A.C. RENNDOV THE "JUNGLE" PAINTINGS ARE FEATURED IN POPULAR LIFE MAGAZINE DECEMBER 27

Mr. Aaron Bohrod, formerly a member of the editorial staff of "The New Yorker," has submitted to "Popular Life" a series of articles on the "Jungle," which is a small but well-known, not highly publicized, island of Sewageitis in the New Georgia Islands. Last summer he was with the United States Navy in the Pacific and in Japan. He now lives in New York and is a member of the New York Society of Writers and Artists. The series of "Jungle" articles will appear in "Popular Life" next week.

Mr. Bohrod spent two months on the "Jungle," where he found a large number of people, including soldiers, sailors, and civilians, who had never heard of "Popular Life." He was impressed by the fact that "Popular Life" is a very popular magazine in the "Jungle," where it is read not only by soldiers and sailors, but by civilians as well. He also found that "Popular Life" is read by people in other parts of the world, including the United States.

Mr. Bohrod's articles will appear in "Popular Life" next week, and will be followed by a series of articles on the "Jungle" by other writers who have visited the island.

TO ENSURE ANY STUDENT RIGHTS IT IS TO THE STUDENT —

ROBERT M. HARRISON, president, University of Illinois at Chicago, in his President's Column.

STUDENTS OR STUPIDS?

Next Tuesday at the Bursar's office in Old Main, students will be able to register for the fall term. If you are planning to register, be sure to bring your ID and a copy of your course schedule.

The student body of this school will register their choice by the use of their ballots.

The final result on the part of any person who casts a ballot or a vote is inexcusable. The requirements for voting are simply that you are an American citizen, that you are an active member of the university, that you are able to read and write, and that you contribute to the college or university as you deny. Enough votes with as many men and women as is necessary to contribute to the establishment, tax collected for that tax.

The complaint has been registered that the persons nominating the office are not identified, therefore an intelligent choice cannot be made. In some cases this is true; however, it is the responsibility of the voter to acquire himself with the names and qualifications of the candidates being voted for, any insufficiency to do so can be attributed to nothing except personal and innate.

A light casting of votes on Tuesday will be an insult to the intelligence of the students of the University. Insufficient votes, in the act of casting, sharpen your pencils, and make trips to the polls!

AMERICAN-MEDICAL ASSOCIATION MISREPRESENTS FEDERAL MEDICAL CARE PLAN

Title IV of the Wagner-Murray-Dingell Social Security Act (52 Stat. 846) "Federal Medical Care, Hospitalization, and Related Benefits" is being voluminously and misrepresented by the Administration. Title IV proposes a national health insurance plan to be financed by an annual flat cost paid by all individuals, and administered by a government agency. The plan provides medical care for all persons living in the United States, including the District of Columbia and the territories.

The bill provides for a national health insurance plan, financed by a uniform annual cost paid by all individuals, and administered by a government agency. The plan provides medical care for all persons living in the United States, including the District of Columbia and the territories.

The National Committee of the American Medical Association met recently to discuss the bill and was able to agree with the position of the National Committee of the American Medical Association.

The bill is to be a "good deal" under Title IV of the Wagner-Murray-Dingell Social Security Act. The bill is to be a "good deal" under Title IV of the Wagner-Murray-Dingell Social Security Act.

WAVES in Action • • • Pharmacist's Mate

The story of the United States Naval Reserve is one of valor and courage. It is the story of the WAVES (Women Accepted for Volunteer Emergency Service), who served in the United States Naval Reserve during World War II.

The WAVES were responsible for handling the administrative tasks that were necessary to keep the men on duty at the War Department. They were stationed in all parts of the country and worked long hours with little pay and poor conditions. Many WAVES had to work two jobs to make ends meet, and they often had to put up with sexual harassment and discrimination.

The WAVES were an integral part of the war effort, and their contribution was invaluable. They were brave and resourceful, and they gave their all to serve their country. Their story is one of courage and sacrifice, and it is one that should not be forgotten.

The abandoned stadium located on the outskirts of Johannesburg was held by the arrangement of a track for the annual horse racing, now that the winter season had arrived. The costumes were for the most part worn by the riders who were followed by 'ponies' carrying 'grooms' and 'servants' through the stands. The track was not well illuminated, but the horses were well fed and in good condition.

Underground Justice

An underground justice, a central figure in the political life of the region, has been arrested in Alexandria, Greece, on charges of sedition. The man, a member of the Nazi sympathizer group, was involved in plans to disrupt the Free French movement. He was taken into custody on July 7, 1944, along with several other members of the organization. The arrest was made after an explosion in a nearby town, believed to be caused by the group. The man, who was known for his radical views, is expected to face trial soon.

Command's Canadians

The Canadian military has been actively involved in the liberation of Greece, with thousands of troops taking part in the operations. The government has announced that the country will be granted full independence once the war is over. The Canadian soldiers have been praised for their bravery and dedication to the cause.
