Springfield the target of tuition protest march

By Chek Hutchcraft
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The "Poor Students March on Springfield" by students from several Illinois state universities—including SIU—protesting the tuition increase that would leave the Illinois Senate has been set for May 14. Tom Scherschel, student body president, said Monday.

Scherschel said the primary purpose of the march is to get Lt. Gov. Paul Simon and Democratic legislators backing Simon to make a public stand opposing the hike in tuition for state-supported schools.

Simon said Monday he testified before the Senate education subcommittee last week recommending that tuition not be increased.

The subcommittee, chaired by Sen. Thomas Hynes (D-Chicago), voted unanimously before they last met here. Now I am against the tuition increase.

Increasing tuition, Simon said, would "deprive a great many students of a chance for a college education."

Simon said that not only the tuition increase, but the cuts in the Illinois Higher Board of Higher Education's budget as recommended by Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie "reflect an anti-education mood" evident in the Illinois public.

Neither the increase nor the budget cut would be "a service to the Illinois people," Simon said.

Simon said some cuts could be made in the IBHE budget, but not to the extent recommended by the governor. Ogilvie's recommended cut would seriously impair higher education, Simon said.

Scherschel said students will sit on the capitol building steps until Simon agrees to talk with them.

It would be useless to talk to Ogilvie, Scherschel said, since it's his administration that is behind the whole thing.

A bus and car caravan will be leaving Carbondale at 8 a.m. May 14 and should be in Springfield by 11 or 11:30 a.m. Scherschel said.

Scherschel said the Brush Towers and University Park living areas have agreed to pay bus costs for students from other areas to participate in the march. Cars will be used and students may ride in them for a low price before being asked.

Scherschel estimated the number of participants to be in the thousands.

SIU black ombudsman quits to work for state

By Courtland T. Milhoy Jr.
Daily Egyptian Special Writer

Regnald Davis, SIU's first black ombudsman, will resign Wednesday after holding the position since September, 1970.

"Hopefully someone will replace me in a short while," said Davis, "and hopefully that someone will have the students at heart." The job of ombudsman, said Davis, is designed to deal with unique problems of black people as well as those problems common to everyone before the Senate.

Whoever takes the job will have both of those responsibilities, he said.

Davis stated that there were no negative reasons for his resignation. "One reason that I am leaving," he said, "is I want to accept the position of State Coordinator of Training and Education for Public Service Careers."

"I've worked quite a bit," he said, "with black students who have come to SIU with difficulties, including financial, academic and social problems. All of these problems stem from inadequate preparation in the schools they get here. Now I am getting involved in a state program which is an attempt to give the students some assistance before they get here."

"The whole philosophy of the ombudsman," said Davis, is to act as an objective mediator in dealing with problems related to students, faculty and staff. "For black ombudsman, this concept must be broadened to include some-what of an advocacy role in dealing with blacks because of the inadequate preparation many have received before coming here."

Applications in the form of resumes for the ombudsman position are being accepted and should be in the Ombudsman's Office not later than May 10. Davis said.

Student found dead in University pool

Huey W. Harrison, a 19-year-old sophomore from Kirkwood, Mo., was found at the bottom of the University swimming pool Monday afternoon and later pronounced dead at Doctor's Hospital, according to University officials.

Officials said Harrison and three or four other students had remained at the swimming pool following dismissal of a 12:40 p.m. swimming class in which Harrison was enrolled.

Officials said that a few minutes later Harrison was seen on the bottom of the pool. He was pulled out and artificial respiration was given until the SIU Health Service emergency vehicle arrived and took him to Doctor's Hospital.

Security police said hospital personnel attempted to revive Harrison for at least 36 minutes before Jackson County Coroner Harry A. Flynn pronounced him dead.

Flynn said he will conduct an investigation into the cause of the student's death.

Harrison was enrolled in a pre-dental curriculum at SIU and lived in the Allen III Building, University Park.

Jackson court order limits raid information

By Steve Brown
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Jackson County Circuit Court Judge Peyton Kunce issued an order Monday placing limits on the type of information that can be disseminated by court and law enforcement officials regarding the cases of 39 persons charged in connection with the raid conducted on April 22 by the Illinois Bureau of Investigation.

The order, which was filed at 8 a.m. Monday in the circuit court prohibits all court personnel and officers of the court from releasing any information or opinion, besides basic facts, involving these persons charged.

The order affects "all court personnel, all attorneys for the state and defense, law enforcement officers and officials and witnesses."

The order also states that all hearings, trials or related court action may be closed to the public and the press by motion of either the prosecution or defense. That option is open in all criminal cases, Kunce stated.

The stipulations set down by Kunce comply with the standards for fair press and free trial that are set down by the American Bar Association. The standards are commonly referred to as the "Reardon Report.

Kunce said that if the order is followed, filing a formal order, because of the number of cases involved in the matter.

Forty-seven persons have been charged with becoming in connection with that raid.

The bulk of arrests were in Jackson County.

Record number arrested

WASHINGTON (AP) - Young anti-war demonstrators failed to halt the pulse of government with traffic jams as they walked or rode into the White House to be arrested in record numbers. Police said more than 30,000 people tried to enter the plaza but were unable to participate in the planned renewal of the protests.

News of the demonstration-flocked history had been there so many and so large a crowd that the plaza was used literally by police in dispersing the largest congregations and lining in the chill spring air for hours, adding to motorists' discomfort.

Soldiers and Marines with unrolled rifles and shrilled bayonets stood arm's-length apart on the four Potomac River bridges linking the Virginia suburbs with the District of Columbia.

Police boats patrolled the river.

Police Chief Jerry V. Wilson said in mid-afternoon that 7,000 had been arrested. A football practice field and a jail exercise yard were used to detain the prisoners while corrections officialslooked through the lists of arrestees.

Their dinner was Creations, supplied by the Region.

The temporary jail was out of doors. The temperature was expected to drop into the 30's Monday night.

Black Student Union

asking for $70,000

By Courtland T. Miller Jr.
Daily Egyptian Special Writer

A campaign for support of the proposed $70,000 Black Student Union (BSU) building will continue until the budget is submitted to the Student Council on Student Senate Friday.

The campaign, which consists of posters, flyers and letters to all black organizations on campus, will include a rally by BSU members at 12:30 p.m. Monday in Assembly Hall.

According to BSU Chairman of Information Ellis May, "the $70,000 is being asked in rebuttal of the tokenistic $3,000 given to black students by the campus to implement programs relevant to black people as a part of the community. What do 2,500 black students do with $3,000? Even the Sahali dogs get it.$1,500."

May said that Edwardsville's Black Student Association was funded $12,000 last year. Edwardsville has, May said, only 15 percent of the black population of the Carbondale campus. "Where is the rationalization, " May asked.

Out of $700,000 in Student Activity Fees, blacks receive one-half of one percent of May said. "This is a question in what we are getting for our return on our money?"

BSU treasurer, said, "Because there is no black representation in the University Senate blacks are being taxed without being represented. We should be able to pay our own destiny and use our money as we see fit."

DE boasts new look as 'facelift' continues

A typographic "facelift" which began this summer is nearly complete with this issue of the Daily Egyptian. The change, which consists of the removal of advertising from pages two and three, first evidenced The Carbondale Press went to press.

As a part of the change, page two will have four columns of four columns, and five, will be moved to pages seven and nine.

Classifieds have been designed to provide an easier-to-read format and have been moved from news and photo displays.

The first step was taken four months ago when The Carbondale Press purchased a new equipment with the Egyptian.

The new equipment is a Deering photo reproducing machine, Frieden's Proofer, equipped with a 100-line device operating from punched tape.

The new equipment, the Photo Display 75, was recently developed, providing a larger variety of type faces, especially for advertising.

Last week, the newly-designed newspaper was displayed throughout the paper was introduced.

Protesters fail to halt government pulse

The University Senate voted 22 to defeat a motion which would have eliminated representation for the poor in making personal solicitations for their causes. The measure was defeated by 1:34. Senate President William E. Seaborn, who voted against the motion.

Daily T. Kenyon, faculty representative, in making the motion said constituent could be represented by an "obscenely" delegate if the choice is left up to individual representatives. Kenyon said the present plan of the system encourages non-attendance at the meetings and does not allow representatives to become acquainted with each other.

A member of the Carbondale Student Council Robert G. Lamer said constituents should place enough confidence in their elected representatives to allow them to select responsible alternatives.

Lamer said it should be left up to each constituency to select its own arrangements for proxies and proxy selection.

Murray Mann, undergraduate representative, said the present proxy system was vital to students because many are not on campus during summer quarter.

The present proxy system, as stated in a memorandum from Simeone, requests representatives to submit in writing the name of the representative's proxy and the time period covered by a proxy.

At Monday's meeting, there were two proxies for undergraduate representatives and one proxy for a non-academic employee.

The students were seated at the meeting. The non-academic employee representative did not have his letter of verification with him and he was not seated.

The question of proxies came during an appeal of proxies by Simeone to the U. Senate. The U-Senate halted the appeal process of the by-law after section four of article four in the nine articles was amended.

The U-Senate will meet at 7 p.m. Monday on the third floor of the University Union Building to consider the rest of the proxy law.

City meeting to plan weekend alternatives

A meeting to discuss activities for this weekend as alternatives to masses of people blocking Carbondale streets will be held at 2:30 p.m. Tuesday in the City Council chambers of Carbondale City Hall.

Anyone interested in taking part in the decision of weekend activities has been invited to attend.

We're very open to suggestions. Jed Sherman, Carbondale administrative assistant to the Carbondale city mana.

Residents invited to ask questions at town meeting

Carbondale residents will have another opportunity to put city officials on the line at Carbondale's second town meeting, to be held at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in Carbondale Township Hall, 217 E. Main Street.

Tuesday's town meeting will give residents a chance to meet their new mayor and city councilmen. Other city officials, including Carbondale Daily Egyptian Staff Writer.

Carbondale's first town meeting Jan. 12, the City Council agreed to have town meetings at least once a quarter, at three-month intervals. It was also decided to have the next meeting Tuesday in order that the new mayor and councilmen "could be 'broken in,' so to speak and talk the lastest gets his point across.

Order limits information

SIPC plans week-long workshops, teach-ins

Prolife, alternative culture work shops and teach-ins continue from 11 a.m.-1 p.m. Tuesday during the week long activities sponsored by the Southern Illinois Peace Committee.

A "beggars' banquet," rally and rock concert begin the May Day activities Saturday west of Woody Hall. Approximately 200 persons attended.

Performances and workshops took part in Monday's scheduled teaching.

They said they had a larger turnout after a "hand-picked" move from the front of Morris Library to the front of Pulliam Hall at University School.

Prolife, alternative culture speakers and lack of space prompted the move, SIPC officials said.

Thursday's 'Uprising' opens 20th Karnival

By John Town

DAILY EGYPAT PRESS SPECIAL WRITER

The Kappa Karnival, now in its 20th year, will begin at 6 p.m. Thursday with a "Kappa House Uprising" dance at the Kappa Alpha Psi fraternity house, 112 South 4th Street.

Marvin Evans, publicity chairman, said Friday's list of activities includes a dance at 4 p.m. in the University Center, featuring Al Wapel, disc jockey for KWOK in St. Louis. The admission is $1.50.

"Wild Gypsy Thank...," a dance, will follow the dance at the University Center Friday and will be held at the Zodiac Club and Bonaparte's Retreat, 212 E. Main St. The admission is $1 for each dance or $2.50 for both dances. Evans said both dances will be held at the same time.

A basketball tournament will be held at 10 a.m. Saturday in the Women's Gym. There will be six chapters of the fraternity in competition.

Following the basketball tournament, a jazz workshop featuring artists from the Southern Illinois area will begin at 2 p.m. in the Zodiac Club. The event is free.

The Kappa Karnival with the theme "Kappa House Dance," will be held from 9 p.m. to 1:30 a.m. Saturday in the 211 Arkansas.

The Karnival is similar to a fair, with booths, games, prizes, refreshments and a dance. The setting and atmosphere are centered around a funfilled event.

Herb Kent, disc jockey for radio station WYOT in Chicago, will headline the event. Evans said Kent is expected to bring talent from Chicago to participate in the event and the admission is $2.

At Karnival dance will follow the arena-planned events. Beginning at 1 a.m. in Bonaparte's and the Zodiac, "The Gypsies Take Over," admission is $1 to each club or $3.50 for both.

Tuesday's sessions will be highlighted by a panel on Vietnam Veterans and the War led by members of Vietnam Veterans Against the War and A.I.D. - Vietnam led by Mark Selden, professor of history at Washington State University, and committee member of Concerned Asian Student Journal Editor.

A rally to commemorate the killings last May at Jackson State, Kent State and Kent State University of Cambodian refugees planned for noon Thursday as well as more teach-ins.

SIPC has announced that it will use nonviolent civil disobedience in an attempt to cause the Center for Viet Studies beginning at 10 a.m. Thursday.

The committee said it will form a human chain around Woody sit-in and use other forms of nonviolent disobedience as called for in a statement on the center presented April 16 to the SIC Board of Trustees.

Workshops for 11 a.m. Tuesdays are: Local Environmental Problems led by Ray Lenz, graduate students and Ms. H. W. E. of the IndusCW at 11 a.m., the Inland Waterways led by Bill McFetridge, Student National Coalition of Concerned Civil Disobedience led by Don Lizardi, Student Christian Foundation, and "Racky, Fuller and Technology and Reality" led by Jim Watson, graduate student in philosophy.

Workshops for noon Tuesday are: "North Vietnam and Laos" led by Jerry Schwann, Committee of Returned Volunteers, and "The New Working Class and Students" led by Dick Howard, assistant professor of philosophy.

Workshops for 11 a.m. Thursday are: "Vietnam Veterans and the War" panel led by Vietnam Veterans Against the War, A. I. D. - Vietnam led by Mark Selden, professor of history at Washington University and "The Draft and Resistance to the War" led by Jan Lockridge, draft counselor at the Student Christian Foundation.

The only teach-in scheduled for 2 p.m. Tuesday is: To Abolish the Grading System Is to Love Again led by Steve Overman, graduate student in philosophy.

All the workshops will be held in front of Pulliam Hall at University School.
SIU Theater's "Dybbuk" lacks sensitivity, direction

By C. F. Thompson
Student Writer

The most recent production of the SIU Theater Department was "The Dybbuk" by S. Ansky. Ansky was a Russian-Jewish playwright and folklorist and "The Dybbuk" has won the Chaim and Eva Liebhold Award for best play of 1953 in Europe, is a touching, reverent and moving study of the Jewish faith and its preservation. Unfortunately, "The Dybbuk," as it is now being performed, has few of those qualities.

Certainly there are moments when the production seems to struggle toward the sensitivity and direction necessary to sustain Ansky's play, but these few scenes are usually the result of Ansky's excellent writing and a few remarkable performances.

Malcolm Rothman as Meyer saved the first act from disaster by portraying the character with warmth and subtlety. Rothman can act and he manages to bring out the traditions and character of the man as he plays A fine performance.

As Leah, Marilyn Hyland tended toward the extremes and her character was inconsistent with the other actors but she remained believable. As Leah was possessed by the dybbuk, however, Marilyn was quite remarkable, her best performance in years.

There were others who had their moments. Bill Swor as the messenger was convincing; Jane Van Borkik brought a simplicity and earthy good humor to her role as Fraule, Peter Magee was good, if flat, as Goldvarg's son and even better as the voice of the dybbuk.

Horti Lichtenstein as the nervous, crippled old woman was funny, yet overpowering, serving more as a comic relief to the lifeless, Riky Limburger as Chemoch was good.

Finally, it came down to Dennis Sook as Rabbi Argeff. Given the most static stage positions, Sook managed to transform his character into an electric presence. From the moment he appeared on the stage, Sook was the master of "The Dybbuk." When an actor is so good, it emphasizes the failure of the entire production.

A Review

The rest of the large cast was overpowered and their performances were frequently embarrassing. Many of the acting problems, however, seem to be closely related to the problem of direction.

Finishes of the play were cut and these performances were frequently rearranged. Many of the acting problems, however, seem to be closely related to the problem of direction.

Finally, if there is one director available who should have made "The Dybbuk" work, it is Mordecai Gurwitz. He and the actors are, by far, the real problem with the play. With this new direction the play could be radically improved.

"Dybbuk" to be presented at the SIU Theater Department's spring show. Performances will be held Thursday, Friday and Saturday at 8 p.m. The show will be directed by Malcolm Rothman.

"The Dybbuk," written by Sholem Ansky, tells the story of a young man, Jacob, who is haunted by the spirit of his dead father. Jacob's life is threatened when his lover, Leah, becomes possessed by the dybbuk, a malevolent spirit that seeks to destroy the entire Jewish community.

The play is set in a small village in Eastern Europe during the early 20th century. The Dybbuk is a powerful and disturbing play that explores themes of love, faith, tradition and the struggle against evil.

The cast includes Malcolm Rothman as Jacob, Marilyn Hyland as Leah, and Bill Swor as the Messenger. The production is directed by Malcolm Rothman and designed by Jane Van Borkik.

Court to consider antipollution suit

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court agreed Monday to consider a suit by 17 states charging the major auto manufacturers with conspiracy to delay the development of antismog devices. The states wanted the Supreme Court to consider the suit and if pronounced that there was a violation of the Sherman antitrust law to issue an injunction.

Last year the government dropped its own antitrust suit. A consent decree reached the car makers and the fifth named defendant, Automotive Manufacturers Association, from any future conspiracy.

Meanwhile, actions ranging from the states of Minnesota to an agricultural farmer in California have brought other damage suits in courts across the country against the car makers.

The 17 states did not seek damages in their suit. They are Wisconsin, Illinois, Arizona, Colorado, Hawaii, Iowa, Kansas, Maine, Massachusetts, Minnesota, Michigan, Ohio, Rhode Island, Vermont, Virginia, North Dakota and West Virginia.

The court also agreed to hear a pollution suit in which Illinois charges Michigan and three utilities in Wisconsin with feeding raw sewage into Lake Michigan.

The case was brought to the court in December by Illinois Atty. Gen. William J. Scott. He said the pollution was so desperate there was no time to try the suit in lower courts.

Textbook rental will be closed

Textbook service will be closed for inventory May 13-14, according to A. A. Lague, service manager. Lague said no service will be allowed on these dates, but the entire operation would reopen on Monday, May 17.

Any instructors wanting their students to pick up additional books or supplemental material should make arrangements to do it before May 12. Lague said.

This Summer—Experience the future at Highland Community College

Freeport, III.

For eight weeks this summer, you can have the opportunity to experience the future. Everybody knows that the four-day week will be upon us as soon as somebody decides what we'll do with the three-day weekend. So Highland Community College, in Freeport, Illinois, has opened the long weekend, which makes your work-week just one day shorter than everybody else's.

And, there's a fine program. Summer session is still eight weeks long, beginning June 10. And most three-credit courses meet anywhere from an hour to two hours and thirty minutes to two hours each day. A few classes meet only three days each week.

Here's a good way to get some of those elective and general education credits that you'll need, plus, if you want, a college course. Tuition for students who live in the Highland district is only $8.00 per credit hour. Tuition for out-of-district students without a charge back is $34.10 per credit hour. Students who are less than 20 years old and who are juniors in high school or those who have completed the high school equivalent of high school can apply for a charge-back with their high school superintendent of schools before May 15. If the charge-back is approved, you pay $8.00 and your local school district will pay the rest.

If you're a student in good standing, no transcripts are necessary. Just fill out the form and we'll send you a complete schedule of courses.

How can you go wrong? A three-day weekend. Low tuition. And other fringe benefits you don't have to bargain for. Come enroll...

Tuition hike, prejudice help cause college ills

To the Daily Egyptian

I would like to give my reply to the letter in the Daily Egyptian of April 29, "Higher tuition will end many college ailments.

I express deep sorrow for the writer if he feels this way. However, probably quite a lot of the whites think the same (assuming he is white). He states, "liberty and justice for all." What type of justice is higher knowledge only for those who can afford it? And also he categorizes Negroes (that is in his word) as getting up with a university education. This is not only true of blacks for some whites are upbraid before university education. A university should be for those who wish to increase their knowledge, and race, color, or income should not hinder one from getting it.

The author of that letter and the men responsible for tuition hikes definitely are not concerned with liberty and justice for all. Think about it! The trouble with college ailments is arrived upon by tuition hikes and prejudice.

SIU should continue preferred ticket sales

To the Daily Egyptian

Much debate and disappointment have occurred as a result of the recent ticket policy enacted by this University. The discussion has centered around the fact that ticket stub holders of the Ricke Havens concert have been given the opportunity to purchase tickets for the next University concert one week prior to non-stub holders.

Many people say that this is unfair as it discriminates against those who did not attend the Havens concert. However, failed to understand the basic principles of marketing when reviewing this situation.

Presentation of a product, in this case the next concert, is vital to its success. It is for this reason that a price discount is given. This is to enhance interest and interest.

The priority of ticket sales has been the promotional procedure taken by SIU.

This promotion campaign of the University should prove to be successful. It should also be continued for every concert and not stop with this one. If the policy is carried out for every future concert and if the concerts are announced two at a time, the attendance to the functions would increase and the University may never have to lose money on them again.

Should Daily Egyptian drop Copley features?

To the Daily Egyptian

The Copley News Service's account of the recent Berkeley, Calif., city election has several inaccuracies, and the overall picture is false. It touches reality only in spots, like a stone skipping across the surface of a pond.

Let's take some of the inaccuracies first. The outgoing mayor's name is Wallace Johnson, not "Maurice" Johnson. The incoming mayor's name is Warren Wadener, not "William" Wadener.

The article's author, Paul Coper, supposedly interviewed Widener "in the den of his home." Yet he didn't get his name right. Widener's name was spread all over the city in campaign advertising and news accounts. It makes you wonder if Coper has ever been to Berkeley.

However, it is the overall impression Coper's article gives that is its greatest sin. Think of the recent city election in Carbondale and who won, and imagine an article that said: "But in 1975. (Carbondale) is a city with a split personality—Southern Illinois--symbolized to the world of radicalism and the threat of anarchism creeping into organized government. Yet it also exemplifies the deal of liberal thinking that people can reason with one another to solve their problems. That would be absurd, right? Well, to say the same thing about Berkeley is absurd, too. Coper's quote two opposing views and seems to be objective, but the right-wing view is so crack-brained that the overall impression is false.

The three new left-wing council members are radical reformers or, as Agnew would say, "radicals." They are not anarchists, and to imply that they are the same as implying William P. Buckley is a member of the John Birch Society.

Coper quotes Mrs. Faith Atkinson as saying, "I wouldn't have my kids go to school here," right after a paragraph about "dirty, long-haired street people" hanging out on the streets. Without a contrary view, the clear implication is that Berkeley schools are a mess.

The Berkeley school system achieved nationwide fame as an early model of successful racial integration. Since then it has been widely praised for its educational innovations and creative teaching programs. There is a long waiting list for teachers seeking employment in Berkeley, and Berkeley school children score high in state-administered tests. There is both a drug problem and racial friction in Berkeley schools, as in other cities. But Berkeley has been a pioneer in seeking to deal with these problems.

This the second time I've written the Egyptian about Copley News Service articles because I happened to have personal knowledge of the truth in each situation. For me it casts doubt on all Copley features. Maybe SIU students and faculty from other parts of the country have noticed other misrepresentations and errors in other Copley articles.

I think the Egyptian ought to drop this news service if another service can't be found for national features, maybe the Egyptian could exchange feature articles with other campus papers. If they would be based on occasion, at least they would be written by people on the spot who had some knowledge of the basic facts.

I would like to hear opinions from other SIU students and SIU faculty and from the Egyptian staff on this issue: Should the Daily Egyptian stop printing Copley News features?

Actions and issues

Note: SIU did hold elections last week

Editor's Note: This roundup of news and comments on actions and issues in the Student Senate is presented each week by Daily Egyptian staff writer Chuck Hutchcraft as an extra look at what's going on in student government.

By Chuck Hutchcraft
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Facts about last week's student elections:

- For those not aware of it, student body elections were held at SIU last Wednesday. That's why all the pretty posters were littering the campus.

- Approximately 4,670 of SIU's 34,000 students voted. This is roughly one-fifth the total student population at SIU and around 2,000 fewer than last year's turn-out.

- A student body president and vice president were elected. These are two of the three persons who run SIU student government. The widely accepted definition of their role is that they are the light.

- The two big clowns who run in circles by the little kiddles on the outside who actually don't understand what it takes to be a clown. All students and humans—with the exception of one which turned out to be a cat.

Civilians must 'recapture' FBI

Someone has observed that the final departure of J. Edgar Hoover from the Federal Bureau of Investigation will be akin to the sinking of the Titanic. The kind of public event that lends itself to the creation of popular songs.

A Hoover legend, indeed, already exists, hand-told by the FBI chief himself. His reputation, pro and con, is largely the product of his early discovery that he could derive considerable public relations benefit by passing on inside information and personal flattery to Walter Winchell and other journalist sycophants.

Behind this vanglorious facade, however, there is much solid achievement. The FBI is a first-rate investigatory agency, and it is largely Hoover's personal creation. Thus, in fact, is the primary cause of its present difficulties. Allowed by three presidents to continue in office past retirement age, the old man's tenacious ego has overcome his self-discipline, and his aberrations inescapably reflect upon the bureau he totally dominates.

The contemporary scene, in any case, is very probably beyond J. Edgar Hoover's comprehension. He is pre-eminent among those sycophants who believe that their own country—or at least their own conception of it—is endowed with superior and unique virtues and should be immune not only to attack but to fundamental criticism.

Hoover has always deemed loyalty the paramount virtue—loyalty to the United States in the abstract and to himself in the case of those who work under him or those to whom he nominally answers in the executive, judicial and legislative branches. To Hoover all this is a single package: the man who traduces him or his bureau spins the flag, and vice versa.

It follows that the ragtag legions of the New Left constitute a personal affront. The reports of his agents must make it clear that there is not enough cohesion and discipline among these sentimental nihilists to threaten a genuine revolution and that the occasional terrorists who emerge from the movement hardly constitute a clear and present danger.

But according to Hoover's standards their threat is an assault on their existence.

Finally, the new generation of rebels confounds the thesis upon which Hoover established his previously impervious position. However wild their rhetoric, it has nothing much to do with Karl Marx. It simply is not nationally possible to identify these hairy young malcontents with the great international communist conspiracy against which the FBI has professed to protect us all these years.

All of this has created a new political climate in which a range of high placed persons have found it possible to vent last year's resentment of Hoover's high-handed operations. But he continues, as always, to serve as an emotion charged symbol that lends to diversions serious attention from the grave issues his career poses for a democratic society.

He has been a courageous, efficient and honest cop, but the money squandered in the pursuit of splitting hairs. He has been allowed to play fast and loose with the civil liberties of those who have offended him for political or other reasons. We must assume that we will face the same problem with his successor, it seems to be inherent in the special temperament required by the chief cop's assignment.

In recognition of this, the FBI in theory functions under the oversight of civilian officials who are presumed to have a healthy distrust for the concentration of power required by the bureau's mission and the authority necessary to penetrate the cloak of secrecy behind which it operates. But this safeguard disappears when the public came to accept J. Edgar Hoover as a patriot who could do no wrong.

This has meant that throughout most of his long career the FBI director has enjoyed virtual immunity from his nominal superiors and has maintained this privileged position by rewarding his sycophants and threatening his critics. This is a tradition that must end with the passing of the founder. It is essential that the next head of the FBI function under a system of accountability that provides real supervision against his doing what comes naturally to the occupant of that highly sensitive office.

There's a good chance next year's circus lineup will work well together because a lot of the circusyguy clowns fashioned their style and approach to working together using good clowning techniques.

The possibility exists that, since most of the little clowns wear the same color suits, they won't quarrel over each other's costumes and will decide to work together for good clowns.

There is even the possibility that those having different color suits will be accepted only for their ability as clowns and not for the styles of their costumes.

The two big clowns may even forget about their size and team up with the little clowns to work to please the kiddles on the outside.

Because the outsiders no longer take the circus seriously, the entertainers will have to work very hard in the next year to change that attitude.

The clowns, however, are not entirely at fault for the kiddles' disinterest.

The kiddles were too busy being bored, blocking streets, smoking and drinking to vote. They were too busy laying in the grass beside the polls to choose clowns who they thought might work to put out a good circus show. They were too busy complaining about the circus to find out which candidates would make good clowns—so much so that they elected a car.

The kiddles, being what they are, still can't handle their individual responsibility to help the circus better itself.

But kiddles are kiddles, as the saying goes.
Nylon, balloons, foam

used to build house

WEST POINT, Ga. (AP)—It

doesn't take wood, brick and mortar to build a house. Nylon fabric, weather balloons and foam do the job nicely.

A local industrial firm has built a demonstration house, housed in the future on a lakeshore to show how easily it can be done.

Industrial nylon was used as the shell of the house. Weather balloon held up in the proper shape during construction. Urethane foam was sprayed over the shell to create the series of domes that make up the home. Most of the furniture is also fabric and foam and is built right in.

The house even has foam windows and skylights. Its builders say sitting in the dining room gives the impression of sitting on the edge of the lake. Lying in bed, one can see the stars.

"Because of the many domes used as skylights and the unusually shaped windows placed strategically at many off-beat locations, there is an exciting blending of the natural decor of the outdoors with that of the rooms," said a spokesman for the builders, West Point Pepperell.

The house was designed by Felix
Dreyer, president of architecture at Yale. It was advertised by Veola Hath, interior design editor of the national magazine.

Exhibit to show

$12,000 needed in order to keep kidney patient alive
By Martha Gonzalizon Staff writer
The Cardioheme community and students are working together to raise $12,000 to buy a kidney machine to try to keep him alive.
Two years ago, Mondela, principal of Lewish Elementary School, was told he had a rare kidney disease. He was told he would need a kidney machine three times a week for six weeks a year.
Teachers of District 86 and the community have volunteered to help in a fund drive. May 14-16 has been designated as George Mondela Week, according to Toby Nelson, principal of Lewish Elementary School and chairman of the fund drive.
Activities include a Jasper Drive with money coming from 1-4 p.m. Friday at Lewis School. The school will be open from 1-4 p.m. and will be open on May 5. Alpha Phi Omega service fraternity will conduct a bucket brigade for the same purpose in Carbondale. True to this, the fraternity will do some of the duties to tell them about the fund drive.
During the day, children from the Parrish and Brush Schools will collect door-to-door donations, while other students hold bake sales.
St. John's Church of Our Lady Church will donate proceeds from the St. John's Church of Our Lady Drama Club's performance at 8 p.m. May 15 at Belner Field. Donations are being made for 8 and 10 students.

Ground-up tires used for roads

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP) — These old tires, botched and played with, are coming across America can be put to a new use, says a Texas A&M University scientist.

The materials may be "seized" and made into "road" by Dr. Douglas Bynum, they're "wasted".

And Bynum has some proof of his theory. He has already test-driven a road made from the junk.

In laboratory tests, Bynum has mixed up road topping material using ground-up tires, pulverized plastics and crushed glass, its edges glued. He says each of the materials can be valuable in creating superior and more economical roads.

Ground-up tires, he says, can be mixed with other materials to form a "crack arresting" foundation under SAGON (AP) — North Vietnamese guerillas stormed Daigon, a key animated district, in an effort to break the enemy line. The South Vietnamese forces were driven off by heavy fighting, but the enemy’s forces were unable to maintain their positions.

The attack was launched on the north side of the town.

U.S. Marines in the area had helped the South Vietnamese forces, but they were heavily outnumbered.

The fighting continued into the night.

The U.S. Command reported a drop of 8,000 men in American troops strength last week. This reduced the total to 17,000 men, the lowest level in five years.

The fighting continued Sunday of an immediate setback of nearly 4,000 more men to a total drop from U.S. withdrawal is running from 10,000 to 15,000 men ahead of schedule.

Karnes elected over Fischer for city position

Councilman George Karnes was elected over Councilman Hans Fischer Saturday morning in a Carbondale mayoral pro tempore.

Karnes pro temo positions as mayor in the mayor’s absence from Carbondale, Karnes, who defeated Fischer 26, said he was nominated by Councilman Clark, who defeated Fischer for mayor, a move supported by Councilman Archie Jones.

In his nominating speech, Jones said that the councilman needed “some work” in the April 20 Carbondale election. He said that any division in the community should be avoided, and that only if it were elected.

Vogt said that Karnes can work for the position. It is added that Karnes is the best man who can make decision and think. In other action, Mrs. Elizabeth Lebby appointed assistant city clerk and acting city treasurer.

Key to cancer cure may be in body's own immunity

By Bernard Cole

Copley News Service

The key to the cure of cancer may be cancer itself.

Or at least in the body’s somewhat puzzling response to it.

And after half a century of bafflement, at last an seemingly impregnable citadel that is cancer-- scans are now beginning to realize this.

With that realization comes the possibility--at long last--of a vaccine against cancer.

Using a battery of impressive weapons--surgery, chemotherapy, vaccines and combination of these--physicians have brought the defenses of the body with and bombarded into submission the many types of cancer that invade our bodies.

But in terms of breaking through to the inner ramparts to immobilize the enemy and make it incapable of waging war again, they have been deadly failures.

It turns out there may be an ally-- drugs--appearing one--within the body.

The ally is the body’s own immunological response which is called into action to fight foreign substances called antigens such as bacteria and viruses which threaten the health of the body.

For reasons cancer researchers are now just beginning to understand the body’s immune system in certain respects in its response to cancers of various types. Cancerous tissue is one in which there is abnormal tissue growing wildly and out of control, it is sometimes accepted by the body and sometimes rejected.

In terms of invasions, the body produces substances called antibodies that are deterrents and, in a fashion, neutralize, the antigens.

The capacity to engage in this response is found in an interplay of different organs and environmental influences.

Cells of the bone marrow, thymus, liver and lungs; white cells of the blood; and white cells of the skin; and other organs throughout the body.

The capacity of the cells in the body under attack to form a single specific antibody out of the monous number of possibilities is a result of the complex reaction.

Over the last few years a small corpus of scientists from all over the world have been attempting to understand--to make use of--the specific mechanisms by which the immune system accepts or rejects cancer tissues.

The work of three of these rea-chers has been especially important in increasing this understanding and improving the probabilities that a vaccine against cancer may be developed.

They are Drs. Karl and Ingegerd

Hellerstrom of the University of Washington School of Medicine and

Dr. Philip Marcus of the University of Connecticut.

They reported on their progress at a recent seminar for science writers in Phoenix, Ariz., sponsored by the American Cancer Society.

The Swedish-born Hellerstrom believes they may have discovered a factor in the blood that helps explain why some cancer patients fail to report their tumor.

In a series of pilot and lab-studies over the last four years they have tested the tissues of mice, rats, rabbits and human patients with a variety of carcinomas, cancers of the colon, breast, ovary, and skin.

They found that even when the cancer is too far advanced to be treated, the immune system, as discussed, is so sensitive to the antigens present in the body.

In nearly all cases the Hellerstrom discovered, the cancer cells die.

If, however, some of patient’s blood is added to the mixture of cancer cells and antibodies, the cancer cells do not die.

The reason they do not die, the Hellerstrom theorized, is because the blood contains a substance they call a “blocking factor” which prevents the lymphocytes that destroy these tumor cells.

Recent studies have given new indications the blocking factor activity is due to the presence of antigens produced in the blood from tumor-bearing animals, said

Karl Hellerstrom. It is a responsible way to explain how such substances may protect tumor cells from destruction by immune system.

Either they lead to the tumor cell surface and cover the foreign antigens or they may act on the immune lymphocytes, blocking their reactivity.

The second alternative is the more likely one.

While husbands study

Working wives on rise

By Edward Nation
Capitol News Service

WASHINGTON - Mrs. Veyjah Turner, 22, is a housewife-mother of a 5-year-old daughter by day and by night a practicing Ph.D.

Ph.D. is the term for "push-through" or "put-through" husband in which the self-appointed job description of literally thousands of American working wives is part-time or full-time to pay their husbands' way through college.

"He's getting his Ph.D. and I'm a Ph.D.," says Mrs. Turner. "I never marry a freshman, but I've been the bestsmith ever since I married Veyjah.

Veyjah, who graduated from Georgetown University here in 1960 with a bachelor of arts degree in English literature, wants to teach English in one of Washington's 'm' restaurants. The Warnshouse.

I make $12 a week plus tips," says Veyjah proudly. "With a little extra for tips, that takes care of our family of three nicely."

Veyjah is quick to admit that there are problems, mainly psychological - to contend with when you're a supporting wife.

You get into all sorts of hang-ups like who's making the final decisions about the house and that kind of thing. But, says Veyjah, you would be surprised how many women are in the same situation.

She said that among her own group of Georgetown acquaintances there are many wives who support and work together as well as still-to-school husbands.

Department of Labor statistics bear out Veyjah's belief that working wives are an increasing phenomenon in the United States.

A recent survey showed that over 26 per cent of married urban women between the ages of 25 and 45 worked at full or part-time jobs outside the home.

There are no precise statistics on the number of wives working to pay their husbands' way through college. But there are a few detailed figures on how many of these unmarried arrangements go on the rocks due to fiscal or psychological strains.

"The word gets around," says Veyjah. "The stock story is that after hubby gets his Ph.D. and looks around and finds that his Ph.D. wife has grown hideous through all those years of slinging hash or selling stockings in a department store to pay his tuition, he dumps the old wife and gets a new one.

Veyjah admits, "Sure it happens, but I think it's a very small thing by reality I don't think there are any more divorces in this kind of relationship than in any other.

I tell many cases of wives who pay their husbands through school. Veyjah's husband provides some income also.

Group to discuss med school here

A curriculum conference for SIU's new School of Medicine will be held here May 10. Acting Associate Dean William T. Kolbosh said Friday.

It will be the second of a series planned to put together a curriculum which will qualify students for admission to the College of Medicine.

Many of the first-year courses, taught at the Carbondale Campus, will utilize programs now being taught in the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences.

Attending the meeting are physicians, university professors and SIU premed students. Dr. Murray Meadow, professor of medicine at the Medical College of Ohio at Toledo, will give a presentation on the needs of medical students in starting a new school of medicine.

According to University of Illinois College of Medicine, will advise on systems problems.

Frank Ponta of the Center for the Development of Illinois School of Medicine, will advise on systems problems.

In 1960 to 1970 per cent of women with children under age 6 who were working.

Most women work because they or their families need the money, but relegation to lower-paid, dead end jobs - a favorite theme of protest by Women's Lab activists - keeps the median pay of full-time women workers at 30 per cent of the median male of men.

Slums to remain for 20 years - UN

By Ruth Pearson

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. — If you thought slums would be eliminated by 1980—forget it.

According to a United Nations report, the problem will be as bad or at least as many 20 years or more. What to do is the question raised by the report, and with improving the ultimate goal of eliminating them once and for all.

The UN Children's Fund, part of the UN Economic and Social Council, issued a report on "Children and Adolescents in Slums and Shantytowns in Developing Countries."

The report was prepared for UNICEF by Greek sociologist Dr. Apostolos Aretoupolous and by the UNICEF secretariat.

Before the report was first published, the UN system began to tackle the problem of slums, the first such action in the world. The following are some of the findings:

A "slum," according to the UN report, refers to all types of squatter settlements or shantytowns. It means any residential area, regardless of its location within or outside the city, permanent or temporary.

Homes are usually characterized by overcrowding, unsanitary, leaking water, electricity, sewage, and garbage disposal systems, leaving no space for recreation, educational or recreational schools, no health centres, no dispensing centers, no drainage centers, many unemployed, underemployed and occasionally employed members of families.

In the worst cases, they lack the minimum sanitation

The UN report emphasizes that the rate of growth of the urban slums is about 4 to 5 per cent annually. It is twice that of the industrialized countries during their period of rapid industrialization and rapid urban growth. In the future, the "least developed major areas" is expected to grow. The report says that by 1980, the "least developed major areas" will include approximately 180 million people.

SIU splits doubleheader with Hilltoppers

BOWLING GREEN, Ky.—SIU's problems have been running on since late last year and may have been delayed a bit in the opening game as it met Western Kentucky for an $7 loss.

The doubleheader concluded a three-game series with the Hilltoppers which the Salukis won 6-4, 4-3 in the strength of Saturday's split and a 7-4 win in a single game Friday.

"They're short of talent in a lot of places," said SIU head coach Richard "itchy" Jones about Western Kentucky. "but they're great batters. They stayed with us all three games."

"We made some mistakes and they got some clutch hits," said Jones after the second game. "We've been having some trouble in getting good pitching from our third man but our defense isn't helping matters either."

Jim Fischer started the second game Saturday but was yanked in the sixth for Dave Martin who absorbed the loss.

"Martin hasn't looked real sharp in his last two outings," said Jones.

I don't know if it's because he hasn't worked enough or what but he'll start Tuesday against Evansville."

Western Kentucky got on the scoreboard with a run in the fourth of the first game but Bob Blackley doubled in the fifth for SIU and was singled in by Don Radfog to tie the game and set things up for a three-run sixth inning.

In that frame, winner Steve/Randal made for an error. Mike Eden singled and Jim Dwyer singled Eden and Randall in Dwyer came in on an error by the center fielder.

SIU held a 4-1 lead in the fourth of the second game until the Hilltoppers came up with three runs in the fifth to tie it up. The Salukis added another three in the sixth but Western matched it to leave the game tied going into the last inning. SIU went down in order and the Hilltoppers pushed across a run in the last of the seventh to win it.

The series boosted SIU's record to 4-2 for the year going into Tuesday afternoon game at Evansville.

"We need to work on our defense and on basing our hits," said Jones. "We left a lot of runners stranded."

"Our errors were mostly mental," he added. "I don't think that baserunners make physical errors. Most of them are really mental like not being ready for the pitch."

In the second game, the Salukis actually won the hitting battle, 16-13. But the game was a time-waster.

Hawks open finals against Canadiens

By Joe Messall
Associated Press Sports Writer

CINCINNATI (AP) — Despite having only one day of rest after their grueling series with the New York Rangers, the Chicago Black Hawks are hoping for a fast start against the Montreal Canadiens Tuesday night when they open the final round of the Stanley Cup playoff.

It will mark the first time the Hawks have reached the Cup finals since 1938 when they bowed to the Canadiens in seven games.

Coach Billy Reay, Monday recalled that series after the Hawks had gone through a bouncing up drill.

"You knew back in '38 we weren't supposed to beat Detroit at the first round," said Reay. "They were the champions. We eliminated them in the sixth game at Detroit. We went back to our hotel and the next day we were going to Montreal to play.

"All our reaction came in beating Detroit and we rest up right left," said Reay.

"This time I think we're better prepared mentally and I'm hoping for a better start." The Hawks reached the finals by eliminating Philadelphia in four straight games and then battled New York through a grueling seven-game set in which three of the contests went into overtime.

The series wasn't really decided until Chicago won its own series with 38 seconds remaining in game 4 as a 2-3 victory after Bobby Hull had broken a 2-2 tie with a goal early in the third period.

Montreal shocked the hockey world by defeating the mighty Boston Bruins in seven games and then battled past the Minnesota North Stars in a nine game set which ended last Thursday.

Scott Waltemate will get the starting assignment at 3 p.m. Tuesday when the SIU junior-varsity baseball team host John A. Logan College.

SIU will attempt to boost its consecutive win streak to four.

Behind clutch hitting by Joe Wall and Jim Kettrick, Southern defeated Flat River Junior College, 4-1, last Thursday.

Wallis "wasthe big difference in the ball game," said assistant Bud Booeher, the center fielder belted two home runs and a double while driving in four runs-batted-in during a three-for-five-performance.

Kettrick went two-for-four, both doubles.

Jim Boshkin, Rich Daugh and Bob Reu mean allowed only four hits and struck out 14 Flat River batters.

Boshkin was generally pleased, not only with the 6-4 whitewash his team registered, but also because it was the first game all season that produced a combined positive showing from the key areas of play, defense and pitching.

While the pitchers were near perfect, the defensive play was flawless.

Defense closing the gap against offense

By Mike Klein
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

When the Saluki football team staged its first Saturday scrimmage 10 days ago, offense stole the show, amassing 346 yards rushing and 146 passing. Statistics from this weekend's session show almost the same results—355 yards rushing and 119 passing—but coach Dick Towers praised his defense after viewing films.

"Up until recently, the offense looked better than the defense. That has changed now. Our defense has played better, not using any stunts," Towers said.

"But Saturday the defensive line did an excellent job penetrating and rushing the passer. And they were doing it against pretty much the same line that we used last year. If you'll remember, our quarterback didn't get thrown for a less many times last fall."

Saturday's first-string defensive line was Gordon Richen, Ken McAnally, Chuck Canali and Butch Chambers. Significantly, the senior, played much last fall, starting as a defensive end during the latter portion of a 6-3 campaign.

Chambers, 5-11, 215-pound tackle, sat on the bench last fall and Richen, a defensive end, is getting his first true at varsity ball. The 6-3, 180-pounder from Marion was sick all last season.

Canali could easily be the defensive line stabilizer next fall—his 20 pounds.

A star two years ago who sat last season because of disciplinary action, Canali "hasn't played up to his potential yet and is not having the kind of spring I expected him to have," Towers said.

Tom O'Boyle, defensive coordinator, was less kind in his comments about the 6-1, 240-pound defensive tackle. "He leaves a lot to be desired. I'll tell you that," O'Boyle said.

Lionel Antoine, new to defense, should push one of the four of the first unit. The 6-7, 240-pound All-America was in his first 111 scrimmage last Saturday, working with the second team.

Antoine was switched from offensive right end to defensive end.

"I'm a defensive backfield— a real core spot last fall when it gave up 1,350 yards passing—wasn't a sharp Saturday as it has been, Towers said.

Two new faces are on the first unit defensive secondary, even though last fall's starters were all seniors. Tim Sutton, a walk-on three years ago, and Cap Prange have replaced Mike Stover and Ed Bell. Prange is a transfer from Southeast Missouri State College and will be a sophomore in the fall.

Bell quit the team before the Arkansas State game last fall after falling throughout the season.

"Some showed up with a pulled muscle, missed the first week of practice and just hasn't been out of shape ever since," Towers said.

Of all secondary reserves, Mike-Goros, a freshman, and another early injury victim, began working out last week.

Towers said boldolver starters Jim Powell and Russ Hasey had been most impressive in the secondary.

Graduation of center Ted Schott, now an assistant on the football staff, in being eased by the development of sophomore Bill Jackson, a 6-3, 215-pounder.

Trackmen top Kentucky; fourth dual win in row

The SIU track team spoiled Kentuck y's 'homecoming' with a 38-27 win in dual competition Saturday.

Southern grabbed 9 of 17 first places at the first outdoor dual meet on the Lexington, Ky., campus in 11 years.

Obed Gardiner was the only SIU double winner taking the long jump with a 24.75 effort and winning the triple in 48.4.

The SIU sophomores defeated the Niu indoor champions—Lightsey—who placed second in the long jump.

Gardiner also placed second in the javelin with a 185-2 effort and third in the high jump in 6-7 1/2 for a total of 14 meet points.

Ivyry Crockett tied Kentucky's Jim Green in the 100-yard dash, in 9.3 but Green—NCAA indoor champion—was awarded first place and Crockett second.

Crockett's time equals his best effort this year last set in the Dogwood Relays April 8.

It is also one-tenth of a second off his best career time and SIU's all-time record of 9.27.

Six men currently hold the world's record in the 100 of 9.1 first set by Bob Hayes in 1965.

Crockett came back to win the 220-yard dash in 21.28 after losing a no-contest dual to Green, who pulled a muscle in the 100.

SIU took the mile and 400-yard relays in 3:29.8 and 4:41.4. Stan Patterson ran an excellent leg of the 440 relay leading his opponent by five yards and Crockett extended the lead for the 880 meters as anchor man for the victory.

"We were happy to get out of it with a win," said SIU track coach Lew Hartzog after the Salukis had beaten the Bearcats for the first time since the 1978 Southern Conference indoor championships.

Southern will wind up its dual season next Monday, May 12, against the University of Illinois in McAndrew Stadium.

It will be the first of two meetings of the two schools in the outdoor season. The Illini will return to Carbondale for the Illini Relays April 23 and 24 which involve nearly every college and university in the Midwest.

Winnipeg and the same venue.

Green: 9-0, Blanke 3-0, Crockett(SIU) 2-0, Gardiner (SIU) 0-1, Sharp (W. Ky.) 0-1, Knipl (U. Ind.) 0-1, Turley (UK) 0-1, Brown (U. Ind.) 0-1, Hasey (SIU) 0-1, Deluise (UK) 0-1, Capt. Webber (UK) 0-1

The Salukis will next compete in a dual meet with another Big Ten team when they face Indiana University at Bloomington, Ind., at the end of the month.

Tennis team loses to Michigan

SIU's tennis team, ran into the champions of the Big Ten tennis circuit in the persons of the University of Michigan and absorbed a 6-3 loss Monday in Ann Arbor.

The loss was the fourth consecutive set back for the Saluki netters and dropped their record to 4-4.

Before taking the courts against the Wolverines, Southern had competed in the Tennessee Tournament in Knoxville during the weekend and came in last place in the four-team event.

The story wasn't much better Monday when the scene shifted to Michigan as only Jorge Ramirez and Graham Smock could manage victories over their opponents.

Smock's victory, a 6-4, 6-3 triumph over Dick Raverberry was his fourth in the two meets and gave evidence that he has found and gone back to the winning ways.

Earlier in the season Smock had said that since he came to the states he had not been able to find a racket that felt right to him and that it was affecting his game.

Ramirez's victory came over Joel Carpenter.

The only other match in the singles play that came close to a victory was Clay Tudor who went three sets before finally losing to Mike Ware, 6-4, 6-7, 7-5.

The doubles competition wasn't much better for SIU as No. 1 Ramirez and Smock could manage a victory over their opponents.

SIU's No. 2 doubles team of Brian Howard and Ramírez managed a victory. The Saluki duo defeated Ross and Raverberry 6-7, 6-2, 6-4. The final set went into sudden death but SIU took it.

Southern's most effective doubles team, Chris Green and Ray Bronico had their season's record dropped to 10-2 to 11-3 after Todd and Windus, 6-4, 6-3 while No. 3 doubles team of Tudor and Mike Clayton was defeated by Ramírez and Howard, 6-3, 6-2.

For the Wolverines the win was their fourth in the season against four setbacks.

The Salukis will next compete in a dual meet with another Big Ten team when they face Indiana University at Bloomington, Ind., at the end of the month.
