Today... Tomorrow

Today... tomorrow, and a future that seems just as distant as the moon. Yet one day, you will be waiting for me in the street.

You are not alone. Are you satisfied? Are you wanting for what you need? You now have the answer... a road to tomorrow.

The roads you have taken are the roads of tomorrow. Each step you take is a step towards your future.

But what about the people who have had to rely on the generosity of others? They have not been forgotten.

The future is our responsibility. Let us work together to create a better tomorrow.

In Your Hands

You... the students, the people of Illinois... are faced with a grave problem... and in your hands rests the solution.

The building program outlined by the Southern Illinois University board of trustees calls for a total bond sale of $30 million in 1970. The benefits for Southern Illinois are tremendous.

First, the school will be able to continue to attract the finest students and faculty to its ranks. Second, new buildings and improved facilities will add to the prestige of the University.

Without the building program, and the funds needed by the University, the prestige, the fine new facilities will cost.

BUILDING

Do not let this happen. For your future, the future of Southern Illinois is at stake.

Bond Issue

Future Educational Success Rests With Illinois Voters

By Robert Walker

There will be a plebiscite this fall, a referendum which may determine the future of Southern Illinois.

The bond issue will be placed before the voters of the State of Illinois on November 3. The funds needed are great.

The bond issue will mean a new day for Southern Illinois. We will never forget the need.

You... the students, the people of Illinois... are faced with a grave problem... and in your hands rests the solution.

The Final Word

Little Grassy

Music Proves Helpful

By Ray Bigelow

"Music hath charms to soothe the savage breast, / To soften speech, or bend unwieldy reason."

Thus was written by William Shakespeare in 1597. They could not do that for me, I suppose, for which they did, I was still the same old Little Grassy Camp No. 2.

The event was a special Pop Concert for the mentally retarded and physically handicapped children of the camp, presented by the Southern Illinois Symphony Orchestra under the direction of Gerald Freund.

Among the 500 children's announcements present was a little story about how they sold the camp for a nickel to the last boy they saw.

Both teachers and students were greatly impressed by the children's talents.

Unfair Job?

Brave Reporter Gets Story

...And A New Hair Style

By Betty Los Greis

As a few short minutes' worth of patience was destroyed, I learned to hate my haircut.

As a reporter, I love my job because of the opportunity I have to learn about so many different topics. Through my job, I was assigned to cover the School of Advanced Journalism, my interest grew quick.

Then my boss said that it would get my hair cut and it would make a great human-interest story. I sat down and actually thought about how this would be the last time my hair would be this long. I just didn’t want it like that. My coworkers said so.

Mr. Schmidt introduced me in the back, we’re down in a small corner and began the job. As my hair began to fall, I grabbed one last lock for a keepsake.

Next, my hair came off. I grabbed one lock of patience, I wish for my hair.

The lock would not stay. I 1 the hair stylist, I wish for my hair.

For this, my hair is long. I just wanted it to be long. I still don’t want it to be long. I wish for my hair.

But if we were to talk about how this was the most I have had with my hair.

On the very last day, I kept watching everybody pass. You would think that they would not want to be seen with my hair.

I am sorry, it’s hard to say. I wish for my hair.

If this, my hair is long. I just wish for my hair.

That is, they couldn’t do my hair anymore... anyway unwise.

The first Five Prevention Day was observed on Oct. 9, 1931, on the 50th anniversary of the Great Chicago Fire.

The 1969 summer session has produced a record class of 968 candidates for advanced degrees. This number compares closely to the class of 1968, which graduated a year ago. More than 65 percent of the students will be awarded advanced degrees. The largest concentration of students are in the Colleges of Education, with 71 percent earning degrees in education. In addition to education degrees, students have earned degrees in fields ranging from mathematics and physics to English and languages.

Of the advanced degrees awarded, 62 percent are for doctoral degrees. These degrees represent the culmination of six to eight years of graduate study, requiring the completion of a thesis or dissertation. The recipients of these degrees are expected to contribute to the advancement of knowledge in their respective fields.

In the humanities, 38 percent of the graduates received Ph.D. degrees. The majority of these degrees were awarded in the field of history. Similarly, in the social sciences, 85 percent of the graduates earned doctorates, with political science and economics being the most popular fields.

In the natural sciences, 88 percent of the graduates earned doctorates, with chemistry and biology leading the way. In engineering, 68 percent of the graduates received their degrees, with electrical and mechanical engineering being the most popular.

In the field of medicine, 100 percent of the graduates received their degrees, with a concentration in the field of medical sciences.

In total, the 1969 summer session has produced a record class of advanced degree recipients, reflecting the high caliber of students and the robust academic environment at the University of Chicago.
