President Morris' action raises questions

By Bill Holden
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The status of SIU President Delyse W. Morris is open to debate and speculation.

To win Morris has requested president emeritus classification. University officials contacted Monday.

News Analysis

day were unable to define the term and were more reluctant to be identified.

How Morris' $56,000 salary and triumph benefit allowances will be affected by the move is also unknown.

Still unanswered is whether Morris will remain in his present position, move into the controversial University House upon its completion in September, or take up residence until his retirement in 1973. His retirement will follow 15 months of pursuing "seven educational freedoms" in the deferred sabatical leave of absence beginning on Dec. 1, 1971.

Also objects of questions are the questions of why Morris requested the move and what it means for students at SIU. The move to the residence was announced several weeks ago, and the move is scheduled for this summer.

In his statement, Morris outlined seven "academic freedoms" he wanted to pursue.

Morris said he could best achieve his goals under the president emeritus classification.

Morris has been under attack from various quarters in Illinois including the state legislature, since he came under fire for the university's funding of the University House project.

City works on unrest solution

By Ellen Stackman
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Although the closing of the campus quitied SIU and Carbondale, the problems of controlling campus unrest must still be solved.

The city is working on such solutions, according to Carbondale Mayor David Keene. Keene, along with Jerry Maxwell, administrative assistant to the city manager C.D. Peebles, assistant to the chancellor and William Hudson, dean of students, recently attended a meeting in Arlington Heights to discuss a statewide program for dealing with campus unrest.

The meeting was attended by representatives from Illinois' nine state universities and a representative from the state and the Illinois National Guard.

Keene said Carbondale was unique with respect to the other cities represented in these areas. First of all, it takes eight hours to mobilize the Guard to Carbondale as opposed to the two or three hours necessary at the University of Chicago.

Secondly, Keene said Carbondale is the only city in the state with the university outside the city limits.

And lastly, Southern was the only university closed.

The issue of who calls the Guard as well as which law enforcement agency directs operations were solved at the meeting according to Keene.

Although President Delyse W. Morris called in the Guard during the first disturbance, the mayor will have that perspective from now on, Keene said. Once the Guard goes to town, it will be in charge of coordination.

Keene also mentioned that calling in the Guard at the first sign of trouble would be a tactical error.

Carbondale is also making some improvement efforts on its own. For one, the city police have been receiving training in issuing tickets. According to Keene, during the May unrest improperly issued tickets prohibited certain convictions.

The police will also abandon what is known as the "flying wedge" tactic. This is where the police charge into a crowd. Keene said the method was found ineffective. Instead, the police will use the cordoning off method used by the Guard.

As mayor, Keene said he is empowered to declare a state of civil emergency. From May's experience, Keene said he felt leaving the declaration on indefinitely would have more merit than calling it off after things had apparently quieted.

"Receiving the "seven days in May," Keene said he felt the young people had no idea of just what they had done. He said the students he has talked to had no idea about the opinion of the merchants and townspeople regarding the damage done to the city.

"They stopped the biggest industry in Southern Illinois," he said.

Although he thinks trouble will again come to Carbondale, Keene proposed the lowering of the voting age to 18 as a possible means of getting the young people off the streets.

"They should be allowed to vote at 18," Keene said, "The present system doesn't work."

Drug arrests case slanted to go before grand jury July 16

By James Hest
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The case of 29 persons arrested last week in a mass drug raid will go before the grand jury on July 16, the Jackson County State's Attorney's Office said Monday.

The drug raid on June 27 was described as the largest ever staged in Southern Illinois.

Nine raids were made simultaneously under the supervision of the Illinois Bureau of Investigation.

About 70 police officers took part.

Preparations for the raids began almost two months before they took place. FBI undercover agents posed as drug users and made many purchases with fake names and made actual "hand-to-hand" purchases.

The raids netted several thousand dollars worth of marijuana, heroin, LSD, hashish and amphetamines. Also seized were two homemade bombs.

Places raided included the Happy Days Restaurant, 207 W. Walnut St., Apollo 11 Terrace on Rt. 2, Carbondale, a farm house at 800 E. Walnut St., a house at 210 Hospital Drive, Carbondale, a trailer at 715 S. Illinois St., and apartments at 511 Main St., 1215 W. Sycamore St., 600 S. University St. and 810 W. Sycamore St.

Those arrested on the following charges were:

William "Anseater" George, 22, 212 Hospital Drive, charged with sale of drugs and possession of narcotics.

Charles D. Newbury, Jr., 26, and Deborah Jane Borre, 20, both of 311 W. Main St., were charged with the sale and possession of drugs.

Terry J. Petty, 19, 423 E. Oak St., was charged with the possession of drugs and possession of hypodermic needles.

Thomas A. Paleologus, 23, 207 W. Walnut St., was charged with the sale of dangerous drugs.

Peter S. Nimble, 23, Champaign, was charged with possession of drugs.

Larry Bruce "Mouse" Weber, 23, 717 S. Illinois Ave., was charged on two counts of sale of drugs and one of possession.

Roger Dale Given, 19, 615 W. Mill St., was charged with the sale of drugs.

Terry G. Nelms, 22, 1215 W. Sycamore St. and Yolande M. Tillar, 24, same address, were charged with the sale of narcotics.

Of those arrested on possession were John Mark Aiston, 21, Rt. 1, Pomona; Jeffrey J. Morford, 19, Rt. 1, Murphysboro; Damian J. Olsizer, 20, Rt. 1, Murphysboro; Stephen A. Goldberg, 20, Rt. 1, Murphysboro; Cleveland Karne Bass, 23, Rt. 1, Pomona; William Tranquilli, 2D, and George Tranquilli, 26, both of 719 N. Springfield St., Murphysboro; Joseph K. Deaver, 23, Rt. 1, Murphysboro; Arnold M. Jochums, 24, 603 b. Washington Ave. "B" 11, Champaign.

Trustees approve increase in tuition

SIU will increase tuition for Illinois students by $50 per quarter beginning with the 1972 summer term.

The increase, which follows state recommendations, will boost quarterly tuition at SIU to $117. per quarter for full-time resident students.

The action was taken Friday by the SU Board of Trustees at its meeting this week.

At the same time, the Board voted to continue its $50 per quarter effective with fall term.

Rec program in operation
The summer recreation program of SIU Services to Carbondale began Monday.

Under the direction of William Perkins, a resident of Carbondale, the program will be held at the State Parks—Attucks Playground, Twin Ponds and Attucks Schmitt Park.

Fourteen local residents have been named as playground leaders to supervise activities and games at the playgrounds.

Playground leaders attended a series of workshops this week where they heard lecturers on recreational activities delivered by various members of SIU's Physical Education, Recreation and Health Education departments. They also received basic training in first aid and safety techniques.

Tentative plans include a street dance to be held in Northeast Carbondale, trips to the St. Louis Zoo, and St. Louis baseball games; and airplane rides.

Purchased in the Department of Journalism at Southern Illinois University Carbondale, the Daily Egyptian is the official student newspaper of the university.

SIU people studying in many foreign lands
SIU students and personnel can be found studying and traveling in several foreign countries this summer.

A group of 245 students, faculty, staff and their immediate families will leave today for Europe to start a 10-week travel and study program.

Nine academic programs, sponsored by the SIU Extension Services, in cooperation with the academic departments, will be offered in eight European countries. The programs are sociology, theater, French, German, German culture and civilization, English drama and literature, Russian, Spanish and international marketing.

Credit courses will be conducted at educational institutions in London, Paris, Athens, Rome, Bonn, Madrid, Leningrad and Geneva. Many participants take the opportunity to travel alone in Europe.

In a travel-study program sponsored by SIU's Latin American Institute, five students are spending eight weeks in Mexico.

The students will study Mexican culture, elementary and intermediate Spanish, Latin American literature, Mexican history and anthropology at the University of Veracruz at Xalapa, 200 miles southeast of Mexico City. The program will end Aug. 19.

Stebbins named
John Stebbins of Chicago, a junior majoring in journalism at SIU, has been named winner of a $1,450 Sears, Roebuck & Co. Congressional internship for three months of work and study in Wash. D.C.

Stebbins will spend January through March 1971 in the capital.

Munch takes leave
Peter Munch, professor of sociology at SIU, will take a leave of absence during the fall and winter terms in order to become visiting professor at the University of Stockholm, Sweden.

The exchange program between SIU and the University of Stockholm began in 1962 when Professor Gunnil Boel, chairman of sociology at the University of Stockholm, came to SIU as a visiting professor.

Boel and Charles Snyder, chairman of the SIU Department of Sociology, arranged for the exchange of faculty and graduate students from both universities to facilitate teaching and the study of particular research problems in the two countries.

Munch, born in Nes, Hedmark, Norway, joined the SIU faculty in 1957.

One of the rainy games ever played in baseball history was in a minor league game in the Class A California League several years ago in which Fresno beat Modesto 2-2 in six innings.

Among the odd things that happened in this game, Modesto scored 12 runs in one inning, yet lost the game; the winning pitcher gave up 14 runs but the losing pitcher gave up only seven runs, and for 40 minutes the game was an all-nighter pressed into service on the mound.

I let you don't know that college graduates have a longer life expectancy—lower death rate and are living five years longer on the average than non-college men. The lower death rate of college men makes possible broader education, and average life values in College Life policies. This certainly makes good sense. Doesn't it?

TV takes over

By Jim Meyer

Here's an amazing fact... Did you ever realize that big league baseball and football can be a great deal of fun and not draw as many people as we can see at sports on JULY ONE DAY on television?...Let's say a 20,000-home attendance averages 1-million people a year, now that's 30-50 years and draw a total of $3,000,000.00 in CNE game on TV can draw more than 1-million viewers to the afternoon, so a team can play to more people on TV in one game than they can draw in their own stadiums but over 30 years.

Oddly enough, Hank Aaron has hit exactly 44 home runs in four different seasons (1957, 63-66-69), and his uniform number is 44.

One of the rainiest games ever played in baseball history was in a minor league game in the Class A California League several years ago in which Fresno beat Modesto 2-2 in six innings.

Among the odd things that happened in this game, Modesto scored 12 runs in one inning, yet lost the game; the winning pitcher gave up 14 runs but the losing pitcher gave up only seven runs, and for 40 minutes the game was an all-nighter pressed into service on the mound.
Graduate travels long distance

Richard Sutton graduated from SUI June 12 and traveled 14,000 miles to get his diploma.

Sutton, who was awarded a Ph.D. in education, completed his doctoral work at SUI last fall and became head of the American Community School at Buenos Aires. He returned to the commencement to get his diploma. While there he recruited teachers for his school, which has 1,200 students from kindergartens through high school.

Sutton, a native of Annapolis, Mo., who taught 16 years at Fredericktown, Mo., did his doctoral work at SUI in the Department of Educational Administration and Foundation.

Four comedies planned on summer playbook

Four comedies are slated as the playbook of SUI Summer Repertory Theater for weekend performances from June 26 through Aug. 22, skipping the July Fourth holiday weekend.

As a bonus, a charming trio of familial children's plays will be produced each Wednesday and Thursday at 10:30 in the Experimental Theatre. Billed under the title "The Storytellers," they include "The Puddle Fishers and the Three Bears," "The Elves and the Shoemaker" and "The Emperor's Nightingale," all by Brian Way, director of the Children's Theatre in London.

Booked in the University Theatre are "The Killing of Sister George" by Frank Marcus, which earned a Broadway critic's nomination as "A fine play," July 31-Aug. 21 and Aug. 22.

Season coupon books are $5 for students, $7 for nonstudents, and may be ordered by mail from Southern Players, Communications Building, Southern Illinois University, Carbondale, Illinois 62901. Single admissions are $1.75 for students and $2.25 for nonstudents. Single admission for "The Storytellers" is $0.50 cents for all ages.

8 VTII students cited

Eight architectural students in the student government in the technology department of VTII have been cited in competition for design of animal shelter.

The competition was sponsored by the Illinois Dog Clubs and Breeders Association, Inc., as a project for the architectural class of Assistant Professor Clifton Rutledge. Thomas Miller of Chicago won the award for best overall design. Award for best efficiency design went to Joseph D. Arnold of Orton. Ronald B. White of Cairo, was cited for the most innovative design.

Lee D. Haag, 66, SIU professor of agricultural industries, died June 6 following a heart attack at his home. He had been under a doctor's care and has had limited campus duties late in March and early April he had a heart attack in mid-February.

Survivors are his widow, Helen; two sons, H. Martin of New York; Stefan D. of Carbondale; and one daughter, Mrs. Kathryn Cook of Cherry Creek, N.Y.

Haag joined the SIU faculty in 1959 after returning from two years in Southeast Asia as a Ford Foundation adviser on agricultural education and development. Previously he had spent 12 years as a director of research for the Missouri Farmers Association and nine years as an economics professor at the University of Missouri.

Congress and the War

Since the day American troops entered the conflict, they have turned to Congress to end the war in Southeast Asia.

In the weeks ahead we must ensure that the coming elections will create a Congress that will be committed to peace, the withdrawal of American military presence from Indo China and the prevention of other Viet Nam.

The University's National Anti-War Fund is committed to these goals.

We ask every faculty and staff member of every university and college in the United States to pledge a minimum of one day's salary to the Fund.

The millions of dollars raised will

1. Provide support on a non-partisan basis to candidates for the House and Senate whose election is critical to the cause of peace (Your support may be earmarked for a candidate of your choosing or given to a common fund administered by a National Board.)

2. Buy television time, newspaper advertising space and other publicity for the election of peace candidates.

3. Send representatives of the university community to Washington to lobby the Congress or to any part of the country to insist on critical local campaigns.

UNAF is a member of the National Coalition for a Responsible Congress.

Morris requests retirement in statement to SIU trustees

The following article is the text of a statement premised to the SIU Board of Trustees last Friday by SIU President Delyth W. Morris.

It has been my pleasure and privilege to participate in the growth of SIU in almost four decades, a period of exciting and rewarding developments in American Education— the growth of Southern Illinois University. That growth has been char-terized by M. M. Chambers, one of the country's best known exponents on higher education, as an educational miracle.

The first important step was the creation by the General Assembly of the Board of Trustees in 1948 at the time, most masters of the concerns of the University were handled by a T Board, a. Board largely limited in its powers to teacher training, and circumscribed by the necessity of clearing virtually everything, including many staff appointments and even the smallest purchases and printing orders through the choice of the Board's Springfield

The independent SIU Board of Trustees has had a remarkable record of placing ahead of everything else the rights of the students and the people of the state. The Board was not only required to make all decisions for the most responsible people of Southern Illinois, of supporting many educational programs and staff pressures to turn back the clock to the pre-1950 era when Southern Illinois was created as an interior or dormant area of the state.

A second significant happening was the organization known as the "Living University" in 1949. At first only a few extension courses were offered there, but the needs for higher education in Southwestern Illinois were so obvious that by 1957 it had become necessary to organize full-time, on-campus residence Centers at Alton and East St. Louis and in the major city of this area at Edwardsville.

The rest is history.

A third major development was the reorganization of the educational structure to meet the needs of a larger number of students and the needs of a larger area. Besides, a number of vocations became thoroughly professionalized. At first we offered only a few courses in agriculture, business, communications, finances, home economics, science and technical general and health sciences to the immediate offering.

SIU has never had any one master's degree program in education. By 1970 there were over fifty master's degree programs and at least eighteen doctoral degree programs. During the same period, support of faculty and staff programs in the form of research assistance in terms of money and time to a master's degree program of research, research grants, research space and research time.

In a remarkable short time, the school changed from a self-contained univer-ity, one of the twenty largest in the country.

SIU also pioneered in vocational-technical education at a time when the current concern for job-oriented vocational education simply did not exist. Its Vocational-Technical Institute, established in 1950, has served as a model for this kind of program in Illinois and many other states.

The Vocational Technical Institute, which was directly geared to the employment needs of the state's many municipalities, called attention to the possibility of a wide variety of services which the University could take off the campus to the people of the region and the state. This led to the organization in 1952 of Community Development Programs, a program which worked for direct contact between the communities and the university more in municipal government and finance, city planning and business and industry.

There have been other developments too. But what has been said most indicates my reason for regarding the past twenty-two years as an exciting and rewarding experience. It remains to say a word or two about the current state of the University and my views of the future.

The very success of the University has created certain problems. Each major development has called for a new look at the organization; and as the staff of the University have repeatedly considered themselves with how the University can best be governed and operated.

One of the first things that the independent Board did was to approve a codification of the University, including its

It would be impossible to give a fair and full account of all that has been done and the impact that it has made on the University in the past twenty-two years, but the major areas that should be noted are:

1. Freedom from routine matters which can better be handled by the specialists in the or-
2. Freedom for access to and from citizens, faculty members and administrators.

3. Freedom to try our innovative ideas and
4. Freedom to proceed with the development of the external relationships of the University with domestic and foreign agencies.

5. Freedom to develop financial support for the University from foundations, government agencies, and other outside institutions.

6. Freedom to proceed with certain develop-
7. Freedom to proceed with certain developments in the planning or development stage, such as the "living University." The SIU in an educational miracle, the credit belongs to the people of the area who have instituted upon the most possible education for their sons and daughters, and to the far-sightedness, broadness, and stubbornness of many of the fac-culty and administration. In our own time we have made many compromises, and we have been able to achieve a balance that has been fundamentally sound.

However, it has not been an easy feat. The University has had to fight and to fight hard.

In order to concentrate my full energy on such important tasks as those enumerated above, I need to have for the time period from September 3, 1974 to December 31, 1974. For the period immediately thereafter until September 3, 1975 I request a deferred sabbatical leave of absence after which I wish to retire. During the sabbatical period, I have been through special task which I wish to undertake. Of course, after retirement I shall always be ready to help the University in any manner possible and desired because of my deep love and affection for her. To clarify the situation I request my title be changed to President Emeritus September 1, 1976.
Simon gets surprise honors

E. J. Simon, dean of SBU's Vocational and Technical Institute and the Division of Technical and Adult Education, was honored for his 20 years of service to the facilities at a luncheon held recently at an area motel.

Simon was surprised by his students with a plaque in appreciation for his two decades of work.

Simon who will retire September 1, and members of the VTI Student Advisory Council, planned all year for a grand farewell to a "This is Your Life" complete with his family and colleagues and the annual Spring Banquet.

When disturbances forced closure of the University in May, the banquet was canceled, but a group of the Council members returned to Carbondale and invited Simon and VTI Director M. Keith Humble to "help them wind up the year's business at a special luncheon meeting.

At the luncheon Simon was presented with the plaque. Humble also received a plaque for his service as VTI mentor for 15 years.

The plaques were only small, tangible tokens of what the students felt, said Council vice-president Eric Campagna, a mortuary science student from Godfrey.

"We know that VTI would not be the school it is today if it is today is you (Simon) had not worked so hard to see that all of us have the instructors and equipment and opportunity to learn," he said.

"I am the one who is grateful," Simon said. "Grateful for students like we have at VTI and for a wonderful faculty and for the privilege of spending my life working with people like you.

"VTI students perhaps have had more reason to feel that they should protest and more excuse to demonstrate than those who turn up Carbondale and forced us to shut down, but no other dean in this University can stand up in a faculty meeting and say that his students were not involved in that shameful business," Simon declared.

Economics professor to give trade lecture

A distinguished professor of economics, Dr. Robert Baldwin, will deliver a public lecture at 8 p.m. Thursday in Lawton 101.

Baldwin's topic is "Non-tariff Barriers to International Trade."

Baldwin is on leave from the University of Wisconsin and is currently working on a dynamic model of international trade and development. His work is supported by a Ford Faculty Research Fellowship.

During his career as an academic economist, Baldwin has served on the International Trade Sub-committee of the Committee for Economic Development and the Presidential Task Force of International Development.

He has taught at the University of Buffalo, Harvard University, and UCLA. In 1963 he served as Chief Economist of the Office of Special Trade Representative, Executive Office of the President.

Baldwin received his B.A. from the University of Buffalo and his Ph.D. from Harvard in 1950.

The lecture is being presented by the SBU Department of Economics in cooperation with the Lectures and Entertainment Committee.

Ecuador falls to dictatorship

QUITO (AP)—Ecuador became a dictatorship Monday with the full support of the armed forces and in an atmosphere of widespread student unrest.

The nation's 77-year-old civilian president, Jose Velasco Ibarra, assumed the dictatorial powers overnight while the nation slept. Most of the country's 5.5 million people awoke in the morning to find they had become the 8th of the 11 nations on the South American continent to fall under authoritarian rule.

In a quick followup to the coup, the armed forces closed Congress, universities, courts and banks.

University officials, labor leaders, leftists and a former congressman, Washington Vaca, were placed under arrest. An arrest order went out for Vice President Jorge Zavala Baquero, regarded as a leftist. His whereabouts were unknown.

The official reason given for the switch to authoritarian rule was that the Supreme Court was about to rule on a case brought by prosecuting attorney who accused two years ago by the president.

It was believed, however, that the president and the military decided on this action because of the campus unrest and the 10,000 students that have been arrested.

An Asian scholar who spent three days at SIU said the U.S. position regarding Vietnam could have been much better if we had known more about the country.

Raymond Nunn, professor of history and Asian studies at the University of Hawaii, was here June 9 to 11 to inspect the work of developing a major bibliographic resource at SIU designed to include available published and unpublished works concerning Vietnam and neighboring countries. This is one phase of the work of the Center for Vietnamese Studies and Programs, set up to make SIU a center of scholarly competence in regard to Vietnam.

Nunn, a native of England who was graduated from the School of Oriental and African Studies at London University before coming to this country, where he obtained a Ph.D. in Japanese Studies at the University of Michigan, said chances for study of Vietnam in America have been very poor.

Throughout the years, he said, Vietnam has been a country involved in almost continuous struggle and an area which has been neglected by most major institutions in favor of other Far East countries, chiefly China.

Since the total number of volumes for documentation in relatively small, he said, SIU has a great opportunity to develop a tremendous competence which if it had been available in previous years could have kept this country from becoming involved in problems which it has faced in Vietnam.

Nunn, who has been studying and making suggestions on documentary procedures here, said "You have made a good start and are working along good lines. You seem to be aware of problems involved."

He said it is possible for SIU to do a fine and competent job that would attract scholars from throughout the world to come here for research.

He also said he believes it is a good idea to give a new program such as this a start in a new university such as SIU.

"Some of the younger, more established institutions," he said, "in spite of their competencies, have not shown a willingness to take over such a project as you people have done. You have shown an interest in Vietnam—first with your elementary and vocational education programs in that country during the past decade and later with other programs—that you have an interest in Vietnam that others haven't had."

Nunn said the best sources of material about Vietnam come through microfilming. Much of the pre-colonial era microfilm copies are in Saigon. Most of the colonial material is on microfilm in Paris.

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. warplanes are striking deep inside Cambodia against enemy troop and supply lines, the Pentagon disclosed Monday.

These new raids well beyond the 21.7-mile limit for U.S. ground troops—began a week ago and are being carried out with the "careful and personal coordination" of the Pentagon's deputy assistant secretary of defense for public affairs, said the new bombing run.

Friedheim, deputy assistant secretary of defense for public affairs, said the new bombing of supply lines in Cambodia is similar to the U.S. bombing of the Ho Chi Minh Trail in Laos which has been going on for the last three years. He said the bombs of the bombing still is in Laos.

Both President Nixon and Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird have said the United States would not provide air combat support for the South Vietnamese forces beyond the 21.7-mile limit set by Nixon.

Most have been released on bond.
State's Attorney Richard Richman stated that the drug raid may signal the end of drug traffic in this area. He called attention to the reports of groups
"moving out" near areas where the raids took place.
It was reported that several persons left the Hickory Ridge area the day after the raids. The largest amount of drugs and the majority of arrests occurred in a home near Hickory Ridge.
Drug use has been up in recent years in the Southern Illinois area. A study made by Raymond J. Vincent, an assistant professor of health education, reported that at least 20 per cent of the students at SIU now use marijuana on a regular basis.

Summer registration nearly normal

New student admissions for summer and fall quarters at SIU are running slightly ahead of the same period a year ago.

Acting Chancellor Willis Malone said Registrar's Office figures as of June 8 showed 2,904 new student admissions for the summer quarter and 8,921 for fall.

A total of 8,449 students, 5,550 freshmen applicants and had pre-registered for the 1,115 prospective transfer students at the time. Confirmations came in back from 3,768, while 1,450 more did not respond. These are being contacted again.

Pre-registrations for fall as of June 8 were counted at 10,771, compared to 11,027 after the first week in June last year.

"Intent to register" returns from prospective new fall-term students are running about the same as last year, Malone said.

The Registrar's office sent out "intent" cards to the current 1,115 prospective transfer students at the time. Confirmations came in back from 3,768, while 1,450 more did not respond.

On the basis of these returns, Malone said he expects a summer enrollment of about the same as last year's, the 10,683 for SIU at Carbondale last year.

Resolution will ban agitators

The resolution said: "The Alumni Association and Former Students of Southern Illinois University, through its Legislative Council and Board of Directors, strongly supports President Delve W. Morris and endorses the recommendations be made recently to the Illinois General Assembly concerning needed legislation banning agitators and nonstudents from state university campuses."

Deadline is Wednesday

Wednesday will be the last day for advisement and registration except for students registering only for courses whose starting date is after June 24.

Registration ends at 4 p.m. on Wednesday.

SIU in Honduras project

Seven Midwestern schools including SIU will conduct a course in tropical ecology this summer at a small Jesuit college in Belize, British Honduras.

The course is considered the beginning of a full-scale tropical studies program operated by the seven schools which make up the Associated Universities for International Education.

Members in addition to SIU are Butler State, Western Michigan, Illinois State, Western Illinois, St. Louis and Northern Illinois universities.

The intensive course will cover three weeks of marine ecology along the barrier reef in the Caribbean Sea near Belize, and another three weeks in terrestrial ecology at Lyman Agricultural College and the Columbia Forestry Station in the Central American country.

Among the seven faculty members will be Richard Keating, a biologist at SIU's Edwardsville campus.

Twenty-four students have been selected for the course, including two from SIU. They are Sandra Wayne of Herrin, a junior majoring in biological sciences, and James R. Wiley, of Carbondale, Ph. D., candidate in zoology.

Robert Mohnenbrock, chairman of the SIU Botany Department, said AUIE members are seeking a federal grant to set up an ongoing tropical studies program at the site. Added to the course offerings for summer and spring semesters would be systematic botany, and studies in fisheries and geography.

Jacobini's tour to help build center's library

H.B. Jacobini, director of the Center for Vietnamese Studies and Programs at SIU, returned June 15 from a month-long world trip designed to develop the center, especially in the areas of library resources and publication of a scholarly journal.

Accompanying Jacobini to Paris was the editor of the center's projected journal, Wesley Pielke, visiting research professor of government. They spent several days talking with members of Vietnamese communities and with French scholars with an interest in Vietnam about journal affiliation.

Some work was also done on developing the SIU library of books and manuscripts on the history and culture of the Southeast Asia area, Jacobini said.

In Saigon Jacobini was joined by a staff member, Danny Whittlefield, and the two consulted with deans and directors of Vietnamese universities about methods of procuring books. They also discussed with Vietnamese educators and scholars ways in which points of mutual interest could be developed.

In Manila Jacobini talked with members of the International Advisory Board of Journals about the forthcoming journal. He said the SIU center has hopes of publishing its first scholarly journal early in '71.

Piscator papers given to SIU

The papers of the late Erwin Piscator, producer, director, and playwright, have been presented to the Library by his widow Marie and the Piscator Memorial Foundation.

Piscator's papers are in the Library archives, among the voluminous papers of Lennox Robinson, for 50 years director of the Irish Abbey Theatre, are housed in the Rare Book Room, together with SIU's notable Irish collections.

Mrs. Piscator visited SIU in the spring of 1969 to serve on a symposium panel on the Abbey Theatre, and returned to reach the Department of Theatre during the spring of 1970. Her husband, in pre-Nazi Germany, founded Das Tribunal, an avant garde theater, and Das Proletarische Theater, which performed plays in workers' halls. He later became director of the Berlin Volks theater and, in 1927, founded the Piscator Theater in Berlin.

He was the founder and director of the Dramatic Workshop at the New School for Social Research in New York City, established in 1938.

In 1951 he returned to Germany and subsequently directed productions in West Germany, Holland, Sweden, Switzerland, Italy and France, and in 1962 became general director of the Frase Volkstheater in Berlin.

Piscator's success won him the Goethe Prize, the German Federal Distinguished Service Cross and the presidency of the Academy of Performing Arts.

The papers given to SIU cover Piscator's 17 years in the United States and include files of scripts, playbills, photographs and business records of various productions abroad, correspondence with actors, directors and playwrights of the U.S. and America, and family papers.

Lennox Robinson's complete file of manuscripts and papers were obtained from his widow, and reveal day-to-day operations of the Abbey Theater, as well as his own activities as manager, director, playwright, producer, actor, critic and poet.

Included is the correspondence between Robinson and virtually every dramatist and actor involved in the enterprise. Among the key correspondents were William Butler Yeats and Lady Augusta Gregory, the major founders, who in 1909 chose the 23-year-old Robinson to carry on their work. They each wrote long letters of advice to their fledgling director. Of these 174 Lady Gregory letters and 96 Yeats letters, none has yet been published but they will soon be edited by SIU Professor Harry T. Moore.
Faculty news briefs

Faculty members of the Department of Clothing, and Textiles at SIU will attend a number of professional conferences during June, according to Rose Padgett, department chairman.

Thelma Berry, associate professor, participated in a seminar at the University of Wisconsin at Madison, June 15-19, conducted for college students with apparel design majors and also for teachers of clothing and textiles and cooperative extension work.

She Ridley and Meta Elaine Flint, instructors in the department, are attending the convention of the American Home Economics Association in Cleveland, Ohio, June 21-26. Miss Padgett herself will participate in the third summer symposium for college teachers held by the American Association of Textile Chemists and Colorists at the AATCC Center for Research Training at Raleigh, N.C., June 29-July 2.

William A. Doerr, SIU instructor in agricultural industries, left Carbondale May 30 for a two-year assignment at the Federal University of Santa Maria in southern Brazil.

He will be international director of a program in 10 agricultural teaching, research and rural extension work at the Brazilian university under the aegis of the United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization with SIU.

Women play in tournament

Two members of the Women's Golf Team at SIU are taking part in the Women's National Intercollegiate Golf Tournament at San Diego State College, San Diego, which opened Monday and continues through Saturday, according to Charlotte West, assistant professor of physical education for women at SIU.

The two who will be entered in the women's competition are Terri Merickel, a freshman from South Gate, and Robbin Watson, a freshman from Hoxie, Ark.

Seven SIU players participated in the 56-hole qualifying tournament last week, Miss West said. On the basis of these scores, they will be placed in the championship flight or the first flight high school teams, depending on the remainder of the tournament.

The tournament, sponsored by the Division of Girls and Women, started in 1947 and has been held at various courses throughout the state, Miss West said.

Last year SIU placed third in the tournament.

4 track meets after closure; Crockett sets 2 SIU records

By Gene Wiggins

Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Coach Lew Harrington's cinema finisher finished their 1970 season with four meets after the University was closed last month.

The four events included the Illinois Intercollegiate Track and Field Meet, the Central Collegiate Meet at the University of Indiana, the National Federation Championships two weeks ago at Wichita and the NCAA Track and Field championship meet one week.

In the Illinois Intercollegiate meet, the Salukis were a close second to the University of Illinois, Harrington commented Monday that the Saluki team was definitely an underdog there since several Saluki athletes were injured and could not participate.

The outcome was much narrower than the Illini expected with the decision going down to the final run before Illinois' victory. One Saluki relay team being disqualified contributed to the outcome, and this would have given SIU the victory.

Saluki runner Dave Crockett is a 1:2.2 in the 100-yard dash and a 2:12.2 in the 220-yard dash for the sec-

In the second meet, Harrington took five trackers to the Central Collegiate event at Bloomington, Ind. June 5-6. The Salukis placed second in the high jump with Bob Rowland breaking the state record of 4.9 and 2.5, respectively, recorded two seconds in the mile with a 4.151. Dan Tindall won the long jump with a 22-7.
