Saluki horses receive clean bill of health

By Charlotte Jones

Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The 19 horses at SIU's Touch of Nature in general are in "excellent condition," according to a veterinary report released Monday by director Jack Leggett.

The horses were examined June 12 by James McVicker, a Herrin veterinarian, after reports that the horses hadn't received adequate care since they were transferred from Saluki Stables last February.

The report, dated June 12, said the horses needed to be sheod and had health problems which should receive "immediate and constant attention."

Leggett said all but four of the horses had been shod since the examination and the remaining four would be shod "very soon."

The doctor said in his report he found nothing to indicate that the horses had been neglected in care or feeding.

Dr. McVicker said the Saluki horses "desperately need barn and water facilities."

A city water line was completed two weeks ago. Leggett said the city water was installed both for riders at the pasture and for the horses to drink during the day while they are in the corrals.

Leggett also released a report on a water sample taken from the pond where the horses drink when they are at pasture.

The report showed no traces of pesticides or heavy metals. Leggett said the report results "are excellent" and should clear up earlier-charges that the pond water was unsafe for the horses.

Leggett said plans for a barn for the horses had been drawn up. He said he expected bids for the structure to be let very soon, but added that he couldn't predict whether the barn would be built at the camp before winter.

Juanita Young, who directs group rides at Touch of Nature, said the horses could withstand most weather, but do need to be under shelter during icy weather to keep them from slipping and getting hurt, she added.

Student Sen. Rich Lange said the senate was advocating that a dual system for riding be set up. Lange said the Senate thinks that Saluki Stables should be reopened in addition to Touch of Nature to give SIU students a choice of places to ride.

Young said no SIU students had been riding the horses at Touch of Nature. Lange said he thought the horses were too far away from campus and riding is not as convenient for students as it was at Saluki Stables.

Campus Treasurer Dale Knight said the horses were moved from the stables because the facility was operating at a deficit and needed an estimated $25,000 in repair work.

Knight said he would be willing to look at any feasible proposals that would make the stables a break-even operation.

He said a transportation service to Touch of Nature might be started in August when more students are on campus.

Trail rides at Touch of Nature which are scheduled for groups of at least five should be scheduled a day in advance, Young said.

Special meeting set by council

The Carbondale City Council agreed Wednesday to hold a special meeting on the proposed city zoning ordinance at 7 p.m. July 18 in the city council room.

Councilman Hans Fischer said, "As far as I'm concerned, we can't do it soon enough for us to have an opportunity to work on this ordinance." He said he hopes the council will decide on the ordinance at the special meeting.

As SIU's Student Trustee, Fischer, director of public works, told the council the Neighborhord Response Team has ten members, something which has not been formally acknowledged as such. The student group, which is making plans to meet with Carbondale neighborhood groups to discuss zoning problems. The response team was organized last week.

The council approved budget adjustments to provide $5,400 toward the purchase of an ambulance for SIU. The ambulance will be leased to SIU for $1 per year.

The $5,400 is 30 per cent of the total cost of the ambulance. The remaining 70 per cent will be financed by the community.
WSIU-FM
to go stereo
by November

By Mary Tupper
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

WSIU-FM is going to have a new sound by November—stereo.
Ken Garry, station manager of WSIU-FM, said Monday he was notified late Friday that a $77,000 grant had been approved by the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) for purchase of stereo equipment.

Before WSIU-FM makes the switch, several remodeling steps must take place. Garry said the production and control rooms will have to be redone to accommodate new equipment.

A new transmitter and antenna also will have to be installed.

By the time the change-over occurs, the radio station will be operating on the maximum legal amount of power. "There will need to be a greater concentration of power in a stereo system, because without it, the sound would be distorted," Garry said.

"We are also going to install a Dolby system," Garry said, "which will aid in the elimination of the background hiss that so many of the fringe-area people experience on their stereo channels. The Dolby system will give a much better, clearer signal."

WSIU-FM also will be able to broadcast records and tapes in quadraphonic matrix sound, Garry said.

The switch from monaural to stereo will not extend the broadcast coverage radius by much. "We may pick up an extra one or two miles, but most of our new listeners will appear because of the clearer sound," Garry said.

The biggest advantage, in his view, is that students working with the equipment will receive better experience. "We will be able to train our students in a very modern area. They will have an edge over graduates from other schools that weren't as lucky and didn't have stereo equipment," he said. "Now, both the students and the listeners will benefit."

School board
shifts session

The Carbondale Community High School Board of Education will meet at 8 p.m., Tuesday in the CHS Learning Center.

The date of the regular meeting was changed from Thursday to Tuesday because of the Fourth of July holiday. Superintendent William Holder said Monday he could not discuss the items on the meeting's agenda before the board members received copies of the agenda. They were not sent from his office until Monday afternoon, Holder said.

The United States could go a lot further in promoting detente by initiating real changes in its NATO policy. As long as the United States is committed to the largest peace mission of its international whizbang and part-time President, Richard Nixon.

Americans are currently being bilked annually to the tune of about $11 billion, or nearly one-fourth the entire U.S. defense budget, in support of 300,000 ground troops stationed in Europe. While this country's troop strength represents only 12 percent of the total NATO strength, the United States is footing more than one-third the entire $50 billion annual budget of NATO.

It is hard to understand why such an intolerable situation as this is tolerated; but, in the foggy logic of the American Affairs Committee of the Senate Hartung, we maintain our present levels of support for NATO in an octopus charlatan but from calculations of national interest.

The troops, supposedly, act as a deterrent against Soviet aggression, and as an escape valve to any early dependence on nuclear retaliation. It is difficult to find any Eurowise, says UPi correspondent Richard Longworth, who see a conventional Soviet ground attack as "sizable" so long as the United States has the real deterrent nuclear weaponry.

If troops do not act as a deterrent in this age of nuclear oblitative ability, there must be some reason our Armed Forces are still in Europe after World War II. The recent Arab-Israeli October war and the actions of the European Economic Community (EEC) over the Cyprus point up one good reason: control.

While the United States put its troops on alert October 25, the nine EEC member-nations were outraged at the chess game tactics of the superpower over Cyprus. Emboldened by these three United States' failure to consult them in such a grave crisis. In these cases they asked its muscles and asserted itself by negotiating directly with the Arab oil-producing countries for energy without prior consultation with the U.S. Secretary of State Henry Kissinger expressed his "disgast" over this and represented to the EEC.

This all shows that the United States is trying to do exactly what it has accused the Soviet Union of doing in Europe: maintain its troops as an excuse to control and check the nations it occupies. Once the United States has threatened to stop the reductions in Europe, and our budget would have increased. The Ratt, therefore, developing economically and politically into a powerful bloc, has been sapping the United States of billions of dollars annually in its defense; and not because it wants it that way.

We are spending $180 billion this year so 300,000 GIs can guard stiffed jeeps and fill-up freshly dug holes and "be there" — in those cases crazy Europeans get uppity. But never mind them, check and see where the "magnetic detainee tour" is next scheduled to take our two pernicious heroes, Dick and Henry.

Open hearings: a disservice?

To the Daily Egyptian:

The discussion reported in Friday's D.E. in regard to the proposed change of policy in the confidentiality clause of the Student Conduct Review Board's hearings and me a bit perturbed. As a graduate member of this committee, I would have to take issue with the argument by Dr. Harris Rubin, Rev. Bob Springer, and the closed door hearings of the disciplinary proceedings. I am sure he is inarguable. The fact that several of such cases we have heard in the past have been extremely sensitiv e and personal in nature. To adopt a policy of open hearings without access control and possible "packed galleries" would clearly be a disservice to the students and often embarrassed student. Certainly, the Code Committee has considered this point of view.

Since the Code Committee is currently faced with the burdensome task of re-writing the Board Policy and Procedures, it would be wise to move to a modified ground line in the NATO East European Alliance by opening the board hearings of the disciplinary proceedings. Presently, the student facing discipline is not allowed to be present during the course of the hearing. This student is rarely informed of his rights (as specified in the Board's Operating

Feel safe, get bombed

By Arthur Hoppe

The beginning of the end came when The Republic of Moghul lost The Bomb to insure its national security Moghul was forced to act after the neighboring Principality of Prinhtim borrowed a used Bomb a week earlier from an itinerant Foreign Bomb peddler.

Given the concept of national security, this outcome was inevitable once the U.S. developed The Bomb. Naturally, the Russians had to have The Bomb, too, for national security. And with their national security at stake, the British and the French needed The Bomb, while the Chinese felt the same way, only more so.

India felt much more nationally secure once it had The Bomb, as did Pakistan, Israel, Egypt and so on. Indeed, once Moghul had The Bomb, every single nation in the world felt nationally secure —every single nation but The Rattum of Phynkia, which was now the only country in the world that didn't have The Bomb.

The effects on Phynkia were disastrous.

Phynkia was a poor, scrabbly little country and its hereditary ruler, The Ratt, could barely afford enough bullets to keep his loyal subjects loyal, much less a Bomb. Worse, Phynkia's technological capabilities were limited to replacing the spark plugs on The Ratt's 1957 Volkswagen every 20,000 miles.

Phynkia was defiantly not a "Struggling Socialist Nation" and even the Americans couldn't accept it as a "Bastion of Freedom." So his appeal to Washington and Moscow for a Bomb or two were stamped "Return to the Rich and Powerful.

Without The Bomb, The Ratt was snubbed at diplomatic garden parties and not even invited to part in United Nations Brotherhod. Worst of all, he and his subjects developed deep-rooted feelings of national insecurity.

The Bombless, destitute Phynkians demonstrated before the Loyal Royal Palace, shouting, "$88 & !"—which, freely translated, means, "This does the Bomb of Phynkia as we have come to know and hate it!"

As for The Ratt, he gloomily retired to his Royal Throne Room & Cocktail Lounge where he poured himself a calabash full of Old Grandad. "As long as we are defenseless, nationally-unique Phynkians are bound to get bomb," he said, grimly downing the heady draught. "I might as well be first."

The future looked black for Phynkia. And, sure enough, the inevitable occurred when The Palestinians happily blew up Israel and themselves in the cause of "peace and justice in The Middle East." The last Israeli hit the button sending a flight of Scud Missiles at Cairo, where Sadat angrily launched a retaliatory strike which unfortunately over-shot Tel Aviv and hit Minsk. The alarmed Russians let-go with everything they had at Poking, where Chairman Mao, reading the grave news backwoods, targeted 300 Intercontinental Ballistic Ricksawks (ICBil) on Washington.

The North and South Koreans and Vietnamese, awakened by the noise, lobbed Bombs back and forth, as did the East and West Germans, the Left and Right Banks and the Up and Down States.

In a wrangling, every nation with a Bomb was dropping it on every enemy with a Bomb —each, of course, to insure its national security.

Of course, no nation wasted a Bomb of Phynkia, Phynkia, having no Bomb, posed no threat to anyone's national security.

So when the radioactive dust settled, Phynkia was the richest, mightiest, if only, nation on earth.

"Couns," the proud Ratt told his Loyall Royal Council, "as the richest, mightiest nation on earth we must take steps into our national security:"

"First, we take a cup of heavy water, add a pinch of hydrogen, a dash of plutonium..."

Too much rain

A major enterprise in Southern Illinois is severely faced with reaping a dire deficit this fall when farmers harvest the golden grains of a sub-standard production year.

Subjected to one of the longest, wettest planting seasons in years, farmers, machines, bulk fertilizer sellers, farm service personnel and vehicles are sitting virtually idle as each additional rain lessens the farmers' productivity.

Farmers should be given every advantage possible this season with short term loans, quick crop insurance payments where due, and advice from university affiliated agronomy experts.

County farm advisers talk of tips like what is the best cash crop to plant after June 20, the best short season hybrids and how to adjust planters to plant more soybean seeds per foot in a row to get full advantage of the shorter growth period at this late date when the prospect of possible breaking even for farmers looks bleak.

Wheat, a mainstay to farmers who depend on it to tide them over with monumental farm costs until fall, is causing additional disappointments this summer as storm beaten wheat is yielding 10 to 15 bushels per acre less than the normal 35 to 40 bushels per acre.

Beet growers, the farmers' nerves and profits, the beating rains during the past few weeks have caused serious erosion in many fields and areas. This topsoil loss permanently scars the area this and several growing seasons to come.

When an economic plight of this nature attacks an area this not only the farmers suffer, but the entire area of residents and businessmen share the grief, economic depression, and hope of better circumstances next year.

The business people who only get the secondary loss of the unusually bad crop year should extend every service and consideration to the area's tillers of the soil in their struggle while these farmers hope for a short season and a successful year.

Sexual behavior seminar set

A "Sexual Awareness Seminar" will be held on campus, July 12 and 13. The program will begin Friday at 8 p.m. and end at 11 p.m. Saturday. Registration will be limited to 20 persons from the university and community.

The seminar is designed to help participants become more aware of the full scope of human sexual behavior and to become more aware of their own sexual attitudes and feelings. Films pertaining to sexual behavior and attitudes will be shown.

Leadership for the seminar will be provided by staff members from the SIU Counseling Center and Human Sexuality Service.

Registration fee is $10, and the registration deadline is Wednesday, July 9.

Further information and registration forms are available from Chuck Landis, Counseling Center, Washington Square, Bldg. A, 435-8577.

New Haven nursing home searches for volunteer help

The New Haven Center, a shelter care-nursing home at 500 Lewis Lane in Carbondale is seeking volunteers.

According to Bill Atkinson, Volunteer coordinator for New Haven, volunteers are needed to aid in the activities of the center.

"We are looking for people that could come out and spend maybe one or two hours a week helping the residents by taking them on shopping trips, playing the piano and sharing their basic skills," Atkinson said.

"There is such a potential here in this area for volunteer work, that we think with the aid of volunteers we could have a really good program," he added.

Most of the residents in the center are from the Southern 17 counties serviced by Anna State Hospital. There are approximately 250 residents now living in New Haven.

Anyone interested in doing volunteer work at the center should contact Atkinson at the New Haven Center or phone 437-7524.

Ashe, Borg eliminated from pack as Wimbledon enters second week

By Will Grimsley
AP Special Correspondent

WIMBLEDON, England — The bubble burst for Bjorn Borg and the end again came too soon for an anxious Arthur Ashe in the Wimbledon Tennis Championships Monday.

Ismael El Shafer, an Egyptian whose talent has been hidden under a veil, halted the amazing tennis odyssey of the 17-year-old Borg, heart throb of teen-agers, with an unimaginably easy 6-2, 6-3, 6-1 victory in the third round.

Renee Tanner, a left-hander from Lookout Mountain, Tenn., used an explosive, high-bounding serve for a 7-5, 8-9, 6-2 triumph over Ashe, once America’s best, who twice has been a semifinalist but never a winner at Wimbledon.

Thus after a little more than a week, the first of the men’s seeds-Borg, No. 5, and Ashe, No. 8—were dispatched to the sidelines while all other singles favorites, men and women, gained the fourth-round bracket of 16.

John Newcomb of Australia, Ilie Nastase of Romania and Jimmy Connors and Stan Smith of the United States, seeded 1-2-3-4, marched forward.

It was the same in the women’s division. The favored Billie Jean King stroked past Francoise Durac of France, 6-1, 7-5.

At 6:15 p.m. on Field 1, Ralph’s Raiders vs. CIA; on Field 2, Phi Sigma Kappa vs. Beach Bums; on Field 4, Phantom Hawks vs. Canadian Club.

And at 7:15 p.m. on Field 4, Roadrunners vs. X’s.

Chisox acquire pitcher Allen

CHICAGO (AP)—The Chicago White Sox Monday announced they had acquired right-hander Roy Allen from the Texas Rangers.

Allen, 24, had an 0-1 record while working 22-1-2 innings in relief. His best year was 1976, when he was 7-1 with the California Angels when he was 45-19 with a 2.69 earned run average.

Isabel Fernandez of Colombia in 37 minutes 6-1, 6-1.

Rosemary Casals of San Francisco, No. 4, slammed her way to a 6-3, 6-4 decision over Mima Joro of Yugoslavia.

Advancing with Smith’s winners and Tanner were Tom Gibson of Seattle, Erik van Dillen of Los Angeles, Calif., and Dick Stockton of Illinois. Stockton won by default when Britain’s Buster Mottram, suffering a throat ailment, withdrew.

Orta goes from slow starter to fast learner

By Joe Mosshill

CHICAGO—Jorge Orta, the Chicago White Sox’ shy, 21-year-old Mexican second baseman, appears to be on the threshold of stardom and Manager Chuck Tanner is making sure he’s not wanting for advice.

Now in his third season in the major leagues, Orta got off to a poor start and found himself on the bench. The White Sox then called on batting instructor Deacon Jones to bring Orta out of the doldrums.

Orta has responded with 28 hits in his last 63 at bats and has hit safely in 12 of his last 15 games to boost his average to .332 while his fielding, which also has lagged, has shown marked improvement.

"Lucky," says Orta who hit safely in eight straight trips to the plate over the weekend and fell only two short of the Sox club record. He had five straight hits in the first game of Sunday’s doubleheader with Minnesota.

"I’m just swinging," says Orta, halting English. "Deacon changed my stance. I was hitting back. He move me up closer to the plate and up in the box. Then I started seeing the ball better.

Jones does not seek credit for the change in Orta.

"His mental attitude has changed," Jones says. "He’s more positive now. The talent is there. He has the potential to lead the league. But he still has a lot to learn."

Tanner, who groups Orta with Bill Sharp, Brian Downing and Bucky Dent as the third baseman’s young drive, revealed that superstar Dick Allen also has been helping.

"Allen keeps talking to him and is a key man in Orta’s improvement," says Tanner. "He’s lookin’ at that bat and in the field and you’ll see a lot of Allen’s mannerisms."

"Don’t think it doesn’t help because he really looks up to Allen who is always working with him and talking to him."

Allen shrugs when asked about his relationship to Orta.

"We talk about the game in general," says Allen, "I tell him when he makes an error to forget about it."

15-match week faces Billie Jean at Wimbledon

By Ronald Thomson
Associated Press Writer

WIMBLEDON, England—Billie Jean King says she’s mentally and physically geared for the tough test ahead in this second week of Wimbledon.

Because rain washed out so much of the first week’s play, the No. 1 women’s seed must survive 15 matches if she wants to win her third triple crown in this biggest jewel of the international tennis world.

"Physically, I’m ready," she said after beating Francoise Durac of France in straight sets Monday’s third round. "Mentally, I’m in great shape too. But I don’t want to think about 15 matches—one at a time is enough."

The star from Hilton Head, S.C., is competing in her 14th Wimbledon Championships, but never before has she faced such a logjam in the second week.

"It’s difficult to motivate yourself every day when you watch the rain coming down, hour after hour," she said. "I didn’t just sit around, though. I kept practicing two hours a day among sprints and long distance.

"This is the best shape I’ve been in my life." Ms. King, the 5-foot-4 dynamo who is seeking her third singles title and her third sweep of the singles, doubles and mixed-doubles titles, hopes to net 10 pounds and now tips the scales at 126.

Ms. King, who has been plagued by bad knees, says playing in Wimbledon never gets old.
