Free Blood-Typing on Campus

A free blood-typing service for students is scheduled to begin next Tuesday.

Enough reagents for about 100 students have been received by the University Health Service. The test, by a trained technician, will take approximately five minutes.

The blood type detail will be recorded on the student's I.D. activity card and filed in at least three locations: Health Service, student activity records and the student's personal record.

The filing work, transferring of data and compounding a master list will be done by Alpha Phi Omega.

Military Ball Tomorrow

A Musical Crosscountry Tonight

Opens 'Revue in Blue' Weekend

"A Musical Crosscountry", this year's theme for the Revue in Blue, will kick-off the annual Holiday Ball in Blue weekend, today at 8 p.m. in Shryock Auditorium.

Jim Sappenfield, master of ceremonies, will serve as guide for the coast to coast musical expedition. The act for the review will be formed from the ranks of the Angel Flight, Singing Squadron and the advanced cadet corps. The music for the Review in Blue will be furnished by the SIU All-Stars.

On Saturday night, the annual Military Ball will be held in the University Center Ballroom, from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. Dancing will be to the music of the Kibby Christian Orchestra.

The coronation of the 1962 Military Ball Queen will start promptly by 12 p.m. Saturday. Candidates for queen are as follows:

Free Transportation

Free transportation from the Girl's residence to the ball and back will be furnished for all couples. Those desiring rides should call Ol. 5700 or Ol. 7700 after 7 p.m. on the night of the ball.

Tickets for both events are on sale daily from 7 a.m. to 11 p.m. at the University Center information desk and from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. in Wheeler Hall.

Reserved seat tickets for the Review in Blue are being sold for $1.50 and for 75 cents. General admission is 50 cents. Tickets for the Military Ball are $3.50 per couple.

According to Cadet Major Larry Dayley, chairman of the Publicity Committee, ticket sales for the Review in Blue have been heavy. Those desiring tickets for the review should obtain them as soon as possible.

Ticket sales for the Military Ball, however, have not been as heavy, and a number of these tickets are still available.

Memorial Day, an annual event on the SIU campus, is sponsored this year by the Arnold Air Society.

While the date of the Military Ball may not have been as heavy as in previous years, the active, young people who are visiting SIU and who wish to participate in the ball, should obtain their tickets as soon as possible.

What makes this particular copy of the book so interesting and unique according to Aline Cohn, SIU humanities librarian, is that William's hand made notes in pencil throughout the book.

The notes begin with a short comment on the title page and a long comment about Lawrence on a front blank page.

Throughout the rest of the story, notes on Williams' observations of the book are made in the margins. Many of these notes point out the playwright's belief that the char- acters and plot of "LADY CHUBBY" are pre- viously in the story.

Williams believed that the fundamental and basic ideas contained in the "Lady Bird" were later worked out and filled in Lawrence's 1928 edition of Lady Chub- bie's Lover." A literary spokesman said.

Another interesting aspect of Wil- liam's comments is that much of it is representative of how he pre- ceived Lawrence in one act play, "I Hate In Flames, Cried the Phoenix." This play is based on the last days of Lawrence's life and was published in 1932.

The comments in "Lady Bird" and Williams' later play both show the considerations interest he had in Lawrence.

Line O' Dimes Goal Set

For More Than $500

"How about a dime for the Line O' Dimes"? That's the cry as the Phi Kappa Tau fraternity members carry on their annual Line O' Dimes campaign for the March of Dimes.

The crusade out two by fours with their treasure of shiny tokens on top, stretches from the north en- ter to the University Center to where? To the students of SIU, this means an opportunity to help some- one crippled in an instant walk again.

Two years ago, the fraternity contributed $500 to the March of Dimes, for a Line O' Dimes rec- ord. They hope to double that figure this year.

Chairman Stan Napfro said, "We have the Dimes, it is a Line O' nickels, quarters, half dollars and dollars."

The Line, which started Wednesday and will end today, is hoped to reach the doors of the Office, where a check will be made out to the March of Dimes.

Men's Housing Election Set

A new Temporary Men's Housing Sen- ator will be elected in the campus election Feb. 13 as a re- sult of the resignation of the present senator, Ed Link.

Link announced his resignation to the Student Government office last Tuesday. Student Body Pres- ident Dick Childers said.

The election will include electing a replacement for Link as well as a previously announced slate for Mayoral. Petitions are available at the student government office.

PEACE PICKETS — Gordon Reynolds, a Chicago sophomore, carries two placards, he and other members of the SIU Student Peace Union group carried during their 67-hour vigil in support of a world-wide "General Strike For Peace." The SIU walkers held their nearly three- day "strike" in front of the SIU Playhouse and in downtown Carbondale.

Alpha Phi Omega Holds Annual Ugly Man Contest

Who is the ugliest man on campus? March 30 is when the student body will find out during the 1962 "Cooperative Ugly Man Contest," sponsored by Alpha Phi Omega service fraternity at the Ugly Man Dance in the Roman Room of the Union Center.

Although the contest is quite corpulent, all proceeds will be forwarded to the winner's favorite charity. All votes are worth cold, hard cash, one cost equaling one vote, and stuffing the ballot boxes is encouraged.

Applications for the contest may be acquired in room 8 of the Activity Office in the Student Union between the hours of 9 and 11 a.m., and from 2 to 4 p.m. The deadline for entries is February 12.

Last year's winner, Tom Weller, a member of Sigma Kappa Tau fraternity, and sponsored by Sigma Kappa, netted over $200 for his favorite charity. Weller also won several gifts and a trophy for Sigma Kappa.

This year's winning "Ugly Man" sponsor will be awarded a plaque and a three-year membership in the fraternity. A special group of winners will be chosen each year.

No Fair Weather Friend

Climatology Laboratory Benefits Area

Will the winter's snow and rain be plentiful enough to help the area fruit growers this spring? Has Crab Orchard Lake had a great deal of influence on the area's precipitation?

Seemingly unimportant questions for most people to concern themselves with but Southern's Climatology laboratory hopes it can supply the answers to area farmers and conservation workers.

Director Cunningham

Under the direction of Floyd F. Cunningham the laboratory has been busy over the past few years collecting, tabulating, digesting and organizing climatological data for the purpose of making the information readily available to those who can use it.

"We absorbed two existing projects when the Climatology Laboratory was organized during the 1959-60 school year," Cunningham said. "The laboratory is first of all a service agency to the people of Southern Illinois, and to the state and the nation in a projected sense," Cunningham added.

Furnished Data

The "projected sense" he refers to is in regards to data the laboratory furnishes to the Rend Lake Conservancy district and to the U.S. Weather Bureau. The climatic data the laboratory collects is then transmitted to the Federal Aviation Agency (FAA) for their local and national weather forecasts.

Laboratory

The laboratory is located in a temporary building in the Chauncey housing area. Here the data from some 50 volunteer workers from points as far north as Mt. Vernon and as far south as Grand Chain is processed by Prof. Cunningham and a graduate assistant.

3 Stations

In addition, the laboratory maintains personnel at the Southern Illinois Airport, located between Carbondale and Murphysboro, and at a station near Crab Orchard Lake. These two sub-stations are manned by graduate assistants. The main station at the airport weather bureau are certified by the FAA.

"Most of our work is centered around micro-climatology (a detailed study of climate in a small area)" the laboratory director explained. "However, owing to the lack of funds, we are only collecting precipitation data at this time," he added.

Volunteer Workers

The laboratory's volunteer workers record their data and send them in the weekly to the Carbondale office on special post cards. This information is recorded over the month and then compiled into a report which the laboratory sends out to interested parties, such as the radio and television stations, newspapers, farmers, orchard owners, etc.

"We owe a great deal to our volunteer workers," Cunningham said. "Our 'Honor Guard' of graduate students who sit in the office, makes some contact with them and works out problems that come up concerning the collection of data," he added.

Two other assistants, Jerry Pratt and William Steinheier work at the laboratory full time. The station must be manned 365 days a year in order to keep FAA certification. They keep in contact with the St. Louis office of the U.S. Weather Bureau. In addition they draw daily weather maps, provide weather information for those who fly in and out of the airport and to airplanes calling into the tower for the weather information.

Although a climatology laboratory no real maintain instruments for collecting meteorological and climatological data, the local office operates and maintains several weather recording instruments, chiefly because there is not a first-rate weather station closer than St. Louis.

Several years ago, the laboratory received a number of IBM cards (nearly 600,000) from the U.S. Weather Bureau's Asheville, N. C. office. This information has enabled the local lab to compile a record of climatic data for Southern Illinois. The lab will also help to compile a climatic history of the region.

Southern's climatology laboratory director feels the work his unit is doing has a great future. "Our work is hardly beginning," Cunningham said. "We never find weather a dull topic around here."

Announce Annual Photo Fair Contest

The 1962 Photo Fair has been set for April 29, according to John W. Hall, graduate assistant in Photography Department, Southern Illinois University.

The annual event is sponsored jointly by the department of printing and photography and Alpha Phi Omega. A classification for color slides limited to pictorial or scenic sub. jects has been added to the 1962 competition. Other classifications are News: Spot news, new feature, sports, picture story (climax of four mountboards); Portrait—man, woman, or child.

Commercial — live illustration, imaginative illustration, pictorial or subject.

Outstanding slides will be shown at the Photo Fair at the University Center on April 29, 1962. The slides will be displayed in theMagnolia Lounge for two weeks following that date. Arrangements are being made for a speaker to talk on "Current Trends of Color Photography" at the program.

The photo competition is open to all photographers, amateur and professional, and all entries must be received no later than April 3. Awards will be given in each of the sub-harms and the winners will be announced during the week of May 14, along with the list of winners and honorable mentions.

All prints should have official entry blank or reasonable facsimile attached firmly to the back of the print, with all information, contact the printing and photography department, SIU.

Military Ball Styles Previewed

Spectators Sunday evening at the University Center got a glimpse of not only the candidates for Military Ball Queen, but also of appropriate dress for the Military Ball weekend. Pictures on this page feature some of the finalists, one of whom will be named Military Ball Queen tomorrow night, and different types of dress that will be worn at the formal, "after the dance" or as a part of the weekend activities.

Modeling the outfits were retiring Military Ball Queen Mrs. Sandy Newborough Cole and current candidates, Lynn Mashihoff, Melinda Federer, Sharon Drake and Ann Werner. Rosemarie Guaravino, the fifth finalist, was not able to appear in the fashion show. Other models for the show were Marion Deen, Beverly Holmes, Linda Lehman, Jane Elly Stotler and Carol Fairchild.

The style show was not entirely for the girls, however. Escorting the Queen and this year's candidates — modeling men's fashions — were Don Cole, Jim Guadiali, Gerry Howe, Jerry Marks, Bob Fritts, John Resnick and Dick Donini.

Kathy Whitelock acted as Mistress of Ceremonies.

The books, mainly texts and a number of pamphlets, have been directed to the director of education on the island.
After hearing of the plight of teachers in Somoa, Randolph con tacted a friend on the island and received a list of the needed books. Then Randolph made ar panies which have readily sup plied several-year-old copies of texts needed. A number of the books also have been supplied by school districts in the area.

The main problem on Somoa is that the supplying enough copies of a book for all island students enrolled in a course. This prob

14 WIN in Competition
During Tournament Week

14 Win in Competition

Basketball coach Harry Gal put him on the starting five with last minute for Little Knobville, the New York Knobberbeens the Mo. His playing ability, however, week after he was graduated.
Southern's No Small-Time College Dejected Tenn. A&I Coach Says

"See what I mean." was about all dejected Harold Hunter had to say following Tennessee State's 78-45 loss to Southern's savvy Sabulous Monday night.

Hunter, the visitor's young, but highly-regarded basketball coach, was referring to a statement he had made earlier in the day while looking down from the press box at the Plaza Hotel. The coach had then said that he feared the Volunteers had, over a major basketball power as those so-called alumni colleges like Southern. We feel our chances of winning just as long and good and many times are even better.

And although Hunter definitely stated that he could foresee an end of the excellent relationship between Southern Illinois University and Tennessee, he admitted that the sports-conscious Negro school, which in recent years has produced Wilma Rudolph and Ralph Boston, is "going all-out in an effort to become recognized as a major basketball team."

Want National Title

The principal reason for its ambition is the desire for a chance at the national college championship. Tennessee State has already chopped several National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics (NAIA) titles out of the bag to shoot for all the marbles.

"There is a feeling in winning the NAIA championship," Hunter said, "and don't understand me, we always enjoy it. However, we simply felt that we could attract more attention by recognition by competing in the NCAA's university division because we may not have too much luck doing well."

Tennessee State suffered quite a disappointment last year when it felt a bid to compete in the National Invitational Tournament (NIT) was forthcoming. Hunter was extended an invitation to attend a special luncheon at which he was the principal speaker with the sole purpose to sell his team to the sponsoring New York group.

No Racial Dispute

"I returned home with confidence," Hunter recalled, "and when we failed to get the bid, I admit it was quite a blow. The NAAAC picked the tournament as a result and tried to get me to make a formal protest of discrimination. I wouldn't do it though because I simply didn't know that it was in. Instead we sent telegrams to each member of the committee and then for even considering us."

One fault the NIT group found with Tennessee State was that its schedule was principally against small-college teams. (The "major" or "small-college" tag applied to schools throughout the country is not determined by recognition, but rather by competition that the school's respective athletic teams face in each particular sport. Thus, it would be possible for a school to be considered by the NCAA as "major" in football and only as a "small-college" in basketball.)

Tennessee State authorizes immediately took steps to correct the situation and this year scheduled seven "major" schools — U. of Pacific, Gonzaga, New Mexico State, Iowa, St. Bonaventure, St. Francis and Seattle — in basketball.

The Tigers have fared well so far, especially against the "major" schools, but have lost three times to "small" opponents Montana State, Lincoln U. (Missouri) and St. Bonaventure.

The Cagers Top A & I; Then Lose 86-84

By ALAN GOLDFARB

Southern's cagers, playing two of the nation's top small basketball teams, defeated Tennessee State A&I 78-60, Monday and were tied in the last three seconds by Kentucky Wesleyan 86-84, Wednesday in Carbondale's Howen Gymnasium.

The Saluki's record now stands at 13-4. They were ranked in the nation's top small college poll. A.P. poll. Wesleyan (12-3) was in the 10th position, and Tens. A&T (9-3) was ranked number 2 according to the A.P. poll and number 1 in U.P.I.'s weekly small college poll.

A successful defense and alocking offense tipped the Tigers from Nashville, Tenn., who had scored over 100 points in their four previous games and had scored from 96 to 100 points in five other contests this year.

"I'm proud of all the boys—they all played great basketball and it was a fine team victory in all respects," said Coach Harry Galtatin.

The Salukis did not try to fast-break on the speedy Tigers, but played more of a deliberate type of basketball led by Elden Bigham and captain Jim Gualdoni.

The Tigers were stopped cold by the Saluki defense and did not have one consistent outside shooter all night, Gene Werts, A&I's 6-4 pivotman was tough from the inside as well as he was rebounding and tipped to lead the Tigers with 17 points.

Dave Henson led the Salukis in the first ten minutes as he netted 18 points, but the 6-3 forward had to be replaced by Frank Lenfer because of three personal fouls. Harold Hood took over the reins as he connected for 18 points.

Ed Spilce once again led the Saluki offensive attack with 19 points. Ed Bingham and Harold Houd had 15 Dave Henson connected, for 13. Frank Lenfer had 4 Jim Gualdoni 6, and Rod Linder 7. Gene Werts led the Tigers with 17 points and Porter Merwarth followed with 14.

Edged By Kentucky Wesleyan

In succumbing to Kentucky Wesleyan 86-84, the capacity crowd of 1,000, saw a shooting exhibition by the Panther's little 5'4 guard, Gary Austin, who connected for 38 points on 14 of 23 field goal attempts and 18-18 from the foul line.

The game was tied 17 times, including up to the last 1 seconds at 84-84, when Austin fouled Elden Bigham and promptly sank two free throws to sew up the game for the Panther's from Owensboro, Kentucky.

None could stop the first-hipped Austin, not even Jim Gualdoni, who did such an exceptional job Monday night of guarding Tennessee State's Porter Merwarth. The 5'8 guard consistently hit on 20 and 30 foot jump shots to push the Panther's ahead.

When Austin wasn't popping from the outside, it was Carl Montross, who picked up the slack on the inside. Montross scored 13 of his 18 points in the first stanza. Austin connected for 13.

Ed Spilce, for the fourth straight game, led the Salukis in the scoring department. He hit 27 points. He also led Southern off the boards for the third consecutive game, with 13 rebounds.

The 6-5 junior has collected 45 points in his last four performances.

Harold Hood, who is two points behind Spilce on the season with 179, was second in scoring against the Panther's with 19 markers.

Henson, who is the Saluki's third leading scorer with 166 points connected for 14 more against the Panthers. Ed Spilce also contributed 8 points, Jim Gualdoni 6, Rod Linder 5, Frank Lenfer 4 and Mike Pratt 2. The Saluki shots for 31 field goals in 59 attempts and a percentage of .525. Kentucky Wesleyan shot 14 of 30 and was 51.7% from the free throw line.

Henson's driving work for 31 points against Bradley was equal to the Panther's. Carl Montross and Joe Ramsey each had 20 points to take game honors.

Harold Hood tosses in point 88 in the Tennessee A&I clash Monday night at the Carbondale Community High School gym. His teammates topped the number one small-college team in the country and ran their record to 13-3.

Cagers Face North Here; Gummen, Grapplers On Road

Their hopes bolstered by a superb victory over Tennessee earlier this week, Southern Illinois University's Salukis Saturday will begin their interleaved Conference play with renewed optimism.

Facing Northern Illinois here Saturday afternoon (Feb. 2nd at 3:15), Interstate Conference action continued Sunday morning (Feb. 3rd at 10:00) as the Salukis faced the Volunteers in Nashville, just 65 points in the ISOical.

The Salukis were back at work early Monday when they wound up their 1961-62 home schedule, the Salukis "now appear to have hit their stride," according to Coach Harry Galtman.

Northern meets resurrectant Eastern Illinois at Charleston Friday night, then swings down to Carbonate for a return engagement with Southern.

A Must Win

Now 5-7 for the season, Northern must win six of its nine remaining games to fulfill its pre-season hope for a winning campaign.

Building on their unexpected upset win over ranking NIU on Jan. 25, Salukis are looking to continue their winning streak Sunday against the Volunteers in Nashville.

IS STUDYING NECESSARY?

One theory was three roomsmates and their name was Walter Peludo, Casimir and Leo Jeff in Alabama and they were all taking English lit. and they were all happy, friendly, outstanding types and all smoked Marlboro Cigarettes as you would expect from such a gregarious trio, for Marlboro is the very essence of sobriety, the very spirit of amity, and very soul of cood manners. They were a pack of spin-one and flip-top, its filter so pure and white, and you will find that when you smoke Marlboro, you get the song of birds and no man's hand is raised against you.

Each night after dinner Walter and Casimir and Leo Jeff would sit in their room and studied English lit. For three hours they would sit in silence srele and pore over their books and then, equinity and spent, they toppled onto their pallets and whipped themselves into their beds.

This joyless situation obtained all through the first semester. Then, they found this situation so annoying that they would ask each other: "What is the very essence of sobriety?" And, "Why, then, should each of us study for three hours? Why not study for one hour? It is true we will only learn one half as much as we see, but it does not matter because there are three of us and six weeks before the exam, we can get together and pool our knowledge!"

Oh, what rubbish they fell then on Walter and Casimir and Leo Jeff.

They flung their beads into the air and danced a gavotte and sixty or forty Marthines and ran out to pursue the pleasure which had so long, so bitterly, been missing from their lives. Also, they found instead a scene of giddy misfortunes.

Walter, the worst sufferer, was soon joined by a dead sets with a coiled named Invicta Breadload, a handsome lass, but, alas, hopelessly addicted to bowling. Each night she bowed five hundred times, some nights a thousand. Poor Walter's thumb was a shambles and his purse was empty, but Invicta just kept on bowling and at last, Walter, left out of the pin-setter, was a terrible thing to do to Walter, especially in this case, because the pin-setter was automatic.

Walter's, of course, was to study his English lit, but he took some comfort from the fact that his roomsmates were studying to be doctors and would help him before the exam. But Walter was wrong. His roomsmates, Casimir and Leo Jeff, were nature lovers and they used their free time to go for long walks and for one whole week, also, they were tried by two bears, Casimir by a brown bear and Leo Jeff by a kolid, and they were kept in the trees until spring set in and the bears went away and left Walter to think of the tourist season.

So when the three roomsmates met before exams to pool their knowledge, they found they had none, for Walter had a good long laugh about that and then rushed to the kitchen and stuck their heads in the oven. It was, however, an electric oven and effects were, on the whole, beneficial. The Was in their ears got melted and they acquired a healthy tan and today they are married to a lovely young woman named Cangia Brien and live in the Carol Zone, where there are many nice boates to wave at.

Competition Open In Scenic Design

Southern's theatre department will sponsor the first intercollegiate scenic design competition and exhibition to be held in the United States.

Sherwin Abrams, associate professor in the theatre, said that the school will sponsor this event in the hope that it will provide the scenic designers in the educational theatre with an opportunity to exhibit their work to a national audience. It will also give the public an opportunity to appraise the quality of scenic design in the college and university theatre.

Abrams stated that the designers will be classified according to their academic status, graduate or undergraduate.

He said that there will be a hundred-dollar prize for the best design in each classification. The award winners and the department in which they are registered as students will receive an engraved announcement of the award.

Abrams stated that a jury would be drawn from Southern's faculty to judge the competition.

The deadline for submission of entries is April 20, 1962. The awards will be announced on May 28.

SIU Publications Win Recognition

The Southern Illinois University Press has recently released three new publications which have been given special recognition in the Midwest Book Competition.

"The three publications were judged on the basis of the quality of production and the overall design of the publications and their jackets," according to Vernon Stemberg, director of the Southern Illinois University Press.

Stemberg said that there were 39 commercial and university presses which entered volumes in the competition. In addition to the three awards to the SIU press, 9 other volumes received recognition. Stemberg stated.

The publication entitled "The Search First Series" edited by Ronald D. Plumer, a graduate assistant in philosophy at SIU, is composed of student poetry. Plumer was assisted by Georgia W. Wise, professor of English and faculty advisor to the English Club.

The jury in the competition was composed of Dr. F. Wilbur Heimbold, librarian of Harvard College (Alabama); Fent Throld, director, Birmingham Public Library, and John C. Penny III, president of the Birmingham Publishing Company.
