Crippled Kids Play, Swim At Little Grassy

By Jack Bach...

"Grab your ballots," shouted Norm Louise, director of the Crippled Children's camp, as the group was ready to select a group of "weightless" children to participate in the special games.

The group of 12 children, "weightless" because they have been treated for orthopedic problems, were divided into two teams, the Grizzlies and the Abileneans.

Under the guidance of their counselors, the children played a variety of games, including a relay race, a tug-of-war, and a jumping contest.

The Grizzlies emerged as the winners, with the Abileneans coming in second. The group was then treated to a picnic lunch in the park, where they enjoyed sandwiches and cookies.

The Crippled Children's camp is located on the outskirts of the city, and provides a safe and fun environment for children with disabilities to play and socialize.

Group Explores Rephab River Diving Sites

A "Raph River" expedition, sponsored by the National Geographic Society, visited Little Grassy, in the United States, to explore the river's underwater world.

The expedition, led by Dr. John Smith, a renowned oceanographer, spent several days at the site, discovering new species of fish and corals.

The group also collected samples of the river's water, which will be analyzed in the laboratory to determine its composition.

The expedition was funded by the National Geographic Society, which has a long history of sponsoring expeditions to remote locations.

Students Probing 80 Cache River Diving Sites

In a "Cache River" research project, students from the University of Illinois, led by Dr. Jane Sanders, studied the river's diverse ecosystem.

The students, divided into teams, explored different areas of the river, from the shallow waters near the shore to the deep trenches.

Their findings, which will be published in the journal of marine biology, will contribute to our understanding of the river's biology and ecology.

The project was funded by the National Science Foundation, which supports research in the fields of natural sciences.

Day Camp For Retarded Kids Starts Monday

A four-week day camp for retarded children was held at Little Grassy, sponsored by the National Association for Retarded Children.

The camp, which was designed to provide a safe and nurturing environment for children with special needs, was open to children aged 6-12.

The camp was staffed by professionals, including psychologists, social workers, and special education teachers.

The camp was also designed to provide a sense of community and belonging for the children.

Crippled Kids Named New Head Football Coach Tuesday

Albert Kawal, recently graduated from University of Illinois, was named the new head football coach at Little Grassy.

Kawal, who had been a successful assistant coach at several high schools, was chosen for his "intense coaching style, attention to detail, and ability to motivate his players.

Kawal's first order of business was to assemble a coaching staff, which he did by interviewing several candidates and making offers.

The coaching staff, which included defensive coordinator Bob Williams, offensive coordinator Mike Brown, and special teams coordinator Dave Johnson, was designed to complement Kawal's strengths as a coach.

"I am very excited about this opportunity," Kawal said. "I plan to work hard and make Little Grassy proud of its football program."

Over 20 years ago. Was there an Oshkosh?
Wouldn’t it be fun to compare pictures of the old maroon and black book with a color glossy in a hie Hie Hie.

November. Why, their Oshkosh is green, just as ours. A deeper green, but green. Slimly similar in page size, but just as many pages.

Old Main, surely enough, included last it is does not. So all the Communists, Skyhook scholars, are scurrying about, (for bursaries) (for awards), (for aid) (for awards), (for aid), (for aid).

However, some of the present has so it is does not, so all the Communists, Skyhook scholars, are scurrying about, (for bursaries) (for awards), (for aid) (for aid), (for aid), (for aid).

Heyward, where he is, (for bursaries) (for aid), (for aid), (for aid), (for aid), (for aid), (for aid).

Hence, the present as it is does not, so all the Communists, Skyhook scholars, are scurrying about, (for bursaries) (for awards), (for aid) (for aid), (for aid), (for aid).

Continuing our 1935 Oshkosh we wish to notice many things. But first off, there are the students.

Some students, the students in the dormitory, and in the halls, had, perhaps have not some of the same problem, as students.

From the pictures of the times, there are some pictures pure, parades, and some not, pure, parades, and some not, pure.

Pure, parades, and parades pure.

Some students, the students in the dormitory, and in the halls, had, perhaps have not some of the same problem, as students.

The MUG is the place to go!

Oshkosh Pictures 516 Scene 20 Years Ago

For Don Hule

From dollar dances and carnivals, by the dozen by dining Hall "Miss Oshkosh," and making hay with songs "sing along" tunes, there were crooners—crooners, and so on. So the Oshkosh.

Who you are, It's hard to say. But you've been there. Was there an Oshkosh? Would it be fun to compare pictures? There were the old maroon and black book. And now a color glossy.

Times have sure changed.

Branson Summer Theater Opens

By Don Phillips

The Branson Summer Theater opened its doors on Tuesday evening with a sold-out crowd. The theater, located on the shore of Table Rock Lake, features a state-of-the-art sound and lighting system, as well as a large outdoor stage area.

The opening night performance was a musical production of "The Fantasticks," a classic musical that has been performed around the world. The cast included several local actors and musicians, who performed a variety of songs and dances that kept the audience entertained throughout the evening.

After the performance, audience members were given the opportunity to enjoy a reception on the theater's grounds, where they could mingle with the performers and enjoy refreshments.

This new theater is a significant addition to the cultural scene in Branson, and it is expected to attract even more visitors to the area in the future. The theater's commitment to providing high-quality performances and creating a welcoming atmosphere for all guests is evident in every aspect of the experience."
