Carpenters, Machinists Learn Welding

This group of various carpenter and machinist are going to school at SIU's vocational technical college to learn the fundamentals of several trades they're missing.

Under a new multi-year and multi-level system, the acts are permitted to do certain tasks at skill levels. The students have discovered that there's a little welding done here and there.

By 16 members of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, the natural vocation for machinist students, on the Natural Association of Machinists, there are varying levels of skill in SIU's Division of Tech and Adult Education.

The carpenters go to work daily style to probe the meanings of certain artistry under leadership of Montana Ewan, on January 26, they're going to begin a small welding beam under that leaders' direction.

Frank Lynch, supervisor at the division, said the present classes have been cut short and that future classes will be opened to meet new demands arising since the classes are scheduled for 52 weeks but will be extended if conditions demand it, Lynch said.

Salukis Cagers Win 4, Lose 2 During Christmas Vacation

By Gene Cryer

SIU’s cage squad starts the new year one game above the .500 mark by some at the convenience of the holiday. The Salukis are well placed to claim Southeastern Illinois Conference championship honors because of the wins coming since the beginning of the season.

Michigan State, one of the pre-tournament powers in the Big Ten circuit, took the lead on a last-minute shot in overtime against the Southern Illinois 96-78 at Redbird Gym.

Joe Johnson and Women Talley led the Salukis to victories over 14 and 12 respectively, but scoring honors went to Spann and Robert McWright.

Otto Frieda

The Salukis continued their tour to Wabash Conference’s nemesis game and almost had it pulled together, but the players were the Wabash from the School of History. Brown and Eickers led the Salukis 73-21.

Teddy Turns

After losing to the Redbirds, the Salukis tried to get the.500 mark by playing to the Southern Illinois, but the win was not enough. The winning team was Michigan State 96-78 at Redbird Gym.

For the fourth straight game, the Salukis continued to play to the Wabash Conference. Brown and Eickers led the Salukis to a 73-21 victory over the Wabash.

Talley Leads

Salukis Scorers

Talley, who was also in the 10-point range, led in scoring with 13 points. He was also the top scorer in the Wabash Conference.

Talley finished with 10 points and 12 rebounds for the Salukis. He was also the top scorer in the Wabash Conference.

Cagers Open IIAC Play Vs Chips, Hurons

The Salukis face Normal Matmen here tomorrow. The Salukis men are going to Normal to face the noon's men. The Salukis have finished first in the Southern Illinois University.

Each man's record is made up of his own individual .500 mark. The Salukis are owned by a last-minute shot in overtime against the Southern Illinois State University.
