Senators Wrestle Fee Question

Debate continued among campus senators Wednesday night as to the validity and accuracy of the proposal to make a $15.30 University residence halls’ activity fee mandatory.

Controversy centered mainly around the wording of a referendum to go before the residents of Thompson Point, University Park, Woody Hall and Southern Acres Tuesday, if the format in approved by the Campus Senate.

The referendum discussed by the Senate presented the pros and cons of each aspect of the opinion survey. It also included space for the voters to indicate their preference of a mandatory, voluntary or no fee.

Earlier in the quarter, a similar referendum was presented to the residents of the living areas. The results showed that a high percentage of the residents favored a mandatory activity fee of $4.50 per quarter.

But the survey was neither recognized nor approved by Campus Senate.

A student administration investigation of the question followed.

To provide questions of possible inaccuracies in wording in the parts of the referendum, Senators released out each pro and con separately.

The approved form of the referendum, if accepted by the residents it affects, will once again go before Campus Senate for further approvals. It must then be presented to proper University administrative offices for final approvals.

Keene Vows Hard Race Coming Up

David Keene, Carbondale Mayoral candidate, said he was overjoyed with the results of the Tuesday primary election.

Keene polled about 700 more votes than incumbent D. Blaney Miller, who got about 1,200 more than Thomas North.

The general election is expected to take place on about the April 18 general election, for himself and his two running mates—Frank Kirk and Randall Nelson.

Keene, Kirk and North were the three top vote getters in the election.

Keene said he plans to run harder in his campaign for the general election. He said he planned to conduct a door-bell ringing campaign in the northeast section of Carbondale, and “bring all of the issues out at a public meeting.”

Keene lost heavily in pre-cincts two, four and six. These comprise the northeast section of town.

Archie R. Schoen, a candidate for councilman on the Carbondale South side, was less enthusiastic about the results of the primary. He said he was pleased to get our ideas about University-Carbondale cooperation accepted. But he also said he will expend more effort to prove his ideas to the people of the city.

If we succeed in this, I am certain the results of the general election will be quite a bit different from the primary,” Schoen said.

Robert S. Henderson, chairman of the Carbondale Citizens for Progress, said he was “satisfied, but not happy” with the outcome of the primary.

He said he and his organization are “Planned to have interested the people of Carbondale up enough to take an interest in the government.”

Tuesday’s election delivered a very high vote turnout when compared to past elections.

Archie Jones, who asserts he is running as an independent, even though his name appears on the Carbondale for Progress slate, was also pleased with the outcome of the election.

He said he was giving “quite a lot of thought” to his position on the Citizens for Progress slate. He said that in spite of the Miller slate’s endorsement, he plans to continue running as an independent.

TRIBUTE TO HARTMAN—Elmer J. Clark, a local basketball enthusiast, presents gifts to Saluki basketball player Jack Hartman (left) after last night’s game with Southwest Missouri. The presentation was in affiliation with Jack Hartman Appreciation Day. The gifts included a proclamation from D. Blaney Miller, Mayor of Carbondale, which proclaimed the day as Jack Hartman Appreciation Day, a proclamation from the Southern Illinois University basketball team and a color television set.

Newcomer Keene Outruns Blaney Miller

As Carbondale Voters Set Turnout Record

By John Eppehimer

A record turnout and the second-place finish of a longtime Carbondale public official and his running mates were the striking features of the primary election Tuesday.

D. Blaney Miller, who has served two terms as a city commissioner and two as mayor, is now faced with the prospect of running mates—Frank Kirk and Randall Nelson.

Keene polled approximately 49 percent of the votes cast for mayor to 32 percent for Miller and 20 percent for Thomas North, an independent.

A perennial candidate, received 75 of the votes in the unofficial total.

Unofficial totals showed that a minimum of 4,274 citizens voted Tuesday. That was the total of votes cast for mayor. Indications from polling judges were that a small percentage of voters did not cast ballots for mayor, but only for City Council candidates, and this will increase somewhat the total number of ballots cast.

A City Council meeting to canvass the votes had not been held as of Wednesday afternoon.

No official totals will be available until that meeting is held.

Final unofficial vote totals for mayor gave Kirk 1,352, North 634 and Groves 8.

No figure is available for the number of registered voters in the city of Carbondale. Such a figure would not indicate the number of potential voters, because citizens did not have to be registered for Tuesday’s election.

Officials at the county clerk’s office said that totals reported that approximately 9,000 voted in Carbondale Township, the southern part of Carbondale. However, much of the township is out­ side the city limits. No figures are available for registered voters in the township, because the lists are now being revised.

Tom Easterly, zoning coordinator for Carbondale, said the city considered to have “core population” of about 14,000, with an average of about four persons to each family. A common method of estimating puts two in each family qualified to vote by age and residence. This totals 7,000, and the unofficial 4,274 total gives a rough approximation of a 60 percent vote turn.

By using the 4,274 unofficial vote for mayor as an estimate of the number of votes, the candidates for Council received votes in these approximate percentages:

Frank Kirk, 52 percent; Randall Nelson, 51 percent; William Espon and Joseph Ragsdale, 49 percent; Archie Jones, 40 percent; Gene Rasmey, 37 percent; Lynn Holder, 27 percent; Sid Schoen, 20 percent; and Kenneth Miller, 21 percent.

Voters could vote for a maximum of one for mayor and four for Council. Kenneth Miller was eliminated from the Council race and North and Kirk were the top two in the mayoralty race.

In the April 18 general election, the two candidates for Council with the highest number of votes will be elected for four-year terms, and the other two for two-year terms.

This was provided for in the city manager referendum of 1966 in order to maintain continuity in city government by having staggered terms for councilmen.

Keene’s strength in Tuesday’s primary came from the west side of town, especially in the southwest precincts, where the bulk of University employees live.

New York Next For SIU Five

By Tom Wood

At the beginning of the year Coach Jack Hartman said that over the course of the season aollection of 4,000 votes was a personality all its own. Wednesday night the Salukis’ personalities were shown in all, Class was what the Salukis had in terms. They came in a winner and left a winner.

The Salukis shed their deliberate, conservative tag early in the game. With a 30-6 Missouri victory, they took the lead in the series 2-1 and hope to make a clean sweep of the season.

And they grabbed the big edge the Salukis did what they had trouble doing for much of the season—surprise the opponent and held the lead.

They put everything together Wednesday night—air tight defense and a fast break that looked as if it belonged all season long. A near perfect 35-3 in the second half of the night, from the Salukis quick break from the blocks to Hartman’s speech, with a standing ovation for the Salukis and a dazed sandwiched in between.

A second appreciation ceremony showed Hartman’s appreciation.

North Vietnam's War Situation Bound to Grow Steadily Worse

Hope springs eternal on peace, but what we are seeing in Vietnam is having a hard time these days, as the recent battlefronts that have been established in the region have indicated the futility of what seems to be possible in the hands of various governments.

And the optimistic statement of the Ass. for the Betterment of the World, that the era of guard is optimism in Washington is. It is unlikely that the system will prevail.

It seems to me that most of the studeD...items are becoming more certain with each week of combat. And the door to sudden peace remains open whenever the foe faces up to the hopelessness of his military efforts.

Americans Dedicate Society to Power, Desire Showdowns

By Robert M. Hutchins

In a paper written for the Center for the Study of Democratic Institutions, Stringfellow Barr proposes that we leave eyeball confrontations to terriers and tomcats. It is not, he says, that this is not an American suggestion. Although our national dedication to power may be heard to account for the American attitude, there can be no doubt about its existence.

The macabre numbers game we are playing in international relations is appropriate to terriers and tomcats. They may be terribly gay about it. But it is a night and tell the neighbors how many of their enemies they have knocked off during the day. This is an indirect way of referring to the slaughter of human beings.

The reports of the number of grousse shot in Scotland on the opening day of the season have always been slightly rough. What are we to say of a country that boasts of its daily bag of people?

Barr's Americanism undermines the American conception of manliness. The manly American is one who will look another man in the eye and tell him to go to hell, who will knock the chip off the other man's shoulder, who is quick on his feet and has the essential intelligence, more civilized or more humane, but simply because they happen, as in seldom the case in real life, to be better powered.

Barr's un-American attitude is disclosed by his suggestion that Americans should keep their terriers and tomcats in that they have minds. He infers that we should leave shows of strength to the terriers and tomcats and see what we can do with our minds. This would be the human thing to do, and if we did we might build a human world.

The great advantage of having a mind is that if one has one, even a rabbit can be taught to read. Terriers and tomcats can be trained. Men and women can be educated. That, is, they can come to understand.

People learn from other people through reading. They learn what it is to be a man or a woman. They learn how to act. If they have minds, they learn how to think.

Sir Ronald Finds Sleeping Monster, Rouses Same With Single Suggestion

By Arthur Hoppe

(Gran Francisco Chronicle)

All right! All right! Stop that caterwauling, children, and daddy will tell you just one more fairy tale about Sir Ronald of Holyrood and his faithful Sancho, and then I'll be done.

Let's see, how about the time Sir Ronald met The Civil Service? Oh, it's a wondrous story, Sir Ronald and his magic.

Well, as you remember, Sir Ronald and the faithful Sancho were hacking their way through the Tangled Thicket in quest of the Shredder, which fearsome creature dwelt somewhere deep in its murky depths.

Suddenly, in a particularly tangle part of The Tangled Thicket, Sir Ronald and Sancho came upon a little house

"D'ye see, Sir Ronald, hopefully drawing his famous Swinging Sword, "No, Sir, it's The Civil Service. See, it has a thousand heads, a million arms and bristles all over it with a zillion needle-sharp pencil points."

"What an odd sight," said Sir Ronald indignant.

"D'ye ever see such a beautiful sight?"

"Dey," said Sancho, looking perplexed, "one rightly knows, Sir, but the wisest course is never to disturb it. Let us tip-toe past, smiling politely and tipping our victor. And, above all, let us forbear breaching the Forbidden Word, which is..."

"Say no more," said Sir Ronald indignantly.

"I fear neither man nor beast, I shall prod it awake and demand its aid upon our quest."

"Oh, please, Sir," pleaded Sancho, "leave sleeping Civil Service alone."

But to the pilot sent to rescue the embassy colony from the fearsome creature who dwelt somewhere deep in its murky depths, Sir Ronald said: "Sir Ronald indignantly."

"I'll free this monster, but don't you dare to全长 it."

"Sir Ronald," said Sancho, "if you would please to follow your master, "that is what you expect in a fairy tale, miracles?"

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Wednesday night barred Adam Clayton Powell from the House seat he has held for 22 years.

The action shattered a carefully orchestrated effort to seat the Harlem Democrat with a stiff censure, rebuffed the select committee which drafted the censure proposal, and met with the approval of both parties who supported it.

The House voted 248 to 176 to substitute exclusion for the censure proposal, thus nailing the decision down by a vote of 307 to 110 that approved the resolution as amended.

The action is effective immediately. Powell’s $30,000 annual salary will be stopped and he will be forced to give up his plush Rayburn Office Building suite.

In declaring Powell’s seat vacant, the House was opening the way to a special election which Powell probably could win, thus thrusting the problem back before the House later this year.

It also set up the possibility that Powell would challenge the House action in court.

The 58-year-old Harlem leader, who has been a symbol of protest for three years, became the third member of Congress for 22 years, because the House representative was barred.

Mao Reportedly

Gives Power

To Chou En-lai

TOKYO (AP) — The Hong Kong Star said Wednesday Mao Tse-tung had vested full executive power in premier Chou En-lai to get Red China’s economy moving, but reports out of Peking indicated more about the report.

China watchers have been expecting Mao to call on Chou to halt the excesses of the cultural revolution—purge and to revive farm and factory work. But reports from Peking have said he is trying to do both.

Quoting “its own sources inside China,” the newspaper said Chou was charged with getting spring planting started and factory production going again after displacements caused by Mao’s rampaging young Red Guards.

But the Star said also that Chou’s other duties were to halt the cultural revolution, stop power seizures and to take the army out of the political struggle.

Powell Ousted From Congressional Seat

WASHING home economy under Kung after 158 million or purge to do both.

The decision to exclude Powell from membership came after the House voted 222 to 202 to block the recommendation of a select investigating committee that Powell be seated but given a public censure, a $40,000 fine, and deprived of all of his seniority.

“the move to exclude Powell, offered by Rep. Thomas Curtiss, R-Mo., came in the face of warnings by members of the select committee that Powell would win any special election for his unfilled seat and that the House would again have to deal with the issue.

“If we turn him out,” argued Rep. Arch A. Moore, R-W.Va., “his constituency will turn him back with an even greater majority.”

Moore said that the unprecedented $40,000 fine, combined with loss of seniority and a public censure would constitute “an insult of a member of this House by total humiliation.”

Voting against a move to end debate and act on the committee’s recommendation were 109 Democrats and 113 Republicans.

U.S. Hits Two Communists Units

SAIGON (AP) - U.S. Armed Forces, achieving battle contacts at a coat of three companies badly mauled, have cut into Communist ranks in two frontier sectors nearly 400 miles apart, spokesmen announced Wednesday.

At least 215 of the enemy were reported killed in tactical showdows in War Zone C, facing Cambodia, and below the six-mile-wide demilitarized zone that blankets the border between North and South Vietnam.

Backed by artillery and jet planes, U.S. Marines pursued two 500-man battalions described as North Vietnamese regulars that inflicted heavy casualties on two Marine companies by using massive mortar and small arms fire Tuesday at Cam Lo, 10 miles south of the demilitarized zone.

The Marines said they killed 65 in a two-day fight that was accompanied by an enemy effort to knock out with mortar fire some of the self-propelled 175mm American guns which shell North Vietnamese targets within their 20-mile range.

Craig William G. Westmoreland's headquarters announced planes and artillery killed more than 150 Viet Cong in the Jungled Zone C after an 173-man company of the army battalion of about 300 men inflicted heavy casualties on a 173-man company of the enemy battalion of about 300.

Man Arrested in Connection With Kennedy Assassination

NEW ORLEANS (AP) - Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison's chief investigator Wednesday arrested Clay Shaw, a former managing director of the International Trade Mart, for participation in a conspiracy to assassinate President John F. Kennedy. Shaw, 54, was taken into custody after several hours of questioning.

The arrest was announced by the investigator, William Gurvich, who retired 18 months ago from the Trade Mart post, is a handsome silver-haired man who was an Army major during World War II. He arrived at Garrison's office at 12:15 and the arrest was announced at 5:45 p.m.

At a tumultuous news conference in the corridor outside Garrison's office, on the second floor of the courthouse, Gurvich read brief statements:

"The first arrest has been made in the investigation of the New Orleans district attorney's office into the assassination of President John F. Kennedy," he said.

Area Housewives Stitch Way Through Homemaking Classes

By Sharon Copeland

A program designed to help the housewife improve her sewing skills in a joint project of SIU’s School of Home Economics and the Illinois Department of Public Aid, the project was started to give basic help to the lower income housewives, according to Mrs. Myrtle Juhlin, a case worker for the department, but is open to all interested persons.

The program began when the superintendent of the Jackson County public aid department asked his case workers to start homemaking aid classes. Anna Carol Fuller, associate professor of home economics education, was contacted by the department, and the two have been working together on the program since about 1962.

The program started with sessions on parent-child relationships, housecleaning, cooking and other topics of interest to wives and mothers. In February, 1964, the present sessions to help the housewife learn to improve her sewing ability were started.

The first class periods lasted for 15 weeks and 12 out of the 16 who attended completed garments.

Busy Schedule Confronts Women Gymnasts This Weekend

By Tom Wood

A busy schedule confronts Southern’s women gymnasts this weekend. The team will compete in four dual meets beginning today in Bartlesville, Okla. There they will meet the Phillips 66 team, an AAI and AAU Junior and Senior women’s team. The competition will be sponsored by the Colorado Gymnastic Association and will include over 150 junior and senior women’s teams. The meet will follow the four-hour clinic with two dual meets Saturday night. They will meet the University of Washington and the University of New Mexico. Washington will be led by Dale McCallum, a member of the 1964 U.S. Olympic Team and the 1966 World Games Team, and Joyce Tanic, also a World Games Team member. New Mexico’s scoring leader is Dina Lorestsen, a 1966 collegiate All-American.

Vogel said that some lineup juggling would be necessary due to the demanding schedule. He said that the team will face. His basic lineup will include Donna Schied, Joanne Hoehn, Linda Scott, Mary Ellen Toth, Janis Dohnans and Gail Daley. Miss Daley will be making her second appearance since a severe knee injury sidelined her last year in the World Games trials. She competed in the last dual meet against Centenary in the uneven bars. She is expected to see action in uneven bars and balance beam over the weekend.

Vogel is hoping to get her back into form in time for the Collegiate Championships, which will be held in the Arena April 7-8. Judy Wills, Nancy Smith and Sue Rogers will perform on the trampoline. Miss Rogers is recovering from a recent back injury, but Vogel expects her to be ready to compete in her home town of Denver.

Southern could return home with its 39 consecutive victory if all goes well out West this weekend.

Bears Flattened, 93-66

by a crowd that spent the final 10 minutes shouting “We’re No. 1!” and shrieking for points the Bears had piled up. The victory was the Bears’ third in a row and their 20th of the season to date. When Simon made a three-point shot at the basket for 55.0 points, the crowd left little doubt that the answer has to be affirmative.

The victory was Hartman’s 96th since he assumed the post at Southern. He will get a shot at the cemetary mark when the Salukis move into New York for the National Invitation Tournament beginning March 9 in Madison Square Garden.
