The Zetetic Literary Society, with Grates, John, chairman, she received its charter for the year this afternoon at eight o'clock when it will present "Outward Bound," Sexton's successful play, at the Shryock Auditorium. The play was produced in a moving picture by Warner Brothers in 1939. The Zetetic Society, students who have parts in the play, have had an extensive amount of dramatic experience, both in class and outside, and the cast includes the following: Scrubby, Will Adams; Franny, Jane Rose Whitley; Henry, James White; Tom Prior, Rollo Winkelman; Will Adams; Betty Purcell; Reverend William Duke, Marc Green; Mrs. Mildred, Martha Morrow; Mrs. Lingley, Harold Bailey; Reverend Frank Thompson, Vernon Anderson.

The play is under the direction of Julia Jonath, drama teacher. Miss Jonath is assisted by Jeanette Ann Evans and Marie Bland. The lounge smoking room of a small ocean liner is the scene for the action of this play. All the characters are passengers, and they all are bound for no particular port at all. When the amazing discovery is made by Tom Prior, fellow passengers refuse to believe such a theory, but after Tom's insistence, they discover for themselves their true destination.

The play ends in a stirring and mystic scene which shows them struggling to find each other after they have been separated by a force greater than themselves. The Zetetic Society presented "To The Ladies," a clever and amusing satire written by Marc Anderson (Continued on Page Six.)

The last meeting of the Women's Athletic Association was held Thursday afternoon in the gymnasium. This meeting was the occasion for the presentation of the mock trial program.

The program was presented by the department of Physical Education and was directed by Miss Bonhard. The program consisted of a scene from the play, "The Slander Case," which was performed by the Dramatics Club.

The program was well received, and the audience enjoyed the humorous and realistic portrayal of the characters. The actors and actresses were well cast, and the dialogue was witty and engaging. The audience was impressed with the acting skills of the performers, and many of them commented on the quality of the production.

The program was followed by a brief discussion of the importance of mock trials in legal education, and the role they play in preparing students for a career in law.

The meeting concluded with a vote to form a "Seminar" to discuss legal topics. The seminar was approved by the majority of the attendees. The first meeting of the seminar was scheduled for the following week.

The meeting was well attended, and the attendees were enthusiastic about the new seminar. The seminar was expected to be a valuable resource for students interested in pursuing a career in law.
Resume of 1931-32 Activities

With this, the final issue of the year, the Egyptian newspaper concludes its following review of the high points of the 1931-32 academic year.

Prior to the opening of the fall term a second national education society was added to the Greek organizations on this campus. Students of Sigma Sigma Sigma, a chapter of Sigma Sigma Sigma, was installed early in September. The organization has met with fruitful results and has expanded somewhat its membership.

1931 was an exceedingly successful Homecoming—with its well-received "Depressions of 1931," the Strat and Pest production, its sport parade, and its football victory when the Maroons defeated DeKalb 7-6 in the final football battle of the season.

Mu Tau Pi, the journalistic fraternity, organized early in the fall term, is made up of members from the staff of the Egyptian and the Observer. This organization has shown much promise and potential, and has successfully sponsored a writing contest for students other than members of Mu Tau Pi.

Lewis Browne, author and lecturer, in December delivered a lecture, "What's Our College Doing For You?" The Shroyer Auditorium. Mr. Browne made a very favorable impression here, and was deemed a popular lecturer.

During the latter part of November the Student Council adapted a new cut system to go into effect at the beginning of the winter term. Brinsie, the new system providing for four cuts to each student in each class, with the privilege of unlimited cuts to those of senior college rank having a four-point average.

All in the new plan has not met with the desired satisfactory results. It is hoped with the coming quarter that clarification from some faculty members, especially.

Opening a day observance of the Washington Bicentennial celebration on this campus, Dr. Willa G. Brown and her new college organization have made a splendid show of professionalism. "Washington's Peace in Our National Life Today," The Brave and "First Washington" plays were especially appropriate and well received. This mid-spring offering of S. I. T. C.'s Theatrics was one of the best.

At the annual meeting of the presidents of the various college held at Washington, D. C., February 11, S. I. T. C. was ranked without a single deficiency. This brought added recognition to the T.C. I. C. The football team was voted the "Best of the Best" for the first time this rating was tendered S. I. T. C.

A noteworthy and unprecedented honor coming to the Egyptian was the awarding to the Columbia Press Club of the "Mac" by the college paper, awarded annually by the Columbia Press Club according to the judges this spring.

"This award is recognized as one of the highest given any campus publication since the organization of the institution."

Bringing distinction to himself and the college, W. M. Bailey, head of the Botany department, received his degree of Doctor of Philosophy from Chicago University, March 16. Dr. Bailey's thesis was "Some Structural and Metabolic Effects of Psychologi- cal Pre-determination."

Marking the return of S. I. T. C. to the football field, the collegiate debut of a series of non-participation, the varsity debate team defeated Evansville College April 1 in the final debate of the year. The debate was about and proposed by the Forum Debating Club, which plans to continue its inter-collegiate debating during the 1931-32 school year.

The third annual W. A. A. Play proved to be a very successful venture, in that the largest number of high school groups made attempts to participate in the affair.

For the third consecutive year the Maroon Club captivated the football fan in the spring debates, winning by a 4-3 decision. Especially deplorable was the fact that little interest in the latter part of March, by those few people directly concerned with them.

Producing one of the finest performances ever exhibited in the S. I. T. C. auditorium, the College Music Department presented the opera "Mozart," April 21.

Through the consistent efforts of the College Music Department, the fine art of music has been brought to this campus.

BASKETBALL

"Maroon" picked two teams at the start of the season—one made up of seniors and the other a combination of freshman and sophomores. During the first tilts, the team alternated, each playing a half of the game. In the early games of the season, dropped five games with a total of only seven points. The State Normal basketball champions of the 1931 season, were defeated by the T.C. in the last part of the season.

TRACK

Coach Lingel's prospects did not appear as bright at the opening track season. This is the boasted track team of the 1931-32 season. However, the team has developed into the strongest ever representation in the history of track on this campus. Unfortunately, the team has lost one of its best runners in the opening track season. The faculty golf team defeated a student golf team last Saturday morning at Jackson Country Club, 33 up, in an eighteen-hole match. This was quite a victory for the faculty team, which had been belied by several students who thought they could "take" them at this game.

Another situation you must deal with is the keeping of your first Teacher's Institute meeting. Upon doing so you will meet a few tricksters who secure their breeding in each generation of first year teacher. These fellows accept with you a scheme for making gigantic kinds of sale, which makes no little nonsense. It is only to be expected, indeed, that you will be more or less a little slyer, to point out the pitfalls to the stranger that may lose himself in the sea of frauds.

In brief, students, I wish to relate a few facts to you, not as a sermon, but as a show of a feeling of the world. These facts may convince or reject, laugh at or ponder but will not be able to change your mind. I do not intend to make a futile effort to set myself and my doctrines upon a pedestal, and, from my seat, to overlook the clouds, but to point out the pitfalls to the stranger that may lose himself in the sea of frauds.

They are included in the "Outward Bound" program, which will offer a full course in outdoor education. The program will cover skills such as camping, hiking, and survival techniques.

The program will be held at the university's outdoor education center, located on the outskirts of the city. The center is equipped with facilities for cooking, sleeping, and other outdoor activities.

The "Outward Bound" program is designed to help students develop leadership skills, build self-confidence, and improve their physical fitness.

The program will be led by experienced instructors who have trained in the "Outward Bound" method. They will work with students throughout the program to help them achieve their goals.

The "Outward Bound" program will be open to all students at the university. It will be held during the summer months, and will last for six weeks.

The cost of the program will be $250 per student. This includes tuition, housing, meals, and all other fees.

To enroll in the program, students must apply online. The application process will begin in February, and will end in April.

The "Outward Bound" program is funded by a grant from the university's educational development fund. The grant will allow the program to offer scholarships to students who demonstrate financial need.
