, harpsichord.

Much of the equipment for the VTI program was lost in a fire which destroyed a wing of the school's main building in January, but this did not affect the decision to transfer the program, according to Dean Pratt.

Assistant Professor Dan Cato, who headed the program at VTI, will join the Edwardsville faculty, Pratt said.

Sports firm renovates grid gear

By Robert Matthews

Inside the plain white building at the corner of Illinois and Willard streets, some colorful football jerseys, helmets and track shoes sit stacked, forgotten on countertops and spilling over the sawhorses. This is the Century Sports factory where football uniforms are cleaned, repaired and assembled.

Bob Reynolds, the owner who founded the company, explained that this is the busiest time of the year. Some 10,000 uniforms are cleaned and refurbished by the Carbon Celone in one season, approximately 56 percent of which are football uniforms. He said that since high school football teams will begin practicing in about one month, Reynolds' four- to five-employees are working overtime.

All equipment is dismantled and cleaned—by machine or hand—when it comes in to Century. Football shoes, for instance, are cleaned of mud and dirt and the laces are removed. New sole pads and sales are installed, new laces and trim may be put on, and new color and a new color.

"It depends what they want," Reynolds said. "For instance, they might want their numerals painted on or painted on, helmet pads painted and numbered with decals or paint, etc."

There is an almost infinite number of variations available.

Cambodian battle kills 21 N. Vietns

SAPAIG (AP) - New fighting was reported Monday in eastern Cambodia, where 3,500 South Vietnamese infantrymen launched a large sweep operation 50 days ago. Incomplete reports from the battle zone said the South Vietnamese killed 21 North Vietnamese soldiers and took casualties of at least eight wounded.

The North Vietnamese force was estimated at company size about 100 men. Allied fighter-bombers and helicopter gunships supported the infantrymen in the day-long fighting south of Highway 1, the major road connecting Saigon and Phnom Penh, Cambodia's capital. The area is about 45 miles northwest of Saigon.

The engagement was only the second so far on the South Vietnamese sweep of the Highway 1 sector since it began last Wednesday.

In the first clash last Thursday, the South Vietnamese troops claimed they killed 72 North Vietnamese with air and artillery support.

The sweep operation in the fifth in eastern Cambodia since early July. It is aimed at pushing North Vietnamese forces back from the border, preventing them from infiltrating the southern half of South Vietnam and sabotaging national elections late this month and in early October.

In South Vietnam, ground fighting once again consisted of small and scattered skirmishes and isolated enemy shelling. This has been the pattern for more than a month except for a short battle in the central highlands last week.

U.S. 119 bombers flew three raids in South Vietnam in the 24 hours up to noon Monday, all in the northernmost province below the demilitarized zone. The targets were suspected North Vietnamese troop concentrations, bunkers and antiaircraft gun sites.

Other B-52 bombers pounded the Ho Chi Minh Trail in eastern Laos in an unscheduled campaign against the supply route that started last October.

Old teach lost crafts to students

Quilting, blacksmithing, spinning and many seemingly lost arts are being found by students as part of a University community development program.

R. Van Krause, of Community Development Services, said the students have a chance to learn the traditional and historical crafts and arts of Southern Illinois by working with the old.

"The emphasis is on the older people because they have this kind of knowledge," she said.

As part of the project, the homesteaders program is getting underway and is still on an experimental basis. The homesteaders are building, but slowly she said. Due to lack of practice, only about 10 people are presently participating.

In other new areas will open up as students show interest in them. Possibilities that she now knows are, quilting, candle-making, spinning, blacksmithing and home remedies. Learning situations could also open up in any other field of traditional arts forms such as wood carving or making corn-husk dolls.

The old people are very interested in teaching their arts to the young, she said. Many of them were very surprised that college students would want to learn from them. Miss Krause hopes to help the older people maintain their crafts by finding markets for their products.

Miss Krause said any student interested may contact her from 10 a.m. to noon at 511 S. Graham or call 623-261.

Admiration may be at wrong site

LONDON (AP) — For two centuries, admirers of Thomas Gray have been paying homage at a site near Stourhead, a mansion in Wiltshire where he lived.

Last Friday, the 300th anniversary of his death, the poet's grave came to a conclusion, that they have been paying the wrong place.

The literary weekly Spectator said Gray's grave was actually contained in St. Peter's Churchyard, not Stourhead.

The location of the churchyard and the date of Gray's burial have puzzled scholars since Gray published the poem in 1756, but it was generally accepted that it was written about Stourhead's parish church.

Now Peter Watson-Smyth, a retired businessman from Burnham, where he lives, who describes himself as "a layman detective," claims the elegy was composed at 8 p.m. on Sunday, Aug. 28, 1771, in St. Peter's Churchyard, Burnham.

Here in Watson-Smyth's theory, Gray, then 31 and on vacation from Cambridge University, visited his uncle, a tutor at Eton College, who had lived in Burnham, where Eton's uncle, a tutor at Eton

Gray, obliged to accompany his uncle and aunt to Eton, burned the draft of "Elegy" while riding home from the carriages.

As the bell in the church tower tolled 8 p.m., the hour known as the curfew, the poet started the train of thought which led to the immortal opening line: "The curfew tolls the knell of parting day..."

WASHINGTON (AP) — More than 20 years of American opposition to a United Nations seat for Communist China ended Monday when Secretary of State William P. Rogers announced the United States would support U.N. membership for Peking.

However, a hand-to-hand part of the new U.S. policy will be an American fight against expelling the Nationalist Chinese government based on Taiwan from the world body.

U.S. calls for admission of Red China to U.N.

After outlining the reasons he said dictated a change in policy dating to the 1949 Communist takeover of the mainland, Rogers told a news conference:

"The United States accordingly will support action of the General Assembly this fall calling for seating The People's Republic of China (the mainland government).

"At the same time the United States will oppose any action to expel the Republic of China or otherwise diminish its representation in the United Nations.

Brown's feats called untouchable

CANTON, Ohio (AP) — Hall of Famer Andy Robustelli said Monday there likely will never be another running back like Jimmy Brown because it is virtually impossible to duplicate two vital prerequisites—the attributes of the man and the nature of the society that spawned him.

"As our society becomes more wealthy, things become easier to handle and there is a tendency to dilute what you're working for, the target you're working for, the target you're working for out of season.

Yankees have good, bad times at Pan Am meet

hander Paul Paterson pitched a four-"three-hit Monday to give the United States a 7-4 baseball victory over Canada in the Pan-American Games. The USA has a 2-0 record in Pan-Am play.

Tuesday's schedule matches the U.S. with favored Cuba in the nine-"round robin event. The USA is in third place, with 11 points and the best percentage after an eight-game schedule will win the gold medal.

The United States is in the American team.

Robustelli, a pretty and snappy-teenager from Kensington, Md., led a 1-3 sweep in women's overall gymnastics Monday and took some of the sting from an unprecedented shutout of Yankee gymnastics in the sixth Pan American Games.

The three individual golds, plus a fourth for the team, were the price paid for the United States past Cuba in their intense-"mental rivalry. They had started the third day of competition with a total of 2-111.

Performing with grace and precision on the bars and beams, the 16-year-old depressed magnificent Linda Jo Methem of Tuscola, Ill., who had captured five golds in the Wusseps games four years ago.

Miss Methem, competing despite lingering injuries, was forgettable.

Her career, won the silver with the bronze going to Kimberly Chance, 15, of Palm Beach Gardens, Fla.

The new champion scored 74.05 points, Miss Methem scored 73.80. The order of finish in the team event was United States, Cuba and Canada. (SIU gymnasts Terry Spencer (for the United States) and Fulfillette Mountain (for Canada) were in the competition.

Wanamaker, a 6-foor-8"stringbean from Des Moines, forged to the front in the demanding occasion but it was a bleak day for U.S. rowers on Lake Calima.

The "Golden Crew," a patchwork of the nation's gold medal winners and the University of Washington's"University of Washington's"University of Washington's women's rowing team to the feature eight-oar race and handed the United States its first loss in the Games.

The U.S. setback was nearly as humilitating as its 7-2 loss to Cuba in men's basketball Sunday. Brazil won the other two final events on the calm lake some 100 miles northeast of here, with the United States setting for a bronze medal in the double scull and a fifth in fours without coxswain. Brazil also won the gold medal in the double scull.

They wound up with four gold medals in rowing, one silver and one bronze, and some of these gold medals including world champion sculler Alberto DeMold, powered into the bug shell for the spectacular victory over the United States.

The United States, dominant in Pan Am rowing since 1955, had to settle for two silvers and three bronze medals, plus two fifth place finishes.

Poring on the power over the final 500 meters of the double scull race the Argentines won by two lengths over the"Washington crew, stroked by Cliff Harr of Bethlehem. Wash. The winning time was 6:01.4, with the"Washington crew in 6:10.8, followed by Canada, 6:12.4.

Brazil won the double sculls in 6:35.7, followed by Canada, 6:41.3, the United States, John Nunn of Palm Verdes Peninsula, Calif., and Tom McKibb-"en of Santa Clara, 6:42.4.
