Fleerlage to testify Monday at airline service hearing

By Wayne Markham
Staff Writer

City Attorney George Fleerlage was appointed by the Carbondale City Council Tuesday night to represent the city at a Federal Aviation Administration hearing into airline service affecting Carbondale.

Fleerlage will testify at the FAA hearing April 7 in Springfield along with representatives from Ong Airlines, which discontinued its service to Carbondale three months ago.

According to Carbondale Mayor David Keene, another airline has since indicated a desire to begin service to Carbondale with flights that could begin as early as April 21.

Representatives from the newly-formed Chicago and Southern Airlines Inc., sent Keene a telegram Tuesday setting back the date for possible inauguration of service to the April 21 date. They had originally told the mayor that they could begin operating as early as April 15.

Keene was originally scheduled to appear at the FAA hearing but an earlier appointment with state officials necessitated his request to the city council to approve a substitute.

The mayor said Fleerlage will have to decide at the hearing whether to oppose Ong Airline's withdrawal or to support it and thus pave the way for the Chicago and Southern Airline franchise.

James Ridley, a representative of the new airline corporation, told Keene that "we will give better service than Ong did." Keene told the city council members that he was confident the new airline would be a great asset if it could make good its promises.

In other action the city council passed a motion halting further tapping into the city's northeast sewer system. A petition opposing further tapping was read to the council from the Northeast Community Development Congress.

The council motion will prohibit all taps "until further notice." In addition, a second motion rescinding building permit to the J. A. Robinson Construction Co., for an apartment complex on the northeast sewer system was also passed.

The Northeast Community Development Congress petition objected to the building permit issuance on grounds that a 1966 city ruling had halted any extensions to the already overloaded sewer system on the city's northeast side.

Councilman Frank Kirk said that since the permit was issued at 4 p.m. Monday the council Tuesday night acted to discontinue any notice to the construction company.

The company had proposed to build a 185-unit apartment complex with 42 units expected to be in operation by fall quarter.

Ogilvie recommends 4 per cent income tax

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) - Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie asked the Illinois Legislature Tuesday to approve a $1.3 billion state spending package by a bold new $1 billion tax program aimed at 4 per cent income levy.

New programs are to be devoted to private and parochial education, and direct state grants to local governments. Unemployment benefits were also made automatic by the Republican governor called the $4.5 billion annual budget the largest, the spending and taxes the highest, and the percentage increase unprecedented.

Rep. John Touhy and Sen. Thomas A. McGlone both of Chicago, joining higher in support for tax rises think the idea to come said, "No relief is in sight for the low income taxpayer who is paying almost 15 per cent of his income in sales and property taxes."

Gus Bode

Gus says the proposed surtax never made it either for students to take "taps."
Fire in woods

A Carbonado fireman raises a water hose to extinguish a brush fire which burned off about one quarter acre of ground in Thompson Woods Tuesday about 2 p.m. The fire, of undetermined origin, started along the walk leading from the Agriculture Building to University Center and spread toward Morris Library. The strong wind carried the fire too swiftly for it to be brought under control in time to damage the trees, according to Calvin Ray, research forester with the U.S. Forest Service. Lutheran Chapel to dedicate organ

A new pipe organ installed at the Lutheran Chapel affiliated with SIU will be formally dedicated April 13 with a concert featuring performance by David Fienhen, graduate student at Concordia Seminary, St. Louis, according to campus pastor Rueben Bearwald.

Wind-chests and pipes for the organ were built in Germany, by Werner Boach-Ogelsbou. The console and part of the mechanism were built in the United States by Muller. The instrument was designed, built and installed by Midwest Organ of Granite City under the supervision of W. A. Brummer, representative of both Muller and Bosch, who also completed the voicing.

The Lutheran Student Center serves the 600-700 Missouri Synod Lutheran students enrolled at SIU, Bearwald said.

A challenge to our youth

Not in recent history, and perhaps never before, have youth, young rebels and young critics had the opportunity and the challenge which are offered to them in this campaign.

A constitutional convention will build a new basic structure for our government. The state is voting on the proposal to inaugurate new experimental universities.

For those who disagree with the establishment, who want to see new concepts in government, who want new methods of control or instruction in higher education - for all who want to change the system, here is where the challenge can be made.

Here are two arenas for the confrontation, two forums which have publicly called for suggestions and debate. The front door is wide open, and no one need bristle his knuckles beating at the back wall. The meaningful dialogue can begin.

The board of higher education and the constitutional convention have the authority to make decisions and offer specifications. Such an opportunity will not come again for decades.

Yet so far, in all the public meetings of the commissioners, after their call for public meetings of the commissions, after their call for public participation, not a single young rebel has come in the front door.

As one who has participated in the activity of both the constitutional groups and the education groups, I urge the ad hoc committees, the student militants, and all others who have been called upon to contribute their energy for the future to expend their efforts in positive constructive activity.

Even a violent revolution would not offer more than the chance to rewrite the constitution and the laws of the nation - and that chance is being given now.

Come in through the front door. It's open and you are welcome!

Need larger panel?

The student government executive cabinet recently appointed a two-man panel to hear student complaints concerning unlawful police action, toxification of buildings, and illegal police, it would be more practical to appoint a 20-man panel.

Jane Eldridge

To the Daily Egyptian:

At the risk of further confusing the issue, I would like to submit a possible solution to the problem of vacant dorms. Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. I believe that, for reasons I will go into below, the soon-to-be-built dorm-building should be named after Dr. King.

I feel that the mere fact that we are "renaming" something cheapens and tarnishes the honor we wish to pay Dr. King. I cannot see any real honor for Dr. King if we simply "rename" something that has been used for several years. Especially if we are soon to have a brand new building at the center of our campus.

The administration may be dragging its feet because of the costs and legal technicalities involved in renaming University Park. How many books, pamphlets, contracts, etc., must be reprinted and signed if the present name is changed?

At a time when the university will not even fill vacancies in the staff, the cost (even though a small part per cent of the total budget) could be a formidable obstacle. Most, if not all of the coast's publicity would be eliminated by using an as yet unnamed building.

The administration has said that its policy is to name buildings only for people who have done something worthwhile for SIU. By using a slighter liberal interpretation of this policy, I believe that Dr. King very easily qualifies. He may not have donated money or land to SIU, but SIU and all people connected with it have benefited, and will continue to benefit from the results of his work.

Some will say that this is just another attempt to put off those who wish to honor Dr. King. But I disagree. The administration could simply say that the new humanities building will be dedicated in honor of Dr. King and then work the details out between now and when the building is ready.

Regardless of the reception of my suggestion, the administration should do something more definite than saying "the matter is under advisement" or "these things will be decided in due time." The students have gone through the "proper channels" for their proposed statement from the administration on the resulting problems would make the waiting easier.

British pull off a strange but silent invasion

By Dick Gregory

The recent British occupation of the tiny island of Anguilla must have posed insurmountable tactical nagging problems for former President Johnson. • LBH must be sitting sullenly at the ranch right now trying to figure out what Harold Wilson knows he doesn't.

A strange silence has engulfed the voices which have identified invading occupation armies in the past. If LBH invaded St. Thomas or St. Croix, the Senate Dometino affair the voices of protest would be heard from American shores all around the world.

It is not as though the invasion of Anguilla did not provide an ideal forum for the need for those truly interested in human rights.

True opponents of colonialism or of imperialist interests over the human spirit yearning for freedom should experience no small amount of retribution at seeing a tiny population of 4,000 being forcibly occupied by a major world power.

And those who are inclined to see a relationship between racism, imperialism and military solutions should find a ready-made protest issue when the occupied population is black and the occupying force is white, to say nothing of a display of military muscle similar in nation whose own racial tensions are escalating and whose Parliament sessions reflect the expressions of Klan-type sentiments.

Yet radical voices outside the establishment and liberal voices within it, seem to be content to sit and watch the Anguilla escapade. Such a silent reaction has made people world-wide wonder if radical and liberal voices are truly advocates of human rights or merely condemning opponents of American and her actions. Of course, it is that American actions throughout the world continually reflect a passionate disrespect for human rights. But the moral issue is more one of humanity than nationality.

Radical students in Great Britain have fervently protested America's actions in Vietnam. Yet they have failed to protest with equal vigor the actions of their own government. Does radical British student sentiment reflect anti-Americanism or anti-imperialism? If it is only anti-Americanism, the cause of humanity has not progressed much since the American Revolution. One would hope that radical British students would share the spirit of America's founding fathers and would voice that spirit on behalf of anguished Anguilla.

It is also ironic that the Right Wing press in America has been more critical of the British Government and its occupation of Anguilla than the Left Wing students. Yet radical Left Wing protest against the war in Vietnam was so persistent that LBH not only recognized the impossibility of re-election but also the clear mandate not to run again. But protest of the war in Vietnam is being waged by those who are not directly affected against the actions of the President or America. The war in Vietnam is wrong because it represents man's injustice and political and military action against humanity. Voices advocating the cause of the Third World must be more much more inclusive in the mere expression of anti-Americanism. Imperialism is the basic issue, not the particular national expression of it.

Within the establishment, those senators and congressmen who were so vocal in protesting the Russian invasion, Cleveland have failed to speak a good word for freedom on behalf of Anguilla. The question must be asked: Were those congressional voices merely expressing anti-communist sentiments or were they advocating the cause of human rights? If the latter was their intention, why the silence now during the West Indian crisis?

There is a profound difference between name-calling and labeling, and a real crusade for human rights. Peron based on "anti" sentiments will never contain a moral revolution for a new world order. Such protest can only serve to make clear the distinction between dissent and revolution.

AFROTC role continually questioned

By Tom Robb

"I am a dreamer. And the scope of my dreams stretches from horizon to horizon, beyond the skies, deep into space."

Admiral James L. McDonald, Jr., former Surgeon General of the United States Air Force, was quoted in a recent article. But tradition can be questioned, and across the nation's campus students are wondering what place AFROTC has in an academic community.

During its 18 years at SIU, AFROTC has not gone unquestioned. For its first 14 years "Bomber" was compulsory. Student reaction to this arrangement resulted in the formation of the Committee for the Abolition of Compulsory AFROTC in 1964. The anti-AFROTC committee picketed picked AFROTC's offices and other campus buildings on several occasions in early 1964. The picketing led, in part, to an opinion poll in April, 1965 at both SIU campuses to help determine whether the University would retain compulsory AFROTC or make it elective. Students and faculty members participated through the poll that they favored elective military training.

Program jointly approved

Under these circumstances the SIU Board of Trustees and the USAAF jointly approved a completely voluntary AFROTC program in May, 1965.

"Today we offer both the two and the four-year plan," said Capt. H. A. Staley, instructor of aerospace studies.

Only two years of the four-year program are strictly voluntary. There is no obligation to commit yourself to active duty at this time.

During this period the student earns academic credit and gains experience in the field, which deal mainly with military systems and philosophy of national power and national political objectives.

In addition, the student receives 600 non-combat hours of training during the first two years.

"This is in essence a laboratory where cadets experiment with the way to develop their leadership skills, techniques and attitudes," said Staley.

The only stipulation of the two-year voluntary program the student decides whether or not he will continue into the next two-year phase.

Based on competition

Not everyone can enter this second, two-year phase gaining on a competitive basis. A potential USAAF cadet must pass an officers qualifying test and a physical examination. He must also have office and other campus buildings on several occasions in early 1964. The picketing led, in part, to an opinion poll in April, 1965 at both SIU campuses to help determine whether the University would retain compulsory AFROTC or make it elective. Students and faculty members participated through the poll that they favored elective military training.

Counts to participate in educator meetings

George S. Counts, professor of educational administration and foundations at SIU, will have a principal part in activities in New York City, St. Paul, and Monroe, La., during the next six weeks.

Counts will be in New York April 22 as a member of a selection committee that will choose winners of college scholarships given by the International Ladies Garment Workers Union. He has served on this committee since 1957, when the scholarship program was initiated by the half-million member union. The scholarships go to children of union members. Counts said he was told last year that there had never been a dropout among those selected.

May 1 he will be at Northeastern Louisiana State College at Monroe to speak to key school personnel from Mississipi, Arkansas, and Louisiana who are taking part in project LEPT, designed to prepare school people to become change agents in public schools and their home communities. Project director is Oliver Henaley, who completed his work for the Ph.D. at SIU.

May 12-13 he will speak to Minnesota educators at a conference sponsored by the University of Minnesota Department of Educational Administration. On the first morning he will tell of his insights and experiences in education to 35 professors of educational administration, and will spend the afternoon in an informal discussion of topics of interest to educators. The following day he will meet with graduate students from a number of institutions of higher education.

For Eisenhower funeral

Abilene prepares homage

ABELINE, Kan. (AP) — While a funeral train bore his body across the country on Tuesday, Dwight D. Eisenhower's home town prepared to pay him final homage within a few steps of his boyhood home.

Helicopters in Salina, 23 miles away, will bring President Nixon to the ceremony after he flies there from Washington.

Army authorities estimated between 50,000 and 100,000 persons will flock into Abilene to watch the funeral procession cover the 12 blocks from a railway station to the新建ing Eisenhower Library where the funeral services would be conducted.

The special train bringing the former president's body was expected to reach Abilene Wednesday morning. Plans called for the casket to be moved to a hearse at 11 a.m. EST Wednesday.

Along the train's westward route, thousands gathered in cities and towns, at the few stops and at crossings in tribute to the former president.

Nearly 8,000 police estimated turned out in the southern Indiana city of Seymour to watch the train pass through the town of 13,000. School children were dismissed from classes to join the crowd.

In other places, too, flag-waving school children marked the passage. At Huns-ington, W. Va., thousands gathered in the early morning chill when the train made a 12-minute stop in the city. Hundreds stood at trackside in other West Virginia communities.

A color guard of war veterans assembled in Huntington for a brief ceremony. A Negro girl from the Job Corps sang a hymn, and then the crowd joined in the Lord's Prayer.

Eisenhower's widow, Mamie, and their son, John, and others members of the family were aboard the train. Whether they would remain in their cars until the beginning of the rites was not disclosed. An Army official said Mrs. Eisenhower had requested that all such information be kept private.

Meanwhile, the train headed westward toward St. Louis, almost back on schedule after earlier delays. It left Cincinnati at 1:23 a.m., and was due in St. Louis late Tuesday.

Elaborate ceremonies had been planned at the Cincinnati Union Terminal during the one-hour layover, but were canceled at the request of the Eisenhower family.

At Mrs. Eisenhower's behest, the C&O draped the funeral car with black bunting and American flag while the train stopped in Cincinnati.

J. Earl Eisenhower, older brother of the former president, emerged from the train briefly to extend the family's thanks to officials and the City of Cincinnati and other cities which had planned the memorial.

An honor guard composed of men from all branches of the armed forces stationed itself at the railroad siding, for the all-night vigil.

In Abilene, plans called for the 5th Army Band to play the hymn, "God of Our Fathers," as the casket is transferred to a hearse and the cortège proceeds toward 3rd Street, the main east-west thoroughfare.

Eisenhower was born in Denison, Tex. His parents moved to Abilene when he was a year old.

Preparations include the traditional Army ceremony—removal of the flag from the casket and presenting it, folded, to Mrs. Eisenhower.

This immediately follows the playing of the anthem, "West Point Alma Mater." Other music selected for the service included "Lead Kindly Light," "Arms Blue," and "The Old Rugged Cross."
Legislators jolted by income tax proposed

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — "It's a big job" was a typical Tuesday to Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie's proposal for a state income tax.

Few lawmakers gave the Illinois governor's proposal much endorsement and Ogilvie himself received no applause when he delivered his message in a joint session.

Sen. W. Russell Armstrong of Evanston, Republican majority leader, said he wasn't surprised there wasn't an enthusiastic response because Ogilvie was presenting "the stark financial reality" facing the state.

Ogilvie would not predict whether the proposed 4 percent income tax would pass but said, "I feel we'll live up to our responsibilities and do what's required.

He echoed Ogilvie's views that help from minority Democrats to avert the budget crisis would be required for the legislative approval.

Rep. John Touby and Sen. Thomas A. McClovin of Chicago said Ogilvie's budget message gave no relief to the poor income taxpayer who is paying almost 15 percent of his income in sales and property taxes.

"The middle income wage earner will be hardest hit by this proposed package," they said in a joint statement.

The two leaders, with some other Democrats, urged Ogilvie to not propose more than $700 per pupil in the state level of support for public schools in grades and high schools. They pointed out the Illinois School Problems Commission had recommended a $190 increase.

House Speaker Ralph Smith, R-Alton, termed Ogilvie's budget message "an honest and courageous statement of the needs of Illinois."

Income levy recommended

Ogilvie rejected a sales tax increase, but asked for a limited state sales tax application to rental equipment. He asked for tax breaks on college courses, tracks, hotel receipts, and corporate franchises.

Ogilvie declared only the income tax could provide a billion-dollar budget to close revenue and equalize needs.

The income tax, he said, would include capital gains and provide no loopholes on either individual or corportate income. Taxpayers would have to report "something like a house, the profit is a capital gain.

Each member of a family would receive a $1,000 exemption, blind or aged persons would receive a double exemption. The head of a family of four, for example, with a $10,000 yearly income, would pay $140 tax.

The income tax, proposed to be effective Aug. 1, for college students on a sliding scale to July 1, 1970 which ends June 30 next year.

Of this, Ogilvie asked that $674 million be distributed at the rate of $3 a person to municipalities and unincorporated areas in a special message, last week he promised state sharing of its revenues with local government.

For public education, Ogilvie recommended $132 million for aid to private and parochial elementary and high schools, and $14 million to help private college.

Ogilvie said failure to adopt the program to aid private and parochial elementary and high schools might leave them in such financial straits that many would have to close. Then, he said, their pupils would have to attend public schools.

Possible plans for aid are to students based on tuition, payment to parents in scrip or vouchers, or some type of payment to parents' organizations.

The third largest proposed increase, next to education and highways, was $137,350 million for public aid programs.

5th Dimension singer returns to SIU

By Don Redmond
Staff Writer

Rosie Townsend came to SIU with his high school classmate, Dick Gregory, in 1952, looking over the then small campus as a possible place to pursue his education.

Townsend didn't stay, but Gregory did, and later became a noted black consultant and civil rights worker.

But Townsend is coming back to SIU, this time as a member of 5th Dimension, one of the more popular contemporary singing groups in the country.

Interviewed Tuesday via telephone from Los Angeles, Townsend spoke about The 5th Dimension's upcoming performance at SIU and of the group itself.

"I'm excited about coming back to SIU," Townsend said. "It's been a long time since I was last here."

"I'm looking forward to meeting some of the students again."

Townsend said he expects a good crowd to attend the performance, which is set for April 19 in the Arena.

He added that the group is looking forward to performing at SIU, where they had their first experience with folk music.

"SIU was one of the first places we played when we started out," Townsend said. "We've come a long way since then."

"I'm looking forward to coming back and seeing some of the old friends I made here."

"I'm also looking forward to helping out with the fundraising activities for the national observatory."

Mr. Turlay said a celebration will be held in honor of the Red Cross.

No special efforts for the group have been coordinated in advance, but Chancellor Robert MacVicar said, "If this national observatory is going to be held in the city, I'm sure that there would be no objection to having the event on the campus as well."

Crystallographer to present three campus lectures

Dame Kathleen Lonsdale, professor emeritus of the University College, London, will present three campus lectures on campus this week and next. Professor Lonsdale is a world-renowned crystallographer.

Wednesday she will present a lecture on "The Aging of Matter and Man," the lecture, one of the Botany-Physiology Lecture Series, will be presented at 4 p.m. in Room 101, Lawson Hall.

"Chemical Reactions in Single Crystals" is the title of the lecture which Lonsdale will present at a School of Technology seminar Thursday, April 3, at 4 p.m. in Technology Room A-111.

"Human Stones," will be presented Monday, April 7, at 7:30 p.m. in Morris Library Auditorium.

Professor Lonsdale was graduated in physics from Bedford College for Women in 1922. In 1927 she was named a Dame Commander of the Order of the British Empire for her outstanding work in science and has served as president of the International Unions of Crystallography.

Sub-Council suggests SIU Faculty Senate

By Don Van Aly Staff Writer

A Faculty Senate, designed to strengthen and redefine the role of the faculty in university governance, has been proposed for the Carbondale campus.

The Senate, which would replace the present Faculty Committee, was approved by the Carbondale Faculty Sub-Council at their January meeting. The matter now awaits the approval of a general faculty election and discussion by the University Council.

The University Council is a 10-man body, both faculty and administration, which acts as a direct advisory council to the President-Daly Morris.

The idea of a Faculty Senate emerged out of the Committee on Faculty Participation in University Governance, a three-man committee appointed by Willis Moore, chairman of the Faculty Council. This proposal is just one link in the chain of a total reorganization study being undertaken by the University Governance Committee.

Specific faculty powers which would be accorded the Senate were as follows:

- The exclusive power for approving and changing educational policies and procedures on the Carbondale campus not delegated to the Graduate Council, schools, colleges, departments, and other specialized educational units.
- Exclusive powers in the area of approving and formulating student admittance requirements, curriculum matters, graduation requirements, scholastic probation and expulsion decisions, and any and all appeals from such decisions.
- Exclusive power and responsibility for approving and changing all matters dealing with the General Studies Program.
- The power to formulate, approve, or change any policies involving matters of faculty welfare on the Carbondale campus.
- The Senate would demand the right to representation in matters involving academic and intellectual freedom, the Ogur manuscript will be published.

The Journal of Biological Chemistry has accepted for publication a manuscript written by Maurice Ogur, chairman of the Department of Microbiology. Entitled "Isolation and Specificity of the Yeast Glutamate-Ketoadipate Transaminase," the article will appear in the July, 1969, issue of the journal.

Chamber concert set

The Department of Music will sponsor a Chamber Symphony Concert Wednesday at 8 p.m. in Home Economics 140B.

James Young will conduct and Warren Bryan will perform as percussion soloist for the concert, highlighting selections of Johann Sebastian Bach, Davies Milhous and Ernest Bloch.

The last few years have found the faculty taking on more influence in an advisory role, he said. "We feel it is now time to take on a more defined role."

Hickman said the faculty should play a major role in matters concerning teachers' placement, promotion and tenure.

"We want to place some power where the responsibility lies," said Hickman. "We want to spell out the faculty's part in that division of labor."

The vastness of the burgeoning university has forced a redefinition of the role of the faculty, according to Hickman. He believes the concept of a Senate can avoid the trend toward faculty unionism.

"If we do not develop an effective representative role in the university's councils and bodies," he said, "we are going to go in a collective bargaining role."

Hickman, who is a Van-derweer Professor of Economics at Southern, is president of the American Association for Higher Education.

Robert Layser, who is the primary draftsman of the Senate proposal, compared the faculty Senate's movement to changing concepts of student government.

"Student governments have been asking for a better determination of their role, with effective student decision-making units," he said. "Here you have a similar movement among the faculty."

Layer, who was chairman of the SIU Department of Economics from 1953-54, said the Senate would act as a residual body in broad matters of concern to students and faculty, in which no single unit is involved.

SIU Press young but has position of great eminence

There are no "best sellers" in the usual sense in the list of more than 300 books of the Southern Illinois University Press.

But among scholars in this country and abroad, the SIU Press occupies a position of eminence far out of proportion to its young age. It celebrates its 13th birthday this year.

"Our books are ambassadors of the University throughout the world," says Vernon A. Sternberg, director of the organization since its beginning in 1956. "We are in the business of disseminating knowledge; our job is to make known the results of research."

With annual net sales in excess of $400,000, the Press currently ships out an average of 10,000 copies per month, of which approximately 10 percent go overseas.

A list of just a few of the foreign libraries on whose shelves you'll find books published at SIU in Carbondale includes the universities of London, Oxford, Cambridge, Scotland and the British Museum. Even orders from behind the Iron Curtain are not unusual, Sternberg says.

The first book bearing the SIU Press imprint appeared on October 20, 1956. It took another seven years before the 1000th title was brought out on October 7, 1963. The 2000th book came out only two and half years later on April 18, 1966, and on November 18 of last year the 3000th publication was issued. By the end of December the number had grown to 315. What and why is a university press? Sternberg explains it this way, "Commercial publishers are in business to make money; we are in business to break even—which is harder! Why? Because we are prohibited from commercial success. The academic press can not compete with commercial publishers far rights to the popular money makers."

But not all the books of the SIU Press make for heavy reading. A case in point is "Exercise in the Office" by Robert R. Spackman, Jr., assistant professor of physical education and head trainer of SIU's varsity athletic teams.

In this compact, illustrated volume of simple, everyday exercises for people who hate exercise, Spackman guides his readers with pointed wit by such declarations as "You've reached middle age when your weight lifting consists of standing up..." "You are out of shape if your elbow points to the floor..." and "Even the man who earns his living with thought needs sufficient strength in his neck and shoulders to carry his brain to work."

In February the Press entered a new phase of its activities with release of the first in its "Pleiades" musical recording series. The series is an attempt to record systematically an important anthology of musical examples from antiquity to the 17th century. In the near future, Sternberg says, the Press hopes to get into the educational motion picture film distribution field. A final straw in the wind, he confides, is a plan to go into publication of pamphlets, which will be synthesized, condensed editions of longer works. "We should be well into pamphlets by 1970," he says.

Noted historian, author to begin lecture series

Max Savelle, visiting distinguished professor of history, will give the first of three lectures on the three philosophers (Voltaire, Hume and Franklin) and America at 8 p.m. today in the Cline Theater, Pulliam Hall.

Savelle's first lecture today will be on Voltaire, the French philosopher. On April 16, David Hume, an English philosopher, will be his subject, and Benjamin Franklin, the American thinker, will be the subject of his final lecture on April 30.

Savelle is professor of history emeritus at the University of Washington, Seattle. He is the author of many books, including "The United States, Colonial Period, Seeds of Liberty and Foundations of American Civilization."

After today's lecture, the history club will serve refreshments.

Officers selected for Epsilon Kappa

Diane Weeks, a junior from Morton is the newly elected president of the Epsilon Kappa chapter of Mu Phi Epsilon, the professional music fraternity.

Lesley Retter, a junior from Peoria, is the new vice president, Barb Melton, a junior from Riverton, is the treasurer; Pam Martin, a junior from Homewood, is secretary, the historian and chaplain is Nancy Nagel, a sophomore from New Athens, and Sharon Kinzinger, a sophomore from New Athens, is the warde.
Easter party planned

The annual Easter party for children of students at SIU will be held at Evergreen City Park from 3 to 5 p.m. Saturday.

The puppet show of the SIU Recreation Department will entertain. The Carbondale Teen Town will hide 1,000 eggs, that were dyed by their members, on the grounds.

A special committee headed by Mrs. Ann Aud will make 100 Easter baskets for the children.

The puppet show will be conducted by Steve Smith of the Recreation Department. Prizes will be awarded. A Life-size Easter Bunny will be on hand.

The event is sponsored by the Married Students Advisory Council with cooperation of the SIU Commuter, Married, and Graduate Student Office. An estimated 300 children are expected.

USAF decorates SIU grads

Three former SIU graduates have received awards for outstanding service in the U.S. Air Force.

Captain Larry L. Honeycutt, who resides in Fort Worth, Texas, earned the U.S. Air Force Outstanding Unit Award while serving in the 35th Weather Reconnaissance Squadron for professionalism in conducting assigned weather reconnaissance operations.

Major Dale E. McDonald, of McLeansboro, Illinois, has received three awards of the Air Medal for air action in Southeast Asia for outstanding airmanship and courage as a helicopter pilot on successful and important missions under hazardous conditions.

Major Robert E. Walker, of Anna, Illinois, has received the Air Medal at Tan Son Nhat Air, Vietnam, for outstanding airmanship and courage on successful and important missions also.

Student to give piano recital

A piano recital will be given by Mrs. Bode, a senior majoring in music, at 8 p.m. Monday in Davis Auditorium.

Mrs. Bode, one of a few music majors who has a double music concentration, will give a senior recital on the French horn later.

Mrs. Bode, originally from Mt. Vernon, Illinois, lives in Carbondale with her husband, who is music director at Christopher High School.

Women gymnasts

Four named All-American

Four SIU women gymnasts have been named Collegiate All-Americans for 1969. Terry Spencer, Karen Smith, Joan Lauter and Phyllis Jozola were selected to this elite group by their performances in the national championships at Springfield, Mass.

"I'm very happy for these girls because they have worked hard for the honor," Coach Herb Vogel said. "This honor gave them something for their fine efforts after the team didn't win the title."

Miss Spencer placed third in the all-around competition, second on the balance beam and third in vaulting. Miss Jozola took fifth on the balance beam and Misses Smith and Lauter tied for sixth on the uneven bars and in the floor exercises, respectively.

Vogel wasn't surprised that three of his All-Americans are freshmen. The only gymnast who isn't is Miss Smith, a sophomore.

However, Vogel was surprised that Miss Jozola was picked because she competed in Class B and had to move up through that category.

Rush face Kaskaska today

SIU's freshman baseballers open their season at 1 p.m. today with a home doubleheader against Kaskaska Junior College.

Franklin Coach Jim Pan¬
ther didn't speculate on his team's chances for a win in the opener and said he still wasn't sure of the game's starting lineup.

Following the Kaskaska game, the freshmen get back into action Saturday when they take on Danville Junior College in a doubleheader here and again on April 10 for a single home game with Min¬ eral Area Junior College.

Steve says advertising raises prices.

But how come that color TV set his fraternity just bought costs $300 less than it used to?

The Southern Illinois Eagles, a motorcycle club, will sponsor a scramble race at the Williamson County Fairgrounds Sunday beginning at 1 p.m.

Male gymnasts looking for fourth national championship

Under the guidance of Bill Meade, Southern's gymnastics teams have won NCAA National Championships for three of the last five years. This weekend the Salukis will be gunning for their fourth title in six years.

The three national crowns came in 1964, 1966 and 1967. Last year SIU finished second to the University of California at Berkeley.

Meade calls this year's squad "the craziest group he has ever coached."

"On paper this isn't the best team I've had, but they have done well in crucial meets such as defeating Iowa State by two-tenths of a point and winning the NCAA Regional meet two weeks ago."

Meade stated that everything must go right in Seattle if the title is to come back to Southern. However, he added that three of his gymnasts have good chances of winning the individual championships, "Mark Davis and Wayne Bogowski will be particularly strong on the high bar and still rings respectively, and Don Locke will be a strong contender on the parallel bars," Meade asserted.

Meade also gave Ron Alden, side horse, and Mark Randall, vaulting, outside shots at capturing individual honors.

With the loss of Pete Hemmerling and Larry Cockworth, Meade will insert Davis as the second all-around man to go with SIU Smith. Davis will compete in all events except the side horse where SIU will enter only three gymnasts. This is the same lineup that Meade used in the regional.

"SIU teams have always performed better in pressure meets, such as the Nationals," Meade commented. "It seems as though they respond to the competition best."

"We are capable of scoring 192 points, which is a 9.0 average in all the events. No team has ever won it with a 9.0 average."

Scholz named All-Academic

CHICAGO (AP) -- Dave Scholz, Illinois all-time scoring champion, was named for the third straight year on the Big Ten All-Academic basketball team Tuesday.

Since the beginning of the season, in 1964, only Purdue's Dave Schelhase and Ohio State's Bill Hosket previously had been chosen three straight years.

Scholz, whose career point total at Illinois was 1,451, and Iowa's Chad Calabria were unanimous choices by a panel of 21 midwest sports editors and basketball writers.

A classroom average of 89 or better for the academic year prior to February, 1969, was a prerequisite for the selections.

Others on the first team were Larry O'Keefe, Minnesota, and Craig Barclay, Ohio State.

Turnout for placekicking trial

is low; several show promise

About a dozen students turned out yesterday afternoon for placekicking tryouts.

The purpose of the tryouts were to find a student who could kick for accuracy and distance, Coach Dick Towers said.

"We are looking for someone who has future promise. We want a individual who can convert the long field goal, say 40 yards, and who can also kick the ball into the end zone on kickoffs," Towers stated.

Montreal Canadiens to defend championship Wednesday

The Montreal Canadiens opened defense of their Stanley Cup championship Wednesday night when the National Hockey League playoffs got under way in Montreal, Boston, St. Louis and Oakland with opening round games in best-of-seven series.

The Canadiens, winners of the East Division title, meet the New York Rangers, while the West Division champs, the St. Louis Blues, face the Philadelphia Flyers. Both the Rangers and Flyers finished in third place in the regular season.

The Bruins, runners-up in the East, take on the fourth place Toronto Maple Leafs and Oakland, second in the West, meet the Los Angeles Kings, who beat out Minnesota and Pittsburgh for fourth place.
