SIU now ranked 20th in size by enrollment survey

SIU now ranks as the nation's 20th largest school in terms of full-time resident students, according to the annual enrollment survey published in School and Society Magazine.

That marks a one position jump for SIU, which was listed 21st last year in the survey's listing of the "Big 30" universities. The study is conducted by Garland Parker of the University of Cincinnati.

SIU also ranked in the "Big 30" listing of schools by total enrollment, which includes extension and other part-time students. With a grand total enrollment of 31,380 at its two campuses, SIU ranks 23rd in the U.S.

The University of Illinois ranked ninth in full-time student enrollment. It is the only other Illinois school besides SIU in the top 30.

In order are Texas A&M, Tennessee, Louisiana State, Kent State, Brigham Young, Wayne State, Iowa, Ohio U., Massachusetts, and the University of Cincinnati.

The mammoth State University of New York--a system of several campuses--is ranked first, with 154,153 full-time students.

Green bus line cancels several stops this term

Several stops on the green bus route have been eliminated effective this term.

The bus stops terminated by times and place of departure are as follows: 7:48, 8:48, 544, University, 7:49, 8:49, 549, Technology Building, 7:50, 8:50, 550, Agriculture Building, 8:51, 4:51. Communications Building, 7:56, 8:56, 556, Old Main Gate. 7:59, 8:59, 5:59, arrive University entrance.

The remainder of the green bus schedule and the other days, night and Saturday bus schedules will not change.

Sen. Burdick may be picked up at the Information Desk in the University Center and in the Auxiliary Enterprises Office in Shryock Auditorium.

McCormack renominated

WASHINGTON (AP) -- Rep. John W. McCormack of Massachusetts was renominated Thursday when House Democrats renominated him for a fourth full term as speaker of the House.

The vote then was made unanimous on motion by Udall, who announced the party needs a younger and more vigorous image as its chief elected spokesman.

SIU man considered for White House post

By John Burton

An assistant professor of management at SIU is being considered for a position in the Nixon administration. Carbondale Mayor David Keene said Thursday that a position in the White House Fellows Program.

The forms were received and mailed to William H. Hastie, chairman of the President's Commission on White House Fellows in Washington, D.C., Keene said.

Taylor said he had no comment at this time.

Chancellor Robert V. MacVicar said he suggested Taylor would be an "outstanding candidate" for the position.

MacVicar said he had not been asked what Taylor had decided to apply and is not aware of any other candidates at this time.

An administrative officer in the commission's office, Mrs. Eloise Wade, said about 700 applications for the appointment have been received to date. No more than 20 applicants will be selected for appointments.

Mrs. Wade said that the commission gave the fellows an opportunity "to work close with the administration of officials and understand the workings of the highest level of government."

The commission was created by President Johnson in 1964, but appointments are not subject to political partisanship, Mrs. Wade said. The 12-month period began Sept. 4, 1969. Stipends, ranging between $1,000-22,000, will be given to congressmen who recommend the applicants and are dependent upon their background and life experience, Mrs. Wade said.

All applications for the program must be postmarked no later than midnight tonight, Mrs. Wade said. Any American citizen, between 23-35 years old, may apply for the fellowship, she said.

Mrs. Wade said the program gives the fellows an opportunity "to work close with the administration of officials and understand the workings of the highest level of government."

The commission was created by President Johnson in 1964, but appointments are not subject to political partisanship, Mrs. Wade said. The commission will consist of 12 members who recommend the applicants and are dependent include lawyers and educators.

Nearly all of the recommendations made by the commission are approved by the President, Mrs. Wade said.

Taylor came to SIU in the fall of 1967 and served on the mayor's fiscal advisory board. He received his doctorate in business administration from Indiana University and holds a master's degree in industrial management from the University of Rhode Island.

Previously, he is a faculty advisor for Alpha Phi, professional business fraternity at SIU.
Travel may bring flu to Carbondale

Holiday travel is expected to spread the Hong Kong flu and Carbondale residents probably would saw the doctor first, according to physician at the SIU Health Service.

Dr. Robert Collins, Edna Bailey, Dr. Walter Clark's nurse, advised students to avoid getting sick this time of year. They don't get nearly as sick as they do at home.

Dancing ends new students day of activity

Dancing for everyone concluded the day-long program of activities for new student enrolling for the winter quarter Thursday.

The dances were held in the Ballrooms and Roman Room of the University Center Ford Gibson and the Bitter Lemon entertained.

The activities began at 8 a.m. Thursday with a general meeting of all new students and free refreshments.

The group was addressed by William Naylor, dean of students.

Approximately 750 students attended the early morning meeting, about half the number expected, according to Mrs. Sharon Naylor, orientation coordinator.

The remainder of the day was spent advising and helping the students with individual problems of registration.

About 41 new students had participated in the day-long activities.

Language exams set for undergraduates

An examination for placement and proficiency credit in undergraduate foreign language courses will be given at 7 p.m. today in Lawson 141 and 151.

Students taking the exam must have tickets of admission from their departments.

SIU students returning from the Christmas holidays are adjusting to new-stop signs which have been erected at several heavily-traveled intersections throughout Carbondale.

With city council approval, SIU grad to appear on 'Dating Game' show

An SIU graduate who appeared last year on the nationally televised "Dating Game" show will be seen again this year on a program scheduled for Jan. 14.

William H. Carel, a physical education major who was graduated from SIU in June, was asked to make a second appearance after the show last year.

The show was taped in December and Carel is successful this time.

Polish scholar to talk on special education

A visiting professor from Poland will be guest speaker at 3 p.m. and 7 p.m. Tuesday in the Davis Auditorium.

Professor B. Horowicki, who is currently teaching at Columbia University as a Ford Foundation scholar, will speak on "The Education of Exceptional Children in Poland."

He is chairman of the Department of Psychology at the University of A. Michewitz, Poznan, Poland.

The National Federation of Collegiate Veterans will hold its second national convention at SIU May 2 and 3.

Joe Santercer, an SIU senior majoring in sociology and a former Seabee, is the acting national committee chairman. Santercer said the club approved the convention proposal December 3.

The committee chairman said he met with Wilbur Moulton, dean of students, who pledged that SIU will help the veterans with their convention whenever possible.

Santercer said the theme of the convention is "A Career Selection." The purpose of the convention is to encourage companies to hire more veterans.

He said that the convention theme was chosen for two reasons. Many veterans have their degrees and veterans have completed their military obligation.

Santercer expressed confidence in obtaining speakers from different companies.

The convention will be held in the Ballrooms and River Rooms of the University Center.

Currently the National Federation of Collegiate Veterans is comprised of 101 clubs within 33 states. The groups range in size from 10 members to more than 200 members, Santercer said.

Attendance at the convention is by invitation only. Angel Flight has been invited to be hostess at the convention, Santercer said.

SIU can use an ombudsman

The Student Senate has received a proposal that a "Student Information and Complaint Office" (ombudsman) be created. The proposal was introduced by Senator David Johnson of Carbondale.

According to the proposal, an ombudsman would "advocate students who seem to be having trouble getting out of inconsiderate, harsh, impolite or rigid administration of current policy." He would receive complaints dealing primarily with the functioning of the university bureaucracy in specific dealings with students.

Appropriately, he would not be an administrative officer, critic, or policy maker. Also, he would not be concerned with the quality of a grade which a student receives, nor would he attempt to reverse a decision made by an official.

The ombudsman's powers would include inquiry, negotiation, publicity and persuasion, but, correctly enough, not the power to make university policy. As proposed, the ombudsman would not be a permanent part of the administrative panel, with four teaching faculty members during an experimental stage. This is necessary to expedite the matter in hand. The administrative panel would operate with an executive secretary, probably a full-time worker with experience in personnel or student personnel. Students, workers would also staff the office which would open during regular SIU office hours.

Universities which have created the office of ombudsman have found it to be a success. The Student Senate council has obviously studied other universities and given thorough consideration to all aspects of the ombudsman concept. It is a necessary addendum. The Student Senate should pass the recommendation at the earliest possible date.

Obeoists need timeout too

To the Daily Egyptian:

Open Letter to Mr. Daniels:

Four letters bearing the title "Performers are Rude" that appeared in the December and January issues of the Daily Egyptian expressed an attitude that many of the performers involved in various musical and theatrical productions on campus have observed and experienced.

It, however, reflected to this reader your interest in the visual aspect of the show and how you feel about it as well as your relative comfort.

Since you have been very active participation in music on your part I will attempt to give you a lesson on concert decorum on the instruments of the orchestra, but I must in all conscience answer your charges levied against the Algld Wind Quintet and the oboe player in particular.

1. The performance started several minutes late because the quintet was not ready, but because many people were still entering the auditorium.

2. It is customary at chamber music concerts for the audience to leave the stage during numbers. This is done for several reasons. Playing the instrument is too taxing and keeping a proper bowing and rhythm is very difficult. A break refreshes the performer and could possibly ensure a more artistic playing in the final performance.

3. The oboe is an instrument of extreme sensitivity. The reed is sensitive to any change of atmospheric conditions, even to the point of a 2 degree change in temperature, Constant attention is necessary to maintain a high level of tone quality and innovation. We know that you are not as one of the finest performers on the instrument to welcome all the new reed changes and dismantling he considered necessary to play the difficult passages with great skill and musical excellence. We do not consider his concern for the performance of the music as rudeness.

Do you have any words of advice. Try listening to the performance of the string section. You might find, I'll venture to say, that you will even enjoy it.

Expansion

The Student Senate is to be congratulated for its unadulterated approval of Greek expansion. A university the size of SIU should not be restricted to the few fraternities and sororities. Other universities in Illinois have more. The University of Illinois, with twice the student population, has a corresponding number of social fraternities and sororities. At SIU Peoria, necessarily, per cent of the 3,000-plus student population is Greek. At SIU, only five to six per cent of the student body is Greek. But even the larger numbers do not deter Greeks from helping to give SIU the atmosphere of a university.

There is adequate proof that Greeks have contributed to the betterment of campus life. Theta Xi sponsored a Variety Show which is the best amateur show on campus. Phi Kappa Tau sponsored the Women's Dinner for the Month of Dimes each year. The Interfraternity and Panhellenic Councils, governing bodies of the Greek organizations, stage a talent show at the Arena each year. The record of Greek accomplishments and contributions is the chance to expand in order to do an even better job.

The State approval was the second step toward Greek expansion. The first step was taken a month ago in the Student Senate's consideration which the fraternities and sororities recommended "controlled expansion". It now remains for the administration to take the third and final step—total approval of expansion.

Shape up, Harvey Fisher!

To the Daily Egyptian:

The Daily Egyptian carried a letter from Harvey L. Fisher accusing a previous letter-writer of slanderous the albatross by using the word "gooney" along with such apppellations as "scalded cruda" and "unkempt aloes," all apparently referring to麒麟 or specimens. This irks me.

To begin with, who appointed Mr. Fisher chairman of the Carbondale Chapter of the Albatross Anti-Defamation League, anyway?

All the albatrosses (albatricus) I know have maintained their equanimity throughout this crisis and have continued their normal manner or habits. I know of no albatrosses which would obstructing airport runways.

Fisher alone has broken into print in their defense, citing their "unabashed ignorance as evidence of the fowl birds' avian decency. They bathe," he says, "with such regularity that one doesn't mind being near them."

Defends Greeks

To the Daily Egyptian:

In a lengthy letter to this paper (Nov. 26), Ethelyn O. Bremer questioned Greek Expansion at SIU. Quoting recent events at KU College, she encouraged students to "do as you think right" and to raise money to submit that Ethelyn take her own advice.

I am a student who checked into the Greek system at SIU, would have had a hard time paralleling the situation at KU. Speaking for Alpha Gamma Delta, the blackmail has never been used. Alumnae recommendation of a trustee is not a background, but the number of any woman who receives a majority of active members is invited to pledge.

Many students, like Ethelyn, do not know what SIU is. Please come meet us, talk us. Criticism is justifiable only when you understand that which you criticize.

Letter: Suggest boycott

To the Daily Egyptian:

Student government this year has been concerned about the practice of Carsonville business establishments, and rightly so. The merchants of this area seem to believe that the public exists to serve them in their never ending quest for more money. At the risk of being labeled an extremist, I would like to suggest that the reverse should be true.

Specifically, I think that a short boycott of single establishments may serve as a gentle reminder that the public (even though it does include students) is not a cow to be milked. I think that it may be appropriate to begin with one of the stores which is closest sells largely to students, and treats them with unbelievable disdain. I refer, though, to a specific policy which should be corrected because a general feeling is difficult to pin down.

A business on Illinois Avenue has a policy which gives the highest profits and low satisfaction: something which is bought there with cash cannot be returned for that same cash, but can only be exchanged for other merchandise (even if you do not want anything else). So the customer is forced, against his will, to spend more money. This policy, it seems to me, is one for the financial situation (let alone the dignity) of the customer.

The rationale for this policy is that "if we let people return things like that they'ld be running back and forth from the street returning things all the time." The logical response to that is that most people buy things because they want or need them. It doesn't seem very likely that a person would be a compulsive returner. Usually people return merchandise for a reason, but even if it is the customer's whim, should not a person have the right to change his mind without losing his money? I suggest that this refunding, for one week, from buying there may stimulate that establishment to respect the dignity of the customer who depends to make profit.

Shape up, Harvey Fisher!

To the Daily Egyptian:

Fisher, Fisher, I mind being near them. There isn't a gooney bird on this earth I wouldn't break a leg to avoid meeting socially.

Have you ever seen an albatross, Harvey? Beastly un-Christian short-tailed types with hooked beaks and sinister little webbed feet, obviously intended only to increase their overall ghastliness. They are usually discovered following ships at sea, shadowing them for days, not even epping a wing.

Suspicious, Fisher, highly suspicious. Watch yet, they only come to land to mate and lay one egg on a rocky ledge or beach, I say voice of authority. American Thesaurus! Borderline birds! Boundaries are up to something, I know. I know. I know. I know nothing about all this.

Well, Fisher, Harvey L. Fisher, had better shape up. Any further expositional of web-footed-Xylophones with 12 foot wing-spreads could look very bad.

Robert VanGoerber
SDS here viewed as a powerful instrument

(EDITOR’S NOTE: This article is the result of a team reporting effort by members of the Daily Trojan staff.)

by Arthur Hoppe

SDS has come to be recognized as an official campus organization. Nine days later a essay is due by Dean of Students Wilbur Moulton that contrast that recognition.

As part of its concerns for the individual, there is no tight-knit organization in either the national or local chapters of SDS. Instead, SDS members practice what they call ‘participatory democracy.’

Leo Driscoll, one of several spokesmen for SDS, described the participatory democracy. He said that although SDS’ chapters “has no organizational structure, there is the Adams and associates in the common student.”

Driscoll said he joined because the organization is interested in the working of SDS. He said that the goals of SDS are what he wants in this country. The organization is primarily concerned with pragmatic issues that concern SDS. The main problem is that there is little communication between SDS chapters. If you want to change something, you have to work together.

When I joined, I though politics was the answer to all problems politically,” said Robert. “I believed SDS was potentially the most powerful radical group. I can’t say that I believe that now.

Ground said that radical social change, for one thing, applied to the University administration.

“In our democracy we are trying to create more authoritarian institutions,” he said. “The school is responsible for stifling creativity by structuring and fragmenting courses.”

Robert W. MacVicar said he has discussed this problem with members of SDS.

“Most of our problems are different, but our goals are not divergent,” MacVicar said. “We want to work with a framework of orderly change.”

Personally, I think it is a good idea to have people (SDS) who challenge the status quo. But they must do it within the framework of orderly change.”

Order is a complement of successful change, according to Dean of Students Wilbur Moulton. “The slogan ‘Freedom of dissolution’ should not be confused with that of ‘law and order,’” Moulton said, “for change requires ‘Freedom under the law;’ ‘law and order’,” Moulton said, “SDS has raised significant issues at SLR. Most of their energy and activity is not directed at the future of SDS on campus.

Although there is a lot of potential for SDS at SLR, they are not doing much to bring about any change, and those who don’t want to do anything, ” Beltrami said.

Beltrami, a sociology professor, said that SDS is not as effective at bringing about change as it might be. Beltrami said that SDS is not an organization that is devoted to bringing about change at SLR.

Beltrami, who is observing SDS in contrast to SDS in other institutions, said that SDS is not the same as SDS in other institutions.

The SDS at SLR is not as committed to the organization as SDS at other institutions.

It is six years, over 300 chapters and roughly 36,000 members later for SDS. And more than 36,000 members are involved with SDS.”

STUDENT SERVICES

SIU's offices in the University Center and on the site of the new Humanities-Social Sciences Building North of the Center are to be moved within the next three months, according to Rino Bianchi, Chancellor's assistant in charge of space allocation.

Liberal Arts and Sciences Adviser and Administrative Assistant to the Dean were moved from the Center to Woody Hall on Dec. 27 and the Sectioning Center was moved Dec. 30.

Next to make the switch to Woody will be the Pine Aire Adviser Jan. 17, followed by General Studies Jan. 20.

Other offices scheduled for Woody Hall are: Graduate Studies and Research, the Department of English, Registrar's Office, Demographic Service, the Bursar and Trounghurst's Bookstore.

The Dance Program, located in the onetime Southern Players' Theater, will be given rehearsal space in the Communications Building basement.

No new locations have been determined for the Department of Music recording studio and the campus post office.

Start of construction on the second stage of the Communications Building is expected in late January and the Pine Hills Field Station campus office, situated now at that work site on South Forest, will be moved to 911 S. Oakland.

SERMONS FOR STUDENTS

During the month of January Dr. Lee C. Moorehead, Minister, will deliver four sermons that have been suggested by SIU Students in a special questionnaire.

Jan. 5 "How Do You Whom To Believe?"
Jan. 12 "How Can A Student Keep His Faith?"
Jan. 19 "What Happens After Death?"
Jan. 26 "What Would Christ Say About Vietnam?"

Pakistan student hopes to establish retarded program upon graduation

A SRU doctoral student expects to set up the first program for the trainable mentally retarded in his native Pakistan.

S. Sajjad Haider, a trained and experienced agriculturist and master's degree, has become the first student accepted under a new interdisciplinary doctoral program at SRU.

S. Sajjad Haider is a trained and experienced agriculturist with a master's degree in agriculture, and he has been working in the field of agriculture in Pakistan. He has a background in agriculture and has obtained his master's degree in agriculture at Montana State University.

However, he began realizing, he said, that life should be much more of a dedication to helping human beings. He and his wife, who is in Pakistan, have a trainable retarded child who has been in a special school in London for the past four years.

Because of the condition in Pakistan, with its 3 million mentally retarded, and his personal involvement with the problem, Haider changed his course of life and obtained a master's degree in special education at Montana State in 1967, after which he returned to his home country.

"I've worked a year to establish a program in mental retardation but couldn't because my competency was questioned," he said. "Both government officials and medical doctors felt that man who spent 20 years in the field of agriculture could not become competent to launch the program I suggested with only nine months of course work. Also, the government's priority is education for normal people, so only 18 per cent of them can read and write."

He said he had heard of SRU, its programs to train people to help the handicapped, and of the interest shown here in foreign students, so he enrolled here for the fall term.

He said the educable mentally retarded are not a real problem in Pakistan because 85 per cent of the population is involved in agriculture, using primitive methods, and the educable mentally retarded person has sufficient ability to be a farm laborer.

The problem is with those classified as trainable but not educable.

He hopes that in years to come he will have a program that is used throughout his country.
...Do not, then, wind up that light
In ribbons, and o'ercloud in night,
Like the Sun in's early rays,
But shake your head, and scatter day!

Faculty may ask that SIU endorse AAUP document

A recommendation calling for University administration endorsement of an AAUP student rights document is being proposed locally with a vote expected soon.

The AAUP has scheduled a meeting for 7:30 p.m. Monday in the Morris Library Auditorium to discuss student rights and the AAUP document.

The "Joint Statement on Rights and Freedom of Students" already has been endorsed at SIU, by the Student Senate, the Committee on Student Affairs and the Faculty Council.

At Monday's meeting, Van Wena, the associate secretary of the national AAUP, will discuss the statement, which he helped draft.

William M. Herr, secretary of the local AAUP chapter, said the purpose of the meeting is to acquaint members with the student rights statement.

Herr was cautious about the chances for administrative approval of the document, but said he felt that the questionables areas of the statement could be ironed out satisfactorily.

Key to the AAUP statement on student rights is the question of due process, Herr said. According to the professor in the School of Agriculture, the statement clearly holds that committees appointed to hear student disciplinary cases should have the final word.

Ballots considering the chapter's executive committee proposal on the recommendation will be sent to local members, Herr said, with results due by the middle of January.

Monday's meeting is open to both students and faculty, according to Herr. Future meetings are scheduled for Feb. 10 and March 3.

Durbin receives prize in news writing contest

John Durbin, Daily Egyptian reporter, recently won fifth place in a national writing contest. He will receive a $50 cash prize and a matching amount will be awarded to the State Journal-Register.

Durbin was winner in the William Randolph Hurst Foundation Journalism Awards Program, in which students in the 55 accredited journalism schools of the country compete for monthly prizes.

Durbin's award was for a feature story he wrote following an interview with Carbondale Mayor David Keene. The story appeared in The Daily Egyptian Nov. 7.

Sermon series planned

Lee C. Moorehead, minister of the First United Methodist Church, Carbondale, will begin a special series of four sermons Sunday directed to questions that have been raised by SIU students.

The sermon topics are "How Do You Know Where to Believe?" "How Can a Student Keep His Faith?" "What Happens After Death?" and "What Would Christ Say About Vietnam?"

A question and answer session will immediately follow the sermon. This will take place during the worship service.

During the service the prayer ordinarily offered as the pastoral prayer by one of the ministers will be given by an SIU student. The prayer for Jan. 5 will be offered by Dennis Whittle of Springfield.

By George coming to SIU on Monday

By Dean Rebuffoni

By George, 28, G.B.H.D. "By George" is the name of the play, one which will be presented at SIU Monday. And everybody knows, of course, who "G.B.H.D." is.

George Bernard Shaw, the great playwright, social reformer, critic, glibly, wit and waver the versatile genus show ("Pygmalion") ("My Fair Lady") must be the most successful musical ever staged.

"By George" is about the famed Irishman. The original production of the London-Broadway stage comedy hit will be presented at 8 p.m. in the Southern Playhouse of the Communications Building.

The play is sponsored by the Hewitt Department Store and the University of Illinois Student Union.

Two other plays also will be presented to SIU audiences in the coming week. At 8 p.m. Saturday, the 1968 Touring Theater will present the Illinois State Production Play, "Make Her Wilderness Like Eden" in the Southern Playhouse.

On Jan. 10-11, the touring theater group will also perform "Androcles and the Lion" in the Southern Playhouse.

Napalese student group to present talent show

The Napalese Students' Association will participate in a talent show, exhibit and display under the auspices of International Evening Jan. 11 and 14.

The association also hopes to have the Royal Nepalese Ambassador in Washington, Gen. Padma Bahadur Khrati, come for the International Evening.

The talent show will include folk dances and songs. The exhibits will be comprised of various intricate handicrafts and other articles of typical Nepalese nature. Slides depicting the life, people and scenic beauty of Nepal will also be shown.

Coca and Donavan

Broadway hit to play at SIU

Seats for the stage engagement of the Broadway smash comedy hit, "You Know I Can't Hear You When the Water's Running," coming to SIU Thursday, are on sale at the University Center central ticket office.

Try and imagine Coca and King Donavan, the play now in its third sellout year on Broadway, received unanimous rave reviews from New York critics when it opened in March, 1966.

One newspaper critic called "the brightest and best new American play," another "an evening of pleasure and distinction," and a third "the funniest play I've seen in years."

Written by Robert Anderson, the play unloads upon and allows comment on sex in marriage from young couples to middle-aged spouses to partner past the prime of life.

Miss Coca and Donavan are well-known throughout the country, as both have appeared in television and on the stage. One of the supporting actresses is Katie Helfin, daughter of screen actor Van Helfin.

There will be a single performance, at 8:30 p.m. in Shryock Auditorium. Ticket prices are $1.50, $2, and $3 for SIU students, $2, $3 and $4 for others.

Music student awarded

$2,000 scholarship

Raechelle Potter, a 22-year-old graduate music student at SIU, has been awarded a $2,000 Metropolitan Opera Company Scholarship and a vocal teaching position with the company's training program for younger singers starting next fall.

This was Miss Potter's second time to reach the finals in the company's national auditions. The first time was in 1965 when she was a junior at Xavier University of Loudon, New Orleans.

She also is a finalist for this fall's annual Washington Opera Guild auditions, Chicago, and will audition next on the stage of Chicago's Lyric Opera in March.

A voice student of Margorie Lawrence, SIU Opera Workshop director and former Metropolitan and Partia opera dramatic soprano, Miss Potter is assistant to Miss Lawrence in the workshop for the second year. She spent three summers in the director summer opera workshop for SIU students conducted at her home in Fort Springs, Ark., ranch and last summer served as workshop assistant there.

Shankovsky demonstrates creative versatility

Put Igor Peter Shankovsky, a native of a typical eastern European city, where there's nothing to do and not much that might come out.

It could be a Japanese poem translated for Slav or an English scientific expression written in Russian language equivalent.

Haid him a microphone and he'll start singing—maybe a Ukrainian folk tune with a rock beat, maybe “Staruss” in German bossa nova.

Shankovsky, a published poet, a recording vocalist, former radio producer-announcer and about-to-be textographer, teaches Russian—his native tongue—at SIU. He had to, Shankovsky couldn't.

Communication

state authority

A bid of $3,872,850 is for construction of Stage II of the Communications Building has been recommended to the Illinois Building Authority by the SR. Board of Trustees.

The Building Authority is awaiting approval by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, which is sponsoring a $1 million construction grant, expected to act on the bid during the next two weeks.

The building addition will house the Department of Journalism and Printing and Photography, the Daily Egyptian and laboratories and classrooms.

The bid for Stage II, which was submitted by J. L. Simmons Construction Co., Decatur, was $2,331 per cent above the architect's estimate.

Igor Shankovsky

lecture 18, and on, more than a dozen other languages.

Shankovsky was born in the Western Ukraine, son of a professor of English and economics. The family was uprooted in World War II when occupying German forces fled the advancing Russians. They were evacuated to Austria in 1944. Teenage Igor already was fluent in English by virtue of his father's tutoring.

The family went to Munich after the war, where young Shankovsky promptly learned German in a college preparatory school.

When he was 18, the family emigrated to the United States. Friends established the elder Shankovsky in a research firm in Philadelphia. Igor enrolled at the University of Pennsylvania but was called to the service in his freshman year.

Serving in Japan as a special courier during the Korean War, Shankovsky decided to expand his language assimilation. On off-duty nights, he went to Sophia University in Tokyo and studied Japanese and Russian history.

That set off an interest in traditional Japanese post-forms, such as the rigidly stylized “tanka” and “baku.” He made friends with a couple of Japan's prominent poets and got them to help him. He translated a collection of tankas, “A Hundred Poets, A Hundred Songs,” into Ukrainian. This unlikely dish of literary stew was published two years ago by a West German firm.

The budding scholar also had a gift for entertaining as a singer and honed his show biz talents in Japan. He worked in a club show that included Xavier Cugat and Abe Lane. Nippon-Columbia records signed him and he cut two recordings, one in Ukrainian and another in Japanese.

He said the two sold close to a million copies.

After the war, Shankovsky went to Pennsylvania for his bachelor's degree, then took to the University of Alberta in Canada.

The campus at Edmonton is in the middle of a large Ukrainian community and it was no time before Shankovsky landed a spot on a local radio station, directing his own off-duty variety show highlighted by his own polylingual barbecuing.

He made records for two Canadian companies.

Between studies, the studio and teaching, Shankovsky wrote and translated poetry and published scholarly pieces on Slavic literature for a variety of journals including the Ukrainian Review, of which his father, Lew, is an associate editor. His dual also edits a section of America, the Ukrainian Catholic weekly in Philadelphia.

Shankovsky completed the requirements for a Ph.D. at the University of Munich, then came to SIU.

SIU lists highlights of 1968

Turning the corner into its 100th year, SIU had a year of no little accomplishment in both physical and academic growth.

The year saw SIU win formal approval from the Illinois Board of Higher Education to start a medical school at Carbondale and begin planning for a dental school at Edwardsville.

This was followed by SIU's bid for a place in the ACCAC proposal still is under study by the Higher Board's committee on legal education.

Behind the drive for full-fledged professional curricula was Robert Mac Vicar, who was named chancellor in a major reorganization that was another 1968 milestone for the University.

John Rendleman was appointed chancellor of the Edwardsville Campus.

Both Mac Vicar and Rendleman had been vice presidents of academic affairs and business affairs, respectively, SIU can reflect on which were abolished with the change to chancellorship.

The reorganization provides more autonomy for the two campuses, both of which grew to unexpected enrollment levels in September.

When the final count was in, approximately 32,000 students were enrolled at the two campuses, a jump of more than 14 percent over the previous year.

Increases were particularly striking at the Edwardsville Campus, where enrollment topped 10,500 in the September term.

Near the end of the year SIU sold bonds to construct a new building.

Paul Isbell to speak

Paul W. Isbell, director of Business Affairs Services at SIU, is one of three Illinois educators representing the state at an international conference in New York Jan. 8-10.

The conference, called the first higher education ideas exchange of its kind, will feature speakers from universities and colleges around the world.

Isbell will discuss financial problems of universities at a conference Jan. 10.

The first on-campus student and staff apartments project at Edwardsville, thus transforming its image from that of a commuter campus.

At Carbondale, a four-story, $10 million building for graduate studies and research in the biological sciences was well underway in 1965 and finishing touches were applied to a new building for chemistry and physics.

The $4 million Evergreen Terrace apartment project for married students and staff was partly finished and occupied.

Located southwest of the campus near Carbondale's city reservoir, it is the first such university housing program approved for financing by PHA.

Work also began on interior completion of the upper four floors of Morris Library, which reached the million volume mark during the year.

An $8.5 million expansion and upgrade of the University's computer center was financed and contracted, and the Illinois Building Authority accepted bids on the second stage of the Communications Building.

Anthony Hall, once a women's dormitory, was being cleared and its own dining hall wing restored to provide a new office for the President, his staff and the board of trustees.

Construction began on an official executive residence which will provide a home for the President and facilities for official University guests. It is going up on a site near the Campus Lake.

A capital improvement funds program recommended by the Higher Board for SIU during the next two years would finance a Center for the Advanced Study of Physical Sciences, a learning resource center to the Library, and a fine arts complex.

The Illinois Higher Board recommended $168 million from state funds to operate SIU during the coming biennial period.

The University asked approval of a doctoral program in history; it would be the 20th Ph. D. field offered at SIU.

Institutional and research potential was strengthened with the installation of more computer power in the SIU Data Processing Center and classroom biological terminal allowing linkups with other comparable educational programs beyond the campus.

In a springtime ceremony near Little Grass Lake, SIU opened a 1,500 acre Conservation Education Land Area, a unique cooperative venture between the U.S. Bureau of Sports Fisheries and Wildlife and area sportmen's groups.

Gymnasts host Iowa tonight, Illini Saturday in dual meets

The SIU gymnasts open dual meet competition this weekend by hosting two powerful Big Ten squads, Iowa and Illinois.

These two meets may well determine how this year's team is going to fare.

SIU will be out for revenge when they host Iowa at 6 p.m. today in the Arena. It was the Hawkeyes who, in 1968, ended the Salukis' string of 68 consecutive dual meet victories, dating back to 1961.

Last year Southern placed second in the nation and Iowa finished third.

Then at 2 p.m. on Saturday Southern gets another strong test from Illinois, also in the Arena. Last season the Salukis began their dual meet activity with a victory over the Illini on the way to an 11-1 record.

"These first two days of competition should provide us with a true test of our ability," Coach Bill Meade said, and indicated he likes "to jump into the hard ones right away."

Pete Hemmerling, a senior from Chicago who is the top all-around performer on the team, will lead all this season in an attempt to win back the NCAA crown they held in 1964, 1966 and 1967. Last year California edged Southern for the team title, 188.15-188.15.

Over the holidays the gymnasts did well in two open meets in which there was no team scoring, the Iowa invitational and the Ft. Lauderdale, Fla. Open.

In the Iowa invitational, Hemmerling won the long horse and free exercise, and was second in the all-around and for SIU.

Other Salukis who placed were Mark Davis, second in the high bar; Stewart Smith, fourth in the all-around and fourth in still rings; and Ron Alden, fourth in the side horse.

Hemmerling also led the way among SIU gymnasts at Ft. Lauderdale, placing third in three events, floor exercise, all-around and vaulting. He also finished fourth in the high bar.

In the all-around, three former Saluki gymnasts, including assistant coach Rich Tucker, placed. Fred Davis was second, Tucker sixth and Paul Mayer seventh.

Three performers from Southern placed in the trampoline-Homer Sardina, second, Skip Ray, fifth and Marcum Randall seventh.

Wayne Norkowski placed in the still rings, and Mark Davis and Don Locke placed in the high bar and parallel bars respectively.

Rams' executive may rehire Allen as football coach

LOS ANGELES (AP)-President Dan Reeves of the Los Angeles Rams may be willing to bring George Allen back as head coach of the National Football League club.

That was the speculation Thursday, a week after Reeves unexpectedly fired Allen Dec. 26.

Sports Editor Bud Furlotte of the Los Angeles Herald-Examiner wrote that he had learned Reeves was willing to take Allen back. The Times said it learned from a "professional football source" that Allen may be rehired.

Reeves was not available and a Rams spokesman said the club had no comment on the report.

Salukis win one tourney, lose another

by Jack Loecker

It will be a stiff climb for the rest of the season for the basketball Salukis, but the most win wasn't somewhat by a successful showing in holiday tournament action.

Impressive in the Las Vegas Invitational, which included 28-28, the Salukis took an 86-66 decision over Montana in first round play and won a close 82-56 victory over Nevada Southern. The latter win, set the stage in the championship game.

SRU's Dick Garrett moved as a star performer, pouring in 22 points against Montana and 15 against Nevada Southern, to boost his eight-game Luts NCAA-area coach of the year.

Joe Lucas, varsity baseball coach at Southern for the past three seasons, has been named University baseball coach for the 1969 season.

In the Volunteer Classic, Dec. 1-14 in Knoxville, Tenn., the Salukis, minus freshman Roger Westbrook and Coach Jack Hartman, easily defeated the University of Texas, 58-37, in the first round, but dropped out of the tournament game to host Tennessee, 54-41. It was the third straight year that the Volunteers have taken honors at their own tournament.

The Volunteers outscored the Salukis in the second half of that one with the aid of a 10-minute stall at the end of the first half. After the tournament games, Jack Hartman evoked pleasure with his team's showing in the contest but cautioned, 'There's little time to enjoy our wins for we have enough troops to prepare for in Abilene Christian and Kentucky Wesleyan.'

ABA club sold

ST. PAUL-MINNEAPOLIS (AP) - The American Basketball Association has announced the sale of its St. Paul franchise for $650,000 to an unidentified group.

Commissioner George Mikan said the transfer of ownership might be completed Thursday night during an executive committee meeting in the league office here.

Mikan said the franchise will remain in Houston. The new owners plan a press conference 1st Houston within the next two weeks and will take over operation of the club on Jan. 23. The club formerly was owned by a Houston group.

Swimmers head for Ohio today

Coach Ray Eastick's swimmers start off the new year by traveling to Oxford, Ohio, this weekend for a dual meet with Miami of Ohio tonight and the Miami Relays Saturday.

In the dual meet against Miami, Coach Eastick expressed concern saying Miami is a sprint-oriented team.

"We will have trouble with them in the shorter distances because they have one of the top sprinters in the nation in Bob Shaw, and it will be up to Vern Daesch and Scott Conkel to handle him," Eastick commented.

The field for the Miami Relays includes Tennessee, Eastern Kentucky, Cincinnati, Indiana State and Miami, with Eastick tabling Tennessee as the favorite because of their team depth.

The swimming team just returned from two weeks of Florida sunshine at the College Coaches Forum in Pt. Lauderdale where "we went through heavy training and a lot of mileage that is necessary for us to compete nationally," Eastick stated.

"We are in pretty good shape for this weekend, but I don't know how the long drive back from our trip is going to affect us," Eastick continued.

"This weekend could indicate how we are going to perform for the rest of the year.

"The time spent in Florida was a critical phase in our training. Not only did we have the opportunity to compete against more than 1000 college swimmers, but also the long hours of working out together everyday helped to mold the boys into a closer unit.

"We're going to look back at what we did in Florida, but we are going to look ahead," added Eastick. "What we're aiming for is a consistent improvement climaxing with the national championships.

Colts, Jets exchange films

BALTIMORE (AP) - The Super Bowl coaches of the Baltimore Colts and the New York Jets think alike about which game films of the rival team each year in surgery for their Jan. 12 meeting in Miami.

Coach Don Shula of the Colts will watch the Jets as they try to beat the Oakland Raiders 27-23 for the American Football League championship and as they lose 43-32 to the same team during the regular season.

Coach Weeb Ewbank of the Jets will see the Colts as they won the National Football League Championship 34-0 over the Green Bay Packers to the Browns 30-20 during the regular season.

Shula and Ewbank agreed to give each other his choice of four game films. Shula also picked New York's 34-15 victory over San Diego and its 27-14 triumph over Cincinnati.

Ewbank's other two choices were Baltimore's 28-14 second defeat of Los Angeles and its 16-1 victory over Green Bay.

Musial is candidate

NEW YORK (AP) - Stan Musial, former St. Louis Cardinal hitting star, is among five newly eligible candidates in baseball's 1965 Hall of Fame election now being conducted by the Baseball Writer's Association of America.

Musial, who retired after the 1963 season, is eligible under the ground rules that require players to have been active within the last 20 years but inactive for at least five.

Voting sports writers must return their ballots to Jack Lang, secretary-treasurer, by Monday, Jan. 20. Lang will announce the results Tuesday, Jan. 21.
