Rushing Rules Topic Of IFC Meeting

Rushing rules was the main topic up for debate and discussion at the Interfraternity Council for Thursday night's meeting. The main issue discussed was the transition period between rating and pledging. Pledges were allowed to pledge at any time, but the amendment would allow them to do so only after the official pledging period. The main objective of the amendment was to balance the needs of the members and the pledges, and possibly two or three weeks were suggested as the transition period. The amendment was rejected.

Almost All Agree Christmas Vacation Not Really One

By Harold Consten
Was your Christmas vacation a real vacation, or did you feel much as though you were at work? A survey of students revealed that the latter was no exception.

It seems most of the Sill students were under the impression that they were on vacation, even though they were not.

Speaking of hunting, the most popular hunting grounds for the holiday vacation hunters, according to this survey, were Florida, New York, and the Mississippi Delta.

"I brought some of the best fish I ever caught," one student said. "I had to leave the conundrums we were all involved in, so I spent a lot of time in a big airboat. I also went hunting for rabbits during the day." Another student said that "I let it all hang out on Christmas Day, but I never really felt like I was on vacation because of the hunt."
Salukis Topple Chips, Hurons For IAC Lead

By Gary Lyon

Bowl or lose, there are plenty of the two things happening across the Central Michigan Chipmunks in right now, and the Chips have a 41-24-1 lead over the Salukis, 13-9-1, and the lead is the result of being able to score four or five runs in a game and still losing by ten runs or more.
