The summer play to be held at McAndrew Stadium will be equipped with lights and will have a larger seating capacity when the SIU grid team takes the field over the Frenchmen on Sept. 30 according to W. A. Howe, director of the university physical plant.

The summer play was announced by the vice-president of architecture who has awarded the Hi-Line Construction Co. of Rockford a $36,200 contract for the construction of the stadium floodlighting. Materials to be used in the construction are expected to arrive within a few days and the work will commence soon after.

The specifications called for 192 lights of 1,500 watts each. Twenty-four such lights will be mounted on each of eight poles, two behind and one at each end of the bleachers on the west side of the field and two and one at each end of the new bleachers which will be constructed on the east side of the field.

The sound system prec Hayden prices better than used for class D professional baseball in Southern Illinois. Glenn Martin, university director of entertainment, believes that Southern will be the only school in the IAC conference to have night lights when they are completed.

Four home football games for Southern have been booked as night affairs. They include, besides the Sept. 30 date with Cape Girardeau, dates with Northwestern Oct. 21, Michigan Normal, Nov. 19, the Shrine bowl game; and Western Nov. 18. All dates are for Saturday night and will be played as night games, which falls on a Friday night preceding Armistice day. The only day game that will be played will be the homecoming contest against Normal, Oct. 21.

The Duffy Blanchard Co. of Springfield was awarded a $50,576 contract for construction of the stadium, the new bleachers, which will be constructed of steel, will have a seating capacity of 4,600. They will also be completed in time for the Cape game on Sept. 30.

Outdoor Movies Proceed With English Film

The outdoor movies have continued with the English film, "The Adventures of Don Juan," which is scheduled for next Tuesday, July 25. With Charles Laneburg, II, of the department of drama, and John Loder this film is a story of King Henry. Laughton received an Academy award for his performance.

The Russian film, "Ivan the Terrible," was presented last week and an Englishlanguage translation was shown Tuesday. "The Baker's Wife" will be the final foreign film which has English subtitles.

Cancer research has been greatly simplified by the findings of Southern Illinois University biological research scientists who have recently disproved a theory which has been under intensive study by the nation's cancer investigators, according to Dr. Carl C. Lindgren, head of the University biological research laboratory and internationally known geneticist.

Dr. Lindgren has shown that a cell's ability to use sugar develops without any change in the nucleic acid content of the cell. Scientists have devoted intense research to the theory that the origin of cancer is caused by the cell's changing its nucleic acid content," declared Dr. Lindgren.

Counseling Discussed

At Conference Here

"In high school students and their guidance counselors met here Saturday afternoon for a one-day conference to discuss actual counseling problems found in Southern Illinois schools.

The program was under the direction of Dr. Marshall S. Hinkey, professor and chairman of the department of education. Plans for the conference were made by University officials and representatives of Southern Illinois schools.

Speaker for the program was Dr. Frank M._mappings, chief of Occupational Information and Guidance Services for the Office of the State Superintendent of Public Instruction. He discussed the present status of guidance programs in Southern Illinois schools and the future of the guidance movement. One of the most unusual features of the conference was a panel discussion conducted by high school students. The students told the counselors what they considered to be the greatest needs in their high school.

Music Hour Presented

At Student Center

Dr. Maurits Keman was in charge of that part of the program for students and faculty at the Student Center Monday night.

Beethoven's Ninth Symphony, because of the death of its composer, was the first selection played. After this Dr. Keman invited the audience to select the selections they would like to hear.

The summer outdoor movies will continue with the English film, "The Adventures of Don Juan," which is scheduled for next Tuesday, July 25. With Charles Laneburg, II, of the department of drama, and John Loder this film is a story of King Henry. Laughton received an Academy award for his performance.

The Russian film, "Ivan the Terrible," was presented last week and an Englishlanguage translation was shown Tuesday. "The Baker's Wife" will be the final foreign film which has English subtitles.
Art of Appreciation

We believe there is an art to developing appreciation. As appreciation develops our criticism of small and trivial things begin to decrease. The art of appreciation was enacted to its fullest by a small, wizen, old man in a cafe one cold night in a large metropolis. The old man ordered a cup of coffee and from that moment he awoke in the ‘art of appreciation’ began.

The old man’s gnarled hands encircled the cup to soak up the warmth as he sipped each time his eyes took on a glow of satisfaction. His shoulders straightened and before long we heard the unmistakable sounds of the old man’s shoulders shuffling to himself. Here was a man who knew the art of appreciation, the art of appreciating a cup of coffee.

The old man soon finished his cup of coffee, plunked down his nickel and stalked down the street... we begin to feel that here may be the answer to our present day fault-finders, our pessimists, and those who have lost the art of appreciating what they have. We feel the old gentleman enacted his role to the fullest.-W.D.U.

Dear Mr. Muller:

“Error of opinion may be tolerated where reason is left free to combat it”-Jefferson, first inaugural address.

Although we weren’t formally invited, we, the Egyptian staff, submit this name as our favorite for the huge inscription to be placed on the interior wall of Carbondale's Stadium.

Strange as it may seem, the editor, managing editor, and business manager, voting by secret ballot, all picked the above quote as choice No. 1 of the 12 suggested insertions you sent to the faculty. All others voting in the Egyptian poll included the quotation in the top three selections.

It received twice as many votes as any other option.

Our second choice: “The bedrock on which the stable nation was founded is a charter of free inquiry; without this you do not have a university.” -President Andrew D. Reinert, in the Annual Report on Harvard University, 1947.

Third choice: A tie between “If the people are to govern themselves, their only hope of doing so wisely lies in the collective wisdom derived from fullest possible information, and in the fair presentation of differing opinions.”—President’s commission on Free Speech, 1968, and “I disapprove of what you say, but I will defend to the death your right to say it.”—Voltaire.

Sincerely,

The Egyptian

Southern Exposure

Flowers for Flickers; Sobbing for Sodists

By Harry Reinert

This week we have two bunches of flowers on ice (on ice ever since the last issue because of space shortage) which we would like to pass on to two different campus service organizations. One bunch of flowers is for the audio-visual aid and entertainment and lectures committee people; and the other is wrapped in black crepe for all those optimistic, bright-eyed, and happy souls who work so diligently every spring to make the campus beautiful.

There was some mention in the first group in the last issue of Southern Exposure. Now that the schedule of movies for the summer has been released, we see it is even better than expected. We had a little chat with one of the men behind the movies about getting in some of the other big hits—like “The Titan,” “The King’s Jester,” the film version of “La Traviata,” etc.—which have been shown in the past.

However, the expense of these films is more than the committee can afford. We wonder why one of Carbondale’s theaters doesn’t undertake this project—other pictures of real cultural value they have shown in the past paid off. We believe these would too!

Concerning the second group mentioned above, we offer our condolences to them for the frustration that must come after having their work destroyed by a spade for the third time in their years.

We’ll be nice to have all the water fountains in Old Main working at one time, but we hope this is the last of the spring plumbing on campus for a few years.

Fans will remember that there was some mention in this column last spring about the condition of the atrocious sink on the second floor of Old Main. We’ve noticed that for the past several months someone with a blessed taste for beauty has kept the sink clean. And that’s no small task.

The weather has been just right for swimming lately, and Crab Orchard has been full of people taking advantage of it for the past month or more. Here’s a word of caution from one who knows—watch out for broken bottles, tin cans, and other trash that nature on the bottom. A lot of people have hobbled into doctors’ offices this summer with cuts from not watching their step while swimming.

Another Southern student has recently won national fame—Audrey King, who has been selected as the ideal pledge of the national Tri-Sig sorority. It’s people like these who are putting Southern on the map.

For those who come in late it should be explained that the author feels that puns are not the lowest, but the highest form of humor. For this reason, this column is closed.

Well ‘pun your way: If anyone asks you ‘what happen to the campus, you might say that’s a sad story.

BLINDNESS PREVENTION MEETING HERE FRIDAY

A program to be presented by the Illinois Society for the Prevention of Blindness will be held tomorrow at the Lincoln School on Washington Ave. in Carbondale.

The meeting will begin at 9 a.m. and is open to all SIU students and faculty members.

Some people think it is bad luck for seven years if you break a mirror. Knew a guy that broke one last week and luck—he was killed in an explosion the next day.

Junkman: “Any old beer bottles you’d like to sell, lady.”

Old Maid: “Do I look as if I would drink beer?”

Junkman: “And old vinegar bottles?”

The roommates used to work on a dairy farm. Now when he is introduced to people he shakes hands one finger at a time.

Drunk: It takes me an hour or so to get sleepy when I go home.

Mother: Thank you. I always falls asleep as soon as I hit da bed.

Drunk: Shoo do I. My trouble hittin’ da bed.

Newsky: “Extra! Extra! Read all about it. Two men swindled.”

Jones: “I’ll take one . . . Say, there isn’t anything in here about two men being swindled.”

Newsky: “Extra! Extra! Three men swindled.”

Sam: “Get ready to die—I’m going to shoot you.”

Arthur: “Sam: I always said I’d shoot anyone that looked like me.”

Sam: “Do I look like you?”

Sam: “Yes.”

Arthur: “Then go ahead and shoot.”

Lawyer: “Anything you say will be held against you.”

Client: “Betty Grable.”

Bundness Prevention

Southern’s McAndrew stadium is really racking up the firsts—and it looks like it’s only the beginning. It all started last month.

It was on June 11 that for the first time in Southern’s 75-year history that graduation ceremonies were held outside—in the stadium. Then only last week the stadium came back to mark up its second first in less than a month when Southern’s first outdoor movies were shown before a fairly large crowd. And now this Saturday night, for its third straight first—and weather permitting, will get it next Thursday evening when the summer play moves into the open air for the first time.

The stadium soon will get new lights and a night game will be played there for the first time late in September.

There still seems to be just one first missing—a first place football team.—B. H.

Greece Scene

Greece Shows Signs Of Making Recovery

ATHENS, GREECE—Improvements and face-lifting which have taken place in this country during the past 12 months is a Herculean task in the first degree.

In talking with various people who were in Greece a year ago, I found they agreed that the great strides have been taken during this period. There is a sense of time in modern Greek history. A year ago one would think twice before venturing out of the capital without an armed convoy. Today any region in Greece is accessible and with a considerable degree of security.

Larger portion of road construction was accomplished by the corps of U. S. Army engineers.

The Economic Co-operation administration (ECA) has tried as much as possible and feasible to make the reconstruction phase of their work an all-Greek Minister operation, with ECA financing, advice, and technical assistance.

At past ECA is due a wind up its world-wide relief program in 1952. But if any country needs and deserves further aid materially and economically after the expiration date, it is Greece. At this writing the ECA staff in Greece is the smallest of 17 European nations being revived through the foresight of America and at the same time, paradoxically enough, with the largest ECA mission.

Greek's people, although matter-of-fact in their social dealings, are very co-operative. Given a feasible amount of American moral and material encouragement, Greece in no time will take its place as one of the most productive countries in Europe.

Dr. Peacock Discloses South American Feelings

People of the South America countries look to Europe rather than to the United States for leadership, according to Dr. Vera L. Peacock, professor and chairman of the Foreign Language depart- ment at Southern Illinois University.

Dr. Peacock expressed that opinion following a nine months visit to South America. During her travels, she visited Peru, Chile, Argentina, Uruguay, and Brazil.

"Not only do the countries look to Europe for leadership," she said, "but they blame the United States for most of their faults. One of the leading reasons for this attitude, Peacock pointed out, is the feeling of the personal. It has taken advantage of them by exploiting their natural resources."

She indicated, however, that this feeling does not carry over to individuals. The antagonistic attitude is toward this country in general.
