Student VP urges united plea to Derge

By David C. Miller Jr. Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

There must be a "cry from the entire University" to tell President David Derge that students, faculty and staff at SIU desire an active voice in running the university, Jim Kania said Friday afternoon in the University-Senate meeting.

Kania, student body vice president, said while he applauds Derge's pursuit of academic excellence at SIU, it is not unreasonable to ask that we be able to run our own University." Kania said Derge's "make it best" emphasis should be friendly to the fact that "we, too, want to decide what's in our best interest."

Faced with the problem of being a lame-duck body, the U-Senate should continue to operate in a responsible, fashion, Kania said, adding that "Yesterday he (Derge) reminded us we're responsible." Kania said U-Senate should be the governing body of SIU; and that it has to prove it "deseves" consideration by Derge.

As a governance body, Kania said, the U-Senate should have a legislation input into the University structure and also the right to override presidential veto in affairs related to students, faculty or staff. Presently, the U-Senate has no such power, following Pres. Derge's denial of U-Senate legislative veto powers.

Asked if he sensed pride among students at SIU, Kania said they are "mainly interested in things that concern them," not as much with the University as a whole. However, he pointed up the need for a more direct student governing voice, since he "doubted that 10 per cent of the students wanted to get rid of textbook rentals.

Kania also said communication between students and their elected representatives has to be improved. Claiming that the average student "only knows what the Daily Egyptian tells him," Kania said the students have to be reached in the dorms and in house counselors meetings.

In other business, the U-Senate established a committee to investigate SIU's recent censure by the American Association of University Professors. Bill Beece, acting president, said the committee would define censurement and determine what the University can do to meet the requirements to lift the blackball.

Offices close, no classes over Fourth

In observance of the nation's Fourth of July holiday, most city offices and businesses in Carbondale will close their doors Wednesday. The University will shut down, with no classes being held Wednesday.

Holiday facilities in Carbondale will be highlighted by the social Carbon- City Club Fourth of July fireworks display which will be held at 8 p.m. Wednesday at Abe Martin Field.

The event, which will feature a special fireworks finale, is free and open to the public, Wayne Given, a Lions Club member, said.

A picnic, sponsored by the Youth Adv. Council, will be held from 4:30 until dark Wednesday at Abes Park, Monroe Street, coordinator of the council, said.

The picnic is free and open to the public, Ms. Summer said.

Officers at the Police Community Services Center warned that special efforts will be made in enforcing the state-fireworks law.

The state law prohibits private possession and use of fireworks. Penalties for any violation of the law can be as high as a $500 fine, police said.

SIU's multi-million budget awaiting Walker's signature

By Diane Mitakala
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

SIU's 1974 budget requires only a stroke of Gov. Dan Walker's pen to become a multi-million dollar reality. After slicing $17.6 million from the capital budget portion of the hill, the legislature passed it on the governor during the final hectic hours of its session.

"Hopefully," the governor will add his signature to the $128.3 million SIU bill later this week, Robert Gallegly, SIU Board of Trustees treasurer, said Monday.

SIU's capital budget—which amounted to $45.2 million when it reached the Illinois House and $27.6 million when it left that chamber—will be divided between the University the state's Capital Development Board Bond, Gallegly said. The board will be assigned the lion's share of the capital funds—$26.4 million—leaving SIU as the caretaker of $1.2 million. The fund-splitting arrangement was the result of a last-minute change in the bill, Gallegly said.

The capital Development Bond Board, is authorized to issue capital- obligation bonds for state projects. All bondable SIU projects will be channeled through the board, while non-bondable projects will be managed by SIU, Gallegly said.

The $114.9 million operating budget portion of the SIU appropriation is roughly split three ways. From operations money, $10 million is earmarked for the University retirement fund, and approximately $2.5 million for rental payments to the Illinois Building Authority, Gallegly said.

The $114.9 million rental funds from SIU for buildings on both campuses constructed by the authority, Gallegly said.

The remainder of the capital budget, some $88 million, will be used to finance the actual operation of SIU system, Gallegly said.

SIU's original appropriation followed recommendations from the Illinois Board of Higher Education. Gallegly said. The cuts made by the legislature, he noted, brought the appropriation closer to the amount recommended by Gov. Walker.

Finance Committee requesting budgets

By Joanne de Plebe
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The Senate Finance Committee has set up new requirements for handling fee allocations, Ross Adams, chairman, has announced.

A line-item budget will be requested this over all groups wanting funds from student fees, Adams said. This means each group must specify how it plans to spend the requested funds.

Adams said the finance committee has an "ethical" concern to continue in this way.

"I ran on a platform to make Student Government more representative of the precipice of SIU," Adams said. "We the finance committee should be concerned on how money is spent regarding all students on the Carbondale campus."

In other action, the committee amended an emergency fee allocation given to Black Affairs Council on June 28.

An allocation of $10,000 was given to fund the organization for the entire summer quarter. However, emergency funds can only be allocated for a period before the board of trustees approves fee recommendations for 1973-74.

This action should take place on July 13, Adams said.

As a result, Black Affairs Council was allocated $1,775 for this two-week period.

The committee also approved a recommendation of $355 made by two SIU students who have been chosen for the United States Wheelchair team.

The fund will help finance a trip to Stoke Mandeville, England, where the team will be competing internationally July 14-21.
Role of financial aid given at workshop

By Sam Denom
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The role of the financial aid counselor-administrator in State Programs of financial assistance, was the topic presented Monday to members of the Workshop in Federal Government and Higher Education financial aids, being held at SIU.

The workshop is under the sponsorship of the University’s Student Work and Financial Assistance Office and Department of Higher Education.

Rocky J. Godzicki, administrative director for Student Financial Aid for the Illinois State Scholarship Commission, discussed some of the history and development of Illinois’s financial aid programs, and the effects of legislation upon both student applicants and financial aids administration.

“The monetary award (scholarship or grant) program that the Illinois Scholarship Commission has is open only to undergraduate students who are Illinois residents,” Godzicki said.

“This excludes graduate and foreign students from such monetary awards,” Godzicki added “with the exception of those foreign students having permanent residence that are also residents of the state.”

Godzicki stated that in the financial year just ending the commission had made over 65,000 awards, amounting to approximately $50 million and that monetary awards for the school year beginning this fall awards might range from $10,000 to 75,000 to 76,000 students.

“There are two major objectives that the scholarship program is intended to serve,” Godzicki said. “One objective is to help students gain some type of post-secondary education.”

“However, in order for a student to be eligible he must be attending either a public or private college or university. Students attending profit-making vocational or campus shops are not eligible.”

Godzicki said the other objective of the program was to shift or broaden a student’s college choice and make it possible for more students to attend private schools, who otherwise might only be financially able to attend public schools.

In emphasizing various aspects of the commission’s growth since its start in 1923, Godzicki stated that the eligibility requirement has always been the financial need of the student.

In addition to taking the title of executive vice president, Overcamp also stepped down from his position as acting president while SIU students plan to elect a new student government president.

The new college is made up of 15 separate school units. In addition, the departments of the former Illinois College of Pharmacy and the Illinois College of Housing and Family Services, the Social Welfare program, the College of Design, and the Rehabilitation Institute.

Herbert L. Fink, former director of the college's Department of Art and Art History, was named assistant to Mike Crist, student body president. Fink will serve as an assistant for the presidency.

Appointed to the senate for two year terms only are John T. Redmond, a senior and student welfare commissioner; William J. Hufnagel, junior, and student government president; Edward Ferris, senior; and John S. affine, senior and student services commissioner. Hufnagel also serves as an assistant to Mike Crist, student body president.

In non-campus related activities, Overcamp was also recently named a director of the Illinois Council on Community Colleges and Art History.

Fink's appointment is a temporary, year-and-a-half appointment and major salary will begin next month for a permanent permanent of the position. He was a last minute appointment when the college was named a permanent assistant to the president.

Gardner's view of Southern Illinois life declared bigoted, unscholarly

To the Daily Egyptian:

I feel that someone needs to write an open letter to Mr. John Gardner concerning the article he wrote entitled "Southern Illinois University—We teach and study and raise all the hell we can," which was published Saturday, June 23, in the Daily Egyptian.

Mr. Gardner, you have chosen a few incidents that happened in southern Illinois and used them to assert that "moral shortcoming is a way of life in part of southern Illinois. I think this is an irresponsible statement and your whole article is bigoted and un-

You state that "Carbondale is the ugliest city in the Universe until you come to the professors' ranch-home streets." How many other cities have you seen, to make such a statement? It is "too bad that all of the people in Carbondale do not have the money to buy lovely ranch-homes like the University professors. We would like to.

As for classical music being absent from our radio stations, have you ever listened to some of the stations in the large cities, Mr. Gardner? The music is the same. I suggest that you turn off your southern Illinois radio stations so you won't have to listen to the music, the sermons and the hot prices. Surely you have a stereo and can play your own classical music.

If you consider our culture to consist of people abusing each other and burning each other's buildings, I would say that you do not know many people in southern Illinois. As for our entertainment, did you conduct a survey to give you the percentage of people who cook or fuss hunt? How do you know that we "join gospel or hillbilly singers" for our TV entertainment? I hope that one of your colleagues will refute some of the statements you made about S.I.U. and the "dumb professors" as you call them. If we have these dumb professors and the "famous, exorbitantly expensive professors" who cannot teach, what hope do we have for our future? How fortunate that we have you, Mr. Gardner to write such a biased article in a national magazine. How wondering that there are so many things at S.I.U. that "make a man somewhat proud." I like the way that you explain in parenthesis, of course, that friendships at S.I.U. "trench departmental lines" and that you even know a faculty member who knows a trustee.

Perhaps you should have stayed at San Francisco State where it is now respectable, in your opinion, and where they no longer teach "brilliant, unqualified punks." Certainly San Francisco would be more appealing to an atheist than Carbondale, you could also leave Carbondale and its "ignorant, more depressed students" and go back to Northwestern. You chose your article by stating that you will stay here "until the great darkness of dignity comes." I hope that one of the many professors at S.I.U. that I know and admire will write another article to "change" to take away the "darkness" you have given to S.I.U. and the people of this area. Also we poor, ignorant southern Illinoisans would like to know what you mean by saying that you and your friends "teach and study and raise all the hell we can." Does this mean you plan to burn buildings after you turn on the switch? I hope your reasons makes as much sense as your statement that half the fires in southern Illinois are suspected arson.

How to make the poor happy

By Arthur Hopp

Crescile Features

Now that Mr. Nixon has dramatically ended the War on Poverty to the cheers of a grateful Nation, only one single problem remains: What are we going to do with poor people?

The trouble with poor people is they're often unhappy. And having unhappy people around tends to make us unhappy. Should they starve, for example, we might even feel guilty.

Fortunately, something is being done. A new Federal Bureau of Happiness has been created and a pilot project is underway in Appalachia Corners.

One of the first couples the Bureau agent, Ellington D. Flumm, called on was Judd and Maude Judd, who had been fighting poverty for more than 60 years.

"Good news," said Mr. Flumm, setting his briefcase on the Judds' rickety kitchen table. "You won't have to fight poverty any more. The war's over. And in gratitude for your years of gallant service, the Government's going to make you happy."

"We'd be happy to," said Judd, putting an arm around Maude's frail shoulders. "What for?"

"I'm glad you asked that question," said Mr. Flumm, pulling a thick sheaf of papers from his briefcase. "I have here a list of 7306 items you should be happy about. First off, there's income taxes."

"We never paid none," said Judd, "not having no income to mention."

"Exactly," said Mr. Flumm. "And you don't know the headaches you're missing this time of year."

"I'd be happy with a pair of gingham curtains," said Maude hopefully.

"You shouldn't seek happiness in your material possessions," said Mr. Flumm, lowering his tone, "but in your lack of them. For example, you can be happy you don't have to worry about someone stealing the tape deck out of your car or which wine goes with what or what's on television or why it doesn't work or what's inside a chocolate..."

"What is inside a chocolate?" asked Maude.

"You see?" said Mr. Flumm before continuing down the list. "Now you also don't have to worry about where to go on vacation, sticking to the latest fat diet, your backhand, how long to cook the steak on the broiler, or which bank is giving the best savings.

"Pooh-poohs?" said Judd.

"For opening an account," said Mr. Flumm. "Having neither money nor a job relieves you of 1234 specific worries: making a will, getting to work on time, finding a taxi in the rain, choosing the right country club, and so forth. And it not only relieves you of your worries but your fears."

"Judd here's not afraid of nothing," said Maude proudly.

"Of course not," agreed Mr. Flumm. "He's not afraid of flying, a beer market, his annual medical checkup, dollar devaluation, his name in the gossip columns or selling out."

"I feel better already," said Judd. "But I'm still poor."

"Then the ticket!" cried Mr. Flumm, clapping him on the back. "Count your blessings."

SIU is a little safer

To The Daily Egyptian:

After reading John Gardner's article in the Town & Gown edition Saturday, June 23, it should be added that as long as we have Gardner and others like him here, and have a campus paper which provides an excellent medium for such exciting and penetrating self-analysis, SIU is a little safer from "the dark days of dignity."

Buyers Doubt Price Control Effectiveness

By R. Gregory N Yale
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON—A government official said today that consumers don't believe the Nixon administration can restrain inflation and prices in the new Phase 4 controls program unless consumers can be made aware of its benefits.

"I am inclined to believe that unless some impressive overtures are made to enlist the support of the average citizen, the program will fail," said Ray Ryan, the late consumer counsel to the Cost of Living Council.

Ms. Ryan spoke at a hearing, called by the Senate's Food Advisory Committee, into food price problems and the government's proposed new Phase 4 controls program.

She said most consumers feel that price controls are desirable and workable, but they must be committed to retaining controls until such time as the basic causes of inflation are eliminated.

She also said she personally would prefer some food price controls against fast prices, but said consumer groups were divided on whether there should be some form of government rationing for goods in short supply.

She urged the Food Advisory Committee and the council "not to look for the back of the inflation dragon in the anti-inflation program.

"Consumer confidence in the program or in the government's commitment to resolve the problem of inflation must be engendered," Mrs. Nixon said.

The West German mark strengthened Friday's 5½ per cent increase in its value in relation to seven European currencies and rode high through the day against most of them.

Frankfurt dealers described trading conditions as "active but hectic," but the amount of money actually changing hands was far from critical proportions. Trading in Paris was weak and confused.

The currencies of Belgium, Denmark, France, West Germany, Luxembourg and the Netherlands, plus Norway and Sweden, were in limbo,最好不要 in relation to the dollar.

The mark's value was increased Friday in relation to those eight currencies.

Dealers said the dollar was helped in late trading Monday by the action of big American banks in raising their lending rates to the level of those in Europe, making it attractive for Europeans to invest across the Atlantic.

The price of gold dropped $2 an ounce to $212.25 in Zurich and $1.75 to $212.75 an ounce.

The dollar plunged nearly five pennings in London to 6.425 marks in Frankfurt before recovering to close at 2.9855 at the close.

Unique degree will be offered at School of Technical Careers

By Linda Lipman
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

A unique bachelor of science degree program will be initiated this fall as part of the School of Technical Careers, formerly known as Vocational Technical Institute (VTI) Arden Pratt dean of the School of Technical Careers, said Monday.

"The VTI was remodeled because the old facility could not accommodate areas that we offer," Pratt said. The School of Technical Careers is replacing the functions of the former VTI July 1.

"The Bachelor of Science degree program is unique because it associate (3-year) and bachelor (4-year) programs don't exist together at a university," Pratt said.

The Bachelor of Science degree program provides both degrees in a four-year work experience in their field. The program provides students with away credits from students that are taken elsewhere in vocational or technical school.

The B.S. degree program will allow us to accept A.A.S. "Associated of Applied Science" people from community colleges and build a program to lead to the B.S. degree. With a program designed individually for each student, he can get his degree in two years," Pratt continued.

"The student's own major will be outlined completely by himself and his advisor," Pratt said. This is to be sure the student satisfies University graduation requirements and his own particular requirements, repeating courses or taking extra credits, Pratt said.

The new program will use the total advantage of the services of the learning specialists, he said. Almost all courses will be taught at the Carbondale campus.

"If, for example, a student with an A.A.S. degree in aviation wants to learn at a university, he would take management courses from the College of Education. If he wants to learn business management skills to fly, he could take classes at the airport," Pratt said.

The program will be initiated this fall. The B.S. degree program will be offered for the first time in the fall. The program will be more than a continuation of the existing program.

The new program will provide more opportunities for students to be employed at a higher level than are currently available in the field.

Towering, heroic policeman thwarted escape of convicts

NEW WASHINGTON, Ohio (AP) — A police patrolman slowly climbed into the window of a nearby house where he rescued a mother and her five children from two escaped convicts who had taken her captive.

On a normal Monday in July, police said, the two convicts were on the run from the courts and the police. One of the convicts, identified as Robert Lee Akers, was serving time for armed robbery. The other, identified as Robert Lee Allen, was serving time for armed robbery.

The police said that when they arrived at the house, they found the family inside and that the convicts had been trying to force their way into the residence. The police said that the convicts had broken into the house and that they had been unable to escape.

The police said that they had been able to rescue the family members and that they had been able to arrest the convicts.

The police said that the convicts had been able to escape from the house and that they had been able to arrest them.

The police said that they were following up leads on the whereabouts of the convicts.

"Wait Until Dark" starts on weekend

By Glenn Amato
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

"Wait Until Dark" will inaugurate the Summer Playhouse '73 season at 7 p.m. Friday through Sunday, in the University Theater of the Communications Building.

The Frederick Knott thriller, set in present-day Greenwich Village,1 utilizes a seemingly ordinary doll that Sam, a photographer, is asked to keep by a beautiful stranger. The doll contains a cache of heroin that three thugs trace to Sam's apartment. Sam is sent out on a began assignment, leaving his blind wife Suzy alone.

The thugs improvise a small play in hopes of deceiving Suzy into handing over the doll. Suzy is an easy target as she unknowingly cooperates with them. When she finally discovers the hoax, Suzy proves to be more than a match for her tormentors.

"Wait Until Dark" had a two-year run on Broadway. Lee Remick's performance as Suzy won her a Tony Award nomination for best actress. Audry Hepburn's performance in the film version received an Academy Award nomination for best actress. Knott's previous stage works include "Dial M For Murder" and "Write Me A Murderer."

Under the direction of Kean Stewart-Harrison, associate professor of theater, "Wait Until Dark" stars Marion Scherer as Suzy.

Miss Scherer, who received her undergraduate and graduate training in theater at Illinois State University, has appeared in productions at Ellen Stewart's Caffe LaMama in New York, and Exit Theater in New Haven, Conn., and the Drury Lane Theater in Chicago. She also starred in a touring edition of Neil Simon's "The Star-Spangled Girl."

The supporting cast includes Bev Appleton, Cindy Benson, Lew Bolson, Mike Dixon, Steve Drabuitch, Leonard McCormick and Malcolm Rothman.

Tickets, priced at $1.75 for students and $2.75 for others, are available at the University Theater box office and the Central Ticket Office in the Student Center. Student rush tickets, priced at $1, will be sold ten minutes before curtain upon presentation of a current fee statement or ID card.

Future Summer Playhouse '73 productions include "Oliver!" July 13, 14, 15, 20 and 21; "The Tavern," July 27, 28 and 29; and "Promises, Promises," Aug. 3, 4, 8, 9 and 11.

CIA nominee says agency wrong in Ellsberg case

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Nixon's nominee to head the Central Intelligence Agency said Monday that the CIA was wrong in providing assistance that was used in burglary and wiretapping the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist.

William E. Colby told the Senate's Armed Services Committee that the agency would have no role in gathering domestic intelligence.

People's committees influence life in Libya

TRIPOLI, Libya (AP) - People's committees established by Col. Muammar Khadafy are spreading their influence throughout every aspect of Libyan life. They have some success in improving efficiency and streamlining bureaucracy. At the same time, they have created considerable tension in this Arab nation. Some old enemies have come out of the open.

The committees also are likely to produce cads or core groups that could prove troublesome to Khadafy's revolutionary government. Some people here have become a "shifting block" for Libya's youthful revolutionaries.

The committees were set up following a speech April 18 by Khadafy, who urged them to... William and any business bureaucrat who claims the door in your face, refusing to respond to your needs.

"Destroy all libraries...which harbor rottenness in imported ideologies, reactionary thoughts, capitalist and bourgeois Communism."

"Destroy all academic programs which do not abide by our Arab Islamic mentality."

"Only the true thought, that emerges from the Holy Koran should prevail," Khadafy said, and he pledged the support of the army and the Revolutionary Command Council, the chief government body. So far, the committees have been given a free hand, in oil companies, among students and even among residents of certain streets.

All committees decisions are subject to approval by the command council.

There is no evidence that the committee-inspired demonstrations are directed at one group, or at foreigners. Fights at hospitals, which have large Egyptian staffs, have usually been of Libyans. At the oil companies, Libyans and Egyptians have been affected about equally.

Committees have discovered more importantly published, prostitution and, among foreigners by taxi drivers. Prostitutes, under certain legal conditions, can be sentenced to death by stoning.

The most important long-range effect of the committees is in the training of persons to negotiate with official supervisors as an effort to improve efficiency and working conditions.

Jokes on TV urge Polish Americans to ask equal time

WASHINGTON (AP)—Polish Americans, angered by what they called a barrage of demeaning "Polack" jokes on ABC-TV, petitioned the government Monday to force the network to give them equal time to respond.

The Polish American Congress, in filing the petition with the Federal Communications Commission, said it spoke for 10 million Polish Americans.

Attorney Thaddeus L. Lowski, chairman of the Anti-Defamation Commission of the Polish American Congress said "we intend to fight the increasing barrage in the media.

"If necessary, this will be the first of several suits," he said. "ABC-TV is not alone in its responsibility for presenting a negative and insulting image of the Polish Americans in its national programming.

The petition mentioned several shows but singled out an ABC broadcast of the Aug. 18, 1973, Dick Cavett Show hosted by Steve Allen.

"An alleged 'apology' was made by Steve Allen on Aug. 11, 1973," the petition said. "This statement was not an apology at all, but was surrounded by a comic setting and was the basis for more demeaning humor, rather than a serious expression of regret.

The Polish American Congress said Lowski made several requests to ABC for equal time but was turned down each time.

Other shows mentioned in the petition were the "Mature to Howard Gould" on May 31, 1973, and "Bob Burns and Scherbrok Show," June 2, 1973.

Psychoanalysis institute now ok'd to grant degrees

CHICAGO (AP)—The Institute of Psychoanalysis in Chicago has received approval to become the first such institute in the country to grant degrees.

Dr. Michael B. Rakhine, state superintendent of public instruction, has authorized the institute to award the degree of doctor of psychoanalysis.

The proposed institute, one of 22 in the United States, trains psychoanalysts and others dealing with emotional life, conducts research in emotional development and problems, and treats patients.

Dr. George E. Pollock, director of the institute, said Monday, the first students for the doctorate probably will not be accepted until 1973, pending approval of the program by the American Psychoanalytic Association.

He said in an interview the new program will open the profession to those who are not psychiatrists, thus removing psychoanalysis as a specialty of psychiatry and making it an independent profession.

This would shorten the length of training required for an analyst and enable analysts to begin their practices at an earlier age.

The American Psychoanalytic Association is currently for psychoanalysis to earn an M.D. before beginning training under the institute's proposed program.

The city of St. Ignatius Freud, founder of psychoanalysis, analyses have been unable to become medical doctors first. In the United States, with rare exceptions, this has been a barrier.

Pollock said he hopes the Chicago institute's establishment will lead other institutes to follow its example.

Frazier decisions Bugner in twelve

By Noel Hughes
Associated Press Sports Writer

LONDON (AP)—Joe Frazier knocked John Bugner to his knees in the 9th round and pounded out a 12-round decision over the Londoner in Frazier's first fight since losing the world heavyweight title.

The 6-foot-1, 199-pound Frazier kept on continued pressure with slamming left-hooks and jugging bugles into Bugner's body as he kept himself in the picture for a shot at champion George Foreman, the man who took Frazier's title last June. Bugner stopped him in two rounds last Jan. 22.

It was a day of loose ends, with the champion at times trying to box and at other times trying to corner the puncher with the ever-attacking Frazier.

Evert, King reach semis

at Wimbledon

By Geoffery Miller
Associated Press Sports Writer

WIMBLEDON, England (AP)—Chris Evert kept cool in a cross Monday. The hard-hitting American girl beat Luen Arons of the United States 6-1, 5-7, 6-3 and reached her second straight Wimbledon semi-final. The 19-year-old Arons star of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., came back in a strong finish after having Frazier fighting sharp valleys, had threatened to knock her out of her

It was a day of scars and tight situations for the top stars. Billie Jean King of Long Beach, Calif., defending her title, had to battle to overcome Kerry Melville of Australia, 6-1, 6-3.

Margaret Court of Australia, aiming for the Grand Slam, lost a set to Russia's Olga Morosova but recovered for a 4-6, 6-4, 6-1 victory.

Evonne Goolagong of Australia, looked the most convincing winner in the quarterfinals, thrashing Virginia Wade of Britain 6-3, 6-3.

Now it's Miss Evert against Mrs. Court and Miss Goolagong against Mrs. King in the semi-finals.

The men's quarterfinals are set for Tuesday with the NCAA champion Alex Mayer of Wayne, N.J., and Jimmy Connors of Belleville, Ill.—carrying the American hopes.

Miss Evert's coolness was invaluable to her in her tense match against Miss Court.

Roos, of San Francisco, mobile and aggressive, played the more adventurous tennis and scored a 6-3, 6-2, 6-2 victory.

Earlier in the women's tourney, Miss Goolagong followed up to the neat. Chris had blunted her at Jackie Ann Aitken, as said afterward that she is tired after seven weeks of hard competetive tennis in Europe.

Mrs. Court, who is nursing a sore back, was in trouble against Miss Morozenko's deep driving.

Pennant fever hits N.Y.

NEW YORK (AP)—Pennant fever, that pleasant little bug that buzzes around first place, has struck Yankee Stadium.

There is a feeling among the fans and players and even the organiser night that the New York Yankees have a genuine chance to win at least their division if not the pennant itself.

"When you get to winning," said Manager Ralph Houk, "you wonder how you ever lost.

While organiser Tony Wright serviced the fans, he said, "Happy Days Are Here Again" and "You're a Grand Old Flag." The Yanks have won 13 consecutive home games and 19 of the 21 AL by four games going into Monday's action. The dressing room is loose and happy and Houk's energy in a month that is constantly smiling.

The secret of New York's success has been the balance and depth of the club. In Sunday's doubleheader sweep against Cleveland, for example, Houk rested regular catcher Thurman Munson in the first game and used reserve Jerry Moses, who had been to bat just 13 times all season. Moses responded with three hits. In the nightcap, Houk rested Horace Clarke, his regular second baseman, using Bernie Allen instead. Allen, who had been to bat just 25 times, also produced three hits.

Moses said the Yankee reserves have developed a confidence that has been the key to the team's success throughout the 50-year-old season.

"Momentum is the thing. It builds when you're winning," the manager said.

Savage dies following Indy crash

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—Swede Savage, the race car driver who twice survived critical injuries, died Monday— a month and three days after a fiery crash in the Indianapolis 500.

Savage, 38, of Santa Ana, Calif., who was critically burned in the wreck, was the third person to die of injuries at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway this year.

Doctors at Methodist Hospital said death was caused by lung and kidney complications.

The tall blond Savage had been racing since he was five years old—ranging from soap boxes as a kid to the championship Indy cars.

Savage was competing in his second 500 when his Eagle-Offenburger spun coming out of the fourth turn on the 58th lap. The car swerved, smashed into the inside retaining wall and exploded, scattering debris for 100 feet.

For two weeks after the accident, Savage'scondition was described as "critical but stable." Visitors were allowed to talk with him for 16 minutes every two hours, according to Dr. Thomas Hanna, Speedway medical supervisor.

"He had been getting better the last four or five days," said Gordon Johncock, the 1973 Indy 500 winner. "We had been improving a little bit and joking. With the improvement, it was kind of a shock when I heard it this morning.

Driver Art Pollard and pit crew member Armando-Trapani also were killed in the Speedway in May.

Pollard died in a qualifying crash in practice just before the start of qualifications. Teran died when he stepped into the path of a fifth truck speeding through the pit area to Savage's burning car.

thirty-six drivers and 26 other persons, including pit crewmen and spectators, have been killed in accidents at the Speedway since it opened as a dirt track Aug. 19, 1909.

Savage and his wife, Sheryl, have a daughter, Shelly, 4. Mrs. Savage is six months pregnant.

Sweden, whose real name was David Earl Savage Jr., worked in a motorsport shop owned by racer Dan Gurney when the creator of the Eagle decided to give him a chance at Can-am racing. Savage soon became Gurney's protege. He won his first U.S. Auto Club race, a 150-miler at Phoenix, Ariz., in 1972.

On March 28 that year, he suffered severe head injuries in the Slider Open Grand Prix at Ontario Motor Speedway, when his Eagle-Plymouth Formula A car smashed into a retaining wall. But within four months he was back driving.

His career included racing quarter midgets, motorcycles, stock cars, Can Am, Trans-Am and championship cars. He won 25 pro motorcycle races.
