S. I. N. U. BOYS ATTEND RALLY AT KANSAS CITY

We who attended the Legion Convention at Kansas City were very much pleased with the hospitality shown us by the people of Kansas City. We were received at the station by a real billeting detail. They took our names several times and then placed us in an army touring car and rushed us off to our apartment. We had no trouble getting around as we had with us Claud Wright and Carl Mason, who are excellent guides in the city. E. Y. Smith is also good but he maps the city as he goes and in case he should lose his maps the stuff is off. Spar and Massey were lost most of the time but were there for the final roll call.

Most remarkable of all was the spirit shown by the ex-service men. They stirred up some of the old "Yankee Pep" and painted the town red. Of course no police force was needed, and those who did appear had orders to arrest no one except in case of murder. Do we blame them for celebrating under such conditions? We should say no.

Some of our bunch got caught in a wave of the old time pep. For instance E. Y. Smith, when passing a tray of free Chesterfields, which were exhibited at the entrance of the convention hall, took one and was soon engaged in a smoking party. He soon came to himself, dropped the cigarette and said, "Do you realize what I have done, boys?" He then told us that he had broken a binding pledge, which he had been keeping for two years, never to light another cigarette.

Texans made themselves known by dragging a wild Texas steer through the crowded streets. The steer was given the honor of being lead in triumph into the Baltimore, the leading hotel of Kansas City. Colorado showed up well in the rally. They were bragging about having more "White Mule" with them than any other state, but when Kentucky came along with the real stuff they led their white mule to the alley.

We spent most of the first evening looking for the beloved Illinois bunch. We had come to the conclusion that they were not there, when the old familiar sound came from a bunch assembled on a corner - "Ha! I'll shoot it all." We found our beloved from Illinois all assembled in large rings. They were not playing "ring-around-the-rosy," but engaged in "rollin' the bones." A wave of the old time conditions?

OUR LEGION MEN ON THE FOOTBALL SQUAD

There is a relation, more or less, close, between fighting for life in the trenches, in the air, or on the water, and fighting on the football line to uphold a banner you love. True there are differences. Some of them are very great ones. The spirit, of course, is vastly different. The spirit of hate and vindicativeness contrasts sharply with the spirit of fair play manifested in the football game.

However, the fighting spirit is the same. Our men on the football squad, who came to us from out of the world conflict, demanded and obtained an opportunity for the discharge of some of the pent-up energy left up with them as a result of their experience in the great war.

Perhaps it would be well to enumerate the men on the football squad, who have seen military and naval service. Of these, the backfield as it will stand this afternoon, has two, Clark and Neber. Clark is an 'Ol' Gob' for Uncle Sam's, and Neber did his duty in the air with the aviation forces. Walker Schwartz started the season as fullback, but was forced to retire from the game on account of a bum ankle. Frank Dowdell also started the season as quarterback but was forced to quit the game. Both of these men are ex-service men.

* Nyle Huffman, who will probably play the center position today, is in the sea for Uncle Sam in the late war. Hendy, Iappin, Warren, Myers and Boos were also in various branches of the service. Carl E. Mason, football manager, did service in the machine gun corps. Last but not least, we might mention the coach, Mac Mr. McAndrews, or whatever you might want to call him. Mac also was a factor in the winning of the war, and the making of the world safe for Democracy.

From the foregoing, it is seen that a considerable number of the football squad belong to the ex-service class. Beyond doubt this element of the team has increased it wonderfully in efficiency although great credit is also due to the other boys on the team.

Walker Yields Emblem of Authority to Carson

Ted Carson, a prominent student of the S. I. C. U., has been elected President of the Zealite Society and will receive the emblem of authority.

Mr. Carson takes upon himself the Friday night responsibility of leading the society to greater things for the future.

Despite the fact that Ted is one of the athletic boys of which we are proud, he finds time to serve his society in filling this honorable position. Let us come out and back him in every way we can and thus watch our society continue to grow.

Come and see Ted wield the emblem of authority.

HOW U. S. IMPRESSED DISTINGUISHED GUESTS

"What has impressed you most during your visit to the United States?"

This question was asked Wednesday of Marshal Poch of France; General Diaz of Italy; Lord Beauty of England, and General Jacques of Belgium. Their answers were as follows:

Marshal Poch—Two things have impressed me. One is the youthful appearance of your people. In every city or village I have visited I have seen youthful, hopeful faces. I have marveled at it.

The second thing is the tremendous prolongations on which your people do things. Everything is on a large scale. In a large country you have large buildings, large factories, large business methods, large ambitions. One must accentuate the eye to all of this. At first glimpse it is dazzling.

General Diaz—Your school children and the spirit of the Members of the American Legion have impressed me. Your school children, first, because they are the United States of the future. One who studies their faces will be convinced that America has a fine future. Your former soldiers belonging to the Legion have a splendid military bearing, fine rhythm to their marching, a spirit which enters with a will into what they do. One who sees them knows they represent a fighting spirit backed by honor, and feels like shouting, "Long live the United States!"

Lord Beauty—I have been impressed by the American spirit of manhood and womanhood. You Americans have a splendid sense of fairness, and we of Great Britain respect that you are bound to us by the same language and the same blood ties.

General Jacques—What can I say? Everything in the United States is stupendous. You travel the mythical Seven League Boots, and yet you are home-loving, God-fearing people. Youth will be served. The American people are full of youth.
THE BRONZE TABLETS

From first to last the S. I. N. U. saw a large crowd of her sons put on the khaki and march away to fight for what we believe to be the right, that civilization might not perish. Most of the boys were spared to return to their homes and friends. Several are back in school. Sixteen of them gave their lives to the great cause.

On the two bronze tablets now facing each other in the foyer of the dormitory are recorded the names of the 724 whose devotion and courage constitute a priceless heritage to be handed down to future generations of S. I. N. U. men and women.

SOCRATIC SOCIETY

SPECIAL HOME-COMING PROGRAM

The Socratic literary society has a permanent and highly significant place in the student life of the Southern Illinois Normal University. The society has been a feature of the old building with the three or four recitation seats and a borrowed coal oil lamp for furniture.

Today it has a large, well lighted hall, plenty of comfortable seats, a piano, and in fact, everything that such a society might desire.

The society has been a blessing to the multitude of which it has dealt and will yet bless many thousand who come within reach of its influence.

Ralph Warren is the newly elected president.

We extend the glad hand of WELCOME to our old members. If we don't know you, come tell us who you are.

We have arranged the following special program for tonight:

FUTURE HOMECOMINGS

It is a project this year that the S. I. N. U. throws open her doors to welcome back home her thousands of former students. Next year it will no longer be a project but an institution. Help make it so. The success of home-coming depends upon you. Come back next year, bring others who are not here today.

The Legion and Armistice Day

Armistice Day should be a day upon which the friendly ties between the public and the World War veterans should grow stronger. For more than half a century the country's affection for its Civil War veterans has been manifested on Memorial Day. That day and its associations with the G. A. R. should be duplicated in regard to Armistice Day and the American Legion.

The American Legion is an institution of service, composed of men and women whose qualification for effective service is based on their experience with the fighting forces of the United States in the World War.

After the Armistice there was a desire everywhere to form some sort of organization among American soldiers and sailors, that should guard and finally transmit to posterity, the fine ideals for which they fought.

Various attempts were made to form such an organization, all of which aimed at a national, non-sectional, non-partisan and non-political union which should preserve the unity of action which war had brought to our country.

Therefore it was natural that there should come a fusion of these movements having such a unity of purpose. From this fusion has come the American Legion, an organization without rank in the world which, active, paid membership of more than 1,000,000 men and women, in spite of the present industrial depression which has hit the ex-service man hard.

The Legion works through its local posts, permeating every state, city, and country in the United States, in all possessions of the U. S. and in foreign countries.

This marvelous development extends even the wildest hopes of its founders. Predictions were made that units of purpose would vanish with the fading away of war. But real disputes and sectional differences would make it an impossibility that the Legion could not last a year.

The American Legion truly represents a cross-section of America. Its membership includes the old and the young, all races, all classes, all shades of light and shade of opinion, all stations and conditions of life. Groups and individuals always consider the Congresses and convention in the preamble to its constitution.

For God and country, we associate ourselves together for the following purposes:

To uphold and defend the constitution of the United States of America; to maintain the law and order; to foster and perpetuate a 100 per cent Americanism; to preserve the memories and incidents of our association in the great war; to inculcate a sense of individual obligation to the community, state and nation; to combat the autocracy of both the classes and the masses; to make rigid the master of might; to promote peace and good will on earth; to safeguard and transmit to posterity the principles of justice, freedom and democracy; to consecrate and sanctify our comradeship by our joint participation hereafter.

The Legion has been particularly active and helpful in suppressing radicalism. In many outbreaks of that sort Legion units have been commended for the way they handled the situation. Surely it forms the best insurance policy a nation ever had. There has never been anything like it in America before.

The Legion has won the highest confidence of the American public. During the industrial disputes of 1918 it won the confidence of both capital and labor by its attitude of neutrality and absolute fairness.

Through national and state head-quarters and local posts which dot the nation, it endeavors to impress upon every individual his obligation to community, state and country. However the Legion does not claim a monopoly of loyalty. There are 100,000-100,000 citizens just as loyal as they are.

Thus the Legion is truly national and representative. It stands as a disinterested institution of service without an eye to gain in American affairs. In the world it has attained a prestige which makes it an influence in national affairs and a great factor in the life of our Republic.

WHAT A YELLL CAN DO

I never hear the subject of ex-servicemen talk without remembering a certain story that has been in my family for many times. It was an extremely tough dog with a mean disposition. The pride of his master's heart, the terror of all his friends, an excellent hunter.

One day he had a good scent of a fox. He raced ahead of his master and wove in and out of the bushes, all the while the fox was dodging right and left. Finally the hunter came up to the point of the chase and saw Jack's eyes light up and hear his heart thump like a drum. He couldn't believe his ears when he saw Jack's eyes bulge as the strong jaws closed upon his throat. He rushed to the scene and found Miss R—— believed in him and told him so by her tone of voice. Miss R—— today is well past middle age, but she never tires of telling how she encouraged Jack's life.

During this last war, certain American troops were making a forced march to the front. They had many miles that day with heavy packs. The roads were dusty, the heat oppressive. Hundreds had fallen out, unable to march farther. Dozens had fainted from exhaustion and fallen face downward to the earth to be stepped on or rolled to one side by their comrades. A certain soldier had never fallen out on any march and he took a lot of pride in the fact. But he felt himself slipping now. He gazed up at the hill—fifty yards to the top—he stopped for a moment. He thought that he must now fall out for the first time sickened him: if he could only reach the top. But he could not; he was not in pain so much—his legs just refused to move. "Hall! Hall!" The man's all here!" But the bell still sounded weakly. "I'll change it now—do we care?" "Help, Yank. Get 'em! We know you can." We raised our eyes. On one side of the road, up on a bank, were Canadian troops. Two were Americans, but were fighting with the Canadians.

Our pack grew lighter, heat less oppressive. We marched up the hill and out. Did you see that was too improbable for good fiction? I'm not writing fiction. That was gospel truth, never mind.

But what has all this to do with school yell? As the football man who has touch with his back to the wall, so to speak, who has almost said, but who tells his school yell screamed out by a bunch of fans who are putting up all their energy behind them. Why not? We're not alone in the yell when we yell:

Twinkle, twinkle, lovely start! How I wonder if you are When at home the tender age You appear when on the stage

SCHOOL SPIRIT

I know of no better way of showing a proper school spirit than by supporting the institutions which make, in so small way, the life of the school.

Support Athletics by attending the games and boosting the team.

Support the Student Council by giving it your hearty co-operation in every way possible.

Support the Editor-in-Chief by encouraging the Editor-in-Chief to make this year's book the best. Then buy at least one copy of the best.

Support "The Egyptian" by subscribing, by hanging in material worth while, by telling the Editor how to make the paper better and more attractive, he appreciates advice whether he takes it or not, and last but not least by patronizing the business men who, by means of their advertising, make the publication of this paper possible. Before you buy that next article see if it isn't advertised in "The Egyptian."

Did you ever notice that look of contempt Max Brock used to give persons who asked to borrow his paper or attempt to look over his shoulder? Practice it, students, practice it; perhaps you can gain some degree of efficiency.

For the benefit of all who read this paper, we wish to state that it is the policy of every loyal Normalite to boost. We have no place in our ranks for the knocker. If one cannot boost, he remains silent or takes his complaint quietly to the proper authority.

Now, the policy of this paper is to stand right behind every undertaking of the school that is worthy of our support, and we ask the co-operation of every student or person interested in Carbondale Normal school, in carrying out this motive. So get in line! Be a Booster! This little injunction, taken from a sister paper, is a good thing to be kept in mind by all students.

Other papers all remind us we can make our own sublime. If our fellow students send us contributions all the time. Here a little, there a little, story, club notes, song or jest. If you want a good school paper, each of you must do your best.

The Art Appreciation Club which has recently been formed by S. I. N. U. students, is an organization similar to those being formed throughout the United States. A nationwide effort is being made to arouse an interest, understanding and appreciation of different phases of art.

The aim of this club is to spread the appreciation of art among the students of this normal university. To do this we are beginning with a study of our own country's architecture, mural paintings, and sculptures. Who is not interested in the architecture of his own country? Who does not want to understand and appreciate the mural paintings of our greatest buildings?

The club plans to bring an exhibition of prints to the school each term.

Meetings will be held twice a month, on Tuesday from 7:30 to 9:00 P. M. in the Association Hall. Miss Williams will act as critic for the club.

Rally at Kansas City

few minutes later Claud Wright said:
"John, loan me another five." They had the whole street reserved and I am proud to say it was the most peaceable street in the city.
No property was destroyed except garbage cans, cow bells, tin pans and buckets of various kinds and sizes, which were beaten up and dragged through streets to add variety to the parade. Kansas City was lucky at that.

Things were breaking away on the last evening of the rally. The Illinois bunch all came away "broke";
Texas and some of the other notable states were playing tape over empty bottles and giving them their propburial rites.

All service men must remember the is advisable to make elaborate prep-

take notice. "A Buddy."

MUSICAL TONIGHT

Zetets Will Dedicate New Piano

Four years after the beginning of the first regular session of school at S. J. U. there was launched a project.
Though, however, long since ceased to be a project, and forty-seven years have elapsed since that little band of pioneers linked themselves together by the golden bonds of friendship assumed the name Zetetic.

The Society had its first meeting in a class room, the aid of a few borrowed articles, and now it has its own quarters, and is furnished in an up to date fashion. After the walls are taxed the Society room will indeed be a pleasant place to be.

Perhaps the climax in the way of furnishings was reached last Friday when a deal was closed for the new Grand Estey Piano. It is to be dedicated tonight in a special musical program.

All the old members should be out tonight to help us with this service.

STUDENTS' COUNCIL

The student council held a special meeting last Wednesday during chapel hour. As President Shryock has granted the school a special privilege by having Tuesday chapel hour dispensed with, it is the earnest desire of the council that this time shall be profitably used for meetings. Announcements for all meetings to be held on Tuesdays shall be filed in the Registrar's office before chapel time on Monday. Mr. McAndrew has consented to read them in chapel. If all students who call meetings will observe this plan, much time can be saved.

It was voted to provide entertainments for the visiting football and basketball teams, after each game, as far as possible. It has not been decided just what kind of entertainments shall be given, but this will be worked out later. Our sincere desire is that the student body will cooperate with the council in making these entertainments really worth while.

TUT tute circumstances.

One thousand shade trees are soon to be planted by these, once foreign, but not partly or wholly Americanized people.

A new community house, to be equipped with a library and piano, is being built in which to take care of the many men, women and children who go there both for recreation and instruction.

There is much art and beauty among our foreign folk that should be preserved for future generations. So in this foreign settlement is found a Spanish grand opera singer and an artist who is of American birth. Both are wonderful and only training is needed to place them with other masters in their arts.

NORMAL TEAM, STRENGTHENED, EXPECTING VICTORY OVER MISSOURI RIVER BOYS

On Friday afternoon of Nov. 11, Athletics and Home-coming Days, the S.I.N.U. grid squad will take on the fast Cape Girardeau bunch which defeated them to the tune of 13-0 on the Cape’s home gridiron.

However, since the last encounter with the Missouri Teachers, the squad has been improving by leaps and bounds, due, probably in part, at least, to the developing of unlocked-for material to take the place of the considerable number of S.I.N.U. boys who have been retired from the game this season. The line-up will likely be the same as that which finished the fight with McKendree last Friday, when the home boys fought the visiting Preachers to a standstill, for a score of 2-0, themselves on the larger side.

Gardner, at the center of the line, has been having increasing trouble with a bad knee, incurred when the Normal boys fought McKendree on McKendree’s home field, and may be out of the game today. Nyle Huffman will probably play the game at center in that event. Fischel and Entsminger have sustained injuries in practice early this week, but have been laying off of the scrimmage the latter part of the week, and are expected to start the game today, all other conditions being propitious.

Myers, Otis Hullman, and Bob are Mac’s utility endmen, with McElrath and Entsminger starting the game. Neer will probably start at quarterback. Clark going to right half. Hamilton will play the fullback position, and Captain Carson the left half. These, with Cox and Fischel at tackle, and Willoughby and Hendy at guard, will complete the Maroon’s line-up to start the game. Bevis and Harold Miller will be held in reserve to strengthen the line, if necessary, or in event of injury. Goforth, Lee, and Winn are in condition to run into the backfield.

The team is in the best shape that it has been in since the beginning of the season, before the jinx developed, and succeeded in crippling the main part of Mac’s original backfield material. The student body expects the team to win this game, and will set on the ground, 100 per cent and full of fire, to do their part in boosting their term.

And right here might be said a word about the resurrection of Normal pep. The students of this institution are expected to do fully as much rooting at the game this afternoon, as they exhibited at the game last week. And not students alone; we expect the graduates of this institution, here for this homecoming day, to do their full share in showing us that they are glad to be here. School pep made the victory possible last week. What shall be said of Normal pep today?

Undoubtedly this will be the one big game of the season. The team has a job on its hands—that of reversing the score suffered when we visited Cape Girardeau. The students have a job—that of keeping up the spirit of loyalty set going last week. Our alumni have also a part in this big game—that of showing that they are glad that the S.I.N.U. is coming into its own in the Athletic line.

Everybody get set! Let’s go!

“How old are you, Tommy,” asked a caller.

“Well, when I’m home I’m five, when I’m in school I’m six, and when I’m on the car I’m only four.”
