EIGHTEEN MEN REPORT FOR BASEBALL PRACTICE

Promising Squad Working Out Every Afternoon—Small Reserve

Strength

The belated arrival of spring and warmer weather has permitted base ball practice to begin on the Maroon lot. Eighteen men have responded to Coach McAndrew's call for practice, and are training each afternoon. More men are expected to turn out for practice this week.

The preliminary training has been characterized by light workouts, throwing, catching, batting and base running.

"Mac" faces the task of completely rebuilding the team: Only two veterans of last year's organization are back for the team this spring. The material on hand, however, is promising and "Mac" looks forward to developing a team that will be strong offensively as well as defensively. Unless more recruits show up the team will be lacking in capable reserve players.

Good Pitching Staff

Pankey, Lamer and Hinckley are slated for the pitching end of the game. Pankey and Lamer have been showing good form in the first week of training. Hinckley is a veteran hurler of last year's team. Three capable pitchers on the team is one of its greatest assets.

Purnell and Harrison look good for catcher's positions. Both men averaged receivers but rather wild when overthrowing.

Hinckley and Lamer will alternate at first and to the pitcher's box. High promises to develop into a fair bat, and baseman. Spangler, veteran of two years ago, is the best bet for the short stop position.

Urger, the only other veteran of last year's team, will probably retain his old position at third base.

Dunn, Ashbury and Clark are biding for places in the outer garden. Dunn, a consistent fielder and a reliable hitter, looks good for the right wing, while Ashbury, with his speed, will probably cover the center slot. Brinkman and Pankey will vie with Clark for the left flank.

No Games Scheduled

As yet there have been no games scheduled. Prospects are, however, that games will be secured with Carbondale, Maysville and Nipmuck industrial teams and perhaps a few of the downstate college teams.

SIGMA ALPHA PI

DOES IT AGAIN!

Weird proceedings, ludicrous spectacles, spectral expeditions, and what not? At first it caused much wonderment, but it is easily explained now because Sigma Alpha Pi was initiating three college freshmen. From what we can gather they must have put 'em through! The acid test was given in many ways, some of which we saw, others always to remain a mystery.

Now if you have a mania for statistics, and would like to ascertain the number of cats and dogs residing on Normal avenue between Grand and College, you could get the information desired from one Herman Luse. Mr. Lus acquired these facts after the feline and canine inhabitants of Normal avenue during a Fancy Night of Thursday evening. Some of the residents of Normal avenue thought the Anna asylum had lost an inmate, others hid their pets and declared they had none, while Professor Lents was aided and informed him it was none of his business.

Orville Carrington started opposition to Prince but he has decided to continue operations. He set forth with the world with an electron gun, but his ambition was stunted. He solicited clothespressing work and first called upon Professor Colyer. After considerable haggling Carrington made a contract for work. He was to press one pair of trousers for Professor Colyer for $1.50. It just happened that the professor did not want his money in an easy manner. He sent Carrington to Prof. Muckelroy's home to collect a debt of $2.50. So he told Orville that he might collect it from Mr. Chane, Carrington finally reported at 685 S. Normal with the necessary sum, but who is so heartless as to send money to him?

We were not sure of Harley Mowen's politics, but he is an ardent supporter of McAndrew, it developed. We do not know what the considers after involved was, but Mowery neared several credits in physical training. Thursday morning Mowery was playing "The Four Horsemen" about the campus, but the other three horsemen wouldn't play with him.

The three boys spent the major part of Friday night "prowlin' round".

FARMERS MEET AT THE NORMAL

On Thursday of last week Farm Bureau men of the district held an all-day meeting at Zetetic Hall. The meeting was also attended in informal and representative farmers in goodly numbers from all counties in the district entered freely into all discussions.

More efficient and economical production through the use of limestone and good soil management, better methods of distribution and marketing, and the raising of farm products and other important problems were taken up and carefully considered.

The meeting was very ably presided over by Mr. Diets, president of the Jackson County Farm Bureau, Mr. Geo. A. Fox, secretary of the State Farm Bureau, Chicago; Mr. Vernon Leslie, Sparta, director of the district, Mr. A. L. Leeper, manager of American Fruit Growers, Centralia, were present at the meeting and led in the discussions.

FARM Advisers Thomas of Jackson, Secor of Randolph; DeWeef of Franklin; Galeener of Williamson; Foste of Union and Bieb and of Pulaski were also present and contributed substantially to the success, interest and value of the meeting.

Before adjournment the visiting farmers extended a vote of thanks to the Jackson County Farm Bureau and S. I. N. U. for courtsey and accommodations.

in grave yards within a radius of ten miles of Carbondale. Saturday afternoon the boys appeared in the business section of town, attracting considerable attention, but oh, that Saturday night! From what we can gather from neighbors and passers-by the climax must have arrived about the midnight hour Saturday, April 12. If, as they say, the preceding events were as nothing compared with this boys deserve some commendation.

The finish arrived Sunday morning with serious and sacred ceremony and if you observe closely you will discover several boys on our campus, wearing Sigma Alpha Pi pins, who never were them before.

AND THEN IT HAPPENED

Our Latest Thrill

It was a dark and stormy night. They were seated about the camp fire, telling stories. Up spoke the captain, saying, "Antonio, tell us a story." Antonio began as follows: "It was a dark and stormy night. The sea was smooth as glass. Not a sound could be heard. The continuous shriek of the old north wind leaving havoc and destruction in its way resounded in their ears. On they hailed in their perilous journey, feeling as safe as if they were home with their wives, for was not the mate at their side? Not a bottle of hooch was in sight, yet acted as if they were drunk, for the schooner, or tossed them up and down. They yelled for succor, which was absurd, for all the men were on the boat. Rougher and rougher became their plight, and the calm grew so intense it was terrifying. A high dash of spray sprayed over the deck interrupting and exciting game of poker, and a sudden burst of the ship boiled them into the alley where you could hear a pin drop. Another jerk knocked the daylight out of the seven sailors, and they rose to their feet with a cry of agony, for they were speechless with fright. Suddenly the scullion yelled: "I sap and," and they knocked him to the floor with a stunning glance, as a low-down spy. But he was from the city, and as he hit the floor his head the ship sprung a leak, and no one could bail the water out for they were all dead broke. So they swam to shore, and when they landed by the well known rock, they recognized it by its appearance, and immediately began to dig. They dug and dug and dug and at last, their labors were rewarded, for they struck something solid. It was the chest they had traveled these many miles to find. They hoisted it to the ground and readily set about to open it with feverish haste. From the bottom of the box they drew forth their precious find, and eagerly proceeded to devour it. What was it?"

"It could not be jewels," replied the Captain, "so it must have been food."

"No," said Antonio, "it was a copy of the Egyptian."

Miss Henderson, Miss Trovillion and Mr. Hotten acted as judges in the intellectual contests at Anna last Saturday.

SO SNAPPY

The young man was fondling her right hand.

"A nice diamond," he said, awkwardly. "Diamonds are beautiful stones, but on the other hand—" "O, Jack," she murmured, "you make me so happy."

"What makes Mrs. Flights's butter so extremely sharp?"

"He has to be," replied Miss Cayene. "There is a report that he is a nobleman forced to earn his living. He has to keep his distance for fear to treat him like one of the family."

HUBBARDISMS

Never explain—your friends do not need it and your enemies will not believe you anyhow.

Give out a grouch and you get it back with interest, grim, grum, and grumlike.

Men do not lack strength; they lack the will to concentrate and act.

The highest reward that God gives us for good work is the ability to do better work.

You can pay the price of Hemlock: few are worthy of the Cross; and few indeed, could meet Great Opportunity, even if Fate supplied it.

Modern business men of the high, est and fitnest type are not the over- seers or taskmasters of their em- ployees. They are their friends and helpers. Co-operation is the Big idea in Modern Industry. Team Work is the thing that counts.

Give us a religion that will help us to live—we can die without assistance.

The man who knows it can't be done counts the risk, not the reward.

That man only is great who will make the blessings that God provides and of these blessings so gifted the gentle, trusting companionship of a good woman.

Whatever you teach yourself, good or bad—you are.

It is a great man who, when finds he has come out at the little end of the horn, simply appropriates the horn and blows it forevermore.

God always gives us strength to bear the troubles of each day, but he never calculated on our piling the troubles past and those to come on top of those of today.

Let us cooperate and move forward hand in hand, rather than split up into factions and starve our souls of dogmatic differences.

A successful man is one who has tried, not cried; who has worked, not dodged; who has shouldered responsibility, not evaded it; who has gotte under the burden, not merely stood off looking on, giving advice and philosophizing on the situation. The result of a man's work is not the measure of success. To go down with the ship in storm and tempest is better than to paddle away to Paradise in an Orthodox canoe. To have worked is to have succeeded—we leave the results have succeeded—we leave the results to time. Life is too short to gather the Harvest—we can only sow.

CHEMISTRY

Here's Ho! for life in the Chem Lab.
A glorious life and free.
You reek with the odors of H2S,
And the fumes of NH3.
You first choke up with Chlorine,
You strangle with phosphorus dust,
You wade on through with Experiment 2,
Till your head is fit to bust.
Oh! Life in the Chem Lab is jolly,
With its Acids and Bases and Salts;
With our heads in the fume, we work in the glow,
But we love it with all its faults.
Take a flask 1-2 full of HCI,
Add to this a few grains of Zinc,
Your neighbor comes near with a lighted match,
Your feet hit the ceiling, Blink! Blink!
Take a few grains of phosphorus-Yellow,
Add to this KNO3,
With the help of a jolt from a neighboring bolt,
Your Heavenly Father see,
You take a pinch of Sodium,
Weigh your beakers and bottles,
then
Let Na drop in a molten spot,
And do it all over again.
Here's Ho! To a life in the Chem Lab:
Sad words, "it might have been."
You take a drink of H2O,
And discover 'tis KCN.
Don't worry. Though we be de- pounded,
Or sunk in the course as given.
We'll carry our beakers right on thru,
And finish the course in Heaven.
—Utah.

If you don't feel just right,
If you can't sleep at night,
If you can't sleep at night,
If your throat is dry,
If you're defeated,
If you feel at all,
Give out a grouch and you get
t back with interest, grim, grum, and grumlike.
Don't go hughouse, not a bit; Just sit up and smile at nature
As you Takabita Grit.

ALIBIS

A few days ago we read one of the many stories that attempt to establish an alibi for Napoleon's defeat at Waterloo. In substance the story is as follows:

A guide at Waterloo was approached by an old man and his servant who asked to be shown over the famous battlefield.

The guide made the usual rounds telling the stereotyped story and commenting severely on the conduct of Marshal Grouchy, whose behavior on that memorable day caused Napoleon's downfall.

At last the stranger—who was no other than Marshal Grouchy himself—agitated as he recalled that the means of changing the current of the light had been in his own hands, tearfully said, "Grouchy, received no orders."

Reading this story led us to the conclusion that our failures are usually barricaded with alibis, most of them cheap. Decidedly cheap when we compare them with possible alibis that might have been legitimately offered by others, but were not.

Homer might have squatted in the dust at the gates of any of the seven cities that contended for the honor of being his birthplace. The rich would have tossed him gold in scorn and at the same time have stifled the inspiration for the Odyssey. Like Milton, this great poet had the best of alibis. He was blind.

Demosthenes, greatest of all orators, might have lived a life of ease. Had he failed, a triple alibi could have been offered—a harsh, unmusical, stuttering voice, weak lungs and awkward movements.

Charles Lamb, charming and ingenious essayist, spent part of his life in an insane asylum and the remainder of it as a clerk and caring for his periodically demented sister. Here would have been an alibi.

Lord Byron, who immortalized Leander, duplicated his hero's feat, although he was club-footed.

So we might go on with many illustrations. from Julius Caesar, the epileptic, to Senator Gore. Alibis! Plenty of them! But never used!

Alibis are as old as the world. Fifty thousand years ago the Neanderthal man no doubt offered one after an all night orgy. He manufactured one and Adam followed in his footsteps then reproached for eating of the "tree of knowledge of good and evil."

Age has only made the alibi better and now more substantial. In this respect it is like the violin and Burgundy. The rough spots of our daily life and of the road to accomplishment are lined with whining, winking, whispering alibis that tempt and beckon to the path of ease and least resistance paved with failures on a ballast of cheap alibis.

ON BEHALF OF THE POST OFFICE

The burden of discussion in the newspapers today is how to send your mail. So much is being said about mailing early, mailing in time, holding your mail till tomorrow, putting your return address on your envelope, blaming yourself instead of the postman, that the public is actually beginning to believe that what the postoffice is driving at is that more care should be used in mailing letters.

In addition to the rules issued by the postoffice there are a great many other rules that should be followed by the careful letter writer. With the idea of assisting in making the department more human we offer the following bits of advice:

1. Always include something before you seal the envelope.
2. Always sign your own name to your letter.
3. Do not drop your letter in the fire alarm box.
4. It is preferable to affix new stamps rather than cancelled ones.
5. Do not write letters to two or more sweethearts at the same time. You are liable to put them in the wrong envelopes.
6. Do not open a letter that is not addressed to you, unless you are sure you can seal it again without detection.
7. If you receive more mail than your neighbor, divide it up.
8. Never write a letter with an angry heart. Use a pen.
9. It is bad taste to typewrite a letter unless you know how to use the typewriter.
10. Don't write anything you will be sorry for. This ought to cut the carrier's load in half.
11. If you hate the one you are writing to just put a few crosses at the bottom of the letter. That will show how cross you are.

Why is it, that some, men named William are known as Bill, while others of the same name are known as Will?
THEODORE ROOSEVELT'S LETTERS TO HIS CHILDREN

January 13, 1901.

When we read this letter of Roosevelt's to his little daughter Ethel—one out of many of his charming, interesting letters—we cannot doubt that Roosevelt's letters should be included in this series of famous letters of history:

Keystone Ranch,
Jan. 13, 1901.

Darling Ethel:

I have had great fun. Most of the trip neither you nor mother nor sister would enjoy; but you would all of you be immensely amused with the dogs. There are eleven all told, but really only eight do much hunting. These eight are all scarred with the wounds they have received this very week in battling with the cougars and lynxes, and they are always threatening to fight one another; but they are as affectionate toward men (and especially toward me, as I pet them) as our own home dogs. At this moment a large hound and a small, half-breed bull-dog, both of which were quite badly wounded this morning by a cougar, are showing their noses into my lap to be patted, and humming defiance to one another. They are on excellent terms with the ranch cat and kittens. The three chief fighting dogs, who do not follow the trail, are the most affectionate of all. And, moreover, they climb trees! Yesterday we got a big lynx in the top of a pinon tree—a low spreading kind of pine—about thirty feet tall. Turk, the bloodhound, followed him up, and after much sprawling actually got to the very top, within a couple of feet of him. Then, when the lynx was shot out of the tree, Turk, after a short scramble, took a header down through the branches, landing with a bounce on his back. Tony, one of the half-breed bull-dogs, takes such headers on an average at least once for every animal we put up a tree. We have nice little horses which climb the most extraordinary places you can imagine. Get mother to show you somes of Gustave Doré's trees; the trees on these mountains look just like them.

REVISED LAWS FOR SPOONERS

Spring has arrived and we hereby issue our only authentic and authoritative "Revised Laws For Spooners." These laws supersede all other laws, rules, codes, regulations, orders, decrees, dictums and facts (whatever that means). All girls who spoon are commanded to obey these Revised Laws under penalty of being ducked in the fountain, Lake Ridge-way, Big Muddy river or Thompson's Lake. Read ye:

1. Never go out with a strange fellow if he looks too strange.
2. Never walk on the outside of a fellow unless that's the side where he keeps his change.
3. Do not sit with your fellow on a park bench unless you are sure that the cops will stand behind you.
4. Do not go out on the campus and sit on the grass unless it's dry. You might catch cold.
5. Don't let any man put his arm around you. One arm is enough.
6. Do not kiss on the public square. The mouth is much to be preferred.
7. Don't make love. It will come in time.
8. Do not sit out by Lake Ridge-way on a moonlight night if benches are near. Anyway the night watchman will ask you to "move on."
9. Never hold a man's hand, unless the other card players are agreeable.
10. Never sit in the parlor with the light turned on—it might attract mosquitoes.
11. Whenever you go out with a chaperone be sure to provide with an escort so she won't get into mischief.
12. Be considerate enough not to let anyone hug you without being sure that all your pins are in place.
13. Do not ride in an automobile with a stranger if an airship is a hand.
14. Abide by all these rules.
15. Don't walk about the campus and pass by the windows of the Main building without trying them out.

"Other republics have failed because the citizens gradually grew to consider the interests of the class against the whole; for, when such was the case, it mattered not whether the poor plundered the rich or the rich exploited the poor; in either case the end of the republic was at hand. We are resolute not to fall into such a pit. This great republic of ours shall never become the government of a plutocracy and it shall never become the government of a mob."—Theodore Roosevelt.

SOCRATIC SOCIETY

WELCOMES YOU

"When clouds have vanished and skies are blue," perhaps then it will be that every one will brighten up and feel more like entering into the various activities of the school and helping to build up some of our organizations.

The long, dark, gloomy days we have had all winter have been enough to sour the faces as well as the cream in the churn. We are hoping the weather man will see fit to relieve us of so much gloomy weather and give us a bit of sunshine so that we may catch a gleam of it in our own hearts and lives and holding it there disseminate it as we go.

Springtime is the time when everything takes on new life and we are hoping to add new life to the Socratic Society and make it even better than it has been heretofore. "In the spring a young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of love," may be true, but surely that will not crowd out other worth while things.

Some of our old alumni will bear witness to the fact that Socratic Society has been an "aid" rather than an evening to Dan Cupid, so "come on in, the society's fine" and she bids you welcome to her meetings and into her membership. We need you and you need us. We can be of mutual benefit to each other.

POEMS WORTH REMEMBERING

L'ENVOI
Rudyard Kipling

When earth's last picture is painted
And the tubes are twisted and dried,
When the oldest colors have faded,
And the youngest critic has died.
We shall rest, and, faith, we shall need it—lie down for an ace or two,
Till the Master of All Good Workmen shall set us to work anew.

And those that were good will be happy; they shall sit in a golden chair;
They shall splash at a ten-league canvas with brushes of comet's hair;
They shall find real saints to draw from Magdalene, Peter and Paul.
They shall work for an age at a sitting and never be tired at all;
And only the Master shall praise us, and only the Master shall blame;
And no one shall work for money, and no one shall work for fame;
But each for the joy of working, and each in his separate star.
Shall draw the Thing as he sees it for the God of Things as they are!

Those cats they are letting out of the bag in Washington seem to be wildcats.—Nashville Banner.

We want to keep you through the years To bring a word of cheer. Each week, to us, who love so well, Our Alma Mater dear. So here's our pledge to help you on;
To show we still are true To you, thru' all, we'll always boost Our own S. I. N. U.

R. B. P.

THE COMPULSORY FEE—WHY NOT?

A compulsory fee of $2.00 per term could be made to take care of the football, basketball and baseball seasons. It could include the Egyptian, the Obelisk and a good many of the pictures taken for the latter. Such a fee would have made unnecessary the embarrassment and discouragement Mr. Lentz suffered in chapel last week. The students needing these activities are the ones not receiving them. It could cover plays given as a school enterprise and furnish additional entertainment.

The objections to it? Examine them one at a time. First, the poorer students can't afford it. Yet nearly every one of these poorer students pay more than six dollars a year for some of the items above mentioned. I have talked with some of them and know. Secondly, some claim that the fee would weaken students' support and loyalty, their pep and attendance if you please, to the athletic activities. How much support has been shown this year to basketball? How many attended the games? It could hardly weaken those loyalists who came, and the Association would not lack for financial support. I know from personal experience that if I had a ticket from the first to all the games, etc., that I should have attended many more than I did—nearly everyone and should have boosted them.

Several years ago the school had almost put over the compulsory idea when a member of the Egyptian staff talked against the Obelisk receiving a share in the fee. Nevertheless, the compulsory fee for the Egyptian and athletics went over with a big majority. The cost at first is not what hurts, that is, at the beginning of the term. It is the steady drain during the term. And besides, many here are receiving free tuition. So why not have the compulsory fee and make it easier on all of us? A JUNIOR.

Women are what men marry. They have two feet, two hands, and sometimes two husbands, but never more than one dress or one idea at a time.

Like cigarettes, women are all made of the same material, the only difference is that some are disguised better than others.

Women belong to one of three classes, intelligent, beautiful or to the majority. They may also be classed as belonging to one of these classes, wives, widows, or old maids. An old maid is a picture of hope deferred. Wives are of three classes, prices, surprises, and consolation prizes.

Making a wife out of a woman is one of the highest and most common. It requires science, sculpture, commonsense, faith, hope, and charity, especially charity.

It is one of the psychological marvels of the twentieth century that big, red-blooded, two-fisted, manly, woman should enjoy its being a soft fluffy, violet-scented, drug store complexioned thing like a woman.

If you flatter a woman she is frightened to death and if you don't flatter her she is bored to death. If you make love to her she gets tired of you in the end, and if you don't make love to her she gets tired of you in the beginning.

If you believe all she tells you, she will make a fool of you. If you don't believe all she tells you, she says you are a brute.

If she is the clinging type, you believe she has any brains. If she is the modern independent type you can't believe she has any heart. If she is of the intellectual type you long for a playmate, and if she is frivolous you consider her a flirt and not to be trusted. If she is popular with other men, you are jealous, and she is not, you are ashamed to be seen with a wallflower. Grabbing women anyhow.

There are meters trochee, and meters iambic, and meters of musical tone. But the meter that's neater, and sweeter, completer, is to meet or in the moonlight alone.

A Freshman's head is full of air. Of air so hot and breezy. A Sophomore's head is full of naught. Of naught but "take life easy." A Junior's head is full of love. The love you get at college. A Senior's head is full of brains. A greater amount of knowledge.

CARBONDALE, III.—The second Annual Intercollegiate Commercial contest held by the Business Department of the Southern Illinois Normal University, in conjunction with the Southern Illinois Teachers' Association convention, here March 27 and 28, was a complete success. Eighteen of Southern Illinois' larger high schools were represented in the contests.

Better attendance, greater interest and greater benefits derived from the contests completely proved their worth. Contest Manager T. L. Bryant, head of the University Commercial Department, is already formulating plans and boosting for an even larger contest in 1926.

In the 1924 contest, in penmanship, typing and shorthand, there were some very good marks made by the contest winners. A complete report of the contest follows:

The penmanship tests as graded by the A. N. Palmer Company, Chicago, awarded first place to West Frankden and second place to Carbondale. Honorable mention was accorded Benton, Murphysboro, Herrin, Metropolis and Cairo.

First place honors in the First Year, typewriting division went to Helen Toler of Mounds, who wrote an average of 52.45 words per minute, errors discounted. Second and third places in this division were won by Emily Moore and Virginia Stroh, respectively, both of Johnston City.

Lora Webb, Herrin, III., won the first award in the Second Year division of the typewriting contests, with a net average of 59.30 words per minute. Second place was won by Helen Armes of Johnston City, and third place went to Mary Hurst of Cairo.

Constance Skinner of Benton, Ill., barely won first place in the first year division of the Shorthand contest, scoring a mark of 95 2 3 per cent accuracy in a sixty word dictation test, to win over Gladys De, zonia of Murphysboro, who scored a mark of 98 1 3 per cent accuracy.

Third place in this division went to Dorothy Fricke of Sparta.

Mary Whobea defeated Clara Hod., both of Mt. Vernon, by a single point for the championship of the Second Year division of the Shorthand contest. The mark of 94 1 3 per cent accuracy, a Helen Armes of Johnston City was a close third with a mark of 97 11 12.

There should at no time be parking on the campus.

This is the time of year for the repairing of old fence and the building of new ones. Some serve to keep the cattle in, others to keep them out.

If you believe all you hear, nobody will believe anything he hears from you.

A girl knows she's going to be married and live happy ever after-ward; a man thinks he may be married and hopes for the best.

Girls who are "just crazy about dancing," commonly lead their husbands a merry dance later.

Virtue is most formal crime waves. Of course, you're misunderstood, which may account for your being allowed to live.
