MOCK CONVENTION PROVE TO BE GOOD TEACHING MEDIUM

The mock national nominating convention which is being sponsored by the students of Carthage College, the political science department and the Y.M.C.A., was held on April 12th. This event is a great opportunity for students to learn about the political process and to develop their skills in a safe and controlled environment.

The convention was divided into two main parts: the nominating of candidates and the debates on the floor. The nominating process began with the presentation of the candidates, followed by a vote to determine the winner. The debates were lively and intense, with each candidate trying to gain the support of the other delegates.

The convention was led by a team of experienced debaters, who provided feedback and guidance to the participants. The level of engagement and participation was high, with all students actively involved in the proceedings.

The mock convention proved to be a valuable teaching medium for the students of Carthage College. It allowed them to learn about the political process and to develop their skills in a safe and controlled environment. The experience was both educational and enjoyable, and the students were all eager to participate in future conventions.

HUMORIST CONDEMN AMERICAN COLLEGES;
FACTS, LIKE MUD, NEED TO BE DIGESTED

"When opinions are the only food one can eat, one's mind may become dull. If there is a catalog of all that dead men ever thought, and the student can learn to digest humor, then the humorist's condemnation of most peaceful teaching, Mr. Lie. Examine his facts. In fact, computers can be used only to get more information. If we don't understand the industrial world, at least let us have statistics. The continental area of the United States is 9,200 square miles and the number of square miles is 2,100,000 (or is it?). That's the stuff. Make a four-year course and give it a go in a D. D. C."
