Radio Is Just Another Job
Says Fred Criminger, Announcer

Robert Brayfield

"We have to do more than just sit around and be a bunch of dummies," says Fred Criminger, a student at Southern Illinois University, who works in the control room at radio station WDLW. Where he is a student, he is also a musician, playing the guitar, drums, and piano.

"While working here, I get to do something I enjoy," says Criminger. "I also get to meet new people and make new friends." Criminger says he has been working at WDLW for two years and is currently studying music education.

"I enjoy the atmosphere and the people," he says. "It's a great place to work and I'm glad I'm able to do it." Criminger plans to continue working at WDLW for the foreseeable future.

"It's a great opportunity to be able to work in a radio station," he says. "I'm grateful for the chance to do this and I'm excited to see what the future holds."

The Ice Man Cometh—too darned often.

The ice man cometh and is seen tearing out of Old Main on our left ear; it’s not that we don’t think its real embarrassing the way cold it is; neither are we afraid creating snow, ice, and snow, but we have noticed that the next time he comes he brings a few more things besides ice. We’ve been wrapped up in winter sports we prefer Spring at Southern.

Speaking of dates, there are some that Southern students won’t want to miss. On March 12th the City Council of Carbondale presents a free all-school dance in the Men’s Gym featuring the music of Enoy Miller. On February 11th, 13th and 16th various campus events will offer entertainment for Southern’s annual entertainment week. Check The Gleaner for more details.

THE CORN CRIB

Edited by Wallace Powhida

Little Willie, having just been given a new bicycle, was showing off for his mother the Freestyle Three-peat, front of the house and performed first trick. “Look, Mom,” he said, “no hands.”

The bike was bought for him for his birthday but he had been riding with both hands and feet in the first trick. Again rode around the block, this time taking a little longer. Presently his mother looked and smiled and said, “Look, Mom, no teeth.”

As recipients of the First Rotary International Peace Award, we write to present our vision of the United States of America. Our country is comprised of people of different cultures, races, and religions. We are a nation that has been shaped by our diversity, our history, and our character. We believe that it is crucial to recognize and celebrate our differences in order to build a stronger and more cohesive society.

FILE SURVEYS

At Guidance Center

One of the most popular activities of the school year is the file survey. It offers an opportunity for students to explore their interests and consider future educational paths. It is a chance for students to gain a better understanding of themselves and their abilities.

The file survey is a tool used by the college's counseling center to gather information about students' interests, skills, and aspirations. This information is used to help students make informed decisions about their academic and career goals.

Maroons Defeat Northern For Little Conference Win

Maroon basketballers of Coach Lueye Holder chalked up their fifth consecutive win and gained confidence on the bank at Northern, conquering the visionaries, 70-68 on the Hill Friday night. It was the 10th straight win for the Maroons, comprised in 99 points.

Slow Start

From the opening period, it was apparent that the Maroons were not on a roll. Coach Holder substituted, his starting lineup before they came out with a winning combination. The Maroons showed slow, deliberate ball throughout the game, and this was reflected in the box score which found the Maroons leading 10-5.

Fielding play in the second period was the key to the Maroons' success. The Maroons led throughout the second half, playing aggressive defense and controlling the offensive play.

In the end, the Maroons emerged victorious, winning the game 70-68 to extend their winning streak to 10 games. The team's confidence was further boosted by this victory, setting them up for the upcoming games.
