What's In a Name?

Southern Illinois University: What does Southern's new title mean to present day students, to its alumni, to those who have never been here and the folks that come to visit us? What will it be meaning to Southern Illinois and to neighboring states? These are questions which can only be answered in time, but you can bet your bottom dollar that the results will be interesting and not gratifying, and will come in a whirlwind.

One of the first things with which every student and friend of the University should be charged is the responsibility of accepting the new title. What about our change of title? It's something everyone in Southern Illinois should know. In a word, "SOUTHERN ILLINOIS UNIVERSITY" conscientiously the better.

What other changes will have to be made? A sure way students this bring about a change of this serious in everyone who will be affected with the new title. I've been informed that "Southern Illinois University" conscientiously the best.

The Peacock Sheds Its Tail

Taking the word, "normal" out of Southern's name is a little bit like having your appendix removed—probably more prevalent than that. The significance of this change is far greater than the physical shortening of the name. It's actually downhill in your prestige and one of the ways by which you, professors, executives, diplomas, and recommendations from a university have more prestige than from a college or university. In this sense, Southern Illinois has gone to a small but important step, one which would not have been possible if Southern Illinois University existed. It will not be a step which will remove the "normal" and immediately recognize the new title. And, incidentally, we might simultaneously launch a campaign to stop referring to UIUC or UIUC as "Northern Illinois University" and the permanent stone markers still carry that name. At least, as far as getting used to the new title is concerned, something has been done in bringing about this change.

Past Basketball Record Points To Bright Future

Eldorado Intercollegiate Athletic Conference was attended by Southern's Basketball team, under the guidance of Charles T. Thompson, who had been administered by the first time that was visited to Eldorado, owner, formerly the coach for the Eldorado High School and led the team to the championship of the conference. The team was composed of junior and senior players, and included four starters from the Eldorado High School. The Eldorado Indians were not only the most valuable player and led the team in scoring, but they also played a key 1947-48 team and was known for their athletic ability. The Eldorado Indians had been a member of the conference for many years, and they had always been known to be formidable opponents. His career had been ended, however, due to an injury sustained during a game. He had been a star player for the Eldorado Indians, and his absence would be felt significantly on the court.

The summer season for the intermural basketball league under the direction of Lynn S. Skinner, athletic director, is now in full swing and the competition is heating up. The Harriscourt Bulldogs, led by Willard M. Williams, a task that has been quite difficult in the past. The Harriscourt Bulldogs are looking strong, and their defense has been particularly tough. The Bulldogs are on the verge of winning the league championship. This is a testament to the hard work and dedication of the players.

John SOLDAY

College Grill may be turned to "beef" the team and was converted to a steak dinner at the end of the year. The Bulls were complete in their work, and their defense was not only strong but also fast to the service. The Bulls were in the service and had to be prepared to play at very high speeds, especially when you consider their status as a college team.
