Life's Practical Side
Lures SIU's Frosh, According to Survey

By Cynthia Kandelman

Southern Illinois University students may not be concerned with the practical side of things, but they are interested in the living conditions of other public universities across the country. So they are busy doing the same kind of research that the American Council on Education conducts to set the norms for entering college freshmen in the fall of 1966, and they are doing it for personal gain.

Students entering SIU come from homes where the parents are less educated than those of the freshmen entering other public universities questioned.

Only 34 per cent of the parents of SIU freshmen are doing the same kind of work as their father, as compared with 52 per cent of the parents of freshmen entering other public universities questioned.

There are 8.3 per cent more parents of SIU freshmen who earn less than $10,000 a year than the parents of the freshmen entering the other participating schools. Coupled with this difference is income in the concern that the students have been leading are pressing regret that the weather was like it was during the past three weeks.

Ardent Swimmers Brave Cold Waters

By Ralph Broomhead

Despite the cool breezes and temperatures, the officially open Lake-on-the-Campus facilities served two brave swimmers Tuesday.

Coleman, who enjoys swimming and skin-diving expressed regret that the weather wasn't as good as it was a few weeks ago, because that the beach is officially open.

Asked what brought him out to swim in the cool weather, Jahn replied, "I like to swim.

Jahn added that the water was "very nice compared to that of Devil's kitchen," where he has been swimming for the past three weeks.

Tom Crane, a graduate student in industrial technology and the superintendent at the beach, had the lifeguards busy Tuesday doing maintenance work and cleaning up the beach. But he received a phone call from an interested swimmer who wanted to know if the beach was open. The swimmers came.

"When there are no swimmers, lifeguards do work," said Crane. "The lifeguards were busy at work. Several of them were combing the beach for debris disposing of it, guarding on the raft was doing maintenance work. Two lifeguards were digging up the grass which was spreading into the sand.

Then the ambitious swimmers arrived at about 2 p.m. With the arrival of Jahn, Coleman, and Coleman's friend, Chuck Corallo, a junior majoring in experimental psychology, some of the lifeguards had to give us on their maintenance chores and "man the beach.

Another swimmer, Linda Farris, a freshman majoring in Sociology, said she wished the weather would be like it was during the final week of winter quarter, because it wouldn't make a swim job as lifeguard so cold.

Miss Farris said, "I used to go in when I was a little kid in this kind of weather, but can't see it now."

Miss Farris, who has previously worked as a lifeguard in her hometown, Springfield, was coursing in a folding chair on the beach with a sweater shirt covering her swim suit. She shouldn't have asked us for the two brave swimmers in the lake.

Another lifeguard, Bill Wheeler, a junior majoring in psychology, said, "If they can take a 's log.

Cartographers to Attend Computer Training Meeting

Two cartographers at SIU have been offered full-tuition scholarships for a training conference on computer map¬ping May 8-9, at Harvard University.

Daniel R. Irwin, assistant professor of geography, and Tso-hwa Lee, associate cartographer at SIU’s Cartog¬raphic Laboratory, will be among 30 cartographic tech¬nicians in the country to participate in the conference. Called SYMAP, the computer mapping program is suited to a broad range of applications, according to the two cartog¬raphers.

Irwin, who holds a bache¬lor’s degree from the University of California at Los Angeles and Master’s degree in geography from SEI, said they hoped to see how this new computer technique could be applied to SEI research projects.

A Chinese native, Lee is a graduate of Taiwan Normal University in Taipei. He graduated from SIU with a master’s degree in geography in 1965. Both Irwin and Lee are mem¬bers of the Association of American Geographers, and the American Congress of Surveying and Mapping.

Press to Publish
New Botany Book

A significant addition to lit¬erature on the flora of Illinois will be available to botanists June 1 when the SIU Press publishes "The Illustrated Flora of Illinois: Ferns." Compiled and edited by Robert H. Mohlenbrock, pro¬fessor of botany and recognized authority in the field, the volume will be the first in a series on the flora of the state which will cover every group of plants, from algae to fungi through flower¬ing plants.

Extensively illustrated, the volume was written to be of value to both professional and non-professional botanists. During research for the book, thirteen new species of ferns were discovered, in addition to one new variety. To date eighty-one species and six lesser taxa are known and all are included in "Ferns."

The advisory board for the series includes: Gerald W. Preacory, Michigan State University; Constantine Alexopou¬los, University of Texas; Arthur J. Smith, University of Tennessee; Rolla L. Tyron, the Gray Herbarium; and Ro¬bert F. Thorne, Rancho Santa Ana Botanical Garden.

Dissent Over Vietnam

The following paragraphs were inadvertently omitted from my article of last week. They should be read as an amendment to the paper that appeared to be abberations in American foreign policy.

Recent visitors to the Experimental Laboratory of the faculty supervision futureably executed - give rise to the theatre. These student presentations - both admirably executed - give rise to the hope that with careful faculty supervision future still productions will maintain this high level of performance.

As part of the Pan American Festival, Tony Seminario's drama production "PRIVATE EYE," the ROGUES TRIAL, displayed a pleasantly surprising collective of talented students in a colorful production.

"PUBLIC EYE." An outstanding production to over-emphasize the actors working hard. For more troops by far. There is a general assumption that the actors are working hard.

So great were his exploits for country so dear, The critic did name him "Time's Man of the Year." Now it happened that he, While commanding a war, Did forever lead For more troops by far.

"I've got half a million, But that's not enough! I need many more If the foe I'm to crush." His Commander-in-Chief, Between Bar-BQ's, Said, "Oh, why, of course, I'll give 'em to you." Westmoreland was pleased, Hating pacifist prayer; He amassed a huge army And sent it to battle.

But the foe had been pushed Just a little too far; Westmoreland was faced With a nuclear war.

His very last words (They really were gems) Were, "Tell them back home I did it for them."
A Critique of Student Politics

(There follows an article consists of excerpts from a speech delivered to the Campus Senate on April 19th. The Editors.)

I would like to take this time to say a few things that have been on my mind. Last night I read a history book. This morning I turned to read a history book. I thought about what I was reading, and then I realized that the main reason I was reading was to boost my ego. At the time, I couldn’t pinpoint the emotion I felt upon realizing this. The reason I am speaking tonight is that last night I came upon that emotion again, I defined it, and I understand it now.

I am going to try to articulate that feeling for you now. I hope you’ll understand that my motive is hope, not malice.

I would first like to discuss party politics on campus and the implications of the latest developments within our two parties. The two parties here and the competition between them have led student government and the student body to become more aware of the importance of student politics. In turn, this has produced a satisfactory ruler of the vast Southern Illinois University community. Source of this campaign money should be somewhat traceable. Funds are being used to encourage participation in student affairs. The candidates who play the game absolutely must have a connection with the student government to ego competition, for removed from the administration and benefiting the students. It has led to petty politics which, in turn, has run the campus on April 19th. — The malice.

In the heat of Carbondale’s elections, the S.A. presented awards to two southern journalists for their courage in developing stories in their communities. The reporters who covered the recent elections in Carbondale might deserve a jelly fish award or a watermelon-under-the-tree award for their non-ethics.

In the first instance, to the surface, any reporter worth his ink could have developed prize winning stories. Only one reporter was able to get an accurate picture of the campaign. (Mike Naser) and his reward was that his name was used as a plug. No more cowards who attempted to discredit the scene. Kirk and Nelson faction in a hollow schism of the administration.

This is the only reason reporters are afraid to ask questions that might reveal facts? Are our reporters worried about their job? Is their physical well-being in jeopardy?

What has happened to the journalists whose greatest delight was to “get the facts” at the risk of exposing unsavory dealings of public and private affatiche?

Today’s journalists seem to have turned a third cheek, Unwilling or unable to get the information themselves, they rely on “friendship” with people at the source of news. They will be dealt with fairly and honestly.

My admission—if you want to call it that—is do not worry about you. (Betty Rutter)

Who is the first step.

Betty Rutter

Where Have All the Journalists Gone?

In conclusion, I suggest that the education recognize it. Yet the was planning to expel every student. The election is still underway.

I hope you’ll understand that my motive is hope, not malice.

Practicality Lures SIU Fresh In Public School Comparisons

their counterparts at the other universities in five major fields of study: agriculture, business, education, fine arts, and the technical fields. Southern students showed less interest in engineering and the pre-professional field of study.

In probable vocational careers, Southern students show greater interest in five careers: artist, businessman, secondary education, elementary teacher, and farmer. SIU students show less interest in the careers of doctor, engineer, lawyer, and research scientist.

This difference, in probable major field of study and probable vocational careers, between SIU students and those students of other public universities interviewed, can be attributed to the fact that SIU has no school of medicine, engineering, or law school and therefore students interested in these fields would probably attend a university that does offer these programs.

SIU has been traditionally a school of education. It was founded as a teachers' college, and this can account for the high interest of SIU students in the education field.

Marines Continue to Push VC From Infiltration Route Areas

SAIGON (AP)—U.S. Marines claimed possession of the south ridge of Hill 891 Tuesday night and said they were driving North Vietnamese regulars from other high ground over 65 miles to the west of the infiltration routes from Laos.

"Our men have Hill 891 South is physically occupied, but not secured," said a spokesman at the Marine base at Da Nang.

Heavy action in the hills below the border demilitarized zone, in the central highlands of Laos, was reported by several Communist sources. "The battle is over 11 of the Soviet-built fighters." said a Germany.

The U.S. Command said American planes shot down three and destroyed eight on the ground Monday at two air bases—Kep, 37 miles north-east of Laos, and 30 miles west of the Communist capital. The total of 11 compared with the previous high of seven Jan. 2. All the latter were destroyed in combat.

In a delayed report, however, the U.S. Command announced the loss of three Air Force F105 Thunderchiefs and their crewmen over North Vietnam Sunday and said MIGs downed two. This brought to 528 the number of planes officially listed as lost north of the border.

The dogfighting record stood at 4-1 for MIGs against the destruction of 15 American planes. Following the first attacks on MIG bases April 24, reports from Washington said the strikes were intended only as warnings to North Vietnam. The intensity of the air blows since, however, appeared to indicate a concerted effort is being made to knock out North Vietnam's air power.

In Washington, U.S. officials would not comment on this prospect, but it is common knowledge that some military men have long been urging such action. The Hanoi regime is estimated, with replacements for at least some battle losses, to have from 100 to 150 in Laos, six IL28 bombers and a few Soviet transport helicopters.

Gen. William C. Westmoreland, returning from a visit to the United States, said he expects heavy ground fighting to continue below the demilitarized zone. The Hanoi regime last year attempted two invasions in force across this zone, which was established by the Geneva agreements of 1954 as a buffer territory.

Big Turnout in Court Ordered Election

SUNFLOWER, Miss.—Negro and white voters responded in record numbers Tuesday in a court-ordered election engineered by civil rights forces to wrest control of two small northwestern counties from white leaders.

National attention centered on the counties of Sunflower and Moorehead after the Freedom Democratic Party secured a commitment from Eastern liberal backing of its candidates in both.

"I cannot see how a responsible person who is aware of those statistics could say there is no need for firearm control legislation," Wilson said.

The measure would require each possessor of guns to register with the county clerk on a $5 list. In Chicago, U.S. officials would not comment on this prospect, but it is common knowledge that some military men have long been urging such action. SPRINGFIELD (AP) — The Illinois Senate passed a bill Tuesday outlawing all pinball machines whether they are for amusement or gambling.

Sen. Alan Dixon, D-Belle­ville, argued that pinball machines are not essentially a gambling device, neither more than pool or playing cards.

He urged the bill to be limited to machines with press play mechanisms and permit possible under-the-table payoffs to players.

Sen. Ben Hudson Soura, R-Peoria, contended pinball machines are controlled by bookies whether they are used for gambling or amusement.

Under the bill, the machines would be subject to seizure and destruction by local authorities. A Republican version of congressional reapportion­ment in Cook County also won Senate passage and moved to the House. The vote was 38-14.

Sen. W. Russell Arrington of Evanston, GOP majority leader, said the proposed dis­tricts were realigned to re­flect Republican voting strength and give his party additional representation.

The bill, opposed solidly by Democrats, would give Repubs­ians an opportunity to gain two and possibly three seats. Downstate districts are not adversely affected by Arrington's bill.

Democrats said the bill also would endanger the seat of Democrat William Murphy of Chicago.

Two incumbent Democrats, William Dawson and Frank Annunzio of Chicago — were to be placed in the same dis­trict by the bill.

Dixon, Democratic minority ship leader, labeled the plan a "ger­rymander for the benefit of the Republican party."

Arrington and other Repub­licans said the present con­gressional districts, drawn by the courts, were for use only in the 1966 election and the legislature had the redistrict allies which started in the summer of 1966.

That was when the West German government made clear it would not continue the practice of offsetting the cost of keeping Anglo-Ameri­can troops in West Germany. President Johnson was deeply involved in the five-month negotiations, of­ficials said.

The agreement was wel­comed by Sen. Mike Mans­field, D-Mont., an advocate of substantial troop reductions in Europe, who described the pact as "sound foreign policy decision— an initial step in the adjustment of our NATO commitments."

Mansfield told the Senate he hopes the government will "continue to explore the possibilities of further reductions at an appropriate time."

The agreement now goes as a three-nation prop­osal to the Defense Planners' Committee of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, is expected to end a period of uneasiness among the three

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States will withdraw up to 35,000 troops and almost 100 airplanes from West Ger­many next year, saving an estimated $100 million spent abroad under an agreement reached last week among this country, Great Britain, and West Germany.

The agreement, announced Tuesday, was reached after five months of negotiations on the crucial issue of keep­ing as many American troops in Germany as possible while cutting back on the drain of America's gold reserve.

According to the announce­ment, Britain will withdraw about 5,000 soldiers and about 20 planes from West Germany.

President Johnson was deeply involved in the five-month negotiations, of­ficials said.

The agreement was wel­comed by Sen. Mike Mans­field, D-Mont., an advocate of substantial troop reductions in Europe, who described the pact as "sound foreign policy decision— an initial step in the adjustment of our NATO commitments."

Mansfield told the Senate he hopes the government will "continue to explore the possibilities of further reductions at an appropriate time."

The agreement now goes as a three-nation prop­osal to the Defense Planners' Committee of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, is expected to end a period of uneasiness among the three

Wilson Affirms Britain's Bid To Enter Common Market

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Harold Wilson an­nounced Tuesday the long-ex­pected agreement from Par­liament, Denmark, Nor­way and Ireland are expected to follow up with their own applications, Austria and possibly Sweden and press for associate membership.

This is an historic occa­sion which could well de­termine the future of Britain, of Europe and indeed of the world for decades to come, Wilson told the House of Commons.

Four years after President Charles de Gaulle of France vetoed Britain's first try to join the Common Market, Wil­son set his country again on a risky course if it is to find back Europe's unity for decades and humiliate the British.

If Britain gets in, building a more powerful Europe on the foundations laid down by the market countries will be enormously difficult.

This formal British appli­cation for full membership in the 10-year-old European Economic Community, as the Common Market is formally called— will be submitted next week after the Labor govern­ment wins what is considered certain endorsement from Parliament, Denmark, Nor­way and Ireland are expected to follow up with their own applications, Austria and possibly Sweden and press for associate membership.

To Promote Understanding

Two SIU Students to Live
In Swedish, Swiss Families

By Bob Allen

Would you like to go to Sweden or Switzerland, live there for three months, and see the country as the natives see it?

That is just what Jon D. Carlson, 22, a senior from Elgin who is majoring in education, and James R. Barmen, 22, a graduate student from Melrose Park who is majoring in psychology, have done. Carlson will go to Sweden and Barmen will to Switzerland. They are part of a group numbering fewer than a thousand student applicants in a national competition. The criteria for selection of the participants are scholastic achievement, service to their respective schools and their ability to get along with other people, according to Carlson.

The participants, between the ages of 16 and 32, are chosen by 35-member board of trustees composed of experiment alumni, parents of Experimenters, educators and authorities in international affairs.

According to the latest figures, the United States is one of 10 countries which take part in the program. Carlson, along with David A. Eisenhower, John D. Rockefeller, and Pearl Buck are among those who endorse the organization, he added.

During the three-month program, the two will each live with a family for four weeks to learn the customs and traditions of Sweden and Switzerland first hand. Afterward, they will tour the country in a small group consisting of 10 to 12 Experimenters and one member of the families with which the Americans stayed, Carlson continued.

They may travel by bus, train, bicycle or on foot depending upon the type of transportation most used by the people of that country Barmen said.

In addition to various countries in Europe, Experimenters go to Africa, Australia, the Orient, and the Near East.

According to information published by the non-profit organization, "the Experiment (in International Living) was founded in 1932 as an attempt to find an answer to the most pressing question of our time: 'Can people of different nations understand one another well enough to see to it that their governments live peaceably together?'

'The conviction that people the world over are more alike than they are different, and that they can learn to under-
Educational TV 'Smarvelous'

Foreign Producer Visits SIU

"It's terrific!" - This was the opinion expressed by Czechoslovakian producer, writer, and director František Daniel as he discussed commercial television in this country.

Daniel, who is visiting SIU this week, is touring many of the nation's campuses to compare film making in the United States to that in his country.

In Czechoslovakia, Daniel has written 18 films in addition to writing and directing the stage. Currently, he is on the faculty of the Academy of Arts in Prague, where he is a vice dean and a professor in film and television.

Daniel's opinion of American commercial television was given at a press conference Monday. He said he could not understand how the American public could view commercial television and yet be happy with gifts.

In his country, Daniel said, feature length films are shown without interruption. The only commercials shown are run during a one-half hour period in the morning.

Daniel said that U.S. educational television is marvelous. He said that there will be more educational television in Czechoslovakia once graduates are prepared for this type of work.

Referring to interruptions for commercials, Daniel admitted that he would not like to see his films chopped up so messages could be inserted.

Film making is different in Czechoslovakia than it is in this country. Daniel explained that there are eight production units in the country that produce the 35 films turned out a year by the Czech. The country also imports about 150 foreign films each year.

The life of a film in Czechoslovakia is much longer than in the United States. Daniel said that one film he made in 1960 is still running. Many films are telecast after about a year in the movie theaters, but despite that wide exposure, they still have box office pull.

Daniel will give a full tour of the SIU facilities in film making, radio and television and theater. He explained that in his country theater is almost as popular as the movies. Prague has as many theaters as it has movie houses. Also big in Daniel's country are puppet theaters; there are over 3,000 in Czechoslovakia.

But when asked, as were the others, about an ideal graduation gift with no limit on price, he said that a new Camaro would be the ideal gift. Snodgrass is from Galesburg, Illinois.

And everybody's sure to be interested in the foreign films chopped up.

Saluki Golfers Break Record, Capture Quadrangular Meet

SIU's golf team achieved a milestone Monday when the Saluki golfers tied the lowest team score in the 21-year history of intercollegiate golf at Southern.

The Salukis combined for a 416 total, which was four under par for the Crab Orchard Golf Course and more than enough to win the four team match.

Gary Robinson set the skiing pace with a six under 64, just one stroke off the Crab Orchard course record, Steve Heckel, the Salukis no. 2 man, fired a 66.

Sixth man James Schoenoff came in at even par 72 for his 5th and Steve Krckamp, the No. 3 and 4 men on the SIU team, finished at 71 and third man Jack Downey had a 74.

The four men put together their best competitive rounds of the season for the record-breaking total, which was achieved despite rainy and windy weather conditions.

The second-place team was Washington University of St. Louis, with a 456 total. Next in order were St. Louis University and Southwestern Missouri at 467 and 483 respectively.

Robinson was the medalist for the afternoon.

The quadrangular victory gives the Salukis' season mark to 10-4 this season.

Coach Lynn Holder said that he felt "the boys deserve a lot of credit for the rounds they put together, particularly under the prevailing weather conditions. After all, no one has equalled this performance in 21 years of competition at Southern."

WRA Goes to Tennis Meet

All of SIU's entrants in the six-college Women's Recreation Association tennis tournament sectional reached the semi-finals at the University of Illinois April 28-29.

Six of the eight SIU entries were eliminated in the semi-finals round while two reached the finals which were rained out.

SIU sophomore Sue Maynard carried her semi-finals match to three sets before losing 6-4, 6-3, and 6-3. Karen Macell and Pam Roy lost a doubles match to a team from Illinois State, 6-4, 6-1 and 6-0.

Kathy Gumm and Sandy Clark won in their doubles match in the semi-final round and 2-0 and 7-8. Misses Gumm and Clark brought home Southern's only trophies for the day.

The next match for the Saluki women's tennis team will be Saturday, May 6, against Eastern Illinois. The meet which will be played at the SIU tennis courts will start at 11 a.m.

If you want an interesting summer's work, try keeping batting, fielding, pitching (and all other) averages on 17 teams in three baseball leagues.

I tried last summer in Chicago, while working for Howe News Bureau—the largest company that compiles all statistical information on 6,500 to 7,000 players a day in 11 leagues.

Owner John Phillips, starting his 44th year at Howe News Bureau, took me into his office that first day, and showed me the procedure for record keeping. To my surprise, the only equipment I needed was a pencil, eraser, the individual cards, team summary sheets, and a basic knowledge of baseball scoring.

I was assigned to three minor leagues, the Gulf Coast, Appalachian, and Northern leagues.

Phillips had two leagues including the official American League, which kept him pretty busy.

Jerry Berrman, assistant head man, was in charge of four leagues, including the unofficial Negro Leagues.

Three times a day the mail was delivered to our office, bringing official game box scores, newspapers, and other useful information. An Associated Press type-teletype machine sent in all AL and NL scoring summaries.

My first job after mail call was to recheck the official box scores for possible errors. When this was completed, I recorded all batting and fielding information on the team summary sheets and individual player cards.

Russ Bower, president in charge of pitching, received all the official scores when we were finished. He recorded all pitching data on team summary sheets and player cards.

After completion, all scorecards were put on file for later reference.

Monday, Wednesday, and Thursday were the busiest days of the six day work week.

On Monday, the "top 10" batters and pitchers from each league was sent to St. Louis for the American League record. The next day and Thursday, the previous week's games were compiled and mailed to the ball clubs and newspapers that had bought the service.

Totaling up figures was done by head and hand. Percentages were found in the percentage book or compiled on the official tabulator. Printing was also done in the office.

Meeting people like Bob Holbrook, publicity director for the American League, and going to baseball games free, were two examples of "fringe" benefits.

Irwin M. Howe founded the Howe News Bureau in 1908, Howe, a stationery supplier salesman, sat on the White Sox bench at Comiskey Park and kept day-by-day averages.

One particular day Charles Comiskey, owner of the Sox, asked to see Howe's averages, Comiskey asked Howe to come in once a week with the averages, since the averages being received were months behind.

Comiskey told Howe that the newspapers might be interested in buying the averages. The papers agreed, and the Howe News Bureau was born.

Top SIU Swimmer of NCAA Named Captain

Ed Mossotti, top Saluki swimmer in the NCAA finals, was named captain of the 1967-68 swimming team. Mossotti was named the Saluki swimmer on the 1965-66 team. At the NCAA finals this season Mossotti was fourth in the 50-yard backstroke with a time of 21.37. The 50 seems to be Mossotti’s biggest event. Earlier in the season, he broke the school record, a 22.0 clocking of 22.37.

The Missouri State Swimming Championship was held May 3, 1967, in Carbondale, Illinois. An Equal Opportunity Explorations. The male swimming team, Mossotti of his team’s chances next season although it’s a lot of holes to fill, "Miles will be missed as well, Reinhard Westermann, Don Sauers, and Jerry Pearson and Richard Lockhart.

Mossotti will be the backbone of the returning team which will include Van Buren, Bill Eric Jones, Herb Markowski, Mike Miles, Scott Conkle and Mike Morrissey among others."

Jucker Named Royals Coach

CINCINNATI (AP) — Ed Jucker, whose career as a college coach produced two NCAA titles and a trip to the National Basketball Association finals, will coach the Cincinnati Royals next season.

Jucker resigned as head UC coach after the 1965 season, citing health as one reason. Since then he has been assistant athletic director at the University of Missouri.

His team won back-to-back NCAA titles in 1961 and 1962 and barely missed making it to the NCAA finals in a year when Missouri lost to Loyola of Chicago in an overtime final game in 1963.
Collegiate or Pro in '67?

By Tom Wood

Today is a big one for at least one individual at SIU. He is Walt Frazier. And what makes this a big day for Frazier? He is the new athletic director at Southern Illinois University. He is from one of the National Basketball Association teams this afternoon.

Frazier, a Little All-America selection at Southern and the National Invitational Tournament's Most Valuable Player of 1967, is one of the most talked about players in the nation. Besides being one of the most respected guards in college basketball, he is attracting so much attention because he will undoubtedly be drafted high on the pro league's list, probably among the first dozen players to go in the draft, and he has a year of eligibility left at Southern.

Frazier's decision on whether or not to use that final year, and which team he will join, may depend upon many factors, and he may not know himself the answer.

Frazier has already been drafted by Denver of the Fledgling American Basketball Association. His coach, Jack Hartman, has been named as a coaching possibility at Denver. A Denver representative will talk to both within the next few days. But Denver must show Frazier that it can field a team next season. It must also be willing to pay well to secure Frazier's talents. In fact, it will probably have to pay more for Frazier than any NBA club can offer to offset the older league's obvious argument of stability.
