With the long winter term drawing to a close, we believed it is only fitting that a few bouquets be distributed among the student body for the experiences they have been through in attempting to adjust the conditions on campus. Of course, we cannot truthfully say that more than half of the student body of UIU is a united people. This was accomplished in the 1963-1964 winter. It was the student body, for the purpose, who asked President McDonald to call an assembly at which they could be introduced to the true facts concerning the school budget crisis. They wanted to know how much S.M.U. is allocated yearly, where the money is spent, and why new buildings were not being built. More important, they wanted to know that they might aid in acquiring a larger budget. They asked, were told, and made a move to do something about it. Now that we have taken our message to the public, let us talk more about the budget. The University's income was not enough to cover the expenses. The university, in order to meet the expenses, has to raise the tuition fees. This has caused some problems for the students, but we believe it is in the best interest of the university.
Forty Botany Students Make Trip To St. Louis

Approximately forty students made a trip to St. Louis, Mo., to visit the Missouri Botanical Gardens, which is considered one of the world’s finest, and the hall of horticulture and art gallery.

Many Questions

Questions asked on the tour included: How much money is spent for new trees, bulbs, seeds, sunsets, and sunrises; what changes are being made in the gardens; how the gardens are maintained; and what flowers are blooming on the estate. The students were also shown the underground railroad route, which was used to transport slaves to freedom.

Gray Student

The only question asked by the student who was unable to attend the tour was about the size of the garden and the number of plants. The answer was given, and the student was satisfied with the information provided.

Stale Girls

The cost of students who participated in the tour was $2.50 per person. This included transportation, admission, and meals. The tour lasted for one week, and the students returned to campus on Friday, September 13th, 1946.
