Southern Students Oppose U.S. Entrance Into League of Nations

By WILLARD KERR

A student organization of the League of Nations was established on the campus of the University of Illinois on Tuesday. The "Student League of Nations" was organized for the purpose of promoting interest in the League among students.

The aims of the organization are to promote an understanding of the principles of the League, to encourage the study of international relations, and to foster a spirit of cooperation among nations. The League of Nations was established after World War I to prevent future conflicts by providing a forum for international discussion and dispute resolution.

It is assumed that the League will be continued in some form, since the United Nations is already functioning under the League's charter. The League was dissolved in 1946 due to the formation of the United Nations.

FARMER'S SHORT COURSE WILL BE HELD HERE FEBRUARY 12 TO 14

A farmer's short course, for the benefit of farmers in Illinois, will be held here February 12 to 14. The course will be conducted by the Illinois Agricultural Extension Service, University of Illinois. The course will cover topics such as soil management, crop production, and sustainable agriculture.

The purpose of the course is to provide farmers with practical information and tools to improve their farming practices and increase their profitability. The course will be taught by experienced professors and Extension Service agents.

The course will be held at the University of Illinois campus in Urbana. Additional information and registration details are available on the Extension Service's website or by contacting the course coordinator. The course is open to all farmers, and a limited number of scholarships are available for those in financial need.
