3-1-1988

The Daily Egyptian, March 01, 1988

Daily Egyptian Staff

Follow this and additional works at: http://opensiuc.lib.siu.edu/de_March1988
Volume 74, Issue 108

Recommended Citation

This Article is brought to you for free and open access by the Daily Egyptian 1988 at OpenSIUC. It has been accepted for inclusion in March 1988 by an authorized administrator of OpenSIUC. For more information, please contact opensiuc@lib.siu.edu.
The legal waters have calmed in the cardboard boat event since its inception, said the director of the SIU Alumni Association.

C. Thomas Busch, alumni association executive director, said Monday that an out-of-court settlement has been reached with the organizers of a cardboard boat regatta in Crystal Lake.

Busch's announcement made official the speculation that the regatta case had been settled.

A Jan. 4 Crystal Lake Northwest Herald article said a settlement had been reached. However, Busch told a Daily Egyptian reporter Jan. 20 that "all was not well".

Details of the settlement will not be made public, John Sandberg, attorney for the Crystal Lake yacht club, said. "I doubt it will ever be made public," he said.

The settlement is basically a licensing agreement stating that the Crystal Lake regatta organizers respect the copyrighted rules and trademark of the association's Great Cardboard Boat Regatta, Busch said.

"We have had similar agreements with several groups," Busch said. "We don't make the event public."

The copyright case began as a result of the University Alumni Newsboat's attempt to use a promotional tool for the University. Money generated by the event is put into the association's scholarship fund.

Cardboard boat regatta founder Richard E. Archer, said he didn't know the details of the agreement, but that he has been assured that the agreement protects the integrity of the event.

Archer said the Crystal Lake yacht club was using the race as a profit-making event. He said the event included a requirement that any proceeds from a cardboard boat race go to charitable causes.

"The thing I was afraid of was the race would grow into a professional, profit-raising sport," Archer said. "I didn't want to see the event turned into a serious sport. Cardboard boat racing shouldn't be serious, it's supposed to be fun. It's a family event."

Archer said the event is organized so "an average person can spend about $30 building a cardboard boat and compete with people who have a lot more money."

Archer, assistant professor in the SIU-C design department, started the event in 1974 as a class project for design students. The class project has blossomed into a national amateur sporting event. "We have quite a large circuit this year," Archer said.

The 15th Annual Great Cardboard Boat Regatta is scheduled for April 30 at Campus Lake.

Gus Bode

Decision

Dispute settled over copyright of boat regatta

By Curtis Winston

Staff Writer

By Dana DeBeaumont

and John Mohrer

Staff Writers

Cardboard boat regatta organizers and city officials said a compromise has been reached that allows the event to continue.

"I think we had a pretty good compromise," said City Manager Bill Dixon. "It's still a problem, but we'll figure something out." Dixon said the agreement allows the Crystal Lake yacht club to use the race as a promotional tool for the University, even if the club makes money from the regatta.

"We have a settlement," Dixon said. "I'm pretty sure we're going to make it work." Dixon said the agreement protects the integrity of the event.

"The thing I was afraid of was the race would grow into a professional, profit-raising sport," Archer said. "I didn't want to see the event turned into a serious sport. Cardboard boat racing shouldn't be serious, it's supposed to be fun. It's a family event." Archer added that he is sure the agreement protects the integrity of the event.

Archer said the Crystal Lake yacht club was using the race as a profit-making event. He said the event included a requirement that any proceeds from a cardboard boat race go to charitable causes.

"We have a settlement," Dixon said. "I'm pretty sure we're going to make it work." Dixon said the agreement protects the integrity of the event.

"The thing I was afraid of was the race would grow into a professional, profit-raising sport," Archer said. "I didn't want to see the event turned into a serious sport. Cardboard boat racing shouldn't be serious, it's supposed to be fun. It's a family event." Archer added that he is sure the agreement protects the integrity of the event.

Archer said the Crystal Lake yacht club was using the race as a profit-making event. He said the event included a requirement that any proceeds from a cardboard boat race go to charitable causes.

"We have a settlement," Dixon said. "I'm pretty sure we're going to make it work." Dixon said the agreement protects the integrity of the event.

"The thing I was afraid of was the race would grow into a professional, profit-raising sport," Archer said. "I didn't want to see the event turned into a serious sport. Cardboard boat racing shouldn't be serious, it's supposed to be fun. It's a family event." Archer added that he is sure the agreement protects the integrity of the event.

Archer said the Crystal Lake yacht club was using the race as a profit-making event. He said the event included a requirement that any proceeds from a cardboard boat race go to charitable causes.

"We have a settlement," Dixon said. "I'm pretty sure we're going to make it work." Dixon said the agreement protects the integrity of the event.

"The thing I was afraid of was the race would grow into a professional, profit-raising sport," Archer said. "I didn't want to see the event turned into a serious sport. Cardboard boat racing shouldn't be serious, it's supposed to be fun. It's a family event." Archer added that he is sure the agreement protects the integrity of the event.

Archer said the Crystal Lake yacht club was using the race as a profit-making event. He said the event included a requirement that any proceeds from a cardboard boat race go to charitable causes.

"We have a settlement," Dixon said. "I'm pretty sure we're going to make it work." Dixon said the agreement protects the integrity of the event.

"The thing I was afraid of was the race would grow into a professional, profit-raising sport," Archer said. "I didn't want to see the event turned into a serious sport. Cardboard boat racing shouldn't be serious, it's supposed to be fun. It's a family event." Archer added that he is sure the agreement protects the integrity of the event.

Archer said the Crystal Lake yacht club was using the race as a profit-making event. He said the event included a requirement that any proceeds from a cardboard boat race go to charitable causes.

"We have a settlement," Dixon said. "I'm pretty sure we're going to make it work." Dixon said the agreement protects the integrity of the event.

"The thing I was afraid of was the race would grow into a professional, profit-raising sport," Archer said. "I didn't want to see the event turned into a serious sport. Cardboard boat racing shouldn't be serious, it's supposed to be fun. It's a family event." Archer added that he is sure the agreement protects the integrity of the event.

Archer said the Crystal Lake yacht club was using the race as a profit-making event. He said the event included a requirement that any proceeds from a cardboard boat race go to charitable causes.

"We have a settlement," Dixon said. "I'm pretty sure we're going to make it work." Dixon said the agreement protects the integrity of the event.

"The thing I was afraid of was the race would grow into a professional, profit-raising sport," Archer said. "I didn't want to see the event turned into a serious sport. Cardboard boat racing shouldn't be serious, it's supposed to be fun. It's a family event." Archer added that he is sure the agreement protects the integrity of the event.

Archer said the Crystal Lake yacht club was using the race as a profit-making event. He said the event included a requirement that any proceeds from a cardboard boat race go to charitable causes.

"We have a settlement," Dixon said. "I'm pretty sure we're going to make it work." Dixon said the agreement protects the integrity of the event.

"The thing I was afraid of was the race would grow into a professional, profit-raising sport," Archer said. "I didn't want to see the event turned into a serious sport. Cardboard boat racing shouldn't be serious, it's supposed to be fun. It's a family event." Archer added that he is sure the agreement protects the integrity of the event.

Archer said the Crystal Lake yacht club was using the race as a profit-making event. He said the event included a requirement that any proceeds from a cardboard boat race go to charitable causes.

"We have a settlement," Dixon said. "I'm pretty sure we're going to make it work." Dixon said the agreement protects the integrity of the event.

"The thing I was afraid of was the race would grow into a professional, profit-raising sport," Archer said. "I didn't want to see the event turned into a serious sport. Cardboard boat racing shouldn't be serious, it's supposed to be fun. It's a family event." Archer added that he is sure the agreement protects the integrity of the event.

Archer said the Crystal Lake yacht club was using the race as a profit-making event. He said the event included a requirement that any proceeds from a cardboard boat race go to charitable causes.

"We have a settlement," Dixon said. "I'm pretty sure we're going to make it work." Dixon said the agreement protects the integrity of the event.

"The thing I was afraid of was the race would grow into a professional, profit-raising sport," Archer said. "I didn't want to see the event turned into a serious sport. Cardboard boat racing shouldn't be serious, it's supposed to be fun. It's a family event." Archer added that he is sure the agreement protects the integrity of the event.

Archer said the Crystal Lake yacht club was using the race as a profit-making event. He said the event included a requirement that any proceeds from a cardboard boat race go to charitable causes.

"We have a settlement," Dixon said. "I'm pretty sure we're going to make it work." Dixon said the agreement protects the integrity of the event.

"The thing I was afraid of was the race would grow into a professional, profit-raising sport," Archer said. "I didn't want to see the event turned into a serious sport. Cardboard boat racing shouldn't be serious, it's supposed to be fun. It's a family event." Archer added that he is sure the agreement protects the integrity of the event.

Archer said the Crystal Lake yacht club was using the race as a profit-making event. He said the event included a requirement that any proceeds from a cardboard boat race go to charitable causes.

"We have a settlement," Dixon said. "I'm pretty sure we're going to make it work." Dixon said the agreement protects the integrity of the event.

"The thing I was afraid of was the race would grow into a professional, profit-raising sport," Archer said. "I didn't want to see the event turned into a serious sport. Cardboard boat rac
SPC Center Programming
The Student Center
presents
A Videotaped Lecture
LEO BUSCAGLIA
"A Love Class with Leo Buscaglia"
Wed. March 2, 12 noon-1pm
Student Center International Lounge
3-4pm
Student Center Video Lounge

50th ANNUAL MEETING of the
SIU CREDIT UNION
TUESDAY
MARCH 22, 1988
at the
SIU STUDENT CENTER
BALLROOM B
Luncheon (R.S.V.P.)
Business Meeting
Following a Business Meeting and Election of Officers,
DOOR PRIZE WILL BE AWARDED.

THIS IS YOUR CREDIT UNION
MAKE PLANS TO ATTEND NOW!!!
Five art students to split $20,000

By Edward Rhae
Staff Writer

Five School of Art seniors won the annual Rickert-Ziebold Trust Award Monday. The winners are:
-Catherine G. Tallon, sculptor;
-Richard C. Stone, product design;
-Jerald F. Overton Jr., graphic design;
-Patricia A. Hamilton, painting;
-Ana Escamal, drawing and painting.

Winners were selected from a list of ten finalists. Preliminary judging by School of Art faculty was based on slides of the contestants' work and their resumes.

Final judging was based on displays of the work.

A $10,000 cash award will be divided equally among the five winners. The winners may use the money any way they choose.

The award, first presented in 1974, comes from an endowment to the University from the estate of Waterloo native, Margaret L. Rickert, who died in 1971.

The winning entries will be exhibited at the University Museum in Faner Hall March 23 to April 17. Patriciia Hamilton (left), senior in painting, and Catherine Tallon, senior in sculpture, congratulate each other on winning this year's Rickert-Ziebold Trust Award.

Drakeford will appeal, attorney says

The attorney for convicted murderer Dianne Drakeford will appeal the verdict handed down by a jury at Jackson County Courthouse Friday night.

Robert Van Derhoff said Monday the second-degree murder conviction was based on a 1987 Illinois statute that he said is unconstitutional.

Van Derhoff said the statute, which reclassifies the offense of murder, illegally requires the defendant to prove such mitigating circumstances as intent or malice.

Van Derhoff, a former state's attorney, said he would appeal the conviction.

The case was the first second-degree murder conviction sought by the Jackson County state's attorney's office under the new law.

Van Derhoff, who is representing the Drakeford family, said he would appeal the conviction.
Get out and help with city cleanup

THE CARBONDALE CLEANUP is set for April 23. Students should get out and help.

Students are not the sole reason for trash along the Strip, around shopping areas and in parks, but there's no denying the students contribute too much to this shameful problem.

All too often, thoughtless students are guilty of leaving garbage behind after a late-night snack on the strip instead of taking a few extra seconds to dispose of it properly. Others retain the childish attitude that because they didn't make the mess, they shouldn't have to clean it up.

ALTHOUGH IT WON'T come close to curing everything, the Carbondale Cleanup offers students a chance to compensate for littering they've done in the past.

The Carbondale Cleanup started in 1980 but was discontinued three years ago because of student apathy. The 1988 project hopes to attract a large turnout of concerned students to assist in the effort.

People in many areas. People will be needed to cook food for volunteers, hand out trash bags and check in Registered Student Organizations at parks and other sites. Morale will be boosted by a large turnout.

Those who always complain that the city doesn't care about students can show students are worth caring about. Good deeds may not get rewarded every time, but such efforts as the Cleanup are not soon forgotten by concerned students to assist in the effort.

I do like bim, so I'll just say be's being deceptive. But you're not a bit better off."

THE CARBONDALE Cleanup offers students a chance to

Quotable Quotes

"He may be the most boring candidate I've ever seen."

Democratic Media Consultant David Garth on Mike Dukakis.

"If I didn't like Senator Dole, I'd say he's being deceptive. But I don't like him, so I'll just say he's a waffler."

New Hampshire Gov. John Sununu, alluding Dole takes inconsistent positions on

Letters

Campus parking lots waste space

I've been commuting and dealing with parking for the past four years at SIUC. It can be very frustrating. Recently, I checked seven different red-sticker lots without finding an empty space; I had to park a half mile off campus.

I was outraged by Meryl Hogan's statements on parking. It is ridiculous to sell twice as many permits as there are parking spaces. I don't think Hogan's suggestions are a realistic alternative for dealing with the parking problem. I suggest creating more parking spaces in existing lots by reducing wasted space.

I conducted a parking survey in the red-sticker lot just north of the Communications Building. The lot is nearly square with 14 main rows for parking. Each row has 51 parking spaces that are 9 by 17.5 feet.

Concrete bumpers are spaced 7.7 feet apart in the separate rows of cars. This is wasted space. Bumper to bumper would be no more than 3 feet and most cars were separated by 5 feet or more.

Concrete bumpers are spaced 7.7 feet apart in the separate rows of cars. This is wasted space. Bumper to bumper would be no more than 3 feet and most cars were separated by 5 feet or more.

I've been commuting and dealing with parking for the past four years at SIUC. It can be very frustrating. Recently, I checked seven different red-sticker lots without finding an empty space; I had to park a half mile off campus.

Concrete bumpers are spaced 7.7 feet apart in the separate rows of cars. This is wasted space. Bumper to bumper would be no more than 3 feet and most cars were separated by 5 feet or more.

The length of parking spaces can be reduced by 2 feet in the compact rows and by 6 inches in the other rows. This narrowing of existing rows would save 31 feet and allow for an added full-size car row with 51 spaces.

I don't know the costs for implementing such a plan, but it seems likely it would be less than the $54,444 per space in elevated parking lots.

Parks for reconstruction of parking lots can come from two sources. There will be some 100 more parking spaces collected with the car, especially for violations (full-sized cars in compact car zones).

Also, as Hogan suggested in Monday's Daily Egyptian, endless driving around campus wastes gas when walking is a healthy alternative. Let parking enforcement employees take heed of their own manager's advice. I think SIUC should sell parking enforcement's vehicles and use this money to buy walking shoes and renovate the parking lots.

Think of all the money we could save on gas, vehicle insurance, registration, and maintenance. Plus, we'd have a healthy parking enforcement staff.

In conclusion, I have a few questions for Meryl Hogan. How many times have you walked around the Arena and walked to your office? Why wouldn't anyone interested in the Communications or Life Science II Buildings parking lots for reconstruction of parking lots consider this a healthy option? - Dave Catlin, graduate, zoology

Criticism of 'Motel Hell' way out of line

We are writing in response to the letter that appeared in the Feb. 16 Daily Egyptian entitled "Fire the worker responsible for 'Motel Hell.'"

In the letter, John Taylor stated that the people responsible for producing and directing "Motel Hell" should be institutionalized for life, and the SPC worker who rented the movie should be banned from holding any job that would allow him or her to influence other human beings.

Mr. Taylor, your ignorance is unbelievable!

Who are you to decide moral issues on what is or is not acceptable for society? This is a country of free expression, but you've gone way out of line by condemning these individuals for presenting a form of entertainment that you don't agree with. Nobody physically forced you to view the movie.

If everyone in the world acted like you, certain forms of entertainment may never exist. My beliefs would be banned and everyone who had opposing views would be institutionalized. If you had said you found religion or the English language offensive, would you have written to the DE that people who preach or instruct English should be institutionalized in an institution? We think not!

Really Mr. Taylor, you're obviously free to have your own opinions, but don't condemn people who don't share your beliefs. - Scott Donahue, graduate, psychology; and Jim Vihanak, senior, management

Donovesbury

BY GARRY TRUDEAU

Page 4, Daily Egyptian, March 1, 1988
AIDS forum looks at issues

People against AIDS in school, desire reforms
By Dana DeBeaumont
Staff Writer

AIDS test results from people 10 years or under, convicted sex offenders and convicted drug users should be public, Mary Kirby of People Against AIDS in Illinois said.

Kirby was one of two people who testified Monday at a Department of Public Health hearing on proposed Illinois AIDS laws which would change state policies concerning children.

The superintendent and school principal should inform parents of classmate's infected child that someone at the school has AIDS, she said.

The child's identity shouldn't be forced to take an AIDS test, Kirby added.

"The law requires that our children must attend school, but as parents we have the right to make the decision about whether our children attend and if we want them attending school with a child with a dangerous contagious disease," Kirby, who earned a master's in home economics from the University of Illinois in 1976, said.

Students who are suspected of having a sexually transmitted disease should be forced to take an AIDS test, she said.

"The Department of Corrections should not have to get a court order to force the release of a prisoner by isolating another prisoner," Kirby said.

Barbara Dallas, spokeswoman for the Illinois Hospital Association, said hospitals need flexibility in caring for AIDS patients, because health care professionals are at risk.

The Illinois Hospital Association has 217 member hospitals across Illinois.

"What may be appropriate in one community or in specific hospitals or health care settings may not be appropriate universally," Dallas said. "In addition to the needs of patients who may be infected, the needs of health care professionals who may be accidentally exposed should also be considered."

"It is important for hospitals to be able to carefully balance the needs of patients with those of their health care professionals," she added.

Dallas said the proposed laws place an unreasonable burden on hospitals because AIDS test results are reported to the Department of Public Health without identifying the patient.

The health department has the responsibility of informing schools if a student has a confirmed HIV antibody status. Therefore, the department will have to notify schools which people lost positive and the hospital will have to notify the doctor. The physician could provide the hospital with all the information necessary to respond to requests from the department, Dallas said.

"This is already an inefficient system," Dallas said.

"According to one scenario, the hospital has to maintain and keep a complete set of records on all of its physicians' patients," Dallas explained.

Neither HIV infection shouldn't be considered a reportable sexually transmissible disease or mechanisms for direct reporting from doctors to the Department of Public Health need to be created, Dallas added.

Illinois' AIDS laws should be based on the guidelines of Robert John Kane, administration rules hearings to solicit suggestions.

Before the laws are implemented, the department of public health will have to conduct hearing to solicit suggestions about how laws should be changed. The department has six panel to gather hearings to solicit suggestions.

QUADS, from Page 1

drug, chances are about one­ tenth of 1 percent for quads and one in 20 for triplets.

Roberta Simms, a 29­year-old University of Illinois graduate student, said she was close to making the difficult decision.

"I always wanted kids," Simms, a 29­year-old University of Illinois graduate student, said she was close to making the difficult decision.

"I am aware of the implications of the disease and it would be extremely difficult choosing to raise children with AIDS, but I believe I would be able to give them a good life, "Simms said.

Klam said the first time she learned of an ultrasound, two babies were discovered, and four were found.

"Mr. Simms said that if I ultrasound again and there were more than four sibs, I would have to take one home,"

PANAMA, from Page 1

Buses and taxis were open­ended in the city's usual weekday traffic, but some bus drivers said they had decided not to work because the government subsidized only running four times on the 11:00 a.m., 1:00 p.m., 3:00 p.m. and 5:00 p.m. The government deducted the bus fare from the workers' pay.

Aurelio Barria, president of Panama's chamber of commerce and leader of the opposition's Civic Crusade, which called the strike, was roughed up and briefly detained by police when he tried to get into the main office of a government-owned commerce office closed last week by the government.

Police Blotter

A Carbondale man was charged with driving under the influence of alcohol and driving with no insurance after the motorcycle he was driving collided with a car driven by a university student in Carbondale Friday night, Carbondale police said.

Gregory Jarvis, of Route 3, Carbondale, was driving south on Route 80 when he failed to stop at a stop sign at 51 near the Arena at 10:10 p.m. when he tried to pass a southbound car driven by Burton H. Johnson, senior in cinema and photography. Jarvis hit the left rear side of the car, and his helmet smashed into the trunk of the car, Johnson said.

No one was injured in the accident, Johnson said, and when he took to the Carbondale County Courthouse. Damage to the motorcycle was over $250, police said.

A burglary stole more than $500 worth of property from three patrons of the Bel-Aire Motel, 905 E. Main St., Sunday, Carbondale police said.

The victim was Keith M. Phelps, 26, and Ron A. Phelps, both of Rondo Lake, and Virginia MacFarland, 22, of Champaign. The burglary occurred between 12:00 a.m. and 1:30 a.m. Monday, police said.

A University student reported her $325 leather coat stolen from the American Tap, 518 S. Illinois Ave., Sunday night, Carbondale police said.

Beverly L. Chetwynd, 21, of 808 E. Grand St., left the coat unmanned at the bar between 10:30 and 11:30 p.m.
Teams win in court competitions
National contest will be in Washington

By Steven Starke

The teams representing SIU’s School of Law won first place honors last week in separate regional moot court competitions.

The University chapter of the Black Law Students Association (BLSA) placed first in the Frederick Douglass Appreciation Moot Court Competition held in Cleveland, Ohio, while the Philip C. Jessup International Law Moot Court Team swept awards at the Jessup World Championship Competition at Lawrence, Kansas.

The BLSA team defeated William Mitchell Law School of Minnesota in the final round to advance to the national competition next week in Washington, D.C. Duncan T. Smith, BLSA president and third-year law student, said. In Washington the top two teams from five regional winners will compete for national honors.

Team member Deirdre D. Denny won best oralist award in the competition, which featured teams from 11 Midwest states.

The Frederick Douglass competition focuses on the Civil Rights Act of 1965 and is aimed at creating awareness of legal issues and problems involving the black community, Smith said.

For the third time in four years, the SIU team earning in the Philip C. Jessup moot court tournament advanced to the international level of competition by defeating Loyola University of Chicago in the final round of the competition.

Between seven law schools, 10 Midwestern states were represented as SIU, coached by Professor Maria Frankowska, took the top award for Best Memorial. Third-year law student Todd Hayes and second-year participant Mark Metzger tied for first place in the Best Oral Advocate Award.

The victory will place SIU among eight other U.S. teams to compete against teams from 16 countries at the Philip C. Jessup World Championship Competition in Washington, D.C., during the week of April 16.

The legal problems in this year’s competition will center on cooperation between nations in preventing and punishing international terrorism.

Party to be held for March of Dimes

A birthday party celebrating the 50th anniversary of the March of Dimes will be held from 2 to 4 p.m. today at Simmons Convocation Center.

The party will honor the students, faculty, administration and community who helped make the 1988 "Students Help Mothers March" a success.

Birthday cake will be served at the open house party, given by Libby Pettit, chairperson of the 1988 March.

Checks will be presented by each of the drives and challenges to representatives from the March of Dimes.

The representatives from the March of Dimes include a member of the national board, the Illinois and Indiana directors, and the events coordinator for the Southern Illinois March of Dimes.

Hopes that Evelyn’s heart or liver could be used for a controversial transplant program were dismissed because the infant “lived beyond the time permitted by our medical protocol,” said Dick Schaefer, another hospital spokeswoman.

Hospital to ‘harvest’ dead baby’s organs

LOMA LINDA, Calif. (UPI) — A 9-day-old baby boy who died last week from most of his brain missing died after being taken off life support and his heart, valves, eyes and corneas will be donated, hospital officials said today.

Baby Evelyn, suffering a fatal genetic defect called anencephaly, died at 10:15 p.m. Sunday while under the watch of resident and intensive care staff at Loma Linda University Medical Center.

Language practices scheduled

The Department of Foreign Languages and Literatures has scheduled a series of restaurant get-togethers to practice their language skills in informal settings.

The practice sessions in Chinese, French and German will be held Tuesday from 6 p.m. on.

The Chinese sessions will meet at On the Island Pub, 717 S. University, the French sessions will meet at Italian Restaurant, 205 S. University and the German sessions will meet at Booby’s, 446 S. Illinois.

The Italian sessions will meet at noon on Thursdays in the Student Center Restaurant.

The Japanese sessions will be arranged every week. For details, call Paul Krieger at 936-5571.

Puzzle answers

Nile River

North Pole

Sparrow

Teapot

The Nile

Iceberg

Newspaper

Engine

Tyrannosaurus Rex

Mount Etna

Steamboat

Tokyo Tower

Manila

Mount Fuji

Puzzle

--

Page 8, Daily Egyptian, March 1, 1988
It wasn't like anything you would expect from a dance company—it was better.

The Hubbard Street Dance Company opened its performance Sunday night at Shryock Auditorium to a crowd of about 1,000 and transformed it into a whirlwind of joy, sorrow, suspense and laughter.

The production, under the direction of artistic director Lou Conte, combined tap, jazz, blues and ballet.

The opening performance, "Rose From the Blues," featured sharp, aerobic movements, as the dancers skipped and frolicked across stage to the lively, rhythmic music. Ron De Jesus and Claire Bataille, teachers at the Hubbard Street Dance Company, glided and twirled with ease to the romantic and mellow "Georgia on My Mind," by Willie Nelson.

"Mae," the fourth act, was a love scene in which Leslie Stevens bitterly refused the apologies of lover Rick Hilsabeck. The act cast an air of romance through its moonlit setting.

The frantic setting of "The Envelope" illustrated the versatility of the sexes. The program explained that no individual is entirely male or entirely female.

The costumes for "The Envelope"—hooded, black jackets and leotards—blurred the dancers' gender. In "Cobras," each dancer donned a costume of the opposite sex and portrayed the reverse roles to the full extent.

"The '40s" ended the evening with the dancers dressed in black tuxedos, bow ties and carrying canes. "The '40s" was probably the most lively and enjoyable dance of the night.

Conte's style can't be called ordinary. Never before have I seen dancers grasp their ankles and move about like frogs.

By Dana Schulte
Staff Writer

Hubbard Street performs "The '40s" Sunday.

Photo Courtesy of Shryock Auditorium

A Review

Hubbard dances audience wild

By Dana Schulte
Staff Writer

Hubbard Street Dance Company opened its performance Sunday night at Shryock Auditorium to a crowd of about 1,000 and transformed it into a whirlwind of joy, sorrow, suspense and laughter.

The production, under the direction of artistic director Lou Conte, combined tap, jazz, blues and ballet.

The opening performance, "Rose From the Blues," featured sharp, aerobic movements, as the dancers skipped and frolicked across stage to the lively, rhythmic music. Ron De Jesus and Claire Bataille, teachers at the Hubbard Street Dance Company, glided and twirled with ease to the romantic and mellow "Georgia on My Mind," by Willie Nelson.

"Mae," the fourth act, was a love scene in which Leslie Stevens bitterly refused the apologies of lover Rick Hilsabeck. The act cast an air of romance through its moonlit setting.

The frantic setting of "The Envelope" illustrated the versatility of the sexes. The program explained that no individual is entirely male or entirely female.

The costumes for "The Envelope"—hooded, black jackets and leotards—blurred the dancers' gender. In "Cobras," each dancer donned a costume of the opposite sex and portrayed the reverse roles to the full extent.

"The '40s" ended the evening with the dancers dressed in black tuxedos, bow ties and carrying canes. "The '40s" was probably the most lively and enjoyable dance of the night.

Conte's style can't be called ordinary. Never before have I seen dancers grasp their ankles and move about like frogs.

By Dana Schulte
Staff Writer

Hubbard Street performs "The '40s" Sunday.

Photo Courtesy of Shryock Auditorium

A Review

Hubbard dances audience wild

By Dana Schulte
Staff Writer

Hubbard Street Dance Company opened its performance Sunday night at Shryock Auditorium to a crowd of about 1,000 and transformed it into a whirlwind of joy, sorrow, suspense and laughter.

The production, under the direction of artistic director Lou Conte, combined tap, jazz, blues and ballet.

The opening performance, "Rose From the Blues," featured sharp, aerobic movements, as the dancers skipped and frolicked across stage to the lively, rhythmic music. Ron De Jesus and Claire Bataille, teachers at the Hubbard Street Dance Company, glided and twirled with ease to the romantic and mellow "Georgia on My Mind," by Willie Nelson.

"Mae," the fourth act, was a love scene in which Leslie Stevens bitterly refused the apologies of lover Rick Hilsabeck. The act cast an air of romance through its moonlit setting.

The frantic setting of "The Envelope" illustrated the versatility of the sexes. The program explained that no individual is entirely male or entirely female.

The costumes for "The Envelope"—hooded, black jackets and leotards—blurred the dancers' gender. In "Cobras," each dancer donned a costume of the opposite sex and portrayed the reverse roles to the full extent.

"The '40s" ended the evening with the dancers dressed in black tuxedos, bow ties and carrying canes. "The '40s" was probably the most lively and enjoyable dance of the night.

Conte's style can't be called ordinary. Never before have I seen dancers grasp their ankles and move about like frogs.

By Dana Schulte
Staff Writer

Hubbard Street performs "The '40s" Sunday.

Photo Courtesy of Shryock Auditorium

A Review

Hubbard dances audience wild

By Dana Schulte
Staff Writer

Hubbard Street Dance Company opened its performance Sunday night at Shryock Auditorium to a crowd of about 1,000 and transformed it into a whirlwind of joy, sorrow, suspense and laughter.

The production, under the direction of artistic director Lou Conte, combined tap, jazz, blues and ballet.

The opening performance, "Rose From the Blues," featured sharp, aerobic movements, as the dancers skipped and frolicked across stage to the lively, rhythmic music. Ron De Jesus and Claire Bataille, teachers at the Hubbard Street Dance Company, glided and twirled with ease to the romantic and mellow "Georgia on My Mind," by Willie Nelson.

"Mae," the fourth act, was a love scene in which Leslie Stevens bitterly refused the apologies of lover Rick Hilsabeck. The act cast an air of romance through its moonlit setting.

The frantic setting of "The Envelope" illustrated the versatility of the sexes. The program explained that no individual is entirely male or entirely female.

The costumes for "The Envelope"—hooded, black jackets and leotards—blurred the dancers' gender. In "Cobras," each dancer donned a costume of the opposite sex and portrayed the reverse roles to the full extent.

"The '40s" ended the evening with the dancers dressed in black tuxedos, bow ties and carrying canes. "The '40s" was probably the most lively and enjoyable dance of the night.

Conte's style can't be called ordinary. Never before have I seen dancers grasp their ankles and move about like frogs.

By Dana Schulte
Staff Writer

Hubbard Street performs "The '40s" Sunday.

Photo Courtesy of Shryock Auditorium
Court to weigh drug testing

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court, deciding a case that could set the limits of worker drug tests, agreed Monday to decide whether the Customs Service can require employees and job applicants to provide urine samples.

The justices will hear arguments next term in an appeal by the National Treasury Employees Union of an appeals court ruling that upheld the mandatory tests for certain job applicants and employees up for promotion.

More than 2,600 people have been tested for drug use since the Customs Service program began in June 1986. Five of them tested positive.

In its appeal to the Supreme Court, the union, which represents 9,000 Customs workers, charged the program amounts to an unreasonable search and seizure prohibited by the Fourth Amendment.

For the program to be legal, the union said, the government must first have probable cause or at least some reason to suspect workers of drug use.

"We do not question that Customs has a legitimate interest in a drug-free workplace. But it does not follow that Customs may engage in dragged searches of its employees' bodies in pursuit of that unexceptionable goal," lawyers for the union said.

The federal government, while acknowledging the high court should resolve the controversy, defended the drug testing program, saying it was a reasonable practice for an agency that plays a crucial role in fighting drug smuggling.

"Indeed, it would be irresponsible for the Customs Service to assume that its current employees or the applicant pool is now, or will be in the future, somehow immune from a problem that is ravaging the society at large," government lawyers told the justices.

Nancy Reagan blasts casual drug users

WASHINGTON (UPI) — First lady Nancy Reagan silenced a wildly cheering crowd of 2,000 anti-drug activists Monday with examples of the violent realities of illegal drugs and warned casual users, "You're an accomplice to murder."

Mrs. Reagan made a rare joint appearance with Edward Koch, 22, was shot three times in the head from point-blank range as he sat alone in his patrol car at 3:30 a.m. Friday guarding the house of a witness against neighborhood crack dealers in southeast Queens.

The funeral procession's slow pace brought a hushed calm to the sea of blue-uniformed officers, African-American cops. Mrs. Reagan blazed the unusual middle-class drug user for a wave of drug-related violence.

"A piece of America died with that cop," one officer said.

"Although we're making progress, still many ignorant ideas persist," Mrs. Reagan said. "One of the worst is the casual user's justification that his drug use is a victimless crime."

"The casual drug user cannot escape responsibility," she said.

OLD MAIN MENU
FOR MARCH 2, 3, & 4, 1988

Wednesday, March 2:
Stir-Fry Wok Cooking Choice of Flank Steak, Julienne Chicken Breast or Shrimp, Stir Fried with Fresh Vegetables.
White & Fried Rice $4.95 plus tax
Eggroll Soup & Salad Bar

Thursday, March 3
6 oz. Prime Rib Tossed Salad
Baked Potatoe with Sour Cream French Cut Green Beans Individual Bread Loaf $5.95 plus tax

Friday
Shrimp Scampi Baked Potatoe or French Fries Hush Puppies $4.95 plus tax
Soup & Salad Bar

Spring Break Special
APPEAREANCE Unlimited
1515 Walnut St Boro
Mar. 14-3277
Mon-Thur. 9:00-8:00pm Tu-Fr.
9:00-11:00pm Sat.
West Teasling System

Perr & Haircut $37.30
Haircut only $10.00
Haircut w/Style $15.00
Specials Good w/ Coupon Only
Stylists: Lisa Wilcox,
Pam Ashman, Jan Hanna

OPEN 10 A.M.

Page 6, Daily Egyptian, March 1, 1988
Today's Puzzle

Puzzle answers are on Page 6.

Student wins Dow Jones internship

Mary Caudle of Carbondale, a senior in journalism at SIU-C, has won a Dow Jones Newspaper Fund Minority Editing Internship for this summer.

The program, called "The $6,000 summer," includes a two-week pre-internship editing seminar at a journalism school and a paid summer internship as an editor with a newspaper participating in the program.

Caudle is associate editor of the Daily Egyptian. She has worked for the paper for five semesters, first in the classified office, then as an entertainment writer, entertainment editor and associate editorial page editor.

Caudle will participate in a seminar at the journalism school of the University of Missouri at Columbia, starting May 15, right after she graduates from SIU-C. Then she will work as a copy editor during the summer at the Fort Wayne (Ind.) News-Sentinel.

If she completes the pre-internship seminar and the internship successfully, she will be eligible for a $1,500 scholarship to be applied toward graduate-study expenses or $1,000 to repay undergraduate student loans.

"This will be my first experience working for a newspaper off campus," Caudle said, "and I am really looking forward to it!"

Caudle is one of 47 students in the country out of more than 500 applicants selected.

Financial Aid Information

April 1 Deadline

Students should complete and mail their 1988-89 ACT/Family Financial Statement (ACT/FFS) before April 1, 1988 to receive priority consideration for the SIUC Campus-Based Aid Programs which include:

Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grant
Student-to-Student Grant
Perkins Loan
College-Work Study

The ACT/FFS will also allow students to be considered for:

Pell Grant
ISSC Monetary Award
Guaranteed Student Loan
College-Work Study

ACT/FFS forms are available at:

Student Work & Financial Assistance
Woody Hall, B-Wing, Third Floor
Paid for by the Office of Student Work & Financial Assistance.

BAND TO GIVE FREE CONCERT

The North Dakota State University Gold Star Band will give a free public concert at 5 p.m. Wednesday at Shroyer Auditorium.

Greville Eidem, director of the organization, will conduct.

Lend A Hand

Jeni Dees (right), sophomore in radio-television, greets her classmate Ed Short, junior in radio-television, during an exercise for a stage movement class Monday morning.

Old Town Liquors

(Our specials run all week)

LITTLE DRAKE reg. & drk. 6 pk. btl. $2.63
Molson Golden 6 pk. btl. $3.86
Smirnoff (beer) 12 pk. can $4.71

Lend A Hand

Jeni Dees (right), sophomore in radio-television, greets her classmate Ed Short, junior in radio-television, during an exercise for a stage movement class Monday morning.

Old Town Liquors

(Our specials run all week)

LITTLE DRAKE reg. & drk. 6 pk. btl. $2.63
Molson Golden 6 pk. btl. $3.86
Smirnoff (beer) 12 pk. can $4.71

Financial Aid Information

April 1 Deadline

Students should complete and mail their 1988-89 ACT/Family Financial Statement (ACT/FFS) before April 1, 1988 to receive priority consideration for the SIUC Campus-Based Aid Programs which include:

Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grant
Student-to-Student Grant
Perkins Loan
College-Work Study

The ACT/FFS will also allow students to be considered for:

Pell Grant
ISSC Monetary Award
Guaranteed Student Loan
College-Work Study

ACT/FFS forms are available at:

Student Work & Financial Assistance
Woody Hall, B-Wing, Third Floor
Paid for by the Office of Student Work & Financial Assistance.

BAND TO GIVE FREE CONCERT

The North Dakota State University Gold Star Band will give a free public concert at 5 p.m. Wednesday at Shroyer Auditorium.

Greville Eidem, director of the organization, will conduct.

Lend A Hand

Jeni Dees (right), sophomore in radio-television, greets her classmate Ed Short, junior in radio-television, during an exercise for a stage movement class Monday morning.

Old Town Liquors

(Our specials run all week)

LITTLE DRAKE reg. & drk. 6 pk. btl. $2.63
Molson Golden 6 pk. btl. $3.86
Smirnoff (beer) 12 pk. can $4.71

Financial Aid Information

April 1 Deadline

Students should complete and mail their 1988-89 ACT/Family Financial Statement (ACT/FFS) before April 1, 1988 to receive priority consideration for the SIUC Campus-Based Aid Programs which include:

Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grant
Student-to-Student Grant
Perkins Loan
College-Work Study

The ACT/FFS will also allow students to be considered for:

Pell Grant
ISSC Monetary Award
Guaranteed Student Loan
College-Work Study

ACT/FFS forms are available at:

Student Work & Financial Assistance
Woody Hall, B-Wing, Third Floor
Paid for by the Office of Student Work & Financial Assistance.

BAND TO GIVE FREE CONCERT

The North Dakota State University Gold Star Band will give a free public concert at 5 p.m. Wednesday at Shroyer Auditorium.

Greville Eidem, director of the organization, will conduct.

Lend A Hand

Jeni Dees (right), sophomore in radio-television, greets her classmate Ed Short, junior in radio-television, during an exercise for a stage movement class Monday morning.

Old Town Liquors

(Our specials run all week)

LITTLE DRAKE reg. & drk. 6 pk. btl. $2.63
Molson Golden 6 pk. btl. $3.86
Smirnoff (beer) 12 pk. can $4.71

Financial Aid Information

April 1 Deadline

Students should complete and mail their 1988-89 ACT/Family Financial Statement (ACT/FFS) before April 1, 1988 to receive priority consideration for the SIUC Campus-Based Aid Programs which include:

Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grant
Student-to-Student Grant
Perkins Loan
College-Work Study

The ACT/FFS will also allow students to be considered for:

Pell Grant
ISSC Monetary Award
Guaranteed Student Loan
College-Work Study

ACT/FFS forms are available at:

Student Work & Financial Assistance
Woody Hall, B-Wing, Third Floor
Paid for by the Office of Student Work & Financial Assistance.
Hatha-yoga soothes your mind, increases energy, limits stress

By LaDonna Morris
Wellness Center

What's the first thing that comes to mind when you think of yoga?
Hatha, or physical yoga, is one of the many types of yoga and the one generally practiced in the West. It is a technique employing body postures, or asanas, breathing exercises, to relax the body and calm the mind. Originating in India, more than 2,000 years ago, it has practical applications for Americans today.

Hatha yoga is very different from other forms of exercise. It is the combination of a physical discipline. It must be practiced in a quiet, tranquil environment and requires complete concentration.

The different postures stretch and strengthen the muscles and massage the internal organs. Each posture has specific physical benefits.

Some of the hatha-yoga postures include the sun salutation, lord of the dance, bow, spinal twist and lion. As these postures are perfected, repetitions are reduced but they are held for increasingly longer periods of time.

Students come to yoga classes with varying degrees of flexibility and progress at their own pace. In hatha-yoga the journey is more important than the destination. There is no end point at which to arrive, there is only a direction.

Proper breathing is central to the practice of hatha-yoga. Diaphragmatic breathing, with the stomach rather than the chest moving in and out, is how we breathe naturally at birth. Children are conditioned to stretch the chest out and suck the stomach in, which results in shallow breathing. Diaphragmatic breathing is deeper and provides more oxygen.

In addition to relaxing the body, hatha-yoga can calm the mind. When the body is twisted in a difficult position all of your concentration is required to hold that position. This tend to thereby prevented from running the usual tapes like "I have to study for that exam tomorrow, I have a project due next week," etc.

Another way in which hatha-yoga can clear the mind is by replacing the disturbing thoughts with more positive affirmations such as, "I am relaxed, I am calm, I am quiet in the eye of the storm."

Calming the mind in this way can lead to improved concentration for studying. You will learn perhaps most importantly, the practice of hatha-yoga prepares the body and mind for meditation. This is where the spiritual aspect comes into play.

The benefits derived from 30 minutes of daily practice are great and can be realized in a short time. Some of the benefits are increased energy and concentration along with a reduction of stress and fatigue.

Beginners in hatha-yoga should start under the direction of a qualified teacher. Classes are offered free of charge at the Wellness Center each semester. We can't teach you how to levitate, but we will help you learn how to relax.

Health and Fitness Guide

OUTDOOR GEAR SWAP — This event is postponed until April 14.

ADVENTURE RESOURCE CENTER — Free information on recreational activities is Friday, March 11, from 2 to 4 p.m. Monday through Thursday and 1 to 3 p.m. Friday at the Rec Center, lower level across from the weight room.

FISHING WORKSHOP — Tackle, techniques and local hot spots will be discussed from 7 to 9 tonight in the Rec Center Multi-purpose Room.

OUTDOOR ADVENTURE PLANNING — Learn how to plan routes, menu, equipment, clothing and safety procedures for your trips. For details, call the Adventure Resource Center at 536-5531.

STOP PROCRASTINATING — Learn how to overcome the urge to put things of at 7:15 p.m. Wednesday in the Student Center Mississippi Room.

HEADACHE RELIEF — Experimental presentation of techniques to prevent or overcome headaches at 7 p.m. Wednesday in the Student Center Mississippi Room.

A.M. AND NOON AEROBICS — A.M. at 7 p.m. Thursdays and 11 a.m. and noon at the Rec Center Dance Studio.

RELAX! — Join an experienced relaxation specialist at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the Rec Center Dance Studio.

Program offered to help deal with diabetes

Illinois sheriffs offer statewide scholarships

The Illinois Sheriff's Association will offer $200 scholarships to 127 students for the academic year 1988-89. The scholarship will be awarded statewide for persons pursuing courses of vocational training or attending institutions of higher learning in Illinois.

Applicants must be permanent residents of Illinois and the scholarships are to be used in institutions of learning within the state. Applicants must be full-time undergraduate students.

Interested students may contact the local sheriff's office for information and applications. Deadline is March 10.

Don't Get Burned on Spring Break '88

Don't Get Stuck in a Hotel That's a Hole in the Ground
Go with the experienced programmers. Go with

---

Programs are equal opportunity programs and shall not discriminate against any person on the basis of race, color, sex, national origin, age, religion, marital status, disability, or sexual orientation.
Man key figure in case

PHOENIX (UPI) - Hiding in the shadows of the press gallery Monday, perched high above the Senate chamber, sat a diminutive man whose secret past and alleged strongarm threats cut to the core of Arizona’s impeachment case against Gov. Evan Mecham.

Mecham is the wet-nosed, sandy-haired — Lee Watkins, a one-time insurance salesman.

It was Watkins who prosecutors say threatened to kill a witness in a grand jury investigation of the governor’s finances. One of the articles of impeachment against Mecham alleges he tried to obstruct an attorney general’s investigation into that threat.

Watkins exact words, according to the official findings of the House prosecution team, were: “The witness had better shut up. She’s a bitch and has been acting like a whore. If she doesn’t shut up and keep her mouth shut, she could end up taking a long boat ride and they won’t be able to find her. She may come up missing.”

Watkins, through his attorney, denies ever making such a threat, which would constitute tampering with a grand jury witness. He claims to have taken lie-detector tests showing he never meant to kill the witness.

The Senate, during its first day of Mecham’s impeachment trial, officially moved to federally identify the polygraphist, the lead-time reporter and unsigned Thurs. Was., Watkins who has refused to release the name. In addition, prosecutors say the tests were unsatisfactory because they never tried to make Watkins make the threat, only that he never intended to kill the witness.

Despite word of the threat and vigorous pressure from lawmakers, the governor refused to remove Watkins, from his $55,000 a year post as Arizona’s director of prison construction.

Watkins eventually resigned when it was disclosed he failed to list a misdemeanor conviction on his application for a license to sell insurance.

He weathered the storm when another shady part of his past was exposed. At that time, he was convicted of robbing a posting clerk and served time in a California federal prison. His conviction was set aside in 1984.

Maricopa County Superior Court records also said Watkins was convicted of simple assault on Jan. 3, 1965, arising from a plea agreement to an aggravated assault charge.

Those facts were not known when Watkins was appointed to his post.
Now Renting for Summer and Fall '88

Houses and Apartments
Large and Small
Close to Campus
Call 289-1082
Office at 703 S. Ill. Ave.

Now Renting for Summer and Fall '88

Apartments, Houses Mobile Homes
Malibu Village 529-6301

Entertainment

Belly Play - All OCCASION dances, music, and refreshments. Make that special evening memorable, a night to remember. M-F 7:30-9p M-Su. 7:30-11p.

Announcement

New Warehouse for rent, 14x36. Also, office space 2000 sq. ft. with the following amenities: central heating and air conditioning. Rent: $500. For info call (217) 333-1111.

Hotel - Landmark Resort. Your official 2 br hotel for Spring Fest. The location, the comfort, the facilities for your best. Call 470-4711. Book early for a great rate. 3000 square feet in 300 feet. 2 kits available.

A New Location for Bastille. Right on campus, 1 bedroom & 2 bedroom. $1200 and $1400 for 1st month. 2 bedroom $1600.

Now accepting new reservations for Spring Break 1988. For more information contact Rick at Daily Egyptian Rm 1259 Comm Building or call 536-3311 ext 217.

Business Opportunities

Fishing - Great opportunity for sale of one of the best rental streams in all of Southern Illinois. 213 acres of prime trout water. 219-4711. Guaranteed income during the fishing season.

Auction and Sale Notice

Cape Goon - From Chicago to Cape, March 12 and 13. (217) 333-6232.
Men gymnasts score low against Penn State at Arena

By Stephanie Wood
Staff Writer

The men's gymnastics team didn't overcome the absence of two of their top all-arounders and lost to Penn State, 271.45 to 257.35.

"You get two all-arounders (out) and you're really in trouble," Coach Bill Meade said.

Salukis Brian Medjrich and Mark Taylor were in the lineup for disciplinary reasons, and Sean Delisle tried to fill in below its average.

Penn State gymnastics coach Karl Schier said, "It's unfortunate we weren't able to show our best here. And it doesn't help the cause of getting into the NCAA tournament."

Brent Reed, this season's most consistent finisher for the Salukis, was second in the all-around competition with a 54.85. Reed was followed by Greg Zeiders in fifth, 52.40 and Scott Belanger in sixth, 52.00.

Although the two were never teammates, Meade and Schier worked together at the Kenmore Centre.

"We were candidates for the coaching job at Penn State," Meade said.

The two go back a long way. "I remember watching Bill Meade when I was in high school," Schier said. "He was quite a.talented in his time."

"We've got a lot of old-timers involved," Schier said, "and I've always wanted to see how Bill would do."

Meade was the chairman for the Olympic Committee when Schier was the American gymnastics coach in the Olympics.

"It's always fun to see Bill," Schier said. "He's just a great guy."

"I've known all the coaches for years. It makes it a little nicer," Meade said. "But we try like hell, to beat each other."

Penn State coach, Meade have their own competition

Men's gymnasts' coach Bill Meade met up with an old competitor - of sorts - at the meet against Penn State. Meade graduated from and was a gymnast at Penn State.

Penn State gymnastics coach Karl Schier also was a gymnast there.

Although the two were never teammates, Meade and Schier did compete for a job.

"We were candidates for the coaching job at Penn State," Meade said.

"The two go back a long way. "I remember watching Bill Meade when I was in high school," Schier said. "He was quite a.talented in his time."

Meade was the chairman for the Olympic Committee when Schier was the American gymnastics coach in the 1976 Games.

"It's always fun to be with Bill," Schier said. "He's just a great guy."

"I've known all the coaches for years. It makes it a little nicer," Meade said. "But we try like hell, to beat each other."

Meade said his team's performance might have exceeded Penn State's overall score, which was six points below its average.

"They didn't feel any pressure," Meade said.

Penn State coach Karl Schier said, "It's unfortunate we weren't able to show our best here. And it doesn't help the cause of getting into the NCAA tournament."

Brent Reed, this season's most consistent finisher for the Salukis, was second in the all-around competition with a 54.85.

Penn State freshman Adam Caron won the all-around competition with 54.85. Caron has won seven consecutive all-around titles in dual meets.

For SIU-C, Reed was followed by Greg Zeiders in fifth, 52.40 and Scott Belanger in sixth, 52.00.

The meet against Penn State gymnastics "is a gymnast with an old friend," Meade said.

Meade attributes the low team score to the inconsistencies of his young team.

"Freshmen still have a tendency to compete like freshmen," Meade said.

Sophomore Scott Belanger scored 8.65 on the rings Friday night at the meet against Penn State at the Arena. SIU-C lost 271.45 to 257.35.
Spirit of Winter Olympics crushed by all the hoopla

By Mike Rabon
UPI Sports Writer

CALGARY, Alberta — Dan Simoneau, an articulate, 13-year veteran of the U.S. cross-country ski team, came to the Winter Olympics with the same dreams that follow most athletes who compete in the most publicized sporting event in the world.

He went home to Bend, Ore., having placed 29th in the 15-kilometer race and 49th over 30 kilometers. The 28-year-old skier didn’t even make the 15-kilometer final, having succumbed to whatever kind of the sweep through Calgary during the second week of the Olympics.

But SIMONEAU won the gold medal in what most athletes consider the most exacting event of any kind of sport: the 10-meter air rifle competition. It was fired Dec. 9. Reed will be interim coach.

="At times, the attention the Olympics receives seems to get in the way of what we are here to do." — Dan Simoneau

New Jersey Nets fill head coach position

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (UPI) — Willis Reed, who inspired the New York Knicks to two NBA championships in the 1970s, was named head coach of the now New Jersey Nets on Monday.

Reed, 46, has won over a team that reached the playoffs two seasons ago, but has now been rocked by drug scandals and has the worst record in the NBA this season.

Reed replaces Bob McInytre, who resigned last week after the Nets fired their coach, Ira Hill, in the final days of the season.

“Personally, I’m kind of surprised yet very elated that I was chosen,” Reed said in a news conference. “When Bob McInytre became the head coach, I felt like they would probably wait until the end of the year.”

“Tending very happy that they came to the decision that I was the person that they would like to have come back and take this team and try to structure it and try to put it back in the winning ways of the years that they’ve had in here in year’s past.”

“I felt really good about being a head coach after the year we had. I think we could put a lot of people that we got this year’s showing was a second one that the team and I would like the team to come back the first week of the season and we can put that on the line and financial terms of his contract.”

Women swimmers, divers have 1 shot left to qualify

By Steven Welsh
Staff Writer

The women’s swimming and diving team failed to meet “by the smallest of margins” the NCAA championships at the National Invitational Championships in Chicago.

But the women, who were not selected but the fact is we had a lot of really good swimmers,” Coach Doug Ingram said. “The times were real close. We were just missing just one person.”

The team had gone into the meet hoping to qualify several individuals and all five relay teams. The team gets one more chance to qualify next weekend at the Recreation Center.

“We’ll have a week of rest and come back the Region VIII Championships,” Ingram said. “We’ll be ready next weekend.”

Senior co-captain Karen McIntyre just missed qualifying in the 50-yard butterfly. Her time of 26.98 was outside hundredth of a second from the NCAA standard.

“I was disappointed, but I feel real confident that I can qualify next weekend,” McIntyre said. “The entire team feels pretty confident. We just feel we need another week of rest.”

“Our main problem was that we didn’t have any competition,” she said. “We just racing against ourselves.”

The Salukis competed against teams from Illinois State, Western Illinois, Northern Illinois, Northern Missouri, University of Illinois at Chicago, Eastern Illinois and Northern Iowa at the non-scored meet.

The 1990 Yard freestyle relay team of Lori Rea, Jackie Taljard, Iris van Joanne and Kals Wire set a meet record 4:53.43, just a hundredth of a second above the NCAA qualifying time.
There’s no stopping Bradley

By Dave Miller
Staff Writer
Bradley ran away with the game.

The Braves’ relentless fast break, often punctuated by a slow dunk, led Bradley to a 113-102 victory over the Salukis Monday night at the Arena.

Hersey Hawkins wore out the baseline en route to a new single-game scoring record with 49 points. Hawkins, who appeared to score his points effortlessly, moved into second place on the all-time Missouri Valley career-scoring list with 2,856.

Saluki guard Steve Middetton went out in style in his last home game. He scored a career-high 42.

With the Braves’ eighth straight win, they finish first in the Valley with a 22-4 overall record and a 12-2 mark in the conference. It was the Braves’ fourth Valley championship in the 1980s.

Bradley’s 113 points was the second highest ever scored against SIU-C.

The Salukis end the regular season at 12-15 and 6-8. SIU-C finished in a fourth-place tie with Creighton.

The Salukis overcame a 14-point second-half deficit to take a 75-74 lead at 12:07. Then the Braves’ running game kicked into high gear and outscored the Salukis 39-27 for the rest of the way.

The Salukis bolstered by a crowd of 8,214, jumped lead 14-4 in four minutes and 30 seconds into the game. Hawkins scored 18 of those points.

Mickey Maule is 9-1 this season. He passed Larry Bird on the career-scoring list with 2,856. Maule said. ‘‘I’ve been playing well all the Salukis.

Dick LeFevre said, “We were red hot, we just didn’t pay well all at. It was like we weren’t even awake yet.”

SIU-C vs. Wichita State, 12-0, Mickey Maule at No. 3 singles was the only winner for the Salukis.

“I’ve been playing well all year,” Maule said. “I’m hitting the ball really well right now.”

Maule is 9-1 this season.

“Mickey is just playing great tennis right now,” LeFevre said. “He’s in a groove.”

On Saturday night, the Salukis defeated Tulsa, 3-4. SIU-C started by winning all three doubles matches.

By Jeff Grissom
Staff Writer

The men’s tennis team wins two of three dual matches.

The men’s tennis teams, thanks to improved doubles play, won two of three dual matches in Normal.

The Salukis came into the weekend with a combined doubles record of 2-18. On Saturday afternoon, SIU-C lost three doubles matches to Wichita State. However, after that, things turned around.

The team went 5-1 in its next six doubles matches of the weekend, defeating Tulsa and Illinois State.

“We came out and lost all three doubles matches against Wichita State but really had a firelost win,” Jeff Grissom coach.

Dick LeFevre said. “We were real cold, we just didn’t play well at all. It was like we weren’t even awake yet.”

SIU-C lost to Wichita State, 1-0. Mickey Maule at No. 3 singles was the only winner for the Salukis.

“I’ve been playing well all year,” Maule said. “I’m hitting the ball really well right now.”

Maule is 9-1 this season.

“Mickey is just playing great tennis right now,” LeFevre said. “He’s in a groove.”

On Saturday night, the Salukis defeated Tulsa, 3-4.

SIU-C started by winning all three doubles matches.

The doubles we did just about everything we could to lose the thing,” LeFevre said.

Maule won his singles match quickly to put the Salukas up 4-0. Then Jarod Aldana, Juan Martinez, George Ilme, and Dean Russell all lost, leaving it up to No. 2 Faziano Rames. He won 6-7, 7-5, 6-4 to seal the victory.

Those are tough ones to watch,” LeFevre said.

The Salukis defeated Illinois State, 7-2, on Sunday.

In doubles play, No. 1 Hatch and Alford and No. 2 Martinez and Ilme both won in straight sets, while No. 3 Aldana and Russell lost in straight sets.

In singles, SIU-C won all but one match. Dean Russell lost 6-2, 60 to James Mercer at No. 6.

No. 1 Aldana was defeated by default, and No. 2 Rames was leading 6-4, 4-0 over Neff when Neff decided to retire.

Neff was leading 4-0 in the first set before Rames won 10 straight games.

“Ramos was playing great, hitting the ball really well,” LeFevre said.

“No. 1 Aldana was defeated by default, and No. 2 Rames was leading 6-4, 4-0 over Neff when Neff decided to retire.”

The Salukis are 4-2 overall and 2-0 in the Valley.

后果，它影响整个社区。因此，我们不能忽视这个问题。